Guest speakers will include Joanne A. Ross, Director, Year for Action, University of Massachusetts; Atty. Betty Gittes; Jane Malmé, State Board, Massachusetts League of Women voters; Alicia Coletti, Quincy Rent Board.

Topics to be discussed are evaluating guidance; changes in employment patterns; the volunteer woman; and politics through community action.

The South Shore Women's Caucus feels that there are many women who no longer accept the traditional assumption that a woman has to choose between marriage and motherhood, on the one hand, and serious participation in industry or the professions on the other. "Women In Transition" is one of a series of future programs designed to guide and inform today's women.

And Uncle David. He is there from the 30's. You hear that radio echo. You see the Yiddish actor of all time. You see a real suspended Uncle, retired, nosy, curious, sad, eager and loving. Oh, I tell you it's quite a family.

The show doesn't fall into cliches of priest/rabbi, romance

[Abie's Irish Rose sort of thing] and gabbing about. It is it's own thing, a bit confined at present to the Bronx. The time is 1932 - if you wish to spend a token and go there for an evening. Try it, I think you'll like it.

[At the Shubert Theatre - until Sept. 22nd].

POCKETBOOK TEAR GAS

Many women wonder if they should arm themselves with the widely-advertised miniature "tear gas" type projector. Some come in forms resembling fountain pens, pencils and lipsticks. Just how effective are they?

According to top police officials, not only are they sometimes ineffectual, but can be potentially dangerous. "If someone is going to rob you, chances are he doesn't intend personal harm. But if you make him angry by spraying him with a chemical, he might become violent and do you a lot of physical damage."

There is always the possibility of blow-back in a strong wind which could do more harm to the defender than to the attacker. Also, such devices may fall into the hands of children, or be accidentally discharged and cause injury to innocent people. Tear gas can be extremely potent and should be treated as such.

Mak's Tailor Shop Located In North Quincy And Hong Kong

By PAUL FELDMAN

Mak's Tailor Shop is located in North Quincy and Hong Kong, Hong Kong?

Yes, it does sound strange but it's perfectly true. Edmund Mak, whose shop is at 70 Billings Rd., does have a branch office in Hong Kong. And that office is where his custom-made suits and shirts are expertly and inexpensively prepared.

Edmund, a master tailor for 22 years, designs his custom clothes, with his customers, from the thousands of samples of materials he has in his shop for people to choose from.

"I take the measurements here," he notes "and send an oral description to my partner overseas. Within four weeks, the custom suit or shirt is prepared and delivered to my shop here. And while they almost always fit perfectly, I can always alter them in any way a customer wants, right here when he picks it up."

While Mak's Tailor Shop features this unique service, it is also just like any ordinary tailor shop. Mak performs his expert custom altering on any clothes, men's or ladies, that customers bring into the shop.

And he also sells a beautiful selection of oriental art objects including many items from Mainland China. He features everything from gaily painted oriental flower pots, to small glass statuettes, to impressive Chinese vases.

"I also sell original paintings done by my brother who still lives in Hong Kong," he says proudly.

And he has a lot to be proud of. The paintings, which start for as low as $8, are masterful.

The story of how Mak came to Quincy, he presently resides in North Quincy less than a block from his shop, is as fascinating an unique as his tailor shop.

He is a native of Hong Kong. Attending an English School as a youth, he learned America's native tongue.

He learned tailoring while at school and when he graduated he opened a shop that catered to American and British tourists.

A father of four, he decided to send his two oldest boys, Audie and Albert, to Northeastern University for a college education. "I heard the Northeastern was a good school and their co-op plan helped pay for their education," he says.

His wife, Marian, and his two other children, Bernadine and Richard, moved to Boston with the two students and Edmund followed six years ago. While remaining a partner in his Hong Kong shop, Edmund opened a tailor shop in Somerville in 1967. He moved to Billings Rd last year.

"I like America a lot," he says. "Especially the Quincy area. The people are very nice, particularly the many people I've met in North Quincy. The kids like it here too."

He is ably assisted at his shop by his wife, Marian.

Mak's Tailor Shop is a member of the North Quincy Business and Professional Association.

Quincy Hosts Aggies, North At Foxboro

Quincy's soccer team tried to extend its unbeaten Norfolk Association streak to 26 games Tuesday when it played at Sharon, while North Quincy attempted to bounce back from a disappointing opening day loss when it hosted Franklin.

Today [Thursday] Quincy is home to Norfolk Aggies, entertains Franklin Tuesday and hosts Avon next Thursday.

North plays at Foxboro today and is home to Avon Tuesday.

Quincy, 12-0 two years ago and 9-0-3 last year in the league, presented another fine defense last week but had to be satisfied with a scoreless tie with Foxboro.

"This was an excellent game with both defenses outstanding," Quincy Coach Ron Martin said. "Neither goalie was too busy, the way the defenses performed". Quincy goalie Mike Cullen had several shutouts last fall and appears headed for another fine season.

Meanwhile, North disappointed in a 2-0 loss to B.C. High, a newcomer to the league this year.

"I was very disappointed in our performance both offensively and defensively," Coach Lou Ioannilli said. "B.C. High played a very good game but we played poorly. We must improve considerably if we hope to be a contender."

Quincy, North Open Season One Of Presidents' X-Country Team Members Is A Cute Blond

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams open their final Greater Boston League season today [Thursday] and the openers mark a milestone in Quincy sports.

For the first time the Quincy harriers are officially represented by a girl.

When the Presidents, only 2-5 a year ago, face Revere at the Medford track, Jill Seamans, an outstanding runner for the Quincy girls' track team, will be among the competitors.

"There is now a Headmasters ruling which says that if a school doesn't have a girls' team in a non-contact sport, a girl has to be allowed to compete," Coach Tom Hall said. "Jill is a fine runner and she should do well. Actually, I don't know if she will run varsity or junior varsity, but she should do a good job."

Jill, one of Coach Peter Gallagher's standouts in girls' track, last month competed in the Youth Games in Birmingham, Ala., having qualified in the 440-yard run for 14 and 15 year olds.

She runs the 220, 440, 880 and mile for Quincy and holds the record for the 220, 880 and mile.

Hall hopes to better last year's record but is not overly optimistic. "You have to have five good scorers in cross country and I don't feel we have the depth. I have three standout veterans and two others who should do some scoring, but I'm afraid we just don't have the depth and I'll settle for a .500 season."

Hall rates Steve Nolan, Steve Player and Gary Delorio among the best in the league and also expects points from two other veterans, Fred Norkus and Tim Kane. Rounding out the squad are Chip Colletta, Dave DiBona, Harry Williams and Mark Dwyer.

"It is hard to get boys out for cross country, especially in city schools," Hall said. "We have had a few winning seasons but it is tough going with only a handful of boys reporting."

North Quincy opens today against Somerville, also at Medford, where all league meets are held, and the Raiders have a new coach.

Lou Tozzi, former Quincy High star and a North assistant in spring and winter track, succeeds the veteran Bob Gentry, who retired after 21 years of coaching track and cross country at North.

Tozzi has a young team with only three seniors as he tries to improve on last year's 1-6 record.

Lou finds himself in much the same boat as Hall with only 12 boys out for the team. "In past years basketball players and others used to run cross country to get in shape but no more," he said. "We have some potentially fine runners but I expect plenty of trouble. We won't have much depth."

His lone seniors are Chris Cordeiro, Frank Schuler and Sam Salomaa. Cordeiro has some experience and Salomaa has good potential.

Leading the Raiders are Co-captains Art Barrett and Mark Canavan, both juniors and experienced runners. Other juniors are Ed Yee, Gerry Dyer, John Earle and Dan Blaney.

Canavan is an outstanding half miler and 600-yard competitor and also does well in the high jump, clearing 5-11 as a sophomore. Barrett is the Raiders' top two-miler and did 10:40 as a sophomore.

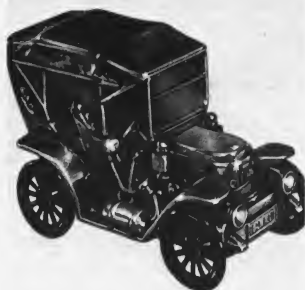

Rounding out Tozzi's first squad are sophomores Ken O'Brien, Ken Barrett, brother of Art, and Bert Petracco.

"Petracco has very good potential and is the junior high mile champion, competing for Central", Tozzi said. "He has done under five minutes in the mile, excellent time for a youngster."

Tuesday Quincy will face Malden and North will meet Medford.

Pee Wee A Team Champs Spend Week With Bobby Orr

QUINCY PEE WEES surround Bobby Orr and Mike Walton during their visit to the Orr-Walton hockey camp in Orillia, Ont. CANADA BOUND - The Quincy Pee Wee All Stars board airliner to spend week at the Bobby Orr-Mike Walton Hockey Camp at Orillia, Ontario. They won the trip in a Bobby Orr Fan Club contest. Shown in the picture from the bottom row across and up are Dick Storella, coach, Bob Hayes, coach, Neil Sullivan, Mike Furey, John Yaxter, Leo Doyle, Jim Triglia, Carrie Brooks, Pat Bamberry, Jim Fitzpatrick, Brian Bertoni, Mark Giordani, David Lewis, Dean Prescott, Jim Deitsch, Brian Jolley, Bob Hayes, John Kelly, Paul McDermott, John Norton, Ed Kane. Missing from the photo is Brian Norton.

WAITING LINE - Several Quincy Pee Wees are among this crowd of youngsters waiting for the action to begin at the Orr-Walton hockey camp in Orillia, Ont.

The 19 members of the Quincy Pee Wee A hockey team, champions of the Bay Colony Hockey Association with a 57-7-2 record, recently enjoyed a week at Bobby Orr's sports camp in Orillia, Ont., and they won't soon forget the experience.

The team won the trip in a nationwide contest for collecting Domino sugar bags and according to Coach Bob Hayes, the Quincy boys collected more than anyone else in the state.

"The boys had a great time," Hayes said. "This is an all-sports camp, not only a hockey camp. They have a wonderful water program with the boys having their choice of swimming, canoeing, sailing or water skiing. They also had Lacrosse, touch football, softball, tennis and volleyball."

But, hockey was first in the minds of the Quincy boys and they had two daily sessions, at which Orr was present. Boys from all sections of the country were at the camp and in the hockey sessions the boys were split up into various groups with no set units.

"Orr was present at all the sessions and put in a lot of time with the boys," Hayes continued. "On one occasion Bobby, 'ragging' the puck, kept it from 15 boys for at least seven or eight minutes. It was something to see all those kids trying to get the puck away from him with no success."

All the Quincy players had their pictures taken with the famed Bruins star.

Hayes accompanied the

The only boy unable to take part in the camp program was Kelly, who made the trip despite an injury.

Host Weymouth South

Ground Attack Key To Presidents' Fate

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team, with prospects of an outstanding defense, will pin its hopes on an improved running game when it meets Weymouth South in a non-league opener Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m.

A year ago the Presidents' attack rested mainly on the throwing arm of Paul Creedon. This year, with Creedon gone, Coach Hank Conroy hopes to do much more running.

In 1972 Quincy's defense was weak over the first half of the season but when numerous changes were made at mid-season, it perked up considerably over the second half of the campaign.

Conroy has nine players who were defensive regulars after last season's changes and he has been pleased with the work of the defense in pre-season scrimmages.

"We did well on defense in scrimmages against Dedham, Boston Tech, Brookline, Brockton and Arlington, and I don't see why we should have many problems there," Conroy said. "And I was very pleased with the steady improvement in our running game."

"We did little running last year as we concentrated on the passing of Creedon, who was one of the outstanding passers in the Greater Boston League. This year Robin Carrera is our number one quarterback. He is an excellent player, handles the ball well and is a good runner but is not the passer Creedon was. As a result, I think we have to run the ball much more this year."

Conroy plans to open with an offensive line of Rick Folino [180] and Bob Benn [170]. ends; Dave Sten [220] and Mike Varrasso [215], tackles; Jim French [185] and Bob O'Neil [195], guards, and Fred Donahue [200], a transfer from Abb. Williams, center.

In the backfield it will be Carrera [160] at quarterback, Preston Carroll [165] and Wayne Ponder [155], halfbacks, and Danny McDermott [175] fullback.

Backing up the starting linemen will be Paul Riggs and Jeff Little, ends; Bob Pettiti and Bob Gilbody, tackles; Dave Goslin and Gary Moore, guards, and Mike Donovan, center.

The number two backfield has Jim Forrester, quarterback; Bond Doucette or Terry O'Day and Steve Oriola, halfbacks, and Paul Coner, fullback.

Most of the Presidents will be playing both ways and the probable starting defensive unit will have Sten and Little, ends; O'Neil and Varrasso, tackles; Pettiti, middle guard; Donahue and French, line backers; Benn and McDermott, cornermen, and Folino and Bill Joyce [150], halfbacks.

Among the others who will play on defense are Carl Awed, George Condos, Moore, Riggs and Bob Carella, line backers; Rick Hebert and Mike McKenzie, ends; Steve Burke, Joe Cortez, Rick Hennessey and John Columbus, halfbacks; Doucette, corner; Gilbody, Doug King and Bob Lancut, tackles.

"I think our hopes of improving on last year's record [44-1] depend mainly on our ability to run the ball," Conroy concluded. "Carrera can pass when he has to but is not a Creedon and if we don't move on the ground, we will be in trouble."

This is Quincy's final season in the GBL. The Presidents and North Quincy move into the Suburban League next year.

Open At Revere

Green Line Raiders' Big Question Mark

North Quincy's football team has a veteran backfield and if a green line can continue to show the improvement it has displayed in pre-season scrimmages, the Raiders may at least equal last fall's 7-2 record, Ralph Frazier's best as head coach.

North opens its season Saturday when it meets Revere in a 1:30 Greater Boston League game at Paul Revere Stadium and it is the inexperienced line which poses the biggest problem.

"We have an excellent backfield and I am confident we can move the ball but we are very inexperienced in the line," Frazier said. "But, it has been coming along well in scrimmages and I think we will be all right there."

North's starting offensive line will see two 1972 regulars moving to new positions. Phil Robinson [180], a fine running back last fall, will start at end, and Joe Carroll [180], an excellent end last year, will be at tackle.

Other line starters will be Mark Reale [170], end; Paul Keeley [175], tackle; Steve Constant [175] and Mike White [165], guards, and Tom Donovan [185], center.

Starting in the backfield will be Carl Leone [175], quarterback; John Flynn [160] and Bruce Stephansky [180], halfbacks, and either Rich Desmond [175] or Paul O'Donnell [179], fullback.

Among others who may see service on offense will be Joe Wilkinson and Bob Pistorino, ends; Bill Driscoll, Joe Marinelli and Chris Costello, tackles; Paul Doherty and Steve Pagliarini, guards; Rich Joyce and Mark Jago, center; Rich Marino and Terry Egan, backs. Stephansky also will be backup quarterback.

"I hope to use only a few players both ways and to platoon a lot," Frazier said. "I'd like to give the offensive players as much rest as possible while we are on defense."

The probable starters on defense are Tom Callahan [180] and O'Donnell, ends; Marinelli [205] and Pagliarini [190], tackles; Robinson and Ron Frizzell [185], line backers; Egan [165] and George Hill [155], cornermen; Bruce Shea [170] and Steve Lothrop [145], halfbacks, and Jack Hatfield [145], safety.

Others expected to play on defense include Steve Wentzell, Mike Nee, Brett McGrath and Pat Connolly, line backers; Jago and Carroll, ends; Keeley and Doherty, tackles; Mark Donaghy, Bob Boussy and Al Kelleher, cornermen; Rich Mariano, Wilkinson, and Flynn, halfback or safety.

North started on its way to a 5-2 league record [tied for second place] with a win over Revere a year ago and Frazier feels the Raiders will be ready to start the same way Saturday.

Ted Sadowski will be starting his 16th year as a North assistant Saturday. He is the only one to work under North's only three head coaches, Jack Donahue, Carl Leone and Frazier. In the past Ted, who handles the sophomores and jayvees, has split the scouting chore but this year he will be the sole scout.

Incidentally, Sadowski is the only assistant who did not go to North. Tom Fitzgerald, Dick Meyer and Ken McPhee are all former Raiders.

In a doubles quarterfinal match held over from the previous week, Ajemian and Bill Courtney defeated Bob Tilly and Muddy Waters, 11-3.

We have Braintree covered with convenience.

Tired of the big-bank shuffle? Fed up with long lunch-hour lines? Angry at banks that close too soon and open too late? Then now's the time to switch to convenient banking — with us. Already, more Braintree people save at Braintree Savings than at any other bank. And there's a very simple reason.

We have everything the big banks have, and one thing they don't — extra convenience.

■ All three Braintree branches are easy to get to, and they all have free parking. ■ Wherever you open your account, you can always bank at any of our branches, so you can bank Thursday and Friday evenings, and Saturdays 11 to 3. ■ We have N.O.W. accounts, for extra convenience. ■ No savings bank can give you better interest rates, and we pay from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. ■ Savings Bank Life insurance. ■ Auto Loans ■ Mortgages ■ Personal Loans ■ Interest-paying Christmas Clubs.

It's all right here at home — at Braintree Savings, the more convenient place to save. Come in and say hello, we'd like to serve you.

Granite Co-operative Bank To Construct New Main Office Building

President Bernard C. Cohen, announces the Granite Co-operative Bank will construct a new main office building in North Quincy.

Cohen said the former North Quincy office of the bank will be raised within the week and work on the new structure will begin immediately.

The bank's business will continue to be conducted on a daily basis in a temporary mobile office at 440 Hancock St., North Quincy, the site of the old building.

Cohen said a new two story bank, stores and office structure will be erected to blend with the "esthetic character" of the area. The new 17,600 square foot facility will be faced with an unusual brick design to improve the area image and carry through a traditional New England theme.

Also under construction is a major site re-design to provide convenient parking for 46 cars and to provide the bank with drive-in banking capability.

Architects for the bank building are Julian Borowko and Associates of South Weymouth. Borowko said, "The exterior design will embody a brick plaza and carefully landscaped court." He said the entire sidewalk frontage will be removed in order to install a full brick sidewalk to further enhance the building.

General contractor for the project is C. A. Barletta Inc. of Dedham.

The new building, which is to be located on the former site of the old Regent Theatre, is to be completed and ready for occupancy in early spring of 1974, Cohen said.

The Granite Co-operative Bank was founded in 1953 as the North Quincy Co-operative Bank. After a name change in 1965 the bank opened its second office at 100 Granite St. in downtown Quincy.

Hours for the temporary main office in North Quincy will be daily 9-3 and Friday 9-5:30 while the construction is in progress.

Broad Meadows Parent Board To Consider Slate

The Broad Meadows Parent Board will meet Monday night, Sept. 24, to set up a slate of candidates from which new Board members will be elected.

Any adult who lives in the district serviced by Broad Meadows is eligible to become a candidate. Those who meet the eligibility criteria may have their names recorded as candidates by calling the school or register in person Sept. 24 at 9 a.m. at Broad Meadows. Election of Board members will be at the Oct. 2 "Open House" scheduled for 7:30 at Broad Meadows.

Main purpose of the Parent Board is to establish an open line between the home and the school. To do this, Board members meet monthly with school personnel in an advisory capacity. Agenda at these meetings consists of topics called to the attention of the Board by the school administration and citizens in the Broad Meadows district. Format at each and all meetings is to allow free and open discussion of all topics.

Many To Attend, Help At Phil Heleotis Dance

The first organized event, a beano night at St. Boniface Church in Germantown, netted the fund $632.10.

Tickets are still available, and may be obtained at the door, at $10 per person for the dance which will begin at 7:30 p.m. Carlton House is donating the use of their facilities to the fund.

James McGettrick, owner of the Beachcomber on Wollaston Beach, has donated the services of Paul O'Donnell, widely acclaimed as a singer, comedian and artist of the banjo.

Food for the midnight breakfast is coming from many sources.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cronin of 21 Common St., West Quincy, have donated two cases of eggs to accompany the more than 25 pounds of bacon dispatched by Barry's Ship Haven Restaurant. In addition, there will be 15 dozen Danish pastries from Montillo's Pastry Shops, coffee rings for over 200 persons from Grahns Bakery and other pastries enough for 72 persons from an anonymous baker.

The food will be prepared at The Hollow Restaurant and served by waitresses from that restaurant.

There will also be hors d'oeuvres, including 500 meat balls from Gino's Sub Shop, and peanuts, potato chips, crackers and cheeses and other snacks brought by members of the fund committee.

Fund-raising cans were distributed this week to bars and restaurants throughout the city with the printing on all 210 of them donated by the Miller Blueprint Co. of South Quincy.

The fund was given space in the city's Stop and Shop Stores to sell tickets for the raffle of an automobile. The drawing is scheduled for May 3, 1974.

Committee Chairmen Named For QCBPA

Several major committee chairmen have been appointed by Mark S. Bertman, President of the Quincy Center Business & Professional Association. They are:

Phil Chase, manager Cummings, Promotions Chairman; Jason Feldman, owner Jason's Music & Luggage Shop, Membership Committee;

Daniel Leitch, Vice President Burgin, Plater Insurance, Finance Committee; Frank Remick, owner Remick's of Quincy and William Woskie, manager of Sears, co-chairmen Community Development and City Liaison Committee.

Retained as chairmen were Daniel Barry, chairman Christmas Lighting Committee and George Fay, chairman Christmas Festival Committee.

"This year, the Quincy Center Business & Professional Association has a more extensive program than during the first year of the association's operation," Bertman said. "There should be more excitement, more reason to visit Quincy during the coming year."

Land Use Course Offered At Quincy Junior College

The Trust for Environmental Education will offer an eight week course on Open Space and Land Use Management at Quincy Junior College this fall, announces Edward F. Pierce, president of the college.

A non-profit organization, the Trust for Environmental Education is funded through grants, and provides the land use course to town and city officials of South Shore communities by invitation. The content of the program will be concerned with the management and preservation of open undeveloped land.

AN INVITATION TO TODAY'S VALUE CONSCIOUS CONSUMER:-

As prices continue to spiral, today's consumer has become extremely knowledgeable about product information and getting the most for the dollar.

President Chevrolet, Inc., offers you value with an outstanding product - America's No. 1 car - CHEVROLET, distributed through the South Shore's No. 1 Dealer. We have some 9 acres and 85 employees working in sales, parts, service, body shop, gas station, and marine - all to provide you, the customer, with the most personalized service from the complete one-stop automotive center on the South Shore.

Today's automobile is a highly sophisticated piece of equipment which must be properly set up before delivery and properly maintained thereafter by qualified technicians. This is partially due to all the restraints demanded by the Federal Environmental Protective Agencies to reduce exhaust emission.

Whether you select a new 1974, or one of 85 new 1973's in stock, or one of 125 A-1 reconditioned used cars; you can be assured that you made a wise choice from knowledgeable automotive people. We have been providing value plus for over nineteen years at 540 Southern Artery, Quincy, Mass.

You are all cordially invited to our 1974 Open House - September 20-22 - to see and test drive the complete line of 1974 Chevrolets. Refreshments will be provided.

In Wake Of 2 Shootings

Burke Asks Tough Gun Controls

By TOM HENSHAW

Vol. 6 No. 2

Thursday, September 27, 1973

Quincy's Own Weekly Newspaper

It's a world that most people know little about. But, more and more, they are learning. It's the world of the gun. Guns were flashing illegally all over Quincy last week. Or so it seemed.

Two people died of gunshot . . . a 15-year-old boy on his way to work to earn money for college . . . an 18-year-old youth during an argument at a party.

Persons unknown fired three shots from a car at Robert Petro, a sailor whose ship, the USS Milwaukee, is in the General Dynamics Shipyard, in the parking lot of a Quincy Point restaurant.

Two men pulled a long barreled shotgun on a clerk at the Old Colony Rug Co. on Southern Artery and made off with three rugs, apparently as consolation prizes when they couldn't open the safe.

And in case you personally didn't learn anything about the world of guns last week, don't be impatient. You may get your chance.

Also last week, someone broke into the home of Stephen Queen of 15 Taylor St. and stole four handguns from a bureau drawer.

Where they will be flashed next week is anybody's guess.

The two shooting deaths in Quincy last week were classic cases of what can happen when a gun is in the wrong hands at the wrong time.

Kenneth Battista, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Battista of 9 Penns Hill Rd. South Quincy, was walking to catch a truck to go to work when he was shot in the head with a .22 calibre pistol.

Another 15-year-old boy was held for juvenile delinquency by reason of Kenneth's murder. Police Capt. Frederick Tighe said the gun was owned by the suspect boy's father. He had a permit.

James M. Murphy, 18, of Hyde Park was hit by three bullets in the head, chest and stomach in the aftermath of an argument at a party in an apartment at 60 Sixth Ave.,

DiStefano Mayoral Candidate

Tobin Takes Out Papers For Council

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has ended speculation about his political plans by taking out nomination papers to run for re-election to his at-large seat on the Council.

Much earlier in the political season there had been talk that Tobin, who is also a State Senator and the biggest city-wide vote getter in the 1971 election, might challenge Mayor Walter J. Hannon for that office.

Hannon, who also took out nomination papers last week will have at least three opponents in the Nov. 6 preliminary election and may accumulate more before the Oct. 2 deadline for filing nomination papers arrive.

His opponents are Pasquale DiStefano, former president of the South Quincy Civic Association; Mrs. Grace E. Saphir, onetime member of the Quincy Conservation Commission; and George A. Trubiano, a South Quincy engineer.

DiStefano, a highly vocal critic of redistricting and the proposed South Quincy MBTA station, had taken out papers to run for school committee before the redistricting forced everyone to take out new papers.

The first full week since redistricting in which nomination papers could be obtained found 24 new candidates taking out papers, bringing the total to 35. The full list of candidates includes:

Mayor - Walter J. Hannon, 45 Forbes Hill Rd [incumbent];

Pops Concert Planned

$3,400 Raised At Dance For Philip Heleotis Fund

Some 350 people danced Friday night [Sept. 21] so that Philip [Tiny] Heleotis may someday walk again.

A dance for the Philip Heleotis Fund raised $3,400, including donations of $1,000 from Peter Fuller's Cadillac Olds and $100 from the George F. Bryan VFW Post, to help pay for Phil's rehabilitation.

The 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Heleotis of 35 Hilltop St., West Quincy, suffered a paralyzing neck injury in a swimming pool accident July 6.

The dance was held at the Carlton House, North Quincy, which donated the use of the hall, and music was provided by Baron Hugo's orchestra. Banjo comedian Paul O'Donnell entertained and there was a midnight breakfast.

Eleven prizes, donated by businessmen and others, were drawn from ticket stubs. They included:

Lamp - Granite City Electric. Clock Radio - Sears Roebuck. Dinner for two - Dutton's Restaurant.

Dinner for two - Kimberley's. Wash and style - Charles Rizzo, Milton hair stylist.

Wash and style - Anthony's Coiffeurs.

Wash and style - Maureen. Infant of Prague Statue - Cafarella Brothers Market.

Ladies' pin - Barbara Biagini. Car blanket - Firestone Store. Set of statuettes - Anonymous.

The next major event on the Heleotis Fund calendar is a pops concert Oct. 15 at the Sons of Italy Hall on Quarry St., featuring the Morrisette Symphonic Band in concert, directed by John Falcone. Tickets are $1 per person.

Chances on the Oldsmobile Cutlass, scheduled to be drawn in May, will be on sale today [Thursday] through Saturday at the Stop and Shop stores on Southern Artery and Adams Street.

Chances also will be sold at the pops concert Oct. 15.

MBTA General Manager Joseph Kelly. "There would be little time or expense to requiring the bus to make this slight change."

"Recently an elderly Oceanview resident was mugged while waiting at the regular bus stop."

"Other residents find it impossible to carry their heavy grocery bundles from the present stop to the complex.

"In addition, very shortly ice and snow conditions will be prevalent in the area."

"If the present route is not changed, I am sure a number of our senior citizens will be seriously injured in attempting to reach public transportation."

Brownell Seeks Bus Stop At Oceanview

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has asked the MBTA for a bus stop at the front door of the Oceanview apartment complex in Germantown as a safety measure for the elderly residents.

"The bus currently passes within 500 yards of the building," Brownell wrote to Lay People To Distribute Communion Sunday In Quincy Catholic Churches

Communion will be distributed by lay people for the first time in Quincy Catholic churches this Sunday.

Nine lay men and women and six nuns for Quincy were designated Extraordinary Ministers of Communion by Cardinal Medeiros last Sunday at ceremonies in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

The use of Extraordinary Ministers is designed to facilitate the distribution of Communion at large Sunday Masses and thus leave more time for the period of thanksgiving after Communion.

The Extraordinary Ministers will be used on the basis of need. "Undoubtedly, some of them

'It's A Small World' Theme Of Christmas Parade Nov. 25

"It's a Small World", will be the theme of the 1973 Quincy Christmas Festival Parade, which will step off from the parking area on Clay Street, Wollaston, at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 25, and proceed to downtown Quincy.

The event is being sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Letters are already in the mail from the Festival Committee to various South Shore organizations inviting their participation with floats in four categories - Youth, Adult, Commercial and Special.

Entries, which will be limited to 10 floats in each of the categories, have already been requested by the following groups:

Youth - South Shore Campfire Girls, Scituate High School Band, St. John's CYO and the Milton Rainbow Girls.
Adult - Supports of Survival and the Granite City Grange.
Commercial - Granite City Hardware.

Money prizes will be awarded to the best floats in the Youth and Adult categories with $500 and a trophy for first prize in each class, $250 for second prize, $150 for third prize, and $100 for fourth prize.

In addition, there will be an additional $1,000 and a trophy for the best overall float.

Anyone wishing to enter a float in any one of the four categories may contact Dick Venna at the Quincy Court House. Entries must be submitted by Oct. 15.

Members of the Festival Committee are:

Willard School Fourth Graders Fight Pollution

Fourth graders from the Willard School will be doing their bit to fight pollution Friday.

Some 50 youngsters from the classes of Mrs. Alice Lindblad and Mrs. Jeanette Halloran will be prowling the square mile MDC area around the Shea Rink and St. Moritz Pond from 8:45 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. in search of litter.

The MDC is furnishing the plastic bags; the kids are supplying the labor.

The class is studying pollution, which led student teacher Eileen MacMackin to make the arrangements with a cooperative MDC.

School Of Nursing To Receive $9,000

The Quincy City Hospital Nursing School will receive $9,000 in fiscal 1974 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's nursing scholarship program, it was announced by the office of Congressman James A. Durkin [D-Milton].

Quincy Point.
Victor L. Carini, 28, of 40 Captains Walk, who surrendered himself at police headquarters a few hours later, was charged with murder.

Capt. Tighe said it was difficult to find out where that gun came from since the serial number on the .22 calibre Smith & Wesson automatic had been filed off. It is not possible to register or legally sell such a gun.

"We are seeing a lot of this in the Superior Court now," says District Attorney George G. Burke. "The increase in gun cases that come through here is amazing.

"The problem is that more and more people are arming themselves as a result of the violence in our society and that just tends to create more and more violence."

Where does it end? Or, better still, how do you end it?

"There should be new laws to restrict the sale of hand guns," says Burke. "We've got to stop the wholesale distribution of hand guns.

"You can go anywhere and get a handgun. The requirement is that you have a license. And it's a simple matter to get a license. "It's far too easy for people to arm themselves."

As for the people who arm themselves the really easy way, either by stealing a gun or by purchasing a stolen gun, Burke recommends strict enforcement of existing laws.

"I have tried to make sure that a commitment is made in any case involving an unregistered gun," says Burke.

"Commitment" is legalese for a stretch in the slammer.

And the sale of a stolen gun is a felony which calls for commitment to the State Prison.

Trouble is, too many people are willing to take the chance in order to arm themselves.

- Letting Out A Few Secrets
- Oil Shortage Action Eyed
- Kissinger Wants Info Straight

WASHINGTON — The Senate Watergate Committee has obtained a White House document which complains of my access to secret intelligence digests. It's true I see secret intelligence reports, which often contain some fascinating items. Here are a few examples.

— The latest intelligence reports warn that trouble may flare up along the Chinese-Mongolian border. There is evidence, according to the reports, that the Soviets may be instigating an incident.

— Intelligence reports from the Middle East claim that Soviet missile technicians have refused to operate the new antiaircraft missiles that they have installed in Syria. The Soviets reportedly have been ordered to keep out of direct combat. The Syrians, therefore, have gone to Hanoi to recruit North Vietnamese veterans who have had experience operating the Soviet missiles.

— Colonel Qaddafi, the Libyan strongman, is preparing a little green book of his sayings, patterned after the little red book of Mao Tse-tung's thoughts. Arrangements have been made to distribute the green book throughout the world. It will teach Islamic socialism, which Qaddafi claims is the middle course between Communism and Capitalism.

— Perhaps the most surprising intelligence reports tell of fighting between North Vietnamese troops and Cambodian insurgents in Cambodia. They had been fighting together to overthrow the government of Lon Nol. But just as they appeared to be winning, some units turned their guns on one another in outbreaks over the control of supplies.

Oil Plans: A severe winter could leave the nation critically short of heating oils. Shortages could also develop in propane gas and electrical power. The Northwest is particularly vulnerable to a power shortage.

The new energy czar, John Love, is already drafting emergency plans which would go into effect in case of a bad winter. He is getting help from both the Interior Department and the Office of Emergency Planning. Their proposals should be ready for final White House approval by mid-October.

They will recommend curtailing nonessential activities, such as theatre performances, concerts and sporting events, if the fuel oil shortage gets serious enough. They will also consider closing down schools during extremely cold weather. The lost school days would be added at the end of the academic year when the weather is warmer and the school buildings require less heating.

As another fuel saving measure, the temperatures will probably be lowered in federal buildings. A campaign can also be expected to urge all Americans to turn down their thermometers at home and cut down on the use of their automobiles.

The emergency measures, or course, will depend upon the weather.

CIA Yes Men: The late President Kennedy blamed the Bay of Pigs blunder on the Central Intelligence Agency. He declared afterward that he "wanted to splinter the CIA in a thousand pieces and scatter it to the winds."

When he cooled down, he called in White House adviser Clark Clifford who had drafted the legislation establishing the CIA. As Clifford remembers it, Kennedy said: "I made some bad decisions on the Bay of Pigs. I made these bad decisions because I had bad information."

Kennedy appointed Clifford to head a civilian advisory board, which recommended a great many reforms. To make sure the President got good information, a board of estimates was established.

However, its estimates angered President Nixon and his foreign policy czar, Henry Kissinger. They complained that the board was dominated by doves. My White House sources say Kissinger got so upset that he refused to read the estimates from the CIA.

The new CIA chief, William Colby, is now preparing to abolish the board of estimates. In its place, he intends to choose a dozen experts from the different divisions of the CIA. They will be known as national intelligence officers.

Kissinger, meanwhile, has told the CIA that he wants his intelligence straight without any ideological slant. He also wants to see the minority views.

My CIA sources claim this is exactly what the board of estimates was sending the White House. The elimination of the board, they say, is a signal that the White House really wants estimates which always support the President's policies.

Condemnation Rip-Offs: One of the most controversial practices of government is condemnation. The government has the power to condemn property supposedly for the public good. But the way it works, owners are often forced to sell their property to government agencies or corporations at rockbottom prices.

Here are some recent examples: In New York City, an old neighborhood was torn down to make way for a factory expansion. The residents, mostly elderly people who had lived there all their lives, were given token sums for their property. Now they have no homes and no place to go.

Throughout the South, the Army Corps of Engineers have taken land by condemnation to build dams and reservoirs. But then, developers are invited to build recreation facilities for profit. The original owners, meanwhile, are left on the outside looking in.

In the Far West, farmers and ranchers have lost their land to the big coal companies. The farmers, many of them working on the same land their great-grandparents homesteaded, don't own what's below the ground. They are paid ridiculously low prices as token compensation, then thrown off as the big strip mining machines go to work.

All of this land grabbing is written off as the price of progress.

Customs uncovers 'exotic fuel'

Customs officers in San Francisco recently encountered some unexpectedly exotic fuel in the tanks of a South American cargo vessel.

Hidden in a secret compartment inside of the tank were 291 cases of assorted liquor. The captain and chief engineer were arrested. —

They're off and running for Norfolk County sheriff and political observers are already wondering if the Quincy "jinx" may pop up again.

Front runners for Charles Hedges' badge are County Commissioner George McDonald and Rep-Councillor Clifford Marshall, both Quincy Democrats.

But will they wind up splitting the big Quincy vote and hurting each other badly enough that a candidate from one of the small communities might get the Democratic nomination?

The Democrat nominee is a cinch to win the finale in a county that now stands strongly in the Democratic column.

But political observers are looking back to the last county elections when Paul Gay came out of Walpole to win the Register of Probate post while Quincy's John Sullivan, Harold Davis and Joseph McDonough were carving up the Quincy vote.

They also remember James Collins, running out of Milton and running away with the treasurer's job while Quincy's Joseph LaRaia and James McCormick were wounding each other in Quincy.

McDonald and Marshall could hurt one another, observers feel. The pair were over at the Canton Democratic Town Committee barbecue the other day pumping hands and are circulating throughout the county.

Will the "jinx" hold or will one of them overcome it?

TED McLELLAND who got shuffled into Marshall's Ward 2 stronghold by the Barilario redistricting plan, is giving serious thought to running for council at-large this year.

If he decides to sit it out this fall, you'll see him as a sure contender for Marshall's state representative seat next year. Marshall has to vacate that seat to run for sheriff.

THEY'RE STILL making U-turns on Hancock St. in downtown Quincy. The parking ban on the westerly side of Hancock St. gives 'em the needed room to swing around U-wise from the easterly side.

And, it seems that traffic-including trucks-is moving a lot faster along Hancock St. especially when headed south. Without cars parked on the westerly side motorists don't have to worry about anyone stepping out from behind a parked car. So, z-o-o-m they go.

Sometimes you wonder if Quincy isn't putting the emphasis in the wrong place. We crack down on parking violations and let moving traffic go its merry way.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "There's always some good news with the bad news-a person with ulcers is able to cut down on his food bill."

NICE GESTURE DEPT: Louis Caruso of the city Cemetery Department, is making his annual personal appeal to help retarded children. Caruso is collecting money to turn over to St. Coletta's School in Braintree, Caruso now lives at 44 Newton Ave., Braintree.

WELL, THERE'S ONE spot in Quincy where you can still hear the original big bands. Manager Bob Lundholm has a nice selection of recordings in the juke box at the lounge in Kimberley's. Such old favorites as: "Green Eyes", "The Breeze and I", "Tangerine", Jimmy Dorsey, Helen O'Connell and Bob Eberly, "I Can't Get Started" by Bunny Berrigan. He's also got some of Frank Sinatra's early hits and will soon be adding Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey.

MIKE PEATRIDGE kicks off his campaign for the Ward 5 City Council seat with a reception tonight [Thursday] at North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall, North Quincy.

TYPO TERROR DEPT: From the Columbus [Ohio] Citizen-Journal: A Postal Service spokesman said the higher rates would go into effect Sept. 9 and would produce an additional $1 million a week revenue the service has been "losing" since July 6.

SMILE DEPT: Asst. City Clerk Thomas Burke says times sure have changed. He remembers when thrifty people used to wait for the price to go down before buying anything. Now they're buying as fast as they can-before the price goes up.

Q - I brought my car to a garage recently for a tune-up. After I paid the itemized bill, the auto seemed in good shape for a few days. Suddenly it developed several problems which I had never experienced before. My car now seems to be in worse shape than when I brought it in the garage initially. Does your office receive many complaints of this nature? Can anything be done?

A - To answer your first query, the Automobile Section handles numerous complaints similar to yours. Unfortunately, it is very difficult to prove that a garage either tampered with your automobile or was extremely negligent in handling some of the parts. Most car owners rely on blind faith when it comes to auto repairs. Often this trust is misplaced since one may find unscrupulous persons in the auto repair industry as in any business. To insure that you will get what you pay for, make it to the repairman what type of service you want by signing an authorized work order and insisting that you be contacted prior to initiating additional repairs. Insist on an itemized list of repairs and labor charges. Check the work when you pick up the car. As for your particular case look at your itemized bill again to see if you are having problems with parts or service that you initially ordered. If so, go to the garage and insist that they stand behind their work. If you have a problem with the repair shop, contact the Auto Section of the Consumer Protection Division for advice.

Consumer question should be sent to Attorney General Robert H. Quinn, "Consumer Questions", Room 373, State House, Boston, Massachusetts. Those with broad interest will be answered in the column.

"OUR TIME TO REJOICE"

Our kids went back to school again

And are we ever glad
We thought the summer would never end
And we'd go stark raving mad

Between the soda that they drank

And the food that they would eat

I swear these kids are something else
They're really hard to beat.

Towels from the beach all strewn

All over the bathroom floor
We had to wash just every day

And the ironing was a bore.

We said when they went back to school

We'd really have a ball
But gee, now that they're really gone

We miss them, darn it all.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

'BECAUSE I TOLD YOU TO'

There's a basic attitude in relationship with another person which says to the other... "You are my equal... I respect you." Dr. Harris would say... "I'm O.K. ... You're O.K." In marriage this attitude is very necessary... else one or the other partner is going to feel submissive.

There are men who really have a basic attitude that women are beneath them... that they should be submissive... subjugated... more in a servile role. If a wife of one of these men asks... "Why?"... their answer is... "Because I told you to." For the enlightened wife in our times this answer isn't good enough. Usually this man maintains in his mind a superiority... when in reality he may be lacking in the qualities he puts down in his wife.

People keep telling me that you see this kind of characteristic in this or that nationality. "What else would you expect from a XXXXXX German... Italian... Syrian... Kansas for that matter. The truth is that I see this characteristic in many different nationalities... and doubt that any one has a monopoly on this dubious attitude. We are what we started out to be in early life. If a boy's father "told" his mother... "Do it because I told you to"... chances are that boy will some day be telling his wife the same thing. It's a basic attitude... not a nationality trait.

Basic attitudes are formed very early in life... and it's as though we adopt what we see... what we feel as the "standard"... the model... not to be questioned by anyone... not even myself. So this closed mind attitude keeps us channiced in that script... "because I told you to." It's used on women and children... on employees... military personnel... sometimes even by summer camp directors... school teachers. If we're training for the old Nazi society all right... that's the way to do it. But if we're training people to live in a free society... to think... to stand on our own feet... to know how to cope with the problems of life... then don't tell a person... "Because I told you to." Not women... nor children.

Can one overcome this attitude? Of course. We can change any attitude that our minds decide to change. Jack "told" his wife to quit her job. She was a technician... called $10,000... liked her work... liked meeting people. She asked "Why?" Jack answered... "because I told you to." In group counseling we let Jack see that Marie couldn't accept that order... that his desire was based upon his fears of female superiority. (He earned only $8,500). He learned in group counseling that wives are not chattel (possessions) which a husband owns as he owns his dog. Until a man learns this, he isn't ready for marriage. Jack saw this... made a 180 degree turn about and became one of the most considerate husbands I know. Any man can change.

Promote Quincy's Historic Sites

Editor, Quincy Sun:

I do not find it surprising to find there are people of all ages who have never been out of New England and do not have the slightest interest in seeing other parts of this wonderful country. It is the same with some people in other sections of the United States.

I have had the good fortune of seeing parts of the country from Canada to Mexico and by plane, train and bus and my next wish is to make it across country on foot.

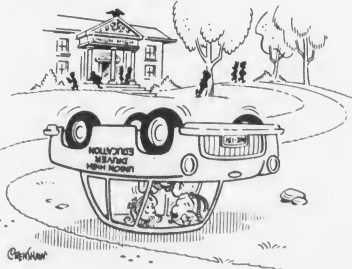

One of the things that does surprise me is many of the people living here have never bothered to see the historical points of interest which visitors will travel from all over the U.S.

and foreign countries are interested in learning about. I traveled three thousand miles to see the things here. I remember talking with a person who lived across the street from the Presidents Homes and had never been in either one.

The City of Quincy should publish a small booklet as a tourist guide with a map of the historical places and a bit of the cities history.

The Chamber of Commerce does not have too much to offer in the way of descriptive literature on Quincy. The businesses would like to have the tourist trade so should advertise to attract the tourist trade.

PERSONAL Keep skeletons in closet

By PAT and MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
We have been married for two years and have an almost perfect marriage. The only problem is a secret that I've kept from my husband. Years before I met him I did something for which I am deeply ashamed. Few people know of my indiscretion. But one cousin did know and she is coming to visit me next week. Do you think I should tell my husband?

Ann

Dear Ann:
Inasmuch as you have not disclosed this past event for two years, why do it now? Surely your cousin will not bring up something that is now ancient history. However, if you feel she is such a tactless clod, simply tell her to keep all family skeletons in the closet where they belong and not parade them through your living room.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My girl friend is constantly dyeing her hair. Her natural color is a pretty light brown. But I never know whether I'll pick up a blonde, redhead, or brunette when we have a date. I've asked her to quit this constant hair coloring but she pays no attention to what I say. Well, last week she really made a mess of her hair. Her do-it-yourself job turned green! I was actually glad it happened and hoped it would teach her a lesson. She is hysterical and doesn't know what to do. I have about an ounce of pity left and hope you have a suggestion.

Louis

Dear Louis:

Tell your girl to run, not walk, to the nearest professional for help. Her continual redecorating can ruin her hair. Going from brunette to blonde calls for professional know-how.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

Ted asked me to marry him a year ago. First the date was in August, then October, and now it is January. This is very upsetting and is making me extremely nervous. We are not kids. We are both over 25. What is wrong?

Unhappy

Dear Unhappy:

Ted is obviously a reluctant bridegroom. Tell him you are going to take your heart off his Yo-Yo string if he doesn't make up his mind.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My mother-in-law is a real pain in the neck. When we were first married (this was seven years ago) I would invite my in-laws over to have dinner with us and it would take them at least a week to decide whether or not they wanted to come.

Well, I finally got tired of this constant indecision and I didn't ask them. My husband doesn't seem to care about a close relationship except when we are going to be out of town and then he feels it is necessary to call and report our itinerary to his parents. I say if they can't be friendly when we are in town why should we bother to tell them where we are going because they could care less?

Had It

Dear Had:

I'm sure there are many people who would love to exchange mothers-in-law with you! However, if your mother-in-law doesn't know when you are in town, she can't care when you're out.

MINIATURE GARDEN — This is a little garden made from sea shells.

CHILD'S PLAY

Make decorations with sea shells

By BUROKER
& HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

One of the oldest and most popular tongue tanglers is the little verse that says:

"She sells sea shells down by the sea shore."

Even if you can't twist your way around this rhyme very quickly, chances are you can find sea shells without going to the shore and buying them.

During summer and early fall many people get a chance to gather their own interesting variety of these objects that originally sheltered an animal of the sea. Or, friends who have visited the beach often bring home a large supply they are glad to share. What to do with an array of shells can sometimes be a problem.

One way to display these former homes is to convert them into a new type of shelter. Fix them so they can house miniature artificial gardens.

The only needed material is modeling clay or plasticine along with a good supply of shells such as clam or mussel halves, and some colorful blooms. There are many sources for little posies. An old straw hat, purse or dress that has been put aside after much summer use may have just the decorative bits needed.

Take apart such artificial corsages so the separate flowers can be made to grow in a shell garden. Straw flowers also add a colorful touch. If you don't mind changing the arrangement from time to time, leaves, twigs and small berry branches from a real garden will add bits of variety and color. Just pull them out and "replant" new ones in the clay.

These shell gardens are especially nice as gifts for shut-ins though they make nice presents for anyone. They are reminders, too, of pleasant beach outings.

Once "blooming," several different sized shells can be glued onto a piece of driftwood. So mounted, these make interesting table decorations. As many craftsmen have discovered, there are all sorts of ways to turn these little objects brought in by the tide into decorative ornaments.

Stuffed Zucchini Boats

4 zucchini squabs, medium size
1/2 cup bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon thyme or sage
1 small onion, chopped fine
1 egg, beaten
1 cup cheddar cheese, grated

WASH THE SQUASH and cut off both ends. Cook in small amount of boiling salted water 15 to 20 minutes or until tender. Drain. When cool, cut in halves lengthwise and with a teaspoon scoop out the center. Combine chopped centers of squash, bread crumbs, salt, pepper, thyme, onion and egg. Mix thoroughly. Fill squash shells with mixture. Place stuffed squabs on a shallow pan. Sprinkle tops with grated cheese. Broil 8 to 10 minutes until cheese is melted and browning is heated thoroughly. Serves 4 persons, allowing 2 halves per serving. Mix any kind of meat or meat mixture, minus place the bread stuffing in this versatile recipe.

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of Sept. 30 To Oct. 6

By GINA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Take advantage of a slower pace and attend to routine matters. Treat co-workers respectfully. Plan your own recreation in the evenings. If looking for a job, now is a good time for interviews. Be optimistic.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Be especially objective if disagreements arise with mate — it could be your fault too! Use compassion and diplomacy in your dealings with others. Cooperate efforts at work can solve the problems that arise.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Social life continues to be active. Complete jobs of work with close associate in withdrawn atmosphere. Protect yourself from exposure to colds, flu. Study all problems in depth and trust your intuition.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — You can take a breather this week. Since no major projects demand attention, catch up on little things in home environment — clean out closets, basement, etc. A clandestine affair may rebound unfavorably.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22

— Also Leo Ascendant) — Take a "sidelines" seat on the job. Work quietly and efficiently out of the limelight. Personal magnetism is high — get out socially. If moving, shop carefully for the new residence and make comparisons. Stick to budget.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Concentrate on business and professional affairs. Emphasize shifts from thinking of money and assets to a more emotional attitude. Take some time out for social life too. A long-term association could begin now.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Your desire to "be where the action is" could lead to spreading your energies too thin. Take first things first and operate with efficiency. Think carefully before obligating yourself for large installment payments on purchases.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Concentrate carefully on career matters — a person higher up could be watching you now. Think carefully before signing contracts with long-term payments. Curb impulsive emotions. Be discreet.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Now is your time to shine. Make contacts — see those in authority. Put your best foot forward and reap results. Good time to re-vamp your budget — plug leaks and avoid unnecessary expenditures.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — You appear to be in control now — center stage and out in front. An unexpected financial windfall is possible. Many Capricorns reach a point of accomplishment now after a long and hard battle.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Possibility of uncovering a talent previously unknown. Let your versatility and humanitarian instincts have full rein. Take special precautions to guard valuables at home. Discipline your temper.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Emotional pressure is high. Goals and ambitions are emphasized. Don't let the responsibilities involved in the opportunities presented now throw you into panic — you can do it! Recognize the professional gains involved.

SHOPPING Teens keen on fashion

By JOYCE ROARK
Copley News Service

If you have a teen-ager in the family, then you are aware of the importance clothes play in his or her life.

Because they're teen-agers, they have special problems. Adolescence is a time of great physical embarrassment. Therefore, very strong interests in clothes and grooming develop.

The teens are also a time of independence. The breaking away from the family makes the peer very important. Conformity helps to alleviate the pressures of self-consciousness and sensitivity.

Each generation has its own status symbols among the teen-ager. As outlandish as they may seem to the parents, they are very important to the adolescents.

Mothers and other teen-agers have the greatest influence on what teen-agers wear. Both boys and girls want the up-to-the-minute look. Therefore, fashion is the primary concern of teen-age buyers. Durability and quality are of less importance to them.

Teen-age girls comprise about 12 per cent of the population of the United States. They account for 25 per cent of all money spent on women's clothing and accessories. Girls check the style of a garment first. Second, she'll check the size and last, the price. Only one in five girls will check the color of a garment first.

The peak purchasing periods of teen-agers are August, September, and February. Because of this fact, prices can be expected to be highest during these months. It's advisable to shop early in winter for clothing. I often advise teen-agers to set a style rather than waiting to see what is the fad that season and following it.

A survey was taken of teen-age girls' wardrobes in 1968. The results showed the average teen-age girl to own:

- 9.9 daytime dresses
- 16.2 blouses
- 3.3 suits
- 12.6 skirts
- 14.9 sweaters
- 14.2 slacks
- 6.5 slips
- 2.8 girdles
- 3.4 night gowns
- 10.9 pair nylons
- 6.0 purses
- 3.0 hats
- 9.9 pair shoes

It's a good idea for all teen-agers to take an inventory of their entire wardrobe before shopping for school clothes. Eliminate items you don't wear or can't wear. Make a list of what items you need. Be sure to be realistic and don't go overboard.

A word to the parents: set an amount allowed for your teen-ager's new clothes. Be sure he or she stays within the budget. You, too, should be realistic. This is a good time to teach your teen-ager how to live on a budget — they'll be doing it in a few years when they go out on their own, to college or the first job.

English squirrels may be put on the 'Pill'

The Department of Zoology, Reading University, England has received a grant from the Forestry Commission to finance a study of the breeding cycle of gray squirrels, in hopes of reducing their numbers with some sort of contraceptive pill.

The policy of shooting gray squirrels to control their numbers has not been successful, because when the squirrel population is reduced in this way, their reproduction increases and the end result is often more squirrels than ever.

HOW TO TAKE CARE OF YOUR IRON

1. Always unplug an iron after use.
2. Always store an iron standing on its heel rest—never store it flat on the ironing surface.
3. Do not use tap water if the directions for your iron say not to. Tap water affects some irons because the mineral deposits in water tend to accumulate in the iron and these deposits will gradually reduce its steaming efficiency.

4. Avoid ironing over rough objects that could scratch the ironing surface.

'As Others See You' Topic For St. John's Juniors

Miss Santina R. Curran of the Norfolk County Extension Service will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of St. John's Junior League, Oct. 1, at 8:30 p.m. in the rectory hall, 21 Gay St.

Her subject, "As Others See You" deals with poise and self-confidence.

Have you ever dreaded standing up in front of a group to give a report or preside at a meeting and wished you could appear poised and self-confident? How well this is done depends upon the knowledge and awareness of the individual who is to perform before a group. Poise is self-confidence, and self-confidence is in knowing how. How you are groomed, how you stand, walk and talk are all a part of this subject.

Mrs. Anthony Aimola will preside. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Carl Bersani and Mrs. John Jolley.

The next executive board meeting will be Oct. 16, at the home of Mrs. Ferdinand DeNicola with Mrs. Domenic Lomanno as co-hostess.

Nancy Cappadona Student Leader At Aquinas

Student leader at Aquinas Junior College in Milton is Miss Nancy Cappadona, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cappadona of 1381 Quincy Shore Drive, Quincy.

As Vice-President of the Student Council, Nancy assumes an important role in the programmed activity at the college.

Nancy serves as chairman of the Aquinas Hospitality Club which acts as a liaison office of the Admissions Office. Interested in painting and in writing, Nancy will receive her Associate Degree in 1974 as a student in the Executive Secretarial program.

S.S. Simmons Club Opens New Season

The South Shore Simmons Club began its new season Wednesday with a meeting highlighting local history.

Mrs. Gilbert Bean gave a talk about the restoration of the General Sylvanus Thayer House in Braintree and a guided tour of the house and museum after a coffee hour and business meeting held in the Thayer Public Library, Braintree.

The club is planning a varied program for the rest of the year. On Nov. 29, Mrs. Nelson Saphir will talk to members on "Boston Harbor - America's Heritage".

In January there will be a "personal" travelogue of Russia by a member.

A discussion on the subject of changing standards of sexual morality will be the topic of the March meeting.

The annual dinner meeting featuring a speaker from the college will be held in May.

Among its fund raising activities to provide an annual scholarship to Simmons College for a South Shore girl, the club will hold its first rummage sale of the year Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the South Congregational Church in Braintree.

Officers and committee chairmen for the club for the 1973-1974 season are: President, Mrs. Walter Wrigley of Quincy, vice-president, Mrs. William Tinney of Weymouth; recording secretary, Mrs. Andrew O'Brien of Braintree; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Marvin Powell of Braintree; treasurer, Miss Yolanda Romanelli of Quincy.

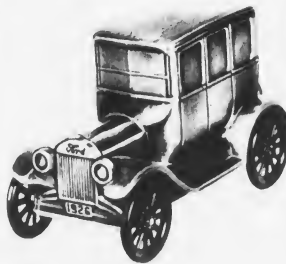

Program chairman is Mrs. Otis B. Oakman Jr. of Braintree; hospitality, Mrs. Richard Gordon of Milton; membership, Mrs. James Canavan of Milton and Mrs. Robert Laing of Quincy; nominating, Mrs. Thomas Galvin of Braintree and publicity Mrs. Francis L. Horgan of Norwell.

19 Snug Harbor Second Graders In Field Trips To Quincy Sun, WJDA

Nineteen second grade youngsters from the Snug Harbor School got a first-hand look at how a newspaper and radio station gather and disseminate news in visits Thursday to The Quincy Sun and Station WJDA.

The children are studying the news media as part of a continuing study of their community and its resources. As a culminating activity they are planning with the assistance of some of the older boys and girls in the school to publish a class newspaper.

The field trip to The Quincy Sun and WJDA are the first of a series of such explorations which these children will participate in as part of an innovative project at the Snug Harbor School known as CARE (Coordinated Approach to Relevant Education).

Intent of the project is to enlarge the pupil's image of himself and of his world by providing a wide variety of relevant first-hand experiences both at the school and by going out into the surrounding community. Each child in the project, which encompasses approximately 110 children in Grades 1-5 at the school, will participate in at least 10 different field trips each year so that upon completion of Grade 5 he will have participated in well over 50 different field trips.

Among the field trips planned for this year in addition to the trips to the Sun and WJDA are:

Dunlin Farm in Lincoln, the South Shore Science Center in Norwell, Logan Airport, Brigham's Ice Cream, the Children's Museum, the Atlantic Aquarium, the Telephone company, the University Museum in Cambridge, Boston Freedom Trail, Arnold Arboretum, a camping expedition on the Cape, and a number of other trips to historical sites and businesses in the City of Quincy.

The children visiting The Quincy Sun and WJDA were:

Marianna Campbell, Anthony Casuarano, Cathy Chiasson, Laurie Cosgrove, Karen Cullen, Lyn DeAngelo, Kristen Dever, James Donahue, Sharon Fryar, Charles Hooper, Susan Keefe, Susan Megnia, Michael Notarangelo, Lauren O'Rourke, Michelle Pitts, Tammy Rice, Lisa Richardson, Michael Sadlier and David Smith.

They were accompanied by Miss Patricia Smith, a teacher at the Snug Harbor School and Mrs. Kathleen O'Rourke, a parent.

QHS Class Of 1938 Plans 35th

The Quincy High School Class of 1938 will hold its 35th anniversary reunion Nov. 3 at the Sons of Italy Social Center, Quarry St., Quincy.

The committee is seeking the whereabouts of a number of classmates who have moved since the last reunion. Anyone with any information about them is asked to contact Kay Caulfield Daley, 28 Stevens St., Quincy [472-9068] or Helen Mason Stevens, 52 Edison Park, Quincy [479-4719].

The missing members are: Phyllis Allen Sears, Walter Anderson, Robert Balkam, John Bates, Richard Boland, Bernadette Buckley Swinton, Ida Capone Beckel, Madeline

TV Stars To Headline Bryan Post Country-Western Revue

The George F. Bryan VFW Post will present a country and western revue Oct. 25 at 7 p.m. at the new post hall, 26 Broad St., Quincy.

Heading the show will be television performers Penney DeHaven, Charlie Harris, the Country Cavaliers and The Cheating Hearts.

Past Commander Robert J. Edgar is committee chairman and Commander Robert Alstedt is co-chairman. Serving on the committee are Senior Vice-Commander Frank Roberts, Quartermaster Francis X. Hatch and Adjutant Robert Jensen.

Open House Oct. 2 At Broad Meadows

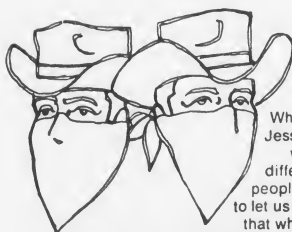

Broad Meadows Junior High School will hold its "Open House" Tuesday, Oct. 2, at 7:30 p.m.

Parents will have an opportunity to visit classes attended by students during a typical school day. Additionally, all will have an opportunity to vote for the new members of this year's Parent Board.

All parents are encouraged to attend this special program.

In 1889, the big money guys were Jesse, Frank and us

South Shore Pro Hockey Shop Features Finest In Equipment

By PAUL FELDMAN

The finest hockey equipment featuring a full range of popular name brands — that's Mike Stoller's South Shore Pro Hockey Shop at 45 Billings Rd., North Quincy and his new pro shop at the just-opened Quincy Youth Hockey Arena in Merrymount.

Mike, a hockey player and coach himself, sells everything from hockey sticks and skates to shoelaces and team emblems. He specializes in the hockey needs of the beginner straight through to the professional.

One important feature of his full service is the custom radius skate sharpening method he employs.

"This process measures the skate blade to insure proper curvature for ideal hockey skating," says Mike.

Mike, who coached the Richard's South Shore Express team in the Quincy Youth Hockey League the past season, has a special interest in young players. And he has the expertise to give counseling to the hockey needs of the youngster.

Raised in Revere, Mike played hockey at Revere High School and in amateur leagues at the North Shore Skating Club. He graduated from Northeastern University with a degree in Business Administration in 1971.

Mike now lives on Marlboro

Community Residence Program For Retarded Men

The South Shore Rehabilitation Center has been awarded a grant by the Developmental Disabilities Council to start a residence for retarded men, aged 18 to 50.

The community residence is a new type of residential facility for disabled persons who are unable to live independently in the community, but who are capable of successful living family style, with professional supervision.

With the help of two live-in residence managers, the residents will participate in the operation of the home. During the day they will work in the community or at the training facilities of the South Shore Rehabilitation Center in Squantum.

The program is now in the process of taking referrals. Those interested should contact Dr. William P. Wolk, Director, South Shore Rehabilitation Center, 16 Moon Island Rd., Squantum, Massachusetts, 02171.

J. Vincent Smyth To Seek 5th Term

Councillor J. Vincent Smyth today announced his candidacy for re-election from Ward 6 comprising precincts 1, 2, 4, 5, 6 and 7. He is seeking his fifth two-year term.

Smyth declared:

"The City Council continues to need a representative who has a background of both business and municipal experience and who is available to his constituents. My candidacy for re-election to this office fulfills the requirements.

"More than ever before 'home rule' [as it applies to federal and state grants] must be returned to the local taxpayers who are the source of all revenue. For better or worse, the power to run its own internal affairs rightfully belongs to any city or town, regardless of the proximity of the state or federal Capitol. Priorities in municipal spending are essential for the greatest good of all concerned.

"The overcrowded condition at North Quincy High School must receive the highest priority in future capital expenditures. The protection and safety of our residents and their property can be achieved by a mutual planning program between the citizens and the Police Department.

"I shall continue to advocate a Capital Improvement Program for modern lighting of our streets. As a member of the Council Finance Committee I was instrumental, along with my colleagues, in cutting $4 million from the submitted 18-month budget, which resulted ultimately in a reduction of $1.10 on the tax rate."

He listed as his major accomplishments: acquisition of Squaw Rock, retention of the Atlantic Branch of the Public Library, pedestrian lights at Hunt and Hancock Streets, additional street lighting, introduced first council order to retain and purchase Wollaston Golf Club for recreational use.

Smyth was president of the City Council in 1968-1969. He is chairman of the Council's Public Works and Veterans Services Committees. Smyth is married to the former Anna Kelley of North Quincy and they are the parents of seven children. He is president and treasurer of Smyth's Package Store, North Quincy.

PROMOTION - James J. Gavin, Director of Installation Services presents promotion papers to Robert J. Alfano, new Councillor of the Personnel Section, U.S. Postal Service. Alfano has been employed by the Postal Service since November 1969 and was a letter carrier in Braintree before this promotion. He is a Navy veteran. He lives at 35 Glover Ave., North Quincy, with his wife, Mary, and their children Kim, Michael, Robert Jr.

Balloons Signal Start Of Camp Fire Program

Hundreds of balloons are being distributed this week to signal the start of the 1973-74 Camp Fire Girls program in Quincy.

Camp Fire Girls and Bluebirds in uniform are distributing the balloons after classes at the city's elementary schools.

Mrs. Bea Sweatt, public relations director, notes that first graders are now eligible to join the Bluebirds. Until now, a girl had to be eight years old.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Sweatt at 45 Flynt St., North Quincy or by calling 773-3594.

DEADLY PARLOR GAMES

Unbelievable as it may seem, many adolescents, and regrettably, even grown men, play games of death with guns. The most foolish is Russian Roulette, in which a person inserts one bullet into a revolver, twirls the chamber, places the muzzle against his temple, and pulls the trigger - gambling that he won't be shot. All too often, he is. About 70 persons a year senselessly die from this incredible stunt.

Another deadly parlor game is the fast draw. A California teen-ager shot himself in the thigh when jerking a gun from his holster. A Chicago man, trying to outdraw a cowboy on television, whipped out his six-shooter and blasted his wife in the stomach. Another man shot down his young son who toddled into range. Their one common mistake was using live ammunition. Fast draw pros use nothing but blanks.

Pre-Schoolers Story Hours Scheduled At Library

Story hours for pre-schoolers begin Oct. 3-4 at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

Saturdays at 11 beginning Oct. 6.

Four year olds are invited to join groups at the Junior Library Thursdays at 10:30 a.m., at Adams Shore, Wednesdays at 10 a.m. at North Quincy. Wednesdays or Thursdays at 10 a.m. or at Wollaston Wednesdays or Thursdays at 10. Wollaston will also hold story hours for four to seven year olds

The story hours introduce children and their parents to books, especially the picture book, through such methods as story telling, songs, games, filmstrips, recordings and puppetry. Children are encouraged to borrow books and to get their own library cards.

Story hours are not held when public schools are not in session.

Atomic Energy Demonstration At 2 Schools Next Week

A demonstration lecture on atomic energy and its uses, conducted by Wentworth College of Technology, will be presented at two Quincy schools next week.

The program will be presented at Quincy Point Junior High School, Monday, and at Sterling Junior High School, Tuesday.

"This Atomic World", is designed to acquaint students with the basic principles of nuclear energy, its sources, and its role in agriculture, industry, medicine and research. The grant for conducting this lecture-demonstration program among high schools in Eastern Massachusetts was awarded to Wentworth College of Technology by Boston Edison Company.

James Vey New Ward 3 Candidate

James J. Vey of 11 Ruthven St., Montclair, announces his candidacy for the new Ward 3 City Council seat.

The district now comprises precincts 1 and 6 [Cranch Hill] of former Ward 1, precincts 2, 6 and 8 of former Ward 5 and precincts 3 and 8 of old Ward 6.

In making his announcement Vey cited the need of:

- An austere, yet sensible, spending program to halt further rises in taxes which are decimating homeowners' and tenant's purchasing powers.
- A conclusive solution to the present North Quincy High School classroom crisis.

- Instantance of builders and developers responsibility to the city and it's residential areas.

- Better street lighting for the protection of our citizens.

- Return of foot patrolmen when necessary to combat vandalism in the city's parks and playgrounds.

- Preservation of city owned land for open space.

- A drastic cut-down of city council executive sessions to enhance more democratic open meetings.

Vey is a member of the Montclair Men's Club Civic Committee, vice president of the Quincy Citizens Association, member of the City Capital Outlay Committee, former Ward 6 Democratic Committee, Quincy Democratic Committee, George F. Bryan VFW Post, Local 105 American Federation of Technical Engineers AFL-CIO, Local 453, Office and Professional Employees International Union AFL-CIO, and a director of the Quincy Bowling Little Loop.

He has lived in Quincy 22 years and is a homeowner. He is married to the former Evelyn M. Donnelly. They have four sons.

Powers Urges City Reclaim Nike Site

Asst. Dist. Atty. Warren A. Powers, a candidate for City Council from Ward 5, has urged that Quincy reclaim the old Nike site in Merrymount Park since there is "no longer any compelling national defense consideration in the Army's use of the location".

The 6.6 acre site is now occupied by part of the 187th Infantry Brigade, USAR.

Powers, who once served at the site with the old 187th Support Battalion, said in a letter to Mayor Walter J. Hannon:

"The base had no special military attributes when I served there, nor does it now."

Powers suggested that members of the 187th Brigade be moved to Hingham where the rest of the brigade is stationed at the old Hingham Ammunition Depot so that "the Army could keep the brigade together instead of maintaining fragmented companies in sundry locations."

The site, said Powers, is one of the few green areas left near Boston and could be used for "expanding recreational opportunities for the people of Quincy, while at the same time returning the land to its original purpose."

Quincy Jewry Mark Year 5734

Day 1 of the Year 5734 was ushered in by the sound of the Shofar [ram's horn] at sundown Wednesday as Quincy's Jews entered the holiest period of their year, the Ten Days of Awe culminating in Yom Kippur [the Day of Atonement].

At synagogue services today and tomorrow, Jews will reaffirm their faith, examine their past conduct and pray for forgiveness.

Yom Kippur begins at sundown Friday, Oct. 5, with the Kol Nidre prayer and continues through Saturday, the holiest day of the year, the day on which Jews believe the Lord judges each individual.

Jews fast all day, confess and repent sins and ask pardon from the Lord and from their fellow men. In turn, they give freely to their neighbors. At night, with a cleansed heart, they look forward to a good life in the New Year.

17th Century Women Illustrated Lecture Topic At First Parish Church

In 1637, Governor John Winthrop banished Quincy's Anne Hutchinson from the Massachusetts Bay Colony as "being a woman not fit for our society."

Mrs. Hutchinson posed the first threat to the new colony because of her ability to persuade others to follow her.

On Wednesday, Oct. 3 at 7:30 p.m. Professor Laurie Crumacker of Boston University will present an illustrated lecture on Puritan attitudes toward women in the First Parish Hall of the United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

Mrs. Crumacker, who teaches women's history at Boston University, is a graduate of Simmons and Harvard Colleges. She believes that many of the current views on women find their beginnings in the life of the Massachusetts Bay Colony and particularly in relation to women like Anne Hutchinson.

"Mrs. Crumacker believes that we can best understand today by going back into the history of our society," comments Rev. John R. Graham, minister.

The program, which is open to the public at no charge, is part of a Fall series at the church.

"The Occult: An Echo from Darkness," a motion picture dealing with Satan worship, clairvoyance, astrology, witchcraft and reincarnation, will be presented Thursday, Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Boston author Carl Seaburg will offer an evening of poetry Dec. 6 called "These Children Singing in Stone." It will also be held at 7:30 p.m. Seaburg is well-known for a number of books including "Boston Observed" and "Great Occasions."

Quincy Women Co-Chairmen St. Jude Radiothon

Two Quincy women will be co-chairmen of a radiothon over Station WMEX this weekend seeking to raise $100,000 for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

They are Mrs. Carol Burgess of 309 Washington St., and Mrs.

Madeline Baroud of 24 Chase St.

The radiothon will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday and continue non-stop through 10 p.m. Sunday, with Greater Boston political, civic and religious leaders as hosts along with teenagers from St. Jude's local chapter.

Last year the radiothon raised $38,000.

Donald Malone Center Dance On Oct. 28

The Autumn Dance will be held Oct. 28 in the Quincy

Masonic Temple, Hancock St., Quincy Center for the establishment of the Donald Malone Center, a detoxification center that will be built somewhere on the South Shore.

The detoxification center, serving Quincy and eight other South Shore communities, has been located for the past year in cramped quarters in Faxon House in Quincy.

Tickets for the dance may be obtained from Sabina of Sabina's Beauty Salon, Wollaston, or from Dr. Alfred Mahoney of the Quincy Health Center or by calling the Detoxification Center at Faxon House.

MONEY TALKS

"Program" Is Needed for Financial Success

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
and Loan Association
of Quincy and HOLLISTON
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Like many successful men, my friend had reduced his theories regarding financial success to a formula — "the Five Ps." The first two he had delineated as Point of View and Purpose.

"We come now to the third — Program," he said. "We are all creatures of habit. I believe it was Shakespeare who wrote, 'How use doth breed a habit in a man.' Unless we develop a systematic program for savings, it is unlikely that we'll get very far in building up our financial resources."

My friend recalled sage Benjamin Franklin's axiom that "money begets money and its offspring begets more," noting that Franklin proved it by bequeathing $5,000 to the residents of Boston with the stipulation that they preserve it intact, earning interest for a century. By that time, his original bequest had burgeoned to $100,000.

"Many of us don't have employers who cooperate by installing payroll deduction plans of saving," said my friend. "It's up to us, then, to set up a personal system that is just as automatic."

"The first thing that must be done is to start a savings account in a reliable institution that combines convenience with maximum return on your money. As I said before, you want ready availability and you want to avoid fluctuation such as you encounter in stock investments. Then you look for maximum earnings in a financial institution that is convenient enough for you to carry on your savings programs."

"Of course, you also want insured safety—and I'd like to talk about that a bit later."

"A fourth P for financial success," my friend continued,

"is Precaution. This means simply that as an effective saver you will take whatever measures are necessary beforehand to ward off threats to your savings."

"All any couple has to do to recognize the importance of such measures is to take pencil and pad in hand and inventory the white elephants among their possessions."

Such white elephant lists become rather pathetic to any middle-aged couple that reviews a lifetime and recalls opportunities missed along the way because of a shortage of capital. A few thousand dollars at the right time earlier in their lives would have meant increasing amounts for later investment.

The same precaution should be exercised in the placement of savings, said my friend. "Earlier, I suggested that a bank or savings and loan association affords the ready availability and freedom from fluctuation that a basic savings program should have. It should also have another asset — insured safety."

Most of these financial institutions he noted, have the best type of insurance there is — that provided by agencies of the U.S. Government, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation (FSLIC).

"The FSLIC and FDIC symbols mean that your savings are protected, dollar for dollar, up to $20,000 by permanent agencies set up by the Congress of the United States."

Wollaston Post Presents Flags, Awards To Historical Society

Trophies and awards collected nearly 40 years ago by the crack drill team of the Wollaston American Legion Post have been turned over to the Quincy Historical Society for its new museum.

The drill team, organized in the early 1930's under the direction of Capt. C. Y. Von Nostitz, won Massachusetts State championships in 1934, 1935 and 1936 and took the national title in 1936 in competition in Cleveland.

They were received at a huge reception in the Quincy Armory, receiving an American flag from Congressman Richard B. Wigglesworth [R-Milton], a state flag from Gov. James Michael Curley, and a city flag from Mayor Thomas S. Burgin.

Recently, the seven surviving members of the drill team voted to turn the mementoes of their victories over to the Quincy Historical Society for permanent display in memory of their comrades.

Members of the drill team included:

David Brooks, Earl Brown, Richard Bryant, Paul Chamberlain, Hoyt Charleton, George Christensen, Basil Delano, Capt. C. Y. Von Nostitz, John Dwyer, Melvin Eddy, Ralph Green, Elisha Hudson, Harry Johnson, Charles Mahn, Donald McCrillis, K. P. Olive.

Quincy Industries Studied For Wastewater Production

Major industries in Quincy are currently under study in a six-month survey of industrial wastewater production in the Charles River Basin being conducted by Jason M. Cortell & Associates, Wellesley, environmental consultants.

The study, commissioned by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, will seek to determine the wastewater loads expected in 1990, 2020 and 2050 and the sources of potential organic pollution of the river system.

The information gathered will be used to formulate long-range plans for future pollution control.

● In Soccer Quincy, North Off To Good Starts

The Quincy and North Quincy soccer teams are off to good starts in the Norfolk Association with the Presidents, defending champs, having two wins and a tie to extend their unbeaten streak to 27 games, and the Raiders having two wins and a loss.

Tuesday Quincy hosted Franklin while North entertained Avon. Today the Presidents are home to Avon while the Raiders host Sharon Saturday at 10 a.m. Next Tuesday it will be Quincy at

B.C. High and Norfolk Aggies at North.

Following a scoreless tie with Foxboro in its opener, Quincy topped Sharon, 3-1, on goals by John Sweeney, Massimo Ranalli and Tony Michaelangelo. Jim Keenan, Steve Ranalli and Sweeney had assists.

North, defeated by B.C. High, 2-0, in its opening game, came back to nip Franklin, 1-0, on Steve Miller's second quarter goal with Leo Donovan assisting.

In their latest outing, the Presidents exploded for an 11-0 win over Norfolk Aggies as Massimo Ranalli and Michaelangelo scored three goals apiece. Other goals were scored by Steve Ranalli, Joe Rice, Fred Candeloro, Mark Ramondi and Joe McEachern.

Tom Tasney had three assists, Michaelangelo two and Sweeney and goalie Mike Cullen one apiece.

North made it two in a row with a 2-0 decision over Foxboro as Dave Sullivan and Donovan scored, Jim Mullaney assisting on both.

● Cross-Country Quincy, North Fall

The fears of Cross Country coaches Tom Hall of Quincy and Lou Tozzi of North Quincy that a lack of depth will hurt their chances in the Greater Boston League this fall were borne out in last week's opening meets at Medford.

North, with Tozzi making his debut as coach, dropped a 19-37 decision to Somerville while Quincy was shut out by strong Revere, a co-favorite to win the title, 15-49.

Tuesday the Raiders met

Medford and the Presidents faced Malden over the Medford course. Monday it will be North vs. Everett and Quincy vs. Chelsea.

Somerville took the first four places with North taking the next four, Bart Petracca, a sophomore, being followed by Art Barrett, Chris Cordeiro and Frank Schuler. The Raiders' other scorer was Ken Barrett, 11th. Also finishing for North were Ed Yee, 13th; Mark Canavan, 14th; Ken O'Brien, 15th and Gerry Dyer, 16th.

Revere's outstanding team, ranked by Hall as co-favorite with Chelsea, swept the first six places in blanking the Presidents.

Gary DeLorio in seventh place was Quincy's first finisher, and the other scorers were Steve Player, Tim Kane, Chip Colletta and Bud Griffin.

"Jill Seamans, the first girl ever to run with a boys' team in Quincy, did well and beat out four of the boys," Hall said.

Amorosino Scouting For Houston Rockets

Joe Amorosino, assistant basketball coach at Quincy High, is scouting for the Houston Rockets of the NBA during pre-season games and hopes to continue with some assignments during the regular season.

Last weekend Joe scouted the New York Knicks and Buffalo Braves at New Haven, Conn.

Amorosino is a close friend of Houston's assistant coach, Larry Siegfried, long-time Celtics ace, with whom he had conducted a summer basketball camp in Maine for several years. Houston's head coach is Johnny Egan.

QYHA $700,000 Rink Dedication Sunday

Last December ground was broken for the Quincy Youth Hockey Association's new $700,000 rink off Sea Street after many obstacles had been overcome.

Sunday, this new rink will be dedicated at 4:15, climaxing Quincy Youth Hockey Week, which began with a dedication dance last Saturday.

Although the association failed to meet its target date of July, the QYHA officials are delighted that their hard work has finally been rewarded with the much-needed rink.

Sunday's dedication will be preceded by a parade, featuring 15 bands, floats, sports dignitaries and more than 1,000 association players.

Bob Fitzpatrick is general chairman of Hockey Week. Joe McConville was dance chairman, Arthur Giordani refreshment chairman, Leo Doyle yearbook sales chairman, John J. Murphy parade marshal, Clifford Marshall publicity chairman, Wilbur B. Lewis dedication chairman and Arthur Boyle treasurer.

The parade, forming at the Ross parking lot at 2 p.m., will proceed to School St., to Hancock St., to Coddington St., to Sea St., ending at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church.

Marching units will include:

The Quincy and North Quincy High School bands, St. Joseph's Senior Band of Medford, St. Ann's Senior, Prep and Junior bands of Neponset, St. Thomas More Junior and Senior drum corps of Braintree, Quincy Renegade drum corps, 215th Army Band, Stoughton Golden Rays Junior drum corps, baton twirlers from the Twin Twirling Studio, Bishop Chevrus 4th Degree Knights of Columbus, Houghs Neck and Morrisette Legion Posts, and other musical units and veterans organizations.

Among the dedication speakers will be Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Richard Koch, executive director of Quincy Park-Recreation Board; Joseph Burke, chairman Park-Recreation Board; Carl Leone, coordinator of athletics for Quincy schools; Ken Rickson, director of physical education in the schools; Daniel F. X. Davis and Bob Hayes, past presidents of the QYHA; Harry P. Messina, current president, and John J. Murphy, parade marshal.

Lewis will be master of ceremonies and the guest speaker will be Fred Cusick, nationally known sportscaster and Voice of the Boston Bruins for Channel 38.

The rink dedication will end at about 5 p.m. and at 5:30 an exhibition game will be played between the Weymouth Conquistadors, coached by Dan Reynolds, and Fitchburg Wallace Wallopers, coached by Tom Moon, former Boston Olympics star.

The teams are members of the New England Junior Hockey League, Junior A division. The new league opens on Oct. 5 with two divisions. This is the first league of this caliber anywhere in the country and is dedicated to the development of players between 15 and 20 with the emphasis on education. It is hoped that through the N.E. Junior League, American players will achieve parity with the Canadians of equal age.

Between periods of the game Miss Christine Messina, 20, of Braintree, a 1970 graduate of Braintree High School, will give a figure skating exhibition.

She is a U.S. gold medalist, 1973 New England senior ladies champion, 1973 Eastern free skating champion and is pursuing a professional teaching career in figure skating.

There will be public skating at the new rink following the game until 9 o'clock, open free to the public.

Giordani's refreshment committee includes Jim Deitsch, Dick Rheinhardt, Tom Heffernan, Tom Bamberry, Beverly Rheinhardt, Mary Heffernan, Joan Giordani and Margie Fitzpatrick.

Lewis is chairman of the speakers and usher's committee which includes Pat Nevins, Peter Golden and Jim Triglia.

The Youth Hockey Association was formed eight years ago with 42 boys. Last year more than 700 boys took part and at present nearly 1,200 boys and girls [a girls' program has been added for the first time] are taking part in the association's variety of programs.

The new rink, which eventually will also be used by various groups outside of the QYHA, is located off Sea Street behind the Naval Reserve Training Center. An easement was obtained over land owned by the state, the site of the proposed South Shore Community College.

Seats have not yet been placed in the rink and a few other details are still to be completed, but the association has been having instruction there for the past few weeks.

Stevens, Toland Lead Squirt B's To Win

Richie Stevens had two goals and two assists as the Quincy Squirt "B" team bombed Braintree, 9-2, in an exhibition game at the new Quincy Youth Hockey Rink.

Johnny Toland had two goals and Mike McNiece, Johnny Cummings, Tommy Doherty, Kevin Ryan and Paul McCabe had one each.

Assists were credited to John

Cummings, Tom Doherty and Kevin Ryan with two each and John Toland, Kevin Duff and Mark Tenney with one apiece.

Richardson Paces Pee Wee A's Over Canton

Scott Richardson had two goals and an assist in leading the Quincy Pee Wee "A" team to a 4-1 exhibition victory over Canton at the new Quincy Youth Hockey Rink.

Eddie Kane had a goal and an assist while Billy Deitsch and Bobby Hayes each had two assists. Ed Marella got the fourth goal.

Shea, Cahill Score 2 Each As Bantam A's Win

Jimmy Shea and Tommy Cahill scored two goals apiece Saturday [Sept. 22] as the Quincy Bantam "A" team whipped Canton, 5-2, in an exhibition game at the new Quincy Youth Hockey Rink.

Mike McGrath got the fifth goal and an assist was credited to Rick Dannar.

CHRISTINA MESSINA of Braintree, 20, a 1970 graduate of Braintree High School, will give a figure skating exhibition at Sunday's dedication of the new Quincy Youth Hockey Association rink. She is a U.S. gold medalist, 1973 New England senior ladies champion and 1973 Eastern free skating champion.

After Revere Frustration

Raiders Look For No.1 At Weymouth N.

North Quincy's football team, which dropped a frustrating decision to Revere, one of the Greater Boston League favorites, last week, will travel to Weymouth's Legion Field Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. non-league game against Weymouth North.

Everything went against the Raiders as Revere won a 29-20 GBL thriller, sparked by its two outstanding backs, Joe Festa and Tony Belmonte.

"It is frustrating to score 20 points and still lose," North Coach Ralph Frazier said. "It wasn't that Revere scored 29 points but it is how they scored them that bothers me."

North fumbled on its third play of the game, Revere recovering on the Raider 35 and going on to its first score. Another Revere touchdown came after a North pitchout was grabbed in the air by a Revere player and still another on an 80-yard kickoff return to open the second half and the score tied, 14-14.

Frazier and his aides praised quarterback Carl Leone, debuting as a starter, for a "superlative job". Carl passed for two touchdowns and scored the other on a sneak.

The coaches also had words of praise for John Flynn, hard running halfback for his running and blocking, Phil Robinson for his blocking and Joe Wilkinson for their work on offense.

Robinson and Flynn, who replaced Steve Lothrop when he suffered an ankle injury, were singled out for their defensive performances as was Steve Pagliarini and the North secondary.

"We just broke down in a few spots which hurt us," Frazier added. "Revere has a good strong team and Festa and Belmonte are outstanding. I feel our boys did well and were the victims of some bad breaks."

North overcame a 14-0 deficit with two second period touchdowns.

Revere had taken a two-touchdown lead when Festa scored from the two in the opening period and raced 56 yards for another score in the second.

The Raiders bounced back and Bruce Stephansky took a Leone pass and scored to complete a 52-yard play and then he passed to Robinson for the points.

Later in the second period Leone capped a drive by sneaking over from the one.

Belmonte took the second half kickoff and galloped 80 yards to start the second half and a two-point conversion gave Revere a 22-14 lead.

North cut the gap to two points when Leone passed to Wilkinson for six yards but the try for the tying points fell short.

Festa put the frosting on the cake with a 17-yard run for the game's final touchdown.

Revere had 12 first downs to nine for the much smaller Raiders, ate up 224 yards on the ground to only 67 for North, while North had 113 yards passing to only 12 for Revere, which shunned its passing game. North completed six of 14 passes.

After Weymouth Loss -

Conroy Seeks Offense Against Revere

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team opens its Greater Boston League season Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium where it meets Revere at 1:30 p.m. and Coach Hank Conroy is hoping for an improved offense.

The failure of the Presidents to move consistently last week played a large part in a heartbreaking last minute 8-7 loss to underdog Weymouth South in a non-league opener at the stadium.

Quincy was a decided favorite over the much smaller Wildcats, who two years ago walloped the Presidents in one of the biggest upsets in stadium history.

For three and a half periods it appeared Quincy was on its way to a win despite a disappointing offense, only to have Joe Kelly's Wildcats, taking advantage of the absence of big Paul Riggs, regular line backer, drive 77 yards in 15 plays to score with just 45 seconds remaining and complete a two-point conversion pass for the shocking victory.

"It was just a case of them out-hustling us at the end," said a disappointed Conroy. "They wanted the game more than we did."

"Although they picked away at our line pretty well in that scoring drive [Weymouth threw only three passes, on complete], our defense was pretty strong. We should have had more points and our failure to move the ball better was the reason we lost, not our defensive play."

Conroy used junior Preston Carroll for most of his running and he did well, picking up 72 of Quincy's 111 net yards on the ground in 17 carries. Wayne Ponder and Danny McDermott also ran well and new quarterback Robin Carrera picked up good yardage in his few carries.

"The whole backfield did all right but our passing game must improve," Conroy added. Quincy gained only 72 yards with five completions in 16 attempts. "Defensively Dave Sten, Mike Varrasso, Billy Joyce, Bob Pettiti and Paul Coner performed well."

"It was a very disappointing defeat but it may do us some good. It wasn't a league game and that is one consolation."

Quincy's defense will be put to a severe test Saturday as Revere scored 29 points against North Quincy last week [a 29-20 win].

Ironically, the winning points for Weymouth last week were scored by Jack Osterman, whose father is an assistant superintendent of schools in Quincy.

One of the highlights in last week's loss was the punting of Kim Derbes, who got off several booming kicks. He also kicked Quincy's extra point.

Both offenses sputtered in the first half but Quincy drove for its touchdown late in the half following a short Weymouth punt which went only 21 yards to Quincy's 45.

Carroll picked up 14 yards in two carries, took a pitchout from Carrera and passed to Jeff Little for 18 yards to the Weymouth 16, added another 11 yards and Ponder scored from the five. Derbes, the Presidents' kicking specialist, added the seventh point.

Weymouth drove to Quincy's 24 in the third period and Quincy marched all the way to Weymouth's 15 but an incomplete pass gave Weymouth the ball.

The Wildcats launched their winning drive following a good Derbes punt to Weymouth's 23.

Tall Mark Lindstrom, a converted end, and big Pat Losordo, who did the bulk of the carrying, had little trouble going through the Quincy line, carrying 10 times between them for 57 yards.

The lone pass completion was a big one as Steve Izbicki hit Ken Dorrell for an 11-yarder on fourth down and six. This put the ball on Quincy's 17. On third down, Izbicki was spilled for an apparent loss but he flipped the ball to Losordo, who went for a first down on the five. Lindstrom scored from the one and Losordo took a pitchout from Izbicki and hit Osterman in the end zone for the winning points.

Quincy netted 111 yards on the ground while Weymouth had 143, the Presidents gained 72 yards on passes to 47 and had 13 first downs to Weymouth's 10.

Quincy All-Weather Track Completed

The new all-weather track at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium is completed and Coaches Tom Hall of Quincy and Lou Tozzi of North Quincy hope to have half of next spring's Greater Boston League meets there.

"This is something we have needed for a long time and I feel this track is better than the one in Medford where we now hold all our meets," Hall said.

The track is made of material which permits meets regardless of the weather and spikes can be

Thank You, Hill People

By PUTNAM S. BORDEN
Executive Director
Quincy Council on Aging

On Friday Sept. 14, a very special senior citizen passed away quietly in her sleep.

My mother-in-law, Mrs. Evelyn MacLeod, an active, vital lady, with whom we had lived for 12 delightful years and who played such an important part in our family life, went to bed Thursday night and never awakened. And she will be sorely missed.

But I don't want to write an eulogy. Her life was it's own eulogy. I want to write about the living, caring human beings that I affectionately call "the hillpeople".

If we believe what we read in books, newspapers and periodicals, in which middle class America is examined, microscopically, by the social scientist, the hillpeople are an anachronism. We are shown the nuclear family, isolation, a refusal to become involved, all kinds of faults which come down to one basic analysis, self centered and unconcerned.

Well, I don't believe it. It may be true about others but its not true about my neighborhood, Penn's Hill. It's not true about the hill people. These people, the elderly, the middle aged, the young adults, yes and even the children are, for my family, what our country is all about. They fed us, they babysat for us and most important they cried with us, sharing our pain and in each case, carrying away a small part of it to help us ease our hurt.

In all, during the three days prior to Ev's funeral, Alice and I received help and consolation from over 700 concerned people; people who we know visited, not out of a sense of duty, but out of a real love for my mother-in-law and true regard for our immediate needs.

In fact, one of our friends who happened to be listening to police calls on Sunday afternoon told us this story. She heard a call from the police patrol car in the area to the sergeant on duty advising that he had found a little old lady who was lost and could he drive her to the funeral home? Permission granted.

My thanks to the officer, the sergeant and to the elderly lady who cared enough to come even though she didn't know the way.

This is our neighborhood and these are the hill people. Thanks hill people of all ages. It's a privilege and an honor to raise a family among you.

City Assistance For Seniors In Filing For Tax Exemptions

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announces he has requested the Council on Aging to develop a program of assistance to senior residents in filing applications for property tax exemptions.

He said he considered it

"extremely important that elderly residents, widows and other eligible citizens, take advantage of using the legal provisions designed to reduce their tax burden."

Putnam S. Borden, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging, advises that he is making preparations for the service, to be available at his office. He requests that senior citizens wishing assistance call him at 773-1380, Ext. 243, for an appointment.

Foliage Trip To New Hampshire Planned

A three-day, two-night foliage

Battles Loom For School Committee, Ward Council Seats

By TOM HENSHAW

Stiff fights loomed for three open seats on the City Council and one on the School Committee as the deadline for filing nomination papers for the Nov. 6 preliminary election passed at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

A total of 38 candidates filed.

The biggest battles appear set for Ward 1, where incumbent Edward S. Graham is retiring, and Ward 3, where incumbent Theophilus McLelland III was moved out of the ward by redistricting.

The Ward 1 fight pits Leo J. Kelly, runner-up to Graham in 1971, against Robert W. Denvir Jr., Paul D. Harold and Matthew J. McDonnell in a ward that lost almost half its precincts in redistricting.

In the new Ward 3, John J. Lydon Jr., Timothy P. Cardwell and John T. Ricciuti are the familiar names with James J. Vey, Emery C. Fontaine Jr. and Walter J. McCarthy challenging.

Robert W. Langlois and Dr. Donald C. MacLeod took out papers in Ward 3 but failed to file them.

Ward 5, where incumbent William D. Delahunt is not seeking re-election, pits the 1971 runner-up, Warren A. Powers, against newcomer Michael J. Peatridge. Thomas R. Mullen took out papers but failed to bring them back.

Two incumbents are seeking re-election to the School Committee, Francis F. Anselmo and Charles T. Sweeny, but the third, Paul C. Kelly, did not take out nomination papers.

New candidates in the School Committee field are Sidney M.

Ober, Bryant L. Carter Jr., John J. Sullivan, Jeffrey C. LaPointe, and J. Thomas Mullaney.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has two challengers, Grace E. Saphir and George A. Trubiano.

Pasquale S. DiStefano, the fourth mayoral possibility to take out papers, dropped out of the race when he found "the vitally necessary funds required to wage the aggressive campaign I had envisioned are woefully lacking."

All three at-large councilors are in the race for re-election, Joseph J. LaRaia, John J. Quinn and Arthur H. Tobin. They face challenges from Helen M.

Smyth Seeks Guidelines

Sun Story Spurs Porno Study

The City Council has moved to formulate a definition of pornography for the city of Quincy.

The Council resolved Monday night to ask Police Chief Francis X. Finn to examine the current city ordinances dealing with pornography to see if they need to be amended or enforced.

The resolution was introduced by Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, who said he was moved to do so by a story in the Sept. 13 edition of the Quincy Sun in which city booksellers complained that there were no guidelines on the subject.

The whole field of pornography was thrown into confusion earlier this year when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled, in essence, that it was up to local communities to decide what is or is not pornographic for its citizens.

Chief Justice Warren Burger, speaking for the majority in the 5-4 decision, defined a pornographic work as one that "taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

Smyth's resolution said:

"Whereas the Supreme Court in a recent decision has ruled that pornography has set back the morals of community life when applied to the selling of certain magazines and pictures, also certain books, and

"Whereas this community has an obligation to all the youth to set high standards so that they may be protected during their early teen years

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that his Honor, the Mayor request the Chief of Police to study Chapter 15, Section 8 of our City ordinances and see if they need to be amended or enforced."

Smyth said that, outside of the story in the Sun, there was no specific incident that caused him to introduce the resolution. He submitted a copy of The Sun's article to the Council with his proposal.

"I'm not zeroing in on any one place," he said, "although we all know where they are.

"I just don't want to see it grow. Who knows, maybe this will cut it back. And with any luck we might eliminate it altogether."

Trade School Never Like This

Miss Mass Finalist Student At Voc-Tech

By PAUL FELDMAN

When you think of a Voc-Tech School you might picture a 200 pound sweaty, oil-stained hulk laboring under the chassis of an old car. Or maybe a wiry, freckled kid with glasses, fooling with electrical wires.

What you surely would not think of is a sweet-looking, soft-spoken 20-year old girl, a finalist in a Miss Massachusetts pageant.

However, at Quincy's Vocational Technical School, the latter does exist - in the person of Judie Lavoie of Weymouth.

Judie, in her second year at the Voc-Tech Post-Graduate School, is taking courses in dental technology. When she completes her education in June, she plans to work in a dental laboratory.

And during July, Judie, 5' 9" with blonde-red hair, participated in the six-day Miss Massachusetts pageant held in Attleboro.

Although Judie did not win, she did finish among the top 10 in the contest that selected Massachusetts' entry to the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City.

Judie entered the contest after winning last year's Miss Weymouth contest. She watched the Miss America pageant on TV.

"I know the girl who won the contest this year and I also met Miss New Hampshire and Vermont at the Massachusetts competition, so it was enjoyable watching people I knew on TV."

She complained however, that it is especially hard for any Miss Massachusetts to win the final contest. "Massachusetts holds its competition the last in the country. There is only six weeks to prepare for the Miss America contest. And Massachusetts doesn't support its entry like other states do. The girl from Texas comes to the competition with 24 evening

Quincy School Enrollment Down 381 From Last Year

Enrollment in Quincy public schools is 381 students less than last year, according to figures released by School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

The three high schools, Quincy, North Quincy and Voc-Tech, were down by an even 100 students; the four junior high schools by 95 students; and the 21 elementary schools by 186 pupils.

The biggest loss in enrollment was in the first grade which dipped by 135 youngsters.

The total enrollments in each category were 4,495 in high school, 3,255 in junior high school, and 8,357 in elementary schools.

If You're Lucky, You'll Get Tagged In North Quincy!

[See Pages 16-17]

They are going to be tagging cars in the North Quincy shopping area starting Friday.

But this time it's the motorist-shopper who will be the winner.

October has been designated "Lucky Car Month" by the North Quincy Business and Professional Association.

Starting Friday and continuing through Oct. 27, the merchants will place

"Lucky Car Cards" on certain automobiles parked in the shopping area.

Each card will entitle the recipient to a free gift or a special discount on a purchase at the store which placed the card.

During the three weeks in which the cards will be distributed, it is possible for an individual motorist-shopper to receive more than one card, and thus more than one gift or discount.

All the recipient has to do is sign his or her name and address to the card and turn it in to the store.

Then the cards are all placed together and, on Oct. 27, one name will be drawn for the Grand Prize for the Month.

Participating merchants include:

Walsh's Restaurant, 9 Billings Rd.

Doran and Horrigan Insurance and Real Estate, 19 Billings Rd.

Dudley Furniture and Appliance Co., 15 Billings Rd.

Fashion Quality Cleaners, 67 Billings Rd.

Foley Chrysler-Plymouth, 330 Hancock St.

Mister Sub, 64 Billings Rd. Stan's Card and Gift Shop, 41 Billings Rd.

Granite Co-operative Bank, 440 Hancock St.

Nesco of Quincy [Television Service], 423 Hancock St.

Walter J. Hannon Tire Co., 495 Hancock St.

Naborhood Pharmacy, 406 Hancock St.

Wheelhouse Diner, 453 Hancock St.

R. T. Hussey Radio Shop, 23 Billings Rd.

Francette World of Nature, 417 Hancock St.

Santo's Custom Hair Styling, 63 Billings Rd.

McDonnell, Raymond G. Viens and Robert L. Foley.

Clifford H. Marshall, the Ward 2 incumbent, has one challenger, Patrick J. Faherty Jr. A third possibility, student Russell C. Corner, failed to file nomination papers.

Albert R. Barilaro, the Ward 4 incumbent, whose redistricting plan was accepted by the City Council and caused hard feelings around the old Ward 3, has five opponents.

They are Herbert Reppucci, Ronald L. Halter, Andrew J. Veneto, Thomas P. Hughes, and James A. Sheets.

A repeat of the 1971 hard fight looms in Ward 6 where Dennis E. Harrington again challenges incumbent J. Vincent Smyth.

The passing of the filing deadline also brought down several items of political speculation that had been heard around City Hall.

It had been rumored that School Committeeman Kelly and State Rep. Thomas Brownell might run for an at-large seat on the Council but the deadline went by without them.

Here are the matchups for the Nov. 6 preliminary election at which two candidates will be chosen to face each other for each seat in the Dec. 4 final election:

MAYOR

Walter J. Hannon, 41, of 15 Forbes Hill Rd, owner of the Hannon Tire Co., the incumbent mayor.

Grace E. Saphir, 57, of 921 East Squantum St., a nurse and a member of the Quincy Conservation Commission.

George A. Trubiano, 49, of 123 Madison Ave., a civil engineer formerly with the City Engineering Department.

John J. Quinn, 49, of 86 Grand View Ave., a Blue Cross-Blue Shield executive and incumbent councillor.

Arthur H. Tobin, 42, of 58 Huntly Rd, an attorney, a State Senator and current Council president.

Raymond G. Viens, 27, of 45 School St., an insurance salesman.

Helen M. McDonnell, 55, of 249 Newbury Ave., a housewife and cousin of County Commissioner George B. McDonald.

COUNCIL, WARD 1

Robert W. Denvir Jr., 43, of 111 Spring St., purchasing agent for Action for Boston Community Development.

Paul D. Harold, 24, of 31 Riverside Ave., a legal researcher and journalist.

Leo J. Kelly, 40, of 29 Charles St., a barber.

Matthew J. McDonnell, 31, of 9 Moreland Rd, a lawyer.

COUNCIL, WARD 2

Clifford H. Marshall, 35, of 64 Edison St., a State Representative and an incumbent councillor.

Patrick J. Faherty Jr., 55, of 47 Faxon Park Rd.

COUNCIL, WARD 3

Timothy P. Cardwell, 32, of 68 Presidents Lane, chairman of the Quincy Taxpayers Revolt.

Emery C. Fontaine Jr., 45, of 68 Churchill Rd, an automobile salesman.

John J. Lydon Jr., 32, of 468 Beale St., a funeral director and vice chairman of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board.

Walter J. McCarthy Jr., 36, of 21 Becket St., a state employee.

John T. Ricciuti, 43, of 31

James J. Vey, 41, of 11 Ruben St., an engineer.

[Incumbent Theophilus McLelland III was moved out of the ward by redistricting].

COUNCIL, WARD 4

Albert R. Barilaro, 56, of 65 Grove St., an inspector for the State Lottery and incumbent councillor.

Ronald L. Halter, 30, of 119 Federal Ave., a typewriter mechanic.

Thomas P. Hughes, 34, of 30 Cross St., with the drug division in the District Attorney's office.

Herbert Reppucci, 64, of 62 Shirley St., a hairdresser.

James A. Sheets, 37, of 926 Furnace Brook Parkway, a college professor.

Andrew J. Veneto, 43, of 85 Stedman St., a dress cutter.

COUNCIL, WARD 5

Warren A. Powers, 32, of 3 Grand View Terrace, an assistant district attorney.

Michael J. Peatridge, 20, of 64 Ellington Rd, a student.

[Incumbent William D. Delahunt is not seeking re-election].

COUNCIL, WARD 6

J. Vincent Smyth, 53, of 184 Landsdowne St., a liquor store proprietor and incumbent councillor.

Dennis E. Harrington of 211 Billings Rd, an assistant district attorney.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Francis F. Anselmo, 73, of 610 Adams St., retired post office superintendent and incumbent committeeman.

gowns where a Massachusetts girl must bring only her own one or two gowns."

Although some people complain about the whole idea of beauty pageants, Judie is quick to point out the difference between the Miss Massachusetts and Miss America contests compared to other pageants.

"Some are strictly beauty pageants and in those you are paraded like cattle. But this is more of a scholarship contest. You need talent, poise and scholarship. You can't win if you're not in school in this contest."

Judie displayed her singing talent to become one of the finalists in the Miss Massachusetts contest. She did an aria from Madame Butterfly.

"I like to do some singing and dancing," she says. "I entertained at the Miss Weymouth Folk Pageant and have appeared in church and high school productions."

She expresses hope she will continue to perform in public in the future.

Judie says "I believe strongly in women's lib but first I'm a woman. I like to be treated like a female."

She decided to enter the contest in the first place because of the scholarships that are given to the winners.

Judie lives at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, on Colonial Rd. Weymouth. She has a brother, David, 15.

She says she likes Quincy's Voc-Tech School, "much more than I expected too." She decided to enroll there because "it offers the courses I wanted."

As for future contests Judie says, "I have retired at the age of 20. I can't be in contests all my life so I'm going to concentrate on my courses now."

Elementary Box Lunch Program Starts Oct. 24

The city's elementary box lunch program will begin Wednesday, Oct. 24.

Although school officials were hopeful of beginning the program Oct. 15, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon stressed that the Oct. 24 starting date is only four school lunch days after the 15th, and that School Committee approval of the plan was given on Sept. 26.

Dr. Creedon praised the efforts of MBTA and Quincy police officials in rearranging bus and supervisory schedules to allow the program to begin on the 24th.

A letter was sent home today with elementary school children to notify their parents of the program's starting date.

Parents were informed that their children will have three options under the interim lunch program.

The options:

- The child may bring his lunch from home and purchase milk at 10 cents per carton.

- The child may purchase his lunch at the school for 40 cents per day [$1.60 for the week] including milk.

- The child may go home for lunch from 11:30 a.m. until 12:15 p.m.

For children who plan to purchase lunches, all monies for the week of Oct. 22 must be sent to school on Wed. Oct. 17.

The price of the lunches for the beginning week of the program will be $1.20. For all following weeks the price will be $1.60.

Children who qualify for free or reduced price lunches will be given tickets on the same day as children who will buy their lunch tickets.

All monies for lunches will be collected one week in advance to allow for the required number of lunches to be ordered from the private contractor.

With the start of the box lunch program school hours at the elementary level will now run from 8:20 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Dr. Creedon noted that a brochure explaining the interim lunch program is now being prepared through the Graphic Arts Department of Quincy Vocational Technical School. This pamphlet will be distributed to parents of all elementary school children.

In the meantime, parents having questions about the program should contact the principal of the school which their child attends.

Secondary School Lunches Now 40 Cents

With the beginning of the box lunch program for the city's elementary schools on Oct. 24, lunches at the secondary schools will increase in price from 35 cents to 40 cents.

The cost rise is required by the increase in the price of food and its preparation, according to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P.

Creedon.

The cost for the box lunches at the elementary schools is also 40 cents.

Quincy Seminarian Allowed To Leave Chile

Brother Joseph Doherty, son of Mrs. Alice J. Doherty of Quincy, has been released by the new military rulers of Chile and is on his way home.

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] said Tuesday that the U.S. embassy in Santiago informed him that Brother Doherty was one of eight Americans who left Chile Saturday [Sept. 29] on Braniff Airlines.

Brother Doherty, a Maryknoll seminarian, was among several Americans who were detained in Chile's National Soccer Stadium for questioning by the new regime following the coup that ousted Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Alistair Cooke talks of America

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Through-out his extraordinary series called "America," host-author Alistair Cooke says that two sentences continually recurred to him in his cross-country travels.

The first was from the distinguished jurist Oliver Wendell Holmes, who once said, "A constitution is made for people of fundamentally differing opinions."

The second came from an elderly Italian immigrant who for years had a shoeshine box just outside New York's Grand Central Station. When asked what living for four decades in America had taught him, he had this no-nonsense answer: "There is no free lunch."

Three years in the making, with an all-BBC crew, "America: A Personal View" emerged as a marvelously informative and entertaining show. Cooke traveled well over 100,000 miles for filming in locations across the land. He estimates that he churned out half a million words in scripts, a figure boded down to about 2,000 words per show.

When I talked with Mr. Cooke not long ago, it seemed an intriguing interview technique to assemble a number of subjects and toss them in the air and let him take a swing at each in order. The result was a kind of journalistic Rorschach test, with the topics and Mr. Cooke's replies as follows:

Billboards — "I am not a 'cause' person normally. But seeing all the billboards across the American landscape and in the towns and cities made me froth at the mouth. If I were named dictator, my first move would be to incarcinate the entire billboard lobby."

Las Vegas — "Been there twice. That's enough for a lifetime."

The English Accent — "It depends on the particular accent. Americans like some English accents and don't like others. I have noticed that in television people can spot a phony accent, whether it's from Tennessee or Westminster. Interestingly, to the English ear there is a pleasant music in the American southern accent."

Pro Football — "I have no knowledge of it, therefore no interest in it. Watching it on TV makes me feel very foreign. Watching it reminds me that there are two things one must be born with — one is peanut butter, the other is drum majorettes."

Baseball — "I love watching it on television although it is to me totally alien as I suppose rugby union and cricket would be to an American. I'm intrigued by the movements of the game. Baseball seems to me a foreign ballet."

San Francisco — "It's sad to see what's happened to The City, the new high rises having killed its visual character. Beneath the skin, however, it is still the same."

Emperor Norton of San Francisco — "A splendid eccentric! Joshua Norton, a self-proclaimed first 'Emperor' of the United States and Protector of Mexico. It is generally believed that the English are great eccentrics and it is played down by the United States that they've had a few, too. There are those who said that Emperor Norton was a madman. But who knows when a madman is an eccentric or an eccentric is a madman?"

- Nixon And Pakistan
- Beef Price Mistake
- Social Security Foul-Up

WASHINGTON — Pakistan's Prime Minister Bhutto called upon President Nixon and recalled the President's famous "tilt" toward Pakistan. This was his secret policy of aiding Pakistan in its December 1971 war with India. It was a policy of deception. Both the American people and their Congress were deceived by Nixon, who stated publicly that the U.S. was neutral in the conflict.

The smiling Bhutto said, however, that the President had "tilted for freedom." But this time, the President didn't tilt as far as Pakistan would have liked. Bhutto came to the U.S. to obtain arms to build what he called a "credible deterrent" against India. His appeal for arms was quietly turned down.

Only parts needed to maintain the weapons already in the Pakistani arsenal will be sent. Otherwise, U.S. aid will be limited to food and medical supplies.

Meanwhile, our Ambassador to India, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, has assured the Indian Government privately that the U.S. will not become a major arms supplier for Pakistan. He has also calmed Indian fears that U.S. arms might be shipped secretly to Pakistan through Iran.

The Nixon Administration, belatedly, is seeking to improve relations with India.

1934 Wiretap Scandal: Senate Watergate counsel Sam Dash has uncovered what he called one of the "most serious invasions of privacy in the country." This was a tap on the telephone terminals, believe it or not, of Supreme Court justices.

But the case goes back to 1934 — a Watergate-size scandal that has been hidden from the public for 40 years.

Dash has belatedly learned this much about the 1934 scandal: The Supreme Court was meeting on a giant commercial case involving millions. Apparently, one of the litigants hoped to learn how the justices would vote, so he could settle out of court if it looked as if he might lose.

With millions at stake, he apparently hired some expert tappers who holed up in a building near the Capitol and tapped in on the justices' phones. A squad of raiders from the Federal Communications Commission rushed into the building. But the tappers had fled moments earlier, leaving behind a freshly-lit cigarette and warm cups of coffee.

The FCC raiders were sworn to secrecy, and the tappers were never caught.

Costly Mistake: Both the consumers and the farmers are paying now for mistakes made by the large food retailing chains during the price freeze on beef. The supermarket chains feared a shortage, so they bought up cattle at high prices in order to keep meat in their stores.

Now with beef prices going down, the stores are stuck with cattle worth much less. Predictably, they decided to pass their business mistakes along to the consumers. The supermarkets have announced a rise in beef prices even while the market price is going down.

Safeway led the pack by decreeing a 10-cent, across-the-board rise in beef. Other chains have followed. The result: higher prices for the consumers and lower prices for the farmers.

The soaring meat prices have already resulted in a lot of meatless school lunches. Federal subsidies for school lunches are fixed and, therefore, can't keep up with the price increases. So across the country, school children are getting spaghetti, beans, pizzas and other low-cost meat substitutes.

Their parents, caught in the inflation squeeze, may be forced to do the same.

Social Security Foul-Up: The Social Security Administration has discovered from past surveys that at least two million of the nation's elderly, despite urgent need, are too proud to apply for welfare. These older folks prefer to struggle along with inadequate food, housing and medical care rather than endure the stigma of accepting welfare.

The Nixon Administration, therefore, took old-age assistance out of the welfare system and put it under social security. The changeover was supposed to ease the reluctance of many proud old people to apply for public assistance.

But the bureaucrats at the Social Security Administration, incredibly, plan to issue assistance payments next year not by regular government checks but by special checks. These checks will be a distinctive shade of brown, which will be easy to recognize. The assistance checks, therefore, will carry the same stigma that the Nixon Administration had sought to avoid.

My office asked the Social Security Administration the reason for the distinctive check color. The explanation was that the brown checks would make it easier for the bureaucrats to distinguish between social security and public assistance checks.

This is typical of the attitude of all too many government employees. They are supposed to serve the public, but they serve themselves first. They would rather make their own work easier by issuing distinctive checks than concern themselves about the sensibilities of two million old people.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

William Delahunt is sitting out this year's city election but he'll be back in '75.

Delahunt, according to close sources, is already planning a run for mayor two years from now.

He, of course, is surrendering his Ward 5 council seat and there had been speculation he would go for an at-large seat this year.

He might have done so, if there had been an open seat. But incumbent ward councillors don't usually run against incumbent at-large councillors.

For quite awhile, it looked like Council President Arthur Tobin might bow out, but nothing doing.

Delahunt would make a formidable mayoralty contender regardless of who else is in the race. He has voter appeal.

He proved that in his first run for Ward 5 four years ago when he missed upsetting then Ward 5 incumbent Walter Hannon by a handful of votes.

And, if you're wondering about Mr. Delahunt as far as state representative is concerned—YES—he definitely will seek re-election next year.

THE SPECULATION CORPS which likes to look ahead, already has its eye on next January when the new City Council will organize.

Arthur Tobin a candidate for re-election, at-large is a sure thing even his severest critic will concede.

But observers are wondering if he will attempt to keep the council presidency or step aside and let one of the other boys get to bang the gavel.

And if he doesn't step aside, will he have the necessary votes among the new councillors to hold onto the presidency?

He's now had the presidency for four consecutive years which is believed to be a local political record.

He, of course, is also a future mayoralty contender and no doubt would like to remain president to use that post as a springboard to the mayor's office.

Very interesting.

ONE OF THE Fire Department's most popular figures, Capt. Edward O'Connell will call it a career next month. Retiring after 35 years. He's C.O. of Engine B at Central Headquarters—the busiest crew in the department. Makes more runs than any other one.

ENTRANCE of Atty. Matthew McDonnell into the Ward 1 race brings a new face to the Quincy political arena. McDonnell, incidentally, is a law associate of former Lt. Gov. Francis Bellotti of Quincy. And Bellotti, they say, is giving serious thought to making a bid for attorney general next year.

SPEAKING OF FRESH faces, you may see another one in next year's political ring. Tom Williams, an attorney and realtor who owns the Tiffany Realty Company in Quincy Point, is seriously considering a bid for Clifford Marshall's state representative seat which the latter will vacate to run for sheriff next year.

FRANK McCAULEY, school committeeman and president Shipbuilders Cooperative Bank, easing back into action following surgery.

QUINCY ELKS planning a big turnout at the Edward Densmore Memorial Football game between Holy Cross and Colgate at Worcester, Oct. 13. The Massachusetts Elks Association established the annual event as a tribute to Eddie, past exalted ruler and long-time popular secretary of the Quincy Lodge.

QUINCY HISTORICAL SOCIETY has got to be one of the fastest growing organizations not only in Quincy but in the state. William O'Connell, first vice-president, has been recruiting new members left and right. He has just signed all seven members of the Board of Managers, City Cemetery Department. The board is headed by Heslip Sutherland, chairman of the Board of Quincy Co-Operative Bank. This brings the society's total membership to 781—up 300 over last year. That's real recruiting.

Members of the committee include Coleen Cheney, Mary Pitts, Janet Flynn and Patty DeAngelis, all of Quincy.

Consumer Corner

By ROBERT H. QUINN
Attorney General

Promises of substantial savings through bulk beef purchases are often "so much bull", according to investigators of Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn's Consumer Protection Division.

Some retail beef outfits promise more than they can deliver...and run afoul of the stringent consumer protection laws in the state.

In a recent court action, a Tewksbury beef company was restrained from making misrepresentations in its newspaper ads. The firm had advertised Select, Choice and Prime quality cuts at 89 cents to $1.89 a pound. One consumer who complained to Quinn's Lawrence office said the actual cost of the meat was $2.09 a pound.

The company also had promised a free ham to customers for opening an account in advance. When a local housewife asked for her free gift, no ham was available. Another lure of the firm was the offer of a discount of five cents a mile round trip on any beef purchased during its advertised sale. According to one consumer, the only hitch was he was told to make an additional trip to the company's place of business in order to obtain the discount.

To compound the situation, this firm advertised that it would sell as much as 113 pounds of meat on a time payment plan without charging interest. In fact, financing was arranged by the company at an annual interest rate of almost 17 per cent.

In addition to blatant misrepresentation, some companies rely heavily on the "bait and switch" game. The dealer will advertise a special on halves or quarters of beef at unbelievably low prices. When the customer goes to see the beef, he will be shown a low grade side or quarter, probably discolored, with plenty of excess fat. When he expresses his disappointment, he will be shown a much better cut at—naturally—a much higher cost.

Remember, meat sold in bulk includes bone and fat. It may be cheaper in the long run to investigate prices at your local supermarket and buy good quality meats in cuts you are familiar with. The guiding principle for all consumer transactions pertains especially to retail meat sales—be wary, and deal only with reputable firms.

Stephen Keefe Honored By Quincy Bar Assn.

Brig. Gen. Stephen T. Keefe was honored Wednesday night at the fall dinner meeting of the Quincy Bar Association at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Keefe, a past president of the association and a resident of Houghs Neck, was honored because of his recent promotion in the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

Keefe, a practicing Quincy attorney, is a former city solicitor.

Atty. Edward Libertine was chairman for the dinner meeting.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

"Tears...Tears...Tears"

One item which is used in my offices is facial tissue. People cry. Tears flow. Feelings are expressed ... often after being long repressed. Now in the counselor's office, without embarrassment or apology ... both men and women shed tears. I respect their tears. I try to understand what they indicate.

Of course some people have learned to use tears to manipulate people very early in life. Mothers and fathers have an aversion to hearing their children cry. So they often do whatever will stop the crying. The child learns that tears are powerful in "getting what I want". Fathers are especially vulnerable to the manipulation of that cute little daughter's tears. Some "little girls" continue to use their tears on their boy friends and husbands. "It worked with the first man in my life ... why not on these guys?" If the tears get them what they want, they continue to use them.

However ... all tears are not "used" purposely to control people. Many people who come to my offices have just held in ... endured the devastating relationship problems for so long that to open up now and pour out the feelings to the understanding counselor ... who does not condemn nor ridicule ... the feelings expressed both in words and tears can be great release of ANXIETY and TENSION.

Often I hear ... as with Edith ... "What's he trying to do to me ... I've come to the end of my rope ... I've thought of ending my life." The tears pushed with Edith's words of SELF-PITY.

She felt she had wasted 11 years with Ralph. There was practically no communication ... no resolving of daily problems together ... no happy sexual relationship ... no forgiveness and understanding ... no companionable affection and fun. If you don't have these things, what good is the marriage? Edith shed tears over her WASTED YEARS.

She also felt sorry for herself ... that she's gone so long taking abuse. Instead of "Why does he keep doing this to me?" ... (tears ... tears ... tears) "What does he want of me?" ... (tears ... tears ... tears) she began to say ... "Why am I allowing this rotten situation to go on and on and be victim of it?" Only then did the tears stop. Only then did Edith begin to think with the adult "woman" in her ... not with her "child" who had not adversity only with tears. Now she was learning to deal with the problem ... not just shed tears over it.

Tears which express joy or grief we can respect. Tears which are used to MANIPULATE people we cannot respect. Tears which show SELF-PITY are symptoms of one's need to learn better ways to love oneself and cope with life. All tears mean something.

What do your tears mean?

Abp. Williams Guild Holds Freshman Mothers' Tea

The annual Freshman Mothers' Tea sponsored by the Archbishop Williams Guild was held recently at the school in Braintree.

Traditionally this is the first social event of the Guild year and affords an opportunity for mothers of new students to get acquainted not only with each other, but with the faculty and officers of the Guild as well.

Mrs. Paul Kelly of Quincy, last year's president, and chairman of the tea, welcomed the group to the school family, and introduced Sister Catherine Looby, principal. Sister spoke about the Guild and the value of its work. Monies raised by the Guild have gone to many "extras" such as fluorescent lighting, newly paneled office space, carpeting, movable partitions, which are multi-purpose and are used for everything from fashion show dressing rooms to dividers for small study groups.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS He had affair with secretary

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst
Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

My husband had an affair with his secretary. I was terribly hurt, but have forgiven him because I love him so. Is there any hope that I can ever forgive this secretary or will I continue to hate her with a passion I didn't realize I possessed?

W.A.

Dear W.A.:

When you hate, you destroy ... you!

What a pity to destroy your own mental and physical well-being for such an unworthy cause.

Basically, you are a friendly person, versed in the formula for attracting others. You have all the tricks for all the plays for attention, seen in the long upswing endings on words.

Your desire for refinements, seen in the r's made like Greek e's, your artistic trend, seen in the overall evaluation of stroke combinations, and your pleasant disposition, could keep any man at home. But, you're "squeezing" your marriage for all it's worth. You expect to be your husband's only interest, his only thought, seen in the small loop on capital M. The green light in your eye keeps policing him because he's yours. And no man likes to be found out.

If you are willing to make an investment of attention, affection, and praise for your husband in proportion to what you expect from him, your marriage has a going chance.

Because there are consistent loops on the left side of your a's, there are second thoughts on how sincerely you have forgiven your "fallen angel."

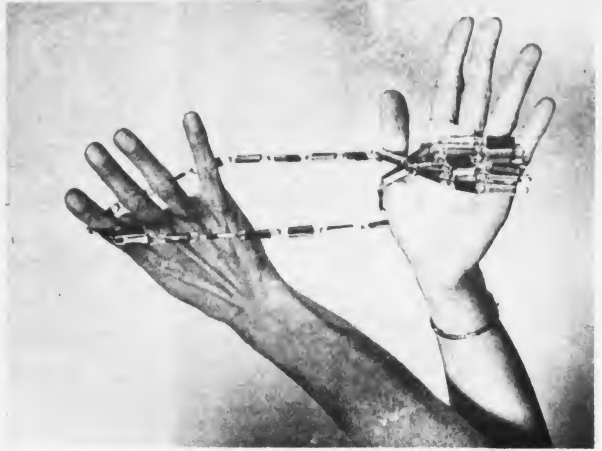

So, since a second affair is always easier to put into orbit because many of the original preliminaries can be eliminated, a prerequisite for your total success is:

That secretary's got to go!

'ROYAL JEWELRY' - Paper clips and bright bits of contact paper are used in making this necklace.

CHILD'S PLAY

'Gems' celebrate Columbus Day

By BUKOKER &
HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service
Columbus Day commemorates the date the explorer landed on San Salvador in 1492. The official date was Oct. 12, which is sometimes hard to remember now that the holiday is celebrated on a Monday so people can enjoy a three-day weekend.

Classroom plays and skits are a popular way of remembering the discovery of the New World, and so are home or backyard productions. There are many historical legends about those long-ago events. One scene, popular to depict, is how Columbus convinced the queen of Spain about the possibilities of his schemes. She is remembered for giving her crown jewels to finance that adventurous expedition.

You can enjoy making some "royal jewelry" either to wear or hide in a treasure chest, even if you aren't taking part in an actual play.

Though the results look far grander, two very common objects form the basis for the "precious metal and stones" you can soon assemble.

Ordinary paper clips are needed and bright bits of contact paper. Just cut out strips of the paper three quarters of an inch by a half inch in size before removing the protective backing. For a necklace such as illustrated, one box of a hundred clips will be sufficient.

First make the chain by looping one clip inside the other. When this is done, begin work with one piece of contact paper at a time. Peel off the backing, press the paper against the center of the clip, and then fold each edge over on the inside so they join at the opposite center. This will require a little time and patience, but it is easy to do, and the results quite "regal."

From a distance, especially, you will have a necklace that will look like silvery gems. It will glisten and shine in a manner worthy of a queen or to inspire a brave explorer.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Reactivate old projects which were put aside. Be your own press agent, let people know what you're doing. Enjoy an active social life now. Visiting the ill or shut-ins will benefit your outlook on life and bring joy.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Keep a level head in the midst of excitement involving you and your friends. Use practical judgment to sift the sense from the nonsense. Psychic impressions should be evaluated carefully for validity.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Now's the time to tie up the loose ends on many jobs of work left hanging fire. A possible partnership is worth working out the snarls to effect. Possibility of a new career opportunity — be alert. Keep harmony with mate.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Excellent time to upgrade your job skills — study and refine your efforts. Stay on your toes professionally. Adopt a common sense dietary regimen and avoid excesses in food and drink. Have fun on the weekend.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Be open and candid in discussions with mate or partner. Bring grievances out in the open for discussion. Use your sense of humor. Hard work invested in a project now will bring beneficial rewards at a later date. Heed intuition.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Possibility of arguments with mate over money. Control temper and reason things out. Drive heads up now and never when angry. Good time to redecorate your home. Romance could blossom this weekend.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Give gentle, considerate attention to children and their problems. Guard against tendency to get upset over trifles — curb temper. Settle problems at home with a family conference. Be patient, kind and understanding.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Be cautious about entering into new enterprise which promises instant wealth or prestige. Home base offers much joy now. A good time also to be with a special friend for a quiet dinner or country drive.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Stay on top of your responsibilities — avoid procrastination. Possibility of a business-pleasure trip which is resultful. Be discreet in affairs of the heart. Don't let the search for pleasure interfere with duties.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — You will be busy with various projects which need attention. Finances should improve somewhat. Re-read all important letters to be sure their meaning is clear before mailing them. Be discreet.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Pay attention to your own affairs as the spotlight is on you. Friends figure importantly now by being supportive and doing you favors. Your ability to put thoughts into writing is high lighted now.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Rely on intuition now and act on it. Project yourself for fulfillment of desires and potentials. Act independently. Start new projects, rework old concepts, be an innovator. Don't cling to the past — make new starts.

Guide to 'low life' gets big reception

A tourists' guide to the "low life" in Europe has gotten a big reception from the public. Put out by Pan American Airways, the booklet describes, among other things, where to find streetwalkers and what they're like. The booklets have suddenly become collectors' items. —

Seagull book enrages Chinese

The Chinese have accused Chiang Kai-shek of using the popular novel "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" in a propaganda war. The Chinese say Chiang is distributing the book, which tells the tale of a seagull who wants to fly better than other seagulls, in an effort to instill capitalistic values in youth. —

DON'T BE HALF SAFE

Not when you can be 100% safe with distilled water at home. Why continue to drink bad water? Distillation is the only way to remove all impurities from water. Use a stainless steel water distiller, and for only pennies a day you can have pure, distilled water right in your own home. They plug in like a toaster — no plumbing necessary. Distillation removes chlorine, harmful bacteria, rust, dirt, salts, pesticides, aluminum and mineral impurities. For more information send for literature and free Booklet by prominent doctor.

Barbecued Pork Chops—For All Seasons

Today is a great time to try Patio Pork Chops and discover how pork fits any taste! Americans now barbecue pork chops outdoors on the grill most months of the year. Whatever the season, it's important that the pork chops be cooked over a low heat, with adequate turnings and generous applications of barbecue sauce.

The National Pork Producer's Council reports that today's pork is a sound choice for good nutrition as well as good taste. It contains three times as much thiamin or Vitamin B₁ (nerve food) as any other food source and is a good source of all B vitamins. Pork also furnishes the mineral iron, vital in the formation and maintenance of red blood cells and the prevention of anemia.

With more protein, less fat and fewer calories, today's new pork is also more digestible—one of the most thoroughly utilized meats you can eat. Weight watchers and hospital patients no longer need to forego pork, as it contributes much to good health and a feeling of well-being.

Today's pork is produced for the most in nutrition and today's barbecue sauce is bottled for ease and convenience. A natural pair, barbecue sauce is pourable right from the bottle at cooking time, and simmers a delicious, spicy flavor right into the pork chops. Bottled barbecue sauce offers variety, too. Besides regular sauce, companies like Kraft Foods have introduced interesting flavors such as Hickory Smoke and Onion Bits. You'll find that Patio Pork Chops, like all pork dishes, take on even more flavor and versatility when you sauce to taste.

Patio Pork Chops
4 Pork Chops, 1-inch thick
1 cup Kraft Regular,
Onion Bits or Hickory
Smoke Flavored
Barbecue Sauce

Place chops on grill, 5 to 7 inches from coals. Grill 5 minutes over medium coals (coals will be ash covered and have a slight glow). Then, brush with barbecue sauce; grill 8 minutes. Turn chops. Continue grilling 10 to 15 minutes turning and brushing frequently with barbecue sauce.

4 servings.

Try this clever variation on the sandwich theme. Pour warm Log Cabin Fruited Syrup over filled waffles for a rich, full-bodied taste treat. So good for you and your budget and great for a quick luncheon main dish.

1 orange, sectioned and diced

Heat syrup to boiling. Add orange sections. Return to a boil. Serve warm. Makes 1½ cups.

Western Round-Up Salad

Californians are well known for introducing unique and interesting salad combinations. So get set for the Golden State's newest salad idea, "Husky Western Toss."

The salad's zesty flavor is enhanced by marinating mushrooms, Italian peppers and torn iceberg lettuce in an oregano-seasoned dressing. The marinade is drained, then more torn lettuce and tomato and cheese wedges are added. Result: Everything a hearty salad should be... crisp, colorful, zippy, appetizing and different!

Husky Western Toss

- | | |
|---|----------------------------------|
| 1 head western iceberg lettuce | 1 teaspoon salt |
| ½ cup sliced fresh mushrooms or 1 can (2 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained | 1 teaspoon oregano |
| ½ cup corn oil | 1 Italian pepper |
| 3 tablespoons wine vinegar | ¾ cup mild Cheddar cheese wedges |
| | 1 tomato, cut into wedges |

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce. Tear into bite-size pieces enough lettuce to equal 2 cups. Refrigerate remainder of head in disposable plastic bag or plastic "crisp-it." Mix mushrooms, oil, vinegar, salt, oregano and peppers in large jar or deep bowl. Add torn lettuce. Shake or mix well; marinate 1 hour. Drain, saving marinade. Tear refrigerated lettuce into bite-size pieces to make 3 cups. Toss with marinated mixture, cheese and half the tomato wedges in salad bowl. Garnish with remaining tomato wedges. Serve with reserved marinade.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Diet Workshop Open House

The Quincy Diet Workshop announces a new series of classes starting with a free Open House today [Thursday] at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. at Bethany Congregational Church, 18 Spear St., Quincy Center.

This group formerly met at the First Presbyterian Church on Franklin Street. The public is welcome to attend without obligation.

The Open House will provide an opportunity to see first hand why this method of losing weight has proved so successful. The liberal diet nutritionally balanced by Dr. Morton B. Glenn of New York - Medical Advisor to The Diet Workshop, has been combined with mild, optional exercises, good tasting recipes for the whole family, and the moral support of group participation.

Men, women and teenagers will be welcome to join at the conclusion of the Open House and at future meetings.

Featured speaker at the evening Open House will be Mrs. Marie O'Meara of Quincy, who lost 115 lbs in this program. Mrs. O'Meara, now a size 9 will discuss the diet, answer questions, and register new members.

For those who would like to try some of the low-calorie foods that members enjoy, free recipes are available upon request by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lea Allen, 118 Canton St., Randolph, MA 02368. More information may be obtained by calling 986-6160

Joseph LaRaia To Seek Re-election

Councillor at-large Joseph J. LaRaia announces his candidacy for re-election.

A graduate of Quincy schools, the former City Council President received a BS/BA degree in business and finance from Boston College. A veteran of the Korean War, LaRaia is employed as a Deputy Director in the Massachusetts Dept. of Public Welfare.

In announcing his re-election bid, LaRaia cited his "independent voting record" in the City Council. He noted he opposed construction of the South Quincy MBTA Station and the controversial School Administration Building - Physical Education complex. In addition he stressed he has constantly fought re-evaluation and re-assessment. LaRaia was also one of the leaders against the eight-ward redistricting plan.

LaRaia supported the North Quincy High School addition as a means of temporarily alleviating the overcrowded conditions at the school. He also supported the efforts of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association in building a privately funded hockey rink. LaRaia spoke at the State House and before the Boston City Council in favor of the county's acquisition of Wollaston Golf Course and the City's purchase of Squaw Rock. In addition he filed the City Council Order which allowed reassessed taxpayers to speak before the City Council.

"My constant concern the past two years has been to ease the tax burden of the already over-taxed homeowner," he said. "As the only City Councillor with a finance background, I have led the opposition to costly and wasteful propositions. At the same time I have supported programs which are vitally necessary for improving the quality of life for all our residents."

Tickets On Sale For Heleotis Fund Concert

Tickets will go on sale this week for a pops concert by the Morrisette Symphonic Band Oct. 15 in the Sons of Italy Social Center for the benefit of the Philip Heleotis Fund.

The fund is a continuing campaign to raise money for the rehabilitation of Philip [Tiny] Heleotis, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Heleotis of 35 Hilltop St., West Quincy, who suffered a paralyzing injury in a swimming pool mishap last July.

The Morrisette band, under the direction of John Falcone, will play many old favorites, including selections from the works of Jimmy McHugh, the Student Prince and Gilbert and Sullivan's Pirates of Penzance.

Tickets, at $1 per person, are available from Mrs. Eleanor Woodward and Mrs. Doris Perkins, members of the committee, and also at the door of the concert hall.

Vocalists for the evening will be Jean Green, Nancy Hurley, Pauline Labege, Ann DeGrassie, Edward Boland and two youngsters, Pauline Marie Labege and Julie Ann Hurley.

There will also be a drawing held at the concert.

Brownell Urges Tide Gate At Post Island

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has appealed to the Mayor's office for a tide gate to close a breach in the sea wall in the Post Island section of Houghs Neck to prevent a possible tidal flooding catastrophe.

Brownell informed Joseph Shea, the Mayor's executive secretary, in a letter that the tide gate was supposed to have been installed more than a year ago, shortly after the area was inundated during a storm in February, 1972.

"We are now approaching the storm season," he wrote, "and I am fearful that the entire Post Island area will be flooded with the first storm."

Conservation Commission Rejects Plover Rd. Filling

The Quincy Conservation Commission has ruled that a wetland adjacent to 17 Plover Rd. in Adams Shore cannot be filled or altered because of the lack of adequate provisions for drainage.

The Notice of Intent to fill, under provisions of the Wetlands Protection Act, was filed by Harold D. Williams of 99 Elmwood Park, Wollaston, for Mrs. Stella M. Johnson of 17 Plover Rd.

Williams has the right of appeal to the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources.

Adams Birthplaces Open Over Holiday Weekend

The Adams Birthplaces will be open to the public over the holiday weekend, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Oct. 6, 7 and 8.

Although the two little red farmhouses on Franklin Street in South Quincy were scheduled to close for the season Sept. 30, the Quincy Historical Society which operates the historic houses decided on the additional weekend to accommodate late season visitors.

The visitor records for the season have not yet been analyzed, but the season has been an active one in spite of much unfavorable weather. Totals are expected to run close to those of the previous year.

Ground Broken In N.Q. For New Granite Co-operative Headquarters

Ground was broken Monday in North Quincy for construction of the new headquarters of Granite Co-operative Bank.

The new two-story structure will be erected at 440 Hancock St., site of the former bank building.

Now in its 20th year, the bank will occupy quarters in the new modern 17,600 square foot building during the spring of 1974.

While construction is taking place the bank will continue to do business daily in a special temporary office immediately adjacent to 440 Hancock St.

According to Julian Borowko, chief architect, the building is designed to blend with the "esthetic character" of the area and the unique brick facing will carry through a traditional New England theme.

"The entire front footage of the building will embody a brick plaza with appropriate landscaping from the building front to the street," he said.

The present sidewalk will be removed in order to install the brick plaza.

Bernard C. Cohen, president of the Granite Co-op, indicated the bank will have drive-in window capabilities in the new building. He also said the structure will be situated so as to add 46 convenient parking spaces next to the building.

The Granite Co-operative Bank maintains a branch office in downtown Quincy at 100 Granite St. opposite Turnstyle.

ACCIDENTAL POISONING

It is estimated that in the coming year, 500,000 children will accidentally ingest poisonous or potentially poisonous substances. Ninety percent of all cases involve children under 5 years of age. Substances that most frequently cause such harm are medicines and household preparations, including cleaning fluids, insect sprays, lighter fluid, and some furniture polishes as well as turpentine, kerosene, paints, and solvents and products containing lye and acids. Aspirin is still the leading item involved in childhood poisonings.

And don't depend on your ability to watch the toddler as an effective poison preventative. It is shocking that 95% of poisonings of children under five occur while they are under the supervision of parents or other responsible adults. Be aware of the hazards and keep them out of the reach of children.

Atty. Dennis Harrington Ward 6 Candidate

Atty. Dennis E. Harrington of 211 Billing St., North Quincy announces his candidacy for the Ward 6 City Council seat.

Harrington, who has law offices at 4 Maple St., Quincy, has been an Assistant District Attorney in Norfolk County since June, 1968. He served, as coordinator, in charge of the introduction of Assistant District Attorneys into the Criminal Justice System of five district courts throughout Norfolk County. Harrington is currently assigned to the Quincy District Court.

In announcing his candidacy, he said: "The office of Ward Councillor is one that can and must be a direct and open line of communication by which the citizen may reach all the departments of city government.

"It is crucial that city government respond to the needs of the people as expressed by them. The citizens of Ward 6 must, through their input to the ward councillor, structure and mold the policy decisions that are to be made with regard to their neighborhoods. It is therefore essential that the Ward 6 City Councillor be the voice of the citizens he represents at City Hall."

Harrington listed the plight of the elderly, the overtaxed homeowner, re-evaluation, community schools, the proper planning of development, and the protection and improvement of residential neighborhoods, as areas of great concern which must and can be controlled by the citizens through their elected representatives.

A graduate of St. Peter's School and Christopher Columbus High School, Attorney Harrington received his A.B. degree from Boston College before earning his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from Boston University. He has continued actively in furthering his education and that of Boston University law students as courtroom instructor at the Dedham Superior Court.

He was appointed a Special Assistant Attorney General by the then Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson and is presently an Assistant Attorney General under Robert H. Quinn.

He said his realization of soaring drug abuse in the community and his concern led to his becoming a founding director of and legal counsel to The Massachusetts Drug Advisory Council.

Harrington is a member of the Quincy and Massachusetts Bar Associations, Massachusetts District Attorney's Association, Quincy Lodge of Elks, North Quincy Knights of Columbus, Montclair Men's Club and the Quincy Citizens Association.

He is an elected member of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee and the Democratic City Committee; and has also been elected a member of the Parish Council of Sacred Heart Church in North Quincy. He formerly served as a high school CCD instructor at Sacred Heart.

He is married to the former Ellen Boyd of North Quincy and they have six children: Dennis, 11; Pamela, 9; Christopher, 8; Patrick, 4; Elizabeth, 3; and Sarah, 2.

Arthur DiPietro Active For United Way As Labor Liaison

Many people believe that the United Way of Massachusetts Bay is busy and active only during its fall campaign each year.

"Far from it," says Arthur DiPietro, the United Way's labor liaison representative in Quincy.

Arthur is busily engaged in United Way activities and those of its agencies on the South Shore every day of the year.

Arthur, also AFL-CIO Community Services Representative on the South Shore, not only visits many industrial plants and factories, but serves also as the United Way's adviser and liaison for many people, helping them with a variety of problems ranging from family matters to financial difficulties.

Arthur meets two or three times weekly with men at the General Dynamics plant in Quincy "to talk or to listen to the workers. Many of the men have a problem that requires help from one of the 209 agencies in the United Way." Arthur directs them or, if necessary, particularly in the cases of veterans, takes them to such agencies.

When many of the companies on Route 128 either closed or cut back on staff two years ago, several of the displaced men came to Arthur for help.

One young man, 34 years old, had never been confronted with such problems. "He didn't know what it was like to be in need," Arthur said.

This young man had graduated from high school and college, his father had always had a good job. Shortly after getting married and starting a career he was soon in the $18,000 a year salary bracket. He had two cars and had bought a house. When he suddenly lost his engineering job he didn't know where to turn. He suffered a nervous breakdown and spent six months at Medfield State Hospital.

Hearing of the young man's plight Arthur directed him to United Way agencies for counseling and advice, following his release from hospital. Through agency assistance and Arthur's guidance he is now back with his family and working once more.

Arthur often receives calls for help for labor representatives. "These calls can be one of 1,000 things," he stated.

A call, for example, might be from a mother of four young children whose husband has left her. "What can I do?" she asks of Arthur. In such an instance, he says, "I work with the young mother and help her to try to help herself by directing her to agencies who can help."

"Many cases which come to me require the services of the Visiting Nurse Association, The Family Service Agency or the Homemaker Service. Helping people cannot be done overnight, but with the help, advice and counselling of these agencies, thousands of unfortunate people have had their situations greatly improved."

Veterans, many of whom work at Raytheon, General Dynamics and other South Shore plants, often require assistance. They seek direction and help from DiPietro on how to apply for Legal Aid or Veterans Services.

Arthur in addition to his many other duties, has for the past eight years conducted a Union counseling course.

The 8-week course is sponsored jointly by the United Way of Mass. Bay and the Norfolk County Labor Council "to acquaint people with the United Way agencies."

Throughout the course agency representatives talk with participants, who are given explanations of the services available and are taught the procedures necessary for availing themselves of those services.

The course concludes each year with graduation exercises and a recognition dinner attended by Quincy city officials and representatives of the United Way and its various agencies.

Warren Powers Ward 5 Candidate

Asst. Dist. Atty. Warren A. Powers of 3 Grand View Terrace, one of the founders of the Massachusetts Drug Advisory Council, has announced his candidacy for the City Council from Ward 5.

Powers, who maintains a law office at 339 Hancock St., is a graduate of Quincy High School, Suffolk University and Law School and did graduate work at the Boston University Legal-Medical Institute.

He is a member of the Massachusetts and Norfolk

County Bar Associations, the Massachusetts District Attorneys Association, the Montclair Men's Club, the Quincy Lodge of Elks, the Knights of Columbus and the Wollaston Park Association.

Married to the former Holly L. Grazioso of Wollaston, he is a lifelong resident of Ward 5 and served the U.S. Army's 187th Support Battalion.

Under redistricting, Powers' Ward 5 is made up of six precincts taken from the old Ward 5. They are 5-1, 5-7 [now 5-2], 5-3, 5-4, 5-5, and 5-9 [now 5-6].

Thomas Mullaney Seeks School Committee Seat

J. Thomas Mullaney, 38, of 115 Standish Ave., Wollaston announces his candidacy for School Committee.

He is seeking the office, he said, because:

"I am a parent interested in education and because I am a taxpayer worried about the rising tax rate. I want to give the children of Quincy the best education that we can afford. However I recognize that a city is basically a business and we can only afford so much for education.

"As an interested citizen I have attended most of the School Committee meetings for the last three years. I have come to understand the duties and responsibilities that go with this office. I feel this would allow me to be an effective school committeeman immediately.

"As chairman of the School Building Needs Committee I am very familiar with the North Quincy High situation. The school is overcrowded and the facilities are antiquated for use as a modern day high school. North Quincy High could lose its accreditation unless permanent steps are taken to totally renovate and expand the existing site or to build a new school.

"The School Committee sets down the policies and philosophies that guide the educational lives of every student in the school system."

Mullaney attended Quincy Public Schools, graduating from Quincy High School 1952, Bentley School of Accounting and Finance [nights] 1952 to 1957, Northeastern University [nights] 1958 to 1966, graduating with a B.S. in Business Management, with honors.

He has been employed by Polaroid Corp., Finance Department 14 years and is a senior cost analyst in the Film Division, Waltham.

He is chairman of the School Building Needs Committee, treasurer Quincy Citizens Association, member Montclair Men's Club, Sigma Epsilon Rho Honor Society - Northeastern University and Concerned Parents of North Quincy High.

He served in the army, is married and the father of two.

TRAIL DESIGNER — Charles J. Phelan of Wollaston Boy Scout Troop 20 makes a final check of the nature trail he designed for the Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman Park in Wollaston. The trail, first in Quincy, will be opened Oct. 14.

At Grossman Park

First Interpretive Nature Trail To Open

The first interpretive nature trail in Quincy will be opened Oct. 14 in the Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman Park at the corner of Quincy Shore Drive and Fenno Street, Wollaston.

It's the first move in a plan to make the 40-acres of marsh and upland more accessible to the public for passive recreation use.

The trail, on which types of vegetation are marked, was designed and developed by Charles J. Phelan of 26 Kemper St., Wollaston, a member of Boy Scout Troop 20, as part of his work toward an Eagle Scout Award.

The first annual Commemoration Program opening the trail will begin at 2 p.m., Oct. 14, at the park. In case of rain, it will be held in the Beechwood Knoll School auditorium.

Guest speaker will be Bruce S. Gullion, director of the State Division of Forests and Parks and a conservationist of 20 years service with the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources.

Other speakers include Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Chairman Joseph E. Burke of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, former Mayor James R. McIntyre, Harold S. Crowley of the Quincy Conservation Commission, and Nissie Grossman, chairman of the board of Grossman's.

Any Suggestions?

Parking Real Space Problem On Earth

By CINDY D'ICENSO

As most adults are aware, finding a parking space especially when you're in a hurry can be a real problem.

The students at Quincy High School are finding this a serious problem also.

Where can we park? Well, we have a few options:

- The Vo-Tech parking lot, from which my car already has been stolen, has a reputation for making a new car a used car in a matter of hours.

- The faculty parking lot, where you face the risk of having your car towed because it is illegally parked.

- The street where you must run outside every hour to put a dime in the meter. Should you be late, you might find a ticket which would cost a lot more than the 60 cents a day meter cost.

- The Quincy Junior College parking lot, which is severely overcrowded and which mysteriously lets air out of non-students tires.

TRYING TO FIND a spot to park your car at Quincy High School has become a king size problem as you can see here.

- Behind the Court House seems like a good place for students to park, but for some reason they aren't allowed to. Could someone explain why?

If you have any suggestions please let us know.

Lunches Going Up

Inflation Hits School Cafeteria

By LOUISE FABRIZIO

Inflation has struck not only gas stations and super markets but also the students in school.

Last April the school committee approved a raise in the school lunches of five cents. While last year the main dish was 30 cents, this year it is 35 cents. Milk prices also have been raised, selling now for 10 cents.

Did you know that sometime in the future the cost of school lunches could actually rise to 60 cents? Many students do not realize it but it costs this much to produce the lunch which is sold for 35 cents. The main dish is designed to give the student one third of his recommended daily nutritional need, at a price everyone can afford.

Inflation is the main reason for the rise in prices but another big problem is getting the government to give larger subsidies. The federal government now subsidizes eight cents and the state government six cents for the main dish. There is little hope that an increase will be made in the 14 cent subsidy right now, so we may see a dramatic rise in the school lunch costs.

Luxury At Last . .

The New Auditorium

By GAYLE ROSENBLATT

A major innovation was added at QHS to benefit the individual in a different type of atmosphere.

This modern designed auditorium consists of multiple divided rooms with air-conditioning, carpeting and warm coloring.

Basically, the new auditorium is designed for students who work independently on different subjects.

A recent poll has been conducted to determine the response to the auditorium. The student body in general seem to agree that this type of environment has created an excellent atmosphere for learning.

However, some students feel that they are often listening to another class while trying to concentrate on their own subject.

There is also occasional overcrowding, but in spite of these criticisms, the system seems to encourage the teacher as well as the student to learn in a more effective way.

HSSP At M.I.T.

By ANN CRONIN

The High School Studies Program at MIT (HSSP) started in 1956 with the concept of new ideas in teaching and learning.

It has expanded to the second largest voluntary, supplementary High School Education Program in the USA. HSSP attempts to give high school students an opportunity to learn what they want to and college students experience in teaching. HSSP practices cooperative/management in which teachers and students run the program.

New Ideas In Teaching, Learning

Interesting courses in science, humanities, mathematics, social studies, programming and other areas are available and a friendly atmosphere that includes classroom and social activities gives you the flexibility needed to build your own educational experience.

Full term registration will be held Saturday Oct. 6 and 13 at 9 a.m. inside the main entrance of MIT at 77 Massachusetts Ave. in Cambridge. The cost is $4 for 10 weeks of classes which are held on Saturdays.

Jeffrey LaPointe To Seek School Committee Seat

Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe of 11 Hughes St., South Quincy, announces his candidacy for the School Committee.

LaPointe is a practicing trial attorney in the law firm of Powers & LaPointe, whose offices are located at 339 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Attorney LaPointe formerly served as a labor economist for the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington, D.C. and as a VISTA and staff attorney with the Office of Economic Opportunity Legal Services Program. He is currently an Assistant District Attorney in Norfolk County whose duties include the financial administration of the LEAA District Court Prosecutors' Program.

LaPointe is an elected member of the Board of Directors of the South Quincy Civic Association, the Ward Three Democratic Committee and the Quincy Democratic City Committee. He is a member of the Quincy, Norfolk, Massachusetts and American Bar Associations.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, LaPointe graduated from Boston College in 1966 with a Bachelor of Science in Economics and from the Georgetown University Law Center, Washington, D.C., in 1969 with a Juris Doctor degree.

LaPointe said the overcrowding at North Quincy High School, implementation of the community schools concept throughout the city of Quincy, a new determination of school policy in balancing the competing financial interests of the Quincy taxpayer, and the expansion of the Vocational-Technical School Program to meet the educational needs of non-college bound students will be some of the major areas of concern for the newly-elected School Committee.

He is married to the former Elaine Bullock and they are the parents of one daughter.

First Parish Church To Provide Bus Transportation To Sunday Services

United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., will inaugurate "door-to-door" bus service Oct. 7 for anyone interested in attending the 10:45 a.m. service at "The Church of the Presidents".

Available for people who live in Quincy, the service is offered for children and young people as well as adults since church school classes are also held at 10:45 a.m.

Commenting on the initiation of this new aspect of the church program, Rev. John R. Graham, minister, said, "We feel that transportation is a serious problem for many people today and we want to do what we can to help."

The bus service is the result of a two-Sunday experiment last Spring. At that time, those using the temporary service were asked if they would like it to continue on a regular basis. "The response was overwhelmingly in favor of the church providing transportation," said Rev. Graham.

Anyone wanting a ride is asked to call the Church office, 773-1290, by Friday afternoon of any week.

are invited. The meeting is open to the public without charge.

There will be a supper preceding the meeting at 7 p.m. for which there are a limited number of places reserved for students at a reduced price. Those wishing to make reservations for the supper are asked to contact either Miss Eleanor G. Brown, 59 Andrews Rd., Mrs. Viola M. Ellis, 18 Terne Rd., or Miss Vera Call, 1000 Southern Artery, all of Quincy, before Oct. 8.

Russian Studies from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, where he is now a Doctoral candidate. He has initiated many new activities for the United Nations Association of Greater Boston.

On this 29th year of the series the meetings will begin one-half hour later than in previous years, making it easier for those from other communities in the South Shore area to reach Quincy. All College and secondary school students interested in international affairs

Speaker will be John Mroz, Executive Director of the United Nations Association of Greater Boston. Mroz has two Master's Degrees, one from Northeastern University in International Relations and another M.A. in

Mrs. Francis Pitts To Be Honored As Citizen Of The Year

The Quincy Jewish War Veterans will honor Mrs. Frances H. Pitts as its 23rd "Citizen of the Year" at Beth Israel Synagogue, 33 Grafton St., Quincy Point, Sunday morning Nov. 4, at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Pitts, executive director of the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, Inc. will be recognized for her leadership in supporting the development of health education.

Mrs. Pitts has a master's degree in public health, and since 1956 has been a part-time instructor in health education at the Harvard School of Public Health. In the same year, she was employed as Director of Health Education by the Norfolk County Association and promoted to her present position in 1960.

Past Commander Irving Isaacson and Past Commander Allen Kofman are co-chairmen. Ralph Paul is commander of the Post.

'Meet The Mayor' Friday At First Parish Church

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, will meet with local citizens Friday at 10:30 a.m. at the United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

The program, sponsored by the church's Council on Aging, is designed to give the people of Quincy an opportunity to meet personally with Mayor Hannon so that they can express their ideas and have him answer questions on a one-to-one basis.

"We believe that it's essential for people to talk directly to city officials," said Rev. John R. Graham, minister. "In a city of our size, there just aren't enough opportunities to get together with the officials who guide the destiny of the community."

The Friday morning session is open to the public. It will begin with a coffee hour.

The church's Council on Aging, headed by Miss Bernice Barrett and Mrs. Fred Johnson, was begun last Spring in an effort to help meet the needs of older people in the community and the church. Current projects including the preparation of a directory of services will be helpful to older Quincy Citizens.

St. Margaret's Explorer Post To Meet On Oct. 9

The first meeting of the St. Margaret's Hospital Explorer Post will be held Oct. 9 at 3:30 p.m. in the Board Room of the Hospital, 90 Cushing Ave., Dorchester.

Greg Sophis, president, and Joseph Ring, vice-president, both of Quincy, said:

"This first meeting will set the theme for the year's activities. The frequency of meetings, subjects to be presented and other notes of interest to new and old members alike will be discussed."

Last year was the first year the Explorers met at the hospital and the success of the program prompted continuation.

Explorers are young men and women of high school age who meet at the hospital for lectures, tours, discussion and guidance in selecting a career in the health care field. The meetings serve as an opportunity to acquaint these young people with the various careers held by many within the walls of the hospital.

Any young man or woman interested in the health field as a career opportunity is invited to join with the Explorers for this first meeting. A representative of the Explorers Organization as well as hospital advisors will be present to discuss the program in detail.

Raiders Host Malden

Frazier Hopes To Put End To Frustration

North Quincy Football Coach Ralph Frazier thought he had a frustrating afternoon two weeks ago at Revere but last Saturday at Weymouth it was the same story, only more so.

Frazier's Raiders pushed Weymouth North all over the field but had to be satisfied with a 6-6 tie thanks to a fluke Weymouth touchdown with only 28 seconds to play.

The North coach hopes his frustrations will come to an end Saturday when the Raiders open their home season with a Greater Boston League game against Malden at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m.

Saturday's opponent has lost two straight non-league decisions, 16-0 to Waltham and last week 28-0 to Haverhill.

"I just don't know what to say after this game," Frazier said. "We completely outplayed them throughout but three fumbles and a costly penalty hurt us. They didn't get a first down until midway in the third period and that was on a pass. It is a shame to dominate a game like we did and get nothing more than a tie."

With North leading, 6-0, and 28 seconds remaining, a Weymouth pass was deflected by a North defender and grabbed by a Weymouth receiver, who scored the tying touchdown.

Weymouth did not threaten seriously until that last-ditch play.

North had taken the lead in the opening period when an intercepted pass set up a 40-yard drive and John Flynn, outstanding halfback, scored.

Three promising North Quincy drives were halted by fumbles, all recovered by the alert Weymouth defense. Another good march was thwarted by a penalty.

"Our whole defense did a tremendous job," Frazier said. "The line, the linebackers and secondary all did their jobs well. Ron Frizzell was outstanding as he intercepted two passes and recovered a fumble and George Hill blocked a field goal attempt."

Frazier also singled out Flynn and Bruce Stephansky for their running and quarterback Carl Leone for another big effort.

"Mark Reale made one of the greatest catches I've seen while on his stomach," he concluded.

Quincy, North Clash Today In Crucial Meet

Today's game between the Quincy and North Quincy soccer teams at Quincy's field behind Veterans Memorial Stadium could go a long way toward deciding the Norfolk Association championship.

Although the season is still young, the two rivals are rolling merrily along and the lone team up with them in the standings is B.C. High, only team to top

North and which played Quincy Tuesday.

Going into Tuesday's games [Quincy at B.C. High and Norfolk Aggies at North Quincy], Quincy's defending champions had stretched their three-year unbeaten streak to 29 games. They had a 4-0-1 record, winning four in a row after an opening day tie, while the Raiders were 4-1-0, also winning four straight after an opening day loss to B.C. High.

Quincy Coach Ron Martin, in his sixth year as coach, won his 50th game a week ago, 10-1, over Avon, and was presented a trophy by his players. Ron has many ties during this time as he has compiled an enviable record.

Quincy's Massimo Ranalli set a team record with five goals and played only in the first half.

Earlier in the week Quincy and a sighting-in certificate is issued each hunter.

Vlassakis will be assisted by Assistant Chief Range Officer Edward M. Long of Braintree, and other club range officers.

Other officers are Vice-President Edward R. Elmo of Weymouth, Secretary Edgar A. Scannell of South Boston and Treasurer Richard S. Hamilton of Braintree.

nipped Franklin, 1-0, on Steve Ranalli's goal with Tony Michaelangelo assisting. Goalie Mike Cullen continued to shine for the Presidents.

Coach Lou Ioanilli's North booters won their fourth in a row, 2-0, over Sharon, last Saturday.

Earlier in the week the Raiders had toppled Avon, 4-0, as Dave Sullivan scored two goals and Steve Miller and Jerry Glynn one each. Assists went to Miller, Jed Phalen, Jim Mullaney and Sullivan.

Hunter Sighting-In Set At Braintree Rifle Club

Kenneth E. Yoerger, president of the Braintree Rifle and Pistol Club announces "Hunter Sighting-In Days", have been set.

The program will operate from noon until dusk on Sundays, Oct. 7, 14, 21 and 28. The Braintree Rifle and Pistol Club is located on Liberty St., Braintree, near the D.A.V. Hall.

This program provides an opportunity for any individual in the area to sight-in his rifle before going hunting.

Chief Range Officer Charles J. Vlassakis, of Quincy, is director of the program which is sponsored by the National Rifle Association.

N. R. A. certified rifle instructors will be available to assist hunters in sighting-in their rifles. All firearms are checked for safe operation prior to firing.

St. Joseph's Hockey Tryout

The St. Joseph's Hockey League will hold a practice-tryout Wednesday night Oct. 10 at 10 p.m. at the Shea MDC Rink, West Quincy.

Anyone over 18 years of age may participate for a $2 skating fee. All of last year's players should attend and it is emphasized that this league is strictly for "amateurs" — those who just enjoy playing hockey.

Presidents Bombed, 21-0

Conroy Plans Lineup Changes At Everett

By TOM SULLIVAN

There will be some changes on the Quincy football team Saturday when the Presidents travel to Everett seeking its first win of the year.

The kickoff for the Greater Boston League game at Everett Stadium will be at 1:30 p.m.

The Presidents, following a last second 8-7 loss to Weymouth South the week before in a non-league game, found the highly publicized Joe Festa to be all he is cracked up to be as they dropped a 21-0 decision to Revere in their League opener Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"Revere is a good solid club and looks like a serious contender for the league championship, but we should have done better," Coach Hank Conroy said. "The long pass on which they scored the first touchdown came on a mixup on defense and it should never have been completed. We moved the ball much better than in our opening game but we still have to do better on offense.

"I'll use more juniors in the future and will continue to give junior Jim Forrester more work at quarterback and use Robin Carrera mainly on defense."

Carrera played the entire Weymouth South game as quarterback and the first half last week but had trouble moving the ball. He was thrown for losses three of the six times he carried and, although he completed four of eight passes, they went for only 15 yards, as one lost six yards and one went for only two yards.

Early in the second half Conroy put Forrester, last year's sophomore quarterback, into the game and he moved the team well. He hit on three of eight southpaw passes for 41 yards and just missed on two other well-thrown long passes.

"Carrera is an outstanding defensive back and prefers to play on defense," Conroy explained. "I'll use him mainly there now and go with Forrester at quarterback on offense. Carrera played another excellent game on defense against Revere. Wayne Ponder and Preston Carroll continued to run well for the Presidents and Conroy singled out Jim French for his work both ways. Dave Sten for his two-way performance after being out sick for three days, and Fred Donahue on offense.

Revere's outstanding runner, Festa, who scored three touchdowns and gained 152 yards in 14 carries the previous week in a win over North Quincy, added 136 yards on 12 carries, including touchdown runs of 69 and 24 yards. His running mate, Tony Belmonte, also continued to sprint well.

Quincy got a big break on the opening kickoff when Belmonte, nearly going all the way [he had broken open the North game with an 80-yard kickoff return to start the second half] fumbled as he crossed mid-field and the Presidents recovered on their 45.

With Carroll, Ponder and Danny McDermott carrying, Quincy went all the way to Revere's 19 with two first downs but a costly 15-yard penalty halted the drive and Revere took over on its 18 following a short Kim Derbes punt.

The Patriots drove to Quincy's 47 and Ron Santolucito hit big end Bob DeCristoforo with a 47-yard touchdown pass, DeCristoforo racing 30 yards for the score. Joe DiPlatzi kicked the point.

Quincy was held after the kickoff and Revere took over on its 28 after a good Derbes punt. On the second play Festa reached through the right side untouched and galloped 69 yards for the score. DiPlatzi again kicked the point.

Quincy put on another good drive, picking up four first downs and reaching Revere's 26 but the Patriots held fast.

The Presidents continued to move the ball well as the second half opened but couldn't come up with the big play. Midway in the third quarter Revere's DeCristoforo fell on a Quincy fumble on the Quincy 24 and on the first play Festa went all the way and DiPlatzi added the final point.

Revere out-rushed Quincy, 185 net yards to 89 but threw only two passes with the one touchdown completion. Quincy picked up 56 yards through the air and had 12 first downs to seven for Revere.

Everett will be after its second GBL win, opening with a 22-6 victory last week over Somerville. It dropped a 13-10 non-league verdict to Newton the previous week.

Milne-Klein Team Wins National Lawn Bowls Title

Almost unnoticed last week, John Milne and Al Klein flew out to the West Coast and brought a national championship home to Quincy.

They teamed to squeeze out a 19-18 victory over a team from Gary, Ind., to capture the National Lawn Bowls title in a six-team round robin tournament that ended three days of competition Sept. 26 in San Francisco.

The Milne-Klein team, which won the eastern championship in Quincy last spring, won four of its five games en route to the crown. Three other teams had records of three wins and two losses.

They defeated teams from San Francisco, 14-13, and Tacoma, Wash., 34-4, lost to Los Angeles, 26-12, and beat Orlando, Fla., 21-18, to set up the final against Gary, which had also won three games.

The Quincy duo fell behind 12-6 at the midway mark, then rallied to take the one-point victory and the title.

There are no more worlds for the Milne-Klein team to conquer, although there is a world championship tournament held every three years. It's an invitational affair based on consistency over a period of years.

Milne, a veteran bowler, is the skip [or captain] of the team. "I'm still a rookie," said Klein. "I've only been bowling 10 years."

Quincy's sophomore football team had fantastic success under Dave Burke with five unbeaten seasons in the last seven years.

This fall Burke was moved up as varsity assistant to replace Gene Macomber and the sophs are starting where they left off under Dave as Mark Conroy, son of head coach Hank Conroy, takes over the reins.

In their first two games the young Presidents defeated Scituate, 14-0, and Medford, 10-0.

Pee Wee A's Rack Up Easy Wins, 8-2, 11-1

The Quincy Pee Wee "A" team served notice that it is the team to beat in the Bay Colony Hockey Association with a pair of one-sided victories over Brockton and Milton in the league openers at Hingham.

Bobby Hayes netted a pair of goals and assisted on three others as the Pee Wees bombed Brockton, 8-2, in the first game of the new season Tuesday [Sept. 25].

Kevin McGrath had the three goal hat trick plus an assist. Tommy Brennan had a goal and three assists and Brian MacGilvary added a goal and two assists in an 11-1 swamping of Milton Saturday [Sept. 29].

The other goals against Brockton were scored by Ed Marella, Leo Doyle, Robbie Craig, Johnny Mullin, Mark Messina and Eddie Kane.

Assists went to Paul McDermott, Paul McGrath, Craig, Mullin, Messina, and Kane.

Brian Norton, Scott Richardson, Mike Furey, Marella, Craig and Kane found the nets for Quincy in the Milton rout.

Furey, Craig, McDermott and Norton also had assists.

●Executive League

Tolson In Hat Trick As Gold Team Wins, 9-1

Marty Tolson had the three goal hat trick and Jim Cunniff added a pair more as the Gold Team walloped the Red Team, 9-1, in Executive Hockey League action at the new Quincy Youth Hockey Rink.

Jim Sullivan, Dick O'Brien, Tom Roberts and Joe Ryan got the other Gold goals with assists credited to Bill Flanders, Frank McAuliffe and Sullivan, two each; and Bill Lewis and Roberts, one apiece.

Dick Reinhardt had the lone Red goal, unassisted.

The Green Team matched pace with the Golds at the top of the league with a 5-1 win over the Blue Team, with Bernie Toland, Bob Watts and Jay Craig each getting a goal and an assist. Joe Chase and Bucky Zanardelli had the other goals and Bob O'Connell and Jack Masseso had assists.

Ken White scored the only Blue goal.

Andrews Scores 4 As Bantam B's Win

John Andrews, a defenseman converted into a center, fired four goals Saturday to lead the Quincy Bantam "B" team to a 7-1 victory over Franklin in the opener of the Bay Colony Hockey Association season.

Duff Scores 2 As Squirt B's Win, 8-1

Kevin Duff tallied two goals and an assist and Mike McNiece added two more goals as the Quincy Squirt "B" team

Dave Peters and Don Perdios each had a goal and an assist and John Fitzgerald got the seventh goal in the triumph.

Mike Storer chalked up three assists, Jimmy Moore two and Jim McConville a singleton.

walloped Holbrook, 8-1, in a non-league contest Saturday [Sept. 29] at Squantum.

Johnny Toland, Richie

In the final Exhibition game, Quincy bowed to Weymouth, 2-1, with the winning goal coming in the last six seconds of play.

Paul Cooney had the Quincy score, assisted by Rich Carnali and Storer.

Stevens, Kevin Ryan and Johnny Cummings had the other goals while Danny Boyle and Paul McCabe each had two assists and Brian Sullivan one.

Cahill, Shea, Kelly, Bertoni Pace Bantam A's In 9-0 Romp

Tommy Cahill, Jimmy Shea and Mark Kelly had two goals apiece and Brian Bertoni assisted on three of them as the Quincy Bantam "A" team opened the Bay Colony Hockey Association season with a 9-0 romp over Milton Saturday.

Mark Paolucci, Rick Dannar and Matt Schaeffer had the other Quincy goals.

Assists were credited to Brian Watts, Mark Giordani, John Cooney, Dave Previte, Kelley, Shea and Paolucci.

In the final game of the exhibition season, the Brockton Bantams scored with 37 seconds remaining in the game to tie Quincy, 4-4.

Bertoni, Previte, Cahill and Giordani had the Quincy goals with assists going to Mike McGrath, Jackie Cronin, Dannar, Kelly and Shea.

Squirt A's Mann, Reinhardt Shut Out Hingham, 9-0

Goalies Kenny Mann and Paul Reinhardt combined their talents for the shutout as the Quincy Squirt "A" team opened its Bay Colony Hockey Association season with a 9-0 whitewash of Avon Sunday at Hingham.

Mike Doherty and Neil Shea each fired two goals for Quincy. Chuckie Marshall, Kevin Craig, Joey Rathgeb, Mark Boussy and Kevin Chase also had goals.

Assists were credited to Robbie Zanardelli 3, Rathgeb 2, and Bobby Beners, Doherty, Shea, Marshall and Craig one each.

Darrell Johnson Will Be Tough As Sox New Manager

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

What type of manager is Darrell Johnson? Tough! Like Dick Williams.

Johnson who takes over the Red Sox reins succeeding mild Eddie Kasko was Dick Williams' pitching coach in 1968-69, Williams' last two years in Boston.

Williams wanted him to go to Oakland with him. But Johnson decided to stay with the Sox and soon proved himself an outstanding minor league manager.

"I won't be credited as a nice guy," Johnson frankly admitted Monday at a press conference at Fenway Park. "Many of Williams' traits rubbed off on me. If everyone hustles, we should have no trouble and I don't anticipate any trouble from the players."

Johnson made it clear he will give some of this year's Pawtucket players a chance to make the Sox and still feels Juan Beniquez, despite his trouble on throws, is ready for the majors.

Beniquez played both third base and the outfield this year and led the PawSox in batting as they won the Little World Series after capturing the International League playoffs.

From what Johnson said, Carl Yastrzemski may be back in left field. He said Yaz definitely will not be at third base and added that he feels Cecil Cooper, who came up late in the season to play first, can make the grade and will work hard with him.

Johnson also said he wants to go with three catchers, something which might have helped the Sox this year. Many times when Bob Montgomery had replaced Carlton Fisk and was on base in a tight game, it was impossible to get a fast runner on for him, as there would be no one to catch. Darrell will give Vic Correll, his Pawtucket receiver, every chance to become the number three catcher.

He said he feels Bob Behney, ace of his PawSox staff this year may be ready for Boston and intimated a few other Pawtucket players will get a shot at making the team.

Of course, all of this could change with a few off-season trades. It is expected Reggie Smith, despite a good season, will be traded as he said he wants to be and it is a question if Rico Petrocelli, sidelined much of the year with arm trouble, will be back. He also said he wants to be traded but many think this was just an emotional outburst.

It appears Tommy Harper, one of the team's greatest hustlers will definitely be back and either will be in the outfield or may be the new designated hitter, depending on how Orlando Cepeda, another real hustler, does.

If the new manager succeeds in getting all the players to hustle like Harper, Cepeda, Rick Miller and some of the others, it could be a very interesting 1974 season in Boston.

Johnson made one particularly popular decision. He will hold on to pitching coach Lee Stange and third base coach Eddie Popowski.

Junior High Football Central Sweeps 3 Games From Point

Central swept three games from Point in Quincy Junior High football action at Veterans Memorial Stadium Monday.

The ninth grade team won, 14-6, with Carl Bergstrom scoring both touchdowns and Sal Coscia scoring for Point. Point prevented a bigger score with a brilliant goal line stand, holding Central for four downs on the one-yard line.

The eighth graders won, 14-0, with John Lobardo having both touchdowns and Mike O'Donnell scoring the points.

Central's seventh graders took a 22-6 decision as John Cahill scored two touchdowns and John Norton one. Mike Ortolano added the points. Vin Lorenzano had Point's touchdown. Mike Furey was outstanding in the Central line.

Last Friday Point's ninth grade team held Central to a 6-6 tie, scoring the tying touchdown with one minute left in the game. Mickey Thorley scored the tying TD. Sterling's Ross Noble had scored in the first half.

Sterling's eighth graders romped, 22-0, with John Sylva scoring twice and Bob Wojciechowski having the other. Ricky Gilbody and Jim Maze added the points.

In the seventh grade game Point won, 12-0, as Ray Coscia and John Breen scored the touchdowns.

Earlier in the week North's ninth grade team walloped Broad Meadows, 24-0. Brian Donaghy scored the first touchdown on a quarterback sneak and George Wallace rushed for the points. Wallace scored the second TD and Donaghy scored the points. The third touchdown was scored by Mike Adams and Ed McInaney added the points on an end run.

Cross-Country North Gets First Win For New Coach Tozzi

North Quincy's new cross country coach, Lou Tozzi, after two straight defeats, got his first win Monday when the Raiders defeated Everett, 21-35, over the Medford course.

Everett's Mike Daugherty won followed by Bart Petracca, North's outstanding sophomore. North's Art Barrett was third, Chris Cordeiro fourth, Mark Canavan fifth, Ken Barrett seventh, Ed Yee 10th, Gerry Dyer 12th and Ken O'Brien 13th.

Seven Raiders ran their best time of the year and Tozzi has high hopes for some more victories before the season is over.

Today [Thursday], Quincy faces Everett and North meets Malden over the Medford course. Tuesday it will be Quincy vs. Medford and North vs. Chelsea.

Last week each team dropped its second straight decision. Quincy, which had been blanked in its opener, bowed to Malden, 20-41, as it was forced to run without two of its top three runners, Steven Nolan and Steve Player.

Gary Delorio was Quincy's first scorer in third place. Tim Kane placed fifth, Fred Norus 10th, Chip Colletta 11th and Bud O'Brien 14th.

North lost to Medford, 18-44, despite an outstanding performance by sophomore Bart Petracca, who again was the Raider's first to cross the finish line.

Petracca covered the course in 13:25, the best by a North runner in two years. He finished third.

Art Barrett finished eighth, Mark Canavan ninth, Chris Cordeiro 11th and Frank Schuler 12th to finish the scoring, while Ken Barrett was 14th, Ed Yee 16th, Gerry Dyer 18th and Ken O'Brien 19th.

"We are showing improvement but just lack depth," Tozzi, first-year coach, said. "We are down to nine runners but some of the younger boys are coming along well. Schuler, who had a knee operation, is improving all the time."

Sterling, Broadmeadows, In Junior Soccer Wins

Sterling Junior High's soccer team, which had its 26-game unbeaten streak stopped in its opener under new coach Eddie Miller, bounced back to edge Point, 1-0.

Lou Avitable scored the goal with assists from Mike Kelly and Pete DeCenzo.

Broad Meadows edged by the same score as Steve Jenkins scored with an assist from Pete DeCenzo.

Pee Wee B's Down Franklin, 4-1

Billy Deitsch, Tommy Gerry, Danny Sullivan and Kenny Halloran had the goals and Jim Scanlan and Jimmy Campbell turned in stellar performances in the nets as the Quincy Pee Wee "B" team beat Franklin, 4-1, Sunday at Hingham.

Halloran and Tommy Mullen had assists.

Women's Political Caucus Eyes, State, Congressional Elections

The Massachusetts Women's Political Caucus has "enthusiastically" adopted the political action resolutions as stated at a recent meeting of the National Women's Political Caucus in St. Charles, Missouri, with representatives from all 50 states attending.

Geraldine Pleshaw of 128 Shore Ave., Merrymount, Chairwoman of the Massachusetts Women's Political Caucus, said the Caucus resolved to adopt a women's political strategy which will target Congress and state legislative racers and reverse the all male composition of the U.S. Senate.

Mrs. Pleshaw said that politically conscious women have long lacked confidence in any administration or political institution which denies full and equitable representation of women, minorities and other underrepresented groups.

"The 1974 elections present women with an opportunity to strengthen Congress in its role as the direct voice of the people by electing women in the 1974 Congressional and state elections," she said.

Weymouth Boy Wins Bicycle At S.Q. Civic Assn. Flea Market

A seven-year old Weymouth boy won a 10-speed bicycle as a drawing prize during the South Quincy Civic Association's Flea Market held Sunday.

Steven Ferris of 26 Fern Rd.,

was present when his name was drawn.

An estimated 3,000 persons attended the Flea Market held in the Grossman's parking area off Granite St. There were 70 exhibition booths.

Along The Campaign Trail John T. Ricciuti To Seek Ward 3 Seat

John T. Ricciuti of 31 Stoney Brae Road, announces his candidacy for City Councillor in the new Ward 3.

Ricciuti, a life long resident of Quincy, attended the Quincy public schools, graduating from Quincy High School. He holds a bachelors degree in Business Administration from Boston University. In addition, he attended Northeastern University and was in the master's degree program at Bridgewater State College.

An army veteran, Ricciuti is a member of Morrisette Legion Post, the Amvets, Quincy Memorial Post No. 7, life member, a director of the New England Monument Dealers Association, past president of the Quincy Granite Manufacturing Association and a member of the St. Moritz Association.

Ricciuti served as chairman of the Professional Conditions Committee for the Quincy Public School System and has been active in civic and fraternal endeavors.

He was co-chairman of the 1971-1972 North Quincy High-Quincy High School pre-game dinner at the Morrisette Post and chairman of the Ward 5 Cancer Crusade in 1971.

Ricciuti is engaged in a family owned local business, Hancock Monument Company, founded over 50 years ago by his late father. Along with his brothers, James and Philip Ricciuti, they oversee a manufacturing plant in South Quincy and a branch facility in New Bedford.

In a prepared statement, Mr. Ricciuti said:

"Quincy stands at the crossroads of re-birth and growth and what we do now will directly affect our future.

"I would like a part in the decision making process for the future of this great city."

He likened Quincy to a $50 million organization "that needs trained mature business experience to maintain a sound financial base."

Ricciuti is married to the former Anita Fabrizio and is the father of four children.

Matthew McDonnell Ward 1 Candidate

Atty. Matthew J. McDonnell of 9 Moreland Rd, announces his candidacy for Ward 1 councillor.

McDonnell, in announcing his candidacy, said: "an extremely heavy burden is placed on each city Councillor to account to the voters and taxpayers of the City of Quincy for each municipal expenditure. This job can be done effectively only by one who is thoroughly trained, experienced and qualified in municipal and fiscal matters."

McDonnell said he is the only candidate with the background necessary to provide effective judgement in the use of the taxpayers' money. He said the people of Quincy will not tolerate a rise in real estate taxes, and demand wise spending policies.

McDonnell is married to the former Eileen Dervan, and they are the parents of three children.

A trial attorney, McDonnell is a graduate of Boston College High School, Boston College and Boston College Law School, and has attended several legal seminars conducted at Harvard Law School.

He is a member of the federal, state, county and city bar associations, as well as the American Trial Lawyers Association. His law office is at 803 Hancock St.

Two of his associates in the general practice of law are Quincy Atty. Francis X. Bellotti and Martin S. Cosgrove.

McDonnell is a member of the Merrymount Association, Quincy Lions, Knights of Columbus, Catholic Alumni Sodality, Quincy Historical Society, Quincy YMCA, and the Holy Name Society. Currently he is program chairman of the Quincy Lions Club, and holds the office of Chancellor in D.L.M. Council 180 of the Knights of Columbus.

McDonnell is an elected member of the Ward 1 Democratic Committee and the Quincy Democratic City Committee. He also serves as an arbitrator for the American Arbitration Association.

Carter Suggests

School committee candidate Bryant L. Carter, Jr. says he would like to see the school committee elected by wards, instead of the present at-large elections.

"This would do away with the present system of staggered elections for half the school committee every year," he said. "This new system, if adopted, would assure an equal voice for every section of the city in running the school system.

"As each ward has different everyday problems that their councillor can handle; each ward has different problems with the schools and a ward school committeeman would be more aware of these problems."

Carter said he believes that three-at-large committeemen could be elected along with those from each ward, as is done in electing the city council.

"This expanded school committee would not cost the taxpayer any more money, since the members of the school committee receive no pay, and at the same time it would give the concerned parents a greater voice in their children's education," he said.

Ward 2 Candidates Night Oct. 9

The Ward 2 Civic Association will hold a candidates night Oct. 9 at 8 p.m. at the Fore River Club, Nevada Rd.

Mrs. Phyllis Bagen will preside at the meeting.

All candidates for Mayor, School Committee, Ward 2 councillor or councillor-at-large are invited to speak.

The meeting is open to the public and refreshments will be served. Tickets for the Oct. 27 Halloween Costume Dance will be on sale. Plans for the children's Halloween Party Oct. 31 will be finalized.

McKinnon of 26 Hawthorne St. will receive plaques in recognition of "Community Service". Citations will be presented to Kevin Roach, 12 years, and Vicki McManus, 11, who secured more than 780 signatures on petitions to retain the Houghs Neck Branch Library.

Mrs. Sines, a professional singer who contributes generously of her talent, has been a Cub Scout den mother, a Brownie leader and Sunday School teacher, while raising nine children. The children are Second Lt. Philip Sines, serving with the Army at Fort Ord, Calif.; Frank Sines, employed by Shawmut Bank; Patricia, Yvonne, Steven, Thomas, Martin, Janet and Ann Marie, all at home. Mr. and Mrs. Sines have been residents for 17 years.

Mr. Brophy, a lifelong resident, is the son of Mrs. Lucy Brophy, a 1963 "Good Neighbor". He was the first president of the Houghs Neck Community Council, has been president of Atherton Hough and Broad Meadows PTA's, was a Sunday School teacher, and has been associated with the Boy Scout organization for many years, serving as South Shore Area Representative. Married to the former Ann Sideri, their children are Joseph Brophy, serving in the Navy at Norfolk, Va., and Dennis, studying for his master's degree at Boston College.

Mr. McKinnon, an eight-year resident, was nominated for his "outstanding and continuing work" as Cubmaster of Pack 36. He is also a member of the Boy Scout Troop 35 Committee, and a Sunday school teacher. He is married to the former Kathleen Doherty. They have four children, Mary, 14 years; Kevin, 11; Greg, 9 and Terrence, 4.

Kevin Roach, a seventh grade Broad Meadows student, is the second youngest of five children of Mr. and Mrs. James Roach of 53 Shennett St. Vicki McManus, his cousin, is in sixth grade at Great Hill School. She is the second oldest of four children of Mrs. Joan McManus of 68 Ratchford St.

The Honor Awards Committee included Mrs. Dorothy Laing, chairman, Robert Grenier and Mrs. Marjorie Catrambone, former award recipients; Thomas Hurlbaeus and Mrs. Jessie Morrill. More than 24 nominations were recommended.

Tickets for the event may be obtained from William Nugent, council president; Robert Stirling, vice president; Mrs. Robert Denvir, Mrs. Lyn Deady, Mrs. Raymond Keefe, Mrs. Jules Malard, Leo Kelly, Willard Timcoe, James Doherty, Robert Kamb, Mrs. William O'Connor, Mrs. Kaye Gunning, and at Pages Pharmacy. Ticket deadline is Oct. 12.

Quincy Lions Club Presentations To Highlight 'Employ Handicapped'

The Quincy Lions Club will host an awards presentation Tuesday, Oct. 9, to employers and handicapped employees as the highlight of Employ the Handicapped Week in Quincy.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon proclaimed the week Oct. 7-13 urging "more employers to give consideration in their hiring policies to persons who, despite their disabilities, nevertheless have the ability to perform well at work."

Russell E. O'Connell, commissioner of rehabilitation for Massachusetts, will be the principal speaker at the presentation of awards to those who have furthered the cause of the handicapped job-seeker.

Members of the Quincy Employ the Handicapped Committee include:

Chairman Timothy J. Reidy Jr. of the Quincy Division of Employment Security; Harold Davis, South Shore Chamber of Commerce; Joseph Deery, Quincy Division of Employment Security; William Green, General Dynamics Corp.

Also Martha Murdock, Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission; Rose Marie Pronovost, South Shore Rehabilitation Center; and Kenneth W. Vining, Division of Employment Security and Work Inc.

Central Cluster Meeting For Parents Tonight

A meeting for parents of the schools in the Central Cluster will be held tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. in the Learning Center.

The speakers will be Miss Louise Forsyth, testing coordinator, and Richard K. Chrystal, director of staff development.

Arrangements have been made by Dr. Douglas MacDonald, chairman of the cluster, and Vincent Moscardelli, principal of Central Junior High School who will host the meeting.

The topic is "Testing for Today and Tomorrow". After the presentation there will be a question and answer period.

The Central Cluster schools include Beechwood Knoll, Central, Cranch, Furnace Brook, Wollaston, Massachusetts Fields and Merrymount.

Weymouth Rotary Club's Big Band Night Nov. 2

The Big Band Sound will reverberate once again on the South Shore - for one night, anyway.

The Weymouth Rotary Club will sponsor its ninth annual Big Band Night Nov. 2 at the Surf Ballroom at Nantasket Beach featuring music in the style of Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Jimmy Dorsey, Benny Goodman and Harry James.

The music and the musical memories will be provided by John Savini and his orchestra of 15 musicians, many of whom played with the bands of the 1930's and the 1940's.

The melodies are arranged precisely as they were made famous by such big bands as Miller, Dorsey [both Jimmy and Tommy], Goodman, Stan Kenton, Harry James and Les Brown, when his band was really renowned.

Proceeds of the night, the only fund-raising event held by Weymouth Rotary, will go toward scholarships and other worthy causes. Last year more than $7,000 was raised in the eighth annual evening of nostalgia.

Braintree Seeking Names To Update Memorial Mall

The Braintree Memorial Mall Committee is seeking to update its list of Braintree residents who served in the U.S. Armed Forces since 1955 so their names can be placed on the Honor Roll Plaque at the Braintree Town Hall.

Any current Quincy resident who lived in Braintree at the time of his or her service should contact James A. C. Smith, c/o Veterans Service Dept., 739 Washington St., Braintree, or call Mr. Smith at 843-2803.

Court Decision

McLelland Wins Spot On Primary Ballot

For a few uneasy hours Tuesday, Quincy's off-again-on-again election faced the possibility of being off-again once more.

Superior Court Judge James J. Valley allowed (but did not issue) a temporary injunction barring the printing of ballots for the Nov. 6 preliminary election until a decision could be made on the status of Theophilus McLelland III.

McLelland, who is councillor from the old Ward 3, contended that nomination papers for an at-large seat on the council were refused him because an employee of the Elections Department misinformed him of the deadline.

Some four hours later, Judge Valley, hearing the case on its merits, ruled that the requirement that papers be taken out 48 hours before the filing deadline was not critically essential to the electoral process.

The decision places McLelland's name on the Nov. 6 ballot -- provided the signatures he obtained on a hastily prepared set of papers are authenticated by the City Clerk and the City does not appeal Judge Valley's ruling.

City Solicitor Richard J. McCormick took exception to the judge's decision but it was not immediately determined if the City was prepared to pursue the matter to a higher court.

At least one candidate for the City Council, Warren A. Powers of Ward 5, who is also an assistant district attorney, hailed the decision as "enabling the people of Quincy to have a greater choice in the election."

"If the exception is followed to its legal conclusion," he said, "it would set the election back a matter of weeks. It would bring total chaos to the electoral process."

McLelland, who was moved into Councillor Clifford H. Marshall's Ward 2 by redistricting, said he called the Election Department on Thursday, Sept. 27, to find out the last day on which he could take out nomination papers.

He said he was told he could take them out anytime before 4:30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 1.

But when he showed up at 3:30 p.m. Monday to get them, he said, he was told that the deadline had been Friday, Sept.

The once private Wollaston Golf Club is going to be a giant recreation complex for all residents of Norfolk County, ranging from tot lots for the tiniest through squash courts for the liveliest to an outdoor amphitheater for those who fancy more sedentary forms of entertainment.

And it's going to be a money-maker for the county.

The plans -- and the promise -- were disclosed this week by Robert Langlois, the Federal coordinator for Norfolk County, shortly after the county purchased the golf course for $1,947,000 -- $1.7 million down and the rest in installments.

The plans call for a reconstructed, shortened golf course [par 66 instead of 72], a new club house, lighted tennis courts, tot lots, basketball courts, a baseball field, and outdoor amphitheater for concerts and such, a winter sports area for skiing [including a small ski tow], sledding and skating.

There is also the possibility of facilities for handball and squash and other less popular sports.

"We anticipate that there will be a favorable financial return to the county from the complex," said Langlois. "We anticipate that it will more than pay for the operating costs out of the fees charged for the facilities."

The deal for the 92-acre golf club in Quincy and Milton was closed Friday nearly two years after legislation enabling the purchase was filed by Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, Rep. William D. Delahunt and County Commissioners, James Collins, George McDonald and Thomas McManus.

It was finalized when County

Treasurer James M. Collins released the $1.7 million for the first payment. He withheld the release until he was assured of federal reimbursement for part of the purchase price.

Langlois said federal assistance is expected for 50 per cent of the project cost, which eventually will be between $3.2 and $3.4 million, including the purchase price.

The Wollaston Golf Club will retain use of the property until Jan. 1, 1975 when the county will take it over.

Langlois said it is expected that the recreation complex will open in the late summer of 1975 and the reconstructed golf course in the fall of 1975 or the spring of 1976.

Until the county takes over, the public will be allowed to play the course at certain times between April 15 and Oct. 15, paying the same green's fees as club members.

The times are: Weekends and holidays after 2 p.m.; Wednesdays before 11:15 a.m.;

Quincy's County Assessment Highest

Quincy has been assessed $1,672,404.25 for its share of the Norfolk County budget for the 18-month period from Jan. 1, 1973 through June 30, 1974.

Quincy's assessment is the highest of the county's 28 cities and towns, topping runnerup Brookline by nearly $100,000.

Burke Optimistic Over Mayor's Washington Meetings

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] has expressed optimism over the possible outcome of meetings between Mayor Walter J. Hannon and representatives of federal agencies during the Mayor's recent trip to Washington.

Meetings were arranged by Burke with people from the Department of Labor, the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration.

Burke said he felt that the meeting with the Labor Department representative "could be of particular benefit since the discussion opened up the possibility of additional funds for employment in Quincy."

"The prospect of receiving On The Job Training money is certainly encouraging; and of even greater importance perhaps is the possibility of Quincy being selected as a pilot program for Manpower revenue sharing," Burke added.

Intensive Care Nursery In Operation For Year

An Intensive Care Nursery has been in operation for a year at Quincy City Hospital.

Purpose of the nursery is to provide better care for sick newborns as well as to allow closer observation of any high risk baby. For example, a baby who may develop such problems as jaundice or respiratory distress can now be treated with newer and more sophisticated equipment.

Some of this equipment includes new incubators with automatic temperature regulating mechanisms, mechanical pumps for constant infusion of intravenous fluids, and the most modern phototherapy units for treatment of jaundice.

Special monitors for babies with breathing problems such as hyaline membrane disease and cardiac monitors for babies with congenital heart disease are also in use in this nursery.

Establishment of this unit has enabled Quincy City Hospital to keep pace with improvements in care for newborn infants, said Hospital Director Harlan L. Paine.

Now You Can 'Rent-A-Kid'

The Southwest Quincy Teen Council and the Southwest Community Center are starting a "Rent-a-Kid" program.

The program is for Quincy youths, ages 13-18, who do not have a job and would like a part-time job to pick up a few extra dollars.

The youths would handle jobs all over Quincy - raking leaves, baby sitting day and night, running errands, washing windows, mowing lawns, shovelling snow, working in stores, taking out trash, etc.

Registration applications are available at the Southwest Community Center, 372 Granite St., 471-0796.

Castle fixing made easy

Ah, we all have to fix up our castles once in a while. A draw bridge goes bad here, a turret starts to crumble there. We may even decide to expand the court yard beyond the moat. It all costs dearly. At the Quincy Co-operative Bank, we're in the business of providing money to fix your castle.

If your castle, or home (or whatever you call it) needs repairs, drop into either our Hanover or Quincy offices. You'll be doing yourself a favor by keeping your home in tip top shape. Especially if and when you decide to put it up for sale ... and go searching for a new castle.

28 and it was now too late.

McLelland got some papers that had been printed up for the 1971 election and passed them around for signatures and filed them at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 2, an hour and a half before the filing deadline. They were refused.

McLelland's attorney, Richard Barry, former City Councillor, argued before Judge Vallety that the requirement that papers be taken out 48 hours before the filing deadline was simply a way of "regulating the dissemination of nomination papers."

City Solicitor McCormick countered that the requirement "is a step the legislature had provided to regulate and make orderly the election process. Neither the City Clerk nor the Board of Registrars has the right to waive that requirement."

The addition of McLelland's name to the list of at-large candidates means that there will be a preliminary contest for the right to be one of the six names on the final ballot in the Dec. 4 election.

Before Tuesday's ruling, six names had been certified by the Board of Registrars to run for the three seats. McLelland makes seven and thus a preliminary campaign is necessary.

The other candidates for the at-large seats are Joseph J. LaRaia, John J. Quinn and Arthur H. Tobin, all incumbents, and Helen M. McDonnell, Raymond G. Viens and Robert L. Foley, all challengers.

NEWSBOY WEEK is observed by Quincy Sun carrier Kevin Robertson of Winthrop Street, Hough's Neck, as he starts his sixth year on the route by delivering a paper to Mrs. Charles Shea of Manet Avenue. Kevin, is the "dean" of The Sun's carriers in point of service. Kevin is a student at Broad Meadows Junior High School where he participates in basketball, wrestling and track.

Langlois said the next six months will be devoted to drawing plans for the recreations complex.

Architects being consulted are Shurcliff, Merrill, Footit of Boston; Coletti Brothers of Hingham; and Geoffrey Cornish of Amherst.

The complex will be supervised by a seven members, unpaid advisory board which will include Richard Koch, as executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, and Gerry Coletta, appointee of Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

POINT OF VIEW TV news boosts nets' popularity

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — This year, the big news in television might well be television news itself. The latest surveys indicate that at least two million viewers have been added to the network news audience on an average evening. And with that boost in viewing, the competition has intensified.

Among broadcasters, the general feeling is that the expansion of network news has run parallel with the growth of interest by local stations in pursuing a strong news policy. It is difficult to measure, this gradual surge to local stations becoming aware that news is, in a sense, popular — and that television itself, while still primarily an entertainment medium, has its serious functions to perform.

My own curbsome judgment is that at least some of this interest stems from more adventurous presentations, such as the development of the "Eyewitness News" format. With all its flaws, "Eyewitness News" was clearly a new wave, a turning of the corner, a departure from the old television traditions of news that had been established, at the outset, by the techniques of radio.

Over the years, it has always been the early-evening newscasts that the networks consider their respective showcases. These are the productions by which their relative performances are regularly judged — in numbers, in impact, in prestige.

And the significance in that area, as we enter a new season, is that ABC News, long rated a very slow third in the race, has moved sharply into contention.

In all the ratings, the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite heads the list, followed by the NBC Nightly

News with John Chancellor in the anchor chair, and then the ABC Evening News with Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner.

Pollsters report a slight slip in Cronkite's ratings but hardly anything to cause worry in the network's executive councils. Chancellor has gained about 6 per cent. But the Smith-Reasoner report has enjoyed a 20 per cent boost over last year — in other words, a gain of some 1,150,000 viewing homes.

Most observers cite two factors in ABC's swift climb, the first being the addition of Harry Reasoner, who had long roosted in Cronkite's shadow at CBS. When Reasoner moved over to ABC from CBS, in December of 1970, no more than 127 ABC affiliates were carrying the network newscasts and the ratings were dismal.

After a year with Reasoner on board, the number of stations latching on to ABC News reached 168. Now it is up to 188. Undoubtedly the number of station clearances was affected by Reasoner's entry.

A significant force in network evaluations of their news policies lies in demographics. Surveys indicate that the news audience, once dominated by older people and blue-collar people, workers, is shifting to relatively younger, better-educated, upper-income adults.

And the pursuit of this audience may in time upset the pattern of night-time programming. "The best programming that the networks do is their news," says the head of one independent station group. "The news belongs in prime time."

Walter Cronkite on at 8 at night? It's possible. Not for a while, but it's possible.

- Pocketbook Issues Also Hurt GOP
- Donald Nixon's Big Surprise
- High Cost Of Justice

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — A secret political survey has brought more bad news for the embattled Republicans. The survey, conducted for the Republican National Committee, shows that the Republicans are in serious trouble with the voters more over pocketbook issues than the Watergate scandal. The voters, according to the secret survey, blame the Republicans for the cost-price squeeze.

The consumers hold President Nixon chiefly responsible for soaring prices. The workers accuse him of favoring bankers and businessmen over the common wage earners. Not even the farmers are pleased with the President's management of the economy, although farm prices have been shooting up and most farmers are again prospering.

The survey shows that the farmers believe their price rise was late in coming and merely made up for earlier price discrimination against farm products. They are also critical of his handling of the Soviet wheat deal, which they believe benefited the big grain dealers rather than the farmers.

What the survey shows, in short, is that almost all segments of society are disgruntled over the erratic economy. President Nixon has called upon the nation to stop wallowing in Watergate and to concentrate on more important problems. Judging by the results of the secret survey, the President may be better off letting the public wallow in Watergate.

Giving Russians the Boot: The Russians may be kicked out of another Arab country. Intelligence reports suggest that Syria may follow the example of Egypt and order all Soviet military advisers to leave the country.

The Syrians are annoyed because the Soviet technicians won't man air defense missiles against Israeli planes. This has forced the Syrians to go all the way to Hanoi to seek qualified people to operate the sophisticated Soviet equipment.

The Syrians were also dismayed when the Israelis engaged their Soviet-built jets over the Mediterranean and shot down 13 of them. The Syrians blamed the loss on inferior Soviet equipment.

These problems led to a nasty argument, according to the intelligence reports, between Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Khaddam and Soviet Ambassador Nouredine Mohiedinov. The angry Foreigner responded by slapping strict travel restrictions on all Soviet personnel inside Syria.

Meanwhile, intelligence reports claim that Arab communist leaders, loyal to Moscow, have been holding secret meetings on the Syrian crisis. They fully expect Syria to throw out their Russian friends.

From Nixon With Love: We have been investigating the strange business dealings of President Nixon's brother, Donald.

One bizarre case involves Donald's visit to the Dominican Republic in October, 1969. He and Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer talked about what Donald could do for the Dominican Republic and what the Dominicans could do for Donald.

The irrepressible Donald and his party were given the red carpet treatment. They took over an entire floor of a Santo Domingo hotel, and Balaguer posted 30 armed guards in the hotel to protect them.

Then there was a sit-down dinner at the presidential palace for 600, including the diplomatic corps and the military brass, with all the guests standing in line to shake hands with Donald.

The high social point of the visit, however, came in Balaguer's office. Businessman John Meier brought a fancily wrapped gift for Balaguer. When Donald saw it, he insisted he present it.

"This is from my brother and myself," said Donald Nixon.

Then Balaguer opened the box. Inside was a bust of President John F. Kennedy.

Balaguer was delighted, but Donald wasn't.

High Cost of Justice: Our legal system is based on the premise that all defendants are presumed innocent until convicted in court. They also are entitled to the best possible defense in court.

Today's economics, however, are making this an impossibility for many Americans. The rich can hire expensive lawyers, and the poor have court-appointed attorneys. But most Americans simply can't afford the high cost of fighting the government in court.

There is no lid on the amount of money the government can spend when it sets out to prosecute. But defendants, who may be entirely innocent, have a hard time scraping together cash needed to keep out of jail. The Berrigan Brothers and Daniel Ellsberg, for instance, couldn't have fought the charges against them without nationwide fund-raising.

Columnist William Buckley, an old friend of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt, is behind a defense fund to pay Hunt's lawyers what the secret Watergate slush fund didn't cover.

Now Vice President Agnew is having to go to the public to raise enough money to defend himself. Otherwise, his legal fees, according to some estimates, could bankrupt him.

These are the arguments some congressmen will be making when they begin fighting for a national legal insurance program to assure every citizen adequate legal protection against government accusations.

Court actions were never intended to drive citizens to financial ruin.

Are you ready for a possible crisis this week? It may be little; it may be big. It may perhaps be only hurt feelings or a small disappointment. But whatever it is, you must be prepared ahead of time. And inner strength is needed to handle every crisis.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Our film critic, Vince Puleo reports that the good folks of Eaton, Ohio recently honored Quincy's Billy DeWolfe with an official "Billy DeWolfe Day".

Eaton, Ohio! How about Quincy, Mass?

Seems strange, but to our recollection, his hometown has never really made a fuss like that over him. But isn't it time it did? We realize that back in 1955, Billy was guest of honor at a Quincy Chamber of Commerce dinner.

But, it wasn't a real "Billy DeWolfe Day" in which the general public could participate and pay tribute to a famous native son, and a real nice guy.

Billy, of course, is one of show biz's top talents.

And he's been a roving ambassador of good will for Quincy ever since he left his 50-cent a show ushering job at the old Quincy Theater back in the 1920's to give show business a fling.

"I'm always telling people about Quincy and how to pronounce it," he once mused. "And if they don't pronounce it right, I give them a 20-minute lecture."

He's even got the name Quincy inserted into Broadway revues, when they needed a city to refer to in the script.

It just seems odd that Eaton, Ohio should be honoring him with a "Billy DeWolfe Day" and not his home-town.

Maybe Mayor Walter Hannon could do something about that.

THE CRACK QUINCY HIGH School band which made an impressive showing in the Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas, Tex., last New Year's Day, seems to be getting invitations from everywhere these days.

An invite to the Mardi Gras parade in New Orleans will be refused, a school source says. So already has one to Toronto.

But, according to the source, a Rose Bowl parade invitation in the not too distant future is the real target.

WELL, AT LEAST one person was grateful for the new ward redistricting plan. She's Mrs. Peg Harold, mother of Ward 1 candidate Paul Harold. She baked a cake in the shape of new Ward 1 for the open house at Paul's headquarters last week. "If the three precincts in Quincy Center were still part of the ward, I never would have been able to get the cake out of the kitchen," she laughs. [The cake measured five feet by three feet.]

IF YOU HAPPENED to watch the Columbus Day parade in Boston's North End on Ch. 2 or 44 Monday, that was a Quincy boy doing the interviews. Commentator Ron Della Chiesa is a nephew of former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa.

GEORGE McDONALD, County Commissioner and former City Councillor, officially kicks off his campaign for Norfolk County Sheriff at a buffet dinner date Nov. 2, 8 p.m., at Amaru's 80 Bridge St., Dedham. The committee is billing it as a "Get To Know Us Better" affair.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE contender Atty. Jeffrey LaPointe hopes Dec. 4 will be a day of double celebration. That, of course, is election day and it's also the day that he and his wife, Elaine, are expecting their second child. They have a daughter.

THE PLAYING FIELD at Quincy Veterans Memorial Stadium is in tip-top condition. Carl Leone, coordinator of athletics for the Quincy schools, gives the lion's share of credit to Jack Brown, director of plant and maintenance. "The field is in the best shape I've ever seen it and Jack deserves the credit," says Leone. "He has done a remarkable job."

VANITY PLATE sighted in Quincy: AEIOU. [Must be an English teacher].

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "People can be divided into three groups: Those who make things happen, those who watch things happen and those that wonder what happened."

NICE GESTURE DEPT: Adam and Grace Lucason, owners of The Hollow Restaurant, played a major [without fanfare] role in the success of the recent buffet and dance to raise funds for paralyzed Philip Heleotis.

The Lucasons donated, and prepared, lots of ham and turkey and salad. Their waitresses served it. It helped make the night a big success.

HERB REPUCCI, the beauty salon operator, and candidate for the Ward 4 city council seat, muses that it's tough enough running against an incumbent. Last week in The Sun's listing of candidates, his age was reported as 64. [From City Hall resident listings.] Herb wants you to know he's really only 58.

SMILE DEPT: From "The Insider", published by inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction: Things went so bad for me today that when I phoned "Dial A Prayer" -- they hung up.

Thanks Faxon Family For Land Gift

Editor, Quincy Sun:

A vote of thanks is again due the Faxon family for their generosity to the people of Quincy. At the City Council meeting of Sept. 4 the gift of 80,000-plus square feet of marshland and upland off Sea St. by the Faxon Heirs to the City of Quincy was accepted by the Council. Council President Arthur H. Tobin very aptly expressed the gratitude of the city to the Faxon family for this and its many other generous gifts of land to the city but in the press of covering all the action of the Council meeting, short mention was made in the news coverage the next day.

In past years the Faxon family has presented to the city Faxon Park [57 acres] Monroe Field [11 acres] and Faxon Field [29 acres] for the free use of its citizens.

I quote a paragraph from the letter of the Faxon Heirs presenting this most recent gift of land to the city:

"In this generation, too, there is need to insure the preservation of our ecology, particularly along Quincy's long and attractive shoreline. Accordingly, the Faxon family has executed the enclosed release deed conveying to the city a parcel of 80,000 feet of saltmarsh and upland off Sea Street. We tender this gift to the city and people of Quincy with the hope that other parcels may be similarly acquired and preserved."

We of the Conservation Commission in Quincy express our deep thanks to the Faxon family and sincerely hope others owning open land and especially marshland will follow their example.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox

'Quitting Off An Affair'

Craig and Jill had been married 18 years ... three children ... son 15 ... two daughters 13 and 9. Theirs had been a model family ... church goers ... scouts ... drum and bugle corps ... civic club ... vacation each summer ... the real together ideal.

Suddenly ... the relationship between Craig and Jill began to cool. He went to civic club on Thursday nights ... but wasn't getting home 'til 2 a.m. He announced that he wanted a "free" evening when he could "just do what I want to do." He would shower and dress and put on his favorite face lotion ... leave nervously ... again returning home at 2 a.m.

Jill began to ask questions ... he called it nagging. The kids began to drop in their school work. Their most satisfactory sex life dropped off and they had night quarrels overheard by the children. Both of them lost weight. After four months of this Craig called the counselor for an appointment.

"I'm miserable and I'm making the family miserable. I can't handle it any longer. But I don't want to hurt Michelle," Michelle was his "other woman". Jill had accused him ... he had denied ... but the pattern continued. "How do I end it without hurting anyone?"

What seems simple to the uninvolved observer; isn't so simple to the man who has professed love ... encouraged the affair ... made the girl dependent. "She needs me" ... Craig said. His sense of responsibility ... or was his little ego trip? Michelle was 22 ... Craig was 42. After a few sessions Craig worked thru the factors involved ... terminated the affair with Michelle ... restored the relationship with Jill at a higher level than before. Affairs don't always turn out so easily. Here's what happened:

First ... when Jill learned of the affair she handled it very womanly. She said ... "Craig, I love you and want our companionship to continue. But what we've had the last four months hasn't been a companionable marriage. You have to MAKE YOUR CHOICE ... Me and the children ... or Michelle."

Craig's first response was: "Don't threaten me ... Is that an ultimatum?"

"No ... it's not an ultimatum or a threat ... it's a choice" ... Jill said firmly. This helped Craig to his decision.

Secondly ... Craig FACED UP TO THE FACTS. When he weighed the situation factually ... and he actually made lists of the advantages and disadvantages of each situation ... he saw that the plus items piled up in favor of staying with his family. No intelligent decision can be made without looking at the facts ... an affair ... a business venture ... to quit or continue smoking or drinking or over eating. Craig looked at the facts ... then he decided.

Finally ... he recognized that PAIN WAS INVOLVED either way. The "child" in him wanted to have his cake and eat it too. Life isn't usually that way. The real world calls for tough ... painful decisions.

When Craig made his adult decision he and Jill began to rebuild their injured love ... and found higher joys in their companionship than they had had before.

Every "affair" doesn't end so happily ... depending on how it's handled and what the basic elements are for the decision.

Got an affair going? It can be resolved beneficially.

Youth Speaks Out

● It amazes us to think that after hundreds of years the Arabs and Jews can't get along, until we take a look at the blacks and whites in Boston.

● Anything resembling physical love is outlawed on TV, but killing, maiming, and crippling are okay. It's odd, but I don't remember anyone ever being loved to death.

● Woman's Lib Bumper Sticker: Trust in God; she'll provide for you.

● A gas shortage, a fuel shortage, an energy shortage, a meat shortage, and worst of all a leadership shortage. We guess.

● Spiro Agnew's statement of August 6, 1973 shouldn't be taken too seriously.

"I have confidence in the criminal justice system of the United States."

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Ex-pilot's wife has story to tell

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst
Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I've been halfway playing around with the idea of writing a book about ex-airline pilots' wives. Believe me, there's quite a few of us around these days ... all turned in for younger models. A friend of mine says I should write a story of my life. I've had so many strange and humorous things happen to me. The only drawback is where do I start and can I do it?

Dear S.D.:

Maybe you're an older model ... but you're still jet-propelled. Right now ... your spirit's grounded.

Those sagging endings on the lower loop, seen on the y, keep you painfully complaining ... they're hampering your takeoff. You're jumping the signals, seen in your far forward slant, and you're frustrated and confused.

You can write a book ... and what a book it could be. Your rhythmical writing, your figure 8 g's and your printed s, all indicate your ability to write. Then with your sense of humor, seen in the beginning stroke on m, combined with the points on your t crossings, you could write a shaking satire. Settling yourself down is your problem right now, seen in the intermingling of strokes above and below the line. You are scattering your energies into so many areas, that you have no particular direction in mind.

So fasten your seat belt long enough to get your ideas together.

You can't expect a safe literary landing until you've prepared yourself for a one-way takeoff.

BARGAIN PRICES

If food prices had risen at the same rate as wages in industry since 1952, a quart of milk today would cost 55 cents at the store, a dozen eggs would sell for $1.61, and a whole, dressed frying chicken would cost $1.46 per pound. —

Mom's learning about football

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

Not long ago I met John McKay at a cocktail party and asked him what he did for a living. My husband's reaction to this was to seek the nearest bowl of clam dip into which the hostess had already fallen.

To think, he said to me later in the car, that I could have failed to know the name of the great John McKay, coach of the University of Southern California's illustrious football team. A man who shaped players to make Rose Bowl history. I was chagrined.

I felt especially bad that my hostess, who had worked so hard to produce McKay's honored presence, had ended in the clam dip — which didn't even go with her dress.

I apologized for my lack of athletic expertise, but at the time I secretly thought it was a lot of fuss to make over a man who didn't even suitup himself.

Now I know differently. There's a lot more to football than meets the toe. It's the poor devils who don't suitup, like coaches and mothers, who give a team that go, go, go power that puts them over the top. Yeah team!

John McKay, I'll never forget your name again. And I hope you'll remember mine too, because I am now the mother of a boy on a high school freshman football team.

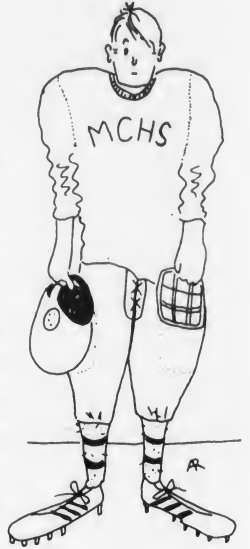

It's guys like us, John, that keep the players hustling out there on the field. When my son came home from his first practice he told me what he would have to eat from now on — which was a lot like what he was already eating, only now he does it all the time.

He's stopped brushing his teeth because for him there is no "after meals." He has a mouth like a supermarket that's open all night.

His coach has taken what was formerly a loud, smart-aleck, bombastic kid and turned him into a limping, silent, glutton who, for the first time since he was three days old, takes voluntary naps. Thanks, coach.

Of course they are only 10-minute naps while I mix him banana and milk in the blender, but for a mother worrying about her son getting his face kicked in, even a 10-minute silence in which to pray is nice.

For what my son calls "contact practice" he wears the same equipment Jo Namath does, only on a growing boy the effect is somehow differ-

"Gee, mom," he said when he had the whole rig on for the first time at home, "I look like an animal."

It's nice to know that even though he has already been kicked in the head a few times, his judgment is unimpaired.

Fertility rate drops below growth level

The Census Bureau reports that last year the fertility rate — the number of births per 1,000 women between 15 and 44 during their lifetimes — dropped to 2.025, which is 75 below the growth level.

The country could eventually lose population, but only if this rate is maintained well into the 21st Century, according to a bureau spokesman. — CNS

More women become main family support

According to a 1972 study of the U.S. Department of Labor, Women's Bureau, more and more women are becoming the main support of their families — more than one-fifth of all U.S. households (nearly 15 million) are headed by women.

Women also head more than 6 million families, which is a 33 per cent increase in the last 10 years. — CNS

Take a look at budget

By JOYCE ROARK
Copley News Service

Setting up a budget can be a problem to a family. By knowing the national average budget, you can formulate your own family's budget.

Joe Public's annual income after taxes is $8,600 ($720 a month). He found that his rent each month as $105 (14.5 per cent). His family spent $166 a month (22.8 per cent on food — including alcoholic beverages and tobacco). He spent $99 a month (13.5 per cent on transportation — gasoline and car payments).

Because he has two school-age children, he spent $76 a month (10.3 per cent) on clothes. For medical care the family spent $55 (7.4 per cent).

Household operations each month cost $103 (14.1 per cent). The family spent $40 a LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Be active in community affairs. Possibility of election of office in an organization. Friends are very supportive to your efforts. Good time to approach those in authority with projects worked on in the past. Curb ego.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Not a good time to speculate or to begin a new business venture. Curb tendency to extravagance — tighten your purse strings. Pay close attention to legal matters. Possibility of a legacy. Business trip is possible.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — A high-activity, heavy-work schedule week. Keep your cool in the midst of conflict and action. Listen to advice from those experienced in your profession. Relax with cultural music and artistic interests.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — View your life with a realistic eye. Resist tendency toward nostalgia and day-dreaming — be practical. Try unusual ways of doing routine things. Achieve ambitions by fair methods not by using associates.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Take time out to commune with nature and relax. Have creative, open discussions with mate or partner. Draw on past experience to evaluate a present situation — it may be "same song, second verse."

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Take time off to recharge your batteries — you deserve a rest. Romance could blossom now. Give close attention to the health and well-being of pets. Be patient if progress toward goals seems slow.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — The pressure of the past few weeks lifts now and you can let down your hair. Get out socially for light-hearted fun. Creative energy is highlighted. Curb overly emotional attitude in dealing with domestic matters.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Be aware of a choice to be made and take your time about reaching a decision. Listen to your intuition and act accordingly. Protect your financial position. Be somewhat conservative. Lay groundwork for the future.

When Mommas and Poppas want to go away on an overnight or extended trip, rent a parent, they can take advantage of a babysitting service that sends young married couples in to take care of the children and the house. University Home Services of Needham screens couples for moral character, responsibility and good judgment, then sends them to your home for an interview and approval. Most couples are college age or graduates. They prepare all meals, do the laundry, maintain the house, and manage details such as garbage disposal and snow plowing. It's arranged for the sisters to become acquainted with the children beforehand so they won't be strangers when the parents leave. The Agency can also provide housekeepers, chaperones, tutors and home caretakers.

MEAT AND BROILING TIPS:

WRAP MEAT LOOSELY - Fresh meats can be stored at refrigerator temperatures between 35° and 40° for a few days. Wrap them loosely for best keeping. Loose wrappings allow some air to circulate and dry the meat surface slightly. Bacteria grow less quickly on a dry surface.

DOOR POSITION - Usually the oven door is left slightly ajar when broiling in an electric range, and closed when broiling in a gas range. HANDLE WITH CARE To prepare juicy ground meat, handle the meat as little as possible. Excessive mixing results in a more compact, less tender product.

FOIL THE BROILER - Put aluminum foil in bottom of broiler pan to simplify cleaning.

Now you can cultivate your knowledge about vegetables by using your bean, realizing that in onion there is strength and relishing the radish. They're all ingredients in a new dish known as Garden Vegetables with Chunky Cheese Dressing. The cheese assures that these and other vegetables will please. Here is the recipe:

GARDEN VEGETABLES WITH CHUNKY CHEESE DRESSING

- 1 9-oz. package frozen green beans
- 1 9-oz. package frozen lima beans
- 1 red onion peeled, sliced in very thin rings
- 5 radishes, thinly sliced
- 2 carrots peeled, sliced in matchsticks
- 1/2 green pepper, thinly sliced
- 1/2 cucumber sliced transparent thin
- 2 tomatoes peeled, cut in wedges
- 1/4 cup parsley finely chopped
- 1/2 cup California walnuts chopped
- 1/2 cup Pfeiffer Chunky Cheese Dressing

Cook carrots in boiling water 2-3 minutes. Cool under cold water. Drain. Cook beans according to package directions. Drain, cool. Place ingredients in large bowl. Blend well. Makes 8-10 servings.

This is a low-cost recipe. In view of the high prices of greens, you'll be delighted to learn that it doesn't require much "lettuce."

A New Twist

To Peanut Butter And Jelly

A hot peanut butter and jelly sandwich? Yes—and it's not only hot, it's French toasted! Grilled Peanut Butter and Jelly Sandwich is a new idea from The Kraft Kitchens for lunches and snacks, offering good nutrition and welcome menu variety.

Peanut butter and eggs are both good sources of protein, so important for growth and repair of the body. Jelly offers quick energy and stamina, needed by active youngsters and adults.

Another plus for this sandwich is the variety it offers through the use of different flavors of jellies and preserves. Serve it with grape jelly for lunch Monday and take an encore with strawberry preserves for a snack Friday! No matter when you serve it, one thing's certain—this new approach to an old favorite is sure to be a hit with your family—and you too!

Grilled Peanut Butter And Jelly Sandwich

- 8 slices white bread
- Soft Parkay Margarine
- Peanut butter
- 2 eggs, beaten
- Kraft Pure Grape Jelly or
- 1/2 cup milk
- Strawberry Preserves

For each sandwich, spread one slice of bread with peanut butter; top with second slice of bread spread with jelly. Spread outside of sandwich with margarine. Dip in combined egg and milk mixture. Grill on both sides until lightly browned. 4 sandwiches.

USED TEA AS AN INGREDIENT IN PUNCH WILL REALLY BOWL OVER YOUR GUESTS AND FAMILY WITH DELIGHT ANY TIME OF THE YEAR. ADD FROZEN LEMONADE OR LIMEADE AND CREAMERY JUICE. IT MAKES A DRINK THAT'S THE PINK OF PERFECTION.

First Of The Season Apples Fresh From Carolina Mountains

Red and Golden Delicious apples from the mountain orchards of North Carolina are in your market now. These are the first apples to be picked in the season, and we can thank the Carolina climate for that! Warm days and cool nights hasten the ripening process so that these apples are marketed early in September—and all through the season, too.

Extra firm, extra crisp and juicy, Delicious apples are just right for eating out of hand or cooking in your favorite recipe. When selecting Delicious apples for cooking, be sure to pick fruit that is firm to the touch, otherwise they may tend to become overly soft.

Ham Stuffed Baked Apples—try them for breakfast or brunch, served with herbed scrambled eggs. There are good supplies of Delicious apples in your market. Enjoy your share now.

Ham Stuffed Baked Apples

- 6 large Red Delicious apples
- 1 cup finely chopped cooked ham or luncheon meat
- 1/4 cup soft bread crumbs
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped celery
- 1 teaspoon finely chopped fresh onion
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Wash apples, core, and remove a wide strip of peel around the tops. Mix ham, bread crumbs, celery, onion, salt and pepper; spoon about 3 tablespoons into each of the apple cavities. Place in a baking dish and add 1/2 inch hot water. Cover and bake in 350°F. oven for 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender, basting occasionally with liquid in baking dish. Makes 6 servings.

Lydon Urges Control Over Marsh Land Fill

John J. Lydon Jr., a candidate for the City Council from the new Ward 3, has urged amendment of Quincy's zoning ordinances to control not only the removal of earth from a site but the addition of landfill as well.

Lydon said his proposal was prompted by "large takings and fillings of ... marsh lands" in the Montclair area, which, he said, is depriving the people of Quincy from the benefits of their marsh.

"It is understandable and also profitable for the city to allow the selective development of marsh land," he said. "However, this process should be closely scrutinized and systemized by the city's governmental apparatus."

"A tract of land owned by the Gardener Corporation is the area of concern."

"Beginning in early September and continuing until the 27th of the month, area residents reported the repeated dumping of land fill onto that tract. This filling causes a two-pronged problem."

"First, the filling operation is abridging the total benefits received from the marsh land."

"Second, the filling operation and the method in which it is being conducted is causing the Montclair residents certain dangers and discomforts."

"Much of the fill is of the loose, finer grained form. This presents a dust problem for the residents of Montclair."

"Further, the fill which has already been deposited, reaches a height of 20 to 30 feet. This presents the children of the area with a Mecca for their play activities ... One would immediately see the inherent dangers."

Lydon said he investigated the problem and discovered that "Neither had the city issued permits for this operation nor did any statement of plans exist in the Departments of Conservation, Planning or Building."

"This fact amazed me. Is it legal within the City of Quincy to perform such an operation without the consent or without some limitations being imposed on the contractor?"

Lydon suggested that the Quincy Conservation Commission issue a cease and desist order to halt the filling of the land while the city investigates the possibility of buying it as part of its policy to seek more open space.

He also urged that a committee made up of representatives of the Planning, Building, Engineering and Conservation Departments be formed to study the land filling practices in the city.

In the meantime, he asked that the Gardener Corporation construct a fence around the fill site, use canvas or net to cover loose fill and "make known your ultimate objective in the filling of this land."

Emery Fontaine Seeks Ward 3 Seat

Emery C. Fontaine Jr., of 68 Churchill Rd., Quincy, announces his candidacy for the new Ward 3 Council Seat.

Fontaine is the sales manager for Duggan Brothers Chevrolet, North Quincy Garage Co. He is married to the former Jean Keith of North Quincy and is the father of two boys. He is also a life-long resident of Quincy and a graduate of the Quincy School System.

He said he will listen to the will of the people. "Their rights, hopes and desires must be adhered to," he said. He said that "the interest of the homeowners must be protected. The people who live in the ward should have a say when outside interests wish to infringe on their rights."

"Tax dollars should be spent wisely especially in the area of education and facilities. We must have quality education for our children without further burdening the home owners and tax payers."

Fontaine said he will conduct a hard-working, door-to-door, meet-the-people campaign.

Fontaine said he believes his extensive experience in business and his leadership ability in an executive position will benefit the residents of Ward 3 in the City Council Chambers.

Trubiano Sees Unemployment A Major Issue

George A. Trubiano, candidate for mayor of Quincy, sees unemployment as one of the major issues of the campaign.

"Unemployment is not only a problem that should be handled nationally but one that should be handled locally as well," he said in a statement Tuesday.

"The city government should encourage job fairs by local businessmen to hire local help, which would go a long way toward cutting down the more than 10 per cent unemployment rate in Quincy."

"I would give tax relief to businessmen who will train unemployed local men for new jobs."

Trubiano, said that, as a candidate, he would be happy to meet with any civic group to discuss the problems of the city and, as mayor, he would set up a schedule of meetings once a month with such groups.

Key to the 5-P System for Saving: Persistence

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Hallowbrook
8-4 Weekdays 9-7:30 Thursdays

The key factor in his 5-P formula for financial success, my wealthy friend said, is Persistence.

He had previously developed the other four Ps for wealth—Point of View, Purpose, Program, and Precaution.

"Here we come to the human tendency to slough off, to lose enthusiasm and zeal. That's why, if you are not engaged in some program of automatic saving, such as a payroll deduction plan, you must develop—and persistently follow through—your own systematic method."

This is something each person best tailors for himself, according to his present daily living pattern. "If, for example," he went on, "it is customary for a household to pay its bills on the first of the month, the husband or wife should make the 'bill for savings' a part of this ritual."

Persistence in the savings habit can be achieved through a system of hoarding coins—pennies, dimes, half dollars—that are in pocket or purse at the end of each day. One person we know of has saved pennies in this fashion for twenty years, sometimes amassing as much as $150 a year. These are not accumulated over the entire year but are transferred each month to the savings account—in order to take full advantage of their earnings.

Those whose savings purposes are strong will be persistent enough to forego certain luxuries in the interest of developing cash for savings that are not now in their budgets. One couple had an annual expenditure of $500 for liquor but practically nothing for savings. They resolved to split this amount in two, simply by cutting their pre-dinner cocktails and other drinking and putting half into a savings account.

"We found ourselves agreeing with the wag who said that one martini is fine, two are too many, and three are not enough; we now get just as much enjoyment and companionship from our cocktail hour, we are feeling better, and we have found a way to add to our savings." This couple is now looking into its living routine to find other spots susceptible of cutbacks and economies.

With these days of increasing spare time, some people find themselves with more leisure than they know what to do with. If their income seems barely adequate for them to get by, they may give thought to utilizing their special skills and talents in part-time employment.

The trick here is to consider the side occupation as something entered into voluntarily for the purpose of building personal or family financial resources. It must not become another source of income for present needs; if it does, the person feels himself entrapped in a treadmill existence and loses all the satisfaction that comes with a sense of getting ahead financially.

"There you have them, my five Ps for Savings," concluded my friend. "Keep them constantly before you and you are on your way to financial growth."

George Regan Honored By House Of Representatives

Rep. Clifford Marshall [D-Quincy] at a recent ceremony at the State House Hall of Flags, presented a citation from House of Representatives to George K. Regan Sr., of 214 Arlington St., Wollaston, commending him on his recent recognition from the Department of Defense.

Regan, a resident of Quincy for the past 20 years, was cited by the Defense Department for his "superior accomplishments and leadership which has greatly boosted this country's defense efforts."

Schooled at MIT, in engineering and design and planning, Regan was also cited by the Defense Department for his efforts with the Department of the Navy, during the recent Vietnam conflict when a great strain was placed upon the operation of the Seventh Fleet.

Regan has traveled to Naval Bases across the country, to insure the quality of the work, as well as supervise in the training of craftsmen.

Attached to the Boston Naval Shipyard, Regan has received several awards in the past, commending him for his efforts.

Marshall in making the presentation of the citation, which was signed by House Speaker David Bartley, commended Regan for his work, while congratulating him on behalf of the entire City of Quincy.

GEORGE REGAN (left) of Wollaston receives citation from Rep. Clifford Marshall citing him for his work with the Department of Defense.

Following the presentation, a party was held at Lombardo's in East Boston.

Married to the former Ann Kowalski, Regan has three children.

Michael Peatridge Seeks Ward 5 Seat

Michael J. Peatridge of 64 Ellington Rd., Wollaston, announces his candidacy for the City Council Seat in new Ward 5.

Peatridge had originally announced his intention to run for Councillor in the old Ward 5 May 1.

In re-announcing his candidacy, he said that while knocking on doors and meeting people throughout the new Ward 5 the most frequent complaints were about high taxes and the deterioration of Wollaston Beach.

He said he supports a bill now under consideration by the State Legislature which would place beaches and Parkways under local control.

Peatridge, who heads a consulting firm, is a long-time Quincy resident. He attended Quincy Public Schools, North Quincy High School and Northeastern University. In addition he has been active in community organizations, Youth programs, scouting, the North Quincy Knights of Columbus. He has also served as research assistant for the Quincy Planning Board studying Federal Grant to the City of Quincy.

Peatridge said he believes the new Ward 5 consisting of all but three precincts of the old Ward 5, will better enable him to be more responsive to, and to better serve the people of Wollaston.

MLS Sales In Quincy-S.S. Increase

$6.7 Million In Half - Year

The latest statistics compiled by the Massachusetts Association of Real Estate Boards show a $51 million increase in Multiple Listing Service [MLS] housing sales in the state during the first half of 1973.

Reports received from 24 Boards of Realtors throughout the state showed a total sales volume of $227,905,865 based on 7,357 housing sales, as compared with $176,724,263 and 6,232 sales during the first six months of 1972.

The average sales price for residential properties rose $678 during the second quarter of 1973 to reach a new high of $30,923. This was in contrast to a $1,724 increase in the first quarter.

Gerald C. Melanson, Chairman of the Quincy & South Shore Board of Realtors Multiple Listing Service said the cooperative efforts of local Realtors resulted in MLS sales of $4.5 million during the second quarter of 1973, and a total of $6.7 million for the half-year in this area of the state.

Melanson said, "The steady increase in MLS sales throughout the first half of 1973 reflect an ever-increasing demand for residential housing, which has continued unabated in this state for the past three years."

He noted that this has been accompanied by a steady increase in the cost of residential housing and that the average sales price of residential properties in this area has now reached $30,300.

Norfolk County Trust Offers Customer Option Loan

Money management is the theme and the basic premise behind the new Customer Option Loan developed by Norfolk County Trust Company.

A spokesman for the bank indicated that with the introduction of the Customer Option Loan, Norfolk County Trust will make available to customers auto loans, home improvement loans, and personal loans computed on a simple interest basis spiced with interesting options.

By permitting customers to take a payment holiday and choose months when it is to their advantage not to pay, the bank is encouraging customers to plan carefully for unusual months and periods, such as vacations, that play havoc with family budgets. In addition, a flexible payment date allows the customer to select a different date each month to pay if desired.

Under the Customer Option Loan, borrowers are also entitled to a preferred rate when they elect to have their loan payment automatically deducted from their checking account. And at the end of each month, the bank issues each customer a statement spelling out all the details.

More and more, the public is learning to manage money affairs skillfully, and Norfolk County Trust Company, by providing these new customer options and loan statements, is encouraging the public to do so.

Robert Denvir Ward 1 Candidate

Robert F. Denvir of 111 Spring St., Houghs Neck, announces his candidacy for City Councillor in the newly-constituted Ward 1.

Denvir has been active in a variety of community projects in the 15 years he has lived in Quincy. Chief among his interests, he said, have been the protection and preservation of the marshlands and open space in the city.

He noted he has also fought consistently against the encroachment of multiple-family dwellings in areas of single family homes but he has supported their construction in the properly zoned sectors as a means of securing additional revenue for the city.

Denvir was appointed to the Quincy School Building Needs Committee early this year. Other civic and service associations are the Quincy Citizens' Association; President of the member of Local 133 AFL-CIO. He is also a member of the South-West Community Council, South Quincy Civic Association and Quincy Citizens Association. Halter is also a lifelong resident of Quincy.

Under redistricting, Ward 4 comprises seven precincts. They are former 3-2, 3-3, 3-4 and 4-1, 4-2, 4-3, and 4-4.

Building Corporation of American Legion Post No. 380. Past President and Treasurer of the Houghs Neck Community Council.

A graduate of Bentley College of Accounting and Finance, Denvir is employed as Director of Purchasing for Action for Boston Community Development, Inc.

In declaring his reasons for seeking the Ward 1 Council seat, Denvir cited his education and experience. He pointed out that he is the only announced candidate from the area with a financial background "which is essential in this era of high budgets and soaring costs."

Mr. and Mrs. Denvir, who have lived at the Spring St. address since moving to Quincy, have four daughters, Carol, a freshman at Emmanuel College; Virginia, a junior at Quincy High School; Lorraine, in the seventh grade at Broad Meadows Junior High, and Frances, who is in the second grade at the Atherton Hough School.

Teal Building Problems Solved

By MARY POOLE

The Teal Building, which houses the Social Studies Department, was awarded funds for a two-week summer workshop to face and attempt to overcome certain teaching-learning problems that had become apparent during the first year of the Teal Building's use.

While attempting to conduct classes, teachers had encountered overwhelming factors of noise and confusion that stemmed from overcrowding of the two separate multi-classroom learning centers. At the workshop, approximately 11 teachers worked with their department head, Miss Torney, in developing several new approaches toward more effective methods of teaching in "open space."

The group has set in motion a system that abandons the traditional methods; that of teacher-lecturer versus class.

"Team teaching" is a group effort to establish a harmonious, productive open classroom situation by compromising and rescheduling lesson plans. Classes that coincide are planned carefully; thus while one group works with a teacher, visual aides or individual work is being done by the others. This practice has required a tremendous adjustment on the part of the teachers, yet has already proven extremely effective in controlling the noise factor.

A second device employed successfully at the building is the "conceptual approach" to teaching, in which classes studying the same subject are allowed to intermingle for a broader understanding of their topic.

Schedules were juggled to allow most of these students to be taught together during the same period and in the same building section. The subject course is divided into several area study groups headed by teachers that concentrate on one special concept of the topic, and receive rotating shifts of students for periodic learning sessions.

Currently being used in 10th grade World History classes, the "conceptual approach" relieves some of the burden of overcrowded classes; many teachers send one half of their students to the main school library for special research or quiet study.

'With a reduction in the total number of students in the building at any one time, and a noticeable decrease in its confusion level, the Teal Building is well on its way to fulfilling the aspirations of its supervisor Miss Torney. She and her teacher colleagues are "striving to create an atmosphere of self-learning, and encourage students to continue the vital process of education throughout their lives."

N.Q. Science Club Activities Underway

North Quincy High's Science Club started its year with a field trip to the New England Aquarium.

This was a release day for students, so two members of the Promoters of Math and Science Club acted as chaperones for the group.

One of the Science Club's annual activities is participation in the Science Department Open House to be held on Thursday, Oct. 25th. Members of the Club not only set up exhibits, but also assist teachers in demonstrations and aid in guiding parents and other visitors from room to room.

The Club is looking forward to a good year, with a field trip in December to the Museum of Science, guest speakers from industry and the annual Science Fair in March. Assisting in the activities will be the Promoters of Math and Science and school personnel. Officers this year are Diane Dunn, president, and Janet Gallagher, secretary.

National Honor Society Elects 1973-74 Officers

Newly elected officers of the 1973-74 National Honor Society at North Quincy High are: President, Jeanne Grazier; Vice-President, Patricia Bleehen; Secretary, Steven Constant; and Treasurer, Janet Gallagher.

Gale E. Flanagan, Joanne Govoni, Majorie B. Landa, Leo

D. McKillip, and Allison M. Sheridan have received Letters of Commendation honoring them for their high performance on the 1972 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation has named 38,000 Commended students throughout the United States. These students are among the upper two percent of those who are expected to graduate from high school in 1974.

SPOOK HATERS

Will your child be a Halloween casualty this year? Hundreds of parents were shocked last year when their children returned from trick or treat rounds with poisoned popcorn, booby-trapped apples, and sabotaged candy. For some families Halloween was marked with tragedies that will be difficult to forget.

In Oneida, New York, police received reports of popcorn made with mothballs and soap. In Syracuse, the Mayor's daughter collected a candy bar with a needle hidden inside. In Dayton, Ohio, a 12-year-old lad cut open an apple he received and found a razor blade inside. A 3-year-old Middletown, New York toddler wasn't so lucky; he suffered severe mouth lacerations after biting into an apple containing a concealed razor blade. More than 400 Ventura, California parents called police to report sabotaged fruit and tack-filled popcorn.

What can be done about this? In my column next week, we'll talk about some of the solutions.

Drama Course Students Planning 4 Productions

By BARBARA RHILINGER

Due to the tremendous success of last spring's musical production of "The Music Man," a drama course, run by Miss Byrne, is offered sixth period, first semester and fourth period, second semester.

Since Drama is offered as a course now the scope of activities of the students involved is far greater than that of the after school Drama Club that we have had in the past. Although there is a Drama Course offered, the after school group is still active.

The Drama students are now involved in working on student versions of four children's stories. "The Wizard of Oz" will be directed by Jim McCarthy. Mary Poole will play the role of Dorothy, who believes "there's no place like home."

"Mary Poppins" will also come alive on stage directed by Tom Goslin. Barbara Rhilinger will play opposite Billy McLaughlin when they take over the roles of Mary and Bert.

A third student adaptation will be "The Princess and the Pea" under the direction of Kevin Veronneau. The after school group is engaged in "Cinderella" directed by Ed Goslin.

These children's stories will be performed for elementary children some time in November.

At the end of October, the drama students hope to have a professional stage manager, lighting technician and costume designer come to the school to share their professional experiences with the students.

Through a special federal grant, some of the students will participate in a program dealing with dance and drama run by the Utah Repertory Dance Theatre. This will take place in the middle of the first semester.

In early March, North's Drama Course will prepare a one-act play which will be our entry into the State Drama Festival. Last year North's entry was "The Mice Have Been Drinking Again", for which the students earned Honorable Mention. Kevin Veronneau was elected to the "All-Star Cast."

Later in March, the drama students have an engagement at a women's club in Quincy. Miss Byrne hopes to have the students perform another one-act play somewhat on the comical side.

In the spring the choir, band and drama students hope to combine their talents to perform another musical production of the same scope as "The Music Man."

The Drama students will sponsor a dance on Oct. 20, to raise money. This dance will feature "Horizon".

Shoe Villa Opens At 40 Billings Rd.

A new shoe store has opened in an old spot in North Quincy. The Shoe Villa at 40 Billings Rd., operated by Robert Nannis, will deal in nationally advertised brands of women's and children's shoes at discount prices.

The site was formerly occupied for more than 40 years by Harry's Shoes.

Mr. Nannis, who also has another Shoe Villa on Route 138 in Stoughton, has spent more than 20 years in the shoe business.

He has been district manager for Harry Karl Shoes on the West Coast, assistant buyer and manager of women's shoes for Bonwit Teller in Boston, and manager and assistant buyer for I. Miller's Guild House in Boston.

In his last post, he was manager of a women's shoe store in Chestnut Hill.

A resident of Quincy for most of his adult life, Mr. Nannis lives with his wife, Ruth, at 20 Brae Rd., Quincy.

They have a daughter, Lisa, a junior at Quincy High School,

SHOE VILLA owner Robert Nannis points out to Mayor Walter Hannon some of the styles available in women's and children's shoes at his new quality discount shoe store at 40 Billings Rd., North Quincy. Brian Faherty Issues Senior Class Info

By DEBBIE O'DAY

I held an interview with Brian (Brinks) Faherty, the Senior Class President. In talking to Brian some interesting senior class news was found out.

First of all, Brian would like to thank senior class members for all contributions to the Cancer Fund in memory of Kevin Morrison and Mrs. Ilernin. Some $73.01 was collected.

Homeroom representatives will be elected some time in the near future. Brian feels these representatives are important to bring news to the homerooms, so that students will be informed, therefore bringing the class closer together.

The bicycle rack will be put in out front within two weeks and will be supervised.

The Senior Class is sponsoring redoing the scoreboard out in front of the school. A new paint job and new plaques for games and dates are expected.

Brian would like to form a student "pick-up" crew for the smoking area. This crew would clean up the back every week or so.

Another issue brought up was student parking. Mr. Chisom put in a proposal for student parking at the Teale building. Approximately 100 cars should fit into this space. This will hopefully go into effect before the cold months.

Dialogue Of Prayer For Church Women United Sunday

A Dialogue on Prayer will be given by Rev. and Mrs. Marvin Dirks at the first annual prayer service and breakfast of Church Women United in Quincy at Memorial Congregational Church, North Quincy, starting at 7 a.m. on Sunday.

Rev. Dirks, who served recently as interim pastor at Quincy Centre Methodist Church, is a teacher of voice and speech at Eastern Nazarene College. Mrs. Dirks is coordinator of special education for the Quincy Public Schools.

The service will be led by Rev. M. Alicia Corea, associate pastor of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church. Rev. Douglas MacIntosh, pastor of Memorial Congregational Church, will also take part.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacCallum will sing duets, and Dale Haugen will be organist. Ushers are Mrs. Pat Larkin and Mrs. Laura Kottis of Wollaston Church of the Nazarene; Mrs. Hannah Robertson and Mrs. Lucy Tooley of Memorial Church.

The program, which takes the place of the annual communion breakfast, has been arranged by Mrs. Lillian Tokarski of Wollaston Church of the Nazarene and her committee.

Mrs. Mattie Walman and Mrs. Ruth Matthews are in charge of reservations for the continental breakfast, and tickets will be available at the church on Sunday. Mrs. George P. Stephen, president of Church Women United, will welcome guests to the breakfast.

Other committee members are Mrs. Martha Reid, Mrs. Andrew Rankin, Miss Mary Bair and Mrs. Dirks.

The service is open to all.

City Receives Federal Funds To Start R.S.V.P. Program

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announces receipt of initial funding from the federal ACTION program enabling the City to commence operation of R.S.V.P. (Retired Seniors Volunteer Program).

Mayor Hannon said, "We believe this program will prove extremely valuable, both in providing needed assistance to community service projects and in demonstrating that senior citizens can continue to play an important role in our City."

R.S.V.P. is a federal program open to all residents 60 years of age or older. It provides the means of bringing older volunteers together with service agencies requiring their help. In addition, reimbursement is available to participants for travel and meal expense incurred in performance of duties.

"We plan to have this program on the road during November," said Putnam S.

Borden, executive director of the Quincy Council on Aging, the recipient agency. "However, there are needs for volunteers now and I would be pleased to have any senior citizen interested contact me at my office. I can arrange placement and have the individual enrolled as a participant at the start of the program."

Borden can be reached at the Quincy Council on Aging [773-1380, Ext. 243].

Seniors Thank Gillis, Staff For Voter Registration Aid

A vote of thanks has been given City Clerk John Gillis and his staff by residents of Quincy's elderly housing complexes for voter registration assistance.

At the request of Mayor Walter J. Hannon, arrangements were made by Gillis and Putnam

S. Borden, Executive director, Council on Aging, to send voter registration teams to 1000 Southern Artery, Fenno House, Oceanview, Snug Harbor Court, Sawyer Tower, Louis George, and Pagnano Tower to service senior residents who had moved to the building since the last election.

In so doing, new residents from out of town will now be eligible to vote this year and those who had previously lived within Quincy will avoid having to return to their former precincts.

550 March Against Dystrophy Sunday

Some 550 Quincy residents will serve as volunteers in the March Against Dystrophy to be held here Sunday.

Deputy Fire Chief Thomas F. Maguire, campaign chairman, said, "We are grateful to the many Quincy citizens who have given their support in the March Against Dystrophy, the Associations' annual educational and fund-raising drive."

A major national voluntary health agency, MDAA, carries out a comprehensive research program, embracing both basic and clinical research through grants and aid to leading scientists in the U.S. and 15 foreign countries. More than $370,000 was spent during the past year on research experiments within the greater Boston area.

Firefighters To Distribute MDAA Canisters Monday

Chief Edward F. Barry announces that Quincy firefighters will be assisting the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc., Norfolk/Plymouth Chapter again this year with the distribution of canisters.

The firefighters will be delivering canisters to area business establishments starting Monday, Oct. 13. The canisters will be on display for approximately six weeks.

The firefighter support helps raise funds which provide a wide variety of patient services including orthopedic appliances, patient transportation, and recreational activities.

Health Council To Meet Oct. 16

Area 524 of the Health Planning Council will meet at 9:30 a.m., Oct. 16, at the Donald Edmundson Hall, 480 Quincy Ave., Quincy.

Presidents Seek Offense At Malden

QUINCY Sun Sports Section

Quincy's football team continues to shine defensively but still has trouble scoring and Coach Hank Conroy hopes this situation will change Saturday when the Presidents travel to Malden for a 1:30 p.m. Greater Boston League game.

Scoring only one touchdown in three games, Quincy takes a 0-2-1 record into the game and, despite Malden's 0-3 mark, Conroy expects considerable trouble from the big Golden Tornado.

Malden lost to Waltham, 16-0, and Haverhill, 28-0, in non-league games and last week 38-13 to North Quincy in its league opener.

The Presidents, following defeats at the hands of Weymouth South and Revere, outplayed Everett last week but had to be satisfied with a scoreless tie as fumbles and penalties foiled several good drives.

"Our 'crunch brunch' defense [last year known as the 'thunder-chickens'] was outstanding," said Assistant Bud Mosher, speaking in the absence of Conroy. "These kids did a remarkable job but again our offense sputtered badly when we reached their 20-yard line."

Mosher singled out Bob Pettiti for his two-way performance, Mike Varrasso for his two-way effort [he spilled Everett's quarterback for losses several times], Billy Joyce, a defensive back; Bob Benn and backs Preston Carroll and Dan McDermott for their ball carrying, McDermott especially in the second half."

"I've been telling the linemen they are the best I have had in my four years at Quincy," Assistant John Bogan added. "There has been no complaint at all with the way they have been playing but we have to get our offense clicking."

Assistant Dave Burke credited guards Bob O'Neil and Jim French for excellent blocking and said that Robin Carrera played his best game at quarterback.

Mosher also enthused at the play of two sophomores seeing their first varsity game action. "John Riggs came up and played his cousin Paul's line backer spot and did an outstanding job," Bud said.

"And Paul Vespesiani ran well when called upon."

Quincy fumbled five times and three times Everett recovered to halt promising drives. Fumbles also hurt Everett as Quincy recovered three of its four.

Quincy marched from its 20 to Everett's 30 in the opening period and, after Everett held, the Presidents recovered a fumble but were set back by penalties.

Everett controlled the ball for most of the second period and had its only real scoring chance when a pass completion put it on Quincy's 12.

In the third period Quincy drove from its 40 to Everett's 18 but was halted.

A Quincy player touched an Everett punt and Everett fell on the ball on Quincy's 41 but Pettiti soon recovered a fumble. Carrera passed to Carroll for 28 yards to the 30 and Quincy reached the 12 but was held.

With fourth down on its own six and time for only two plays, Everett rushed instead of kicking and Quincy had one last play. Here it could have used Kim Derbes, place kicking specialist, out with a leg injury. With no one to try a field goal, the Presidents tried to pass but it went incomplete.

Conroy had planned several changes in his lineup following the Revere game but had to make others not of his own choosing due to a rash of injuries.

The most serious loss, as far as last week's game was concerned, was that of Derbes, an accomplished place kicker. Conroy could have called upon him on more than one occasion and the chances are he would have clicked for at least one field goal and probably more.

Dave Sten, huge tackle, was out of the lineup, necessitating a two-way game by Pettiti, and Paul Riggs, who hasn't seen any action yet, continued on the sidelines, resulting in cousin John's promotion from the sophomore team.

Quincy netted 116 yards rushing to only 30 for Everett and picked up 55 yards passing with four for 13 while Everett had 71 yards through the air with four for 11.

North Poses Threat To Quincy

This is the last year for the Quincy and North Quincy soccer teams in the Norfolk Association and if the Presidents hope to capture their third straight league title, they will have their hand full.

One of the teams with an excellent chance of unseating them is cross-town rival North Quincy.

This is the third season for the Norfolk Association and next year Quincy and North will join the strong Suburban League in all sports. They will find the competition in the Suburban much stronger than in their present league.

Quincy and North met for the first time this year last week and wound up in a scoreless tie after two overtime periods.

The tie gave Quincy, now unbeaten in 31 straight league games, a 4-0-3 record and North a 5-1-1 mark. Thus, they were tied for the league lead with 11 points each.

Tuesday North hosted B.C. High, the only team to defeat it, and Quincy played at Foxboro. Today the Raiders play at Franklin, Saturday morning at 10, Quincy is home to Sharon. Next Tuesday it will be Quincy at Norfolk Aggies and Foxboro at North Quincy.

Quincy Coach Ron Martin is concerned at the Presidents' failure to score, as they had scored only two goals in the last three games. Although failing to score, North moved the ball much better than Quincy as the Presidents' brilliant goalie, Mike Cullen, had 20 saves to only seven for North's Gary Mankin.

Center Halfback Bob Boyle, Cullen and the whole Quincy defense played excellent ball.

"It was an even game and was typical of the game we usually play," North Coach Lou Iannelli said. "We both came up with good team efforts. But, I'm never satisfied with a tie."

In gaining their sixth successive shutout following a

2-0 opening day loss to B.C. High, the Raiders had top performances from fullback Mike Devine and halfback Bob Brown.

Earlier in the week Quincy tied B.C. High, 1-1, while North rolled over Norfolk Aggies, 5-0.

Quincy took the lead in the first period on a goal by Massimo Ranalli. Boyle assisted. B.C. High tied it in the second period and the teams battled for four scoreless periods with no more scoring.

Dave Sullivan scored twice for North and Kevin Roche, Steve Miller and Bob Dolbec scored once each. Jim Mullaney assisted on three goals, with Miller and Gerry Glynn having one assist apiece.

Flynn Shatters Malden

Raiders Ready For Undefeated Medford

By TOM SULLIVAN

Greater Boston League fans can sing the praises of such running backs as Joe Festa of Revere and others, but as far as North Quincy Coach Ralph Frazier is concerned, the Raiders' John Flynn ranks with the best of them.

"I think John is a good as any running back in the state," Frazier said last Saturday after the hard-running halfback had sparked North to an impressive comeback 38-13 league win over Malden at Veterans' Memorial Stadium.

Frazier and his assistants had suffered through two frustrating afternoons against Revere and Weymouth North and for a period and a half last week it looked like another long afternoon as Malden took a 13-0 lead.

However, led by the brilliant Flynn, who gained 173 yards himself and scored two touchdowns, North came back with a vengeance and out-classed the big visitors the rest of the way.

"I just hope this game turns things around for us and gets us over the hump," Frazier added. "Schoolboys can let down when they fall 13 points behind, but these kids certainly didn't. They were just great."

This was North's first home game of the season and Saturday it will again be at the stadium when it meets Medford in a 1:30 GBL game.

Medford comes to town unbeaten, defeating Somerville, 12-7, last week after topping Boston Latin, 12-0, and Chelsea, 27-6. Somerville and Chelsea were league contests.

Flynn picked up his 173 yards despite losing six one time on a fumble. His longest run was 44 yards but his power running was superb as he constantly dragged two and three defenders along for extra yardage.

"I wouldn't want to pick out

a particular player on defense as the entire line was outstanding," Frazier said. "They gave up yardage at the start but settled down and did a tremendous job the rest of the way."

Bruce Stephansky gave Flynn able running support as he picked up 53 yards and scored a touchdown. Carl Leone played another standout game at quarterback and a clutch pass to Mark Reale for a touchdown in the third period clinched it for North.

"Carl is an excellent quarterback and called just about every play himself today," Frazier explained. "I called a lot of the plays in the first two games but today I gave Carl five plays and told him 'you call them, you are on your own,' and he did the job. I told him to go with the power and it paid off."

Rick Desmond was singled out for his blocking, as he cleared the way on several good runs.

It didn't look good for North at the start as Malden took the opening kickoff and drove 72 yards for a touchdown, clicking off five first downs. Don Roach passed to Stan Langston for the touchdown and Dom Pedulla kicked the point.

Early in the second period Leone was back to punt but the pass from center was high and Carl slipped and fell, Malden taking over on North's 39. Three plays later Jeff Sullivan, apparently stopped at the line of scrimmage, squirted away and raced 30 yards for the score.

North got rolling after the kickoff and, sparked by Flynn's 44-yard run, drove 66 yards with Flynn scoring on a 10-yarder. Leone rushed for the points.

Dennis McGuire intercepted a pass on Malden's 44 to start the goahead drive later in the second period. Flynn and Stephansky carried to the nine from where Stephansky scored and Leone again rushed for the points, putting the Raiders ahead, 16-13, at halftime.

The play that broke Malden's back came early in the third period after North drove from its 28. With fourth and 10 on Malden's 21, Leone hit Mark Reale with a perfectly-thrown pass with Reale just making the corner of the end zone. Leone pitched back to Flynn, who added the points.

Another pass interception, this one by George Hill, started North on its next touchdown drive from its own 14, on the second play of the last period. The Raiders, with Flynn and Stephansky doing virtually all the running, went 86 yards with Flynn scoring from the nine. Again Leone rushed for the points.

North received a big break late in the game for its final touchdown. On a punt situation, the pass from the Malden center went over Dan Provola's head into the end zone. Provola took it out to the one and on the first play Terry Egan scored. North, whose big weakness for years has been extra points, apparently clicked on all five tries but Mike Meehan's run was nullified by a penalty. The Raiders just missed as a completed pass just fell short.

North Quincy ground out 237 net yards rushing to only 40 for Malden. The Raiders had 34 yards passing with two for seven while Malden had 39 yards with four of 13 and two interceptions. North had 15 first downs to seven for the losers.

Game Ball Presented To Mrs. Murphy

Following last week's win over Malden, the North Quincy football players signed the game ball and presented it to Mrs. Charles Murphy, whose husband died during the summer.

Charlie, custodian at North Quincy High and one of the Raiders' greatest boosters, manned the west gate at Veterans Memorial Stadium at North's games and last Saturday's home opener marked the first time in nearly 30 years he was missing.

A benefit dance for the Charlie Murphy scholarship fund will be held Nov. 3 at North Quincy High, most of the proceeds going to a scholarship in Murphy's name. Music will be donated by Horizon.

Central, Atlantic Soccer Winners

Central edged Sterling and Atlantic defeated Point by identical 2-1 scores Oct. 3 in Junior High School Soccer League games.

Bruce Brennan and Peter Bourikas had the goals for Central and Lou Avitable got one for Sterling.

Matt Schaefer and Brian Morrissey had the Atlantic Goals.

● Junior High

Central Girls Title Contenders

Something new has been added to the Quincy junior high school sports program, girls' basketball.

The new girls' teams got underway last week and the league is being watched closely by the high school coaches, Gale Palmer of Quincy and Barbara Webster of North Quincy.

The basketball games are being played in the fall instead of winter because there are no other girls' sports in junior high in the fall and it gives the high school coaches a chance to keep a close watch.

The high school coaches are delighted that the sport has at long last been started in the junior high schools.

"You must have a good junior high program if you hope to have a good high school team," Miss Palmer said and her sentiments were echoed by Miss Webster. "Without a junior high program you have to start from scratch when the girls reach high school, although some do get some experience in church leagues."

From early indications Central, coached by "old pro" Mary Pratt, looks like a top contender for the first league title.

Central started off with an easy 49-20 win over Sterling and followed with a 22-20 squeaker over Point.

Jackie Little scored 28 points against Sterling, while Joyce Flynn had nine. Lois Malvesti scored 12 and Leah DePolo six for Sterling.

In the close win over Point, Miss Little had 10, including two game-winning foul shots, while Peggy Thorley scored nine for Point. Enid Braveman excelled on defense for Central and Ruth Salomaa rebounded strongly.

Miss Pratt's junior varsity team also started with two wins. It romped over Sterling, 17-2, paced by Nancy Smith's nine points, and topped Point, 10-6, as Beth McCarthy scored four points. Janine Mudge and Laine Galvin also scored. Kathy Flaherty had the only basket in Sterling's loss.

Atlantic-North opened with an 18-11 win over Broad Meadows as Laura Bilotas had eight points and Carol Lynch scored seven for Meadows.

Broad Meadows jayvees squeezed by Atlantic, 8-6, with Claire Connolly scoring three points for the winners and Kathy Campbell playing fine ball.

Sterling bounced back from its opening loss to bomb Broad Meadows, 31-16, as Miss Malvesti scored 13 points and Miss DePolo six. Susan Rugg had six for Meadows.

Broad Meadows shut out the Sterling junior varsity, 18-0, with Kathy Scheurch scoring six points, Lynn Powers and Brenda Morrison four each.

Tuesday Sterling played at Atlantic-North and Point at Broad Meadows. Today [Thursday] it is Atlantic-North at Central and Point at Sterling and next Tuesday Central will be at Broad Meadows and Atlantic-North at Point.

Miss Pratt, who was the first girls' softball coach at Quincy High, a few years back was one of the outstanding woman athletes in New England if not the entire country. She also is a prominent official.

The other coaches are Corrine Donovan at Broad Meadows, Mary Younie at Atlantic-North, Katherine Bertrand at Point and Janet Avitable at Sterling.

Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone, largely responsible for the new junior high sport, expressed himself as "delighted with the enthusiasm and sportsmanship displayed by all teams and their student bodies."

A-N, Central Battle To Scoreless Tie

Eddie McElaney narrowly missed a 35-yard field goal as Atlantic-North and Central ninth graders battled to a scoreless tie in a Junior High School Football League game last Friday.

Atlantic-North eighth graders captured their contest with Central by the margin of a safety, 2-0.

Central's seventh graders turned the tables on Atlantic-North with a 6-0 victory on a touchdown by Mike Oriola and fine line play by Tom Quinn.

Jimmy Maze scored two touchdowns to lead Sterling's eighth graders to a 24-0 win over Broad Meadows Wednesday [Oct. 3]. Eddie Richards had the other touchdown with Ricky Gilbody, Marc Merles and Mark Neville adding the extra points.

Ross Noble ran for one score and Mark Buchanan passed to Arthur O'Connor for another to provide Sterling's ninth grade team a 14-0 decision over Broad Meadows. John Milani made the extra points.

Jimmy Wojciechowski got the only touchdown for Sterling's seventh graders as they edged Broad Meadows, 6-0.

Veronica's Room An Evil Catharsis

By WILLIAM JEROME

A Catharsis takes place on the stage of the Colonial Theatre in the current offering of Ira Levin's new thriller.

It is an evil catharsis. This being Halloween time it is an opportunity for you to pit your imagination against his — Remember, however, he is the author of "Rosemary's Baby".

In two and a half hours, within two acts, Ellis Rabb directs top stars who set out to outwit the unwary watcher.

A chatty maid, Eileen Heckart, attired in her "day off" clothes enters with her capped gardener husband, Arthur Kennedy, into a mighty high ceiling magenta wall-papered room. They bring a young man, Kipp Osborne and his date, Regina Baff with them — and begin their explanation of the "charade".

There is constant quick brogue chatter, familiar and cliché like from the two oldies. It contrasts with the slang and openness of the two starred young people.

The role-playing is to begin for the girl. A Sociology Major with a big interest in psychology — she begins to discover some fun in such an episode. Her date, a lawyer, has misgivings about going along with ones' fantasy.

In no time, the woman, Mrs. Mackey [Eileen Heckart] has the girl, hair swept back, looking youthful and pale in Nancy Potts' unusual costume of a recluse tubercular young rich girl.

The girl is left alone in the shrine-like setting of designer Douglas W. Schmidt's Charles Adams-like set.

Act one ends abruptly with the girl discovering she is locked in this macabre place. She pounds the heavy oaken door. We gasp. She is frozen into a role of Sissy, a 14-year old youngster in the year 1935. She consented to the game because as the old woman says, she has a warm heart.

Intermission affords the audience some moments to gather themselves. Levin throws out clues. The good ones he rations. We are befuddled and be-deviled. One expects from him — incense, ghouls, sulphur and moanings. He is on another tack Altogether.

Act Two offers a whole new ambience. A struggle of minds and bodies. Talk of the reality, belief and disbelief. The collegian [co-ed] born under Gemini, like the girl role Susan she is pretending — finds her locked into a struggle for sanity, mind, and freedom.

If you ever chilled at Gale Sondergard's movie roles of the cold indifferent woman — wait until you see Eileen Heckart in Act Two.

Few stars have the chameleon quality of Eileen Heckart. Tall and square jawed she can stoop her lean body for false humility and obsequiousness. Or again she can be haughty, proud, calculating and withal arrestingly attractive. This role is a gem in her highly successful career.

Worcester born Arthur Kennedy does credit to the Bay State with his versatility. Act Two with its unveiling of truth is made of strong stuff. Raw and strange unnering to say the least.

How you are upon discovering an un-holy trinity and three-fold sin is another thing. Could be, like Congress in one of the Speakers' quotes, "You have no stomach for such matters."

People are going to talk about this play for a long time to come. Call it a big hit of Hitchcock a la 1973. Youngsters can digest with their popcorn a triple horror show at drive-ins, and gain, some say, a bit of therapy, release as it were. Shock gives them group giggles.

We gasp at curtains' closing. The theme of unforgiveness ... the sight of sins that cry to heaven for vengeance leave us puzzled. We will all henceforth, the audiences of New Haven and Boston, so far, theologize on the saga of the "Brabazons" of Walpole.

A mighty powerful play, an engrossing set. A mind-boggling adventure — only a half hour away, as the girl discovers. In the final moment of the play, Eileen Heckart says, "Save those pieces of the puzzle, maybe I can glue them together."

You are invited to do the same. Make it your Halloween treat. The play continues at the Colonial until Oct. 20.

DANGEROUS DRIVERS

Drivers under 25 years of age hold 18.7 per cent of the driver licenses in the country, according to The Travelers Insurance Companies, but were involved in 28.5 per cent of 1972's highway fatalities.

$100 Million Center Plan Hailed

Thursday, October 18, 1973

PORTION OF SCALE MODEL of New Quincy Center downtown 100 million development. Showing new office building and retail development surrounding Quincy's Historic First Parish Church and City Hall.

3,500 Set To March In Veteran's Day Parade Monday

Some 3,500 marchers are expected to turn out Monday [Oct. 22] to honor the veterans of all wars in the annual Veterans Day Parade starting at 10:30 a.m. in the Ross Parkway and proceeding down School and Hancock Sts. to the Adams Academy building.

Navy Capt. John L. Murphy Jr., inspector general of the Naval Reserve at South Weymouth and a Boston attorney in civilian life, will be the main speaker at ceremonies at the academy building.

The observance will be conducted by the Quincy Veterans Council with Arthur G. McLean, commander of the council, as chief marshal and Anthony M. Famigletti, past commander, as chief of staff.

Also heading the parade will be aide de camps William Ash, junior commander of the council and Thomas Hurlebaus, senior vice commander, and adjutant Allen Kofman, past commander.

The 215th Army Band of the Massachusetts National Guard, Chairman John M. Gillis and staff, and Mayor Walter J. Hannon and national, state and city officials round out the lead division of the parade.

Invocation will be delivered by Rev. Frank K. Bauer, pastor Wollaston Lutheran Church; the Veterans Day prayer by the Rev. John McMahon, pastor St. Mary's Church; and the benediction by Rabbi Jacob Mann of Congregation Beth Israel.

Commander McLean will place the wreath at the statue of the Doughboy in front of the academy.

In addition to Capt. Murphy, remarks will be offered by Commander McLean, Mayor Hannon and City Clerk John M. Gillis.

The national anthem and taps will be played by the 215th Army Band and the volley will be fired by members of Morrisette American Legion Post.

Marshals of the three parade divisions will be Lawrence Carnali, Paul W. O'Neil and Roger Whitcomb.

John M. Gillis is chairman of the parade, assisted by co-chairmen Louis Simons, Lawrence S. Butler and Thomas McDonald.

Henry J. Williams will be officer of the day, Thomas B. Hanrahan sergeant at arms, and Ralph Paull assistant sergeant at arms.

Irving Isaacson and Richard Koch will serve as aides to invited guests.

Ground Broken For McIntyre Mall

Ground was broken Wednesday for McIntyre Mall, an area of grass and shrubbery on Hancock Street between the City Hall and the MBTA station.

The beautification project, which is expected to take three weeks, is budgeted for more than $100,000, most of which will be paid by the MBTA.

The mall is named in honor of the late Capt. William F. McIntyre, former head of the Quincy Police Detective Bureau and father of former Mayor James R. McIntyre.

You May Soon Park Free Friday Nights

Parking may soon be free for Friday night shoppers in downtown Quincy.

The City Council received favorably Monday night and referred to the Ordinance Committee a proposal by Councillor William D. Delahunt to permit free parking in metered spaces between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Friday.

The proposal, which must be advertised as an ordinance change, can be acted on by the Council as early as Nov. 5.

Delahunt said he made the proposal at the request of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, pointing out that free parking on a prime shopping evening would enhance the competitive status of Quincy stores.

By TOM HENSHAW

The $100 million proposal to revitalize downtown Quincy as laid out in the Hilgenhurst Report last week was generally hailed by the business and political community in a survey conducted by The Quincy Sun.

But there were elements of caution among the passions of praise and one question kept popping up:

"Where is all that money going to come from?"

The answer was supplied in general terms by City Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson when he told The Sun:

"The figure developed by the consultant for construction costs is $100 million.

"It breaks down to $80-85 million in private funds for new development, $5-10 million in private funds for rehabilitation of existing buildings, and $5 million in funds from federal, state and local government sources."

What that last statement boils down to is that Quincy had better be enthusiastic because it has a heck of a lot of selling to do before the Hilgenhurst proposals become reality over the next 10 years or so.

"I'm very enthused about it," said Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. "If we can accomplish everything contained in the plan we will have the most dynamic city south of Boston."

Carmine D'Olimpio, head of the Building and Construction Trades Council of Quincy declared: "We feel that the plan will stimulate growth of the downtown area. Of course we are interested in jobs for the workers in our unions but new buildings will also mean jobs for others. The city will benefit from a broadened tax base."

The report, prepared by the Boston firm of Charles G. Hilgenhurst and Associates, anticipates over the next dozen years the development of:

- 300,000 square feet of new retail shopping space, two-thirds of it committed to department, clothing and furniture stores, the rest of it to food, beverage, drug and similar merchants.

- 4,000 new households with a "reasonably active" [Cont'd on Page 2]

Sun Publishing Entire Hilgenhurst Report

Because of the tremendous impact the proposed $100 million redevelopment plan would have not only on the downtown area but the entire city, The Quincy Sun as a public service is printing the complete word-by-word Hilgenhurst Report.

It will run in installments. The first appears in this week's Sun on Page 16.

• A Sun Survey Reaction Good

MARK BERTMAN of Rogers Jewelry, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association: "I'm very enthused about it. If we can accomplish everything contained in the plan we will have the most dynamic city south of Boston. It will make the city much more attractive and available to shoppers. The general reaction among members of the association is good although there are always a few negative reactions to any plan."

ERIC SWIDER, executive vice president South Shore Chamber of Commerce: "I think it's a realistic approach to the development of downtown Quincy. It is the kind of thing that can work if everybody wants it to work. It depends upon the cooperation of the city leadership and the business community. A real team effort went into compiling the report and I hope it continues. It is up to us to see that it works now."

WILLIAM WOSKIE, manager of Sears Roebuck & Co.: "I am very favorably impressed with the plan. I have been all along. It's an excellent plan. It is laid out in a sensible way so that it can be approached on a piecemeal basis. I am very much in favor of it. It's a very realistic plan."

Over $100,000 Pledged Here For Israel

Quincy's friends of Israel pledged more than $100,000 in gifts and bond purchases for the beleaguered Middle Eastern nation Sunday at a rally at Temple Beth El. Morton Bernstein of Wollaston was chairman.

Temple Adas Shalom and

Beth Israel synagogue also participated in the service which drew close to 400 people, including Mayor Walter J. Hannon, who joined with City Council President Arthur H. Tobin in giving $500 in memory of former City Solicitor Harry Pavan.

development of higher density residential units, and up to 10,000 new households "under a more aggressive program of residential development."

• 130,000 square feet of office space to serve local markets plus the "possibility that the city could attract a share of the regional office demand that would normally be expected to be located in areas with easier highway access."

Among several major projects that would change the face of downtown Quincy, the Hilgenhurst report includes:

• Residential development north and west of the present intersection of Hancock and Adams Sts. and relocation of the intersection itself.

• Gradual transformation of Hancock St. between Revere Rd and Cottage Ave. into a pedestrian mall.

• Extension of the Bargain Center north along Hancock St. and new parking facilities that would open up the current parking lot to residential development.

• Construction of a major retail establishment, a large parking garage and apartment buildings in the current Hancock Parking area.

• Construction of a major office development in the current Della Chiesa parking area on Granite St.

• Development of retail establishments and residences in the area between the Ross Parking area and School St.

Of equal importance with the Hilgenhurst Report is the adoption by the City Council Monday night of permissive legislation setting up a City Department of Planning and Community Development.

It will enable Quincy to make the report a reality.

It is best described as urban renewal with the worst features removed.

It gives the new Department the power to carry on renewal in the downtown area [but not residential areas] while reserving such powers as eminent domain and bonding for the elected officials, the City Council and the Mayor.

"It is a unique piece of legislation," said Davidson, who will head the new department. "It recognizes that the planning and accomplishment of renewal go together."

"We've already got the ball rolling on turning the report into a reality with the exposure we've had," said John Cheney, city development coordinator.

"Now we've got to do a selling job to people who are interested in investing in the city.

"There has been little or no development by the Greater Boston real estate fraternity in Quincy.

"But now if they can't build high rise in Boston maybe they'll be interested in building medium rise in Quincy."

Cheney's phrase "high rise in Boston" is a reference to the Park Plaza and 60 State Street projects that are now defunct.

Cheney said the city has "two good potentials" for development in Quincy. He declined to name them but one is a major insurance company office in expanding a small office in Greater Boston into a large permanent office.

Davidson said he considers Phase One of the Hilgenhurst plan already in motion.

"McIntyre Mall next to City Hall has been in the planning stage with the MBTA for the past eight months. We broke ground for it yesterday [Wednesday]."

"The Quincy Savings Bank has broken ground for its new office. The city has been encouraging it for a year and a half."

Now someone has got to go out and sell the plan to private money interests piece by piece over the next 10 years.

Ecology Topic In Germantown

"Ecology and Pollution" will be the subject of a public discussion Thursday, Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m., at the Germantown Multi-Service Center, 9 Bucknell St.

Anyone interested in attending a class to discuss and learn about ways in which the urban environment can be improved is urged to attend. ELECTION REMINDER - Junior high school students Mary Jo Campbell (second left) and Nancy Edwards hold poster reminding residents of South and West Quincy to vote this week in the election for the Lincoln Hancock Community School Council. With them are (left to right) Mrs. Carol Campbell, Mrs. Eleanor Locarni and Mrs. Diane Acorn. Nomination forms are available through Friday at the Southwest Community Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and at the Lincoln-Hancock School during school hours.

South Shore Job Fair To Be Held On Oct. 27

The South Shore Council for Full Employment is sponsoring a job fair Saturday, Oct. 27 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Quincy Vocational Technical School Gymnasium.

Over 40 companies with job openings will be present to interview job seekers. In addition the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security will have information on hundreds of other jobs on the South Shore and Greater Boston.

There will be openings for clerical, factory, and professional positions. Anyone looking for a job is invited to attend the job fair. In order to publicize the event, letters are being sent to the over 6,000 unemployed who are registered with the Quincy Employment Security Office which covers Quincy and eight South Shore towns.

The South Shore Council for Full Employment which is made up of representatives of the Norfolk County Labor Council, South Shore Chamber of Commerce, Emergency Employment Program, the South Shore Woman's Caucus and area employment agencies hopes that the job fair will be the impetus to improve communications between the unemployed and those companies that have job openings.

'Don't tell me we're running out of water-'

POINT OF VIEW

Let Moran tell you all about it

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — So Jim Moran, self-styled "professional interviewee" on the television talk shows and all-league choice to make the eccentrics' Hall of Fame, has churned out another book. This one is called "How I Became an Authority on Sex" (Stein and Day). Well, why not? He's an authority on everything else.

He's a bearded, soft-spoken whale of a man with a mischievous jack-o'-lantern grin and two outrageously diabolical twin demons for eyes. He's always administering some kind of mental hotfoot and he's always turning up on the TV gabfests, such as the "Tonight Show," where he holds some kind of a record with well over a hundred appearances, or with Merv Griffin or Jack Paar.

Once, on the Paar show, Moran was expressing with great mock solemnity his belief that the magnetic lines of the earth have a profound effect on our lives.

"People," explained Mr. Moran, "sleep poorly and have wretched dreams because they sleep in the wrong direction."

As a man of science, Mr. Moran outlined his vast proposal for world peace. "If the leaders of the world slept in beds that face north and south all would be tranquility. You see, a 14-hour flight north to south, or vice versa, won't scramble your brains but fly east and west for 14 hours, crossing all the time zones and you're out of commission. It's the same with sleep. Less strain on the brain. Make sure your bed faces the North Pole and you will sleep like a baby."

He went even further. "When one is working during the day, one should take great care to face the East as much as possible — because of the effect of magnetic vibrations.

Otherwise, one's energies are quickly depleted."

It was suggested that all over the land, there are people selling things over counters that face the West.

"Naturally," quoth Mr. Moran, "the counters will all have to be rearranged."

Could that be right? Who knows? James Sterling Moran is a world authority on everything, but namely, with his feverishly fertile brain, he spawned wild schemes. He has, in his 63 years, conceived enough of them to give him legendary status in the lore of the unlikely.

Consider a few of the Moran stunts. He's the one who first went up to Alaska and sold an icebox to an Eskimo. He led a bull into a china shop to see what would happen. Once, Jim spent 82 hours tracking down a needle in a haystack. He's the guy who restaged the Battle of Bunker Hill to prove, as he pointed out, that "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes" was less than an awesomely wise military command.

So when Jim Moran says, as he did not long ago, that flying is all wrong, I don't doubt him. Specifically, he observed: "The thing about flying is that gasoline pushes at the motor, the motor vibrates, causing the propellers to whirl in the air. That, of course, makes the atmosphere mad. Violence is no way to get anywhere."

And it was Jim Moran, on one of the talk shows, who extolled the virtues of mouse power. This he demonstrated with charts of mice in harness dedicated to, uh, creating power, I guess.

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The outbreak of fighting in the Middle East caught Washington by surprise. The intelligence reports from Syria and Egypt told of the military preparations and warned of the building tensions. But the White House policymakers didn't take the reports seriously.

We have seen some of the secret intelligence reports and can now relate the behind-the-scenes developments that led to this dangerous new outbreak.

In Cairo, President Sadat had been threatening Israel with an all-out war. But a secret intelligence dispatch said he gave contrary orders to the Egyptian Army to avoid provoking a war. Sadat explained to his generals that he had to talk tough to maintain international interest in the Middle East.

Sadat was goaded, however, by the Syrians. Syria's President Assad, in private conversations, belittled the Egyptians. One secret report quoted him as saying bluntly that he didn't expect much from Egyptians.

Other intelligence reports described a growing tendency among Arabs to treat Sadat's threats toward Israel with derision. The reports warned this pressure from his fellow Arabs might force Sadat, even against his better judgment, to resume shooting.

Apparently, this is exactly what happened.

Commodities Market: The commodities market never has drawn the attention of the public like the stock market. There are no "glamour stocks" there — only wheat, corn and soybeans. Yet the commodities market has a much larger impact on our daily lives than the stock market.

The wild fluctuations of the market this past year, for example, were instrumental in driving up the prices of beef, bread and milk in the supermarkets.

Now, a House subcommittee is investigating the commodities market, and has already come up with some disturbing, unpublished evidence. The Commodities Exchange Authority, which is supposed to police the commodities market, allegedly filed false reports. There is evidence that CEA officials also have been cooperating with the big traders the agency is supposed to govern.

The House subcommittee is also considering a probe of the Russian wheat deal. We have already written, for example, that the Russians may have speculated on the U. S. futures market in violation of law.

Some may call it dull, but the commodities investigation may pay off in lower supermarket prices.

Labor Angered: President Nixon's romance with labor is on the rocks. From the beginning, it was a love affair of political expediency. The President and AFL-CIO boss George Meany shared a distaste for Senator George McGovern and the antiwar movement.

The courtship lasted through the 1972 campaign. Nixon was presented with an honorary hard hat and blue-collar workers trooped to the polls to help re-elect him. As their reward, the President appointed Peter Brennan, a tough New York labor leader, to be Secretary of Labor.

But now, the working men's ardor for Nixon has plummeted as living costs have skyrocketed. The purchasing power of the average worker has dropped two per cent while corporate profits have shot up 23 per cent.

At the supermarket, the worker finds food costs have gone up six per cent in the last six months. At the hospital, operating room charges have soared 48 per cent. If he should try to buy a new home, interest rates have reached records at nine and 10 per cent.

Down at the Labor Department, meanwhile, Brennan has been stewing. He openly clashed with the President over the veto of the minimum wage bill. This is the sort of disloyalty that the President must countenance from his Cabinet. So, as soon as the President catches his breath from Watergate, Brennan will be dumped. The Irishman from the streets of Manhattan, who rose from hard hat to Secretary of Labor, will go back to the union halls.

Incriminating Letter: The Senate Watergate Committee is quietly investigating the extent of former Democratic Chairman Larry O'Brien's relationship with eccentric billionaire Howard Hughes.

We have uncovered an important piece of evidence in the investigation. It is the original of a letter from O'Brien to Robert Maheu, who used to be the major domo of Hughes' Las Vegas empire.

The letter, written on August 21, 1968, offers to handle government relations for Hughes. O'Brien wrote: "My services would be available as required, with a staff including a highly competent governmental relations man, a top-notch public affairs expert and two secretaries. The staff would perform necessary services on a priority basis."

In return, O'Brien wanted $180,000 a year, plus expenses.

To emphasize his importance, O'Brien gave his hotel and convention hall phone numbers, since the 1968 Democratic convention was then about to begin.

But for a former Postmaster General, O'Brien made two unforgivable errors in his letter.

He spelled Maheu's name "Mayhew." And the special delivery letter arrived with four cents postage due.

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The Speculation Corps is wondering how Ward 4 Councillor Albert Barilaro and Ward 3 Councillor Ted McLelland will fare in this year's city election.

Barilaro, of course, is the architect of the redistricting plan that shuffled McLelland off to Ward 2 and wiped what was Ward 3 off the map.

Three of the old Ward 3 precincts [2, 3, 4] were moved into Barilaro's Ward 4 and the other two precincts [1, 5] went to Ward 2 along with McLelland.

Traditionally, Ward 3 has been synonymous with South Quincy. Now South Quincy, politically speaking, is part of Quincy Point and West Quincy.

Reports out of South Quincy indicate that many of the residents are quite angered over the redistricting because it has broken up the "neighborhood".

There's talk of an anti-Barilaro vote in the primary and in the final. Just how big a one actually develops only time will tell.

But observers will be watching the primary results closely for tell-tale signs. One thing they will be watching for is Barilaro's vote against the total vote of this challengers [Ronald Halter, Thomas P. Hughes, Herbert Reppucci, James Sheets, Andrew Veneto] in the primary.

If they together total more than his, observers think Barilaro could be in trouble in December.

Unfortunate for Barilaro is the fact he was the one who came up with the acceptable [to most] redistricting plan. Now his opponents will be trying to brand it on him.

Yet, it was his plan that paved the way for this year's election. If it hadn't been for him, things could still be all tied up

AS FOR MCLELLAND, observers think he could wind up with a big plus side effect in his run for council at-large: a sympathy vote. McLelland who has shown he is a fighter, could very well pick up a large number of votes from those who might think he was shoddily treated.

And the fact he is an underdog trying to unseat one of three at-large incumbents [Arthur Tobin, John Quinn, Joseph LaRaia] could also add some more votes.

Actually, he should be stronger now than if he had decided to give up his Ward 3 seat and run at-large. But can he muster the strength to unseat a Tobin, Quinn or LaRaia? Time will answer that one, too.

AT SUNDAY NIGHT'S Support Israel rally at Temple Beth El, Mayor Walter Hannon and Senator-Council President Arthur Tobin gave a combined $500 donation in memory of late City Solicitor Harry Pavan. The latter was also Tobin's law partner. More than $100,000 was pledged or donated.

WOLLASTON SCOUT TROOP 20 was very much in the spotlight Sunday at the dedication of Quincy's first interpretive nature trail at the Reuben A. and Lizzie Grossman Park. The trail was designed and developed by Charles Phelan of Kemper St., Wollaston, a member of Troop 20. And one of the speakers, former Mayor James McIntyre proudly noted that he is a former member of the troop - and a former resident of Kemper St.

THE CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS of Mayor Hannon will be opened tonight [Thursday] in the Parkway. Grace Saphir, one of his challengers, already has her's in operation on Granite St. Council at-large contender Raymond Viens has his next door.

WELL, SUH, you can now call him Colonel Paul Harold. The Ward 1 council candidate has been commissioned a Kentucky Colonel by Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll of that state. Harold received the honor in recognition of his work for the Christian Appalachian Project poverty program. He worked one summer in McKee, Ky for the project.

AGNEW WHO? Did you ever see anyone get forgotten as fast as President Nixon forgot Agnew at the TV shindig to nominate Gerald Ford vice-president? From the smile Nixon was wearing you'd think it was the social event of the year. With food and drink for everyone. Spiro Agnew? Never heard of the man. Incidentally, the big splash was held in the same room where Abigail Adams used to hand her laundry. And today, everything is still coming out in the wash.

HERE'S ONE from the Quincy Rotary Club newsletter: Rotarian: "Why do you weep and sniffle at a movie over the imaginary woes of people you have never met?" Rotary Ann: "Same reason you scream and yell when a man you don't know slides into second base."

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist, author, jogger, etc., tells about the genius who during the garbage strike in New York found a way to still dispose of it. He put it in a box, gift wrapped it, left it in his car and someone stole it.

Survival, Inc. Thanks Donors Of Furnishings

Editor, Quincy Sun:

On behalf of the residents and staff at the Survival Joseph H. Whiteman House at 1230 Hancock St., Quincy, I would like to publicly thank those who have donated the many home furnishings we have needed to make the "house" a "home". Survival asked the community to help, and it certainly has.

Though the residents may be unable to refurbish the exterior of the building before bad weather sets in, the interior is as warm a setting as any home I have ever been in. One can walk from room to room and see couches, chairs, desks, a television, books, tables and other donations that enable the residents to relax when appropriate in a setting that is very comfortable.

The residents have worked hard at cleaning, painting, and building much of the interior of the facility as a part of their therapy while at the same time receiving more psychological oriented therapy as they restructure their drug disturbed lives. The times come in all of our day to day lives for leisure moments, and the residents of the Whiteman House must have these times also. Here is where the South Shore community has been so generous in providing those materials essential to a relaxing atmosphere. The residents deeply appreciate all donations and the staff well realize the effect nice surroundings can have on persons in treatment.

For helping Survival help others, we thank you all. Our needs are still great in many areas, but at Whiteman House we are a long way from where we were a few months ago.

KINDNESS

Kindness is kindred to Love,
Because it kindles from the heart,
With a true and warm soul-beat.

Possessed by Everyone, this Gentle quality needs only To be drawn out ... And when it comes to the Surface, it spreads cheer Through bright smiles, Cheery Hellos and by Offering a spontaneous Nice-ness in "small deeds", Bringing hope and happiness, Especially to discouraged Individuals, who have been On the brink of losing faith In mankind ... once again, Courage flames up, restoring The dying light of joy and trust.

Would you like to promote The Business of Kindness? The price ... is priceless. Because all you need for a Starter is a buoyant desire To please; Then through Constant personal involvement Of actions, you will have Cultivated The Art of Kindness.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

MARRIAGE . . . A 50-50 DEAL

Is yours "a 50-50 marriage?" I've heard this term often in my counseling offices and in general conversation. As with Jane's statement ... I wanted a 50-50 marriage but mine has turned out to be an 80-20. I've raised the children ... worked for 16 years ... handled the budget ... kept up the property. The only thing Ralph has done that I couldn't do was sit out three children. For that I give him 20% "credit".

Marriage is a shared experience ... the sharing of LOVE ... RESPONSIBILITY ... JOYS ... PAIN. But this doesn't mean that every part of the relationship is shared equally. For example ... Mona was a bank teller, Hank was a real handiman. He was no good at figures or handling the money. But you should have seen the kitchen cabinets and built-ins in their home. So Mona cared for the budget and wrote the checks ... Hank kept the property in apple pie order. Is that a 50-50 deal?

Westy and Martha had been married 20 years. He was an engineer ... worked in the field of construction ... and wasn't much of a socialite ... but he did enjoy sports. They had worked out a MARRIAGE CONTRACT together. In it they mutually agreed that they would entertain together a few times during the year ... that she would feel free to go to social events as she chose ... and that he would go to sports events which he liked. They had a great marriage. They didn't harp on each other ... trying to twist the other to his ... her way. How's that for a 50-50 deal?

The problems which destroy many marriages is IRRESPONSIBILITY ... and lack of agreement on the responsibilities of the home and life in general USUALLY disaster results. This often results where either the husband or wife is still a CHILD. Marriage is only for adults ... it just can't work when either or both are acting in irresponsible ways. Ruth didn't like to keep house ... her house was always cluttered ... she was a poor cook ... used the can opener often ... TV dinners. She was a poor mother to the two children ... all this distressed John. He'd come home from work ... wash the dishes in the sink ... put the laundry in the washer ... remove and fold the laundry from the dryer ... he paid the bills by check ... helped care for the children ... never missed a Saturday waxing the kitchen floor. Ruth spent her mornings drinking coffee with the girls ... reading magazines and novels ... or going to the beach in the afternoons ... and talked on the telephone to her mother every day. It was obvious that this adult man was married to a child wife. Was this a 50-50 deal? In counseling an "equalization" program was instituted. But the real problem was helping Ruth to "grow up".

The way to have a happy marriage is not on a basis of a mathematical formula. The only way I know is by MUTUAL AGREEMENT ... each committing himself/herself to use their abilities and powers to make the relationship work.

Are you trying for a 50-50 deal ... or do you have a MUTUALLY AGREED UPON CONTRACT?

Mrs. Joseph Previte Hostess For Abp. Williams Champagne Social

Mrs. Joseph Previte of Quincy was hostess at a recent Champagne Social Hour for the benefit of the Archbishop Williams Guild attended by approximately 60 guests.

Mrs. Previte's home was decorated for fall with tawny floral arrangements of gold, amber, brown and yellow; pumpkins glowed a greeting on the walk outside, and on the porch.

A champagne punch was served from a bubbling fountain in one corner of the glassed in porch, where a welcoming fire burned brightly. In the opposite corner was a buffet table with a second punch bowl and assorted salad rolls and tea sandwiches in pastel colors. Chips, relishes, pickles and olives added another touch of color.

Among the guests from Quincy were Sue Hannon, Ann Percy, Patricia Lynch, Peg Murray, Paula Kelley, Gloria Garity Margaret Williams, Jan MacDonald, Nancy Foy.

From Braintree, Lee Pept Barbara Giuggio, Paul Rogerson, Barbara Lynch, Ros Chuet, Anne Phillips, Mar Sullivan, Kay Looby and Barbara Morrissey.

From Holbrook Marg Kearney, Lillian Livorsi and Mary Gordon; and from Hingham, Marge Keena.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS She must quit being doormat

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst
Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I have a friend who is driving me out of my mind and home. My children are all in school, but her small children are here from morning to night (lunch included). My house is always a mess. I like her too much to hurt her feelings and I find myself making excuses. What steps could I take not to offend her?

K.J.

Dear K.J.:

You have to quit being a doormat ... and stand up for your rights. The word endings along the line of writing indicate your sincere desire to do for others ... but there's a flaw in your thinking. You are failing to recognize the vast difference between giving and letting someone push you around.

The upswing endings say that you want a little "intake" as a part of the great "output" ... a little appreciation for what you do. And all you're getting is a set of frayed nerves and a messy house. The curved tops on your s's make you an easy mark for anyone. Your very heavy writing shows the turmoil you are experiencing, but your vertical writing imposes upon you a calm outward appearance. Your release vents are plugged ... and you can't even show an attitude. Your tightly closed a, d, and g keep you from expressing yourself verbally. So all your friend sees is your supposed generosity and is led to believe it's all right with you. You have to speak out. If your friend wants to be your friend, asserting yourself is not going to make her your enemy. To become self-assertive, like any other skill, takes practice. Once you have acquired it, however, the rewards will be so gratifying that you will no longer allow yourself to stoop to such a position again where people can walk all over you.

D.J.

Selected letters will be answered through this column. A free handwriting chart of some common basic personality traits may be obtained by writing to Dorothy St. John Jackson, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Enclose long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Pumpkin Delight? nothing to it

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

The woman on our block who used to make a pie out of her Halloween pumpkin was always a curiosity to me.

But now, with food prices, high as a witch in the sky, probably a lot of us will be eating our holiday decorations.

So for those of you interested in having your jack-o'-lantern and eating it too, here is my method for preparing Pumpkin Delight. Let me say right now that if you plan on eating your decor, don't buy it too soon or it will have enough hair on it to make yourself a chubby instead.

Where was I? Oh yes, you've got this big pumpkin that your kids and a few other unidentified children with very runny noses have spent a couple of days carving and mauling.

Now remember, it's been out on your front porch all night with a candle in it — so the first thing you have to do is take out the candle before you cook it as melted wax is very bad for your arteries.

If you do not have a pot large enough to accommodate the pumpkin, then you will have to call those kids back who carved it, because unless you are a rare woman you will not have a sharp enough knife. As to how the kids carved it, don't ask me.

Of course once they see you are going to eat their pumpkin, there will be tears all around and a big scene as the 4-year-old was counting on sleeping with it for a few nights. You may have to agree to this in order to get the other kids to cut it up for you.

Four days later you are at last ready to start the actual cooking. First, drop the pumpkin pieces into three quarts of rapidly boiling water and simmer until one of your kids walks into the kitchen and asks, "What's that funny smell?"

Then remove lid and threaten to hit kid with it. Continue cooking as if nothing had happened and ignore daughter who announces she is allergic to anything in the squash family.

Lift lid, take a look and add whatever you think might help. Drain off excess water and throw remaining pumpkin out. Your whole family will be delighted — hence the name: Pumpkin Delight.

When Mommas and Poppas want to go away on an overnight or extended trip, sans enfants, they can take advantage of a baby-sitting service that sends young married couples in to take care of the children and the house. University Home Services of Needham screens couples for moral character, responsibility and good judgment, then sends them to your home for an interview and approval. Most couples are college age or graduates. They prepare all meals, do the laundry, maintain the house, and manage details such as garbage disposal and snow plowing. It's arranged for the sisters to become acquainted with the children beforehand so they won't be strangers when the parents leave. TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Fortune is with you in legal affairs. You have come out on top, but benefit from the experience. Public opinion is with you. Good time for publicity, advertising, etc. Let bosses opinions go by unchallenged.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Use your bright sense of humor and logic in solving problem at home. Use self-discipline to finish work on time. Don't procrastinate. Give attention to children and employees. Help set up schedules for them.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Social life is highlighted. A business and pleasure trip could prove favorable. Attend to securing in a safe place all important papers and valuables. Attend to the needs of children as they occur, not later.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22

— Also Leo Ascendant) — Take care of home repairs and real estate matters. Go over joint account records to uncover possible old error. Close kin may call, correspond or unexpectedly drop in. Home entertainment is favored now.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Map out your future plans now. Gather information — find out facts you need. Your mind is very active now. Projects have great financial potential. Real estate sales are highlighted. Be realistic and conservative.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Good time to review your progress since the first of the year and make necessary corrections. Good time for business meetings and cementing relationships. Curb extravagance and trim your budget.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Use care that you don't overextend your energies. You may expand your activities now and make some new beginnings. All signals are go in career — use all your energy to forward your goals. Support is with you.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Take your time in making important decisions — resist impulsive actions. Work carried on behind the scenes goes well now. Research projects involving altruistic goals move ahead favorably.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Intuition is very strong and trustworthy. A personal, puzzling relationship may resolve itself now. Give the time to civic and community events. Visit shut-ins or those who are ill. Research needed data.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — You feel an energy let down and feel in a nostalgic mood. Exert effort to concentrate on matters at hand. Conversations with friends whose interests are similar bring pleasure. Research theories.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Finish each project before starting another or you get spread too thin. Use this period for completing things instead of starting new ones. Review your goals, learn, communicate, travel now.

The sun is now in Scorpio. More U.S. presidents have their sun in Scorpio than in any other sign. Other famous Scorpions include such diverse personalities as Marie Antoinette, Billy Graham, Leon Trotsky, Katharine Hepburn, Spiro Agnew and Grace Kelly.

RIGHTS 'N' WRONGS

'No hair curlers' sign proper?

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin: At what age should my daughter have her own engraved informals? She is now 12. Mrs. Albertson

Dear Mrs. Albertson: Have the informals made up a month or so prior to your daughter's graduation from high school. She can use them for thank-you notes. Use her full name without the "Miss."

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I own and operate a very nice tea room type of restaurant in a small resort town. It is popular for lunches. Do I have the right to put up a sign saying, "No hair curlers?" I'm shocked and amazed at the well-to-do women who come in, beautifully dressed, but with their heads wound in scarves that really don't hide the pink rollers. No Name

Dear No Name: Of course you can put up such a sign and more's the pity you should have to. Rollers belong in the bedroom or beauty shop. I even hate to see women in the supermarket who look like they were wired for sound.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I simply don't like the taste of liquor. How can I say "no" without making a big issue out of it? — No Prude

Dear No Prude: Say, in a firm voice, "Coke on the rocks" or "A screwdriver, but hold the vodka" or "Grenade and ginger, please." You never have to defend your drinking habits.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I am the decorations chairman for our teen club and want to use bunting to drape the band stand. Is there a special order for the colors? I can't find the answer in any books I have. — Emily K.

Dear Emily: Arrange the bunting with the blue at the top, the white in the middle and the red below.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: How should I sign the card that goes with a floral bouquet to the funeral parlor? — Puzzled in Ill.

Dear Puzzled: Write, "With deep sympathy. Mary and John Doe." Always include your surname because probably a family friend or a member of the funeral parlor staff will be keeping track of the flowers and the cards. If you order the flowers by phone, tell the florist what you want on the card he will supply. If you choose the flowers personally, take your own card and do your own writing. Either way is correct.

Questions on etiquette may be mailed to Riv Tobin, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Chicken Tortilla Casserole

- 4 whole chicken breasts
- Salt and pepper
- 1 can (10 1/2-ounce) cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
- 2 cans (7-ounce) green chile salsa
- 1 cup chicken broth (see method below)
- 1 cup milk
- 1 package corn tortillas
- 1 can (6 1/2-ounce) pitted ripe olives, sliced
- 1 pound shredded cheddar cheese
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion

PLACE CHICKEN IN skillet (or saucepan) that has a tight-fitting cover. Season with salt and pepper. Add 1/4 cup water. Cover tightly. Bring to a boil, turn to simmer. Steam until tender, about 1 hour. Let chicken cool, reserve broth (if needed, add water to make 1 cup). Cut chicken into bite-size pieces. Mix 1 cup reserved broth, soup, salsa and milk. Set aside. Cut tortillas into inch square pieces. Arrange half the tortilla squares in a buttered 13 x 9 x 2" casserole, top with half the chicken and half the olives. Repeat. Pour soup mixture over all. Top with cheese and onion. Refrigerate for several hours or overnight. Bake in a 350° oven, uncovered, for 1 hour or until heated through. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

answers to turkey questions

by Martha Logan

The Newest You
BY ANN D. ALLEN

Q. How do you know when a turkey is done?

A. Begin to test for doneness an hour before the end of the suggested time. Use these 3 tests: 1. Check the roast meat thermometer inserted in the center of the thigh next to the body, not touching bone. The thigh temperature should be 180 to 185°F. 2. Protect fingers with paper; press thigh and drumstick. Meat should feel soft. 3. Prick skin of thigh. Juices should no longer be pink.

Q. Is there an easy way to transfer a hot, cooked turkey from pan to platter?

A. Yes. A cord lifter comes with all Deep Basted Butterball Swift's Premium Turkeys (10-24 lbs.). The lifter is placed lengthwise under prepared turkey. By bringing up lifter ends a cradle is formed to make it easy to lift the turkey into the roasting pan. When the turkey tests done, it is easy to grasp the loops firmly and lift the turkey from pan to platter.

Q. If the turkey is not stuffed, will this affect the roasting time?

A. Yes. Reduce the cooking time 1/2 to 1 hour.

If higher prices have dented your buying of meat, fish or poultry, how does the newest you s-t-r-e-t-c-h those foods? Milk is one of the best answers to that hottest question of the day.

There are many ways milk can extend your meals. Simply drinking two-thirds of a glass of milk gives you the same amount of protein that an ounce of meat, poultry or fish supplies. Or, use the same amount of milk in a creamy soup or chowder or just add it to canned soups. They're all heartily welcome as Fall and Winter put their nip in the air.

Milk can go into white and cheese sauces, or gravies, too, for stretching smaller amounts of meat, poultry and fish for casseroles. Rather than nibbling on the last of the chicken or a roast, consider it for the casserole with noodles and rice and vegetables.

Bread crumbs and wheat germ can stretch the ground meats for meat loaf; mushrooms extend the ground meat for stuffed green peppers. Cottage and mozzarella cheese can supply the protein if you use less meat in the lasagna, while tomatoes and cheese can take up the slack when less meat goes into the spaghetti sauce.

Biscuits and gravy can stretch the last of the roast into a respectable meat pie. Extra peas, mushrooms, pimiento and white sauce in chicken-a-la-king or a tuna casserole extend the servings.

Tips like these aren't going to change the foods you serve radically, but they can save money in reduced expenditures of the "higher" priced proteins.

Duggan Brothers Have Been Selling Chevies For 51 Years

The 1974 Chevrolets are out and you can see them at Ambrose and Frank Duggan's North Quincy Garage Co. at 131 Hancock St.

The Duggan brothers have been selling Chevies since 1922. They've seen a lot of changes in car bodies and safety features these past 51 years. But as Frank says, "Back in the 20's we thought Chevies were the best cars so we decided to sell them. And we still think they're the best cars on the market."

The Duggan brothers also feature a fine used car department with autos of all makes, and a full service department with both a mechanical and body shop in their large North Quincy headquarters.

Frank and Ambrose were raised in Quincy, graduating from Quincy High School back when it was located at the present Central Junior High School building.

They lived in North Quincy, Ambrose reminiscing, "We were brought up in the back of the garage. In fact, we built the garage ourselves."

Through the years, the North Quincy Garage has expanded slowly but surely to the point where today it includes a showroom and repair garage on one side of Hancock St. and a used car lot and body shop across the street.

Frank and Ambrose still work full-time, running the business and selling cars. They are ably assisted by a staff headed by Frank's son, Jim, the general manager.

Other assistants include Emory Fountaine, Sales Manager; Eddie Supple, Used Car Manager; Walter Bull, service manager; and Earl Wittet, office manager.

Frank, who holds the title of treasurer, lives on Maypole Rd. in Merrymount. Ambrose, the president, resides in Braintree.

Both are avid sports fans holding a special interest in the fate and fortunes of the Red Sox. And this fall, as in many years past, they will sponsor local coverage of Quincy and North Quincy High School football on WJDA.

The Complete Hilgenhurst Report

Center Business District At Its Crucial Point

● INTRODUCTION

The Quincy Central Business District is presently at a most crucial point in the history of its growth and development.

No longer is it the focal point for the expanding economy of the South Shore. It has been surpassed by modern shopping centers offering ease of access, ample parking, an attractive physical environment, and a wide range of merchandise.

If downtown Quincy is to remain viable as a major commercial area and to effectively compete with these new shopping centers, several bold and innovative measures are going to have to be taken in the short to medium range future.

It was with this thought in mind that the city administration and the downtown merchants embarked upon a major planning effort for the Central Business District. This effort has led to the preparation of an economic analysis of the downtown area, the preparation of a traffic plan for downtown, and the synthesis of a development strategy to be pursued in the Central Business District over the next decade.

The basis for the recommendations for physical improvements in the Central Business District result directly from the findings of the economic analysis prepared by Gladstone Associates. This report found that the opportunity exists in the Quincy CBD for the addition of some 300,000 square feet of new retail space in the period through 1985. Of this increment, approximately two-thirds would be committed to "comparison shopping goods" typically found in department stores, and apparel and furniture stores. The remainder of retail space would be committed to "convenience shopping goods", such as food and beverage stores, drug and sundry outlets, and other merchants serving a neighborhood based and convenience oriented clientele.

Also found in the report was the fact that Quincy is a very viable residential area and that the city could reasonably hope to capture 4,000 new households in the period through 1985 with a reasonably active development of higher density residential units.

Under a more aggressive program of residential development up to 10,000 households could be established in the city by 1985. It is important to note that the conclusion was drawn that the attraction of an additional 300,000 square feet of retail space is partially dependent upon the introduction of these households in Quincy particularly in the vicinity of the CBD.

If the residential and retail development, as indicated above, is in fact to come into being, it is anticipated that opportunities for development of some 130,000 square feet of office space in the CBD to serve local markets would be available. In addition to this demand for local serving office space, there is the possibility that the city could attract into the CBD a share of the regional office demand that would normally be expected to be located in areas with easier highway access. The Quincy

CBD does have the advantage of excellent MBTA access and extensive parking and it should use these advantages to the fullest extent to attract such regional office development.

To actually achieve the forecasts of future economic activity as discussed above will require a great deal of effort and resolve on the part of many people in the city of Quincy. Public officials, merchants, and citizens alike must be supportive of the goals of revitalizing downtown Quincy, and must be willing to take the difficult steps necessary to make the effort successful. There is little doubt that without such a joint cooperative effort the plans shown will go no further than the paper on which they are written.

DEVELOPMENT PLAN

The physical development plan for the Quincy CBD has resulted from [1] physical problems identified in the detailed survey of the downtown area;

[2] recommendations contained in the Gladstone economic analysis; and

[3] discussions with Quincy officials and downtown merchants. The plan contains a variety of proposals, some of which are general in nature and others of which are quite specific.

Because the Quincy CBD has to date managed to hold its own against the more severe forms of environmental deterioration and retail decline, the plan proposes large areas to be designated as rehabilitation zones rather than redevelopment zones.

In the areas where rebuilding is proposed, an attempt has been made to balance the types of proposed development in order to locate new uses where they are most advantageous from the city's point of view. Uses have been located where they can best reinforce the existing viable areas, where they will minimize disruption to existing areas and to other proposed development, and where they can make the best possible use of available development land. In addition, special attention has been given to the staging of new development in order to take advantage of presently available opportunities.

The detailed recommendations in the development plan have been divided according to the subareas of the CBD in which they are located. These will be described below moving from north to south.

AREA 1 - [bounded by Alleyne Street, Hancock Street, Dimmock Street, and Upland Road].

The plan for this area consists of a three-stage development to be built over a number of years. The basic re-use for the area is residential and includes a rearrangement of the existing irregular street pattern in order to improve vehicular flow and to provide more easily developable parcels.

Stage 1 of the development of Area 1 calls for residential development of the vacant strip of land parallel to Upland Rd and land in the general vicinity of Alleyne St. between Adams and Hancock.

Stage 2 consists of residential development for the remainder of the triangular piece of land between Adams St. and Hancock St., land which presently is in the vicinity of the intersection of Adams and Hancock Sts. and properties to the west of that intersection, also calling for residential development. The third stage consists of residential development of the present South Shore Buick site and part of the right of way of present Adams Street.

AREA 2 - [bounded by Dimmock St., Hancock St., Granite St., and Upland Rd].

The plan for Area 2 calls for the development of office uses on four sites, which will lead to an upgrading of the area and will benefit from the area's accessibility. Included is a partial covering of the MBTA right of way with proposed new air rights development in the vicinity of the present terminal building and at the intersection of Granite St. and Upland Rd.

A major new office development is called for on the present Della Chiesa parking area immediately to the south of the burial ground which will significantly improve its southern edge. Improvements to the pedestrian way located to the west of the burial ground are called for and will be associated with new development both to the south and to the north of the burial ground.

Also called for is a significant narrowing of the present Hancock St. at its intersection with Washington St. and in the area between the Church of the Presidents and City Hall.

AREA 3 - [bounded by Saville Ave., Hancock St., Coddington St., and the High School].

It is proposed to allow the Bargain Center to expand northward along Hancock St. and to include new parking facilities along Hancock St. between Saville Ave. and the present structure. This is done so that the present Bargain Center parking area to the rear of the store can be freed for redevelopment which would be more compatible with the existing residential area to the rear. This land would also be assembled into a parcel containing the former court house building and the parcel would be redeveloped as housing for the elderly. New town houses at the northerly end of the parcel would relate to the existing neighborhood and the mid-rise elderly tower on Coddington Street would connect to the former Coddington School, to be ultimately converted into public uses relating to the elderly and to the Crane Library across the street.

'Quincy Center Important To Everyone', Says Mayor

Following are Mayor Walter Hannon's remarks as he announced the Quincy Center improvement plan:

"As Mayor of the City of Quincy, I am very proud to announce today a $100 million dollar improvement plan for Quincy Center.

"Quincy has been working to develop a program to improve our central business area.

"Today represents the culmination of those efforts.

"Quincy Center is important to every citizen in this city - it is our center of government, major institutions, transportation and shopping and "It is a vital part of our tax base.

"The single family home-owner must pick up the bill for every tax dollar lost in Quincy Center.

"This plan will assure a prosperous and productive Quincy Center for the future.

"I am determined that Quincy Center will not decay and become a hollow shell as so many of our older cities have.

"This program will preserve and build upon the character of our city.

"Although significant new development will stimulate both the tax and retail shopping base,

"A major rehabilitation thrust means that we want our present businesses to stay

"And grow with us.

"Although we project the construction of a beautiful mall to attract shoppers to the center

"Its development will be phased to create the least possible disruption.

"Although this program foresees 1,500 new dwelling units and 300,000 sq. ft. of office space, a new pedestrian network, better traffic flow

"It also provides careful recognition of the importance of such buildings as Richardson Library and the Church of the Presidents and will keep Quincy what Quincy wants to be.

"In short, we shall build on what is good and not destroy it.

"One last point -

"A program of this magnitude requires teamwork - From government, from the general community, from business and labor.

"Thus far, that commitment has been there.

"It must continue and grow and be stronger if we are to help improve our community.

● Along The Campaign Trail

Walter J. McCarthy Ward 3 Candidate

Walter J. McCarthy Jr., 36, of 21 Becket St., Montclair announces his candidacy for councillor of the new Ward 3.

McCarthy is a life-long resident of Quincy, and was educated in the Quincy school system. A homeowner, he said he realizes the needs of the residents of Ward 3, and will serve them as their spokesman in the City Council.

McCarthy is a graduate of Bently College, with a degree of Bachelor of Science in Accounting. He also attended the University of Miami.

McCarthy is a specialist in Taxation, and has worked for the Massachusetts Department of Corporations and Taxation, Bureau of Planning and Research, for the past eight years.

McCarthy is married to the former Carolyn Marie Hughes, and they are the parents of six.

McCarthy said he is pledged to "make Quincy a better city in which your children and 'my children' will be able to grow up and cherish the inheritance which is so richly their own."

McCarthy is vice commodore of the Dorchester Yacht Club, delegate to the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Club Association, and a member of the Quincy Bay Power Squadron.

He is also a member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Accountants Guild of Boston, and the Bently Alumni Association.

McCarthy said he would make sure that the Wollaston Golf Club recently acquired by the Norfolk County, be an asset to all the people of Quincy.

He also promised the activities of the elderly will be enhanced by special programs introduced for their leisure hours. He said he will keep the citizens informed of all their rights, and help them to understand their City government.

Powers Urges City Take

'Long Hard Look' At QCBD Plan

Atty. Warren Powers, candidate for Ward 5 city councillor says, the proposed $100 million development plan for downtown Quincy may "present more a Pandora's box of problems than an easy solution to the renewal of Quincy center."

Speaking before a gathering of campaign workers at the home of Michael Mahoney, South Central Ave., Powers said that with the cutback of much-needed federal funding for urban renewal, "the heavy burden of such a plan could very well fall upon the individual taxpayer."

"Quincy," said Powers, "could very well fall into the same plight as Boston, with taxes skyrocketing each year, and no relief in sight for the poor taxpayer."

Powers said that while he might be in favor of a "revitalized downtown Quincy," he would be very much against hasty acceptance of such a long-term commitment to urban renewal, without first "gauging all the ramifications."

"One must keep in mind," said Powers, "that the expansion of Quincy into a 'junior metropolis' will bring with it big-city problems such as massive traffic congestion, overcrowded living conditions, and, of course, greater pollution factors—not to mention the frightening possibility of increased crime."

Powers urged, that the Mayor and City Council take a "long hard look" at the proposed plan and "not leap too hastily to accept it."

Ronald Halter Ward 4 Candidate

Ronald L. Halter, 32, of 119 Federal Ave., is a candidate for the Ward 4 city council seat.

An article in last week's Quincy Sun reported his announcement as a candidate for Ward 4 but the headline erroneously said he was a candidate for Ward 3.

Original QHS Cost (Get This) $6,748

By GAYLE ROSENBLATT

Completed in 1852, Quincy High School was the first city high school.

This new school was originally situated on the site of the Dispensary of the Health Department, 21 High School (St.) Ave.

Since then, the Health Department has moved to the Kennedy Health Center on Hancock Street. Now the old dispensary is used for different offices.

The actual cost of the original school was $6,748.68. In 1894, Quincy High moved to Central Junior High School on Hancock St.

Shortly after the new building was occupied, the classes became so large that they used stores in the vicinity for classrooms.

In 1906, the Central Junior High School building was enlarged and remodeled to its present form. It was used as a four-year high school until Quincy's million dollar high school building was completed in 1924.

In the early years of Quincy

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL shown today is a far cry from the original facility built in 1852.

High School there was only one major course of study.

This course consisted of Algebra, Geometry, History, Latin, Greek, French, Natural Philosophy and Physiology.

A business course was established in 1892 and consisted of two years of study. Instead of diplomas, graduates received certificates. A manual training course was also introduced at a later date.

The Vocational Technical School was completed in the last decade.

Bridgewater Hospital 'Disturbing Feeling'

By LINDA CALABRO

On Oct. 10, a group of Quincy High School students visited Bridgewater State Hospital.

A class of 20 from Social Health, which was once Drug Education, were taken by Mr. Jack Scalco.

We toured the hospital and all vocational facilities. We walked around the grounds and talked to some prisoners.

When we came to the hospital section things changed however, each cell was locked up with one bed in one small closet-type room.

As we looked out the windows, in the yard it looked like slums. It was cold out that day, but still prisoners laid on the ground and on dirty benches. A notice came to the guard as we were going through the hospital.

The guard told us, we could not continue our tour because a knife was stolen and could not be found. He said we were not allowed to continue as our lives could be endangered. So our tour ended and we headed home.

While the facility at Bridgewater is a necessity, it is still a disturbing feeling to see human beings placed in this type of environment.

Journalism Class Writes For 'Voice', Quincy Sun

By DONNA TERNULLO

Journalism at Quincy High School is an elective course offered by the English Department.

It is made up of four classes, two each semester. The classes have a wide range of duties and activities.

The classes publish the school newspaper "Voice," which comes out approximately every two weeks. Featured in the "Voice" are: sports, horoscopes, TV reviews, record reviews, school news, clubs, editorials, puzzles, ads, personals, etc.

Last year the sales from "Voice" enabled the awarding of over $300 in scholarships to members of the Journalism classes.

Besides "Voice" the Journalism classes provide material for publication in The Quincy Sun. Each week students submit short sayings or barbs, the best of which are selected to appear in The Sun under the heading "Youth Speaks Out".

Every other week the Quincy High School News feature page appears in The Sun. It contains articles about Quincy High or student feeling at Quincy High in an attempt to provide the community some insight into one of the high schools.

Occasionally, special assignments involving sports figures, political figures or entertainers are offered by various agencies. In the past two years Quincy High students have interviewed Bobby Orr, Ross Brooks, Jan-Michael Vincent, and a number of film directors.

Journalism is a full activity course in which the students produce as well as absorb.

OUTSPOOKING THE SPOOK HATERS

Last week we discussed the growing trend of psychotic adults who are sabotaging "treats" on Halloween ranging from poisoned popcorn to booby-trapped apples. Here's some precautions recommended by police authorities.

Always accompany your children on trick-or-treat rounds and stay in your own neighborhood. People take notice and will be less likely to mistreat children.

Visit only homes that are well-lighted on the outside. These are the homeowners who welcome and anticipate Halloween visitors. Avoid darkened houses and those who are known cranks intolerant of young children.

Instruct your children not to eat treats until you have examined them. Unpackaged items such as popcorn should be discarded. Cut all fruit into small sections before eating. Candy with loose or torn wrappers should be discarded.

Have a happy Halloween - but, for heaven's sake, be cautious. The "Spook Haters" are growing.

Hughes Asks Updating Of Ward 4 Recreational Facilities

Thomas P. Hughes, Ward 4 City Council candidate, has called for an up-dating of the recreational facilities within the ward.

In a recent letter to the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, Hughes, while complimenting the board on its past work within the city, asked for improvements and additions to the recreational areas within Ward 4.

Hughes asked that the following improvements be made to O'Rourke Park:

- * Installation of overhead lights on the present tennis courts.

- * Building of two additional lighted tennis courts - in the area near the present basketball courts.

- * Lighting of the present basketball court and the development of a street hockey rink.

Kincaide Park:

- * Installation of overhead lighting at the present tennis courts.

- * Construction of a lighted basketball court.

- * Development of a street hockey rink.

Additionally Hughes asked that the Smith St. play area be needed and that the planned street hockey rink be hastily completed.

Montclair Men's Club Endorses James Vey

The Montclair Men's Club has endorsed member James J. Vey of 1 Ruthven St., Montclair, a candidate for the newly redistricted Ward Three City Council Seat.

The new ward includes precincts 1 and 6 of the old Ward 1, Cranch Hill; Precincts 2, 5 and 8 of old Ward 5, portions of Wollaston and precincts 3 and 8 of old Ward 6, Montclair.

Vey, active in the club's many programs is a member of the Civic Committee, a director of the Quincy Bowling Little League, vice president of the Quincy Citizens Association, member of the Quincy Capital Outlay Committee, former Ward 6 Democratic Committee and Quincy Democratic Committee member, George F. Bryan VFW Post, Local 105 American Federation of Technical Engineers AFL-CIO, Local 453, Office and Professional Employees International Union AFL-CIO, and the Quincy "Y" Business Men's Group.

He is a veteran of the Korean War, serving aboard the USS New Jersey and is the holder of five battle stars.

A resident and homeowner in Quincy for 22 years, Vey is married to the former Evelyn M. Donnelly and they have four sons.

Autumn Dance Oct. 28 To Aid Donald Malone Center

Congressman James A. Burke, former Mayor James R. McIntyre and Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren are expected to be among the guests at the Autumn Dance Oct. 28 for the benefit of the Donald Malone Center, a halfway house for recovered alcoholics.

Sabina Stenberg, fashion model and commentator, is general chairman of the dance which will be held at the Quincy Masonic Temple starting at 7 p.m. Tickets are available at Sabina's Beauty Salon, 660 Hancock St., Wollaston or may be obtained at the door.

Music will be provided by the "Blue Flames" of the Boston Gas Company and there will be an appearance by banjo artist comedian Paul O'Donnell of the Beachcomer, Larry Glick, Mayo Cann and other stars of the entertainment world.

Active in organization of the dance is Dr. Alfred Mahoney, Quincy Health Commissioner, whose staff is searching the South Shore for a location for the halfway house for Quincy and eight other South Shore towns.

Woodward School Begins Volunteer Service

"We are fortunate that Quincy offers such fine opportunities for public service," said Mrs. Gilford, principal of the Woodward School in reporting on their newly instituted volunteer service program.

Members of the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes whose grades remain at an acceptable level and who have sufficient free time during the school day are offered the opportunity to help at one of the four institutions and agencies which are participating in the program.

"The students are very enthusiastic! The personal satisfaction in helping others is a bonus added to the knowledge and experience they are receiving," she said.

Participating in the newly established program are: Leslie Bendinelli, Virginia Mullen and Susan Tedeschi, working at the Cranch Elementary School Media Centers.

Claire DesRoches, Donna Mauritson and Susan Ray, helping out at the Crestview Nursing Home.

Eileen Judge and Donita Sanger, assisting at Head Start. Sharon Brake, Ellen Edson, Linda Gillis, Ellen Keating and Nancy Larsen, helping out at the Jewish Community Center Nursery School, as is Donita Sanger who shares her free periods with Head Start.

Timothy P. Cardwell

Ward 3 Candidate

Timothy P. Cardwell of 68 Presidents Lane, founder of the Quincy Taxpayers Revolt announces his candidacy for Ward 3 Councillor.

Cardwell, a self-employed carpenter, served two years in the U.S. Navy stationed at N.A.S. Oceana, Va., and 12 years ago, came to Quincy to attend school. While attending college he met and married Jean Rose.

Cardwell has lived on Presidents Lane for nine years. He has been a member of the Presidents Hill and Cranch Hill Association and the Quincy Citizens Association.

Presently a member of the Church of Our Saviour and a former vestry member. Cardwell also served as Cubmaster for Troop 33.

Last year he organized a group of concerned citizens called the Quincy Taxpayers Revolt. The group grew from an alleged "illegal and prejudicial re-evaluation by spot-re-assessment" The group filed suit against the city at that time.

Since that time the taxpayer group led by Cardwell has attended all the budget sessions and most all of the city council meetings. The group says it was successful in applying pressure to get the budget cut several million dollars, and takes credit for the drop in taxes this year.

Cardwell charged that: "Quincy government has a misguided value system where the welfare of special interest groups and the city have become far more important than the

Ricciuti Suggests

Golf Club Exit Road

John T. Ricciuti, candidate for councillor of Ward 3 suggests that Norfolk County conduct a feasibility study of an exit road from Wollaston Golf Club to Granite Ave. in Milton.

Ricciuti, speaking before a group at the home of Richard W. Corner, 66 Forbes Hill Rd, said with the county's recent purchase, the influx of additional golfers will create traffic congestion on West Squantum St.

welfare of the citizens and taxpayers, which city government is intended to serve. The voice of the homeowner and taxpayer has been pushed aside, while the city has developed a financial attitude which will lead to the bankruptcy of the taxpayers and the inevitable decay of our city.

"The administration has grossly failed in its obligation as a government to present to people both sides to each issue. The people in turn are left in darkness not knowing the path which our government is pursuing. It is time that both sides to every issue is heard for the benefit of all and the preservation of our democracy."

Fontaine Conducting Door-To-Door Campaign

Emery C. Fontaine, candidate for the new Ward 3 City Council seat, says he is conducting a door-to-door campaign.

"I want to meet the homeowners and the taxpayers," he told a group of campaign workers at a meeting at his home.

"I want to listen to the views of the people on the issues in the ward and the city."

Overcoming Turmoil, Lecture Subject At Christian Science Church

A spiritual dimension to the overcoming of turmoil will be discussed in a public talk next week in Quincy.

Joseph G. Heard, a Christian Science teacher and lecturer from Miami, will call upon his audience to face up to fear and loneliness, injustice and lack, sickness and other forms of turmoil.

"The answer to turmoil today," he will say, "both social and individual, is a spiritual understanding of man as he really is."

Mr. Heard will speak in the Christian Science Church, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center, at 8 p.m. Oct. 23. His lecture is being presented under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Quincy.

David B. Chapin of Bay St., Squantum will introduce the speaker. Local arrangements for the event are being handled by Mrs. Marion Adams of 1000 Southern Artery, Quincy.

JOSEPH G. HEARD

A former practicing attorney, Mr. Heard is a member of the Florida Bar Association. He received his education at the University of Pennsylvania, Harvard University School of Business Administration and the University of Miami in Florida. He holds a Juris Doctor degree from the latter. He has served as director of several corporations.

For more than 20 years, Mr. Heard has been in the healing ministry of Christian Science. He served as Manager of the Youth Division of the Department of Branches and Practitioners of The Mother Church. He was named to The Christian Science Board of Lectureship in 1969 and became a Christian Science teacher in 1970.

Mr. Heard is especially well known to young Christian Scientists, having spoken at several hundred universities in North America, Europe, and South America.

"We Thy People" is the title of his local talk, which is open to the public without charge.

Naomi Society Plans Swedish Meatball Supper

Mrs. Robert Day presided at Monday's meeting of the Naomi Society of the Covenant Congregational Church.

Coming events include a Saturday night bean and Swedish Meatball Supper in the church vestry Oct. 20 from 5:30 - 7 p.m. Adult and children's tickets may be obtained from Miss Dorothy Ingham or Mrs. Gladys Bjell or any of the group members.

On Saturday evening, Nov. 3, a special Fall Concert will be presented in the church sanctuary. The popular Salem Four Men's Quartette from Worcester will be heard. The public is invited. There are no tickets but an offering will be taken. Refreshments will be served.

A Taste Party is scheduled and a Christmas Card project promoted for the entire congregation participation.

The annual Christmas party will be held Dec. 10.

Chairman of the Program

Committee, Mrs. Carl Lundgren, presented The Crossmen from Eastern Nazarene College at Monday's meeting. Hostesses were Mrs. Ruth Nelson and Mrs. Stanley Nelson.

The next meeting, Nov. 12, will have a speaker from Mass. Audubon Society who will speak on "Birds and Feeders".

Quincy's women traveled to the Bethany Covenant Church in Bedford, N.H., Oct. 13, for the Fall Meeting of the First District Covenant Women.

Thayer Academy Plans Family Day Oct. 20

Thayer Academy Family Day will feature several facets of the school's program Oct. 20 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Mrs. John Hopkins of Hanover is chairman, and Mrs. Joseph Goulart of Hingham, co-chairman. The Thayer Academy Parents Club is sponsoring the event.

The program includes: 11 a.m., soccer, Thayer vs. Rivers Country Day at Rivers; 12:30 p.m., girls' field hockey, Thayer vs. St. George's at Thayer, and 2 p.m., football, Thayer vs. St. Sebastian's at Thayer.

From 4:30 to 5:30 p.m., there will be a social hour for parents in Southworth Library with baby-sitting provided, and an art exhibit in the art gallery. A students' dance will be held from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. in Frothingham Hall, and an informal buffet will be served at 5:30 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium. Door prizes will be tickets to Boston Bruins hockey games.

At 7 p.m., a musical version of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" called "High Spirits" will be presented in Frothingham Hall with Jonathan Dwyer, director, and George M. Butler Jr.,

The cast includes: Steven Bramley, Braintree; Charles Condomine, Missy Hopkins, Elaine Smart, Ruth Condomine, Ruth Ciani, Quincy; Daniel Vega, Braintree, Robyn Geogan, Diane Labuzowski, Lisa Gerrish, Jay Goulart, Michael Paulson of Braintree has assisted at rehearsals. After 13-12 Medford Win

Frazier Hopes To Keep Raiders 'Up'

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's football team travels to Chelsea Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. Greater Boston League game and Coach Ralph Frazier hopes the Raiders won't look upon the game as a "breather."

Chelsea, smallest school in the GBL, is usually the doormat but despite a 0-3 league mark and 0-4 overall record, the Red Devils have looked much better this year and most of their losses have been close.

If North does take the Devils lightly, they could be in trouble and Frazier is understandably concerned about a possible letdown following last week's thrilling 13-12 league win over previously undefeated Medford at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"I hate to play a team like Chelsea the week after a tough game like this," Frazier admitted. "Chelsea is capable of giving everyone trouble (it dropped a last minute 7-0 decision to Somerville last week as the result of a blocked punt on its own four) and I just hope we can keep the boys up for it."

Last week's game was an interesting one from the start with both teams hurting themselves with fumbles and penalties. It wasn't over until the final minutes because North first lost an onside kick, then fumbled while trying to run down the clock, Medford recovering on its 26 with 3:06 left in the game.

Frazier and his assistants were emotionally drained when the game ended but Ralph regained his composure long enough to single out his front four of Joe Carroll, Joe Marnelli, Steve Paglierani and Tom Callahan for another outstanding defensive effort.

"This group has been tremendous in all four of our games," he lauded. "And Ron Frizzell was also exceptional today on defense."

John Flynn, who gained 173 yards two weeks ago against Malden, had another big day with 115 of North's net of 162 and scored both touchdowns. Bruce Stephansky and quarterback Carl Leone also ran well.

Rich Desmond did some more fine blocking. He injured his knee in the first half but insisted on returning in the second half and was sent back for one series. His blocking has been great all season long.

Also praised by his coaches was center Tom Donovan, who blocked well and whose passes back on punts continued to be outstanding. Leone's punting was brilliant with several long, high kicks, and each time the pass back from Donovan was perfect.

North stuck to its ground game and Leone passed only twice, completing both for 24 and 25 yards, the second a touchdown pass to Flynn.

North's only incomplete pass was thrown by Stephansky, who took a pitchout from Leone.

As has been the case in most games, North fell behind early. A penalty set up Medford's first touchdown. With fourth and four, Medford punted but North was penalized for illegal procedure giving the Mustangs a first down and they drove to a touchdown. Rich Horne ran 27 yards for the score. Dennis Works' kick for the point went wide.

North drove 50 yards for its first touchdown after a Medford punt. Leone's screen pass to Desmond for 24 yards carried to the three and, following a 15-yard penalty against North, Flynn broke through the line and went all the way. The winning point was kicked by Paul Doherty. It was the first time he had kicked.

A Medford fumble midway in the second period was recovered by North's Callahan on Medford's 46 and the drive was climaxed by Leone's pass to Flynn for 25 yards. This time Doherty's kick was blocked.

A North gamble on fourth down in the third period backfired and Medford took over on its own 37. Completing three of four passes, the Mustangs drove to the North 16 and Larry Lee raced 14 yards for the touchdown.

On a broken play on the attempt for the go-ahead points, Works tried a pass but it went incomplete.

Medford then tried an onside kick and recovered it, giving it another chance. North held but, in turn, was held by the Mustangs.

The Raiders soon regained possession but, trying to run out the clock, fumbled on Medford's 26 and the Mustangs had another opportunity with 3:05 remaining. North held on its 47, was forced to punt and time ran out before Medford could get beyond its own 43.

The statistics were close with each team having nine first downs. North netted 162 yards and Medford 119 rushing while North picked up 49 yards on its two pass completions and Medford had 55 yards on seven for 14. One Medford pass was intercepted by North's Bruce Shea.

Chelsea, Saturday's opponent, has lost to Medford, 27-6; Revere, 28-12, and Somerville, 7-0, in the league, and to East Boston, 12-6, in non-league play.

Bantam A's Demolish Abington 15-0, Hull 6-1

The Quincy Bantam "A" team is on the verge of demolishing its division in the Bay Colony Hockey Association.

The Quincy boys belted Abington, 15-0, at Hingham Arena Wednesday Oct. 10 and then followed it up with a 6-1 trouncing of Hull Oct. 13.

In five straight league wins, all by three goals or more, the Bantams have scored 45 goals to five for the combined opposition.

Brian Bertoni had two goals and an assist and Richie Troy had a pair of goals in the victory over Hull.

Tommy Cahill had a goal and two assists and John Cooney had a goal and an assist.

Matt Schaeffer was credited with two assists and Jim Shea and Mark Paolucci each had one.

Fourteen players figured in the scoring in the rout of Abington, with Mark Giordani collecting three goals and two assists.

Dave Preville had two goals and an assist while Johnny Cooney, Mike Smith and Shea each had a goal and two assists.

Paolucci, Mike McGrath, Schaeffer and Cahill had a goal and an assist apiece and Mark Kelly had two assists.

Single goals were scored by John Mitchell, Bertoni and Jackie Cronin and Richie Troy had one assist.

Goalies Jeff Nord and Tony Reilly shared the shutout.

Just to prove that they are human, the Bantams journeyed to Rockland Saturday afternoon Oct. 13 and bowed to Randolph, 3-1.

McGrath scored the lone Quincy goal, assisted by Preville.

Bantam B's Roll Over W. Bridgewater, 14-0

Don't be surprised if the call goes out around the Bay Colony Hockey Association to break up the Quincy Bantam "B" team.

The Quincy club overwhelmed West Bridgewater, 14-0, Saturday Oct. 13 for its third straight one-sided victory.

In those three games, the Bantam B's have scored 32 goals to one for the opposition.

Don Perdios had four goals and five assists in the West Bridgewater romp.

Mike Marks added three goals and two assists and Dave Peters had a pair of scores and assisted on three others.

Dave Lewis, Jimmy Moore and John Norton each had a goal and an assist.

Single goals were tallied by Jim McConville and Paul Higgins while John Andrews collected an assist.

Goalies Daryl DeCristofaro and Kevin Cotter split the shutout.

The Bantam B's dropped an exhibition game to Abington, 6-4, Friday Oct. 12 with Lewis, Moore, Peters and Rick Carnali getting the goals.

Assists were credited to Jack Cavanaugh, McConville, Lewis, Norton and Perdios.

Midget B's Crush Avon, 18-0

Goalies Jim Coffey and John Gallagher put up a perfect defense and 13 players figured in the goal-scoring as the Quincy Midget "B" team crushed Avon, 18-0, Oct. 11 in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game at Hingham Arena.

Pat McAuliffe had the three-goal hat trick and Mike Conti, Larry Curtis and Walter Pimental each had a pair of goals.

Single goals were tallied by Steve Neville, Dennis Bertoni, Joe McConville, Frank Robinson, Ed Santry, Jeff Murphy, Joe Pistorino, Bud Connally, and Bob Mawis.

Assists were parceled out thusly: John Chiavaroli 4, Conti and Neville 3, Bertoni 2, and McAuliffe, Pimental, McConville, Robinson, Santry, Pistorino and Connally, one each.

Pee Wee A's Rampage, 18-2, 9-4

The Quincy Pee Wee "A" team went on a scoring rampage last week, winning its fifth and sixth consecutive games by one-sided margins in Bay Colony Hockey Association play at Hingham Arena.

The Quincy lads smothered Abington, 18-2, Wednesday (Oct. 10) and easily romped over Hull, 9-4, Saturday (Oct. 13).

Three Quincy Pee Wees notched hat tricks against Abington as Ed Kane got four goals and two assists, Bobby Hayes had three goals and four assists and Scott Richardson fired three goals.

Paul McDermott and Johnny Mullin each had two goals and two assists while Mark Messina chipped in three assists.

Other Quincy scorers were Tommy Brennan and Robbie Craig, a goal and two assists each; Leo Doyle, a goal and an assist; and Kevin McGrath, Mike Furey and Paul McGrath, one assist apiece.

Mullin had three goals and an assist and Hayes set up four scores in the victory over Hull.

Kane and Richardson each had a pair of goals and Brennan and Billy Deitsch had one apiece.

McDermott got two assists and Messina, Kevin McGrath and Mike Furey one each.

Marshall Scores 4 Goals As Mite B's Win

Paul Marshall popped in four goals and Joe Harte and John Burm had two each as the Quincy Mite "B" team walloped Duxbury, 9-1, Sunday in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game at Hingham Arena.

Harte had three goals and Marshall two in Quincy's 9-0 trouncing of Bridgewater (Oct.

9) in the makeup of a postponed game.

John Gabriel had the ninth goal in the Duxbury game with three assists credited to Mike Riley and single assists to Billy Campbell, Kevin Greene, Dennis Cronin, Chuckie Duffy and Scott Messina.

Messina, Riley, Chris Hurley and Chris Harrington scored goals in the Bridgewater contest as goalies Paul Ryan and Timmy O'Connell shared the shutout.

Hurley, Riley and Greene each had two assists while Campbell, Harrington, Cronin and Dickie Tapper had one apiece.

Quincy's football team finally put it all together last week and Coach Hank Conroy hopes it will continue Saturday when the Presidents host improving Somerville in a 1:30 p.m. Greater Boston League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

For three weeks Quincy's defense had been outstanding but the Presidents couldn't move the ball, especially when inside the opponents' 20 and all Conroy's team had to show was a tie and two defeats.

Last week Quincy's offense finally came to life, to put it mildly.

After stopping Malden on the Quincy two early in the game, the Presidents opened up on land and in the air and when it was all over, they had pulverized Malden, 41-0.

"This was more like it," said a pleased Conroy. "We should have exploded before this. The defense had been doing its job but the offense just bogged down constantly when we reached the other teams' 20. I hope today's performance is an indication of things to come. But Somerville is improving and will be tough. They have a big team and are coming fast."

Somerville opened with a 7-0 win over Arlington in a non-league game and, after losing to Everett, 22-6, and Medford, 17-7, in league games, edged Chelsea last week, 7-0, in another league contest.

Junior Preston Carroll had his best day and scored twice, once on a 43-yard run and once on a pass from Robin Carrera for 40 yards.

"We still had a number of boys out with injuries and several sophomores played and did a fine job," Conroy said. "John Riggs, again filling in as linebacker for his injured cousin, Paul, played an excellent game and Steve Palumbo, the third quarterback I used, also did well. I used nearly the entire squad with about 40 boys playing."

The number two quarterback, Jim Forrester, again sat out the game while big Dave Sten saw only limited service at tackle. Center Fred Donahue was again sidelined and fullback Dan McDermott's service also was limited. Steve Burke played behind Carrera at quarterback and did well.

Conroy praised Carroll, Carrera, Jim French, Bond Doucette and John Campbell, filling in for Donahue, for their work on offense.

Lauded for their defensive performances were Bill Joyce, Bob Benn, Mike McKenzie, Bob Pettit, John Columbus and another sophomore, Mike Carloni.

Campbell, Scanlon Blank Scituate, 8-0

Goalies Jim Campbell and Jim Scanlon combined their talents to blank Scituate, 8-0, as the Quincy Pee Wee "B" team won its third Bay Colony Hockey Association game in a row Sunday at Hingham Arena. Tom Geary, Tom Mullen and Ed Marella each had a pair of goals for Quincy while Jeff Giordani and Bill Dietsch had one apiece.

"The whole line was outstanding and Malden didn't threaten seriously after its first drive was stopped on our two," Conroy explained.

Malden went to Quincy's six for a first down early in the game but was stopped on the two and Quincy took over but had to punt. French then recovered the first of five Malden fumbles and Carroll's 43-yard run put Quincy ahead. Kim Derbes kicked the point.

Joyce recovered a fumble following the kickoff and Wayne Ponder ran 20 yards to make it 13-0.

In the second period Carrera faked into the line and passed to Jeff Little, all alone, for a 27-yard touchdown pass and Derbes again kicked the extra point. Later in the half Carrera passed to Benn from the five and Derbes' third kick made it 27-0 at the half.

Quincy's only third period touchdown came on Carrera's pass to Carroll for 40 yards.

In the final period young Palumbo handed off to Doucette, who broke off the right side and raced 74 yards for the final touchdown. Joe Cortese rushed for the two extra points.

Quincy had a big edge in statistics, outgaining Malden on the ground, 267 net yards to 135 and gaining 166 yards with nine for 14 through the air to only 15 yards as Malden completed one of six. Quincy had 11 first downs to Malden's eight. Quincy fumbled twice but recovered both, while the Presidents recovered all five of Malden's bobbles.

Geary also had two assists and Mullen Dan Sullivan, Sean Dennis, Dan Cronin, John Jackson and Tom Joe Connolly had one each.

Sterling Gridders Win 2, Tie 1

Sterling Junior High's football teams won two and tied another in Monday's games against Point at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Sterling's ninth graders won, 20-0, as Ross Noble, on a 44-yard run, Art O'Connor and Paul Uallanini scored touchdowns and Mark Buchanan rushing for the points. Point lost one golden scoring chance when it fumbled on Sterling's 10.

The Sterling eighth grade romped, 28-0, with John Sulva scoring twice, once on a 55-yard run and falling on a fumble in the end zone. Ricky Gilbody scored a touchdown and two points and Mark Merlis scored the other touchdown.

The seventh grade teams fought to a scoreless tie.

Last Friday Central's ninth graders defeated Broadmeadows, 28-14, with Carl Bergstrom scoring twice and Mike Nolan and Pat Gibbons once each for Central. Brian Djerf added two points on a pass from Dan Cuddy and Gibbons had the other two points. Al Rautilia scored both Meadows touchdowns and John Uhler added the points.

Central's eighth grade won, 8-0, as Jim Oriola scored the touchdown and Wink Phelan the points, and the seventh grade team completed a sweep with a 6-0 win. John Cahill scored the touchdown and Joe Venezia sparked in the line.

Earlier in the week Atlantic-North's ninth graders topped Sterling, 22-6, as Mike Adams scored twice in the first half and George Wallace converted after the first TD. Sterling came back on Art O'Connors touchdown but in the second half Eddie McElaney scored for A-N and Wallace again added the points. Noble halted another possible A-N score with a pass interception.

The eighth grade teams played to a scoreless tie and Sterling's seventh grade won, 8-0, on Jimmy Wojciechowski's touchdown and Ron Dicesare's points.

Broad Meadows ninth grade romped over Point, 24-0, while the seventh and eighth grade games ended in scoreless ties. Al Rautilia scored twice for Meadows and Lyle Morrison and Mark Connolly scored the others. Point's Bobby D'Olympio was injured and taken to the hospital.

A-N Looks Strong In Soccer

Sterling's domination of the Quincy Junior High soccer league has ended.

Under Joe Amoroso Sterling had won four successive championships and had a 35-game unbeaten streak going into this season before Amoroso resigned to take over as basketball coach and gym instructor at Quincy High.

Sterling, under new coach Eddie Miller, dropped its opener to Atlantic-North, 1-0, and following last Monday's games had a 3-3 record.

Atlantic-North, coached by Leo Donovan, looks like the team to beat as it defeated Sterling for the second time last Friday, 3-0, and going into yesterday's games led the league with a 5-0 record.

In the latest league games on Monday Sterling nipped Point, 1-0, on a first half goal by Dominic Piccarina with an assist by Scott Boidi.

Central and Broad Meadows battled to a scoreless tie. Meadows had a penalty kick in the second half but Central goalie Rick Smith made the stop.

Last Friday Brian Morrissey scored twice and Matt Schaefer once in Atlantic-North's 3-0 win over Sterling.

Broad Meadows defeated Point, 3-1, with Billy Norton scoring twice and Steve Currier once. Bobby Salvati scored for Point.

Earlier in the week Central topped Point, 4-0. Jon Galub, John Dolbec, Steve Pastor and Brennan were Central's scorers with Dolbec also having an assist.

Atlantic edged Broad Meadows, 1-0, on Schaefer's goal.

The standings:

	W	L	T	Pts.	GF	GA
Atlantic-North	5	0	0	10	9	2
Broad Meadows	3	2	1	7	6	3
Sterling	3	3	0	6	4	7
Central	2	2	1	5	7	4
Point	0	6	0	0	2	13

Multibank Votes 40-Cent Dividend

The Board of Directors of Multibank Financial Corp. has voted a dividend of 40 cents for the third quarter of 1973, payable Oct. 23 to stockholders of record Oct. 10, 1973.

Principal banking subsidiaries of Multibank are Attleboro Trust Company, The Falmouth National Bank, First Agricultural National Bank of Berkshire County, Pittsfield, The Mechanics National Bank of Worcester, and South Shore National Bank, Quincy.

Multibank has announced that the Massachusetts Board of Bank Incorporation and the Federal Reserve Board have both approved application for B.M.C. Durfee Trust Company of Fall River and Northampton National Bank. A tender offer and prospectus have been mailed to the stockholders of both Durfee and Northampton.

Based on present figures, B.M.C. Durfee Trust Company and Northampton National Bank will increase Multibank's assets to more than $636.8 million with 79 banking offices statewide.

The July dividend marked the beginning of the new automatic reinvestment plan for Multibank stockholders which is continuing. Under this plan, stockholders may have their dividend reinvested in Multibank stock or choose to send in as little as $10 or as much as $1,000 a month for investment in Multibank stock.

Weymouth Rotary Presents 'Big Band Night' Nov.2

The unforgettable era of the "Big Bands" comes to life again Nov. 2 at The Surf, Nantasket! On that evening from 8:30 p.m. to midnight the Weymouth Rotary Club will present the 15 member John Savini Band playing for dancing to "pop" tunes and original arrangements of a number of the great bands of the 1930's and 1940's. This is the ninth annual "Pop" concert and dance.

Such numbers as "You Made Me Love You", "Song of India", "In The Mood", "Begin The Beguine", "Two O'Clock Jump", "Satin Doll", "Take the A Train", and "I've Got My Love To Keep Me Warm" are played exactly as the original band played them.

More than 1100 attended this "reunion" of music fan and Big Band Sound last year. The Savini Band is comprised of many musicians who were members of the big bands. During the past nine years, such men as Lou Colombo, Dick Johnson, Leon Merrian, Ted Casher, Al Anthony, "Tak" Takvorian, "Kaz" Kasbrosky, Charlie Wells, Mike Lalli, Arnold MacKenzie, John LaPorta, Bill Cecchi, have appeared with the band.

Proceeds are used for scholarships and civic projects.

CITY OF QUINCY NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for placing of approximately one to one and one-half inch [1-1/2"] wearing surface, base course and other related work where necessary and all work incidental thereto on East Squantum Street, from Hancock Street to Quincy Shore Drive, will be received at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 206, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, until 10:30 A.M., Wednesday, October 24, 1973, at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

The contractor to whom the contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the contract within ten days from the date of the mailing of notice from the Commissioner to the bidder, according to the address given by him that the contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect to do so, the Commissioner may at his option determine that the bidder has abandoned the contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The contractor will be required to give a guarantee of his work and file a bond in an amount acceptable to the City of Quincy for the fulfillment of his guarantee and contract. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the face value of the contract shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works upon deposit of $5.00 for each set, which will be refunded provided they are returned promptly and in good condition.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

James J. Ricciuti

Reaction to Center Plan Good

it's a good solid study. It indicates the direction the city should go and will go. The main thing is cooperation between the business community and the city government. This is happening."

REMO DeNICOLA of South Shore Television & Appliance, vice-president of the QCBPA: "Who knows where I'll be in five or 15 years. It sounds like just another survey, a analyzing of the downtown area. It may happen or it may not happen. Money is tighter now than it was 15 years ago when it should have been done. What we really need is a good highway into Quincy. This won't be a reality until people have easy access to Quincy Center."

"The stories about the report in the Boston papers made it sound like Quincy is a distressed area in real bad shape. They sounded like we were doing this to keep alive, for survival. People have been asking me: 'Do you know what's going to happen downtown? How long will you be in the area? When will the building be taken down?'"

ARTHUR H. TOBIN, Senator and president of the City Council: "It's a step in the right direction and I certainly recommend the planning department and the administration for its positive approach. But this should not be construed as indicating that the City Council will be a rubber stamp on it."

"At this time it is merely a proposal of what the future could look like in Quincy, a rendering of potential development in the area for future growth. It should be taken in that context and nothing more. When we talk about $100 million dollars we are talking about many years in the future."

"My attitude is to wait and judge each phase of the development on its own merits. The fair thing is to wait for the concrete proposals to come before the Council. What about open space, traffic, income, assessed valuation, job opportunities? It will have to be spelled right out."

JACK KERRIGAN of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream: "I'm happy with it. It looks everything is being tied together for once. It seems like a well-organized plan that should be implemented by the city. I can see some of the preliminary steps being carried out now. It certainly shows confidence in the downtown economy."

CARMEN D'OLIMPIO, head of the Building and Construction Trades Council of Quincy: "We feel that the plan will stimulate growth of the downtown area. Of course, we are interested in jobs for the workers in our unions but new building will also mean jobs for others. The city will also benefit from a broadened tax base."

"As we understand it, the proposed residences will be condominiums and not apartment houses. We like the idea. Bringing more office space to Quincy is a good idea, too. We have a strong retail area and we want to keep it strong. More offices and residences will give the area a shot in the arm."

"Once we start growth of this type we will be able to entice others into the area."

Concert Raises $463 For Heleotis Fund

The pops concert presented Monday night by the Morrisette Symphonic Band at the Sons of Italy Social Center raised $463.50 for the Philip Heleotis Fund.

The Morrisette Band, directed by John Falcione, played a number of old standards including selections from the works of Jimmy McHugh, The Student Prince and Gilbert and Sullivan's Pirates of Penzance.

The fund is a continuing campaign to raise money for the rehabilitation of Philip [Tiny] Heleotis, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Heleotis of 35 Hilltop St., West Quincy, who suffered a broken neck in a swimming pool accident July 6.

Mrs. Eleanor Woodward and County Commissioner George B. McDonald are coordinators of the fund. Mrs. Doris Perkins was chairman of the concert committee.

FIGHT MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

Burke Predicts Good News

Go-Ahead Seen Next Week For $380 Million Tanker Contract

By TOM HENSHAW

Look for good news early next week for the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard and its employees, most of whom are currently unemployed.

Congressman James A. Burke (D-Milton) says he expects the Maritime Administration to approve a mortgage insurance guarantee that will open the doors to a $380 million contract for construction of four liquified natural gas (LNG) tankers.

The contract between General Dynamics and Burmah Oil Tankers Ltd. of New York was signed Oct. 4 but work cannot begin on the huge vessels until the mortgage insurance guarantee application is approved.

The four LNG tankers are in addition to the three LNG tankers that Burma, ordered for the Algeria-to-United States route. Keel for the first tanker in the $270 million program is scheduled to be laid this month.

Burke has urged favorable action by the Maritime Administration in a letter to Robert J. Blackwell, assistant secretary for maritime affairs in the Department of Commerce, because of heavy dependence of the South Shore on the shipyard.

Unemployment on the South Shore, including Quincy, has been estimated as high as 10 per cent, due chiefly to shipyard layoffs. The work force at the yard stood at 5,800 two years ago but dropped to 500 production workers last summer. "The addition of four more LNG ships would create a much-needed stabilizing effect on the Quincy-South Shore economy for the next several years," said Burke.

Burke praised the shipyard for its determination to remain competitive in commercial shipbuilding by beginning "construction of modern additions to the yard to accommodate the technology needed to construct these highly advanced LNG tankers."

The General Dynamics Company has been aggressive in going after new work in recent months. Only last month, the company:

- Signed a five-year agreement with the Soviet Union that could lead to the purchase of the company's products by the USSR.
- Received a Navy contract for $1,105,998 worth of repairs to the Fleet Replenishment Oiler USS 'Milwaukee', resulting the rehiring of 150 workers.
- Installed a 1,200-ton crane to lift the 800-ton aluminum spheres from ocean barges into the LNGs. Each tanker will have five of them.

A $3 Bargain

Old School Desks Sell Like Hot Cakes

The city of Quincy has picked up a windfall of nearly $1,500 by selling something the experts said couldn't be sold.

And there's another $1,800 waiting to be made.

It began when City Purchasing Agent Richard Newcomb took a long look at some of the desks in Quincy schools and decided that about 1,100 of them, including 201 lying forgotten in an attic, were dispensable.

Every used furniture dealer in trucking range was given a crack at them and turned them down. A drug on the market, they said.

A local salvage company wanted $8.50 per man hour simply for hauling them away - even with the aid of the city department of public works.

It looked as though 20 truckloads of school desks were headed for the dump when someone asked:

"Why don't we sell them ourselves?"

Three weeks ago the desks went on sale for $3 apiece on the first floor of the parking garage in the Ross area.

As of Tuesday, nearly 500 of the unsaleable desks had been sold.

And there were 600 more waiting for $3 purchasers.

30 New Type Telephone Booths For Downtown Area

The New England Telephone Company announces that the 30 sidewalk telephone booths in downtown Quincy will be replaced by the new pedestal-type enclosures to forestall vandalism.

Ten of the replacements will be completed by Nov. 20 and the remainder early next year.

Robert Chase of the Telephone Company said Quincy will be the first city in New England to receive the new type booths, which have been given their trial runs in downtown New York City.

John J. Cheney, Quincy's Downtown Development Director, said that each unit will cost the company about $2,000 to replace. They will cost the city nothing. In fact, they'll even make money for the city.

"Last year," said Cheney, "the city derived about $2,000 from its sidewalk-type telephones."

• The Hilgenhurst Report

Mid-Rise Towers, Mall, Parking Garage

Mid-rise residential towers and town houses, a new parking garage in the Hancock Parking Area and the conversion of a section of Hancock Street into a pedestrian mall are features of the downtown Hilgenhurst Report.

The second in three installments of the complete text of the $100 million plan for the renovation of downtown Quincy continues in the Quincy Sun.

The Sun is printing the entire report - word-for-word because of the tremendous impact the Master redevelopment plan would have, not only on downtown area but on the entire city.

The second installment follows:

• Area 4 [Washington St. and Foster St.]

The plan for Area 4 consists of new development on four scattered sites. These sites include one for commercial use along Washington between Maple and Temple, and three for medium density residential use. Development of all these sites would be carefully staged over a number of years to minimize disruption and to carefully integrate it with the existing sound buildings which are to be retained. The residential use proposed would be housed in mid-rise towers and town houses, in order to increase the residential density of the area, yet relate to the existing neighborhoods which surround it.

• Area 5 [the present Hancock parking area]

The effective use of this parking area is one of the major keys to the ultimate success of the Quincy CBD revitalization effort. The plan calls for new development on this land, including the introduction of three major new uses; a major retailer to balance and strengthen Hancock St., a major parking garage to serve both new and existing retail uses, and a new high density residential area to strengthen the economic vitality of downtown and to make partial use of the proposed parking structure.

It includes the creation of two major pedestrian spines and a series of open spaces to allow movement to the site, to separate uses one from another, and to allow a staged development. Retention of existing retail structures along Cottage Ave. and Hancock St., is proposed, with acquisition and demolition limited to the half-block on Hancock St. between Revere Rd and the existing pedestrian way.

The development of this entire area would be staged, with the garage followed by the housing as soon as possible. The potential retail developer will be presented with a site which can be rapidly assembled and cleared, an already improved Hancock Street, a new nearby residential complex, and an in-place and functioning garage ready to accept direct connections for pedestrians from the new retail development.

Hannon Seeks Future Federal Funds For Improvement Projects

Mayor Walter J. Hannon went to Washington last week to seek continuation of federal funding for Quincy's neighborhood improvement projects.

He found that the House Banking and Currency Subcommittee on Housing was every bit as interested in finding out why the neighborhood renewal programs in Quincy were so successful.

"They wanted to know how we made it go so well," the Mayor said.

"I told them it was the people who did it, the neighborhood people who speak the language of the neighborhood and who know what is going on there."

"I told them we wanted to continue those programs."

Neighborhood improvement programs have been carried on in North Quincy and in Quincy Point, but when Quincy Point is finished later this year, there will be no federal funds to continue.

Funds for projects all over the country were impounded by the Nixon Administration last January.

Mayor Hannon was in Washington to testify in behalf of the so-called Barrett-Ashley bill that would set up a system of bloc grants to finance neighborhood improvements.

"We have to keep the programs going in order to maintain the experienced staffs," he said. "If the programs are dropped, what do we do with the people who have worked on them? How do we get them back if we need them again?"

In a prepared statement for the subcommittee, the Mayor said:

"Reports that a program of bloc grants or a revised categorical grant system may pass to be funded for fiscal 1976 or some time a year from now frightens me."

"This hiatus must end as soon as possible and it seems to me that the start of fiscal 1975 is a realistic target we can work towards."

Mayor Hannon said Rep. Margaret Heckler (R-Wellesley), a member of the subcommittee, told him she does not think the Congress will get the bill out for 1975.

Quincy Junior College Offering Retailing Course

Quincy Junior College is now offering a new program in Retailing designed to prepare students for challenging careers in merchandising and management of retail departments.

Students selecting this program will be required to participate in an internship program as part of their educational experience, thus providing each student with an opportunity to practice in-school learned skills in actual working conditions.

The program was developed as a service to the retail community to meet the increased demand for competent retail personnel throughout the South Shore area.

Retailing offers many opportunities for creative and ambitious people. Students interested in pursuing a career in this area are asked to contact Dean Saluti at Quincy Junior College for further information.

60 Tri-Hi-Y Members Helping United Way Campaign

Sixty members of the Quincy and North Quincy High School Tri-Hi-Y are doing their part to make the United Way campaign in Quincy a success.

The girls have been operating a "Phone Bank" contacting residents by telephone requesting them to help canvas their neighborhoods for the fund on Sunday, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

And many of the girls themselves will serve on teams to solicit donations in neighborhoods that day.

Atty. Terry Flukes, assistant clerk of courts in Norfolk County, who is the Quincy chairman praised the girls for their efforts to help put the campaign over the top.

Atty. Robert Dillon, assistant district attorney, is vice-chairman of the Quincy drive.

They noted that 31,000 persons in Quincy were aided by United Way services last year.

• Did Nixon Receive Treatment?

• You Paid $12,000 For Vietnam War

• Chilly Homes This Winter

Report Praised

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's psychotherapist is back in the news. He is Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker, who treated Nixon several years ago. There should be no stigma attached to this. But voters who don't understand psychotherapy, apparently, believe those who receive it are mentally unstable. It has become a political liability, therefore, to be caught receiving psychotherapy.

Nixon vigorously denied that he had received any such treatment. He had gone to see Dr. Hutschnecker, said Nixon, for treatment of an internal disorder. It is true that Hutschnecker once had been an internist, but he had given up the practice for psychotherapy. The President still won't admit, however, that he received psychiatric counseling.

Last year Sen. Tom Eagleton gave up the Democratic Vice-Presidential nomination over the issue of his psychiatric treatment. This dramatized again the political danger of such care.

In 1965, Vice President designate Gerald Ford visited President Nixon's psychotherapist. The man who arranged the appointment, Robert Berger, said Ford sought relief from "illness, nervous and depressed." Ford was a patient of the psychotherapist, claimed Winter-Berger, "for at least a year."

Both Ford and Dr. Hutschnecker have denied this. Ford swore to us that he had visited Dr. Hutschnecker at Winter-Berger's pleading, received a "15-minute lecture on psychology" and never saw him again.

Whether Ford received psychotherapy or not, those who know him have no doubt that he is completely sane, sound and sensible.

No Power — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has now received the Nobel Prize for his part in ending the Vietnam War. And President Nixon, besieged by Watergate, never misses a chance to remind his fellow Americans that he achieved "peace with honor."

But the secret intelligence reports show clearly that peace hasn't come to Vietnam at all. The new spotlight has shifted to the Middle East, but the fighting goes on in the Vietnam countryside. The reports out of Hanoi warn that the North Vietnamese leaders haven't given up any of their goals. Their objective is still a Communist takeover of all Vietnam. And secret U.S. estimates warn they are likely to accomplish this, probably before the end of the decade.

Yes — American soldiers fought in the South Vietnamese jungles for more than eight years to prevent a Communist takeover. The United States expended a staggering 13 million tons of munitions and sprayed over 100 million tons of herbicides upon this small country.

The cost to the U.S. — nearly 54,000 Americans killed, 300,000 wounded, 8,000 aircraft lost and hundreds of billions of dollars down the drain. The exact figure is hard to calculate when wasted human resources and veterans' benefits are counted. Some scholars have figured the cost of the Vietnam War to the American taxpayers at over $650 billion. This would come to more than $12,000 for each American family.

Yet all these lives and all these billions were lost to prevent a Communist takeover that our top strategists now predict will occur anyway in a few years.

The Economy — While war and Watergate may dominate the headlines, White House policy-makers are equally concerned about the economy. They are torn by conflicting economic advice. Some experts warn that the menace is inflation. Others see signs on the economic horizon of a severe recession.

This much seems certain: Heating fuels will be rationed, and gasoline prices are going up probably to $1 a gallon. The government will call upon all Americans to turn down their house thermostats, replace their pilot lights with automatic ignition devices and add insulation to their homes. They should be prepared for chillier homes, electricity interruptions and less pleasure driving.

At the supermarket, bakery and dairy prices are expected to continue going up. The U.S. wheat reserves will be depleted next spring unless export controls are adopted. And the high cost of feed grains has caused farmers to cut down on their dairy herds.

Turkeys should also cost double on Thanksgiving what they did a year ago. But beef prices should hold steady or, perhaps, even drop slightly. Plenty of beef now appears to be available through 1975.

For the average American, however, his purchasing power will decline in the months ahead.

Two Masters — The Constitution declares that a Congressman cannot serve two masters. Yet at last count 108 members of Congress held commissions in the military reserves.

This formidable band of weekend warriors provides valuable, if not valiant, service for the Pentagon. Seven Senators and 10 Congressmen on the Armed Service Committees, for example, are reservists. Ten more reservists serve on the House committee which directly oversees the Pentagon budget.

Fifteen legislators draw military pensions in addition to their Congressional salaries. Nevada's Sen. Howard Cannon, for example, collects an extra $8,600 as a retired major general in the Air Force reserves. House Speaker Carl Albert, a retired Army reserve colonel, takes home over $66,000 in combined salary and pension.

Senator Barry Goldwater, a retired Air Force reserve general, has said privately he really didn't think it was right for reservists to serve in Congress. He was then asked why he didn't refuse his retirement check. Goldwater replied that such a request "would never get through the (Pentagon) computer."

Back in the days when Congress took the Constitution seriously, a Senator from Kansas was ejected from office for accepting a reserve commission in the United Army. If today's lawmakers were equally strict, a full fifth of Congress would be looking for new jobs.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

You know, somebody's going to get killed yet trying to cross Hancock St. in downtown Quincy.

The other day a shrieking mother yanked her youngster from the path of a fast moving car.

And on another day, an elderly woman pleaded with two passersby to escort her across the street. "I'm too frightened to cross alone," she almost cried.

And if you don't think the cars are moving fast you should have been around to see the skid marks left at the corner of Hancock and Cliveden Sts. by one speedster who had to stop suddenly.

Doesn't make sense. We build parking areas on each side of Hancock St. and then make an obstacle course out of trying to get from one side to the other.

Since the ban on parking on the westerly side of Hancock St., there has been a noticeable speed pick up by many motorists. They apparently feel they don't have to be cautious about people stepping out from behind parked cars.

We seem to do some things a little back-end to. If you park your car overtime at a meter, a meter maid will get you. But if you speed down Hancock St.—nothing!

At least the city [if there aren't enough police officers] could paint the crosswalks at Hancock and Cliveden Sts. and Hancock St. and Cottage Ave., a bright yellow. This might slow motorists down. At least they'll know that it's a crosswalk.

And let's hope that someone isn't going to say that the yellow wouldn't fit in with downtown beautification plans. Neither does red-like in blood.

LADY LUCK seems to be smiling on Thomas F. Meade Jr., formerly of Billings Rd, North Quincy. He recently received a promotion from the typewriter company he works for necessitating moving his family to Harrisburg, Pa.

The other day a letter arrived from the state of Massachusetts at their new home. Meade's wife, Elaine, opened it. Bingo! A check for $2,500.

Meade has a season ticket for The Game. And his number came out. He didn't know of it until the check arrived.

Mrs. Meade jubilantly called her good friend and former neighbor, Mrs. Margaret Fasano of Billings Rd. to report the good news.

And to invite the Fasano's out to dinner if they ever get to Harrisburg or the Meades come back to Quincy for a visit.

WANT TO LOSE weight—the sure way? Run for public office. Atty. Matthew McDonnell, candidate for the Ward 1 council seat, had tried for three years to shed 15 pounds, but never did. However, in a few short weeks as a candidate walking around the area, he's gotten rid of the 15 pounds and is now down to a trim 180.

OVERHEARD as those Army tanks rumbled down Hancock St. during Monday's Veterans Day parade: "Don't tell me Nixon's invading us!"

LOOKING AHEAD: James Papile of Harkins St., Quincy Point is a definite candidate for the state representative seat Clifford Marshall will have to vacate in his bid for Norfolk County Sheriff. Several other candidates have been mentioned and Papile would prefer to wait until the city election is over before making any announcements about next year's state election. But with others already in the race, he feels forced to note that he is very much a candidate, too. And he should be a strong contender.

In 1968 he was one of five candidates seeking the Democratic nomination. He finished second to Marshall who was [still is] Ward 2 councillor.

STILL LOOKING AHEAD: The Ward 2 Civic Association has applications for the National Teen-agers Pageant for next year. The New England Regional contest will be held in Chicopee in February—the finals in Atlanta. Girls between 13 and 17 are eligible to enter. Mrs. John Bagen, president Ward 2 Association has the applications of any Quincy Point girls are interested.

MILESTONE: John McRudin Sr. of 44 Conrad St., South Quincy, is 80 years young. A young neighbor sends along "best wishes from a couple of generations of Peun's Hill kids who have enjoyed growing up with his friendship and kindness throughout the years."

POLITICAL SOCIAL EVENT: A buffet and dance in honor of Ward 3 council candidate James Vey tonight [Thursday] at 8 p.m. at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

TYPO TERROR DEPT: From the Lordsburg [N.M.] Liberal: "I'm glad we're going back to the precinct ... structure... It allows the members more vice in party affairs."

SMILE DEPT: North Quincy's Jack Silverstein says he knows a couple who got divorced but later remarried. The divorce didn't work out.

Letter Box

Printing Of Downtown Report Praised

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Your printing of the entire Hugenhurst Downtown Master Plan and Development Strategy is a genuine public service and the best way to provide Quincy residents with a comprehensive understanding of the proposal.

Those citizens that choose to become intimate with the details of the plan will certainly share our enthusiasm for it. It retains the character of this historic community while plugging in essential new commercial and living development that retain Quincy's role as the economic pacesetter for the South Shore.

Best of all, it relies heavily on private investment to make it happen which makes good political and economic sense. It has always been highly questionable to me whether government should force development when natural market demand does not exist by providing writedown subsidies.

Nothing worthwhile was ever accomplished without enthusiasm. Your printing of the entire proposal gives citizens a basis on which to evaluate this plan for their downtown and develop their opinions.

If they understand all its implications, I'm sure they'll be enthusiastic, and our elected leadership will confidently pursue its implementation on behalf of the entire constituency.

Again, thank you.

Eric M. Swider, Executive Vice-President South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Seeks Help In Getting Fire Truck

Editor, Quincy Sun:

May I have a few minutes of your time to introduce myself. I represent the Womens Auxiliary of the Winthrop Harbor Volunteer Fire Department.

We are engaged in a campaign to raise funds for a new Fire Truck by collecting Betty Crocker and Bonus Coupons which will be redeemed for cash. Our goal is 10 million coupons for $50,000. The completion date for our campaign is December 1, 1974. Coupons may be sent directly to the Winthrop Harbor Volunteer Fire Department, 830 Sheridan Road, Winthrop Harbor, Illinois 60096.

I am requesting, if it is at all possible, that you would help our campaign by giving us some publicity as to help us acquire coupons. This is a non-profit organization and all firemen are volunteers devoting all their spare time to meet the requirements of all equipment to be in perfect shape to combat all hazards that may occur.

If you can help we thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Local Girl Scouts In Friendship Walk Sunday

The Girl Scouts of Blue Hill Council have plenty of good reasons to raise money with their fourth annual Walk for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund Sunday.

Besides the exercise and fun and the fact that international friendship is a major part of the Girl Scout program, seven of the council's Senior Scouts benefited from the World Friendship Fund as members of a patrol representing the girl Scouts of the U. S. A. at a Village Service Camp sponsored by the Greek Girl Guides during the past summer.

Like all international projects of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts, the local girls were partially financed by the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund, named to honor the founder of Girl Scouting in the United States. Girls of all ages throughout the country contribute to the fund annually.

Each walker will be soliciting pledges from other scouts, friends, adults in scouting and the general public for each mile she actually walks. Checkpoints to verify the distances will be set up along the two routes, as well as refreshment stands and rest stops.

One group of walkers will start at the Scituate Town Hall at 10 a.m. and will follow Route 3A through Scituate, Cohasset, Hingham, Weymouth and Quincy, and then Adams St. into Milton, ending their walk at the Milton Scout House in Cunningham Park, 17.5 miles away.

The other group will start at the Wellesley Town Hall at 10 a.m. and go through Wellesley, Needham, Dedham, Readville and Milton, winding up at the Milton Scout House - a total distance of 15.6 miles.

Residents interested in supporting local Girl Scouts in their efforts toward international friendship may contact any scout in their community or call the Blue Hill Council office at 472-5960. A Walk participant will then contact them for their pledge.

Youth Speaks Out

● If Nixon had been treated like Mike Andrews was - two errors, and you're fired - he wouldn't have lasted a week in the White House.

● Now that Dick Williams is leaving as manager of the A's maybe Charlie Finley will hire Dick Nixon. Firing people comes very natural to both Finley and Nixon.

● As heard on TV - Now that Agnew is gone, let's hope Ford has a better idea.

S.S. Women's Caucus Candidates Night Tonight

The South Shore Women's Caucus invites Quincy residents to "Meet The Candidates" Tonight (Thursday) Oct. 25, 7:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall, 24 Broad St., Quincy.

Questions to be directed to the candidates are derived from a survey taken by the South Shore Women's Caucus of Quincy women, who were asked about the issues that they thought important and relevant to their own lives.

Sample questions to be asked of the candidates for ward councilor, councilor at-large, school committee and mayor are: Are you willing to make a commitment now to recommend women for appointment to administrative positions in all departments of municipal government?

Would you actively undertake a study to see if sexism exists in Quincy schools and to determine how it works to the detriment of both sexes?

Would you use your influence to support the efforts of local groups to expand child care facilities in Quincy?

Would you allocate budget expenditures for recreation programs equally between activities for males and females? Would you support the formation of a committee to study the status of women in Quincy?

The chief aim of the South Shore Women's Caucus is to encourage women to become more politically involved in both local and state issues.

Plato Great Books Subject

Apology and Crito by Plato will be discussed Oct. 31 at 7:30 p.m. by members of the first year Great Books Discussion Group.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Cold feet plagues

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Dear Dorothy:

I'm 34, married, and have two children. In view of the "anything goes" policy of today's youth, I wonder if all my efforts in trying to raise them to be good citizens will be in vain. There are times when I really get cold feet, as far as my children are concerned.

M.J.

Dear M.J.:

You're not alone.

Most parents would like a hot pad to warm their cold feet, raising a family today. You anticipate the problems which you think will confront you in raising your children. Headlines and the sensational catch your eye. Your far forward slant keeps your brow ruffled — you see what's going on, and you panic.

You're bogged down by your own set of standards, seen in your short t's. You turn your back on any hope from those who might be able to help you, since you are so quick to close your mind to the ideas of others, seen in the squeezed e loops.

But the stroke that really breaks your spirit is your low t crossing. You lack confidence in your role as a mother, and you just presume that you are going to fail.

Because you are so ready and willing to voice your feelings, seen in the evaluation of the open top on the o and your writing slant, you keep very little to yourself. You're building a real case around your see-through personality, and your kids can read you like a book.

If you think defeat, you'll stain their thoughts.

If you think success that'll rub off, too.

D.J.

I get cold feet.

Make a rattle for Halloween

By BÜROKER &
HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

Scary creatures galore will be abroad on Halloween. Even if they will just be costumed children and traditional decorations, Halloween began at a time when fears and superstitions were very real.

The ancient Druids of Britain celebrated summer's end by feasting on such crops as corn and pumpkins. But the Druids also believed that at this time of year spirits and witches came out to haunt people. So they built huge bonfires to scare them off now that nights were longer and colder. Ghosts didn't like light or heat.

An entirely different ceremony had its beginnings in olden times. The church during the 700s decreed that All Saint's Day would be celebrated Nov. 1 and the night before became known as a holy evening or "Hallowed Eve." As so often happened, pagan and Christian customs blended until, eventually, an entirely new festival evolved. As a result, modern Halloween is just a fun time. Any scariness now adds a bit of zest.

You can, however, pretend to copy the long-ago beliefs that noise, like light, was a good way to frighten off ghosts and goblins. Along with lanterns — which is why candlelit pumpkins are popular — people carried rattles or shakers. No doubt they worked something like whistling in the dark. If nothing else, the person creating the racket felt more at ease since the sounds blotted out other noises that might be

To make an effective rattle, first fill an ordinary quart or half-gallon empty milk carton with pebbles, tiny stones or marbles. Tape the opening closed and also tape on a handle. A short wooden dowel, plywood strip or even a twig will do.

Next, cover the entire outside surface with contact paper. Construction paper may also be used if it's stapled to the waxy surface. Add as decoration a pumpkin face, black cat or such appropriate symbol, drawn and then pasted on.

If a little brother or sister is going trick or treating for the very first time, use the tiny individual-sized cartons with a popsicle stick handle. Chances are this smallest sized shaker will rattle out more noise than all the big ones on the block.

Borrow granny's clothes

By PAT and
MARILYN DAVIS

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
What can I do about Grandma? She must be at least 60 but thinks she is a teen-ager. It is embarrassing to introduce Granny to my friends when she is dressed in plaid trousers with wide cuffs or one of the new jumperalls complete with belt blouse.

Grandma doesn't wear little-old-lady shoes. Oh, no! She wears the new platform with heels to match. Don't get the idea that Grandma is a bore. She isn't. She is fun to be with and a very interesting lady, but I think she should dress like a grandmother. I tried to tell her this but she pointed out that she is my size, which is 12, and likes to dress like a city slicker — as she put it.

Granny does have a very nice figure. What can I do?

When Mommas and Poppas want to go away on an overnight or extended trip, parents enantes, they can take advantage of a babysitting service that sends young married couples in to take care of the children and the house. University Home Services of Needham screens couples for moral character, responsibility and good judgment, then sends them to your home for an interview and approval. Most couples are college age or graduates. They prepare all meals, do the laundry, maintain the house, and manage details such as garbage disposal and snow plowing. It's arranged for the sitters to become acquainted with the children beforehand so they won't be strangers when the parents leave. Oct. 28 to Nov. 3

By GINA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Complete projects, tasks, already in progress. Wait till next week for new beginnings. Community projects are favored. Check for accident hazards in the home. Take a good hard look at budget; plug leaks.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Exert caution regarding all legal documents and transactions. Check for proper signature; have copies made for reference. Possibility of honors, gains in reputation. Friends are supportive now.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Social activity is at a peak. Take care to conserve sufficient energy to your job efficiently. Meditate and contemplate over decision in personal matter — don't act impulsively. Get help with legal matters.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — A practical time when you are less concerned with ideas than performance. Romantic attraction may be shortlived. Good time to take up a new craft hobby. Rely on personal integrity for decision on personal matter.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Promote yourself in creative areas. Put your talents on display. Take care, however, to not spread yourself too thin. Keep close safety check on children and their play equipment. Guard your own health if vitality sags.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Romance is highlighted. Someone from out of the past may reappear. Older and wiser heads could give good advice now. Some of you may get a new job offer. Good time to complete projects hanging fire.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Pressures ease and the desire for rest and relaxation is great. Short visits with relatives prove beneficial. Work on completing long-range plans. Guard tendency to sarcasm, stubborn attitudes with mate, partner.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Popularity increases and honors may be received. Use care in contracting for large purchases — get good advice. Meet deadlines promptly in communications areas. Take a short trip to relax if possible.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Past projects are completed, resulting in a raise or promotion, if effort has been worthy. An optimistic spirit prevails. Speculate with the mind, ideas, rather than with cash. Be realistic in romance.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Exert warm and enthusiastic attitudes to gain cooperation and support of co-workers. New self-confidence may emerge as you realize more inner qualities you possess. Present work to bosses now.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Your innate timing is excellent now — strike while the iron is hot. Add finishing touches to projects already in process. Finances improve. Use your own judgment in money matters.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Trust your own inner judgment. Do not be discouraged if everything doesn't fall into place immediately. Don't let lack of support from others dissuade you from what you feel in your heart is right.

RIGHTS Halloween safety tips given

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Halloween will soon be upon us. Would you please do a column on safety tips to protect our small "spooks." — Concerned Mother

Dear Concerned: I could do five columns on this subject, but here are some basic suggestions to help make this year's Halloween safer.

— Children should not accept food items that are not wrapped.

— "Treats" should not be eaten until they have been examined carefully by an adult. Sadists have been known to insert pins, razor blades, glass and even poison into food for the children.

— Costumes should be fire-resistant and the children should not be permitted to carry candles or other open flame lights.

— Children should be taught not to enter anyone's home or to follow a stranger anywhere. Any child under 7 should be accompanied by a parent.

— Costumes should be short enough to prevent tripping and masks or other head and face covering should not restrict breathing or vision and should be easily removed.

— The children should carry flashlights and reflective tape should be sewn on the front and back of their costumes to make them visible to motorists.

— Motorists, in turn, should drive with extra caution on Halloween night. Pirates and witches, dressed in black, are a real hazard.

— "Trick-or-treaters" should be warned to cross only at street intersections. In some areas, parents take turns monitoring busy corners.

— Sub teen-agers should be restricted to a certain area within a given perimeter.

— A porch or yard light should be a welcome beacon for Halloween pranksters. If you have to be away from your home that night, leave the lights off. This will signal the children that you are not at home and they should seek treats elsewhere.

— Play the game. When you open your door, feign surprise and fear. The little ones will shriek with delight. Happy Halloween to you all.

Questions on etiquette may be mailed to Riv Tobin, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Pets can carry harmful diseases

Your family pet can be carrying harmful diseases, the bi-monthly Medical Letter warns.

Pregnant mothers, for example, are advised to avoid cat litter because it sometimes contains a parasite that can damage the unborn child. Parakeets sometimes carry "parrot fever" and turtles have been blamed for an intestinal disease. — CNS

SUNLAMP SAFETY

Careless use of a sunlamp can cause painful sunburn or far worse, eye damage that may be lasting. Unfortunately, most sunlamps intended for home use do not include these three important safety features, and you must provide them yourself.

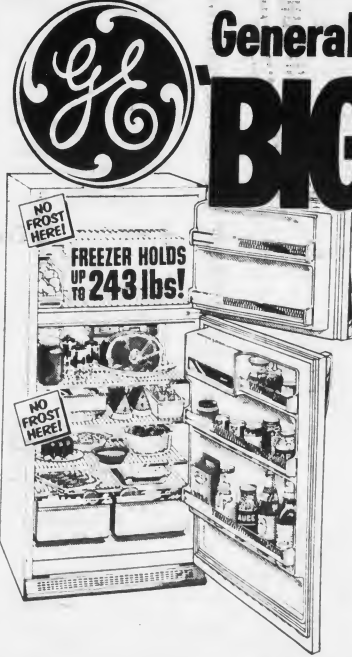

A set of instructions permanently attached to the lamp. After reading the directions, tape them to the base or stand of the lamp so they are available for other users.

A timing device with an alarm that alerts you to overexposure. Always set a timer when you use the lamp. If possible, buy a sunlamp with an automatic timer that turns off the lamp at the proper time.

Close-fitting glasses or goggles to protect your eyes. And don't sleep or read while using a lamp or stare at the ultra violet bulb when the lamp is operating.

Altrusa Club Donates $400 To S.S. Day Care Centre

At the monthly dinner meeting of the Altrusa Club of Quincy held recently at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy, a check for $400 was presented to Natalie Barlow representing the South Shore Day Care Centre.

The Day Care Centre is in dire need of funds as many of the mothers are unable to contribute anything for the care of their children while they work to avoid welfare. Others pay according to their ability.

The Day Care Centre covers the South Shore towns and the latest center is located in Hingham.

The Altrusa Club of Quincy is a branch of Altrusa International, the oldest women's service club in the country. Members are from South Shore towns and are executives, professional and owners of business. Their projects include scholarships, campships, participation in community affairs. Members are also Foster Parents of a little girl in Peru whose family lost all belongings and a child in the 1972 tornado.

The Altrusa Club also participates in International Grants-in-Aid to foreign students completing their education in this country and Founders Fund which extends financial assistance to women returning to business and girls completing their education.

Mrs. Marie McCaw of Weymouth, president presided at the meeting.

Chicken stretched into tasty dishes

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

Chicken still represents one of the best buys at the meat counter, even though prices are about twice as high as last year.

As a general rule, the whole bird represents the best buy, unless a special is offered on the parts. The meatier parts of the chicken — leg or breast — usually cost more per pound.

Chicken, like red meats, can be stretched by the addition of vegetable ingredients, as in the recipes which follow.

CELERY AND CHICKEN ORIENTAL

- 3 chicken breasts, split, boned and skinned
- 4 tablespoons salad oil, divided
- 3 cups thinly sliced Florida Celery
- 2 1/2 cups sliced mushrooms
- 1 1/4 teaspoons salt, divided
- 1 1/4 cups hot chicken broth
- 2 tablespoons sherry wine
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- One-third cup cold water
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper

Chinese noodles
Hot cooked rice

Cut chicken into 1-inch pieces; set aside. Heat 2 tablespoons of the oil in a large skillet. Add celery, mushrooms and 1/4 teaspoon of the salt. Sauté 2 to 3 minutes, stirring. Add broth and cook 2 minutes longer. Remove mixture to bowl; set aside. To skillet add remaining 2 tablespoons oil and 1 teaspoon salt; heat. Add chicken. Cook 8 to 10 minutes, turning. Add sherry and reserved celery-mushroom mixture. Mix cornstarch with water and sugar. Stir into skillet. Bring to boil. Add soy sauce, ginger and black pepper. Cook 2 minutes, stirring. Serve with Chinese noodles and rice.

Yield: Six portions.

CHICKAHOMINY CHICKEN

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
- 2 teaspoons salt, divided
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup sliced scallions (including some of green tops)
- 1/4 pound mushrooms, sliced
- 3 large tomatoes, peeled and chopped
- 3 tablespoons snipped fresh dill or 2 teaspoons dried dill weed

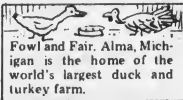

Sprinkle chicken with 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Heat butter in large skillet; add chicken pieces and brown on all sides.

To cook in oven: Remove browned chicken pieces to 2-quart casserole. Add scallions and mushrooms to skillet; cook over medium heat for 2 or 3 minutes. Add tomatoes, dill and remaining 1 teaspoon salt; mix well. Spoon vegetable mixture over chicken in casserole. Cover and bake in 350 degrees F. oven for one hour, until chicken is tender.

To cook in skillet:

Remove browned chicken pieces from skillet. Add scallions and mushrooms to skillet; cook over medium heat for 2 or 3 minutes. Add tomatoes, dill and remaining 1 teaspoon salt; mix well. Return chicken to skillet. Cover and cook over moderately low heat for 25 to 30 minutes, until chicken is tender.

Yield: Four servings.

Skillet Meals "Up" Flavor—Cut Down Dishwashing

Skillet dinners save time and work, cut down dishwashing, and deliver old-fashioned flavor into the bargain. Sausage and Cabbage Skillet Dinner calls on a less-costly meat that is overlooked for making main dishes. Fresh apple gives a gourmet, fruited note, and Ac'cent helps bring out the savoriness of the sausage, and blends the interesting medley of flavors together. You couldn't do better in these times of high food prices than to pick this skillet specialty for dinner tonight. And you'll have many less dishes to wash because the entire meal is served from one pan.

Sausage And Cabbage Skillet Dinner

- 1 pound link sausages or 1 pound bulk sausage
- 8 cups coarsely chopped cabbage
- 1 large onion, thinly sliced
- 1 teaspoon caraway seeds
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon Ac'cent
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 large apple, cored and cut in wedges
- 1/2 cup sour cream

Brown sausages in large skillet and remove. If using bulk sausage, form into 8 patties, brown and remove. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the sausage drippings. Add cabbage, onion, caraway seeds, salt and Ac'cent; mix well. Pour water over cabbage mixture; cover and cook 20 minutes. Add apple wedges, top with browned sausage, cover and cook 5 minutes longer. Stir in sour cream and serve immediately.

YIELD: 4 servings.

S.S. Regis Club Opens With Wine-Tasting Party

Mrs. Paul Hayes of Braintree, president of the South Shore Regis Club, announces plans for the 1973-74 season.

A wine-tasting party with international hors d'oeuvres was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Kennedy of Milton, Oct. 10. Co-chairmen will be Miss Esther Long of Norwood and Mrs. Peter Heffernan of Hanover.

One of the highlights of the season will be a dinner-theatre party at the Chateau De Ville in Randolph Nov. 7. Tickets include dinner and "Never Too Late", starring Bob Cummings. Co-chairmen are Mrs. James Marano of Weymouth and Mrs. Paul Hayes of Braintree. Reservations are now being taken and should be made as early as possible.

On Dec. 4, a Christmas

Boutique will be held at Aquinas Junior College, Milton. Co-chairmen are Mrs. James Mullin of Braintree and Mrs. William Edwards of Milton.

A Mass and Evening of Recollection at the Glastonbury Monastery in Hingham will be held in February. Mrs. John B. Reilly of Abington is chairman.

On March 5, the Milton Goldberg Fashion Show and Dinner will be held at the Country Fare Restaurant in Hingham. Mrs. Paul Hayes of Braintree is chairman.

Dejeuner a Chez Dreyfus, Tour de Cuisine (luncheon and tour of kitchen) has been planned for April 17 by Mrs. Ellen Walters Gallahue of Norwood.

The annual Regis Night at the Pops will be on May 4. Chairman is Mrs. Peter Heffernan of Hanover. Also in May will be the Annual Auction, coordinated by Mrs. Thomas Walsh of Milton.

The fourth annual evening at the South Shore Music Circus will complete the season. Chairman will be Mrs. William Barry of Weymouth.

Other officers of the South Shore Regis Club are Mrs. James Marano of Weymouth, vice-president; Mrs. Peter Heffernan of Hanover and Miss Esther Long of Norwood, secretaries; Mrs. John Reilly of Abington, treasurer; Mrs. William Barry of Weymouth publicity; Mrs. William Edwards of Milton, Mrs. James Mullin of Braintree and Mrs. Ellen Gallahue of Norwood, directors.

Quincy Historical Society Lists Program For Season

The Quincy Historical Society has announced its schedule of meeting programs and speakers for the 1973-74 season.

The meetings will be held in the hall of the United First Parish Church at 7:30 p.m. All are open to the public.

The schedule:

Oct. 25 - "The MDC and the South Shore's activities and its plans" illustrated talk by Mrs. Julie Broderick O'Brien, director of planning for the MDC.

Nov. 29 - "The Adams

Presidents and their Portraits", Andrew Oliver, of the Adams Papers will give an illustrated talk on the subject of two books that have been published in recent years, and of which he was the author and researcher.

Jan. 24 - "Influence of Norfolk County Horticulture", Father Daniel F. Dunn of Dorchester, a well-known authority on the horticulture of our area, will give an illustrated talk that includes information on famous horticulturalists who lived in this area, and well known species of plants and trees that were developed here.

Feb. 28 - "A new look at the Quincy Homestead". The speaker to be announced will be from the Colonial Dames who operate the historic shrine on Hancock Street. This past year they have conducted extensive research into the history and physical aspects of this famous place, and will report on some interesting new facts that have been unearthed by their studies. The talk will be illustrated.

Mar. 28 - "Our neighbor

Dedham". This is the sixth of an annual series of programs on the histories of neighboring towns. The presentation covers a history of the town with slides that show present day reminders of that history. The speaker on Dedham will be Courtney P. Worthington, President of the Dedham Historical Society.

April 25 - "Trends in education - Quincy method revisited". Quincy has long been known for its progressive approach to public school education that started with Francis W. Parker. Present day policies and developments will be discussed by Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, superintendent of the Quincy Schools.

May 23 - "Changing Boston" Greenough Abbe of Squantum will give an illustrated talk showing the old and the new of the changing scene in Boston. Mr. Abbe is well known as a speaker in this area.

Dr. Philip Tardanico Attends Seminar

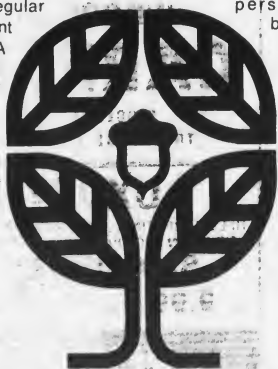

Dr. Philip A. Tardanico of 792 Southern Artery, Quincy attended the seventh annual

New England Chiropractic Council Seminar held at Snow Lake Lodge, Mount Snow, Vt.

Work Study Program Offers Job Opportunity, Fringe Benefits

By DEBBIE KENNEY

Richard Meyer, work study counselor of North Quincy High School, explained exactly what the work study program is.

"It's students who work three or four periods a day at a job away from school."

Mr. Meyer gets these jobs for the students along with Robert J. Daniels and Robert F. Nolan.

"We have had 100 percent placement, and most seniors stay at their work study job after high school if they feel it has a future," Mr. Meyer said. "It's been successful because the kids work well at good jobs. They grow up quickly and it helps them to mature."

So far there are 120 students from North and between the two high schools 280 students involved in the program. The program started nine years ago with only 25 students. Mr. Meyer has been working with this program three years.

Students sign an agreement which spells out the definite responsibilities the student must accept in order to participate in the program. They also get fringe benefits. Once they are fully employed, Kemper Insurance provides educational assistance; 50% reimbursement for tuition, cost and textbook expenses for approved classes or courses relating to their present or future job with the company. Paid holidays, accident and health insurance to take care of hospital and medical cost. Savings and profit sharing plan. Retirement plan. Plus more.

The program is year 'round. Thirty-five kids had jobs during the summer and got 2½ points credit. Twenty-eight kids had jobs before school even started. The students all do well. They are evaluated by their employer.

These are the companies that employ North Quincy High students: The First National Bank, Kemper Insurance, Brigham's Ice Cream Store, National Check Protection, New England Merchants Bank, State Street Bank, Industrial Heating Treating, Boston Gear Works, Marriot Corporation, Pneumatic Scales Corp., Gina's Sub Shop, Pilgrim Diner, Blue Cross Blue Shield, Presidential Nursing Home, Kiddie Products, Sullivan Insurance Agency, Norwood

Aptitude, Achievement Tests Scheduled Here

By GAIL DOHERTY

On Thursday and Friday 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. all freshmen and sophomore students will be tested. The ninth graders will take the Differential Aptitude Test, and the tenth graders both the Short Form Test of Academic Aptitude and the California Achievement Tests. Juniors and Seniors will report to school at 10:30 a.m. both days.

The Differential Aptitude Test measures the students' scholastic mechanical, and clerical potential, which are necessary for certain occupations. The Guidance Department uses these test scores as a means of assisting students in the choosing of appropriate occupations.

The California Achievement Tests, on the other hand, measure skills that are taught in the classroom (language, reading and math). The tests are used to determine student growth in these areas.

The tests will be administered in the homerooms and those students in homerooms inappropriate for testing will be moved to a better working area.

Practice Tests have been given by the Math and English departments, to familiarize the students with the type of questions on the tests.

Another test PSATS, will be given here at North, Saturday at 8 a.m. The cost is $3. These are a two hour version of the College Board, SAT's required by most colleges, which should be taken by January of the Senior year.

The tests are based on English and Mathematical knowledge. This "practice" test is designed to give students an idea on how they'll do on the SAT's.

They are also helpful in researching colleges, as one can compare his scores to those of the typical freshman at different colleges.

Special Programs Mark Education Week At NQHS

By MARY POOLE

Friday will mark the last day of National Education Week, which has been recognized at North Quincy High School with a school-wide effort to educate the general public.

Throughout the week, parents and guests have been invited to attend classes, open houses and special presentations in several of the school's departments.

The Industrial Arts Department will continue to invite the public to attend its first floor classes all day for tool demonstrations.

Parents and guests are also invited to attend English curriculum discussion which will be headed by supervisor Paul Farrell in Room 206, the English Resource Center at 10 a.m. and again at 1 p.m. All English classes will be open for public observation; a schedule of teachers and rooms can be found in Room 210, the Language Arts Office.

The Drama Club is planning to present four short musical children's plays in their various stages of production. Teaching advisor Miss Ellen Byrne has provided a schedule of performance times:

10:30 a.m. - Blocking Rehearsal, "Mary Poppins", Tom Goslin directing.

11:30 a.m. - Choreographic Rehearsal, "Once Upon a Mattress", Kevin Verronneau directing.

12:30 p.m. - Dress Rehearsal "Cinderella", Ned Goslin, director.

1:30 p.m. - Final "Wizard of Oz", Jim McCarthy, director.

On display at the main entrance of the building will be a collage created by Miss Betty Ann Cullinan's English students and entitled "The Educational Experience". The third floor Media Center also will exhibit a bulletin board entitled "Alternatives To The Book".

N. Quincy Associates Plan Children's Halloween Party

The North Quincy Associates are planning their third annual "Halloween Party" for the children of that area.

The party will be held Wednesday Oct. 31 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Quincy School.

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. Children will receive candy, tonic, cookies, cakes, and participate in apple dunking. Wanda the Witch [Doris Crean] is expected to make an appearance.

Purpose of this neighborhood gathering is to eliminate the house to house tradition.

Tickets will be available at Cahill's Variety, 99 Newbury Ave., North Quincy Friday. Price of the tickets is $1 per child.

V.F.S. Will Make More Efficient Use Of Time

By BRIAN STACK

Variable Flexible Scheduling, a new, more efficient way of using school time, will hopefully be introduced to North Quincy High School in the near future, according to Principal Peter Chisom, a strong supporter of the new plan.

Variable Flexible Scheduling, [V.F.S.] will permit the scheduling of classes of varying size, frequency, and length and, most importantly, allow variation in the allotted time for different instructional purposes.

The seven period day will be replaced by a system of "mods", Homeroom periods will be one mod long, while each lunch will consist of two mods. Teachers, with the approval of the administration, will be able to obtain as many mods each day as he or she feels is needed to teach most effectively.

Teachers will also have a choice of three group sizes. A large group may be brought together to watch a film or to listen to a speaker. Small group instruction, with a class of 10 to 20 students, will allow all members of the group to take part in class activities. The third grouping is for independent study.

The administration hopes to put a form of V.F.S. into operation sometime this school year. One of the problems holding up the implementation of V.F.S. is lack of space.

SATIN AND LACE - Mrs. Beth Frigard of Quincy wears a gown of black net over purple satin, with touches of lace on the bodice and hem, circa 1903. Her straw bonnet is trimmed with flowers and ties under the chin with a satin bow. She's carrying an antique black silk parasol with a carved wooden handle. This is only one of the antique fashions in the Goodwill Fashion Parade, to be hosted by the South Shore Council of Campfire Girls, Oct. 29, at St. Ann's Church.

Goodwill Fashion Parade At St. Ann's Church

The Goodwill Fashion Parade, which features historic styles from the 1800's to the present, will be hosted by the South Shore Council of Campfire Girls Oct. 29.

The Goodwill Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial will present its fashion show at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

The function is for the annual recognition and reception of volunteers in District 1, which includes Braintree, Quincy, and Weymouth. The Campfire Girls could not exist without the volunteers, who serve as leaders, take care of many administrative duties, and generally assist. The District 1 Committee comprises: chairman, Mrs. Lawrence Soule; training coordinator, Mrs. George Carms; and town coordinators, Mrs. Mary Cochran, Braintree; Mrs. Alice Cogliano, Quincy; and Mrs. David Wilson, Weymouth. Council President is Mrs. Robert Burris. Professional staff member for District 1 is Mrs. Edwin Allen.

Lydon Would Ban Commercial Vehicles From Beale St., S. Central Ave.

John J. Lydon Jr., candidate for the Ward 3 City Council seat, suggests that commercial vehicles be banned from Beale St. and South Central Ave., as a short term solution to the problem of increased traffic in upper Wollaston and Montclair.

Lydon told a gathering at the home of Ann Gaffey, 173 North Central Ave., that as a councillor he would favor a study of construction of one way streets to inhibit use of residential streets as cut-throughs by commercial traffic and other motorists.

"A certain amount of commercial traffic is unavoidable," Lydon said, "but it should be confined to specific areas and streets."

Lydon listed three problems caused by increased traffic in the area:

"First, the traffic causes a problem for young children who are playing or pedestrians who are crossing the streets in the residential areas.

"Second, the commercial traffic, especially diesel-powered vehicles, emit noxious exhaust fumes, which are both unpleasant and harmful.

"Third, the decibel level, or noise level of some commercial vehicles is extremely annoying."

Marine Enlistment 'Family Affair'

It was a family affair when William Burke of Quincy enlisted recently in the U. S. Marine Corps.

William, son of Joseph Burke, Sr., of 145 Willow St., Wollaston, received the oath of enlistment from his older brother Joseph Burke, Jr., a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps, while their father watched.

A 1972 graduate of North Quincy High School, Burke enlisted in the Marine Corps "Aviation Guarantee" program. Following the successful completion of recruiting training in South Carolina, he will go to the Marine Air Technical Training Command in Memphis, Tenn., for specialized aviation training.

His father is chairman of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board and Director of Plumbing and Heating for the Boston Gas Company.

Joseph, Jr., is a 1973 graduate of Boston State College where he earned his second lieutenant's commission after successfully completing the Marine Corps Platoon Leaders Class.

Quincy To Celebrate 238th Anniversary Of John Adams' Birth

The birth of President John Adams, will be celebrated Oct. 30 at 10 a.m. with special ceremonies at United First Parish Church, Quincy Square. The public is invited to attend.

Long known as "The Church of the Presidents," since both President John Adams and his son, President John Quincy Adams, are buried in the crypt there, it will be the scene of the commemoration of the 238th anniversary of the birth of the second President.

The official wreath from President Richard Nixon will be presented by Commander John Banas, U.S.N. The wreath is sent by the White House to honor President Adams.

Receiving the wreath for the City of Quincy will be Mayor Walter J. Hannon, and Rev. John R. Graham will receive it for the church.

Speaker Attorney General Robert Quinn, will be introduced by Senator Arthur Tobin [D-Quincy]. In addition, a special presentation will be made to the church of an official certified copy of the handwritten will of President Adams. It will be made by Paul C. Gay, Norfolk County Register of Probate. Music will be by the North Quincy High School Concert Choir under the direction of Maurice Carbonneau. Ushers will be members of the Air Force Junior R.O.T.C. unit of Quincy High School. Eight members of the crew of the USS Milwaukee will be the honor guard for the occasion.

The program will conclude with a reception for guests in the Parish Hall of the church.

Awards To Be Presented At Central

The Central School Home Association will hold its first meeting in the Learning Center at 7:30 p.m. tonight [Thursday] at which time the annual Friend To Education awards will be presented.

Principal Vincent Moscardelli will make presentations to:

Thomas McGarr, director at the Norfolk School of Agriculture who has made the two week career development experience for boys interested in a career in agri-business possible.

Winslow Bettinson, program director at WJDA, who has been generous in his time and energy in making the public aware of the events and activities at Central.

Dr. Harold Babcock, a horticulturist at Eastern Nazarene College, who provides plantings each spring to be used for beautification and for study.

After this short session parents will report to the homerooms of their children to follow a day in their junior high school programs meeting teachers, learning about student expectations and discussing current curriculum designs.

[Hancock St. itself between School St. and Granite St.]

The problem of dealing with the existing Hancock St. and of strengthening the existing retail uses along it is a difficult one indeed. Accordingly, the plan for Hancock St. includes a multi-staged development of the pedestrian system such that at the end of each phase the improvements are compatible with and complementary to the private development or rehabilitation taking place.

The nature of the improvements to the street changes from block to block in order to provide variety, to allow traffic to be accommodated and to keep the public improvements at a scale and type appropriate to the particular location. A gradual change in traffic patterns through the area is proposed in order that through traffic may over a period of years be rerouted around the area, while local traffic is still maintained. It is important that automobiles be able to get close to the heart of the retail area so that servicing may be accomplished, that shoppers may be dropped off and picked up, and that fire access to Hancock St. is provided at all times.

•Area 7

[bounded by Revere Rd, Mechanic St., School St., and Hancock St.]

This lower end of Hancock St. is today a mixture of conflicting uses and is an underutilization of the land. If significant efforts are made to upgrade and rehabilitate properties in this area, it can certainly play a significant role in a revitalized Quincy CBD.

The plan for this area contains two options. The first assumes that existing properties in the area will be rehabilitated and upgraded and that environmental improvements on Hancock St. will be extended south of Revere Rd. in response to such upgrading. The second option assumes that over a period of years the properties in the area will continue to deteriorate and decline and therefore should be redeveloped. The plan shows a staged redevelopment consisting of small buildings containing small retail uses, many of which would be assumed to be uses which are presently located in the area.

In both of these options there would be a new Liberty Tree Park along School St., and in the second option, a new surface parking facility would be provided along Mechanic St.

•Area 8

[bounded by Hancock St., School St., and Granite St.]

This area contains several of the CBD's major retail establishments located on the west side of Hancock St. and a major new parking facility. It also includes large amounts of vacant and underutilized land, an extremely confusing street network, a proliferation of surface parking area, and a generally undesirable character.

The plan for this area calls for a new retail development in the space immediately north of the former Raymond's Store and along the east side of the service road [the rear facades of stores fronting on Hancock St.].

Also called for is a large new residential development in the area bounded by Hancock Court, Parking Way and School St. To make the new uses in this area more viable and accessible, the creation of a new east-west pedestrian network is called for.

This would include the conversion of Cliveden St. to a mall and two new pedestrian bridges spanning the MBTA right of way and the proposed Upland Road extension. This new pedestrian network will effectively connect development on the present Hancock parking area with the existing and new commercial developments in the vicinity of Grossman's and the Family Center.

Finally, new commercial development in the parking area directly south of the intersection of Granite St. and Upland Rd extension and directly north of the existing Grossman's building is proposed.

•Pedestrian Framework

One of the key elements of the plan for the Quincy CBD is a new pedestrian system. Elements of this system have been briefly described in each of the area plans that were discussed above. The system should be viewed as a total framework for moving pedestrians between concentrations of parking and the major activity centers of the CBD, such as retail stores, office buildings and public facilities. If the pedestrian system is developed as proposed in the plan it can unify the subareas which make up the overall Quincy CBD and can lend a new character to the area.

In addition to developing a pedestrian system that follows the major pedestrian desire lines in the CBD, there are a number of detailed elements that should be considered along each pedestrian way. These include the following.

[1] Simple free-standing directories which will indicate to the pedestrian his location and the location of most of the stores within his walking distance and the location of parking structures and public facilities.

[2] Extensive landscaping in the form of trees, shrubs and flowers.

[3] Street furniture including benches, trash receptacles, planters of various types, and free-standing outdoor display cases for use by merchants whose stores are in the vicinity.

[4] New pedestrian scaled lighting which serves to increase safety during the evening hours, to lend identity to the pedestrian framework, and to add to the quality of continuity and visibility throughout the pedestrian framework.

[5] Weather protection in areas which are most frequently used by pedestrians and in areas where it can be provided as part of new construction.

[6] Repaving of the street rights of way with materials such as concrete and brick. This is obviously for streets that are to be closed or that are to carry minimal traffic.

[7] The provision of one-way loop streets containing areas for servicing of retail stores and drop-off zones for pedestrians.

MAYOR Walter J. Hannon, John J. Cheney, development coordinator and Geoffrey Davidson, city planning director with scale model of new 100 million dollar Quincy Center Development project. Buildings in white represent new construction; office buildings, department stores, apartment houses, theatre, restaurants and specialty stores.

•Vehicular Circulation Plan

The basic traffic planning for the Quincy CBD has been conducted under a separate contract with the city of Quincy by Barton-Aschman Inc. of Washington, D.C. The proposed development and the proposed pedestrian framework plan included in the report are designed in accordance with the basic tenets of traffic circulation developed by Barton-Aschman. The primary components of the proposed vehicular circulation plan include the following.

[1] An extension of Upland Rd to the south from its present terminus at the intersection with Granite Street.

[2] A staged rerouting over time of through traffic in the Quincy CBD area so that it can ultimately be removed entirely from Hancock St. between Granite St. and School St.

[3] A redesign of Quincy Square including parts of Hancock St., Washington St., and Temple St., in the vicinity of City Hall and the Church of the Presidents.

[4] The character of Hancock St. between Granite St. and School St. will be changed in a staged fashion over a number of years as through traffic is gradually rerouted from Hancock St. into Upland Road, Parking Way, Chestnut St., and Washington St. As through traffic is gradually removed, the section of Hancock Street between Revere Road and Cottage Avenue will become a completely pedestrianized mall.

[5] A major parking facility on the site of the present Hancock surface parking area, which would have direct access from Revere Rd for vehicles approaching from the south, and from Chestnut St. for vehicles approaching from the north and east.

[6] A narrowing and rerouting of Adams St. so that it will connect with Greenleaf St. on the east side of Hancock St.

CRASH COURSE IN FINANCE:

FOR FAMILIES WITH AS LITTLE AS $100 TO INVEST

This is an Ad for the Granite Co-Operative Bank, North Quincy and Quincy Center. This message is for you, the average person. We have the best savings plan in Massachusetts for people who have as little as $100 to invest and don't care to risk even a penny.

This plan isn't new but is certainly worth reminding you about. It's got a fancy name: Paid Up Shares, but you won't have to find a stock broker to buy them. You see us...and then you'll own a piece of our bank. We're a co-operative bank and that allows us to offer these shares.

Here's what many people have done for years, and what we hope you'll do. Walk into either of our banks. Ask the teller to give you paid-up shares [one for each $100]. What you'll get is a bank book. Each $100 in the book means you own one share in our bank. Every three months we send you a check as a dividend...computed at 5½% per year. Keep the money here and we keep sending you checks. And, if you want, we can deposit the dividend in a regular savings account [which earns more interest] and buy you another share when you've got $100 accumulated. The best part of this whole deal is you get your money back from us just by asking for it. You get it right then. Then there is no notice.

If you'd like more information on our simple world of finance just call us. We're always happy to have you make a good investment in our bank.

Thanks for reading this. Now you've graduated.

John J. Sullivan Seeks School Committee Seat

John J. Sullivan of 23 Marion St., Wollaston announces his candidacy for a seat on the School Committee.

In his announcement, he declared:

"The office of School Committeeman is a non-salaried position. This fact fits well into the pattern of my past and present public service to the City of Quincy, its taxpayers and its employees.

"I am currently serving in my third appointment as chairman of Quincy's Salary Survey Board. I have, on two previous occasions, served in this capacity at the request of former Mayor James R. McIntyre and recently I accepted the appointment of Mayor Walter Hannon to once again lend myself to this non-salaried public service.

"The other non-salaried public service which I have enjoyed for the past six years involves my appointment by the Quincy School Committee to membership on the Professional Conditions Committee." This Committee has a personnel make-up of five public members, together with representatives of the school administration, teachers from both the elementary and high school levels, as well as an ex-officio member of the School Committee.

"The Committee involves itself with problems which are sent to it for review by the School Committee, the School Administration and the Quincy Educational Assoc.; the latter group being the collective bargaining agent for the Quincy schoolteachers.

Sullivan is past Grand Knight of North Quincy Knights of Columbus and past Faithful Navigator of Cardinal Cushing 4th Degree Assembly, K of C.

He has been a visiting Lecturer at Harvard College, Northeastern University, Boston University, Stonehill College, Merrimac College and the University of New Hampshire.

He is a former member of the Faculty of Holy Cross College Institute of Industrial Relations, present member, Board of Advisors, Archdiocesan Catholic Labor Guild and present associate member of the Ward 5 Democratic Committee.

Ricciuti Says Must Solve NQHS Space Problem

John T. Ricciuti, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 3, says the time has come for the city to reach a decision on a solution to the acute space problem at North Quincy High School.

Ricciuti told a campaign gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McKillop, 110 Norfolk St., that he would like to sit as a member of a joint school committee-city council committee to decide on the solution.

He said the committee has six alternative plans under discussion, adding "We must consider the people in our decision, their choices of plans, their alternatives of which plans have merit ... these must have priority."

THIS IS WHY they call them the "Crunch Bunch". Quincy defensemen surround Somerville ball carrier stopping him for no gain as Presidents win, 14-0 for third straight shutout. [Quincy Sun Photo by Lawrence Fitzgerald]

Seek 4th (Grid) Shutout

Q's 'Crunch Bunch' Defensive Granite

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's "crunch bunch," defensive coach Bud Mosher's unit, has been riding high for the past three weeks and when the Presidents visit Weymouth's Legion Field Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. non-league football game against Weymouth North, this unit will be seeking the fourth successive shutout.

Quincy's defense has been strong in every game but until Hank Conroy's team rolled over Malden two weeks ago, 41-0, all it had to show was a tie (0-0 with Everett) and two losses.

Last week the "crunch bunch" was at its best as it held Somerville to 30 yards rushing, 10 yards passing and two first downs as the Presidents topped the Highlanders, 14-0, at soggy Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The win improved Quincy's record to 2-2-1 (2-1-1 in the Greater Boston League). It is tied with Everett for second place.

Weymouth North has always been a thorn in Quincy's side and Conroy expects another rough game Saturday. Weymouth takes a 1-3-1 record into the game. The Maroons opened with a 7-0 win over Brookline and then tied North Quincy, 6-6, in the last few seconds. But they then fell on hard times and Saturday will try to rebound from two one-sided losses, 28-3 to Brockton and 36-14 to Waltham.

"What can I say about our defense?" Conroy asked. "It has been just great and it was at its peak today. The 'crunch bunch' really did its job."

This defensive unit comprises Dave Sten and Jeff Little, ends; John Columbus and Bob Pettit, tackles; Mike Varraso, middle guard; Jim French and Sophomore John Riggs, replacing his cousin, Paul, line backers; Bob Benn and Billy Joyce, cornerbacks; Rich Folino and Steve Burke, halfbacks.

Quincy again moved the ball well against Somerville but, despite grounding out a net of 210 yards rushing, it took two Robin Carrera passes to score. Carrera had his best day, completing four of nine passes for 87 yards and two touchdowns and adding 35 yards with his running. Quincy had 12 first downs.

Preston Carroll (72 yards), Wayne Ponder (57) and Sophomore Paul Vespaziani (48), all ran well for Quincy.

"We moved well on the ground and our passing game was better," Conroy said. "Carrera did a tremendous job. Although the whole defense did a great job, Joyce was especially outstanding." Joyce had one of Quincy's three pass interceptions, Burke and Folino having the others.

"Our scouting report was good and they did nothing we didn't expect," the Presidents' coach added.

In the third period Kim Derbes got away a good 30-yard punt after the pass from center went far over his head. It appeared he would be downed on about his own 30 but got the kick away. Conroy explained that this was no accident.

"We practice that play every day just in case it is needed," he said. "Derbes works hard on the running punt but this is the first time he has had to use it."

Quincy scored with 1:10 left in the half after a Somerville punt had carried to its own 49. It took two plays as Carrera passed to Little for seven yards and then hit Ponder with a beautifully-thrown pass for 42 yards and the touchdown. Derbes kicked the point.

Somerville never penetrated beyond, Quincy's 20 as the defense continued to shine. On the last play of the third period a Somerville punt carried to Quincy's 40 and the Presidents went on to their second touchdown.

It took them seven plays in the final period to score. It was a 23-yard pass from Carrera to Benn which clicked for the touchdown and Derbes again kicked the point.

Somerville made its only first down of the first half on a 15-yard pass from Marvin Lawrence to Steve MacKey early in the second period and didn't make another until the final two minutes of the game.

Quincy Youth Hockey Lewis Scores 4 To Pace Bantam B's, 11-0

Goalies Daryl DeCristofaro and Kevin Cotter combined for their third straight shut out and Dave Lewis had four goals and Rick Carnali three as the Quincy Bantam "B" team overwhelmed Avon 11-0 Saturday in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

It was the Quincy club's fourth straight win in which they have outscored the combined opposition 43 goals to one.

Dave Peters had two goals and Jack Cavanaugh and Don Perdios one each. Assists went to Jim Fitzpatrick 3, Jimmy Moore and Paul Cooney 2 each, and Perdios, Mike Marks, John Norton, John Andrews and Mike Wilson one apiece.

Quincy also defeated Randolph twice in a home and home exhibition series.

Carnali had the three-goal hat trick Monday [Oct. 15] as Quincy captured a 6-0 decision at Quincy.

Mark Neville, Marks and Moore had the other goals with Jim McConville, Jim Triglia, Cooney, Peters, Cavanaugh, Norton and Lewis getting assists.

Neville, Peters and Marks had the goals Sunday [Oct. 21] in Quincy's 3-1 win at Randolph. Mark Kelly, Perdios and Paul Higgins had assists.

Abington broke the Quincy string in another exhibition game Monday [Oct. 22] pulling out a 6-4 victory.

Wilson, Lewis, Perdios and Mark Paolucci had the Quincy goals with assists credited to Peters 2, Moore and Neville.

Bantam A's Rack Up 7th Straight

Brian Bertoni and Tommy Cahill provided much of the scoring power last week as the Quincy Bantam "A" team extended its winning streak to seven games with victories over Weymouth and Cohasset.

Cahill had a pair of goals and an assist while Bertoni scored once and assisted on three other goals in the 6-4 win over Weymouth Tuesday [Oct. 16].

Bertoni scored twice and got an assist while Cahill found the nets once and added an assist in the 6-2 decision over Cohasset Saturday [Oct. 20].

Jimmy Shea, Richie Troy and Mark Giordani got the other goals against Weymouth while Dave Preville, Mike McGrath and John Mitchell had assists.

Mark Kelly, Matt Schaeffer and Giordani also collected goals in the Cohasset game with Schaeffer getting two assists and Mark Paolucci, Rick Dannar and McGrath one apiece.

Mite A's Win 4th Straight, 6-4

Tommy Murphy came up with a pair of goals to lead the Quincy Mite "A" team for a 6-4 victory over Bridgewater Saturday, its fourth straight decision in Bay Colony Hockey Association play.

Dwayne Wilcox, Brian Chase, Kevin Tegney had a goal and an assist apiece while Dave Allen had a goal.

Rick Reardon and Danny Kelly each contributed two assists while Tommy Schofield had one.

Tapper Taps In 2 As Mite B's Win, 11-4

Dickie Tapper scored two goals and assisted on three others as the Quincy Mite "B" team overwhelmed Cohasset, 11-4, for its third straight Bay Colony Hockey Association victory against a single defeat.

Joe Harte, Scott Messina, Mike Riley and John Burm all had two goals and Chris Harrington got the 11th.

Messina, Burm and Jack Gabriel each had two assists while Riley, Dennis Cronin, Kevin Greene and Billy Campbell had one apiece.

Geary Scores 3 As Pee Wee B's Win, 7-2

The Quincy Pee Wee "B" team got three goals off the stick of Tom Geary in fashioning a 7-2 victory over Hingham, its fourth straight win against no defeats in Bay Colony Hockey Association play Sunday [Oct. 21].

Dan Sullivan, Jeff Giordani, Len Miceli and Bill Deitsch also had goals while Deitsch and John Keany had two assists and Giordani, Ken Halloran and Sean Dennis had one each.

Jim Scanlan and Jim Campbell excelled in the Quincy goal.

In an exhibition at Weymouth Friday [Oct. 19], Quincy collected a 4-2 victory over the host team.

●Quincy Youth Hockey QYHA Now Forming Girls Hockey Teams

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association, still expanding now that it finally has its own rink, has added a girls' program with 50 girls now receiving instruction.

There are still openings for girls between the ages of 10 and 18 but they must be Quincy residents and must be able to skate. Information can be obtained by calling Bob Hayes at 472-3243.

Hayes is the girls' coach and instructor along with Bob Watts, Bill Lewis, Dick Storella, Paul Hussey and Frank McAuliffe.

The girls are presently learning to skate on hockey skates, considerably different than figure skates. After they get accustomed to the hockey skates, they will be given instruction in passing and shooting.

When they learn these basic skills they will be divided into teams by age and ability and will then learn the rudiments of hockey.

Hayes hopes to give the girls some class room instruction as well as on-ice instruction.

"We hope to have them compete against each other with the more advanced girls competing against girls' teams from other towns in the area and maybe even against some boys' teams from within our own program," Hayes said.

All the girls must be fully equipped as the boys are before being allowed to play.

Girls in the program are: Kathy Hussey, Kristine O'Garra, Tracey Bowe, Susan Dacey, Felicia Cengi, Joan Lewis, Tricia Sullivan, Susan Gallery, Ann Marie McCarron, Debra McManus, Peggy Rugg, Theresa Flynn, Jean McManus, Mary Beth Duff, Kathy Ward, Leslie Bishop, Jeanne Lamie, Lisa Norling, Peggy Burchill, Eileen Marr, Maureen Santry.

Also: Jean Kelly, Nancy Ball, Paula Constat, Joanne Ruane, Sharon O'Leary, Joanne Troy, Linda Fitzgerald, Karen Bishop, Mary Wiedemann, Doreen Hayes, Noreen Guest, Donna Madden, Regina Norton, Lori Light, Susan Rugg, Rosemary Murphy, Beth Coleman, Nancy Willard, Leona Bosader, Karen Petrillo, Lesa Graham, Jean Rathgeb, Karen Doherty, Julie Filibotte, Jayne Prasinos, Marsha Hayes, Cheryl Walsh and Colleen McAuliffe.

Brennan, McGrath, Kane Power Pee Wee A's To 9-2 Win

Tommy Brennan, Kevin McGrath and Eddie Kane accounted for most of the goal-scoring last week as the Quincy Pee Wee "A" team ran its Bay Colony Hockey Association record to eight straight with a 9-2 win over Weymouth and a 3-1 decision over Cohasset.

Brennan had the three-goal hat trick and an assist and McGrath had two goals and an assist against Weymouth and Brian Norton had four assists. The other goals were tallied by Robbie Craig, Brian McGilvary, Johnny Mullin and Paul McDermott. Kane had a pair of assists and McGilvary, Scott Richardson and Bobby Hayes had one each.

Kane fired a pair of goals in the victory over Cohasset and Norton, Richardson and Mark Messina each had one.

Assists were credited to Brennan, McGrath, Craig,

Mullin, McDermott and Mike Furey.

The Pee Wees traveled to Falmouth Sunday [Oct. 20] for an exhibition game and edged their hosts 4-3 on Bobby Hayes' shorthanded goal with 44 seconds left to play. Eddie Kane assisted on the play.

Richardson, Kane and McGrath got the other goals while assists were chalked up to Brennan, Craig, Mullin, Hayes and Messina.

Squirt B's Romp Over Canton, Walpole

The Quincy-Squirt "B" team, recovering from an opening day setback from Hyde Park, bombed Canton, 8-3, and romped over Walpole, 7-2, last week in Bay Colony Hockey Association play.

Timmy Ryan had two goals and an assist in the Canton game and Brian Sullivan had a pair of scores.

Danny Boyle had a goal and two assists, Kevin Ryan a goal and an assist and Mike McNiece and Jimmy Seymour each had a goal.

Single assists went to Tommy Doherty, John Toland, Kevin Duff and Richie Stevens.

Boyle had a pair of goals and an assist against Walpole, and McNiece had two goals.

The other goals were scored by Ryan, Sullivan and Stevens.

Assists were credited to Timmy Ryan, Sullivan, Doherty, and Paul McCabe.

RICK CARNALI BANTAM B CAPTAIN

Rick Carnali was elected captain and Dave Peters and Dave Lewis alternate captains of the Quincy-Bantam "B" hockey team last week.

Squirt A's Roll By Hull, 9-1

Mike Doherty fired the three-goal hat trick and Kevin Craig added two goals and an assist as the Quincy Squirt "A" team walloped Hull, 9-1, Sunday to run its Bay Colony Hockey Association record to three wins and a tie.

Karl Nord, Peey Rathgeb, Neil Shea and Robbie Zanardelli each had single goals.

Assists were credited to Zanardelli 3, Mark Boussy, 2, Rathgeb, Shea and Bobby Beniers.

Kenny Mann turned in an outstanding performance in the Quincy goal.

Sterling Hands Central 1st Loss In Girls Basketball

The first girls' basketball league in the Quincy junior high schools is providing keen competition and close, interesting games.

To prove anything can happen, Sterling's varsity team, winner of only one previous game, last week handed league leading Central its first loss in five games.

Following last week's games Mary Pratt's Central teams led both the varsity and junior varsity leagues. The varsity had a 4-1 record, followed by Atlantic-North, 3-2; Sterling, 2-3; Point, 2-2 and Broadmeadows, 1-4.

Central's jayvees were 5-0, followed by Point, 3-1; Broadmeadows, 3-2; Atlantic-North, 1-4; and Sterling, 0-5.

Last week Sterling surprised Central's varsity, 24-15, as Lois Malvesti scored 14 points. Jackie Little of Central had seven.

Central's jayvees nipped Sterling, 10-8, paced by Julie Ann Drain's six points. Betty Campbell's four were high for Sterling.

Atlantic-North defeated Broadmeadows, 20-11, as Sharon Cobban and Laura Bilotas had six points each, while Elaine Fitzgerald had five and Marion Squatrito four for the losers.

The BM junior varsity edged Atlantic, 17-15. Claire Connolly scored six for the winners and Lisa Sullivan seven for Atlantic.

Earlier in the week Central walloped Meadows, 32-19, sparked by Jackie Little's 13 points and Joyce Flynn's 11. Ellen Coleman's 10 paced Meadows.

Central's jayvees also won, 24-16, with Beth McCarthy scoring seven and Nancy Smith six. Miss Connolly had four for BM.

Point edged Atlantic-North, 28-25, in overtime. Peggy Thorley scored 12 points for Point and Debbie Rousseau had seven, five of them in the overtime period. Laura Bilotas' 10 points paced A-N.

Point's jayvees also won, 18-15, paced by Janice Rousseau's eight points. Maureen Sullivan scored five for Atlantic.

Earlier varsity scores were Central 22, Atlantic-North 20, Point 34, Sterling 20, Atlantic-North 17, Sterling 8, Broadmeadows 22, Point 17.

Earlier jayvees scores were Central 16, Atlantic-North 14, Point 20, Sterling 2, Atlantic 13, Sterling 5, Point 25, Broadmeadows 18.

Coach Mary Younie and her student teacher-assistant, Barbara Donelin, are pleased with the interest on the part of their Atlantic-North players and fans.

"The great interest is most encouraging," Miss Younie said. "The girls have been coming along well and should have a fine season. The games have been interesting and the game with Central was outstanding. There is considerable interest in our new league and there have been excellent performances by players of every team."

Miss Younie's varsity squad, made up of North ninth graders, includes Lauren Baker, Susan Ball, Laura Bilotas, Carol Brown, Mary Cahill, Sharon Cobban, Kathy Collins, Kathy Donaghey, Kendra Donovan, Margie Dow, Linda Henry, Kathy Hogan and Ingrid Pagliaro.

The junior varsity squad, comprised of Atlantic seventh and eighth graders, is made up of Theresa Bangs, Elaine Dannon, Joan Cavanaugh, Jean Duddy, Cindy Duggan, Elizabeth Gori, Mary Gori, Kathy Goslin, Irene King, Helena Lawlor, Claire Mason, Karen Melanson, Carole Messina, Cheryl Miller, Eileen O'Sullivan, Geraldine Ridge, Debra Sanderson, Donna Shaw, Margaret Shea, Lisa Sullivan, Maureen Sullivan, Marisa Tortolini and Carole Zakrewski.

After Week's Layoff

Raiders Return To Action Against Everett

North Quincy's football team, forced into an unwanted open date last week, returns to action Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium where it plays a strong Everett team in a 1:30 p.m. Greater Boston League game.

With two straight impressive wins, the Raiders were set to travel to Chelsea last week but Chelsea officials cancelled the game due to the havoc wreaked by the big fire.

Carl Leone, Quincy coordinator of athletics, offered to play the game at Quincy last Saturday morning or play either at Quincy or Chelsea Monday. Chelsea Athletic Director Solie Nechtem refused and also said the Red Devils would not play on the Saturday before Thanksgiving, with the big game with Everett coming up on the holiday.

"I tried hard to get Nechtem to agree to a new date but the best I could get was a statement that, if North continues to win and Medford beats Revere on Nov. 3, leaving North with a chance for at least a tie for first, Chelsea might play the Saturday before Thanksgiving," Leone said.

Leone and North Coach Ralph Frazier were understandably upset at Chelsea's refusal to play.

"Our boys played good games against Malden (38-13 win) and Medford (13-12 win) in the last two games and no one likes an open date in the middle of the year, especially when you are going good," Frazier said. "We did have a good scrimmage with Malden Catholic to keep the team sharp but we certainly would have liked our game with Chelsea better."

North is 2-1-0 in the Greater Boston League and Everett is 2-1-1. Everett lost to Newton South, 13-10, in a non-league opener, defeated Somerville 22-6, tied Quincy, 0-0; bowed to unbeaten Revere, 21-8, and last week upset Medford, 8-0.

Lean Season For Quincy, North

Unless a rare tie occurred, either the Quincy or North Quincy cross country team made its final Greater Boston League appearance with its second win of the year Tuesday, as they faced each other at Medford.

The rivals went into the league finale (the only thing left is the all-league meet next Monday) with identical 1-5 records, defeating only Everett.

The Presidents and Raiders next year enter the Suburban League in all sports.

In last week's league meets North lost to undefeated Revere, 17-44. Revere's Don Fihelli broke the Medford course record.

North's first finisher was sophomore Bart Petracca, whose time of 13:5 was the Raiders' second fastest in the league. But he could do no better than fifth. Art Barrett placed sixth, Mark Canavan eighth, Chris Cordeiro 12th and Ken Barrett 13th, completing the scoring, while Jerry Dyer, Ed Yee and Ken O'Brien also finished.

Quincy's harriers lost to fourth place Somerville, 18-39.

Later in the week North, which had earlier defeated Blue Hills Regional in a non-league meet, barely missed against Milton Academy, being nipped, 28-29, but it was a meet new coach Lou Tozzi won't soon forget.

Petracca won the meet to become the first Raider to win a race in three seasons. Art Barrett was second, sophomore Ken Barrett, with his best effort, took sixth, Cordeiro eighth and Yee 12th. Also finishing were Dyer, O'Brien and Canavan, who went the route despite an injury.

Quincy lost to App. Williams in a non-league meet, 18-43.

The Presidents' first finisher was Gary Delorio in third place. Tim Kane was eighth and Chip Coletta ninth. Coach Tom Hall, hard hit by injuries all season, was again without two of his top scorers.

North and Quincy next year enter the strong Suburban League and Tozzi, as well as Quincy Coach Tom Hall, feel their teams will do better with several underclassmen improving all the time and turning in some excellent performances.

Last week North lost to unbeaten Chelsea, the favorite to win the league title, 17-38.

Sophomore Bart Petracca, the Raiders' top performer in nearly every meet, finished third in 13:25, the second fastest time for a North runner in four years. Art Barrett was fifth in 13:29, the third best for the Raiders, and the other scorers were Mark Canavan, ninth; Ken Barrett, 10th, and Chris Cordeiro, 11th. Other finishers were Ed Yee, 12th; Jerry Dyer, 13th, and Ken O'Brien, 14th.

Quincy also lost, 17-46, to Medford. Gary Delorio in fourth place was Quincy's first finisher.

The Presidents' other scorers in order were Tim Kane, Kevin O'Brien, Tom Griffin, and Fred Norkus.

Earlier both North and Quincy had defeated Everett for their only wins.

North had won, and Quincy followed up with a 28-30 squeaker as Steve Player took second place for the Presidents, followed by Chip Coletta, fifth. Brad Kimball, sixth; Kane, seventh; Norkus, eighth, and O'Brien, ninth.

● Along The Campaign Trail Fontaine Says City Can Purchase Trucks Cheaper Than Leasing

Emery C. Fontaine, candidate for the Ward 3 Council seat was the guest at a coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Eleanor LaFleur, 21 Sherman St., Wollaston, where he stressed that "the tax dollar has to be spent wisely."

"The leasing on an hourly rate of many trucks and drivers could be replaced with new city-owned equipment for less money. This equipment could be used for all city work with a driver that can be used on the job also," he declared.

He also said that in view of the cost of building a new North Quincy High School and the length of time it would take to build a new school, he feels that alteration within the present structure would be far less costly and would benefit the student population much more rapidly.

Fontaine spoke about the recent bill passed by the state House of Representatives that would force all cities and towns to go to 100 per cent valuation and making it the Tax Commission's task to enforce it with fines ranging from $50,000 to $250,000 each year that 100 per cent valuation is not adhered to.

In the event that Quincy is forced to go to 100 percent valuation, he said, he feels that a qualified appraisal firm is needed so that residents will not have the feeling that favoritism or prejudices is involved with the appraisal of their homes and businesses.

Gold Team Takes Over Top Spot In Executive League

The Gold team moved into first place by defeating the Red team 3-2 in Executive League action at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Gold tallies were made by Arthur Boyle, Tom Roberts and Joe Cuniff with assists going to Joe Ryan and Dick O'Brien. Red goals were scored by Charlie Duffy and Ken Halloran unassisted.

Dave Towle led the Blue team with 2 goals to a 4-3 win over the Greens. Other Blue goals were credited to Harry Messina and Al McKay with an assist to John Cummings.

MONEY TALKS Are You Among The Income Elite Families?

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holbrook
8-9 Wednesdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

If your family has an annual income in excess of $25,000 annually, you are among the income elite of the United States. You are one of the 2.7 million families which at year-end 1971 had at their disposal 15 per cent of all income and an imposing 60 per cent of total discretionary [not previously committed] spending power, according to a report by The Conference Board. In this top 5 per cent, whose overall income average was roughly $35,000, the average age for the head of the family was about 50 as compared with an all-country figure of slightly over 45. About 98 per cent of all the upper-income families were headed by men.

The head of one out of every two affluent families held a college degree, compared with only about 15 per cent for the nation. Close to 72 per cent of upper-income families had two or more of its members employed while 10 years ago the ratio was only 60 per cent.

Even though the Soviet Union's population is only 18 per cent larger than that of the United States, the Soviet labor force exceeds the labor force of the United States by 45 per cent, according to a recent Department of Commerce study. Soviet working women are largely responsible for the difference in total numbers of workers between the two countries.

Agricultural employment, constituting 31 per cent of the Soviet Labor Force, is the largest single component of the Soviet's total labor force. In contrast, the POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

United States has only 6 per cent of its total labor force in agriculture.

[When the U.S. farm population was first enumerated in the 1920 census, about one person in three was living on a farm. In 1971, of the total U.S. population, about one person in 22 had a farm residence].

One of every five members of the Soviet labor force is engaged in services, whereas one of every three in the United States is so engaged. Services represent the largest single component of the U.S. economy.

Industrial and military sectors of both countries engage similar proportions of the labor force. Soviet industrial and military sectors employ 25 per cent and 3 per cent, respectively, and the U.S. 24 per cent and 4 per cent, respectively, of the total work force.

A study by the Department of Labor reported earlier this year that the unemployment rate for recent college graduates was 7.4 per cent, compared with 5.8 per cent for the total labor force.

Nearly 60 per cent experienced no unemployment between completion of degree requirements and their first job. Almost half of the remaining 40 per cent found jobs within four weeks following graduation. Getting the first job entailed a period of unemployment for women more often than for men.

Median annual rate of pay for baccalaureates working full-time was $7,045 compared with $10,250 for those with advanced degrees.

League Of Women Voters Launches $1,200 Fund Campaign

The Quincy League of Women Voters Finance Drive is underway to raise a minimum $1,200 necessary to implement its program for the next fiscal year.

The drive was kicked off Oct. 17 with a meeting at the home of Mrs. Kane.

The League of Women Voters is dedicated to the idea of keeping government responsive to the needs of all its citizens through an informed and involved citizenry. The League is non-partisan and takes action on governmental measures and policies but is not supportive of any party or candidate.

The League functions at three levels dealing with national, state and local problems.

It offers Voters' Services and programs of study, decision, and action on governmental issues. The Quincy League conducts Voter Registration Drive and sponsors a "Candidate's Night", the latter this year to be held at the end of November. The League also maintains a Voter Information phone which answers questions about government.

This year as in the past, the League will be studying topics of concern to the community. It is now in the process of publishing a "Know Your Schools" booklet and tabulating the results of a survey of the Quincy Public School System studies of land use and health care in the city. The Observer Corps of the League regularly attends city council and school committee meetings.

Recent involvements of the League include a Recycling Project at the dump, preservation of Black's Creek as open conservation and recreation land; an interim hot lunch program in the schools and a study of redistricting.

A number of League members also are active in other community programs. Ann Kane serves as the head of the Community Action Program. Alicia Coletti serves on the Rent Grievance Board. Clara Yeomans is executive secretary of the Conservation Commission to mention only a few.

The Quincy League was formed in 1940. It presently has over 100 members. The League is open to all women citizens 18 years or older.

Currently serving as president is Mrs. Charlotte Benedict, vice-president and finance chairman is Mrs. Janice O'Brien.

If you wish to contribute or for further information contact Mrs. O'Brien, finance chairman, 260 Elmwood Ave., Wollaston. For membership information, contact Mrs. Kathleen Foster, 16 Bromfield St., Wollaston.

Taxpayers Revolt Candidates Night Monday

The Quincy Taxpayers Revolt will hold a Candidates' Night at the Woodward School for Girls, 1102 Hancock St., Monday, Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

Moderator will be Dennis Murphy of 38 Vane St., North Quincy.

Mayoral candidates, candidates at large, candidates from Wards 1 and 3 and candidates for School Committee are invited to attend.

Candidates will be asked the three following questions:

- * Why do they seek this office?
- * Why do they believe they are qualified to hold this office rather than other candidates?
- * What is their position on Urban Renewal for Quincy?

[School Committee candidates will not answer question 3].

Candidates will be allowed to answer questions from the floor.

Ward councillors were omitted due to the large number of candidates nights held in their areas.

Wards 2, 5 and 6 council candidates will not participate because there are no primary races.

The public is cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Youth Hockey Election Sunday Night

• The Hilgenhurst Report Effort, Cooperation Keys To Center Plan Implementation

The goals for downtown Quincy set forth in the Hilgenhurst Report can be accomplished in a decade but it will require much effort and determination on the part of many people in Quincy.

And, some of the decisions will be difficult.

Plans for the implementation of the Report are contained in the third and final installment of the complete text of the $100 million plan in today's Quincy Sun.

The Sun is printing the entire report because of the tremendous impact it would have, not only on the downtown area but on the entire city. The third installment follows:

All of the physical development proposals for the Quincy CBD as described above are physically and economically viable and can be achieved over the next decade. They will not be achieved, however, without a great deal of effort and determination on the part of many people within Quincy. To make them happen the city and the merchants will have to display a thorough understanding of the many devices and techniques that are required to translate planning proposals into physical realities. They will also have to demonstrate their ability to make difficult decisions and to follow through on the actions required by those decisions.

A. PLAN PRESENTATION AND SUPPORT

In order to move the plan for Quincy into the implementation stage it is necessary that all those concerned with its implementation be fully apprised of the plan's content. Accordingly, all those concerned with the future of the CBD should have the opportunity to review the contents of the plan and to become thoroughly familiar with all of its aspects. As more people are made aware of the nature of the plan, and become excited about it, a

Norfolk Labor Council To Aid Chelsea

Collection of money for the victims of the Chelsea fire will be made at all plants whose workers are affiliated with the Norfolk Labor Council next Monday [Nov. 5].

The Shipbuilders, Machinists,

Rubber Workers, Utility Workers and Steel Workers Unions among others will participate in the collections at some 20 plants.

Most collections will be made at the gate, some in plant.

"It is labor's finest hour to help the victims of catastrophe whether or not they are members of unions," said Charles Johnston, president of the Norfolk Labor Council.

By TOM HENSHAW

By the grace of the U.S. District Court, Quincy voters finally get to go to the polls next Tuesday.

But indications are that few of them will bother to exercise the often postponed right.

City Clerk John M. Gillis estimates that only about 28 per cent of the 48,838 registered voters, or about 13,500, will participate in the preliminary election. And, some 35,300 will stay home.

The voters will choose six candidates to run for three at-large seats on the City Council, six for three ward councillor posts, six for three available seats on the School Committee and two to run for Mayor in the runoff Dec. 4.

By contrast, the preliminary election in 1971 drew 52 per cent of those eligible to vote.

Tuesday's preliminary election was originally scheduled to be held Sept. 4 and the runoff Nov. 6 but the long hassle over redistricting was not settled until Sept. 17 by decision of Federal Judge Andrew Caffrey.

It is possible that the long delay with an ensuing lack of interest is a contributing factor to the expected low turnout.

But Gillis also bases his estimate on the fact that there are Ward Council preliminary contests in only three of the six wards and the races for mayor and for councillor-at-large have failed to stir much controversy.

The most interesting contest appears set for Ward 4 where incumbent Albert R. Barilaro, 56, an inspector for the State Lottery and father of the controversial redistricting plan, faces five challengers.

The opposition is Ronald N. Halter, 30, a cost analyst; Herbert Reppucci, 58, a hairdresser; Andrew J. Veneto, 43, a dress cutter; James A. Sheets, 37, a college professor; and Thomas P. Hughes, 34, of the drug division of the District Attorney's office.

The redistricting plan, which was adopted by Judge Caffrey, wiped out the old Ward 3 and redistributed its voters into Councillor Clifford Marshall's Ward 2 and Barilaro's Ward 4.

The Ward 1 seat is up for grabs with incumbent Edward S. Graham retiring and the once huge ward cut in half by the redistricting decision.

Burke Asks GD Be Included In All Bids

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] has appealed to the Navy Department to include General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard in all bidding opportunities from the Third Naval District's Supervisor of Shipbuilding Operations. [SupShips].

The Third Naval District, with headquarters in Brooklyn, N.Y., assumed jurisdiction over shipyards in the former First Naval District, whose SupShips office was phased out.

Burke stressed in his appeal to Navy Secretary John W.

Warner the serious unemployment rate [10.2 per cent] in the Quincy area as a main reason why the shipyard should be included on all bidders' lists.

He also emphasized that "the yard is a modern, well-equipped shipyard which is not being fully utilized, but which should be."

Included in Burke's appeal was a request to include the shipyard on the bidders' list when the request for proposal for overhaul work on the Navy's floating drydock AFDL-47 is issued.

QCAO Receives 1st Grant For 'Operation Mainstream'

The Quincy Community Action Organization has received the first installment of the $50,000 federal grant for Operation Mainstream to provide short term job training and work experience for chronically unemployed residents.

It was presented to Ann Kane, president of the board of the QCAO, by Richard C. Gilliland, director of the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security. The two groups will work together in recruiting eligible individuals.

The Quincy program is one of 12 in Massachusetts which are funded federally, coordinated at the state level and operated by the community.

Women Voters Outnumber Men By 6,166

Men outnumber women 31-2 on next Tuesday's ballot but the women will have the upper hand, 27,002 to 21,836, in the polling booths.

The candidates who may be beneficiaries of the overwhelming female vote are Grace E. Saphir, who is running for mayor, and Helen M. McDonnell, one of the candidates for councillor-at-large.

The United Way

Quincy Donates Under $40,000, Receives Over $400,000

Atty. Terry Flukes, Quincy Chairman of the United Way, reports statistics for 1973 reveal that over 31,000 Quincy residents - over one third of the city's population - utilized the 208 agencies funded by the United Way last year.

Quincy last year raised less than $40,000 in the community campaign and received more than $400,000 worth of services, said Flukes, "That's a pretty good investment."

The United Way's national operating costs last year were $66 million, about eight percent of the $985 million dollars raised.

The low overhead is made possible by an army of dedicated volunteers that serve without compensation or well deserved recognition, working long hours to help raise the funds vital to continue the health and human services that benefit Quincy, Flukes said.

The United Way Community Division chairmen are as follows:

Robert Dillon, Assistant to the District Attorney, is Quincy Vice-Chairman, with responsibility for the organization and direction of the neighborhood campaign.

Betsy W. Lebbos, a local trial attorney is the first woman Chairman of the United Ways Professional Division.

David Leitch, Vice-President of Burgin Platner Co., Inc. is the Chairman of the Local Business Division.

William O'Malley, Vice-President and Personell Manager of the Hancock Bank and Trust Co. is Chairman of the Special Gifts Division.

William Herman, a teacher at North Quincy High School and Bruce McLain Quincy Schools Information Officer are directing the School Department Drive.

City Treasurer, Robert Foy is Chairman of the Municipal Division, coordinating and directing the campaign among city government employees.

David Leitch Business Chairman For United Way

David Leitch of 1354 Hancock St., will serve as local business chairman in the United Way campaign for the city.

Announcement was made by Atty. Terry Flukes, Quincy Community chairman.

Leitch, who is vice president of Burgin, Platner Insurance Agency, is being assisted in the solicitation of business firms with less than 25 employees by the following local business men:

- Ward 1 - Ned Platner, president Burgin, Platner.
- Ward 2 - Phil Peak, South Shore National Bank.
- Ward 3 - Don Almeida, Quincy Savings Bank.
- Ward 4 - Bill Lomano, Quincy Savings Bank.
- Ward 5 - David Mercer, South Shore National Bank.
- Ward 6 - Geno Marini, Fashion Quality Cleaners.

Only 28% Expected To Vote Tuesday

[Cont'd from Page 1]

The four candidates are Paul D. Harold, 24, a legal researcher and journalist; Matthew J. McDonnell, 31, a lawyer; Leo J. Kelly, 40, a barber; and Robert F. Denvir Jr., 43, purchasing agent for Action for Boston Community Development.

Kelly ran against Graham in 1971 and lost by a small margin in the runoff.

The brand new Ward 3, transported on paper from South Quincy to Wollaston, has six candidates vying for the open seat.

They are Walter J. McCarthy, 36, a state employee; Timothy P. Cardwell, 32, chairman of the Quincy Taxpayers' Revolt and self-employed carpenter; John J. Lydon Jr., 32, a funeral director; Emery C. Fontaine Jr., 45, an automobile agency executive; James J. Vey, 41, an engineer; John T. Ricciuti, 43, part owner of a monument company.

Mayor Walter J. Hannan, 41, owner of a tire company, has two challengers — George A. Trubiano, 49, a civil engineer; and Grace E. Saphir, 57, a nurse and member of the Quincy Conservation Commission.

The race for at-large seats on the City Council presents the unusual picture of four incumbents running for three spots.

One of the candidates, Theophilus McLelland III, 33, a chemist, is the incumbent councillor from the old Ward 3, which was dismantled from under him by redistricting.

At-large incumbents are Arthur H. Tobin, 42, an attorney, state senator and council president; Joseph J. LaRosa, 40, deputy administrator State Welfare Department; and John J. Quinn, 49, a Blue Cross-Blue Shield executive.

Challenging them are Helen M. McDonnell, 55, housewife and cousin of County Commissioner George B. McDonald; Robert L. Foley, 44, an engineer; and Raymond G. Viens, 27, an insurance salesman.

The School Committee race has two incumbents seeking re-election and the third seat empty due to the retirement of Paul C. Kelly, who is not running.

The incumbents are Charles T. Sweeney, 56, an executive of the Veterans Administration; and Frank F. Anselmo, 73, retired post office superintendent.

The five newcomers are Jeffrey C. LaPointe, 28, a lawyer; Bryant L. Carter Jr., 22, an accountant; John J. Sullivan, 54, a federal mediator; Sydney M. Ober, 57, an attorney; and J. Thomas Mullaney, 38, a cost analyst.

There are no council preliminary contests in Wards 2, 5 and 6. However, these candidates will square off in the runoff Dec. 4:

Ward 2 — Clifford H. Marshall, 35, incumbent and a state representative; and Patrick J. Faherty Jr., 55.

Ward 5 — Warren A. Powers, 32, an assistant district attorney; and Michael J. Peatridge, 20, a student.

Ward 6 — J. Vincent Smyth, 53, incumbent and a liquor store proprietor; and Dennis E. Harrington, an assistant district attorney.

The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

POINT OF VIEW

McKay sees it all in 'My Wide World'

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The surpassing delight in reading Jim McKay's book, fittingly called "My Wide World," lies in its tone, informal and pleasant, a hard-cover version of a conversation with one of the world's most agreeable talkers, Jim McKay himself. If style is the man, then this volume reflects the essence of McKay, a sports commentator whose reporting of the tragedy of the Munich Olympics last year produced a high watermark for television, a new dimension in broadcast journalism.

"Somewhere in the course of the long day," writes McKay about those awful September days, "someone asked how it had felt to suddenly switch from sports to news when we went on the air. The honest answer is that the thought didn't come to my mind."

"Reporting, I think, is simply the communication to someone not on the scene of a given event. The reporter's job is to tell as clearly and accurately as he can the facts of the situation and, in the case of television, to explain the meaning of the visual image on the screen. Most subtly, I think the reporter must communicate the mood of the moment."

The mood of the moment. McKay did that, all right, and the details, the agonies, of that time in Munich are all here, in McKay's book — all of the incredible tensions of an awful reality intruding into the world of games and with it the crashing dissolution of the Olympic spirit.

In the last 12 years, a reporter on ABC's Wide World of Sports since its inception, McKay has traveled to 35 countries and 45 states to cover over a hundred different sports — from gymnastics in Bulgaria to logrolling in Wisconsin to the stock car races with the good ol' boys in South Carolina, from baseball in Japan to an Eiffel Tower climb in Paris to the great golfing puns on Scotland's storied links.

Along the way, a reporter to the core, McKay displays his keen eye for detail. Leave it to McKay to learn that there are fast pools and slow pools and the swimmers know the difference, especially those assigned to the outside lanes. A poorly constructed side gutter can create a turbulence in the waves and the end walls of some pools are too slippery for a good push after a lap.

Such items of trivia are part of McKay's continuing education.

A slalom skier is more likely to acquire shoulder bruises racing in Europe than in America. Why? Well, the Europeans use strong wooden poles to mark their courses, while the Americans prefer bamboo sticks. Hit a European slalom pole and it smarts. If you're looking for sporting minutiae, McKay's your man.

Listen to McKay as he gives a capsule description of his colleague, Howard Cosell: "Howard adlibs all his material and, yes, he is exactly the same off-camera as when he is on the air. He doesn't enter a group, he envelops it."

McKay sees a lot, indeed, and what he sees he also feels, his perceptions and his emotions finely tuned and — for us as viewer or reader — an immensely rewarding blend. It's all there in Jim McKay's "My Wide World."

- Nixon's Sleeper Play Backfired
- 'Your Commander-In-Chief' - - '
- Brass Hat Spending Sprees

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — In the privacy of his oval office, President Nixon likes to use football terms to describe his political plays. He often talks about the "game plan" and the "big play." The President plays a grim game and the name of that game is power.

Sometimes it seems that the game, more than the objective, occupies him. He seems to enjoy the power plays, particularly the quarterback sneaks and the sleeper plays.

His maneuver to get rid of Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox is typical. The President's real objective was not really to protect the Watergate tapes, although he would like to have kept them suppressed. He used the tapes in a sleeper play to remove Cox.

The President, who is suspicious by nature, became convinced that Cox was out to get him. His suspicions were fueled by former aides Bob Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles Colson, who were trying to protect their own necks. They expected no leniency from Cox, so they whispered around the White House that Cox was really aiming for the President.

Cox confirmed the President's fears by unleashing his bloodhounds against Bebe Rebozo. This was bound to lead to an investigation of the President's own finances which are ensnared in Rebozo's affairs.

So the President used the tapes issue to maneuver Cox into an act of insubordination. Our White House sources admit that Cox was the real object of the President's big play.

The President deliberately kept the issue out of the Supreme Court which would have increased his political risks. He also chose to move while war was raging in the Middle East. He thought the public sympathy would be on his side at a time when he was seeking to end a dangerous war.

But the big play, as sometimes happens in both football and politics, backfired.

Hang Unmasked. The firing of Archibald Cox tore the mask off the new White House chief of staff, Gen. Alexander Haig. There were misgivings in Congress over the appointment of a military man to this powerful civilian post. But Haig's defenders contended, quite truthfully, that he was a man of honor and integrity dedicated to his country.

But it took the Cox controversy to reveal how the military mind works. Throughout the episode, according to our White House sources, Haig followed the President's orders without once questioning them.

He never asked whether it was right for the President to violate a pledge to the Senate that the special prosecutor could conduct an independent investigation of the Watergate crimes without White House interference. Haig's loyalty was to his commander-in-chief, not to the higher principles at issue.

Haig, for example, called former Deputy Attorney General William French Smith and transmitted the order to fire Cox. When French Smith refused to do so, Haig was abashed. The general told French Smith in a crisis military voice: "Your commander-in-chief has given you an order."

Clearly, that was all that mattered to Haig. Someone forgot to tell him at West Point that his loyalty was supposed to be to the Constitution, to the democratic institutions, not to any man.

Crisis-Prone President: White House aides have concluded despairingly that President Nixon is crisis-prone. He seems to be drawn irresistibly to crisis and confrontation. This has stirred talk both in and out of the White House about what makes Richard Nixon tick.

Those who know the human Nixon say he is a warm friend, a faithful husband and a loving father. But he is a shy and sensitive man, who is comfortable only among old friends. The moment a stranger walks into the room, they say, he changes personality from the private Nixon to the public Nixon.

This tendency to hide his true identity from the public has caused a certain alienation. He doesn't trust the public and the public doesn't entirely trust him. The President is also a rock-'em-sock-'em campaigner. He regards his political attacks on others as part of the game. But their attacks on him have left deep scars.

As a result, he has become acutely sensitive to criticism and he looks upon dissent as disloyalty. White House aides tell us the President is terribly frustrated over the harassment from his critics and the ebbing of his power. He feels that his critics simply want to obstruct him and that the public doesn't understand his problems.

For a man of Nixon's combative nature, he reacts by holding his ground and striking back at his critics. He has become a cornered President who is determined to go down fighting.

Spending Sprees. The Pentagon is constantly complaining about military budget cuts, but the brass hats always seem to have enough money to entertain visiting dignitaries.

Sometime ago, for example, the 101st Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Kentucky, was told that President Nixon would drop by. Out came the paint brushes and whitewash buckets. Civilians and soldiers alike labored long hours putting together promotional displays.

Two days before the big day, the brass hats were told Nixon couldn't make it. They would have to settle for second best — then Vice President Spiro Agnew. Nevertheless, 47 buses were hired to bring in people from the hinterlands. A fleet of cars was rented to haul around the dignitaries. All told, the Agnew visit cost the taxpayers $250,000.

A few days ago, Julie Nixon Eisenhower visited the Marine base at Quantico, Virginia. The corps, it seems, had declared surplus a thousand acres of its property. Julie was selected to present it to the neighboring Virginia counties.

The leathernecks hailed out the Marine band and ordered refreshments. Ambulances were a medical evacuation helicopter was readied in case there were heart failures. Many of the hundreds of VIPs were ferried to the event in a special airplane.

The citizens of Virginia received nearly $3 million worth of property — but it cost the nation thousands of dollars simply to make the presentation.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

This year's city primary is just around the corner [five days away] but the thoughts of at least one man are on the 1975 election instead.

Insiders report that Rep.-Councillor William Delahunt is a positive candidate for mayor two years from now—regardless.

Regardless, that is, whether Mayor Walter Hannon runs for re-election or Senator-Councillor Arthur Tobin is a mayoralty candidate.

Delahunt isn't publicly confirming or denying he will be a candidate. Ask him and you'll get a smile for a reply.

But those close to him say he's a definite candidate. Real DEFINITE.

Delahunt, of course, is surrendering his Ward 5 council seat this year. He'll run for re-election to his state representative seat next year.

And then, according to sources very close to him, he'll launch his bid for mayor.

Delahunt would be a very formidable candidate regardless of who else is in the race. He proved that four years ago as a political unknown by coming within 42 votes of upsetting the then incumbent Ward 5 councillor—Walter J. Hannon.

Delahunt, as we have noted before, has that political charisma that not too many politicians are blessed with.

SPEAKING OF Delahunt, he's been escorting Rep. Paul Guzzi [D-Newton] around Quincy. Guzzi is expected to announce his candidacy within the next month or two for Secretary of State—bucking John Davoren. Guzzi is a member of the legislative Committee on Election Laws and chairman of the sub-committee studying Campaign Finance Reform. Delahunt will be one of his local coordinators in his run for Davoren's job.

DID YOU KNOW that Charlie Ross who does the play-by-play of the high school football games on WJDA is the son of Charles Ross, assistant Register of Deeds and grandson of late Mayor Charles A. Ross? Does a nice job, too.

POLITICAL SOCIAL NOTE: County Commissioner George McDonald of Quincy officially launches his campaign for sheriff Friday night at a 7:30 p.m. social at Amaru's, 80 Bridge St., Dedham. It's a "get-acquainted evening", with a buffet and dancing.

MILESTONE: Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy is marking its 70th anniversary this year as a separate parish. It became a separate parish July 1903. But it actually dates back to 1878 when it was dedicated by Archbishop Williams as a mission of St. John's. The present edifice, dedicated by Archbishop Cushing Dec. 17, 1949 replaced the church destroyed by fire Jan. 20, 1948.

JACK DONAHUE, retired North Quincy football coach, is invited to nearly every class reunion. Saturday night he and his wife will attend the 25th reunion of the Class of 1948 at Lantana in Randolph. Jack admits this was one of his favorite teams and featured such players as Jack Gilbody, Paul McGuigan and Sid Cedrone. Jack makes most of the reunions and admits a great feeling of satisfaction that so many of the classes remember him.

REGARDLESS OF WHO wins the Ward 1 city council seat, Robert Denvir wants it known that he is claiming the most-pounds lost championship. Reports he's shed 40 pounds campaigning since June. Was 225 pounds—now's 185.

AND, speaking of Ward 1, did you know that Leo Kelly, seeking the council seat in that ward, and Jack Kelly, both members of the Mayor's Capital Outlay Committee are brothers? Anybody think of two brothers on any other municipal committee?

HERE'S ONE from the Quincy Kiwanis Newsletter quoting Norman Vincent Peale: "America has become so tense and nervous, it has been years since I've seen anyone asleep in church—and that's a sad situation."

SMILE DEPT: From "The Insider", published by inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction: "Don't worry if your child gets excited over nothing. He may grow up to act in television commercials."

Marine Scholarship Deadline

S-Sgt. Peter Murphy Marine Corps Representative at 231 Parking Way, Quincy, announces the Navy-Marine Corps Scholarship program for the fall of 1974, is open for applications until Nov. 1.

Each year, the Marine Corps selects approximately 250 high school seniors to receive the Marine-option Naval Reserve Officer Training [NROTC] scholarships which can be used at any of the 54 colleges and universities where NROTC units are located.

In addition to the Nov. 1 deadline, each applicant must take the Scholastic Aptitude Test by Nov. 3, or the American finalists by the same date.

For further information of the Marine Corps' scholarship opportunities, contact Sergeant Murphy at 472-6650.

Memories Of A Cigarette

Remember when cigarette cartoons were the perfect Christmas gift?

Remember when there was nothing but cigarette jingles on the radio? And TV screenfuls of young lovers romping through the great outdoors in a cloud of cigarette smoke?

Remember when people thought nonsmokers were squares and goody-goodies?

Remember when almost everyone on TV and in the movies smoked? Remember Ed Murrow and Humphrey Bogart?

Remember when a pack of cigarettes cost a quarter?

Remember when there were more adult Americans who smoked than didn't?

Remember the free cigarettes the airlines used to pass out to please their passengers?

Remember when a doctor might offer patients a cigarette to help calm their nerves?

Remember when everyone suffered in silence if someone lit up in a no-smoking area?

Remember when people bought cigarettes for their rich, strong flavor instead of low tar and nicotine levels?

Remember when kids weren't upset because their parents smoked?

Remember cigarette packs-and cigarette ads—without these lines, "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking is Hazardous To Your Health?"

Remember when people always said, "No" if anyone asked, "Do you mind if I smoke?"

Your Lung Association remembers. And to help you "kick the habit," if you haven't already done so, the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association will hold a five day Stop Smoking Clinic from Sunday evening, Nov. 4 through Thursday evening Nov. 8.

Physicians from the Norfolk County area will also be present at the sessions to discuss the health effects of smoking and to help participants quit. The clinic will be held at the Association's offices in Westwood, Call 326-4081 to register for the program.

Programs such as these are supported by Christmas Seals. Your support fights against the causes of lung disease—like cigarette smoking.

4-H Club Leader Sought For Quincy

Ten-year-old Debra Ranehan and her sister Susan, who live at 48 Armory St., Quincy, would like to join a 4-H Club so that they could learn how to sew and participate in fairs and fashion shows.

The problem is, there's no 4-H Club in their neighborhood.

Any woman or older teenage girl who would like to teach Debra and Susan to sew by starting a 4-H Club in the neighborhood can do so by contacting Quincy's 4-H coordinator, Mrs. Dena Hamilburg at 762-8333.

You don't have to be an expert seamstress, just someone with a basic knowledge of sewing who can devote an hour a week, or every other week, to helping girls at your own home or in a school or community center.

Living, Today

Getting A New Purpose In Life

Tom Haskin was a well spoken man... educated... well dressed... lived in an apartment with another divorced man. He had been divorced from Mary about a year... and was having difficulty getting adjusted to the changed life. Each Sunday he visited his children... took them to the dolphin show... Bunker Hill... old Ironsides... Science Park... Benson Animal Farm... the carnivals and fall fairs. He was running out of different places to go.

"Doctor" ... he began ... "I'm not here to complain ... nor to blame ... nor to express resentment. I've come to think through with you my future life. What I've wanted seems to have eluded me. I loved my home ... did things to improve it as I had time ... worked on the grounds ... flower beds ... shrubs. I preferred this to golf ... loved every minute of it. I see now I was really doing it for Mary. I WANTED HER COMPANIONSHIP SO MUCH ... but we just didn't seem to get it together. Now I've got to find a new life style ... and it's difficult when you've been family and home oriented." Tom paused ... then he said ... "I've got to get A NEW PURPOSE IN LIFE."

"It's refreshing to see someone who isn't blaming the divorced partner" ... I commented. It's so much more adult just to agree to be friends though a couple recognizes that they can't live together. "You're wise, Tom, to lay aside the past and move on to a new meaning in life."

"That's what I'm trying to do" ... Tom said. "I've seen myself more realistically. I know now that Mary and I were following a different life script though our words belied that. What I want now is to regain my self-confidence and bring new meaning into my life."

"What do you see as the problems to overcome?" I was leading Tom.

"Well ... there are three. You might say they are MONEY ... COMPANIONSHIP ... PURPOSE. As far as MONEY is concerned my expenses have mounted. I've got to pull in and do some consolidating." I suggested that Tom go to a good financial advisor ... which he did ... to help him see ways in which he could improve his financial position. Divorces are usually very costly to both partners.

"Then I need COMPANIONSHIP ... God how I need it. I'm terribly lonely ... especially at night. This is the toughest problem to overcome. Since Tom had been a poor reader ... all the way through school ... he took a reading course and greatly improved his reading speed and concentration. This filled a lot of his lonely hours ... and he got to enjoy reading."

Though he was turned off from women he did begin to make some new friends. He subscribed to S.A.G.E. (Single Adults Guide to Entertainment, 106 Bedford Street, Boston 02111) which provided Tom with information on social groups ... parties ... get-togethers ... where he met other men and women who were also divorced. The activities were rewarding and his loneliness began to fade.

Tom's third problem ... to give NEW PURPOSE and meaning in life began to emerge when he became a volunteer at the School for the Deaf ... where he was assigned a ten year old deaf boy who had no father. He saw him weekly ... and that two hours began to be the highlight in the week for both the boy and Tom. Tom became his father image ... they talked ... played games ... went to sporting events ... laughed ... shared their feelings with each other. Tom saw the boy grow and gain new O.K. feelings about himself. "But you know Doctor" ... Tom said ... "I was getting more out of it than the boy." He was finding NEW PURPOSE IN LIFE.

There are nearly 2,000,000 newly divorced people each year ... and most of them experience the same feelings and suffer the same emotional trauma that Tom felt. One can just exist in a state of blaming hate ... or one can find NEW PURPOSE that gives life meaning.

Youth Speaks Out

• President Nixon blaming the media for his problems is like blaming the weatherman for a hurricane.

• The new hit song at the White House and The Kremlin is "What the World Needs Now is Oil, Arab Oil."

• The reason that there have been so many U.F.O. sightings is that the little blue men are trying to discover the answer to a question that we're beginning to wonder about "Is there intelligent life on Earth?"

• Senator Sam Ervin has just released a record in which he "recites" the song "Bridge Over Troubled Waters" Although I'm sure he'll enjoy hearing his record being played, he probably would prefer to hear a Presidential recording or two.

• With meat and poultry prices still high, the national dish this Thanksgiving might be macaroni and cheese.

• There's a new doll on the market just in time for Christmas. It comes already gift wrapped. It's called the "Nixon Special" because it withholds the tape so you can't open the package till Christmas.

Social Services Committee 38th Hospital Ball Nov. 30

The Social Services Committee of Quincy City Hospital is planning its 38th annual ball, the group's sole fund-raising event, to be held Friday, Nov. 30, at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Herbie Sulkin's orchestra will play for dancing from 8:30 to midnight.

Mrs. Samuel G. Sloane, Committee Chairman, notes that funds raised through this function are used to aid those who need medical attention not paid for by Medicare, Medicaid or other public assistance programs.

Mrs. Thomas Collins, committee treasurer, reports that proceeds from last year's dance were used to provide housekeeping services, clothing for a patient entering a nursing home, medicines, and taxi service for treatments. Donations were made to Survival, Inc. and to the YMCA to provide 10 camperships.

Mrs. Michael D. Benedict, hospital ball chairman, announces that tickets may be purchased at the Social Services Department, Quincy City Hospital or from committee members.

Mrs. Robert Mitchell is publicity chairman. Members of the ball committee assisting Mrs. Sloane are:

Mrs. Michael Benedict III, Mrs. Thomas Collins, Mrs. Anthony Colucci, Mrs. T. Vincent Corsini, Mrs. Lawrence V. Dolan, Mrs. Albert Godfrey, Mrs. Kilby T. Kline, Miss Constance Lundy, Mrs. Edyth McGlone, Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Mrs. Harry Pavan, Mrs. Robert Rimmer, Mrs. Jack Silverstein, Mrs. Max Stein, Mrs. Daniel M. Swan, Mrs. Godfrey S. Tompkins, Miss Carlena Walker, Mrs. Edwin S. White, Mrs. Joseph Whiteman, Mrs. Norman L. Wilson, Mrs. Michael Zeppetella, and Mrs. Walter Zink.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Know where you are going and why

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst
Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I have always been curious about this handwriting of mine. It's miserable! I've always blamed it on missing out on penmanship in the 3rd grade. Is it my messy writing that makes me feel so wishy-washy?

F.F.

Dear F.F.:

Your handwriting is YOU. NOT a product of push-pull exercises.

Your disposition is one of going along with the crowd, seen in the slurred n's and soft rounded s's, evaluated with other strokes. You feel that yielding to others is the best way to gain acceptance and this is your problem.

Seen in the high point on the y, you are fearful that someone will make fun of you or reject you if you stand on your own two feet.

You have developed enough tact in handling others to make friends, and to be a part of the crowd, seen in the tapering of the double e combination. But, once a part, you let others influence you to such a degree that you are left with no strong beliefs of your own. Anything goes as long as you feel acceptance.

Your best bet is to make periodic checkups on where you are going — who you are following — and why.

While a certain amount of flexibility is needed in our relationships with others, no one really enjoys being with someone who is willing to give in at all times on all matters. D.J.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

The platform plot made her paranoid

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

I thought platform shoes, like a bad cold, would go away in two weeks. But they didn't.

Oh, I held out — clutching my conservative pumps and refusing to part with my water heels; took fierce pride in announcing my refusal to knuckle under to fashion's pressure. I even showed a touch of paranoia — thinking shoe designers were plotting against me with the help of pants manufacturers.

"Listen," I said to my husband, "they just make those ugly shoes to go with those ugly pants that have legs so wide you have to be Wilt Chamberlain to look good in them. It's a plot."

My husband is a man who rarely looks up from his TV set, but I think he was alarmed for me. He tore himself away from a Ban commercial long enough to say, "What do you mean 'they'?" You'd better watch that kind of thinking because it isn't covered in our medical insurance.

So I finally bought a pair of super-platforms. Not because I really wanted to, but it was the lesser of two evils. The pants I'd been buying were so long that it was costing me as much in alteration fees as a pair of new shoes.

When I first appeared in platforms my daughter was delighted. "Mom!" she enthused, "you look really great."

From past experience I have learned that if my kids think I look really great I am probably dressed ten years too young.

"Thanks," I muttered, and clomped over to the oven to check on the baked potatoes. They had exploded. So did I a little later when I turned my ankle on my way into the bathroom to turn off the water in the bathtub somebody had left running.

And I think that's the crux of the matter: platform shoes, plot or not, are not designed for women of action. Cleats I can understand, but six inches of clunk and encumbrance I still reject.

Agd Baby, we may have come a long way, but if we don't kick off those platforms we may not go much farther.

...six inches of clunk

Whodunits to return as nightly radio fare

Mystery dramas had their heyday on network radio of the '40s and one of the most prolific producers was Hi Brown whose squeaking door signature of "Inner Sanctum Mysteries" led a parade of half-hour thrillers.

Now he returns as executive producer for hour-long nighttime mystery dramas on CBS radio, seven nights a week starting in January, entitled "The CBS Radio Mystery Theater." — CNS

Personality Quiz

ARE YOU A LOVABLE PERSON?

As everyone with a love-doesy disposition knows, love is definitely not for the birds. As a matter of fact, to paraphrase an old song, the object of your affection can turn your complexion from dull to rosy red. How do you score at home? To find out, take this test.

1. If you and your sweetheart have had a spat about a minor matter, it is best to (A) Insist that you are right, (B) Admit that you may be in the wrong, or (C) Unconditionally surrender to your lover's point of view?

2. When a couple announces its engagement, you should (A) Congratulate the future bride, (B) Offer your best wishes to the prospective bridegroom, or (C) Offer best wishes to the woman and congratulate the man?

3. When a loved one dies, it is best to (A) Send flowers to the bereaved family, (B) Make sure to be present at the funeral services, (C) Telephone the bereft family immediately and express your sad feelings?

4. If you're invited to the christening of a baby, you should (A) Bring a gift such as a blanket or rattle, (B) Merely say that you share their joy over this happy event, or (C) Make out a sizable check in the name of the child or present the parents with a savings bond in the child's name?

5. If you're a girl out on a blind date and get an invitation to see your escort again and you can't make it because of a previous engagement, it's best to (A) Thank him for the good turn and express the wish that he call again, (B) Tell him you're busy, or (C) Offer to introduce him to your parents?

For correct answers, see below.

ANSWERS: 1. (B) Most parties to an argument do not expect or desire total capitulation. Yet admitting that you may be wrong can save the day. 2. (C) Offer best wishes to the prospective bride and congratulate the future bridegroom. 3. (A) Flowers are a universal token of sharing great sympathy with the bereaved, and should be sent especially when it's not possible to call the family or attend the funeral services. 4. (A) Bring a modest gift for the baby. Giving a check or bond may invite unnecessary comparisons with the size of others' gifts. 5. (A) Offering to introduce him to your parents is probably premature. Instead, tell him that you had a good time and would like him to call again.

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of
Nov. 4-10

By GINA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Success should crown your efforts now if you are realistic and adaptable. You expend less energy by being organized in your work. Take the initiative — make contacts. Retain calm disposition, use diplomacy.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Seek associations with those in the know to expand your own abilities. Romance is favored. Opportunity for a discussion about possible partnership in business. You may get the answer to a knotty problem.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Keep your nose to the grindstone with a pleasant attitude. Some Geminis may benefit from inheritance or legacy. A social activity is unexpectedly rewarding. Be compassionate with friend in trouble.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Bring practical and idealistic values together for best results now. Take an objective point of view — see the whole picture. Community projects and activities are highlighted beneficially. Romance blooms.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Shake off lazy and noncaring mood. Vary your routine by creative action to restore your zest for living. Good time for a trip if possible. If unemployed, use this period to contact former associates and write resumes.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Be very discreet in romantic matters. Possibility of news or a visit from someone you care about. Opportunity for some financial gain. Get plenty of rest and relaxation. Guard health. Watch your diet.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — An easy-going time. Watch the budget by finding pastimes that are inexpensive. Take special pains to please your mate. Listen to a friend who has a good business head. Monitor employees' actions.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — A fulfilling time when you should realize your potential. Guard against emotional highs and lows — try to stay on a more even keel. Get co-operation for best results in work areas. Success is probable.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Your concern with personal problems indicates a time when you feel quiet and withdrawn. Good time for finishing up projects and clearing the decks for future action. Rest and guard health.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — A period of emotional growth is beginning. Allow your affectionate and loving disposition to manifest. Romance and shared love bring peace of mind. Some Capricorns may marry or get engaged now.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Busy, busy, busy is the theme this week. Don't rush present plans — extend goal deadlines if necessary. Some possibility of changing business location or adding space. Guard your reputation carefully.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Trust your intuition and judgment. Home restrictions are worrisome, or relationships with children, spouse or lover. Get the problem out in the open where it can be discussed and straightened out.

Don't place a bet on blue cheese!

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Aren't blue cheese and Roquefort the same thing? — Betting in Dallas

Dear Bettor: I think you lose. According to a French law that goes back to the 17th Century, cheese that is called Roquefort has to be made in the area of Roquefort, France, and must be made with sheep's milk. Cheese of the same type made elsewhere is called blue cheese. In the United States it is usually made with cow's milk.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: The other night my husband and I watched the Montreal Expos play the Los Angeles Dodgers. During the pregame ceremony I was shocked to see the American raised before the Canadian flag. I always thought the American flag took precedence over all other flags and was raised last as a sign of respect. Which team would be responsible for this breach of etiquette? — Hot in L.A.

Dear Hot: Cool down. That game was played in Montreal and the American team was a foreign visiting team. The Canadians were paying respect to their flag by hoisting it last. And I bet you didn't like the score either!

Dear Mrs. Tobin: The bride-to-be is four months pregnant. I don't like the man she is marrying. As a matter of fact, I don't much care for the girl but her parents have been our neighbors for many years. Should I attend the wedding, regret, send a gift or not? — A Proper Bostonian

Dear Bostonian: Regret and don't send a gift.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Of course nobody's perfect but my father seems to pick the worst times to criticize my mother. Right in front of guests he'll jack her up on her housekeeping or at the table make remarks about the food she's prepared. Mother just laughs it off but I know she's hurt. — Myra

Dear Myra: There is no excuse for criticizing or reprimanding anyone in public. And I mean children, too. It embarrasses the onlookers even more. Your father apparently lacks in the art of conversation. Instead of making your mother look foolish, it makes him look like a boor. Your mother certainly handles the problem with great tact. She should tell him (in private) how she really feels.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Is Weiner schnitzel an over-grown hot dog? — L. Barron

Dear L.B.: No, it's breaded veal cutlet, usually garnished with lemon.

If you thought we had energy to burn, here are a few things to think about.

When it comes to keeping up with our growing energy demands, America's a little like our friend on the exerciser—we're running through our energy resources faster than we can replace them.

Today, we have enough domestic oil reserves to last us 10 years. Enough natural gas to last 11 years. Enough coal for 500 years. And, without the help of the breeder reactor, only enough uranium for 13 years.

The trouble is that there are going to be more of us—over 35,000,000 more by 1985—burning up more and more energy. Our consumption of oil, gas and coal will almost double by 1985. But, our use of nuclear energy will be 11 times greater than at present.

That's why it's essential that we make the wisest, most efficient use of the energy resources we have... why we must develop new resources to serve our growing needs and best human interests.

Our goal is to provide our customers with reliable electricity—one of the cleanest and most efficient forms of energy—at reasonable prices and with environmental safeguards we can all live with. Together, we can provide the reasonable means to reasonable ends.

BE SEEN AND LIVE

Of the many variables which combine to cause an accident on the highway, one is visibility of the "target". The less visible your car is, the higher its chances of being struck.

According to recent tests at the University of California, the colors blue and yellow were judged the safest if you want your car to be seen on the highway. Blue shows up best during daylight and fog, and yellow is best at night. The worst color from the visibility standpoint is gray. It seems to blend into the background and appears to be much farther away than it is.

Luminous tape is also a major visibility factor at night. Its reflective ability triples the distance that your car can be seen. And here's the visibility tip for the day. Why not paint the inside of your car's trunk with luminous paint? In case of a breakdown at night, your raised trunk lid will glow as a warning to other motorists.

COOKING CORNER

Delicious meal is easy with sealable plastic bag

Sirloin STEAK --- Marinate your next barbecue steaks inside durable, sealable plastic bags. The steaks can be marinated, then carried to the barbecue setting in the bags.

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

In-the-bag cookery is becoming a way of life. It represents the quick-and-easy modern trend.

Oven bags eliminate spattering and burned-on food stains. The self-sealing bags can be used for marinating meats, flouring foods, or for storage.

Among the meats which spatter ovens the most are such fat foods as pork and duck. The illustrative recipe for duck orange, often featured on restaurant menus as a specialty item, calls for baking in a bag. While the fat bastes both the surface and the meat, the oven bag holds in fat and juices, so the oven never gets spattered.

Indicative of the convenience features of sealable plastic bags is marinated steak in a bag. The steaks can be marinated, then carried to the barbecue setting in the bags.

MARINATED STEAK IN A BAG

(Makes 4-6 Servings)

2 (1½ pounds each, round bone) sirloin steaks, each about 1½ to 1½ inches thick (Note)

China's grain crop has doubled in 24 years

Hsinhua, China's official news agency has released some rare statistics on China's grain output, saying "grain output in 1972 was 240 million tons, as against 110 million in 1949."

The official report claims that population in the same period "topped 700 million, as compared with upwards of 500 million" in 1949. — CNS

1 cup red Burgundy wine
2 tbsps. salad oil
1 tsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp. garlic powder
½ tsp. dry mustard
2 tps. Worcestershire
Salt and pepper

Place each sirloin steak in gallon-size sealable plastic bag. For marinade, mix together all remaining ingredients except salt and pepper. Pour half of marinade into each bag. Press excess air from bag; close bag by pressing the plastic tongue on one side firmly into the groove on the other side. Marinate for at least 2 hours. Keep steak chilled until 1 hour before grilling time.

Remove steaks from marinade. Grill steaks about 5 inches from hot coals for about 9 to 11 minutes per side for medium. Baste steaks with marinade during broiling and sprinkle with salt and pepper after broiling.

(Note) For less tender steaks: Less expensive steaks, such as chuck or round steaks, may be used instead of sirloin steaks. To tenderize steaks, keep steaks in marinade for 6 or more hours.

DUCK ORANGE

4 lbs. duckling
1 package (¾ oz.) brown gravy mix
¼ cup flour
2 tps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2 tbsps. sugar
1 cup hot water
2 tbsps. orange marmalade
1 can (6 oz.) frozen orange juice, thawed

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Remove all visible fat from duck and prick skin well all over to allow fat to escape. Roll opening back on small size (10" x 16") sealable plastic bag and place in two-inch-deep roasting pan. Add dry ingredients to bag. Mix well with wooden spoon. Combine remaining ingredients and blend gradually into dry mix in bag. Place duck in mixture and turn to moisten all sides. Close bag with twist tie; make six half-inch slits in top. Cook 1½ to 2 hours or until tested tender. Slit bag and remove duckling to warm serving platter. Pour sauce in bowl and skim off excess fat. Serve with seasoned rice.

Makes: 24 servings.

Tailgate Special

Cheer your favorite football team to victory after a pre-game picnic featuring roast beef sandwiched between slices of a robust horseradish bread. If you can make muffins, you can bake this easy, quick mix bread which also contains mustard and mustard seed. Its lively flavor makes a beautiful accompaniment for Swiss or Muenster cheese, for ham or luncheon meats.

Tailgate Special

1 loaf

3 cups enriched flour*	¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar	¼ cup oil
2 tablespoons baking powder	1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon mustard seed	1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1½ teaspoons salt
3 eggs, beaten

Stir together dry ingredients. Blend remaining ingredients. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring until until flour is moistened. Pour into greased 4½ x 8½-inch loaf pan. Bake in preheated 375° oven 65 to 70 minutes, or until done. Cool 15 minutes before removing from pan.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

'Big Brother-Sister' Program

By MAUREEN CORCORAN

There is a new program at Quincy High School that will hopefully benefit both high school and elementary students.

The program enables selected high school students to visit elementary schools throughout Quincy and aid younger students not only academically but socially.

Many kids don't have brothers or sisters they can converse with, or else they may have brothers or sisters who are much older or too busy to spend very much time with them.

Mrs. Donna Olney, a guidance counselor at Q.H.S. is directing the program, which is somewhat similar to the "Big Brother" and "Big Sister" programs.

It is hoped that responsible high school students can talk with the younger students and help them solve school-related problems, by giving them advice, and more importantly by serving as a good example.

The response at QHS has been excellent and the program should shortly be in full operation.

GOING OVER PLANS for new QHS program to aid elementary school pupils are [seated] Mrs. Donna Olney, guidance counselor and students Denise DuBois, Lynette Feeney and Darlene Stetler.

Twenty-one students from the food preparation course at Quincy Vocational Technical School will journey to New York Wednesday, Nov. 6, to visit the New York Coliseum and the United Nations and have lunch at a fine New York restaurant.

The students, accompanied by cooking teacher Paul Pantano, will leave Quincy by bus at 5 a.m. and return the same way at about 11 p.m. The cost will be $25 per student.

Coming: Comet Kohontek

By PATRICIA O'LEARY

Is Doomsday coming?

Long ago this is what many people thought about when a Comet appeared. Their strange and spectacular appearance made people afraid of what was to follow, but most of this has changed.

Comets are very exciting to us now and we are about to have a good view of one of the brightest comets of the century. Comet 1973F. The fourth new comet of the year, it was discovered in mid March by Leibes Kohontek.

On Tuesday Oct. 23, a press conference about Comet Kohontek was held at the Charles Hayden Planetarium in Boston's Museum of Science. Invited to this conference were members of the press, TV, radio, and luckily high school students.

We were treated to a tour of the facility and various statements by noted scientists. A question and answer period followed which proved very interesting.

Comet Kohontek will be visible in the night sky from December 1973 to January 1974, with its most spectacular period probably from Christmas to mid-January.

The Charles Hayden Planetarium at the museum will serve as information center for any questions you may have about the Comet.

A telephone line to the Museum will handle all calls. The Comet line open Monday - Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. is 723-5000, Extension 276.

22 Youngsters Star In Library Halloween Play

The witch claimed that the pumpkin does not belong in Hallowe'en anymore but a jury of pint-sized ghosts, sitting in an old cemetery, found him not guilty and set him free.

The occasion was the Hallowe'en program at the Adams Shore Library last Friday with 22 youngsters taking part in spooky and humorous plays under the direction of Mrs. Blanche Eckert, children's librarian.

In the second play, two gruesome sisters entered the "Wonderful Witchware Store" to purchase a special brew followed by a gloomy ghost seeking a new shroud for his wife and six little witches looking for new model brooms with safety belts.

Robert Uhlar told scary stories during intermission.

Children taking part in the plays included Cheryl and Deborah Bamberg, Tina Curley, Christine and Lynda Cefail, Robert Fanning, Marty Griffin, Roberta Hennessey, Brigitte Hunt, Robert LaVigne.

Steven Lacey, Stacey and Timothy Lynch, Lynn Manton, Ann Marie McCarthy, Jacqueline McLaughlin, Deborah Mullaney, Terry Pearson, Dawn Marie Riley, Sandra Walters, Susan Zeiba and Robert Uhlar.

Robert Fanning was the property and setting director.

Guidance Counselors Available To Parents At Broad Meadows

Guidance Counselors will be available at Broad Meadows Junior High School beginning in November for six consecutive months on the second Monday of each month from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The dates coincide with the regular meetings of the Parent Board to which all parents are invited to attend. It would be possible for parents to meet with a counselor and also attend some part of the Parent Board session.

The counseling staff is planning evening hours in order to meet with parents relative to any concerns they might have about their child's educational progress. It is felt that parents may appreciate the opportunities to obtain facts concerning services available within the building, school system and community; descriptions of program selections; learning materials available; ways in which the home and school can share the responsibility of child growth and development, etc.

If parents wish to discuss specific concerns about their child, it is suggested that an appointment be made with the appropriate counselor by calling the Guidance Office at the school. Parents may walk in unannounced if they are seeking general information.

The Schedule:

Nov. 12 - Mr. Sullivan, Grade 7;
Mr. Sheehan, Grade 8.
Dec. 10 - Mr. Sheehan, Grade 8;
Miss Sawyer, Grade 9.
Jan. 14 - Miss Sawyer, Grade 9;
Mr. Sullivan, Grade 7.
Feb. 11 - Mr. Sullivan, Grade 7;
Mr. Sheehan, Grade 8.
March 11 - Mr. Sheehan, Grade 8;
Miss Sawyer, Grade 9.
April 8 - Miss Sawyer, Grade 9;
Mr. Sullivan, Grade 7.

Downtown Plan Goals Can Be Reached In A Decade

positive attitude toward the future of downtown is likely to be developed.

It is imperative to the revitalization of the CBD that the city administration clearly demonstrate its full support for the findings and recommendations included in the plan. Without their support the many actions that will be required on the part of the city will not be taken and the needed support from the downtown merchants will be difficult to obtain. In addition, it is also very desirable that both the Planning Board and the City Council adopt through formal votes of approval the general recommendations in the plan as city policy.

Finally, it would also be desirable to present the plan to appropriate state and federal government agencies who may ultimately play a role in its implementation. Within Massachusetts, the agency that should be made fully aware of the plan's contents is the Department of Community Affairs, Office of Renewal Assistance.

● Requirements

In order to carry out the contents of the plan, appropriate organizational prerequisites must be met. A first and most important step in this direction is the establishment of a Department of Planning and Community Development for the city of Quincy.

Legislation to this effect has been introduced at the State House and is moving ahead rapidly. This legislation essentially grants the new department the powers of planning and redevelopment as outlined in the Massachusetts General Laws. As a result of the combining of the planning and redevelopment functions it is anticipated that the city will be in a strong position to lead the effort toward implementing the downtown plan.

The cooperation and active involvement of the downtown merchants in revitalizing the Quincy CBD is a prerequisite if the overall program is going to succeed. Accordingly, it is advisable that the downtown merchants separately establish a "plan implementation committee" so that there is a group of merchants that meets on a regular basis that can act as a spokesman for the entire downtown merchant group.

This committee should be limited in number so that its internal operations do not become overly cumbersome and it should include all the individuals who can maintain an active interest in planning and implementation over a time period.

One of the major functions of this committee will be to maintain a close liaison with the city's Department of Planning and Community Development. The purpose of this liaison is to provide a mechanism for transmitting the interests and ideas of the merchants to the city officials responsible for carrying out the plan, and conversely, to transmit to the merchants various activities that are taking place within the city toward implementing the plan.

Secondly, the committee should be actively involved in establishing a coordinated marketing strategy for attracting more shoppers to the downtown area. Finally, the committee should provide specific assistance to city officials on carrying out rehabilitation development and relocation activities. Each of these activities in one form or another will affect virtually all of the downtown merchants and accordingly, the feelings of the merchants themselves should be made known fully to the city officials.

● Implementation Devices

There is a great variety of programs and activities available to the city of Quincy for facilitating implementation of the recommendations included in the CBD plan. Most of these programs and activities will require the initiative and follow-up from city officials if they are to succeed. They will, however, also require the advice and assistance of the downtown merchants and the citizens of Quincy in general.

In order to provide new buildable parcels of land in downtown Quincy, the process of redevelopment must be in full operation. At present there is very little vacant land in the CBD, particularly in the most economically attractive locations. Therefore, redevelopment activity must take place in selected locations, in order to provide attractive and buildable land parcels.

To carry out redevelopment in the future the city should make full use of government programs available for such a purpose. Included in this category is the Massachusetts state-aided urban redevelopment program "121B", the "121A" development corporation, and in the future, the Federal Better Communities Act.

One of the major activities envisioned in the revitalization effort of downtown Quincy is the rehabilitation of the buildings that are now existing. It is expected that the actual rehabilitation of buildings will be the responsibility of and will be carried out by the building owners. It is unreasonable, however, to expect the owners to take the initiative in such action on a massive scale. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that the new Department of Planning and Community Development be in a position to provide technical expertise to building owners.

The city of Quincy maintains direct control over the construction of new public improvements through the vehicles of the Capital Improvements Program. Decisions with respect to the size and scheduling of capital improvements are made by the Mayor and City Council, upon recommendations of the Capital Improvements Program Committee.

Capital improvements for the downtown area such as new buildings, utilities, streets, parking areas, signs, lights, trees, and street furniture, should be submitted to this committee in as much detail as possible, showing prospective costs and priorities and the reasons for each improvement.

The development plan for downtown Quincy calls for the maintenance of most of the land uses that now exist, but it also calls for some changes. In order to ensure that the land uses proposed are carried out, a number of land use control mechanisms are available.

Within redevelopment projects carried out under state and federal laws, detailed land use plans specifying the exact nature of the land uses and provisions for density, land coverage, setbacks, off-street parking and loading, and building height or bulk, are required.

Outside of approved redevelopment projects, the basic mechanism for controlling the use of land in the Quincy CBD is through the power of zoning. Zoning basically consists of dividing the area into districts and regulating within the districts the use of land and the use, height, and area of buildings. Part of the CBD area may ultimately be designated a historic district, and accordingly, all exterior changes in structures within this area would be under the control of the historic district commission.

Finally, in addition to all of the powers that have been described for controlling the use and characteristics of development and rehabilitation efforts, one of the most useful techniques for land use control is negotiation with property owners. Such negotiations would take the form of encouraging property owners to make desired improvements to their property in conformance with the recommendations in the CBD plan.

The completion of the development plan for the Quincy CBD signals the beginning of the implementation process. As this process begins and moves into high gear, it is imperative that a continuing process of communication between the Mayor's office, the new Department of Planning and Community Development, the downtown merchants, and citizens in general, be maintained.

All concerned will have to work to their utmost to maintain a continuing spirit of cooperation and unity, seeking the ultimate goal of building a better Central Business District for Quincy.

Harold Seeks Funds For Bicentennial Celebration

Paul D. Harold, candidate for city council from Ward 1, met recently with Senator Chester Atkins of Acton, chairman of the Massachusetts Bicentennial Commission, at the Adams National Historic Site to push for monies for Quincy for the upcoming bicentennial celebration.

"Quincy was in the forefront of the Revolution, but has always been a third rate tourist center," Harold said. "Quincy should take advantage of the bicentennial to improve the identification, maintenance and operation of its existing historic sites and upgrade others, for example, the First Railway site. "At the same time, Quincy should ask the commission for funds for a comprehensive tourist plan for the city. Thousands of tourists stop in Boston and Plymouth, passing through Quincy without even stopping. And of those who do stop in Quincy, for the most part, they visit one or two sites and leave, spending about $1.50.

"To make the most of the tourists we do get and to attract more, a comprehensive package should be developed to get the tourist to spend a whole day in Quincy.

"By drawing up an attractive package where the visitor can see the historic sites, take advantage of the beaches and shopping area, tourists would funnel more money into the city; more than the present $1.50.

"Besides the study and improving historic sites, Quincy should secure funds for projects geared for the bicentennial, but which would be permanent improvements the citizens of Quincy could benefit from years after 1976. For example, purchase of properties near historic sites for open space, upgrading recreational areas, visitor's center and educational programs.

"If Quincy doesn't push for these monies, set up a working bicentennial committee and present a plan to the commission, the monies will be drawn up by historically active towns, such as Concord and Lexington. The money has been appropriated and will be spent. Quincy should demand its share."

Lydon Urges Crackdown On MBTA Parking Violators

John J. Lydon Jr., candidate for the Ward 3 City Council seat, has urged the city to expand and enforce the two-hour parking limit on streets around MBTA stations and hit violators with heavy fines.

"Quincy's residential streets are becoming the MBTA's parking lot," Lydon said last week during a campaign meeting at the home of Bernard Early of 15 Elmwood Ave., Wollaston.

"Commuters from other South Shore areas have shown little concern for Quincy residents.

"They drive into the city in the morning, park their cars on Quincy streets, instead of in the MBTA parking lots which were provided for the purpose, and leave them there until they return from the downtown area in the evening.

"The Wollaston station area provides a prime example of the problem. The residents are afflicted by the use of their streets by all-day parkers because not all of the streets have two hour parking limitations and in cases where they do exist they are not enforced."

Lydon proposed two exceptions to the ban -- Quincy residents displaying stickers on their cars and shoppers at local business establishments.

Action Needed To Lower Taxes, Says McCarthy

Ward 3 Council Candidate Walter J. McCarthy, Jr. told approximately 30 residents of the area this week that tax relief is a reality but only if common sense is applied to the problem.

McCarthy, addressing a private gathering, said that fiscal restraints must be imposed if the oppressed property taxpayer is to be afforded any relief.

"It is not enough to merely talk about lowering taxes," McCarthy said. "Earlier generations had that luxury but it is one we can ill afford. It is our job to act, and act now."

"Our tax rate can be stabilized—yes, even lowered, but only if we fight for it. There are both long and short term steps which we can implement to assure the end result. But we must translate these steps into deeds. We simply can plan no longer. Now is the time for action."

In outlining methods which would bring much-needed relief for the property owner, the life-long Quincy resident listed the following:

—Implementation of the Master Tax Study Commission's proposals which would reduce the reliance of the overall tax burden currently carried by the property owner. The property owner now pays an estimated 54 percent of the total. National average is 41 percent.

—Reclassification of property according to use so that those citizens who receive greater benefits in city services pay a greater share of the overall burden. This would affect Commercial, Industrial and residential properties.

—Farmor Federal Revenue Sharing Funds for tax relief only.

—Give voters a say in the approval or rejection of large appropriations for such projects as schools, urban renewal, etc. This plan has successfully been in effect in Danvers for the past three years.

—Reduction of expenses for such record keeping chores as payroll, taxes, etc. through the use of regional computer sharing.

"All of the above, and other plans are feasible and certainly are realistic and attainable," McCarthy said. "But none of them will reach fruition if we only talk about them. Positive action is called for. The taxpayers of Quincy need help."

Norfolk Labor Council

Endorses Mayor Hannon

The Norfolk Labor Council AFL-CIO has announced its endorsement of Mayor Walter J. Hannon for a second term in City Hall.

Charles M. Johnston, president of the council, called Hannon's record over the past two years "outstanding".

"The Mayor has worked very closely with the council and its officers in trying to secure work in the city of Quincy with the State and Federal Government," said Johnston.

GREEN ACRES TO ENJOY

I have a family of six active daughters so you can imagine how important it is to me that Quincy is improving our recreational facilities and adding more land and water front property to our open space program. Mayor Hannon has done something about saving our shores -- to name a few -- at Squaw Rock, Mound St. In Quincy Point and beach front property in Germantown. It's nice to know that Quincy residents will have plenty of green acres to enjoy in years to come.

NORTH QUINCY

210-Unit Hi-Rise Apartment Structure For North Quincy

The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., will provide $3.3 million mortgage financing for a 210-unit hi-rise apartment building on West Squantum St., North Quincy, adjacent to the State Street South and Kemper Insurance buildings.

The apartment building is a project of O'Connell Brothers Construction Company. The principals, Peter and William O'Connell, are general contractors who have built, own and manage other apartment projects in Quincy.

Rents for the two-room efficiencies, 3, 3½, 4½ and 6-room apartments are expected to range from $215 to $525.

The 12-story building will have a brick exterior and include an enclosed swimming pool and outside parking for 210 cars.

Architect for the project is George E. Ross of Braintree.

Kevin McGurl Graduates CG Training Center

Coast Guard Fireman Apprentice Kevin G. McGurl, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. McGurl of 300 Bellevue Rd., Squantum, has graduated from basic training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Cape May, N.J. He attended Quincy Vocational-Technical High School.

Catherine W. Cockburn, an admissions officer at the University of Chicago, will visit North Quincy High School Friday.

She will meet with students and counselors to discuss the University and its policies and programs concerning admissions.

The University of Chicago is a private coeducational institution consisting of four graduate divisions, seven professional schools, and an undergraduate College. On campus are approximately 7,500 students, including the graduate and professional enrollment. There is a full-time faculty of 1,100, of which approximately one half teach in the College.

Between the Covers

Film vs. Book

Many of today's most successful motion pictures have been based on books from the best-sellers' list. Today we present a few such works while asking, "You've seen the movie, but have you read the book?"

Paul Gallico has topped even Paul Gallico with THE POSEIDON ADVENTURE [Coward $6.95]. As the ocean liner tips and the passengers are faced with a fight for survival, Gallico spins a breathless, almost unbearable tale of suspense while balancing heroism against tragedy.

Margaret Mitchell's GONE WITH THE WIND [MacMillan $7.95] is a classic in both film and book forms. An exciting story of war, Southern courage, and human emotion, the plot still has much to say though woven over 30 years ago. It is interesting to note that it will be available in yet a third form. A spectacular musical version from the London stage, titled "Scarlett", is on its way to Broadway and is penciled in for a stop in Boston.

Also soon to be coming our way is the anxiously awaited film based on THE EXORCIST by William Blatty [Harper & Row $6.95]. The taut, well-researched and shockingly believable tale of demonology at its most terrifying is an unforgettable mixture of horror and suspense which leaves the reader emotionally groping through a lost limbo stretching between the natural and the supernatural. An excellent work.

The warm, loving, true story of a Virginian family's Christmas during the Depression can be found in THE HOMECOMING by Earl Hamner, Jr. [Random $4.95]. Television audiences have come to know and love the Hamner characters through the Emmy award-winning series, "The Waltons". The Homecoming was the basis for the original Christmas special, starring Patricia Neal and Richard Thomas, which later developed into the current weekly series, the episodes of which are based upon Mr. Hamner's boyhood and family experiences.

THE YEAR THE YANKEES LOST THE PENNANT by Douglas Wallop [Norton $4.50] is the amusing baseball yarn which, with a musical score added, later became known as "Damn Yankees". An outfielder from the Washington Senators sells his soul to the devil in an effort to wipe out the Yankees.

Along the way he meets Lola, who gets what she wants and vice versa. [Remember?]

GO ASK ALICE [Prentice Hall $4.95] has been described as "an important book...that all teenagers and parents of teenagers should read." The diary of a 15-year-old girl who turns on to acid and tries in vain to quit, Go Ask Alice was originally published and widely read in 1971 but has been boosted back into popularity by the recent made-for-TV film of the same title.

Delahunt Asks Grass Be Cut At Sailors Home Pond

City Councillor William D. Delahunt has asked the Quincy Park Department to cut the grass at Sailor's Home Pond so that area residents will have "a clean natural ice surface for skating purposes" this winter.

"Last year, in some areas of the pond, water froze around the grass areas making it impossible to skate thereon," he said in a letter to Executive Director Richard J. Koch of the Park Department.

"Traditionally, Sailor's Home

Pond has been one of the finest natural skating areas in the northern end of the city and I would hope that we could do whatever is possible to maintain as much of it as possible for ice-skating purposes.

"Weeds and grass growing through the ice surface also make it a potential safety hazard and novice skaters are more prone to tripping and falling, thereby causing injury to themselves."

Emerson Players In 'Man In Moon'

Emerson College Strolling Players will present their new production of the musical "The Man In The Moon" at the North Quincy High School Auditorium, Saturday, Nov. 10, at 10:30 a.m. for the benefit of an international relations scholarship fund for a deserving Quincy/South Shore student.

The performance is being sponsored by the International Affairs Committee of the Wollaston Woman's Juniors Club.

"The Man In The Moon" is a whimsical space comedy set in the Victorian age. Absent-minded Professor Plantagenet Plum with his daughter, Fiona, embark for the moon in an old-fashioned balloon. They are making great progress when their balloon is boarded by two mischievous Gremlins who puncture their balloon.

Crashing on the moon, Professor Plum and Feona are forced to seek assistance from "The Man In The Moon" to insure their return to earth.

Although the Gremlins place insurmountable obstacles in their way, Professor Plum and Feona, with the assistance of the rabbit-like incomparable Phoenix, achieve their goal.

As Professor Plum and Feona take off for earth, they encounter the Gremlins stowed aboard, gleefully plying their mischief.

The Emerson College Strolling Players production contains many visual elements guaranteed to delight audiences of all ages. The production will also be accompanied by original music composed by Peter Klein especially for this season's production.

The Emerson College Strolling Players is the oldest existing touring company in the United States of America. Since its founding 55 years ago, the Strolling Players has continued to tour bringing excellent theatre to thousands of children each year.

● Along The Campaign Trail Vey Asks Reduction In Executive Sessions

James J. Vey of 11 Ruthven St., Montclair, candidate for the redistricted Ward 3 City Council seat believes there should be a "drastic reduction" of city council executive sessions.

Vey, noting that he has attended many council and budget meetings over the past two years said he favors the reduction of executive sessions "to create more democratic and informative open meetings, especially so for the incoming council which will be faced with a proposed $150 million urban renewal program.

"The people are entitled to know what is going on."

Issues of major concern, he said, are:

-An austere, yet sensible, spending program to curtail further tax increases.

-A conclusive solution to the present North Quincy High School classroom crisis.

-More cooperation with the Police Department in the fight against crime.

-Better street lighting, especially in residential areas.

-Strict enforcement of laws governing marshes and wetlands.

-Preservation of city owned land for open space. ("You cannot build land.")

-Insistence of builders and developers responsibility to the city - especially absentee landlords.

-More senior citizen housing.

Vey is a veteran of the Korean War and holder of five battle stars received while serving on the USS New Jersey.

A resident of Quincy for 22 years and a homeowner, he is married to the former Evelyn M. Donnelly. They have four sons.

Barilaro Suggests Rest-Play Area Near Lincoln-Hancock School

City Councillor Albert R. Barilaro has recommended that the land around the Lincoln-Hancock Community School be landscaped to create a rest and play area for the citizens of South and West Quincy.

Barilaro suggested to Mayor Walter J. Hannon that Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Park and Recreation Board survey the area and submit an estimate of the cost of such a project.

"Perhaps grass, trees and shrubbery could be considered with some thought given to the installation of benches, possibly tennis courts, and any other type of facility that could prove beneficial to our citizens and at the same time enhance the area," said Barilaro.

● Campaign Cardwell Proposes Referendum

Timothy P. Cardwell, candidate for Ward 3 city councillor proposes that the citizens of Quincy be allowed to hold a referendum vote on the proposed $100,000,000 renovation of downtown Quincy.

Cardwell said the city has failed to show the citizens many important facts in this vital issue "and has not stated the dangers that lie within such a massive reconstruction of the square area."

He listed the following as reasons:

- "The city will need new sewers and water lines.

- "Many homes will have to be taken for the widening of major roads in and out of the city.

- "The completion of the Upland Rd extension will make it highly convenient for shoppers to use the Braintree plaza.

- "Much business will be lost in the square area as a result of this lengthy construction project," he said.

This was proved during the building of the parking garage.

"Homeowners will definitely be subsidizing the Quincy square development and must be allowed to voice whether they desire to do so. Increased property taxes will devalue property in the city resulting in difficulty in selling homes because potential buyers will not want to pay the increased tax. The citizens should be allowed to vote on whether they wish their city to be increased by 30,000 people."

Cardwell, speaking before a group at the home of Anthony and Lucy Falco, 239 Whitwell St., said that Quincy has entered a critical period in its history where it is changing from a homeowners community to a high rise, condominium and business centered city.

Marshall Seeks Fifth Ward 2 Term

Councillor Clifford H. Marshall announces his candidacy for election to the Quincy City Council in the new Ward 2.

Marshall will be seeking his fifth two-year term from Ward 2.

Major accomplishments during the past eight years cited by Marshall:

- Construction of the Pagnano Senior Citizen Towers at the site of the former abandoned Washington School.

- Two million dollars in new sewage and drainage facilities for Ward 2.

- Purchase of Mound St. area for expansion of beach and park facilities.

- Passing of new laws regarding oil booms at waterfront facilities.

- Passing of new laws regarding abandoned boats and piers on waterfront.

- Youth centers throughout Quincy with state aid.

- Flood study that has led to federal funds through the efforts of former Mayor McIntyre and Congressman Burke.

- Major renovations to parks and playgrounds.

- Action on MDC sewage assessments, saving thousands of dollars.

- Initiated action against air polluters.

- Initiated formation of Ward 2 Senior Citizens group with the Quincy Council on Aging.

- Additional fire and police protection for Ward 2 area.

- Street lighting program to assist neighborhood areas.

- Construction of new sea wall for Avalon Beach.

Marshall said that "without the open meetings and assistance of the Ward 2 Civic Association, the Mayor's Office, City Council and City Department Heads and municipal employees, none of these improvements would have been accomplished."

Marshall said, "Citizen involvement has been one of the main assets in being able to bring government closer to the people and, in my opinion, the Ward Councillor is the closest elected official to the people. Therefore, it is my hope to continue to serve the ward and the people of Quincy to the very best of my ability."

Mullaney Notes He Regularly Attends School Committee Meetings

A house party was held for J. Thomas Mullaney, candidate for election to the Quincy School Committee at the home of James Mullaney of 11 Arthur St.

"I believe that if you are going to run for a public office that you have an obligation to try to learn as much as possible about that office," the candidate declared.

"Therefore for the last three years I have regularly attended the meetings of the Quincy School Committee. I have seen the committee wrestle with controversial matters such as the Lunch Program and Open Campus as well as deal with the routine matters. This experience will be very valuable to me if I am elected.

"I sat through most of the special meetings held to review the school budget. At the one meeting where the public was allowed to speak I was one of two people who challenged various aspects of the budget.

"I also attended one of the public sessions where the School Administration and the School Committee's attorney negotiated with the Quincy Education Association and their attorney. These sessions are held during the day, after school hours, and its difficult for me to attend them.

"I feel that if I'm elected I can be effective immediately. I will not need the one to two years that a rookie school committeeman often needs.

150 Vacancies Filled At South Shore Job Fair

Some 2,300 persons attended the South Shore Job Fair

Saturday at Quincy Vocational Technical School Gym and indications are that at least 150 job vacancies were filled as a result of it.

The Job Fair was sponsored by the South Shore Council for Full Employment and was attended by 50 companies and agencies, many of whom expressed surprise at the number of people interested in filling their vacancies.

The South Shore Council is made up of representatives of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the Norfolk County Labor Council, the State Division of Employment Security, the Quincy, Milton, Weymouth and Plymouth County Emergency Employment Programs and the South Shore Women's Caucus.

The Council plans to hold another Job Fair in the near future.

Junior College Accepting Applications

Quincy Junior College is now accepting applications for the second semester which begins Jan. 22, 1974.

Both part-time and full-time students will be allowed to enroll in all the day school programs. There will be openings for beginners and transfer students in the Liberal Arts, Business, Administration and Secretarial Studies.

Students will also be admitted into new career oriented programs such as Retailing, Early Childhood Education, and Computer Science.

Application forms are available from the Admissions Office. Classes will begin Tuesday, Jan. 22. For further information, contact Dean Salati at Quincy Junior College, 471-2470, extension 275.

Police Boys Club Babe Ruth Champs Honored At Dinner

The Quincy Police Boy's Club champions of the Quincy Babe Ruth League, were honored recently with a banquet at the Winfield House, Quincy.

A dinner was given at no charge to each member of the team by Mrs. Lena Strout owner of the Winfield House.

There were 50 guests including Mayor Walter Hannon, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Robert Woodman Commissioner of Quincy Baseball Leagues, David Rafferty President Babe Ruth League along with the families of the players.

Also present were Guido Pettinelli, president of Quincy Betterment Association, William O'Donnell president of the Memorial Awards Presented

The Quincy Babe Ruth League at its recent annual banquet awarded Paul Messina of the Quincy Police Boys Club, the Kenneth Battista Memorial Award as the most valuable player in the National League Division.

The American League winner was Paul Vespaziani of Burger King who received the Paul Grasso Memorial Award.

The Barrista award is donated by the Quincy Police Betterment Association, while the Grasso award is by the Houghs Neck Legion. Messina attends Archbishop Williams High School and Vespaziani, Quincy High School. Both were voted the award for their all round ability and value to their team and the league.

The winners of the league championship, the Quincy Police Boys Club, were presented their trophies, as were the runner-up Burger King players.

Quincy Police Benevolent Association and Coach Dick Larcy.

Three boys were honored for their contributions to the team, Chuckie LoPresti was awarded a trophy as the leading batter with a .500 average. Two pitchers, Paul Messina, who won seven games while losing only one with a .59 earned run average, and Lou Fishman with an 8-2 record and a earned run average of .72, these boys were also given trophies.

Rafferty presented second baseman Eddie Larcy with a special plaque from the league, for saving the life of a Quincy girl who fell through ice at Houghtons Pond last January.

Those receiving jackets and balls autographed by each member of the team, besides Fishman, LoPresti, Messina and Eddie Larcy were: Paul Jackmaugh, Jack Powers, John Ferris, Mike Murphy, Brian Connolly, Ron Donovan, John Andres, Richie and Mike Boyle.

Bomb Everett, 44-16Hot Raiders Meet Weymouth S. Sunday

By TOM SULLIVAN

Since North Quincy's football team lost a close opening day decision to undefeated Revere and was tied in the final seconds on a freak play by Weymouth North in the second game, it has been as good as any team in Eastern Massachusetts.

Last week the Raiders put on one of the most awesome two-way performances of any North team in years as they pulverized a usually strong Everett team, 44-16, in a Greater Boston League at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

It was North's third win in a row since those first two games and prompted Coach Ralph Frazier to say, "I feel we are the best team in our league right now." But, unless Medford can upset Revere Saturday, the Raiders will have no chance at tying Revere for the title.

Sunday North Quincy takes a day off from league competition when it meets an improving Weymouth South team in a 1:30 p.m. game at Weymouth's Legion Field. The game is being played Sunday because of college board exams which prevent the game being played Saturday morning. Weymouth North is playing a home game Saturday afternoon and Quincy is at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

North has had pretty easy sailing over Weymouth South since Weymouth High was divided into two schools. The Raiders won the first meeting, 20-0; followed up with a 31-6 win and last year romped, 30-0.

However, Frazier fears South this year and rightly so, Joe Kelly's Wildcats are enjoying their finest season since a 5-3-1 record their first season in 1970. An 8-7 upset win in the final seconds over Quincy seemed to spur Weymouth on as it followed with wins over Boston Latin, 20-12; Boston Tech, 8-6; and Abp. Williams, 27-18; a scoreless tie with Brookline and their only loss, 15-6, to Newton.

"I expect a good deal of trouble from them as our scouting reports indicate they have a well-balanced team which can score and can play strong defense," Frazier said.

North Quincy put it all together, as it completely outclassed a supposedly strong Everett team [it had a 2-1 league record and 2-2-1 overall mark and had shut out Quincy and Medford], while the first team was playing. The Raiders scored the first six times they had the ball, not giving the ball up once in the first half.

"This was just a superlative performance," Frazier enthused. "The boys were really fired up after having our Chelsea game cancelled and I think they proved today they are the best in the league. It is too bad we weren't playing Revere today."

Assistant Coach Tom Fitzgerald said, "Everyone expected a close, defensive game but I had the feeling we were going to explode after a good scrimmage last week with Malden Catholic. No one could have beaten us today."

North's backs were tremendous and the defense again was superb. The starting defensive unit stopped Everett cold as Joe Carroll, Tom Callahan, Ron Frizzell, Paul Vickers, Dennis McGuire and especially Joe Marinelli and Steve Paglierani, did a great job.

"Every single player on defense did a fine job and I honestly think Paglierani and Marinelli are as good as any tackles in the league," said defensive coach Dick Meyer. "Marinelli excelled both ways and he and Steve were amazing on defense. McGuire had his best day and it was just an outstanding performance by everyone."

The statistics in the first half while North's starters were in action show the Raiders' superiority. North netted 182 yards rushing to just 13 for Everett, had 113 yards passing [three for touchdowns] to 30, which came on a pass interference call, and had 11 first downs to two, one coming on the pass interference.

The statistics for the entire game show North with 266 net yards rushing, 113 passing four for seven and 13 first downs while Everett had 100 yards rushing, 96 yards passing and 10 first downs as Frazier used his reserves in the second half.

North took the opening kickoff and clicked off first downs and ate up nearly seven minutes as John Flynn, who had another superlative day along with Carl Leone and Paul Stephansky, scored from the one and also rushed for the points.

Everett had to punt to North's 22 and it took six plays to score again as Flynn raced 56 yards to Everett's 20 and Leone passed to Joe Carroll, back at offensive end, for seven yards and the score. Leone also passed to Carroll for the points.

Following another Everett punt Leone hit Carroll with a beautifully-thrown pass covering 46 yards and the third touchdown. Leone passed to Flynn for the points but North was penalized and this time Carl passed to Stephansky for the two points.

Following Everett's third punt, Flynn ran 31 yards to Everett's six and Rich Desmond, who played another fine game, carried three straight times and scored from the one. Paul Doherty kicked the point but North was penalized 15 yards and this time Doherty's kick fell just short.

The pass interference call moved Everett to North's 36 but the Raiders held, took over on their 32 and Leone first hit Stephansky for 17 yards, then Flynn for 43 and the touchdown. Doherty's kick made the score an amazing 37-0 at the half.

Everett was forced to punt following the second half kickoff and Leone raced 38 yards on the option play for the final North TD. Doherty again kicked the point.

That was it for the North regulars and Everett managed two scores as Doug Soule ran the ensuing kickoff past 77 yards for a touchdown and Mike Marchese took a one-yard scoring pass after a 27-yarder from Soule to big Kevin Washington.

Furnace Brook Ladies Hold 'Final Fling' Tourney

The Furnace Brook ladies held their "Final Fling" tourney last week with lunch and prizes. Low gross in the three ball best-ball event was shot by Mimi DiFenico, Priscilla O'Neill and Claire Walsh. Low net was shot by Ellie Mulroy, Alice Pagnano and Rona Roche.

Second net went to Phyllis Whitman, Rena Hodges and Marie Corayer; third net was a tie between Aileen Hoag, Pat Cugini and Mel Corbin, and Florence Eramo, Jenny Luffy and Eileen Clifford. Fifth net went to Jeanne Doherty, Rose LaHive and Ruth Wilson.

The ladies will have fun golf on Tuesdays at 9:30 a. m., weather permitting and in the event of inclement weather bridge will be played. All are welcome to play or learn the game.

Mite A's In 1st Loss won their first four games.

Dwayne Wilcoxin and Rick Reardon had the other goals and Bobby McCabe and Mike Conlon had assists.

● Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee A's Roll To 10th Straight Win

Brian Norton, Bobby Hayes and Eddie Kane went on scoring rampages last week as the Quincy Pee Wee "A" team romped over Holbrook and Duxbury to run their Bay Colony Hockey Association record to 10 straight wins, all by wide margins.

Norton had the three-goal hat trick plus an assist Tuesday (Oct. 23) in a 9-0 victory over Holbrook.

Hayes tallied five goals and two assists and Kane got two goals and five assists in an 11-0 win over Duxbury Saturday (Oct. 27).

Other scorers in the Holbrook contest were Tommy Brennan, four assists; Kevin McGrath, Robbie Craig, Brian McGilvary and Kane, a goal and an assist; Mark Messina two assists; and Hayes and Scott Richardson, a goal.

Johnny Mullin had five assists and McGrath had two goals in the Duxbury game.

Craig and McGilvary had a goal apiece and Messina, Danny Gorman, Paul McDermott and Mike Furey each had an assist.

Pee Wee A's To Play In Boston Garden Nov. 18

The Quincy Pee Wee "A" team, undefeated in 10 Bay Colony Hockey Association games, will play in Boston Garden Nov. 18 as part of a hockey program for the benefit of the Massachusetts Children's Lobby.

The feature game of the card will put the New England Junior All Stars, coached by Bobby Orr, against the Repentigny Olympics of the Montreal Metro Junior League.

Squirt, Pee Wee and Bantam teams also will be on the program, which starts at 2 p.m. under the sponsorship of Orr, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Gov. Francis W. Sargent.

In addition celebrities of television, radio, press and public will clash in "Humor Hockey."

A limited quantity of general admission tickets, at $2 per person, are available at the Quincy Youth Hockey Rink on Sea St.

Richie Stevens' Hat Trick Not Enough For Squirt B's

Richie Stevens fired a three-goal hat trick and the defense pairs turned in their finest game of the season but the Quincy Squirt "B" team fell before the Natick "A" team, 6-5, in an exhibition ho-key game.

Jimmy Seymour, Mike

Sullivan, Mark Tenney, Brian Sullivan, Chris Gorman and John Toland were outstanding on defense.

Danny Boyle and Mike McNiece each had a goal and an assist and Kevin Ryan had an assist.

Midget B's Win, 7-1

Dennis Bertoni fired two goals and Jim Coffey and John Gallagher starred in the nets as the Quincy Midget "B" team downed West Bridgewater, 7-1, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game last week.

Steve Neville, Pat McAuliffe, Walter Pimental, Pat Downing and Jackie Powers got the other goals for Quincy, Joe McConville had two assists and Paul Lynch one.

Bertoni Leads Bantam A's Into Colony 1st Place

Sharpshooting Brian Bertoni led the Quincy Bantam "A" team into undisputed possession of first place in the Bay Colony Hockey Association last week with a pair of victories, the eighth and ninth of the season.

Bertoni fired the three-goal hat trick to spark a 6-0 win over Holbrook Wednesday (Oct. 24) as goalie Jeff Nord chalked up his third shutout of the season.

Bertoni collected a pair of scores Saturday (Oct. 27) in a 6-1 decision over Duxbury as a goal with only 2:54 remaining spoiled Nord's bid for a second straight shutout.

Matt Schaeffer, Dave Previte and Tommy Cahill also had goals in the Holbrook game.

Johnny Cooney and Mark Giordani each had two assists while Cahill, Richie Troy, Jackie Cronin and even goalie Nord had one apiece.

Troy, Giordani, Cooney and Johnny Mitchell also scored against Duxbury with assists going to Schaeffer 2, Troy, Cooney, Giordani and Rick Dannar.

Quincy, with a 9-0 record, took over first place as Canton lost its first games of the season, 2-0, to Scituate.

Harte Leads Mite B's Over Columbia, 6-4

Joe Harte had two goals and Paul Marshall had a goal and two assists as the Quincy Mite "B" team edged Columbia, 6-4, for its fourth straight Bay Colony Hockey Association victory.

Mike Riley, Chris Harrington and Dickie Tapper also had goals while assists were credited to Billy Campbell and Chris Hurley.

Squirt A's Bow, 5-4

Sunday for their first Bay Colony Hockey Association defeat after three wins and a tie. Robby Zanardelli and Bobby Beniers got the other goals and assists were chalked up by Neil Shea and Michael Quigg.

Quincy To Host Chelsea Saturday

Quincy and Weymouth North will be league rivals next year when Quincy and North Quincy enter the Suburban League and Quincy Coach Hank Conroy expects the rivalry to be one of the best in the league.

When Weymouth had one high school its rivalry with Quincy was among the best in the state and it has remained the same since the start of the two-school system four years ago.

Weymouth North has proven a stubborn rival for Quincy as has Weymouth South, which this year upset the Presidents for the second time in the four year series.

Quincy had never lost to Weymouth North but had some great games, winning the first game between the two, 14-13, and the second, 29-26. Last fall Quincy won by a 21-8 margin.

But last week Weymouth North, winner of only one previous game, edged Quincy, 7-6, in a bitter defensive struggle which saw all the scoring in the first two series of plays.

Saturday Quincy returns to Greater Boston League action when it hosts an improving Chelsea team at 1:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Presidents could have trouble with the Red Devils, who last week upset Malden, 22-12, for their first win. Previously Chelsea had lost to East Boston, 12-6, in a non-league game and to Medford, 27-6; unbeaten Revere, 28-12, and Somerville in the final seconds on a blocked punt, 7-0.

"Weymouth just defended us well and they hurt us with a blitz in the second half," a disappointed Conroy said. "We had our chances but twice they stopped us on third down situations and we just failed to take advantage of our opportunities."

Wayne Ponder ran the opening kickoff back 87 yards for the Quincy score and Conroy feels this could have hurt the Presidents. Following the touchdown Kim Derbes, a sure-footed kicker, kicked wide for a rare miss.

Weymouth came right back as Fred Loud raced 54 yards to tie the score and then kicked the winning point.

After that exciting start, the game developed into a battle of the defenses.

"Our defense did another good job and Rich Joyce, who had another intercepted pass, Bob Pettiti, John Riggs and Steve Burke played well defensively," Conroy said. "Paul Riggs, playing for the first time, saw only limited service but did well and it looks like he is coming along."

Ponder ran well again and Robin Carrera had another good day at quarterback. Conroy singled out Bob Benn, Mike Varras, who had a good a good game both ways, and Bob O'Neil for their work on the offensive line.

KEOHANE'S BASEBALL TEAM won the Quincy Junior League championship from Houghs Neck in the title series. Front, Rich King, left, and Johnnie Keenan. Second row, Johnnie Newcomb, Mattie Keenan, Tom Mullin, Dave King, Bobbie Biagini and Andy Carrera. A.N. Soccer Champs Close Season Today Against All-Stars

The Quincy Junior High Soccer League will bring down the curtain on another season today (Thursday) when Atlantic-North's champions face the all-stars from the other four teams at 3 p. m. at the field behind Veteran's Memorial Stadium.

Leo Donovan's Atlantic-North team, which had previously clinched the league title after Sterling had won four successive championships, extended its perfect streak to seven games last week with a 3-1 win over Point.

Matt Schaeffer, the league's top scorer, scored all three A-N goals, while Bob Salvati scored for winless Point.

Central nipped Sterling, 1-0, on John Golub's goal.

Going into this week's final games, Schaeffer led the scoring with nine points, followed by Ken Norton of Broadmeadows with five, Lou Avitable of Sterling, Brian Morrissey of Atlantic-North and Golub with three each.

Fitzpatrick Scores 5 As Bantam B's Win

Jimmy Fitzpatrick fired five goals and goalies Darryl DiCristofaro and Kevin Cotter combined for their fourth straight shutout as the Quincy Bantam "B" team walloped Hingham 12-0 in Bay Colony Hockey Association action Saturday.

Fitzpatrick also had an assist and Mark Paolucci had a goal and four assists for Quincy.

Other multiple scorers were Dave Peters, two goals and an assist; Johnny Norton, two goals; Mike Wilson, a goal and an assist; and Dave Lewis and Rick Carnali, two assists.

Mark Kelly had a goal and Paul Higgins, Jim Triglia and Paul Cooney each had an assist.

In non-league play Wednesday (Oct. 24) Quincy dropped Pembroke, 5-3, as Mark Neville assisted on three of the goals.

The goal-scorers were Carnali, Norton, Kelly, Mike Marks and Mike Storer.

Marks, Fitzpatrick, Paolucci and Jimmy Moore had assists.

Central's 7th Graders Still Undefeated

Central Junior High's seventh grade football team remained undefeated last week with a 14-6 win over Point.

Mike Oriola and John Cahill scored the Central touchdowns with John Norton adding the points. Vin Lorenzano had Point's score.

Central's eighth graders won, 14-8, with Steve Germain scoring the first touchdown and Wink Phelan adding the points. Point tied it on Sean Gillis' touchdown and Pete Niosi's conversion and Rich Themmen scored the clincher for Central.

Central's ninth graders completed a sweep with a 26-12 win. Pat Gibbons, John Brick, Carl Bergstrom and Dave McDonnell were the winners' scorers with Dave Moran adding the only conversion. Ed Daley and Sal Coscia scored the Point touchdowns.

Sterling's ninth graders topped Broadmeadows, 18-0, with Paul Vallanini, Mark Buchanana and Joe Horan scoring the touchdowns.

Sterling's eighth grade defeated Meadows, 14-0, as Bob Wojchichowski scored the first touchdown and also made the conversion. Marc Merilis made the second touchdown.

Meadows seventh grade team prevented a sweep by winning, 8-0. John Connolly scored the touchdown and Jack Campbell the conversion.

Atlantic-North's teams swept three games from Point.

The ninth graders romped, 32-0, sparked by Mike Adams' two touchdowns, one on a 22-yard run. Art Bertoni, Eddie McElaney, Jerry McKenzie also had touchdowns and Brian Donaghey added the only conversion.

The A-N eighth grade won, 14-0, with Tom McElaney scoring a touchdown in each half. John Wilkenson converted after the first score.

The seventh graders completed the sweep with a 6-0 win on Kevin Cobban's touchdown on a 35-yard run.

Towle Scores Hat Trick As Blue Team Wins, 7-4

Defenseman Dave Towle got the hat trick and Bob Hayes and

Al McKay scored twice and assisted on three as the Blue Team defeated the Gold Team 7-4 in Quincy Executive League action at the new Quincy Youth

Arena. Dave Hickey was also credited with an assist. Gold tallies were by Bill Flanders, Tom Roberts, Joe Cuniff, and Jim Sullivan with Roberts getting three assists.

The Red Team moved back into First Place by defeating the Greens 5-1 with Red goals by Dick Reinhardt, Charlie Duffy, Ralph Freeman, Kenny Halloran, and Gary DeCoste.

Two Red assists were credited to Freeman and one each to Jim Deitch, DeCoste, Halloran, and John Hurley. Bob O'Connell got the lone Green goal unassisted.

Central Girls Pace Basketball

Going into this week's games Central varsity and junior varsity teams led the Quincy Junior High girls' basketball leagues with 5-1 records.

The varsity remained in first place with a 29-19 win over Point. Jackie Little had 10 points for the winners while Debbie Rousseau had eight and Linda Dauphinee six for Point.

The Point junior varsity handed Central its first loss, 16-14, paced by Ellen Doucette's eight points. Janine Mudge had seven and Nancy Smith four for Central.

Sterling's varsity walloped Broadmeadows, 29-9, as Leah DePolo scored nine points and Marion Squatrito had four and Mary Wiedemann three for Meadows.

BM took the junior varsity game, 17-5, to move closer to Central with a 5-2 record. Terry O'Brien had seven points for BM and Paula Constat played well for Sterling.

Atlantic-North's varsity team stayed right behind Central as it defeated Sterling earlier in the week, 18-15. Margie Dow had 11 points for A-N and Lois Malvesti had six for Sterling.

Atlantic-North's junior varsity also won, 16-12, with Lisa Sullivan scoring six points and Margaret Shea having a fine all-around game. Lillian Callahan scored five for Sterling.

Point's varsity romped over Broadmeadows, 39-17, as Lisa Salvaggio and Kathy Sarno combined for 16 points and Mary Wiedemann had six for Meadows.

Broadmeadows junior varsity nipped Point, 15-13 with Lynn Powers netting seven points for BM. Ellen Doucette was outstanding for Point.

Home-Coming Weekend Starts Tonight

The annual Archbishop Williams High School Home Coming week-end will begin tonight [Thursday] with a home-coming dance, in the school gymnasium, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.; a parade, and football game on Sunday.

Seven seniors have been elected by their classmates as finalists one of whom will be selected the 1973 home coming queen. They are:

Christine Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Baldwin of Scituate; Theresa Bradley, daughter of Mrs. John Bradley of 32 Lancaster St., Quincy; Mary Ellen Breen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Breen Jr., of 57 Samoset Ave., Quincy; Lynne Colby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Colby of Holbrook;

Donna England, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick England of 5 Channing St., Wollaston; Janice Garity, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Garity of 138 Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy; and Kathleen O'Connell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connell of 49 Glover Ave., North Quincy.

The girls will be presented to a panel of five judges, made up of two past home-coming queens and airline stewardesses. As each girl is presented, a resume of her life, including scholastic accomplishments and participation in school activities, will be read. Based on this, the new queen will be chosen by the judges.

On Sunday, the culmination of Homecoming Week-end will be observed with a motorcade parade from the school to the football field at 1 p.m. The parade will be led by the St. Thomas More Drum and Bugle Corp of Braintree, followed by the Archbishop Williams Cheerleaders, the six candidates and the new queen.

The homecoming football game between Archbishop Williams and Malden Catholic will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the Archbishop Williams home field, Storrs Avenue, Braintree.

Half-time activities at the game consist of the presentation of the new homecoming queen of 1973.

The Men's Association of the school and the Senior Class have extended a special invitation to the alumni of the school to participate in all homecoming activities.

'The Crosier' Wins NESPA Award

A highly-prized journalism award has been won by Archbishop Williams High School for its 1973 edition of THE CROSIER.

The award, given by the New England Scholastic Press Association, cited superior achievement in scholastic editing and publishing.

Dan Kudzma, faculty advisor, noted the untiring efforts of the student staff, and attributed much to the advice given by Mrs. Marie Shack, head of the school's Fine Arts Department.

The coveted award, is given yearly by the NESPA to that school whose yearbook or annual is considered outstanding among secondary schools.

Student co-editors were: Suzanne Forde, and Barbara Donovan.

Several Hundred Parents At Abp. Williams Meeting

Several hundred parents of students currently enrolled in Archbishop Williams High School participated in a three-purposed meeting sponsored by the school's Advisory Board.

Ken Kerr served as co-ordinating chairman. The agenda consisted of a presentation by the administration updating parents on current school matters, an explanation by the Men's Association and one by the Women's Guild.

Sister Catherine Looby, Principal, clarified school status in three areas: faculty, enrollment, finances. She noted that there is intercommunity staffing, with five different orders represented. They include Sisters of Charity of Halifax, Sisters of Charity of New Jersey, Sisters of St. Joseph, Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, and Sisters of Charity of Nazareth. Twenty-two lay members complete the faculty. She explained that the school budget, based on last year's figures, depends on incoming tuition for solvency. The enrollment of 804 is at a desired, controlled figure because of space accommodation.

The Men's Association, represented by Thomas Halpin, explained its purpose which is primarily to support extra-curricular activities, especially a broad-based athletic program. Mrs. John Kearney spoke for the Women's Guild.

Student Council Underway

Student Council activities at Archbishop Williams High School give evidence of much promise for the 1973-74 scholastic year.

A student directory, compiled by members of the Council under the leadership of Joseph Yanikoski, a senior, from Braintree, has been printed and is available to the student body.

Plans are under consideration for the yearly food collection made at Thanksgiving - a project entered into by each homeroom. Other officers include Mary Ford, a senior from Quincy, vice-president; Kathy Gwynn, a senior from Milton, secretary, and Marie Looby, a sophomore from Braintree, treasurer.

8 Churches To Take Part In Bethany Choir Festival

Eight church choirs have indicated they will participate in the second annual Choir Festival to be held Sunday evening, Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center.

The choirs and their directors include: Pilgrim Congregational Church, Weymouth, Giles Hazard; East Weymouth Methodist Church, Mrs. Thomas Blakeley; Wollaston Baptist Church, Professor Robert Brown; Atlantic Methodist Church, Mrs. Donald Moulton; Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Arden Schofield; Covenant Congregational Church, Miss Diane Platt; Union Congregational Church, Lawrence Yerdon; Bethany Congregational Church, Lambert Brandes.

Each choir will sing one anthem of its choice and, under the direction of Professor Brown of Eastern Nazarene College, will combine in six selections: "Alleluia" by Thompson; "Helig, Helig, Helig" by Schubert; "Psalm 150" by Franck; "Come Let's Rejoice" by Carapetian; "The Eyes of All Wait Upon Thee" by Berger; and "Fa Una Canzona" by Vecchi.

The public is invited to attend.

Choir directors wishing information may call Mrs. Barbara MacFarlane at 773-1360 (PSSB office).

First Parish Service Sunday Portrays Lives Of John, Abigail Adams

In recognition of the 238th anniversary of the birth of President John Adams, the 10:45 a.m. service Sunday at United First Parish Church [Unitarian], Quincy Square will honor the second president of the United States and his wife with a dramatic portrayal.

President and Mrs. Adams are buried in the crypt of the church.

"John and Abigail Adams: A Personal Portrait" is taken from their letters and correspondence. Featuring David Harrison and Frances Vodola, Rev. John R. Graham will serve as narrator.

"We tend to think of John and Abigail Adams as cold and aloof. Yet, from their correspondence comes a totally different picture of these people," said Rev. Mr. Graham. "Their deep affection for each other and their never-ending concern for the country is nothing less than moving."

The portrayal covers the period from 1774 to 1777, the time when John Adams was in Philadelphia at the Continental Congress and Abigail was at home in Braintree, now Quincy.

The program is under the direction of Nell Slawson of the United First Parish Church.

St. Joseph's CYO Starts 'Charlie Brown' Rehearsals

St. Joseph's CYO, Quincy Point has started rehearsals for its production of the musical "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown".

Under the direction of Deacon Jerry Hogan, tryouts were held for the six "Peanuts" characters and the following cast was chosen:

Bruce Perry [Charlie Brown],

Patti Myers [Lucy], Mike McBride [Schroeder], Steve Alfano [Snoopy], Karen Doherty [Patty] and Marty Grant [Linus].

Performances will be Dec. 10 - 11 at the Lincoln Theatre, Washington St., Quincy Point.

DIVISION OF WATER POLLUTION CONTROL

LEVERETT SALTONSTALL BUILDING
100 CAMBRIDGE STREET
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS 02202

PUBLIC NOTICE OF PROPOSED ISSUANCE OF SEWER EXTENSION PERMITS

The Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control is proposing to issue Sewer Extension Permits to the municipalities listed below in accordance with the provisions of Section 43 of Chapter 21 of the General Laws, as amended by Chapter 546 of the Acts of 1973.

In addition, Sections 61 and 62 of Chapter 30 of the General Laws requires all agencies of the Commonwealth to consider the impact on the environment of all their activities and to use all practicable means and measures to avoid damage to the environment. Accordingly, the Division has prepared Environmental Assessment Forms for each of the Sewer Extension Permit Applications being considered for issuance, which indicate that the proposed sewer extensions will have no significant adverse impact on the environment.

The proposed permit determinations and Assessment Forms are available for inspection and copying at the Division's offices at the above address. Persons desiring to comment upon or to object to the proposed permit determinations or the Assessment Forms or to request a Public Hearing thereon are requested to submit their views in writing to the Division at the above address within 30 days of publication of this notice. All comments received within this 30 day period will be considered by the Division in formulating the final permit determinations regarding these applications.

Burke Calls For Renewed Efforts To Educate Youths About Drugs

Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George Burke, has called for a renewed effort by parents and community to communicate and educate young people about the ever present dangers of drug abuse and associated crime."

The youth offender's future and chances for rehabilitation are ruined because of apathetic parents and uninvolved communities, Burke stated.

In a conference with his Drug Educator-Counselor staff the district attorney strongly emphasized that while the many responsibilities of his office to prosecute crimes and defend the public welfare and safety of Norfolk County are absolutely essential, there is still a greater need to prevent the young citizens from breaking the law. This can only be accomplished by total community effort to communicate and help youth in every possible way, he said.

Burke singled out several towns that have cooperated with his seven year effort to inform the public of the increasing threat of drug abuse. He also strongly admonished parents and towns that have done nothing or little to fulfill their responsibilities.

"We have gained much ground in the drug prevention area", Burke said "But we must now give an even greater second effort of positive action to meet the complex needs of today's youth."

Burke rededicated the services of his drug unit to serve Norfolk County both day and night to assist communities in every area of education, counselling, training and communication.

He said he is confident that community leaders will cooperate with this new spearhead to strengthen young Americans in their maturing to productive citizens.

Those seeking assistance are asked to call Thomas Hughes at the District Attorney's Drug Unit at 326-7810.

21 Applicants For 2 Assistant Principalships

The Quincy School Department is interviewing 21 applicants this week to fill two openings for the position of assistant principal at Sterling and Point Junior High Schools.

Most of the applicants are from inside the Quincy system. The vacancies were created by the death of Frederick Whittaker at Sterling and the promotion of Paul Breslin of Point to the post of principal of Sterling.

The interviews are being conducted by Jack Osterman, assistant superintendent for personnel, and the Learning Management Team of the Quincy schools.

THE PACE SETTERS: Hannon, Tobin, Sweeny, Harold, Lydon, Barilaro

Council, School Races Close

Tuesday's preliminary election has set the stage for red hot ward council and school committee races in the Dec. 4 finale.

A surprising 39 per cent [19,204] of the city's 48,838 registered voters went to the polls. A lean 28 per cent turnout had been forecast.

Mayor Walter Hannon, 41, breezed to a second term nomination, polling 11,110 votes. Mrs. Grace E. Saphir, 57, member of the Quincy Conservation Commission got 5,997 to nail down the other nomination. George A. Trubiano, 49, was third and out with 1,690.

Ward council battles for three open seats highlighted the action Tuesday.

Paul Harold, 24, legal researcher and journalist, topped the four-man Ward 1 field with 1,491 votes. Leo J. Kelly, 40, a barber, was second with 1,325. Eliminated were Atty. Matthew J. McDonnell, 31, with 662 and Robert Denvir, 43, with 461.

In Ward 3, John J. Lydon Jr., 32, a funeral director led a six-man field with 1,061 votes. But right on his heels was John T. Ricciuti, 43, part owner of a monument company with 990 votes—just 71 behind.

Eliminated in Ward 3 were James J. Vey, 509; Walter J. McCarthy, 442; Timothy P. Cardwell, head of the Quincy Taxpayers Revolt, 435; and Emery C. Fontaine Jr., 316.

Incumbent Albert R. Barilaro, 56, an inspector for the State Lottery and father of the controversial redistricting plan was top man in Ward 4 with 1,016 votes.

But James A. Sheets, 37-year-old Quincy Junior College professor proved to be the big surprise, taking the second nomination with 744—a scant 272 votes behind Barilaro.

Sheets edged third man, Thomas P. Hughes, 34, considered the strong contender, who got 675. Behind him were Herbert Reppucci, 385; Andrew J. Veneto, 270 and Ronald Halter, 119.

Halter said he will seek a recount. Asked on what grounds, he replied, "because I know I got more votes than that."

Council President-Senator Arthur Tobin, 42, topped the at-large field with 12,385 votes. He was the top vote getter on the ballot-out pulling Hannon by 1,275.

Special Voter Registration For Dec. 4 Final Election

Additional voter registration sessions for the Dec. 4 first city election will be held on four days starting tonight [Thursday] and running through next Wednesday at six different locations throughout the city.

Tonight's session will be from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse, Nevada Rd., Quincy Point; the Wollaston School, Beale St.; and the Bridley Bryant School, Willard St.

Incumbent Joseph J. LaRaia, 40, was a strong second to Tobin with 10,111. Incumbent John J. Quinn, 49, was third with 8,506.

Mrs. Helen M. McDonnell, 55-year-old housewife took surprise honors in the at-large race, finishing fourth with 5,560. Behind her was Councillor Theophilus McLelland, shuffled out of Ward 3 by the redistricting plan who decided to run for at-large. He polled 4,755.

The sixth at-large nomination went to Robert L. Foley, 44, an engineer who polled 3,394. Eliminated was Raymond G. Viens, who had 1,269.

Incumbent Charles T. Sweeny, 56, topped the School Committee ticket with 8,365. J. Thomas Mullaney, 38-year-old cost analyst finished an impressive second with 8,137—228 behind. Incumbent Frank F. Anselmo, 73, was third with 7,310.

John J. Sullivan Sr., 54, a retired federal mediator, was fourth with 6,675. Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe, 28, a newcomer, was fifth with 6,374 and Bryant L. Carter, Jr., 22, an accountant got the other nomination with 4,466. Eliminated was Sydney M. Ober, with 2,711.

There were no council preliminary contests in Wards 2, 5 and 6. However, these candidates will square off in the runoff Dec. 4:

Ward 2 - Clifford H. Marshall, 35, incumbent and a state representative; and Patrick J. Faherty Jr., 55.

Ward 5 - Warren A. Powers, 32, an assistant district attorney; and Michael J. Peatridge, 20, a student.

Ward 6 - J. Vincent Smyth, 53, incumbent and a liquor store proprietor; and Dennis E. Harrington, as assistant district attorney.

Quincy's preliminary election had been an on-again, off-again affair for months after the city had been ordered by a federal court judge to redistrict.

Ordinarily, Tuesday's election would have been the final election day keeping in step with the rest of the cities in Massachusetts.

Now, however, Quincy's final election will not be until Dec. 4 when the other cities in Massachusetts will be thinking of Christmas.

Saturday, Nov. 10 - City Hall, Council Chamber, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Monday, Nov. 12 - Quincy School, Newbury Ave.; and Wollaston Methodist Church, Beale St., both 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Wednesday, Nov. 14 - City Hall, 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Nov. 14 is the last day on which new registrations can be accepted.

Ordinance Change

Shoppers Can Now Park Free On Friday Evenings

By DICK MATTULINA

Shoppers can now park for free in downtown Quincy, North Quincy and Wollaston on Friday evenings, thanks to an ordinance change passed unanimously by the City Council Monday.

The amendment, brought in with approval from Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall's ordinance committee, allows fee-free parking on Fridays from 6 p.m. on.

It means shoppers may park free at meters and legal no-metered spaces.

In other election eve action, the City Fathers:

• Appropriated $26,220 for two sets of pedestrian traffic lights.

• Requested prompt mayoral action on the installation of handrails at the Beale St. Bridge, Wollaston.

• Approved an expenditure of $700 for two X-ray pass boxes at Quincy City Hospital.

At the urging of Ward 3 Councillor Theophilus McLelland, Mayor Hannon sent in a last-minute budget item for $8,000 to install lights at the intersection of Kendrick Ave., Verchid & Franklin Sts., South Quincy.

McLelland said pedestrian lights were needed at the heavily traveled intersection to allow South Quincy children access to Adams School and Faxon Park.

The expense would be small, he said, in light of the more than $100,000 spent to develop the park.

The issue arose as the council was approving an $18,220 appropriation for lights at Hunt and Hancock Sts., North Quincy.

Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth said pedestrian lights should have been placed there when the North Quincy MBTA station was built.

Traffic Supt. Edward Lynch said the expense is 100 per cent

Quincy Receives $52,404 For Flood Damage

Quincy has received the final installment of $52,404.82 from the Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency for damage caused by the storm and flooding of Feb.

18-20, 1972.

The total paid the city was $103,687.82, federally funded under the Disaster Relief Act of 1970.

Notification of the final check was made to Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] by Louis F. Saba, coordinating officer for the Civil Defense Agency.

Fire Dept. Capability Under ISO Study

A team of engineers from the Insurance Services Office of Boston are in Quincy for three weeks to study the ability of the Fire Department to cope with the local fire potential.

The survey, made periodically, will include studies of the water supply system, fire department operations, fire communications, fire prevention and the building department.

Previously, the surveys were made by the National Board of Fire Underwriters and the American Insurance Association. It is made at no cost to the city.

30-Foot, 3,500 Pound Sculpture At Voc-Tech School

A 30 foot high, 3,500-pound sculpture in steel has been completed by the school system's artist-in-residence John Raimondi and seven Vocational-Technical School students.

The sculpture was moved Wednesday by crane to the 48-acre farm of James and Tracy Spates at Penn Yan near Geneva, N.Y. The Spates' commissioned the work which is to be titled JAT (for Jim and Tracy).

The Quincy Vocational-Technical School is the first Vocational School in the country to be selected to work with an artist-in-residence under a program jointly funded by the United States Office of Public Education, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the Massachusetts Council on Arts and Humanities.

Raimondi, along with his assistant, Stephen McPheters, has been given working space at the Vocational-Technical School and has the use of tools needed to sculpt works that he has been commissioned to provide. He furnishes all of the necessary materials and Quincy students have the opportunity to work with him on selected projects.

Raimondi describes the JAT sculpture as a "secure, solid piece that demands - public participation". The structure, he explains, is completely climbable and even has perching spots along its 30-foot height.

SCULPTURE IN STEEL - The 30-foot, one-and-three-quarter-ton sculpture, entitled JAT for Jim and Tracy Spates, the people who commissioned the work, rests on its loading platform of Quincy Vocational-Technical School prior to its being shipped to New York to the Spates family.

The sculpture will be formally unveiled at the Spates' home Nov. 11. Raimondi, along with Metals Fabrication teacher Robert Trott and students Jay

S.S. Masonic Lodges

Sponsoring Bloodmobile Nov. 10

South Shore Masonic Lodges, in conjunction with the Greater Quincy Red Cross Chapter, will sponsor a bloodmobile Saturday, Nov. 10 at Masonic Temple from 9 a.m. to 1:45 p.m.

Loren Strout, Blood Donor Recruitment Chairman for the Wollaston Masonic Lodge is the co-ordinator for this visit.

Strout is planning a musical extravaganza with the famous Taleb Grotto Band, under the direction of Walter Smith. This musical organization has won National Honors. The band will play from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in front of the Masonic Temple, and hopefully will attract donors.

Members of the Rainbow and DeMolay will add to the festivities by marching with appropriate placards to also assist in getting more blood donors.

Strout is requesting donors who desire appointments to contact him at 471-5457.

WJDA, Sun, Inez Silverstein, Community College Assn. Win Awards

The Quincy School Committee presented its first four community service awards during the school system's Heritage Day.

Recipients were Mrs. Inez Silverstein of Quincy, radio station WJDA, The Quincy Sun, and the Community College Association of Quincy Junior College.

The citizen's award presented to Mrs. Silverstein by School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley said:

"For your profound interest in nurturing the seeds of international understanding through the Amity Aide Program of the Quincy Public Schools for the past four years, the Quincy School Committee is honored to present you with this token of recognition of your humanity to man.

"Your personal efforts in bringing visitors from other countries into the fabric of the American home serves as an inspiration to us all."

The Business Award presented to WJDA said:

"For promoting better community understanding of the policies and programs of the Quincy Public Schools, through the programming of WJDA, the Quincy School Committee is proud to present this recognition of excellence in the field of broadcast journalism.

"Your involvement demonstrates once again the inseparable role that members of the business community must play in the promotion of the welfare of the community in which we live."

The business Award, presented to The Quincy Sun, said:

"For your exceptional interest in the youth of the Quincy Public Schools as evidenced by your news articles and feature columns, the Quincy School Committee is pleased to present this award for excellence in the field of print journalism.

"Your actions in seeking out positive commentary about young people is an outstanding demonstration to them of the responsiveness of the media to community concerns."

The Community Service Award, presented to the Community College Association, said:

"For outstanding service in fostering the intellectual and career aspirations of the young men and women of Quincy and the South Shore through the promotion and implementation of programs at Quincy Junior College, the Quincy School Committee is pleased to present this symbol of the achievements of your organization."

"May this award cause us all to reflect upon the beneficial effects that your decisions have created in the minds and actions of our young people."

Colors To Be Retired At HN Post Open House

A formal retirement of colors will be a feature of the Nov. 11 open house planned by Houghs Neck Legion Post at the Post Home, 1116 Sea St., commencing at 2 p.m.

The public is invited to view the demonstration of flag-burning ceremonies, and to inspect the newly-decorated Post Home.

Robert Clarke, Alexander Crombie, William Morrill and Edward Dickie are chairmen for the event, with the assistance of Commander Willard J. Timcoe.

John J. McNally has been appointed junior vice commander of the Post to fill the unexpired term caused by a vacancy.

SCHOOL AWARDS - Community service awards were presented by the Quincy School Committee to The Quincy Sun, radio station WJDA, Mrs. Inez Silverstein of Amity Aides, and the Community College Association of Quincy Junior College. Receiving the awards from School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley (second right) at a luncheon in the School Committee chambers are Henry Bosworth, publisher of The Quincy Sun; Mrs. Silverstein; and James D. Asher Jr. of WJDA. The luncheon was hosted by School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence Creedon.

UW South Community Division At 30% Mark

The South Area Division of the United Way Campaign, is second highest in the community divisions, collecting to date $60,179 or 30.1 percent of the community division goal.

South Area, which includes Quincy and 21 communities with its 30 percent is 13 percent higher than collections reported at this time last year, Timothy Linehan, South Area chairman, said at the third report luncheon at the Sheraton Boston Hotel, Boston.

Linehan, reporting for community divisions chairman John Sullivan, said that the community divisions totals, including, south area, north and central areas is $293,920 or 25.2 percent.

Campaign chairman George

B. Rockwell urged all volunteers to maintain the pace of the drive so that victory will be assured at the final meeting Nov. 15.

The goal is $14,500,000. Mr. Rockwell reported 51 percent collected to date.

Burke Warned Of Fuel Oil Crisis

Note: Following is a copy of the text of the broadcast, "Meet The Member" conducted by nationally known commentator Joseph McCaffrey. The subject of the commentary is Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] and the Oct. "Meet The Member" broadcast was carried on WMAL Radio, Washington, D.C. The text follows:

Over the years James Burke of Milton, Massachusetts warned repeatedly of the dangers of a fuel oil crisis. In the last 12 months even those who scoffed have now lined up behind the Democratic Congressman.

A year ago Congressman Burke took the floor of the House to warn that the fuel oil crisis not only concerned New England, but the entire nation. At that time he filed legislation which would authorize emergency importation of oil into the United States. But as he said at the time the Nixon Administration failed to listen to the warnings of Congress.

In the Spring of 1972 the Congressman met with officials of the Administration and told them that if the Federal government waited too long, it may be too late to avoid a supply crisis.

Mr. Burke is also the co-sponsor of the Burke-Hartke Bill which seeks to protect the American workman against a flood of foreign imports.

The Burke-Hartke Bill has several sections, including one which concerns the operations of the multi-nationals overseas.

Said Mr. Burke, "As part of the need for re-examining tax loopholes, it seems to me absolutely incumbent upon this Congress that America's treatment of income earned by multi-national corporations be subject to re-examination. At a time when Congress is encouraging investment at home through such devices as investment tax credits and liberalized accelerated depreciation, it seems to me we should ask ourselves how we can justify subsidizing to the tune of some four billion dollars a year investment overseas by our multi-national corporations.

"If capital is so scarce, if American industry has just not kept up its investment in research and development to the extent necessary to make American technology truly competitive in the world today, if America desperately needs investment in pockets of high unemployment in depressed areas such as Appalachia, how can we possibly justify to the American people their subsidizing to the tune of four billions a year investment overseas?"

Congressman Burke, who is a member of the vital Ways and Means Committee, is seeking to change the way taxes are collected for Social Security. He would use the same system which is now operating in many other countries, only assessing the employee one-third and the employer one-third and having the other third financed from the general revenue.

Said Mr. Burke, "Young citizens entering the work force today are faced with 40 years of regressive taxes by paying 50 percent of the Social Security taxes, and small business and industry is suffering under this tax by making up the other 50 percent."

Mr. Burke fought for legislation which would prevent the Veterans Administration from cutting back veterans pensions when Social Security benefits were increased. Mr. Burke told the Veterans Affairs Committee that 1.2 million veteran pensioners have received reduction in their pensions, while 15,000 pensioners suffered losses of up to 168 dollars in annual income when the Social Security benefits were increased.

Mr. Burke has served in the Congress since his election in 1958. During World War II he served as a special agent in the Counter Intelligence in the Pacific Theater. He is a member of the committee which is seeking to design a system which will give Congress better control of the budget.

- War In The Oil Fields?
- Coming Attraction: The Milktapes
- Sailors And Wild Goats

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The desert sands of the Arab countries hold the life blood of the great western industrial nations. A complete cutoff of oil this winter would force Western Europe and Japan virtually to shut down their industries. The United States would be critically short of oil to heat homes and operate automobiles.

Yet Arab leaders are threatening to continue the oil embargo against the West until Israel evacuates all the Arab territory it seized in 1967. Secret intelligence reports tell of pledges of "solidarity" between the Arab nations to use their precious oil as a political weapon.

The National Security Council is urgently studying how to deal with the crisis. We can report that one decision has been made. The United States has no intention of letting the Arab nations shut down factories around the world and create mass unemployment.

Contingency plans are being prepared to use military force, if necessary, to take over the Arab oil fields. This, of course, would be the last resort. First, the United States would seek the oil by every possible peaceful, commercial method. If these should fail, the United States probably would use financial pressure and freeze the billions of dollars in Arab bank accounts in the West.

But military action is a definite possibility if the Arab leaders remain intransigent.

The Milktapes: A new battle is brewing over some other White House tapes. Two meetings were held at the White House on March 23, 1971, one in the President's oval office, the other in the cabinet room. Attending the meetings were dairymen, who were seeking an increase in dairy subsidies.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin had refused to increase milk price supports. He was supported by budget boss George Shultz. But Nixon's friend, ex-Rep. Pat Hillings, wrote a letter to the White House in behalf of the dairy industry, promising to raise $2 million for the 1972 Nixon campaign. In the same letter, he pleaded the case for higher dairy subsidies.

Two days after the dairymen talked to the President, the White House ordered the Agriculture Department to increase milk price supports 27 cents for 100 pounds. This

White House order was worth an estimated $500 million a year to the dairy industry.

Senate investigators are now trying to find out whether the dairy lobby contributed to the Nixon campaign in return for a pledge to increase dairy subsidies. This could be construed as a bribe.

Hardin has refused to discuss the matter with the investigators. As the former secretary of agriculture, he is claiming executive privilege. But the real showdown is expected to come over the White House tapes. The dairymen's discussions inside the White House, presumably, were recorded. The investigators now want the tapes.

Allies at Odds: This was supposed to be the Year of Europe, the year we would bolster our relations with our European allies. Today, the Atlantic Alliance lies in tatters.

The Atlantic partners are bickering bitterly over the Middle East war. President Nixon complained in a press conference that our European friends weren't cooperating in seeking a settlement. This brought a sour crack from British Prime Minister Edward Heath, picked up by the Central Intelligence Agency, that Britain refused to rush arms to the front and lengthen the war.

Our European allies were particularly upset over the worldwide military alert that Nixon ordered without consulting them. The North Atlantic Council, which is supposed to coordinate military strategy, complained that its generals learned about the alert from the Associated Press.

The President petulantly told reporters that Western Europe would have frozen to death this winter if the alert hadn't been ordered and Russia hadn't held back its troops from the Middle East. France's President Georges Pompidou was quoted by the CIA as saying privately that Western Europeans would have frozen to death faster if they had followed the U. S. policy which made the alert necessary.

Germany's Chancellor Willy Brandt, meanwhile, objected vigorously over the transfer of U. S. military equipment from Germany to Israel at a time when West Germany was trying to maintain neutrality in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

1973, apparently, isn't going to be the Year of Europe after all.

Of Boats and Pigs: The men who run the Pentagon like to pose as tireless public servants who devote their time to safeguarding the nation's security. But the brass hats also spend long hours in the solemn study of more pedestrian problems.

The Navy thought it would be interesting to find out, for example, about the drinking habits of its men. So a few weeks ago, a study was ordered. The sailors were asked why they drink, when they drink, and how often they get "high or tight."

On the West Coast, however, the Navy is more concerned about the goats and pigs on San Clemente Island. Contractors have been asked to submit bids "for the round-up and removal of approximately 5,000 feral goats and approximately 800 feral pigs" from San Clemente Island.

San Clemente Island should not be confused with President Nixon's San Clemente estate. The island is located about 50 miles off the Southern California coast. There are no goats and pigs roaming over the President's property.

The animals on the island, the Navy informed the contractors, "roam free in the unoccupied and canyon areas." The man who gets the job will be required to "remove (the) goats and pigs alive in accordance with humane methods and procedures."

So while most brass hats are occupied with the Middle East crisis, some are worried how to catch wild goats and pigs on San Clemente Island.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The ward redistricting confused a lot of voters and in the early stages cost a few candidates some money.

They were ready to roll early and had campaign literature printed. Then, after redistricting, they found themselves running in a different ward.

But even this week, two of the ward council candidates still give you an idea of how confusing it has all been.

John Sullivan, candidate for School Committee, notes that John Lydon running for the Ward 3 council seat has his headquarters located on Hancock St., near Beale St., in Ward 5.

And, Michael Peatridge, candidate for Ward 5, has his headquarters set up on Newport Ave., Wollaston, in Ward 3.

No wonder most of Quincy's voters stayed home rather than go to the polls this week.

REASON FOR THAT big smile Norfolk County Commissioner George McDonald is wearing: he's a grandfather. Daughter, Eileen, and son-in-law Paul Cronin are the parents of their first child, Michael. And grandmother, Sheila, is happily spreading the news.

TUESDAY's election was the "swan song" for Ruth Pabst, principal clerk in the city election department and one of City Hall's real nice people.

Ruth is retiring after 14 years service to the city, the last 10 in the election department. She and husband, Joseph, have moved to Orleans.

Ruth, incidentally is the sister of Ken Coleman, "Voice of the Red Sox" and Bill Coleman who is also well known for his radio and TV work.

IF THE UCT has a sweetheart, it would have to be Mrs. Ethel Fallon. At the Wollaston Council's social the other night at Quincy Masonic Temple, she had more people stopping by her table to say hello than anyone else in the hall. She's a real UCT gal, too. Her husband, Kenneth Fallon, Sr., was a member of the Supreme Board of Governors. And her son, Ken, Jr., of WJDA fame, was Supreme Counselor [International President] in 1970-71.

NICE TO HEAR that Rt. Rev. John J. Allston, former long-time popular pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, is out of the hospital... And here's wishing a speedy recovery to Russ DiMatteo, Quincy Motor Co. salesman, who is a patient at Quincy City Hospital.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Rotary Club newsletter: Improperly named? It's strange that people call money "dough" or "dough sticks" to your fingers. How about "grease" or "oil" because it sure slips through your fingers these days.

TYPO TERROR DEPT: From the Gainesville [Fla.] Sun:

The crisp wafers that result are an intriguing substitute for a hot bread at lunch or dinner."

SMILE DIPT: "The Insider", published by inmates at the Norfolk County House of Correction, says this is an excerpt from an actual letter written to the Welfare Department: "...I have already wrote to the President and I don't hear from him or you, I will write to Uncle Sam and tell him about you both."

Youth Speaks Out

● Since only about 30% voted last Tuesday, obviously the other 70% won't complain about anything for the next year or so.

● Bumper Sticker - Visit San Clemente - You Paid For It.

● Overheard after Class Pictures came out: I'll trade you two Class Presidents for one Best Figure.

● President Nixon is still blaming the Media for his problems, which is like blaming the mirror for your face.

● Want Ad: Temporary Position [probably a matter of weeks], willingness to cooperate with boss, firm hand, willingness to fire people - Apply Attorney General's Office.

● It's amazing how time flies. Last year was 1972 and now it's 1984.

Q - I purchased a used car recently from a private individual who had advertised in our local weekly newspaper that the auto would be sold "as is". One week after the sale, the car broke down. Now my mechanic tells me that it needs a new or rebuilt engine before it will run again. Do I have any legal recourse in order to get my money back?

A - While used car dealers cannot sell a car "as is", the law does not apply to business transactions between private parties. However, if your car failed to pass the inspection sticker test within seven days of the purchase, you are entitled to a refund if the repair costs exceed 10% of the cost of the car. For example, if you paid $800 for the car and the cost of safety repairs exceeds 10% [$80.00] of the amount you paid, you can notify the seller that the deal is off by taking the car back with the written estimate of repairs. He must give you a refund. If any difficulties arise, check with the Automobile Section of Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn's Consumer Protection Division.

Q - I recently leafed through some mail order catalogues and was very surprised. Many of the items looked too good to be true—especially at the incredibly low prices advertised. I ordered a few things, but when they arrived they did not resemble those pictured in the catalogue. I plan to return the merchandise, but I'm curious—is this a common practice?

A - Deceptive advertising is illegal in Massachusetts and products offered for sale must live up to the catalogue description. If you like to buy by mail, read the ads carefully. Before sending any money to a mail order company, consumers should know what they are buying—they should also keep a copy of the ad, a record of the items ordered, and the date the coupon was sent.

Congratulations On Community Service Award

Editor, Quincy Sun:

May I take this opportunity to congratulate you upon your receiving the New Community Service Award for your outstanding contribution to the youth of our city.

In these troubled times it is necessary, now more than ever before, for community involvement. It is people like yourself, who spend the time and take the interest, that make our city a better place in which to live.

You are to be commended for your concern.

'Coping With Depression'

Like most Americans I am caught up in our state of National emotional depression. There have been many economic and political crises in our history ... but none that have struck so severely at the very foundations of our constitutional government. At the very highest levels of our leadership we have experienced deception ... burglary ... enemy lists ... illegal actions in the name of national security. I have no doubt but that our nation will survive. But there is a severe psychological toll being exacted from the people ... in the hearts of all thinking citizens. Perplexity ... confusion ... suspicion ... DEPRESSION have swept over our people.

The Wall Street Journal has called depression the "disease of the 70's." It seems to have become epidemic ... even reaching all levels of our society. Most of us have enough personal problems to cause us to be depressed. We didn't need the additional burden of this national crisis.

One author defines DEPRESSION as "a belief in one's own helplessness." It's caused by such things as the loss of love ... rejection ... separation from loved ones ... financial worry ... failure ... growing old. No one is immune. In the face of some of these facts of life it is little wonder that one may feel helpless ... and therefore depressed. The danger is that our frustration in coping with our obstacles may prevent us from even making the effort to cope.

While the individual citizen may feel helpless to effect an immediate change in the national scene he can cope with his/her personal problems. I make the following suggestions ...

First ... believe that YOU CAN

DO SOMETHING about your own situation ... no matter how bad the events which have depressed you. Almost everyone who has experienced a broken marriage suffers from depression. Nobody enters a marriage expecting it to fail. Wedding Day is a happy day. The friends ... the flowers ... the gifts ... the rings which have inscriptions engraved inside like ... "one life - one love" are all tokens of the good faith that we have all known. Yet ... nearly a million divorces took place last year and the rate is steadily increasing. If you are in that 2,000,000 number ... re-orient your life ... look at your strengths to rebuild ... don't succumb to a belief in your own helplessness. It isn't the end of the road.

Second ... BE ADULT ... not child in COPING with your situation. Let reason prevail in your life ... not your tears. So many of my patients make their greatest growth as persons in TIMES OF SUFFERING. They read ... evaluate ... ask why? ... and formulate new attitudes for positive action. Depression is the belief in one's own helplessness. Positive action is the belief in one's own personal worth.

Thirdly ... HANG ON to the TRIED and TESTED VALUES of love ... truth ... honesty ... privacy. A few corrupt leaders can't defeat those lasting virtues. Apply them in your own life diligently. They still work. You can overcome your depression.

FOR YOUR COMMENTS: FOR GROUP THERAPY ... PRIVATE COUNSELING ... HIS NEW BOOK "People Are For Loving" ... write Dr. Knox at 320 Washington Street, Norwell, Mass., or call 659-7595 or 326-5990.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

How Do You Follow A Bill?

A citizen interested in a specific bill called the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone to find out how she could follow the progress of this bill on a regular basis.

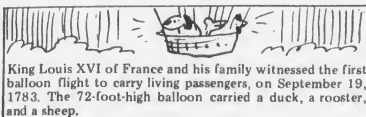

She was told that a printed schedule of the business to come before the session each day, known as Orders of the Day is available in the document room of the State House about an hour before the session begins. Copies in proof form may be seen earlier in the Clerk's offices.

The minutes of the proceedings of House or Senate sessions are available in journal form with roll call included three days after the sessions.

Copies may be read in proof form early each morning following the session in the offices of the Clerks.

If you cannot get to the State House it is best to call your legislator and ask him to keep you informed. Or you can call the House or Senate Clerks office for further information.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

King Louis XVI of France and his family witnessed the first balloon flight to carry living passengers, on September 19, 1783. The 72-foot-high balloon carried a duck, a rooster, and a sheep.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS She likes dating married men

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst
Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I have been divorced for 10 years. During my first two years of dating after my divorce, most of my dates were anxious for marriage. This idea did not appeal to me, so I stopped dating singlemen and found safety in dating only men who were solidly married. I am 45 years old, and am still satisfied with this way of life.

B.F.

Dear B.F.:

No man who plays the cheating game is ever solidly married. And, for sure, there's no "safety" valve attached.

You are naturally attractive to men — your appeal is strong. You make no mistake about impressing them by your appearance. Your attire is always just right for the occasion. The flourished capital I says that your sense of the show is pronounced, but in good taste.

You behave in a dignified manner and never deviate from what is socially acceptable, seen in the retracing of the t's and d's. You like to be active, clearly indicated in the loops in the p... always agile and graceful, seen in the rhythm throughout your writing.

As seen in the "too tall" t's and d's, you thrive on personal exaltation. Because of this self-elevation, then, there's a gap between you and reality. Your eyes cannot see the little things that make the world go 'round — like love and hope and trust.

Your way of life may be satisfying to you now — but the odds are strictly against you. If you continue to heat the boiler of self-gratification by tapping into "solid" marriages, expect the big explosion!

D.J.

Selected letters will be answered through this column. A free handwriting chart of some common basic personality traits may be obtained by writing to Dorothy St. John Jackson, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Enclose long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

THINK PRETTY

Mrs. Lanvin loves husband's perfume

By PEGGY WALKER
Copley News Service

"I like the idea of wearing a perfume all the time so it gets into my skin, my clothes, my hair, my bedroom."

Maryll Lanvin, 30-year-old wife of Bernard Lanvin of the French House of Lanvin, has a generous philosophy about perfume.

She uses it lavishly — as the wife of the director general of Lanvin might, to create a total atmosphere.

With an almost limitless supply at hand, Maryll Lanvin pours half empty bottles of perfume into her bath for luxurious bathing.

She uses an atomizer to scent the air of her boudoir, her hair brushes (rather than her hair) and she even sprays perfume in the small sports car she drives in Paris traffic.

In addition, her servants know to spray all sheets and pillow cases lightly with eau de toilette before ironing them.

"Of course it's luxurious," said Mrs. Lanvin. "But then it all depends on how you want to spend your money."

"Some people put their money into food or horses. I prefer smelling nice."

The slender, brunet said her favorite is Via Lanvin, first perfume Lanvin has introduced since 1925 when Arpege and My Sin made their debuts.

Shopping OK, but not sampling

By PAT and
MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I can't understand you! You are constantly telling people to shop around before marriage. You seem to think that a person has to date dozens of people in order to make a decision.

My husband is the first person I ever dated seriously and I am perfectly happy. I have a 24-year-old son and wish he would find a nice girl and settle down. He comes in at 3 or 4 a.m., and you and I both know this is not right.

Why not you encourage people to marry instead of discouraging them?

Mrs. D.S.

Dear Mrs. D.S.:

I still believe in the shop-now-buy-later principle. I've never encouraged sample-now-decide-later!

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My best friend has been dating George for over a year. They had some minor disagreement and George called me. He said he had a problem to discuss with me. Of course, the problem concerned Sandra. He said she didn't understand him and that it was all very upsetting.

We had a few drinks while talking and one thing led to another — if you know what I mean. George has never called again and is now dating Sandra and planning to be married. I feel like a fool and find it difficult to face either George or Sandra. How should I handle this?

K.C.

Dear K.C.:

In complete silence! You cannot undo what has been done. No mistake is without value if you learn from it.

Employment outlook bleak for mature women

A study by the Ohio State University for the Labor Department's Manpower Administration revealed that the unemployment rate for women 40 through 64 in 1972 was one-third higher than for men of the same age.

Of the 415,000 women 45 or older reported unemployed in 1972, about 18 per cent had looked for work for six months or more. — CNS

By GENA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Accent continues on personal activities and ambitions. Don't let pressures make you thoughtless with mate and associates. Take time out to relax through recreational pursuits. Resist depressive attitudes.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Take care of duties and responsibilities now. Finish up what is in progress instead of starting something new. Resist all impulse buying — plan a long range budget and stick to it. Plan professional future too.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Use this high energy period to meet situations in an honest, straight-forward way. Resist tendency to be domineering. Give consideration to budget affairs, allowing for holiday gift buying coming up soon.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 21 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Start to activate your secret ambitions now. Curb tendency to "do nothing." Ill persons and shut-ins would benefit from a visit by you. Put your best foot forward in the work areas — superiors are impressed.

MARILYN BANNED
A calendar of photographs of Marilyn Monroe has been banned as objectionable and undesirable by the South African Publication Controls Board. — CNS

LEO: (July 22 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Use this time to complete projects that are in process. Research and study are favored. Solicit cooperation from co-workers, instigate better work procedures and superiors react favorably. Nurture friendships.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Nervous energy can propel you into error through thoughtless action. Take your time and make careful plans before acting — especially regarding money. Loans you make to friends may not be repaid.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Bring realistic approach to creative ideas for best results. Probable opportunity for meeting socially prominent or famous people. Artistic person met now could benefit your career. Join hobby groups.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — You can "get it all together" this week — attitude toward life, goals, etc. Make necessary changes in procedures at work. Use ideas from co-workers. Attend to bookkeeping matters. Be realistic.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Take a "seat on the sidelines" to observe life and the actions of others — you will learn much. Keep up with new ideas in professional field. Read contracts, legal documents carefully for possible errors.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Lazy, "wool-gathering" mood is temporary — get lots of rest and guard health. Partnership relations are emphasized. Control your temper, stay calm and cool. Weekend is good for group discussions.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Activities quiet down now. Good time to "get things under control," catch up all the loose ends. Help associates with their projects. Don't let discussions with mate or partner degenerate into arguments.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Recognition for past efforts could come to you now. Meetings with work associates are favored. If health matters have been neglected, take care of them now. Your influence is widening — establish important contacts.

Men's discovery of wigs hailed

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin: My husband just bought a hair piece that blends with his own hair (what's left of it). It's surprising the number of people who ask him to take it off so they may examine it closely. What should he reply to such requests? — Rug Wearer's Wife

Dear Wife: He should give them the name of the store where he purchased it. I hope he doesn't think he's fooling any of his close friends. The acid test comes when he meets strangers who never saw his bald pate. I think it's great that men are now discovering what women have known for years, and as more and more of them are seeking the services of plastic surgeons, wearing hair pieces and using hair dyes, the novelty will soon wear off. Do you remember the first wigs offered to women at a reasonable price? They were dreadful things at best but now we have an array of postiches, falls, full wigs or minipieces that we wear with a casual air. I venture to guess that within a few years men will be changing their hair as easily as they change their tie.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I am 16 years old and my boy friend is taking me to a nice restaurant for dinner to celebrate my birthday. I've never been to such a place before. What should I say when I want to go to the ladies room? — Ann A.

Dear Ann: You merely say, "Please excuse me for a minute." No explanations are necessary. Should you need directions, ask the head waiter as you leave, "Where is the ladies room, please?"

Dear Mrs. Tobin: My mother wants to give me a baby shower for my second child. Don't you think this is greedy? — Peggy L.

Dear Peggy: Mothers NEVER give any sort of shower for their daughters. This is the prerogative of close friends. Showers may be given for a second and even a third and fourth baby. However, bridal showers are limited to the first time around.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: You recently answered a question about the correct way to wear a ring with a family crest. What about class rings? — Lu N.

Dear Lu: The design of the ring is worn toward the wearer.

Questions on etiquette may be mailed to Riv Tobin, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Woodward Fall Fair To Feature Many Items

The annual Woodward Fall Fair will be held at the school Saturday, Nov. 17 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Included will be the regular booths provided in the past: boutique, home bakery, plantland, white elephant table, christmas decorations and used books plus three new additions—the foreign bazaar, featuring individually chosen gifts from several continents, a student booth with items made by members of all classes and a country store which will sell home made candies of all descriptions, cider, apples, cheese, etc.

The boutique will stock hand made gifts including pine cone wreaths and plaques, driftwood arrangements, crocheted handbags, toys and animals, mittens, tree decorations and stocking stuffers. These articles and many more are being contributed by mothers who make them at home and/or who attend work sessions at the school on Wednesday morning and in the evening.

This latter group includes Mrs. Paul Brouillard, Mrs. William Berberan, Mrs. Donald Currier, Mrs. Donald Brake, Mrs. Eugene Judge, Mrs. Alfredos Krisiukenas, Mrs. Gaspar LaRosa, Mrs. Alexandra Moriarty, Mrs. Uno O'Jennos, Mrs. Sylvia Sanchez, Mrs. Robert

Shine, Mrs. James Spillane, Mrs. Phillip Sullivan and Mrs. Edmund Vaino. Many alumnae also are working on items for the fair. Mrs. Donald Currier, Alumnae President, is in charge of their contributions.

The drawing for a Home Music Center will take place at 4 p.m. on the day of the fair. The Annual Supper will be held in the school cafeteria at 6 p.m. under the joint chairmanship of Mrs. Ripley Keating and Mrs. Donald Sargent.

Proceeds from the fair and the drawing will be used for scholarships, equipment and building improvements.

Salad is important part of the meal

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

The salad portion of the meal is far too often a monotonous combination of less than crisp vegetables unimaginatively presented and flavored. Is it any wonder, then, that this part of the meal receives cold acceptance?

A salad is a very important part of the meal, contributing valuable minerals and vitamins. Therefore, it should receive the same careful consideration given to entrees. Vary it with new and different seasonings and ingredients which will lend enhancement to flavor and eye appeal.

The salads featured today are guaranteed to do just that. One calls for artichokes, which are available almost the year around.

ARTICHOKES STUFFED

WITH

GREEN PEA SALAD (Makes 4 servings)

- 1 1/2 cups mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon each: pepper, dill weed, oregano, dry mustard
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen green peas, cooked according to package directions, drained and cooled
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

- 1/4 cup sweet pickle relish
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 4 artichokes, prepared as directed for stuffing and chilled
- Pimiento strips

Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice and seasonings; set aside. Combine peas, chopped egg, pickle relish and onion. Add enough of the mayonnaise mixture to moisten, about 1/2 cup. Stuff the prepared artichokes. Chill until ready to serve. Garnish with strips of pimiento and serve with remaining mayonnaise mixture for dressing.

SALADE DE LEGUMES ET FRAISES (Vegetable and Strawberry Salad)

- 1 head western iceberg lettuce
- About 1/2 unpared cucumber, sliced
- 1/2 cup corn oil
- 1/4 cup white vinegar
- 2 tablespoons slivered orange or lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon crumbled peppermint
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 1/4 cups halved strawberries

Core, rinse and drain lettuce; chill in plastic crisper or bag. Cut enough cucumber slices into strips to yield 1 cup. Mix oil, vinegar, orange rind, sugar, salt, pepper, peppermint and onion in jar. Cut lettuce lengthwise into halves; place cut-sides down and shred finely across heart to yield 4 cups. Toss shredded lettuce in bowl with cucumber, strawberries and dressing. Spoon into compotes and serve at once.

Makes eight servings.

Skillet Dinner Features North Carolina Yams

Some of the best tasting dinners are achieved by cooking everything in one pan. Now that's an idea that will make any cook smile. Here is a special recipe from the Tarheel State that combines fresh, moist, flavorful yams with juicy pork chops and tart-sweet apples.

Right now, luscious yams from North Carolina are in excellent supply in your market. Important energy foods, they are rich sources of vitamins A and C. To preserve yams at their best in nutrition and flavor, boil or bake them in their skins. They will peel easily at the slight pressure of the fingers or a knife. You can count on yams for fine flavor and good nutrition at reasonable cost in today's meals.

North Carolina Yam Pork Chop Skillet

- 4 medium yams
- 4 loin pork chops, about 3/4" thick
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh onion
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 large apples

Scrub yams. Do not pare. Cook, covered, in boiling water to cover for 10 minutes; drain. Cool and pare; cut in halves lengthwise. Brown pork chops on both sides in oil in large skillet. Move chops to one side of skillet. Add onion and brown slightly. Arrange chops evenly in skillet. Arrange yams over pork chops. Combine water, brown sugar, salt and pepper; pour over chops and yams. Cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes. Cut apples into quarters; remove cores. Add apples to skillet. Cook, covered, 15 minutes.

Makes: 4 servings.

Annual Corporators Workshop Specialists Give Views On Future At Weymouth Savings Forum

The annual Corporators Workshop Forum sponsored by the Weymouth Savings Bank was held Oct. 30, at the Weymouth Eagles Hall, East Weymouth, with a panel of specialists in banking participating.

The panel was introduced by George H. Thompson, president of Weymouth Savings Bank, who cited "the chaotic economic conditions in our country today."

Thompson noted that this was the 10th year that the Weymouth Savings Bank has sponsored a program of this type, the first one in 1964.

Rate regulations, price controls, disintermediation, N.O.W. accounts, mortgages, securities, the economic outlook and inflation were the topics discussed. Co-operative banks, commercial banks, savings banks and the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston were represented on the panel.

Charles A. Pearce, president, Quincy Savings Bank and president Massachusetts Savings Bank Association, served as moderator. The panel members included:

Robert L. Blair, Chairman of the Board, South Shore National Bank and past president Massachusetts Bankers Association; Robert Eisenmenger, senior vice president, Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, economist and director of research; John H. Guluzian, president Home Savings Bank and past president M.I.N.T.S.; James M. Howell, vice president, First National Bank of Boston and Chief Economist in Business Research; Everett P. Pope, president Workingmen's Co-operative Bank and past president

Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League.

The more than 100 guests enjoyed the lively discussion and debate by the panel members on the current banking trends and economic conditions affecting the economy. More than 40 local banks were represented on the invited guest list, as well as business and community leaders and representatives from the real estate field, and the corporators, trustees and employees of the Weymouth Savings Bank.

Pearce said that the future for small banks was in merging with other banks and consolidation. Eisenmenger, commenting on the economy, said he expected 1974 to be a year with no serious recession, but with slower growth than 1973.

Pope said he felt the time had come when the role of the Federal Reserve Bank should be changed so the co-operative banks and thrift institutions could do business directly with the Federal Reserve Bank.

Blair said that, in his opinion, the differential and rate ceilings between commercial banks and savings banks would disappear in the next five years.

Howell, who is chief economist for the largest bank in New England, indicated he felt the economy could be in for some trouble in the months ahead.

Guluzian, who has been very interested and active in the N.O.W. accounts and the M.I.N.T.S., maintained that savings banks had to continue to offer a wide variety of services to meet the demands of the consumer, and that thrift institutions would continue to be the consumer's bank.

Open Meeting On Hospital, West Quincy Dump Nov. 12

Open meetings on hospital 'ambulatory capability' and plans for the West Quincy Dump will be held Nov. 12 at the City Council Chambers.

The sessions with the subcommittees on Disposal and Dumping and Health, Education and Welfare will be chaired by Ward 3 Councillor Theophilus McLelland.

Recent proposals for the dump, including construction of an incinerator and opening the facility to other communities will be discussed at 7 p.m.

At 8:30 p.m., McLelland will present a report he has prepared dealing with uses of the accident room and clinics at Quincy City Hospital.

City Council In Special Tribute To Edmund Ferry

The City Council paid tribute Monday night to Edmund Ferry, 73, for his work with the Council on Aging and Division of Employment Security.

In the past two years, Ferry has placed more than 400 Quincy Senior Citizens in full and part-time jobs as a special agent at Employment Security.

He was escorted to the podium by Council on Aging

Director Putnam S. Borden and John J. Quinn, dean of the City Council, for a surprise reading of the resolution honoring him.

Ferry's "transition at the age of 73 from entertainer" to employment counselor "aptly demonstrates the ability of senior citizens to adapt" to a new career, according to the resolve.

A letter drafted by Councillor-at-Large Joseph J. LaRaia was forwarded to Mayor Hannon on behalf of the nine-man board concerning the Beale St. Bridge near Wollaston MBTA station.

LaRaia asked that handrails be installed on both sides of the bridge "before the winter sets in.

"This area has proven within the past year to be very dangerous to the elderly, to the youngsters and to others passing this location," he said.

Hospital Board Chairman Leslie M. Brierley told the council of the need for two x-ray "pass boxes" at Quincy Hospital.

The boxes, costing $350 each, are used to forward x-rays in darkness into the developing room.

Council Asks Return Of Veterans Day To Nov. 11

Mayor Hannon and the City Council have petitioned the Legislature to return Veterans' Day to Nov. 11.

The resolve, introduced by Ward 6 Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, asks that a State decree "become effective on Nov. 11, 1974".

Smyth said he shared a concern with many Quincy residents that Congress can "so easily remove from history such an important date in the formation of our country."

He said he believes Veterans Day should be celebrated on Nov. 11, "The anniversary of the armistice ending World War I." The state House of Representatives has passed a bill to change the holiday back to the original date.

The bill is now in the Senate Ways and Means Committee, whose vice chairman is City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

Assist In Elementary Schools Tutoring Program Helps Potential Teachers

By LAURIE BOYETT

The tutoring program was established by Mrs. Braman, North Quincy High guidance counselor, to give high school students the opportunity to find out whether or not they want to become teachers.

The students are able to work with elementary aged children. The students work with the child that needs extra help, so the teacher can work with the rest of the class.

The tutoring program is strictly voluntary. The students that have double studies or a seventh period study can tutor. Mrs. Braman lets the students pick their own school. She feels that if they have to take a school they don't want, then they might not be as enthusiastic, so she lets them pick the school they want to tutor in.

One of the benefits of the tutoring program is, if the student decides to go into education, she can use the teacher as a recommendation.

I interviewed two kindergarten teachers in the Parker Elementary School who have some of our students as tutors. They all said the girls were a "fantastic help" with the children. They said the children in that age group have very short attention spans and with the tutors there the children can spread their attention from the teacher to the different girls. One teacher said she wishes she had had this opportunity when she was in High School.

The teachers enjoy the company of the girls too. If the teacher needs to leave the room for a moment, she can leave the children to one or two of the tutors.

In essence, this program has benefited the tutors, teachers and most of all, the elementary school children.

Following is a list of students involved in the program:

Ellen Bernasconi, Laura Boyett, Carole Bruso, Elizabeth Burke, Mariane Byk, Kevin Cahill, Debbie Coffey, Deborah Galarneau, Doreen Hurley, Carol Irwin, Karen Joy, Beverly King, Susan Levine, Denise Lynch, John Lynch, Carol Magan, Robin McCastor, Kathy McEachern, Diane McQueney, Patricia Molloy, Cynthia Newton, Barbara Rhlinger, Kathleen Sullivan, Karen Venezia, Janet Walgreen, Mary McCoy, Beth Langodimos.

Tennis Film Being Shot

By MIKE STRICKLAND

There is a new instructional movie being made at Atlantic Junior High School which is about tennis.

The movie is a Super 8m and lasts about 20 minutes.

The film, which was made at the Longwood Tennis Club in Brookline, includes Miss Murray, one of North's English teachers, and features a shot of Billy Jean King. Miss Murray also narrates the film.

The purpose of this movie is to try to motivate young people to play tennis. It will be shown to students in all of the elementary and junior high schools, and both Quincy and North Quincy High.

80 Anthropology Students View Plimoth Plantation 'Dig'

By BRIAN STACK

On Tuesday, Oct. 30, approximately 80 North Quincy High Anthropology students, with their teachers, Ms. Marjorie Bollen, and Bernard LaCouture, visited Plimoth Plantation to get a closer look at what an archeological "dig" is, and what one produces.

Dr. James Deetz, of Brown University, the resident archeologist at the plantation, spoke to us about his work, and showed a film. The film, entitled "Colonial Six", showed scenes from a June, 1966, dig, under the direction of Dr. Deetz, which produced the remains of the Kingston home of the son of William Bradford, Massachusetts first governor, and one of the Mayflower pilgrims.

Also excavated, were numerous pieces of silverware, pottery and two matchlock ball molds.

The group then toured the plantation, a replica of the first pilgrim settlement, established in 1620. The present site of Plimoth Plantation is not the original. The first pilgrim settlement was located nearby. However, the plantation has been reconstructed in an area almost identical to the original.

Dr. Deetz directed our attention to a posthole house, which was being built by carpenters in pilgrim dress, using only tools which would have been available to the pilgrims in 1620.

A post-hole house, as the name states, is built by placing four heavy corner posts in four-foot deep holes. The remainder of the house is then built, it's entire weight being supported by the four corner posts. A thatched roof is then added by a skilled thatcher.

The group was then taken to the research lab, where artifacts which had been excavated in recent digs were being processed.

The visit concluded with a question and answer period, during which Dr. Deetz answered questions concerning the Mayflower pilgrims, and their way of life. The students returned to school with a better understanding of the work of an archeologist, and the way the pilgrims lived.

Manet To Have New Look

By KATHY SCHAFER

North Quincy High School's year-book, The Manet, is going to have a new look.

The Staff has been meeting every Monday and Wednesday. Many plans for the year-book have been made.

The staff includes Editor-in-Chief - Kathleen Sheehan; Art Editor - Kathleen Roach; Sports Editor - Mitchell Blacker; Business Manager - Patricia Bleehen; Director of The Directory - Kathleen Schaffer; Director of Selling - Denise Beresiewicz and Director of Ads - Phyllis Petkun.

The year-book will be a 9" x 12", one volume book with 184 pages, with a 16 page supplement. Included in the main edition will be faculty, senior pictures, class superlatives, pictures of sports and clubs and the directory. Pictures of the Senior Prom, spring sports, Semi-formal, graduation and the Tri Show will make up the supplement. The year-book will feature Seniors only. There will be no underclassmen portraits.

The cover will be a gold Yakoo with black trim on a red cover. This is the first time in many years that the cover has been in the school colors.

In the Senior Section, there will be eight pictures to a page. Next to the students pictures will be sayings of their choice. The sayings can be quotes from great people, parts of poems or songs, or anything that they want to say.

For the students who have not filled out Directory Forms they should come to room 404 before or after school on Mondays or Wednesdays. It is imperative that you fill out one of these forms.

If you don't, the only thing that will appear in the directory is your name. Students who want to make a change in their forms please come to room 404 on Wednesday, Nov. 13, 1974 at 2:30.

This is the only time that you will be able to make a change.

If there are any businessmen who would like to put an ad in the 1974 Manet please contact, Ms. Phyllis Petkun, c/o Mr. Henry Pelletier, North Quincy High School, 316 Hancock St., North Quincy, 02171.

Health Education Study Major Step

By DONNA GRANARA

The School Health Education Study Program represents a major step forward in establishing health education in high school.

in the intricate process of growing and developing. This program helps a student know a health problem when he comes across it. Mr. Fitzgerald feels that the students need this program.

It is sequentially developed through behavioral objectives. It is also adaptable to all school systems. The curriculum is concerned with the student physically, mentally, and socially.

It also attempts to aid the student in becoming well adjusted in society. This concludes that interrelation exists between physical, mental, and social dimensions of health

Mr. Fitzgerald tries to make his class as informal as possible and to make it an open discussion so that students may voice their behavioral and social attitudes. This year Mr. Fitzgerald plans on discussing various diseases and drugs, and also to talk about safety and nutrition.

QSO, Ballet Group In Young Peoples Concert Nov. 17

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra and the Metropolitan Civic Ballet Center of Newton will present a Young Peoples Concert Saturday, Nov. 17, at 10:30 a.m. in the North Quincy High School Auditorium.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, and can be purchased at the door.

The Metropolitan Civic Ballet Center is a community ballet center which offers performance opportunities to serious dance students until they are ready to become professional. Its director is Marjorie E. Medland, performer and dance teacher in the Boston area.

Robert E. Brown, Director of Music at Eastern Nazarene

College, is the conductor of the Quincy Symphony. The Symphony is a community orchestra with members from many communities in the Boston area. Members of both organizations range in age from pre-teenage through adult.

The Young Peoples Concert will feature a discussion of ballet by Miss Medland and will include selections from "The Nutcracker" by Tchaikovsky, "Les Patineurs" by Mayerbeer, and "Overture Classique" by J. S. Bach. Future performances by the Quincy Symphony will include a Winter Concert Feb. 12, the annual Youth Performs concert April 9, and a Pops concert May 22, 1974.

Lawrence Frates Exhibit At North Quincy Library

Lawrence Frates of Quincy will show his paintings in the North Quincy Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library through November.

The exhibit consists of 20 drawings and paintings done in Central and Southern Portugal. Shown are scenes from Quateria in the Algarve, the Thieves Market of Lisbon, Rest Time in Faro, and many more. The paintings as a group depict the colorful and quaint life of the small country on the tip of the Iberian Peninsula. The paintings predominately watercolor cover a one month stay in that country.

Frates is Art Instructor at Braintree South Junior High School, and has also served in

MONEY TALKS

The Federal Reserve is playing 'wild-card' games

By Philip J. Lawrence
President

COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association of Quincy and HOLLBROOK
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

It is no secret that since last July there has been a serious "run" of savings out of the nation's savings and loan associations. This has not been caused by a lack of confidence in these institutions; actually, their public image has never been stronger.

The culprit in this situation is none other than the Federal Reserve System, which last July 5 decided to remove the limits on interest paid on four-year savings deposits under $100,000.

The effect of this "wild-card" in the game of regulating the nation's interest rates has been to cause a stampede which sent savers scurrying. Even the Government got into the "gold rush" by offering short-term Treasury bills at extraordinary rates.

Principally, however, the banks were the recipients of "wild-card" dollars. While the savings and loans were recording unprecedented savings declines in the ensuing months, the banks nationally showed a jump in four-year $1,000 savings deposits from $871 million on July 25 to $2.73 billion on September 12, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

It was a rate war that the savings and loans could not win. By law they are restricted in their investments principally to home mortgages. In many states, including Illinois, usury laws restrict home loan rates of interest to under 8 per cent. Banks, on the other hand, are permitted a wide range of investments and could find returns of 10 per cent and more on the savings dollars they attracted.

"So what?" the average person might say. "Too bad for the S & L's." The trouble with this viewpoint is that everyone gets hurt. Consider that the savings and loans are the major source of funds to finance home purchases and that the home building industry is one of the nation's largest.

of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board: "If housing collapses next year, it could take the whole economy down the drain with it. For housing, which directly affects such industries as appliances, furniture and plumbing fixtures, cuts a much wider swath through the economy than even autos."

A similar opinion is expressed by Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders: "If something isn't done quickly, you're going to see a 40 per cent decline in home building, and that will drag everything else down with it. It could mean a sizable recession."

Many associations across the nation, from the largest down, have been forced to announce that they had absolutely no funds for lending. Says John Wetmore, research director of the Mortgage Bankers Association, "About all the money that remains available in the mortgage market now is reserved for old friends and important customers."

If the Federal Reserve Board's purpose in this "wild-card" policy was to dampen inflation, there has been an opposite effect. The cost of financing has risen sharply. The average cost of homes has increased $6,000 this year.

Happily, Congress has stepped in to put a stop to what one commentator calls a "Texas-style poker game." A resolution, which passed both houses on October 3 and 4, forces the Federal agencies to place ceilings on all classes of consumer savings accounts and certificates. After the experience of the past three months, the Federal Reserve Board hopefully will impose reasonable ceilings and preserve a rate differential for thrift institutions that will supply the financing needed for a major national industry and for the average person's most cherished possession, his own home.

Outstanding Defense Moves Presidents

By TOM SULLIVAN

Most football coaches agree defense is the name of the game and Quincy is proving that each week as it comes up with outstanding defensive performances to keep it in the running for second place in the Greater Boston League.

The Presidents have a 3-1-1 GBL mark with two games remaining but two one-point losses to Weymouth teams [8-7 to South and 7-6 to North] dropped their overall mark to 3-3-1.

Quincy gave up its second touchdown in the last five games last Saturday when it romped over undermanned Chelsea, 27-6, at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The only Chelsea score came on a pass in the final minutes.

Saturday Quincy hopes its granite-like defense will give it another win over a strong Medford team in a 1:30 p.m. league game at Medford.

Medford has a 2-3 league mark and a 3-4 overall record but two of its losses were by one point, 13-12 to North Quincy and 7-6 to Newton in a non-league game. The Mustangs defeated Boston Latin, 12-0, in a non-leaguer and Chelsea, 27-6; and Somerville, 17-7, in the league, and lost to Everett, 8-0, in the league.

Quincy has had several defensive standouts this year but none has done a better job than Richie Joyce, a spectacular defensive back who had perhaps his best day against Chelsea.

"Joyce has been terrific in every game," Defensive Coach Bud Mosher said. "He has averaged more than five unassisted tackles a game, had two pass interceptions and two fumble recoveries and today blocked a punt. He prefers to play defense and is in on every play. The tougher the going, the better he likes it. I feel sure he went over his average of unassisted tackles today."

Joyce's No. 40 stood out like a beacon throughout the windy afternoon. He blocked a Chelsea punt midway in the third period to give Quincy the ball on the Red Devils' 15 but a fumbled pass from center on a field goal attempt, after two penalties, gave Chelsea possession on its 28.

Joyce doesn't play much offense but last week cleared the way for Ponder's touchdown run with a crisp block, ran well and barely missed a pass from Steve Burke.

"He will play anywhere you want him to and will do a good job," Mosher added.

Head Coach Hank Conroy agreed on Joyce's performance and also singled out Rick Folino, who ran back a pass interception for a touchdown; Bob Pettiti, Bob Gilbody, Robin Carrera, Gerry Durante and Doug King for their play on defense. King started for the first time and Durante was called upon for line backing chores on short notice.

Wayne Ponder, a hard runner all year long and the team's top scorer, had his best day with 104 yards rushing and his fifth TD of the season, while Sophomore Paul Vespaziani had 49 yards rushing and scored his first two touchdowns.

"Mike McKenzie, who has been coming along well the past two weeks, had his best day," Conroy said. The rangy end caught a pass which went to Chelsea's one to set up the second touchdown and had a pass interception deep in his own territory late in the game nullified by a penalty and Chelsea scored on the next play.

Also lauded for their work on offense were guards Bob O'Neil and Jim French and center John Campbell.

Vespaziani scored the first touchdown on a 24-yard run late in the first period.

His second, late in the half, came from a yard out after the pass from Carrera to McKenzie, and Kim Derbes kicked the first of his three points.

In the third period Ponder raced 30 yards and Derbes added the point for a 20-0 lead and later in the period Folino picked off a pass and returned it 32 yards for the final touchdown. Derbes again kicked the point.

Chelsea's lone score, after McKenzie's interception was voided, came with time running out on an 11-yard pass from Bob Spinney to Dick Szyarth.

Quincy had 206 net yards rushing to only 51 for Chelsea, added 15 yards passing [two for eight] while Chelsea had 64 yards on seven for 20, and the Presidents had 13 first downs to 11.

Messina Re-elected QYHA President

Harry Messina of 10 Appleton St., North Quincy, was re-elected president of the Quincy Youth Hockey Association Monday night.

The only new officer elected was Thomas Heffernan, who replaces Robert Fitzpatrick as treasurer.

Others re-elected were Henry Previte, first vice president; Beverly Reinhardt, second vice president; Leo Kelly, clerk; and Richard Strella, assistant clerk.

A week earlier, John Murphy was re-elected to the board of directors and Pat Quigg and Bob Hayes were newly elected replacing Jerry McGrath and Heffernan.

Holdover directors are Messina, Previte, Mrs. Reinhardt, Strella, Larry Richardson, Charles Kane, Edward Mitchell and Kevin Forde.

doing. Here, in John's words, is what happened. "As I was dialing the number, I thought this was a pretty bold idea for Dial. After all, they didn't know what I might ask.

"Well, almost as fast as the phone rang, it was answered. I told the guy I was interested in a $4,000 loan and I wanted to know how long I could take to pay it back. He told me. I asked him how quickly I could get the cash. He told me. I asked what the total amount I would have to pay back on the loan would be. He told me. Then I threw in a 'loaded' question. I had heard that finance company interest rates are high, so I came right out and asked him about Dial rates. What I found out was that you can probably borrow for less some places. Like a bank maybe. But Dial charges a lot less than I thought they would.

"I was amazed. I mean, he didn't even ask for my name. And there wasn't any sales pitch. He just helped me - with no strings attached."

The kind of service and consideration John Havlicek received isn't reserved just for basketball stars. It's reserved for everybody, and has been since 1897. So next time you're thinking of borrowing, think of Dial Finance. You see, we don't want you to like us just for our money.

● Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee A's, Canton In Scoreless Tie

A Bay Colony Hockey Association opponent finally caught up with the Quincy Pee Wee "A" team.

But just barely.

Canton managed to pull out a 0-0 tie Saturday in a battle of defense in which Quincy goalies Bobby Tierney and Dean Prescott emerged as the stars.

Quincy had won 11 games in a row.

Eddie Kane had the three goal hat trick and an assist Tuesday [Oct. 30] as the Pee Wees downed Scituate, 9-2.

Kevin McGrath had two goals, Bobby Hayes a goal and two assists, Scott Richardson and Tommy Brennan a goal and an assist, Mark Messina and Paul McDermott two assists and Robbie Craig a goal.

Pee Wee scorers thus far in the season are:

	G	A	Pts.
Bobby Hayes	13	23	36
Eddie Kane	19	14	33
Tommy Brennan	9	14	23
Kevin McGrath	13	8	21

Bryan McGilvray	5	4	9
Mike Furey	1	6	7
Leo Doyle	4	2	6
Paul McGrath	0	3	3
Danny Gorman	1	1	2

Goalies are Dean Prescott and Bob Tierney.

Schaeffer Hat Trick Sparks Bantam A's

Matt Schaeffer's three goal hat trick powered the undefeated Quincy Bantam "A" team into a two game lead in the Bay Colony Hockey Association with a 5-2 victory over second place Canton.

Quincy is now 11-0 in league play.

But Quincy lost the services of Johnny Mitchell who suffered a broken wrist in the game and will be out for four to six weeks.

Brian Bertoni and Rick

Dannar had the other goals with assists credited to Tom Cahill [2], Bertoni, Richie Troy and Jack Cronin.

Bertoni and Cahill each had a pair of scores Tuesday [Oct. 30] as Quincy rolled over Scituate, 5-1. Dave Previte had the fifth goal.

Assists were racked up by Cahill, Previte, Dannar, Schaeffer, Mitchell, and Mike Smith.

Pee Wee B's Win 6th Straight

Jeff Giordani's two goals paced the Quincy Pee Wee "B" team to its sixth straight Bay Colony Hockey Association victory by a 7-0 margin over Braintree.

Goalies Jim Campbell and Jim Scanlan earned their second shutout of the season.

Dan Sullivan, Dan Cronin, Ken Halloran, Ed Marella and John Keane also had goals with assists going to Sullivan [2], Giordani, Halloran, Marella and Sean Dennis.

Corliss Blanks Scituate, 2-0

Goalie Tommy Corliss blanked Scituate, 2-0, as the Quincy Squirt "B" team ran its Bay Colony Hockey Association record to four straight wins after an opening loss.

Mike McNiece and Johnny Cummings got the goals, assisted by Richie Stevens and Timmy Ryan.

Midget B's Rout Westies, Edge Abington, 7-6

Steve Neville and the other happy goal-scorers of the Quincy Midget "B" team had a frolic on Bay Colony Hockey Association ice last week.

Neville tallied four goals and Mike Conti and Bud Connally fired three apiece Monday [Oct. 29] in an 18-1 rout of West Bridgewater.

Neville had two more and Larry Curtis had a three goal hat trick Thursday [Nov. 1] in a 7-6 squeaker over Abington.

The other goal scorers against West Bridgewater were Ed Santry [2], Joe McConville, Walter Pimental, Jack Powers, Jeff Murphy, Pat Downing and Curtis.

Assists were marked up to Powers [4], Curtis [3], Neville [2], Conti [2], McConville [2], Santry, Murphy, Downing, John Chiavaroli, Frank Robinson and Dennis Bertoni.

Conti and Robinson had single goals in the Abington game. Santry had three assists, Bertoni two and Neville and Curtis one each.

The Midgets record is now five wins and two losses. Their scorers are:

	G	A	Pts.
Steve Neville	10	9	19
Mike Conti	10	7	17
Dennis Bertoni	5	6	11
Larry Curtis	6	3	9
Joe McConville	2	6	8

Ed Santry	3	5	8
Pat McAuliffe	4	2	6
Bud Connally	4	2	6
Walter Pimental	4	1	5
Frank Robinson	2	3	5
Jeff Murphy	3	1	4
Pat Downing	2	1	3
John Chiavaroli	0	3	3

Goalies are Jim Coffey and John Gallagher.

Guest Scores 4 As Midget A's Win, 7-3

Frankie Guest had four goals as the Quincy Midget "A" team trounced the Mustangs, 7-3, to take over second place in the Bay Colony Hockey Association.

Paul Messina had a pair of scores and Jackie McHugh netted the seventh.

Assists went to McHugh [2], Messina, Paul Radzik, Dennis

Lynch, John Erickson and Rick Avery.

The Mustangs were undefeated going into the game.

Central Gridders Defeat Meadows

In Monday's Quincy Junior High League football games Central's eighth and ninth grade teams defeated Broad Meadows.

The ninth graders romped, 24-0, as Pat Gibbons, Mike Nolan and Pat Irwin scored the touchdowns and Nolan, Dave Moran and Tom Meighan added the two-point conversions.

The Central eighth grade team won, 22-16. Jim Oriola, Brian Watts and John Lombardo had the Central touchdowns and Kevin O'Connell and Wink Phelan added the extra points. Tony DelGreco and Mark Giordani had the Meadows touchdowns and Kevin Boudreau added both conversions.

Central's seventh graders had previously won the league crown with an undefeated record.

Last Friday Atlantic-North's ninth grade team defeated Sterling, 22-14. Mike Adams scored all three touchdowns for North and George Wallace had a pair of two-point conversions. For Sterling Mark Buchanan and Steve Ohlson, had the touchdowns and Art O'Conner the extra points.

Sterling's eighth graders won, 20-0, to clinch the city championship. Ricky Gilbody had two touchdowns and John Sylva one, while Jim Maze added the points.

Earlier in the week Broad Meadows eighth and ninth grade teams topped Point.

The ninth graders won, 14-8, with Alan Kautila and Steve Griffin scoring the winners' touchdowns and Tom Bouchard adding the points. Ed Daley had all eight points for Point.

Meadows eighth graders won, 14-0, as Tony Del Greco scored the first touchdown on a pass and Kevin Boudreau ran for the other. Art Davis converted after the second.

Quincy Co-Champs After Edging Raiders, 2-1

Quincy's soccer team recently had its three-year 36-game unbeaten streak snapped but the Presidents, thanks to a 2-1 overtime win over North Quincy in their final game, claimed the co-championship of the Norfolk Association in their final game in this league.

Ron Martin's Quincy team had won two straight undisputed association titles with unbeaten records and was on its way to a third successive unbeaten season until upstaged by co-champion B.C. High, 2-0, in the next to last game. The Presidents received their chance to tie for the crown when B.C. High was held to a 1-1 tie by Sharon in its final game.

As a result of sharing the title, Quincy again qualified for the state tournament, which opened Monday.

For the third year in a row, Quincy drew one of the top seeded teams and lost to Needham, 2-0. Needham also eliminated the Presidents two years ago and last year New Bedford ousted them.

B.C. High also was edged in the opening round Monday, 1-0, by Wellesley.

Lou Ioanilli's North Quincy booters, who finished with an 8-5-1 mark in their final Norfolk Association game, gave Quincy all it could handle in the finale.

The Presidents knew they had to win the final game to tie for the crown after the B.C. High tie the day before.

"It was a tough game that could have gone either way," Martin said. "We needed the win and we got it, but North, as usual, proved very tough." The win gave Quincy a 10-1-3 mark for the season, the same as that of B.C. High.

"Both teams played very well and I was pleased with our boys' effort," said a disappointed Ioanilli, whose team had remained in the battle for at least a top tie until the final two weeks of the season.

North took the lead in the first period on a goal by Dave Sullivan, with Jim Mullaney assisting. After that Mike Cullen, one of the better goalies in Eastern Mass., was superb as he came up with many spectacular saves.

Quincy tied it in the second period when John Sweeney made a corner kick toward the net and Steve Ranalli headed it in. The teams then battled until the first overtime period when Tony Michaelangelo scored from a scramble in front of the net. Ranalli had an assist on the play.

John Fitzgerald Scores 5

Jimmy Fitzpatrick was erroneously credited with five goals in the Quincy Bantam "B" team's 12-0 victory over Hingham in last week's Quincy Sun. The goals should have been credited to John Fitzgerald.

Central Girls Win Varsity, JV Basketball Titles

The Quincy Junior High Girls' Basketball League finished its first season last week with Central winning both the varsity and junior varsity championships.

The varsity won with a 7-1 record, followed by Point, 5-3; Atlantic-North, 4-4; Sterling, 3-5 and Broad Meadows, 1-7.

The junior varsity also had a 7-1 mark, followed by Point, 6-2; Broad Meadows, 5-3; Atlantic-North, 2-6, and Sterling, 0-8.

In the final games last week Central's varsity romped over Broad Meadows, 28-10, with Jackie Little scoring 10 points and Ruth Widman six for the winners. Ellen Coleman's three points were high for Meadows.

Central's junior varsity finished with an 18-16 squeaker over Meadows. Nancy Smith had six points for Central and Claire Connolly eight for Meadows.

Point's varsity clinched second place by defeating Atlantic-North, 21-16. High scorers for Point were Peggy Moreley and Kathy Sarno with seven and five points respectively, while Mary Cahill and Margie Dow had five each for A-N.

Point's junior varsity also wrapped up second place with a 12-8 win. Ellen Doucette's five points paced Point and Maureen Sullivan had six for A-N.

Earlier in the week Central had toppled Atlantic-North, 26-17, as Joyce Flynn had seven points and Ruthie Widman, in her first varsity game, added six. Mary Cahill had six for A-N.

Central's jayvees also won, 15-14, as A-N lost its fifth game by one or two points.

Nancy Smith of Central led all scorers with 10 points and won the game with a foul shot with 55 seconds left. Lisa Sullivan had six and Maureen Sullivan four for A-N.

Point defeated Sterling in varsity action, 34-34, with Lois Malvesti having an outstanding day for Sterling with 20 points. Ida Grossi and Kathy O'Toole also played well for the losers. For Point Peggy Thorley had 10 points, Kathy Sarno eight and Debbie Russo nine.

Point's jayvees won, 17-12, sparked by Janice Russo's 11 points and Ellen Doucette's six. For Sterling Mary Jo Campbell and Kathy Flaherty had four apiece.

Mary Pratt had a turnout of 78 girls at Central and did not cut any one. "Those who 'gave up' did so of their own volition," the coach said.

As at most schools, all of Mary's varsity players are ninth graders. The usual starting team is comprised of Joyce Flynn, Enid Braveman, Adrian White, Jackie Little and Mary Ilacqua, with Ruth Salomaa a strong sixth man.

Backing up these girls are Lisa Coletta, Nancy McCarthy, Lydia LaFeria, Kelly Tobin and Sandra Whitmore. Rounding out the varsity squad are Doris Grawitz, Carol Gallagher, Mary McCarthy, Susan Yee, Joette Strausbaugand and Eileen Hanley.

"Jackie Little has led the scorers and has a really wonderful 'touch', especially on foul shooting," Miss Pratt said. "I have seen few high school players shoot fouls as consistently as Jackie."

She also hailed Miss Flynn as having "the natural instincts and aggressiveness that any coach wants." She has scored well and in a win over Atlantic-North she sank two foul shots in the final five seconds to send the game into overtime, then scored the winning basket.

"Old pro" Mary calls Miss Braveman "my steady influence" on the team and calls her a good ball handler. Miss Ilacqua is a real aggressive player and with her left-handed shooting, gives Mary extra offensive balance in the front court.

The Central coach has 30 seventh and eighth graders on her junior varsity team.

Starting most games are Nancy Smith, Beth McCarthy, Jeanine Mudge, Julie Drain and Elaine Galvin, backed up by Cathy Walsh, Carol DiBona, Linda Widdison, Diane Kiley and Patty Irvine.

Other players are Janet Flaherty, Tracey Tobin, Jean Albanese, Jean Vallier, Irene Stevens, Karen Yee, Dari Kimball, Diane Colleran, Lynn and Joan Passalacqua, Ellen MacDonald, Elizabeth Raimondi, Paula Church, Cathy Leary, Betsy Hackett, Stephanie Fisher, Jeanine Rich, Kathy Carey, Paula DiBartolo and Denise Romano.

"Nancy Smith and Beth McCarthy, seventh graders, have been outstanding with their overall finesse," Mary explained. "They have both controlled the ball well in all our games and led all scorers. Jeanine Mudge has played the pivot well and done most of the rebounding."

Rolling Raiders To Host Somerville

North Quincy football coach Ralph Frazier took one look at the way the stiff wind was blowing Sunday, and told his captains to take the wind if they won the toss instead of choosing to receive.

The strategy paid off with an early touchdown as the Raiders went on to defeat Weymouth South, 28-14, in a non-league game at Weymouth's Legion Field.

"There was no way we would have done otherwise when I saw how the wind was blowing," Frazier said. "The wind was a big factor and we took advantage of the breaks today. It was a tough day to play and I was pleased with the way we performed."

Saturday North returns to Greater Boston League competition when it hosts Somerville in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium. With Revere clinching the league championship Saturday, the Raiders will not play Chelsea in a game called off due to the big fire in that city. Saturday's game will be the last until the Thanksgiving classic and North's objective now is to beat out Quincy for second place in the league.

Somerville is in last place in the GBL with a 1-5 record and is 2-5 overall; but the Highlanders can be tough. They opened with a 7-0 non-league win over Arlington and in the league defeated Chelsea, 7-0, and lost to Everett, 22-6; Medford, 17-7; Quincy, 14-0; Revere, 35-6, and Malden, 27-6.

Going with the wind paid off with North's first touchdown midway in the first period after a short Weymouth punt into the wind, and two Weymouth fumbles deep in its own territory set up the next two North scores as the Raiders led, 20-6, at the half.

With the wind blowing the way it was, North stuck to the ground as Carl Leone threw only five passes. The only actual completion lost five yards but a pass interference call on Weymouth gave North 20 yards and one pass was intercepted.

Leone ran well again and scored three of the four touchdowns, two on one-yard sneaks, the other from the four.

John Flynn again paced the ball carriers as he gained 104 yards in 17 carries and had a 57-yard scoring run nullified by a penalty. Bruce Stephansky again gave Flynn good support as he picked up 61 yards in 12 carries.

"Flynn and Stephansky ran well and Leone called another good game," Frazier said. "On defense everyone did a good job but Joe Marinelli and Steve Paglierani were again especially outstanding. Ron Frizzell and Dennis Maguire were terrific backing up the line and Paul O'Donnell and Tom Callahan were great at defensive end."

"Bruce Shea and Steve Vickers did a tremendous job as defensive backs and Shea knocked down two passes," said Assistant Coach Ken McPhee.

Paul Doherty's opening kickoff with the wind went out of the end zone, giving Weymouth the ball on its 20. Each team made a first down but was forced to punt and Leone's punt with the wind set up the first North score. The kick sailed 74 yards to Weymouth's one and a Bill Barnes punt into the wind carried only 17 yards to his 19.

Stephansky picked up 18 yards on two carries and Leone scored from the one. He also rushed for the points.

The ensuing kickoff was fumbled and recovered by North's Mark Donahue on the South 39.

Flynn went for 13 yards and again for three, North was hit with a 15-yard penalty but then came the pass interference call on Leone's aerial to Flynn. Flynn climaxed the drive by scoring from the four and Stephansky rushed for the final North points.

Another North fumble was recovered by Weymouth on its 27 and, with North's reserves on defense, Weymouth drove to its second touchdown with the help of passes to John Colligan for 12 yards and Osterman for 12 yards, plus runs of 12 yards on an end around by Jim King and 14 by Mark Lindstrom. Izbicki scored from the four and King, on another end around, added the points.

"I have told my players that I will use an entire senior team on defense when we get ahead and I stuck to that today," Frazier said. "I also did it against Everett, which scored twice against this unit."

North, in extending its unbeaten streak against South to four games, netted 175 yards rushing to 69 for South, had 15 yards passing, thanks to the interference call, to 72 yards for South [5 of 13] and had 11 first downs to nine for South.

Weymouth's 11 and three plays later Leone again scored from the one. A pass to Mark Reale for the points was nullified by a penalty and another pass was incomplete.

On the third play of the second period Barnes, back to punt, fumbled a high pass from center and North had the ball on Weymouth's seven. Stephansky went to the four from where Leone scored.

A North fumble was recovered by Weymouth's Ed Gaudiano on North's 31 and South scored five plays later on a pass from Steve Izbicki to John Osterman.

Early in the third period Weymouth gambled with fourth down and inches to go and failed as North Quincy took over on

Bantam B's Roll Over Rockland

Goalies Kevin Cotter and Darryl DeCristofaro combined for their fifth straight shutout and Dave Peters fired four goals as the undefeated Quincy Bantam "B" team overwhelmed Rockland, 14-0, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game Saturday.

Quincy has won six straight games, outscoring the combined opposition, 69-1.

John Fitzgerald and Jim McConville each had two goals and an assist while Mark Paolucci, Mike Marks, Mark

Kelly and Rick Carnali had a goal and two assists apiece.

John Andrews got a goal and an assist, Jimmy Moore had a goal and Jeff Gavin and Mike Wilson an assist each.

In an exhibition game Thursday [Nov. 1] Quincy whipped Canton, 6-3, as Paul Cooney and Paolucci each had a pair of scores.

Jim Triglia and Fitzgerald had the other goals with assists going to Peters [2], Fitzgerald, Carnali, Moore and Mark Neville.

HEAT, YES - BURN, NO!

Serious home fires skyrocket during winter months when your heating equipment is working continuously. Fires started by heating units are deadly. They normally start in the basement and you have little warning of fire until it's past the point of no return.

If your heater shows any signs of not operating properly, call a serviceman immediately. Even such a small thing as a weak pilot light in a gas furnace is a hazard. If the flame is insufficient to ignite the gas when the thermostat says, "Go!" gas may build up and later ignite with a minor explosion that spreads fire. The best time to have your heating system checked is in the fall - before the cold weather descends. This yearly check should be made for plugged-up or broken flue pipes, worn orifices, clogged strainers and malfunctioning automatic controls.

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

Welby prescribes entertainment

By ROBERT YOUNG Distributed by
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — There is such a thin line between character roles and actuality in the minds of viewers, it is a constant source of gratitude to me that I play Dr. Marcus Welby, M.D., each week instead of some hood. Heavies are always being hounded by the law and muscle men challenged at the bar.

However, the letters I get addressed to Dr. Robert Welby and to Marcus Young attest to the superimposition of images the tube can impose upon a captivated audience.

Let me make one thing clear: the only medicine I'm qualified to prescribe is entertainment. I'm sure you have had a surfeit of metaphors about the palliative qualities of a good laugh, so I won't pursue that line of thought. The point is, please, don't ask me to tell you what's wrong with you. Tell it to the man in white.

Even my wife, Betty, is sometimes confused about where Welby leaves off and Young takes over. I came home one evening from a long day on the location set of St. John's and not a little grouchy. "You'll have to excuse my husband," Betty told a surgeon friend of ours who was visiting us, "Bob's had a hard day at the hospital!"

Universal Studios has been deluged by advice-seeking mail ever since we began filming "Marcus Welby, M.D." as have the ABC Network and the various local stations carrying the program. Many of the letters ask me to diagnose the symptoms of the senders. We try to personalize all our responses but, in general, I answer each letter by thanking the writer for considering me both a friend and an expert. However, I add the disclaimer (as I did a few sentences ago) that my M.D. stands for Medical Drama, not doctor.

There are residual benefits, very rewarding to any human being, especially to an actor who sometimes may feel he works in a vacuum. We had a letter from a lady who changed her mind about committing suicide (she wrote) as a result of a paean to the importance of life I made on one of our episodes.

Another large charge comes from the number of young people who write me that they have been inspired to enter the medical profession, the only profession I know with the highest of ideals, the goal to eliminate the need for his services.

The newspapers recently carried a story that a man in Des Moines had a friend race him to the hospital right in the middle of a Welby show. He was rushed into the emergency ward where he announced he had a bleeding ulcer. When asked who made the diagnosis, he said he was watching our show, and that Welby looked into the camera and described his symptoms. I was actually talking to a patient in the segment, but the diagnosis related so exactly to his own, this lowman was sure he was right. He was. Within an hour, he was on an operating table.

Perhaps the greatest rewards come from the fact that my screen identity as a doctor and the popularity of the series bring requests for my help in the area of preventive medicine.

One of the most valued gifts of my professional career is a plaque recently given me by the state of West Virginia. A rubella epidemic was becoming pandemic throughout that great State. The Department of Public Health asked me to tape a plea for citizens to be inoculated. The turnout was the largest in West Virginia's history. The epidemic faded in short order. What a source of pride that is! My only regret is that I cannot do all the requests that come in.

"Marcus Welby, M.D." is an entertainment show but anyone with the desire can keep up with the latest in medical techniques and technology since our writers do intensive research on each script. We have a technical consultant on the series, a general practitioner, who has stated he believes the popularity of our show is due to the devotion to accuracy.

Dr. Thomas L. Stern has been quoted as saying, "I believe that the Marcus Welby show has caused some behavioral changes in some physicians who see an image they would like to copy, the image of fatherly compassion viewers would like to see in their own physicians."

If that is true, I don't need another accolade as long as I live.

Quincy Awarded $283,628 For Renewal Of Title 1 Program

The Quincy public school system has been awarded a renewal of its Title I Program for the school year 73-74 in the amount of $283,628.

This project includes the following components serving children from the Snug Harbor, Pollard, Daniel Webster and Lincoln-Hancock Community Schools.

Early Childhood Program: 100 pre kindergarten children will be selected on the basis of educational need. Two centers will have a professional staff of three, including a guidance counselor. Four aides will be assigned to the program.

Learning Disabilities Program: Kindergarten children are selected on the basis of their performance on a Screening Test which is designed to identify those children who present a high risk for the development of learning problems. Grade I through Grade III children (to be served 331) are selected on the basis of a referral by the classroom teacher. Six teachers and 18 teacher aides will be assigned to this program.

Pupil Personnel Support Services: 420 kindergarten through third grade, will be served by this program. The Pupil Personnel Services Staff will work closely with the total school staff in providing services to identified children in the target schools. Services to be provided include guidance counseling, speech, hearing and language therapy, psychological testing and evaluation, and health screening and follow-up. In addition to these Elementary Programs a School Community Outreach Program at Broad Meadows Junior High School: there will be a continuation of the academic year program of 1972-73.

In the district served by Broad Meadows Junior High School, it is estimated that there are sixty 12-14 year olds presently in Grade 7 who could be characterized as potential school leavers. Eighteen teachers will meet with 60 young people on a personal "big brother" (after school hours) approach in order to learn of individual problems and work out possible solutions to these problems.

Brownell Asks Probe Of Shea Rink Ice Time

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has asked Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn to investigate the transfer of ice time at the MDC's Shea Rink from a Houghs Neck youth hockey program to the privately operated Metropolitan Figure Skating School.

"It is an elementary governmental principle that no public facility can be used for private profit," said Brownell in a letter to MDC Commissioner John W. Sears.

"It does not make sense either legally or morally to give a private profit-making group free ice time in place of a public youth hockey group paying $25 an hour for the very same ice time.

"If there is a need for a figure skating program, let's do it through public recreational groups that pay their own way, not by giving free ice time to private profit-making ventures. "I personally would be happy to request that the Quincy Recreation Department establish such a program."

A special legislative committee, headed by Rep. Robert B. Ambler [D-Weymouth], was scheduled to open hearings Wednesday to investigate the MDC on request of legislators from Canton, Quincy and Weymouth, where similar transfers have occurred.

Petition Calls For Probe Of Mental Hospitals

A number of Quincy people were among the more than 10,000 signatures obtained by the Church of Scientology of Boston on a petition calling for an investigation of mental hospitals in Massachusetts.

As a result of the petition, the Rev. William Bromfield, chairman of the church's Committee on Public Health and Safety, is working with a special assistant to Gov. Francis W. Sargent in hopes of setting up an investigating task force.

Youth Program Ends

The Quincy Youth Commission announces the termination of the Eastern Nazarene Summer Program. The program was funded by the Youth Commission and operated under the direction of Joseph Rapalje, Dean of Men, Eastern Nazarene College.

Thirteen boys, ages 12-14 participated in the program, which offered concentrated summer activities. The ratio of counselor to every three boys enabled each participant to have individual attention and supervision.

City, Schools, Merchants In Energy Cuts To Meet Crisis

DETERIORATING HISTORY -- Granite pillars, minus their bronze plaques, stand guard over the weed-strewn site of the first commercial railway in the United States. The West Quincy site was recently added to the National Register of Historic Places and state money may be on the way to spruce it up for visitors during the coming Revolutionary War Bicentennial. Railway hauled granite for the building of the Bunker Hill Monument in 1826.

Site Called 'A Disgrace'

Funds Sought To Restore Historic First Railway

New honors have come to the first commercial railway in the United States.

And a badly needed facelift may not be far behind.

The Quincy Granite Railway on Bunker Hill Lane, which transported stone for the building of the Bunker Hill Monument in 1826, has been entered in the National Register of Historic Places by the National Park Service.

And a bill is wending its way through the Massachusetts Legislature to transfer from one MDC fund to another the sum of $950,000, part of which is earmarked for the restoration of the historic railway.

The late City Historian William C. Edwards complained for years that the site off the Southeast Expressway in West Quincy was "a disgrace". He said he hated to take tourists there as it presented his city in a bad image.

It hasn't changed much lately.

The site is marked by two pillars of granite. But the plaques have been removed from the pillars. The steps between them are broken and parts are missing. The tiny cement plaza in front of them is cracked and dotted with weeds.

The rails over which horses drew the railway cars filled with granite blocks some three miles from quarry to the Neponset River have long since disappeared and the incline is overgrown with brush and weeds.

The Quincy railway was not the first railroad in the U.S., says State Secretary John F. X. Davoren, who is also chairman of the Massachusetts Historical Commission, but it was the first efficient use of railways as a

6th Place Halter To Get Recount Today

Ronald Halter of 119 Federal Ave. got 119 votes in the six-man race for Ward 4 Council in the Nov. 6 preliminary city election.

That's 897 votes less than the winner, Councillor Albert R. Barilaro.

That's 625 votes less than James A. Sheets, who will face Barilaro in the Dec. 4 runoff election.

That's 251 less than the fifth place finisher, Andrew J. Veneto.

At 10 a.m. today [Thursday] Halter will get a recount.

Sixteen wardens and clerks [14 plus two reserves] will spend three or four hours carefully going through the Ward 4 returns for errors.

The city will spend about $500 for the recount, according to City Clerk John M. Gillis.

Halter said he asked for the recount because he "got a lot more votes" than showed up in the original count.

Maybe he did.

It took at least 70 signatures [10 from each of the ward's seven precincts] to get the recount and that's more than half the votes he got Nov. 6.

Quincy is preparing this week for what may be a cold, dark winter.

City officials and merchants moved to find ways to conserve heat and electricity in the face of warnings of a mounting energy crisis that came from sources up to President Nixon on himself.

They were spurred on by word from the Mass Electric Co. that one of the New England Power Co.'s biggest generating stations came within less than two hours of going out of operation due to lack of fuel.

The station at Brayton Point on Cape Cod had less than two hours oil left in its supply when a Russian tanker arrived to head off the crisis.

"The loss of the one station from the New England power grid wouldn't have made a noticeable difference," said Mass Electric's John Shirriff. "But if we lost several there would be trouble."

"This is like the handwriting on the wall for what could come."

The warning was enough to send a committee of city officials around to public buildings to study ways of conserving energy and lead Quincy Center merchants to volunteer to cut back their Christmas lighting time by 75 per cent.

The city is faced with a 20 per cent cut in its oil allotment, the reduction being passed on by the Granite City Oil Co., which furnishes oil for the municipal furnaces.

A committee made up of City Purchasing Agent Richard K. Newcomb, Buildings Superintendent Herbert Blake and Gino Giorgi of the School [Cont'd on Page 3]

Merchants Volunteer To Cut Christmas Lighting 75%

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association Tuesday volunteered to reduce Christmas lighting in downtown Quincy from 360 hours to 94 hours, a cutback in 75 per cent in lighting time.

The move is a concession to the energy crisis.

Under the original plan, the lights were scheduled to be turned on Friday, Nov. 23, at 4 p.m. and remain on between the hours of 4 p.m. and 1 a.m. each day until Monday, Jan. 1.

The plan adopted Tuesday by the association's Board of Directors calls for the lights to be turned on with appropriate ceremony at 7:30 p.m., Nov. 23, and turned off two hours later.

They will be turned on again at 6:30 p.m., Monday, Dec. 3, and remain on between the hours of 6:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. each day until Christmas Day, Tuesday, Dec. 25.

Remo DeNicola, vice president of the QCBPA, said the association has invested $16,000 in new lights for the downtown area, but because of the energy crisis wants to cooperate with Mayor Walter J. Hannon in his efforts to help Quincy face this major problem.

Other suggestions recommended at the Tuesday meeting include:

- Signs on individual stores be lighted only between the hours of 4 p.m. and 10 p.m.

- Lighting inside and outside the stores be reduced by 25 per cent.

- Store temperatures be adjusted downwards to 68 degrees.

- Employees who live near each other and work the same hours be encouraged to use car pools.

- Mayor Hannon had asked for the recommendations in a meeting Friday with DeNicola and Ronald Mandler, executive director of the QCBPA.

DeNicola, who presided Tuesday, noted that the association recommendation could be subject to change by future national, state or city regulations brought on by the energy crisis.

Wanted: 10 Needy Families To Receive $50

Atty. Stephen T. Keefe Jr. is seeking nominations of needy Quincy families with young children to receive $50 at Christmas time from the Agnes V. Philben Trust.

Mrs. Philben was a Houghs Neck widow who died in 1966 and whose only son died when he was a young boy.

Her will specified that for 10 years following her death Trustee Keefe select 10 needy Quincy families with young children to receive $50 each in time to make it a happier

Christmas.

Early November each year Keefe sends letters to social, veterans, fraternal and church organizations and prominent individuals asking their nominations. Other persons are free to send in their nominations, too. Nominations close Nov. 26.

From the list, Keefe selects the 10 most worthy families.

The Philben Trust will be in operation until 1976 when the remaining funds are scheduled to be given to another charity.

commercial venture.

It was exactly 150 years ago that the Bunker Hill Memorial Association was formed to commemorate in a suitable manner the battle that was fought on nearby Breeds Hill in 1775.

It was decided to build a granite obelisk on the hill and the architect and master builder, Solomon Willard, located a quarry in West Quincy with granite suitable for the job.

The problem was how to transport the granite the 12 miles from quarry to hill.

Gridley Bryant, a 36-year-old engineer, proposed carrying the granite by rail from the quarry to the river and thence by barge to Bunker Hill. The idea was pretty wild at the time but Thomas H. Perkins, the merchant prince of Boston, put up the money for it.

In the seven months between the time his charter was granted and the railway opened, Bryant devised much of the machinery fundamental to railroads — the eight-wheeled car, the turntable, the portable derrick, the switch and the turnout.

The first granite was carried down the incline Oct. 7, 1826.

Since that time, the site has been owned by a number of people and organizations who have maintained it to various degrees of order and disorder.

Right now, the incline is owned by the city of Quincy and the area around it, once the site of productive granite quarries, is owned by Peter G. Ruscitto of 159 Brook Rd, Quincy.

The money that is scheduled to be used to restore the area has a long and exciting history of its own.

It was originally appropriated by the State Legislature for the MDC to build a swimming pool at the new Lincoln-Hancock School in Southwest Quincy. But area residents didn't want it with MDC strings attached.

The money [$950,000], which by legislative fiat could be used only to build the swimming pool, lay unused in a special account.

Meanwhile, the Historic District Study Committee was set up for Quincy, with the membership to double as a Bicentennial Committee, and thought was given to making the city's historic sites attractive to tourists.

That takes money and someone thought of the idea $950,000 in the special MDC account and unusable except by legislative action.

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy], who is vice-chairman of the powerful Senate Ways and Means Committee, amended the capital outlay budget to include the transfer of the $950,000 from the swimming pool account to the MDC's park and recreation account.

The amendment specified that the money could only be used to beautify areas along the MDC's Furnace Brook Parkway and Quincy Shore Drive; repair the Dorothy Quincy House; create a park around the Granite Railway; and upgrade historic sites in Braintree.

The proposal for the granite railway, said Tobin, is to acquire 20 acres of land around the incline, beautify the site and create a picnic area around it.

The amendment has been approved by the State Senate and is now on its way to the House for concurrence.

"I am reasonable sure that we will keep the amendment," said Tobin the other day. "I think I'm going to be on the conference committee."

The Historic District Study Committee and the Bicentennial Committee, of course, are all for it.

"It's about time that we made appropriate recognition of the granite industry in Quincy after the years of total neglect," said the Rev. John R. Graham, chairman of the committees.

$108,365 In New Wiring

City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts issued 133 permits for wiring estimated to cost $108,365 and collected $954.25 in fees during the month of October.

The major wiring projects for the month were a 39-unit apartment building at 182, Quincy Ave. and the new Quincy Cooperative Bank building at 440 Hancock St.

The department made 160 inspections, noted 11 defects, and made 12 reinspections and one fire call during the month.

John Wainionpaa Receives Wings

Navy Ensign John W. Wainionpaa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Wainionpaa of 42 Grossman St., and husband of the former Miss Linda Rapo of 25 Glendale Rd, all of Quincy, has been designated a Naval Aviator and received his "Wings of Gold" during ceremonies at Corpus Christi, Tex.

He is a 1964 graduate of Quincy High School and a 1972 graduate of the University of New Mexico.

City Takes Steps To Meet Energy Crisis

Maintenance Department began an inspection of public buildings Monday. The committee will report to the Mayor Friday.

"It looks like other public buildings will be following the outline made up by the School Department last week," said Giorgi. "If the city goes along with the recommendation it will conserve 20 per cent of its fuel."

The 10-point plan for Quincy schools, which could be adapted to other public buildings, was presented to the system's principals and senior building custodians Friday. It directed that all schools:

- Not exceed a temperature of 68 degrees during school hours.
- Not exceed a temperature of 50-55 degrees during nighttime hours.
- Areas to be used for rentals shall be maintained at 68 degrees for the rental period with the remaining parts of the building at 50 degrees.
- Every effort shall be made to schedule after school activities in one area of a building.
- All exterior doors shall be closed at all times.
- All windows shall be closed and locked at all times.
- Window shades shall be fully drawn or closed at the end of the class day.

2 Quincy Men Win M.I.T. Degree

Two Quincy men have won masters degrees from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They are Thomas M. Baker of ● Classroom doors, corridor doors, smoke screen doors shall

● Maximum effort shall be made to conserve hot water in cafeterias, shower rooms and lavatories.

● All electrical equipment not in use shall be shut down, including lights in unoccupied classrooms, storage areas, cafeterias, gyms and basements. School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon cautioned that even more stringent measures may have to be put into effect in the future if fuel is unavailable. Such measures might include:

● Curtailment of rentals of buildings at night and reduction of evening adult education programs.

● A crash program to install weather stripping along school windows.

● Rescheduling school winter vacation periods.

● A shortened school day. And if the situation really got bad:

● Closing all schools for an additional period of time.

Dr. Creedon told the principals that theirs was the final decision as to whether a conservation measure would be detrimental to the health of the youngsters in the school.

• QUESTION OF THE WEEK

SS Race, Color, Sex Questions Unconstitutional?

A woman calling the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone wanted to know if questions pertaining to race, color, sex and religion are unconstitutional on a Social Security application.

It was pointed out to the caller that although it is not unconstitutional to ask these questions they all do not have to be answered to receive a Social Security card. The only mandatory question is that pertaining to sex. An application will be processed where race, color and religion are left unanswered.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

- Reasons For Military Alert
- San Clemente's Lanterns
- Gas $1 Per Gallon?

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — There have been statements out of both Washington and Moscow that the superpowers have backed down from a confrontation. But these reassuring statements can't hide what is happening from our spy satellites.

Satellite photographs showed the build-up of the Arab armies and the delivery of Soviet supplies before the recent Arab attack. It was our policymakers who failed to respond.

Later, photographs from space showed massive military moves by the Soviets, including huge shipments of military freight by rail and road from Eastern Europe back into the Soviet Union. This time, President Nixon responded by ordering a worldwide military alert.

Now the satellite pictures show continuing Soviet moves that appear to be related to the Middle East. Soviet airborne troops remain on alert. The Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean has been built up to a record strength of over 90 ships, including missile cruisers and missile destroyers.

The United States is also maintaining an alert in the Atlantic and Mediterranean. Our Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean has been strengthened. A task force, headed by the Carrier Hancock, has been moved from the Pacific into the Indian Ocean.

The Pentagon has insisted this had nothing to do with the Middle East. The secret messages, however, tell a different story. We can report that the Hancock was ordered to be prepared to move into the Persian Gulf as a possible contingency.

This could be interpreted as military pressure on the Arab oil kingdoms. The Soviet moves, presumably, are intended to counteract any such pressure.

Costly Lanterns: More than a year ago, we investigated the mispending of public money on President Nixon's San Clemente estate. A secret memo has now fallen into our hands, telling how government officials tried to cover their tracks by accidentally misplacing the documents we sought.

We have also obtained stacks of letters, contracts and memos, which reveal how the taxpayers were billed for the President's extravagances. The taxpayers spent more than $10 million on the presidential retreats at San Clemente, Key Biscayne and Camp David.

One small item illustrates how cavalierly the President spent the taxpayers' money on small luxuries. His personal architect, Hal Lynch, ordered seven solid brass lanterns to be located on the San Clemente estate. A second order for more costly than the first because it was a "rush" order — for four lanterns was placed later. These four are still in storage at a warehouse.

The government paid $2,000 to remove the old fixtures. The total bill for equipping the presidential grounds with fancy new lanterns came to $5,500. The White House has defended the expenditures as necessary for the President's protection. But no request was made by the Secret Service for the lanterns.

My investigation has shown, on the contrary, that the Secret Service was often pressured into making requests for improvements after the original requests had already been made by the President's people.

Saxbe Wouldn't Listen: President Nixon's latest choice for attorney general, Sen. William Saxbe, belongs to the small bloc of liberal Republican senators. They hold secret strategy sessions on Wednesdays and, therefore, call themselves the "Wednesday Group."

On the last day of October, which happened to be a Wednesday, these liberal Republicans backed Saxbe into a corner and pleaded with him not to take the job of attorney general. They warned he would be condemned by the public if he didn't prosecute the whole White House crowd and would be obstructed by the President if he did.

But Saxbe wouldn't listen. He insisted that the President had agreed to accept him "warts and all," and that he would continue to be the same outspoken, independent soul whose bluntness had sometimes annoyed them in the Senate.

Nevertheless, despite the appointment of their friend Saxbe as attorney general and Leon Jaworski as special prosecutor, the senators are going ahead with legislation to authorize an independent prosecutor who cannot be fired by the President.

There is another possible solution. This was proposed in the Senate in 1951 by a freshman from California. His bill would have given grand juries the money to hire their own lawyers. That senator's name was Richard Nixon and his purpose was to put pressure on President Harry Truman.

Nixon might now be considerably less enthusiastic about the idea, of course, than he was 22 years ago.

Cold Warning: The nation's top oil executives have warned the government that serious oil and gas shortages can be expected as early as December. They have called upon the government to take immediate action to conserve both gasoline and heating fuel. Most oil executives have declared outright that rationing is the only possible solution.

They have the impression, however, that President Nixon, beset by Watergate, doesn't want to damage his popularity any worse by telling the American people they must drive less and turn down their home furnaces.

The oilmen have been holding urgent, secret meetings all over Washington. They have delivered their dire warning to the White House and the State, Treasury and Interior departments.

Out of these meetings, the oil men have received the impression that the President is most reluctant to ration oil and gas. He not only fears the political consequences, apparently, but doesn't want to abandon his free-market philosophy.

He is faced with two unpleasant choices: Either he must ration oil products or permit prices to soar. A free market, permitting prices to go higher as oil and gas become scarcer, would amount to indirect rationing. The poor gradually would be forced off the highways by zooming gas prices.

Rationing or not, the experts already are predicting gas will shoot up to 50 cents a gallon after the New Year and $1 a gallon by the end of 1974.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Quincy's preliminary election is over but the speculation lingers on. Like:

Political observers are sure Councillors Arthur Tobin and Joseph LaRaia must both be thinking of mayoralty bids two year's hence.

Tobin was the top vote-getter on the ballot—polling 12,385—to pace the council at-large field. That's 1,275 more than Mayor Walter Hannon got.

LaRaia, runner-up to Tobin in the at-large field with 10,111, was also third top vote-getter, 1,001 votes behind Hannon.

Of course, there is a difference in getting one of three votes [for council at-large] and one-out-of-one [for mayor] but both Tobin and LaRaia came up with impressive marks.

THAT OLD FAMILIAR refrain that "John Quinn seems to be slipping" is being sung again. But don't go betting on it.

Quinn finished third behind LaRaia in the council at-large field with 8,506 votes. But he always runs a slow primary. In fact, he usually just walks it - saving his speed for the final.

For years now, some of the so-called experts have been writing Quinn off after the primary. But he puts on a burst and finishes at or just below the top in the final. He's the "dean" of the council in point of service. So, he must be doing something right.

OBSERVERS feel that Ward 3 Councillor Theophilus McLelland really has a Goliath of a job ahead of him to win an at-large seat. He finished fifth in that field with 4,755 votes—805 votes behind brand newcomer Helen McDonnell.

The talk is that McLelland, who was shuffled out of Ward 3 by the redistricting plan, is having trouble raising money to wage an effective campaign.

McLelland, by running for an at-large seat after having Ward 3 yanked from under him, is bucking at-large incumbents. Ward councillors don't ordinarily do that. It's considered a political no-no.

THE MAN WHO fathered the redistricting plan—Ward 4 Councillor Albert Barilaro—seems to have done all right for himself in the preliminary despite hard feelings on the part of some of the former Ward 3 voters who are now in Ward 4. But did he really?

Barilaro topped the six-man field with a vote of 1,016. James Sheets, a Quincy Junior College professor finished second just 272 votes behind.

And if you take Sheets' vote [744] and that of the other challengers [Thomas Hughes, 675; Herbert Reppucci, 385; Andrew Veneto, 270 and Ronald Halter, 119], they total 2,193. That's 1,177 more votes than Barilaro got.

So observers feel that Barilaro has his work cut out for him in his re-election bid.

Especially if there is any truth to reports that some of the losers in that Ward 4 race may line up behind Sheets.

THE BIG SURPRISES in the preliminary were Thomas Mullaney, Sheets and Mrs. McDonnell. Sheets wasn't given much of a chance by the experts and Mrs. McDonnell was a real unknown.

Mullaney showed a lot of strength finishing second with an impressive 8,137 votes—just 228 behind School Committee incumbent Charles Sweeney—and 827 votes ahead of incumbent Frank Anselmo who was third.

Pre-election speculation was that John Sullivan would probably be the strongest of the challengers. He finished behind Anselmo with 6,675.

Some observers, however, are wondering if that was Mullaney's peak. They feel that Sullivan and Atty. Jeffrey LaPointe [6,374 votes] still have a good shot in the Dec. 4 finals. There is one open seat [Paul Kelly's] and Anselmo, they feel, is going to have to run hard to stave off Mullaney, Sullivan or LaPointe.

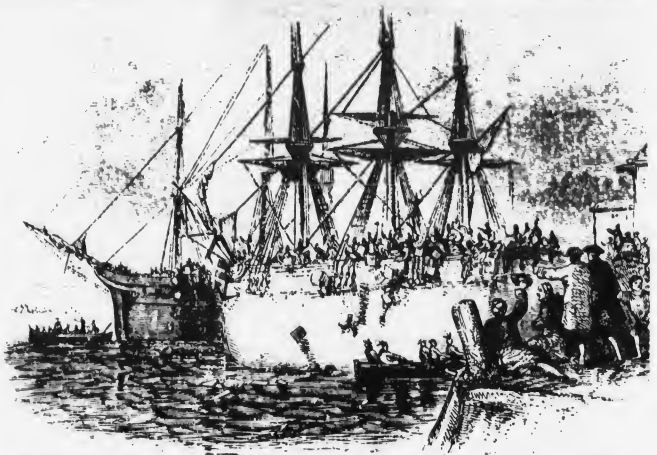

PRIMARY DAY was a three-way celebration day for Paul Harold. He topped the Ward 1 ticket. And two of his campaign workers, Barbara Hawley and Artie LeBecque marked their birthdays.

BUT IT WAS a bad day for City Clerk John Gillis. While checking the polls, his car was smashed and wrecked.

THE ENERGY CRISIS is creating another shortage. Fire place wood is scarce—everyone seems to be stocking up for what looks like a long, cold winter. Local places that used to have mountains of fire wood piled up for sale at this time of the year now are sold out or have only a few hunks available.

ORIGINS OF AMERICA

1973 Boston Tea Party launches Bicentennial

By FRANK BAUER
Copley News Service

BOSTON — Rerun of a 200-year-old spectacular will signal the opening of the nation's Bicentennial. It will be another Boston Tea Party, staged two centuries after that momentous event of Dec. 16, 1773.

The reenactment will take place on the big Beaver II, specially reconstructed in Denmark and sailed to Boston for the purpose. Beaver II is a replica of one of the Tea Party ships chartered by the British East India Company to carry the taxed tea to Boston.

Militia and Guardsmen here will play the roles of their famed forebears who threw the tea into the harbor, but the repeat show will skip the dumping so as not to increase Boston's harbor pollution. Instead, it will enhance the local ecology efforts.

The Tea Party — a prologue to the city's extensive Bicentennial program to start April 18, 1975 — falls on a Sunday this year. Appropriately it will be preceded by an ecumenical service in the historic Old South Church and a reception for representatives of the other cities that had 1773 Tea Parties — Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Charleston, S.C.

It will be a commemorative weekend in Boston Dec. 14-16, the prime purpose of which, says Mayor Kevin H. White, "is to remind the people of the principles about government that were enormously important to Bostonians of the 18th Century. ... These same issues of the role of government and the rights of man still continue on to today."

The Tea Party Weekend opens "Boston 200" — the city's own bicentennial program that will last through 1976. The celebration will hit its stride a year ahead of most other American observances because of Paul Revere, Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill and the Revolutionary occurrences of 1775.

A host of allied events will be served up with the Tea Party, including a Tea Party Ball, a tent festival, an 18th Century concert, a forum and a conventional tea party with a jewelry firm exhibiting its silver.

On Dec. 14, too, the U.S. Custom House at 2 India St., Boston, will be dedicated as an historic building.

Theme of "Boston 200," opening April 18, 1975, is "The City," and Mayor White is gearing his Massachusetts capital for 15 million visitors expected from all over the world for the celebrating. "The city is the exhibit," he says, with the reminder that the nation owes its beginnings to the Boston rebels.

Five ambitious objectives are wrapped up in the Boston Bicentennial. One is titled "Citygame" and would promote institutions and historic areas by way of exhibits and trails and special events. Another, "Festival American," will underscore Boston's history and culture through artistic performances.

"Physical Improvements" will include site preservation and transportation planning. "Visitor Services" seeks to gain friends by taking good care of those arriving during the bicentennial years, while "Economic Development" hopes to score lasting benefits for the area's material well-being.

An $18 million restoration of the old Faneuil Hall Market section is set for completion in 1975. Developer is the Games Rouse Co. of Columbia, Md., noted for the creation of its home city, a planned community of 16,000 acres.

The city itself has put up $260,000 for 1974 costs of running its Office of the Boston Bicentennial, but the big funds are expected to be federal grants from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Department of Transportation and numerous other U.S. agencies. Other funds are slated from the "Boston 200" licensing program and its logo on products and services.

State money will assist in smoothing out downtown Boston's notoriously bad traffic flow, while private industry and contributors are certain to proffer fiscal support for the proud celebration.

Heading the Boston Bicentennial is a woman, Katharine D. Kane, a Phi Beta Kappa from Smith College. Mrs. Kane, native of Indianapolis, once served President Eisenhower's Committee on Foreign Aid Program in Washington, was later a Democratic representative in the Massachusetts Legislature from Boston wards and more recently director of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs in Boston. She is 38 and mother of three.

The office she heads was set up by Mayor White a year ago to get the Boston celebration of the Revolution under way. The leadership views the Bicentennial as a catalyst for a new revolution in the city through environmental improvements, cultural and educational development and expansion of the tourist industry.

It coordinates its activities with the Massachusetts Commission and the Bicentennial leadership of New York, Philadelphia and Washington. These three cities along with Boston are expected to draw the highest number of visitors during the Spirit of '76 celebrations.

Scores of other Massachusetts communities will be vying for attention during the 1975-76 period, including Lexington, Concord, Plymouth and Sturbridge Village, but the historical magnet will be Boston.

CHRISTMAS WORKSHOPS are being held by Wollaston Women's Club Juniors Wednesday mornings at 9:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Michael Smith, 27 Rice Rd, Wollaston until Dec. 12, chairman of Flowers and Decorations committee. The fifth annual Fair of the Woodward School for Girls, 1102 Hancock St., Quincy, will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In addition to regular booths, there will be a Foreign Bazaar and a Country Store. Fine handmade gifts, hand knits, boutique items, Christmas decorations, plants, home baked food, white elephants and other items will be available at moderate prices.

Proceeds of the fair will be used for scholarships, equipment and for building improvements.

The Woodward School is a non-profit, non-sectarian day school established in 1894, specializing in small classes in a "family like" atmosphere, and individualized work.

The student body is composed of girls from Quincy, other South Shore communities and Boston.

The fair is the only big fund raising event of the year.

PERSONAL Girlfriend lost his ring

By MARILYN AND PAT DAVIS

Dear Marilyn and Pat:

I gave Sally my class ring last year. We broke up and now I want it back. When I asked her for it, she said she was sorry but that the ring was lost. I think she should pay for the ring and told her so. What can I do?

Bob

Dear Bob:

Sally should have been more careful with the ring, but you can't do much about it now other than ask her to return the ring if she finds it.

Dear Marilyn and Pat:

My husband dominates my every move. The latest crisis came when I was in the process of buying drapes. I found just the right shade and then he began his usual attack. He wanted to know the exact color. I described the material as best I could. It was just about the same shade as our walls. Then he wanted a sample, which I didn't have. His next step was to accuse me of making all decisions.

He wound up his tirade by calling me stupid and complaining about my many and sundry shortcomings for at least 45 minutes. I was so upset I could barely get through dinner. I guess I should mention that my husband is a heavy drinker which I'm sure accounts for a part of the problem. We've been married 32 years and I need to know where I stand financially because I can't live like this.

Mrs. C. B.

Dear Mrs. C. B.:

Consult an attorney. He can tell you how to handle the legal aspects of your problem.

Dear Marilyn and Pat:

We have been married one year and my husband has gained 50 pounds. I've suggested that he diet but all he will say is, "Gee, Dot, you're such a good cook. How can I resist?"

Well, he now has a protruding stomach and I find this very unappealing. How can I talk him into taking off a few pounds?

Dot

Dear Dot:

Tell Hubby that your 20-20 vision convinces you that he has gained too much weight. Then your part of the job is to cook tempting meals that are less fattening. Buy an inexpensive calorie guide and plan meals accordingly.

Why not become interested in tennis or bowling? Exercise is a great weight deterrent.

Dear Marilyn and Pat:

My boyfriend is pressuring me on to more and more sexual involvement. I'm not sure I know how to handle this. He's using the usual line. "If you love me, you would. Everyone else is doing it. Why not, we'll get married after college. And it is good for your health."

What should I say?

Cindi

Dear Cindi:

Say NO! Do not be pushed into any relationship you are not yet ready for. Tell your boyfriend that he can prove HIS love by respecting your feelings. If he really loves you, he'll use a little self-control. If he persists, you don't need the problem. And you might tell him that your health has never been better.

If you have a question, write, Marilyn and Pat Davis, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

Yule paintings stir frustration

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

Carrier and Ives have contributed to our holiday frustration.

They are responsible for those turn-of-the-century lithographs showing old-time family get-togethers at holiday time. Norman Rockwell didn't help much either. Their works are full of gay homecomings and simple pleasures.

Pondering a Rockwell print, depicting a family saying grace over a humble table spread with farm-style serving bowls and a golden brown turkey, my daughter remarked that the mother of the family looked a lot older than most mothers.

"No," I corrected her. "She was probably the same age, but she didn't fight it."

Her gray hair was done simply, and her face was without false eyelashes and other barricades against the march of time. One Carrier and Ives print is a snow-filled scene with a single, cozy home set back among the woods.

The windows are lighted and in the open doorway stands an overweight mother welcoming a sleighfull of gift-laden relatives.

"Gee," said my daughter. "That's what you call a real, old-time Christmas. Right?"

"Right," I sighed, and I wished, somehow, that it was possible to re-create that scene today. Instead, today's artist may record our typical holiday gathering like this: The canvas will be crowded with look-alike homes jammed together on one street which is clogged with cars trying to find parking places.

Overhead, the sky is gray with smog and on the roof of one house is not Santa, but a man putting up 20 yards of Christmas lights. He is hurrying. At the open door stands his wife, hair sprayed stiff, weak from losing five pounds and smiling doggedly through her George Master's makeup job.

Up the walk comes a load of his and her relatives who, due to the marvels of jets and rapid transit, they have seen too much of just this summer. They do not bear gifts, but checks, because everybody has everything.

Carrier and Ives, Norman Rockwell, why didn't you just keep your big paint boxes shut?

Customs officers nix new sandal fashions

Four passengers arriving at Miami recently aboard Air Jamaica tried to introduce some new fashions in casual sandals, but Customs officers intervened.

The sandals were neatly constructed with quantities of marijuana built in — the four suspects were arrested and charged with smuggling. —

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of
Nov. 13-24

By GINA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Some things you had given up on may be reactivated. Good time to launch projects previously thought out but tabled for some reason. Carefully read documents, contracts for possible errors. Be routine.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Don't let critical comments from loved ones get you down. Guard against tendency to lose or misplace things. Later in the week get out and about more — put your best foot forward. Good things are forming.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Get away from routine. Start study courses, join new groups, seek a change of scene. Good time for writers or anyone in communications media. Be open and straightforward with mate or partners.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 21 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Activity and high energy are part of the week's pattern. Be realistic and hard-headed about business. Check accounts and tax figures carefully. Entertain business acquaintances in your home instead of in public places.

LEO: (July 22 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) —

LOW TURNOVER

A Civil Service Study shows that older women stick to their jobs — the turnover rates for women in their early fifties are about one-sixth that of women in their twenties. —

Finish projects that were bogged down by lack of cooperation. Relationships with others improve, routine matters proceed smoothly. A trip mid-week would break the routine and give you a needed change of pace.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Now is the time to make some long-term new starts. Business affairs that have been bogged down should now proceed smoothly. Search inside yourself for different feelings about philosophy, religion, etc.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Promptness, courtesy and looking your best pay off now. You should receive attention from those in positions of authority and prestige. Curb tendency to argue. Home improvement, redecorating favored.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — An exciting week in the company of friends and associates. Good time to present a project previously shelved. Pay close attention to letters written and received — they could be important for your future.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Enjoy the company of friends and social life. Be yourself and you impress others with your ability and quick mind. Possibility of turning a secret hobby to practical use. Visit sick friends to cheer them.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Take a needed rest from hectic activity. Enjoy the out of doors or a sporting hobby to break the work routine. Letters from friends could bring good news. Show confidence, act as teacher to coworkers.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Shake off gloomy, brooding moods. Take realistic view of how things really are and make necessary changes. If concepts need changing, don't cling to the past. Take the new, original and unusual path.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Your true qualities are now obvious to everyone. Don't waste time on regretting past actions — look forward to achieving your potential. Your finances, close relationships and long-range goals should occupy your thoughts.

The sun moves into Sagittarius this week. Some famous Sagittarians are William F. Buckley, Andrew Carnegie, Robert Goulet, Mark Twain, Winston Churchill, Mary Martin, Lillian Russell, Chet Huntley, Frank Sinatra, Margaret Chase Smith and Patty Duke.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Take dollar sign off marriage

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst
Copley News Service

The hooks at the beginning of your words say that you have an urge to possess that which will keep you in the center of things. When you can't have the whole "ball of yarn" to yourself, you will flout your disdain without hesitation, as seen in the inflated k.

To have a good marriage you have to play a game of give and take. If you give 60 per cent of yourself, it has at least a 50-50 chance.

And the percentage is even greater when a husband and wife live in one world of common interest, rather than two worlds — his and hers.

W.P.

Dear Dorothy:

After years of marriage, my husband and I are having much trouble. Perhaps it's a lack of faith, or maybe a loss of interest in each other's activities. I used to value my marriage for the security I felt in having money, a nice home, cars, etc., but now I wonder. What is the price you have to pay for a decent marriage?

Dear W.P.:

When you put a value on something as invaluable as marriage, it automatically becomes valueless.

The combination of your forward slant, lack of pressure, upswing endings, and other strokes, keeps you kitenish. You love to be petted. You demand the fluffiness of material things. Then when you don't get what you want, you feel neglected and your feelings are hurt, seen in the large loops in the t.

Then you'll have to remove the dollar sign from your marriage if you want to determine its total price.

D.J.

Selected letters will be answered through this column. A free handwriting chart of some common basic personality traits may be obtained by writing to Dorothy St. John Jackson, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Enclose long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

SLEDDING INJURIES

Sledding is the old favorite of the winter sports scene, but it can cause serious injuries to youngsters.

Of 198 patients admitted to one California hospital because of sledding accidents, 181 had been hurt while in uncontrolled areas such as streets while 17 were injured in controlled areas, such as parks and regular winter sports areas. The injury rate is low because boulders, trees and other obstacles have been removed from the runs; paths are provided to prevent sleds from climbing in a head-on collision course with downgoing sledders and adequate space is provided at the bottom for run-out.

When your youngsters go out for sledding, see to it that they're headed for a safe place, particularly one that's away from traffic and offers no visible or hidden hazards.

Holiday Season Recipes "Save The Day"

You don't have to drop out this holiday season when your friends drop in for a surprise visit. Many types of holiday parties are given each year. But, the one that throws the most fear into conscientious hostesses is the spur-of-the-moment party when friends or relatives drop in on short notice—or unexpectedly.

These impromptu holiday visits, though appreciated, always cause a panicky dash to the kitchen. And, then comes the inevitable question: "What are we going to serve?"

Home economists at Mogen David Wine Corporation have found the answer with unique "save the day" party recipes.

These innovative food ideas using wine can be prepared ahead and frozen or stored until those surprise visits.

Remember, in your party planning, wine can add an extra touch that puts a festive flavor in everything you prepare.

For example, Cœq Au Concord Pastries. These are light little pockets of pastry filled with a concord-spiced chicken liver mixture. They are easily prepared ahead of time and stored in the freezer. When friends drop by, merely pop these pastries onto a baking sheet and into the oven until they're golden brown and piping hot.

Try Fresh Cranberry Cheesecake

Of all the rich, smooth, desserts in the world, none surpasses cheesecake. It's fresh cranberry time, and this cheesecake combines the tart and tempting flavor of cranberries with the creamy texture of an easy, no-bake cheesecake. What a luscious flavor combination! Fresh cranberries are in the market from late September through December. Buy them in season to store in the freezer for year-round use.

Cranberry Cheesecake

Crust: Mix together $\frac{3}{4}$ cup vanilla wafer crumbs and 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Press onto bottom of 9-inch spring form pan. Set aside.

Cheesecake Filling:

- | | |
|--|-----------------------------------|
| 5 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, at room temperature | 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice |
| $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar | 1 teaspoon grated fresh lime rind |
| 3 tablespoons flour | $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon vanilla |
| $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt | 5 eggs |
| 1 teaspoon grated fresh lemon rind | 2 egg yolks |
| | $\frac{1}{4}$ cup heavy cream |

Combine cheese, sugar, flour, salt, lemon rind and juice, lime rind and vanilla in large bowl of electric mixer. Beat at low speed until smooth. Beat in eggs and egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in heavy cream. Pour into prepared pan. Bake in 400°F. oven 8 minutes. Reduce heat to 225°F. and bake 1 hour and 20 minutes longer. Cool slowly (not in a very cold place), then refrigerate.

Cranberry Topping:

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------------|
| 1 cup sugar | 2 whole cloves |
| 1 cup water | 2 cups fresh cranberries |
| 4 strips lemon rind | |

In medium saucepan mix sugar, water, lemon rind and cloves, place over low heat and stir until sugar dissolves. Add cranberries; cook over medium heat until cranberries begin to pop. Remove from heat; chill. Just before serving, spread over cooled cheesecake. Makes: 12 to 18 servings.

A hot, hearty drink, like Grape Toddlies, will add a festive note to your holiday party season. The spicy hot drink is made with concord wine, lemon juice and cloves and served in mugs.

The holiday season is a long one—from November to January. These "save-the-day" recipes can help you through the party season unscathed and make you a heroine along the way.

This year, when friends drop in, don't drop everything. Plan ahead, prepare ahead, freeze and store—and enjoy a festive, but relaxed, holiday season.

Holiday Spur-Of-The-Moment Cocktail Party

- Cœq Au Concord Pastries
 $\frac{1}{4}$ pound ($\frac{1}{2}$ stick) butter
 2 small onions, chopped
 1 clove garlic, crushed
 1 pound chicken livers
 2 hard cooked eggs, chopped (omit eggs if recipe is to be frozen)

 3 tablespoons Mogen David Concord Wine
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped parsley
 Salt and pepper

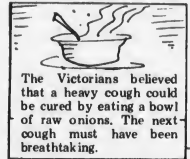

Pastry for a 2-crust pie
 Melt butter and add onions and garlic. Sauté until onions are golden. Add chicken livers and sauté until cooked through. Remove livers and chop fine. Return to pan. Add hard cooked eggs, wine, parsley, salt and pepper. Cool. Roll pastry and cut into 2-inch circles. Place 1 heaping teaspoon of chicken liver mixture on each pastry round. Fold over and seal edges with tines of fork. Pierce tops.

Place on baking sheet and bake in a 425 degree oven for 10-12 minutes or until brown. Serve hot. Makes 4 dozen.

NOTE: May be made ahead of time and refrigerated. Reheat just before serving. Can also be frozen (omit eggs). If frozen, bake for an extra 5 minutes.

Grape Toddy
 1 cup lemon juice (fresh or bottled)
 Rind of 1 lemon
 2 dozen whole cloves
 1 ($\frac{1}{2}$ qt.) Mogen David Concord Wine
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar

Heat lemon juice, rind and cloves until boiling. Boil 15 minutes. Strain. Add wine and sugar and heat. Do not boil. Serve in mugs. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The Victorians believed that a heavy cloth could be cured by eating a bowl of raw onions. The next cough must have been breathtaking.

Dedham Youngster Poster Child For Norfolk-Plymouth MDAA Chapter

Eight-year old Edward J. Mancini of Dedham, has been named 1973 Poster Child for the Norfolk-Plymouth Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, announces chapter president Morton Y. Schleffer.

"As Norfolk-Plymouth's Poster Child," Schleffer said, "Eddie symbolizes the tragic plight of victims of MD and related diseases, and will serve as an inspiration to the scores of volunteers in the 'March Against Dystrophy', the Association's annual educational and fund-raising drive. He will also represent MDAA on radio and TV, and participate at a number of the chapter's special events."

Edward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emidio Mancini of 109 Ames St., Dedham. He was diagnosed as having muscular dystrophy at age six. Although now he has difficulty walking, he is a bright, friendly youngster with an enormous zest for life. The Mancinis have one other child, Diane, age 11.

Nothing yet known to science can arrest the relentless downhill course of muscular dystrophy and related diseases. They progressively destroy the voluntary muscles, confining their victims—chiefly children—to brace then wheelchairs, and finally, to bed. Most young patients do not survive beyond adolescence.

A major national voluntary health agency, MDAA carries out a comprehensive research program, embracing both basic and clinical research, through grant in-aid to leading scientists in the U.S. and 15 foreign countries. While continuing to support this intensive investigation into disorders of the neuromuscular system, the Association maintains a nationwide network of 12 Free Clinics, which provide diagnostic and medical services. Through its 285 chapter affiliates, MDAA also provides a wide variety of patient services, including orthopedic appliances, patient transportation, and recreational activities.

Scholarship Applications At Brownell's Office

Applications for 1974-75 Massachusetts State Scholarships are now available from the office of Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) at the State House.

Under the program administered by the Board of Higher Education, permanent Massachusetts student residents are eligible for annual grants up to $900.

Brownell said, "Students wishing to apply for 1974-75 freshman awards should obtain and file their application on or before Dec. 1. Upperclass students not holding a State Scholarship in 1973-74 have until April 15, 1974 to submit their applications."

"The legislature has appropriated $9.5 million for general scholarships for fiscal 1974 - $1.5 million more than last year's $8 million appropriation. This increased appropriation will allow about 2500 more needy students to be assisted this year than were assisted last year."

"Any student who feels he will need scholarship assistance and feels that he can qualify on the basis of either need or merit should apply", Brownell said.

C P Elects Officers

Albert J. Marchionne of 18 Jefferson St., Braintree a Quincy businessman, was re-elected President of Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc. at the Annual Meeting of the Corporation. He has been a member of the Board of Directors since May, 1962.

Other officers elected include: First vice-president, William J. Trifone, 24 Mortimer Terrace, Quincy; second vice-president, James R. McIntyre, 23 Sturtevant Rd., Quincy; treasurer, James F. McCormick, Sr., 100 Reservoir Rd., Wollaston; assistant recording secretary, Sabina Stenberg, 660 Hancock St., Wollaston; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles M. Bennett, III, 33 Cochato Rd., Braintree.

Marchionne is owner of the Albert J. Marchionne Insurance Agency, 11 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Trifone, who has been associated with the CP Organization since 1966, is the Director of the Quincy Neighborhood Youth Corps.

McIntyre, former State Senator and former Mayor of Quincy is Counsel to the Senate. McCormick has been in the investment business for almost fifty years and is associated with H. C. Wainwright & Co. in Boston. He served 12 years on the School Committee of the City of Quincy, the last four as Chairman, and was also Chairman of the Park & Recreation Board.

Sullivan is a life insurance agent for the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company of Boston and obtained a C.L.U. Degree in Insurance from the American College of Life Underwriters.

Mrs. Sabina Stenberg, owner of Sabina's Beauty Salon, 660

Hancock St., Wollaston, is a registered real estate broker and former fashion model.

Mrs. Bennett graduated from the University of New Hampshire, did graduate work at Yale and is a teacher by profession. She has been active in the Girl Scout Movement for over 30 years, was President of the Mayflower Council of Girl Scouts and is now a trainer of leaders.

The following Directors were re-elected for three year terms: Mrs. William J. Blanton and Charles A. Krahmer of Duxbury; Patrick R. M. Harding and Dr. Douglas F. MacDonald of Weymouth; and Alfred L. Roncarati of Quincy.

Other Directors who will continue on the Board include: John A. Champ, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Felt, Dr. Saul Goldstein, Charles G. Johnston, Arthur B. Jones, William B. Lamprey, A. Fred Lane, George B. McDonald, Paul J. Piraino, Wingate Rollins, Alan J. Rosenstein, and Walter W. Woodward.

Three new directors elected to the Board include Senator-Council President Arthur H. Tobin of 58 Huntly Rd., Quincy.

Francis X. McCauley of 210 Manet Ave., Quincy president and treasurer of the Shipbuilders Co-operative Bank in Quincy.

John J. Sullivan, Sr. of 23 Marion St., Wollaston, former federal mediator.

In his annual report, Marchionne said the outstanding problem facing the agency is the inadequacy of funds to carry on its program of services to the cerebral palsied and their families. This problem will be magnified when the new walk-in Clinic located at 105 Adams St. is available for occupancy in the early part of next year.

Clement O'Brien Selected As North Quincy 'Knight Of The Year'

Clement A. O'Brien, who was recently invested a Knight of the Holy Sepulchre by Pope Paul VI, will be honored as Knight of the Year by the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Tuesday at the second monthly dinner meeting of the Council.

O'Brien, who is administrator of the Quincy Housing Authority, is being cited for his service to the Church and community as treasurer of the South Shore Council on Alcoholism and board member of Survival, Inc., and the Quincy Junior College.

A graduate of Boston College and Boston College Law School, he is a former member of the FBI, past grand knight of the North Quincy Council and past district deputy of the Massachusetts K. of C.

He and his wife and their six children live at 70 Fenno St., Wollaston.

Large Type Books, Braille Added To Children's Library

Large type books, books in Braille, and games have been added to the children's department at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The large type books for children with limited sight reflect the reading interests of intermediate and junior high youngsters, and are written by contemporary authors.

"Expectations", an anthology for blind readers in the intermediate grades, is published by the Braille Institute of America and is in Braille, Grade II.

Stories, poems and excerpts from longer works, original as well as previously published, are contributed by noted children's authors. Embossed pictures, microfragrance labels and a table of contents for the sighted are also included.

The collection of games represents different interests and ages. The collection is correlated with children's books and was selected as another way of stimulating imagination and arousing curiosity. All these materials circulate for a two week period.

Children's Book Week, Nov. 12 through 18, will be highlighted in the Junior Library in Quincy Square by John Langstaff, children's author and folksinger, on Friday, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m.

3 Selected To Regional Student Council

One representative from each of Quincy's three secondary schools have been chosen for the Regional Student Advisory Council to the Massachusetts Department of Education.

They are Leona Rocuzzo of Quincy High School, Audrey

Cutler of North Quincy High School, and Stephen Lawlor of Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Each of the 11 regional councils in the state will hold a monthly meeting to discuss projects dealing with student concerns in such educational matters as curriculum, open campus and vocational school accreditation.

Four students from each regional council, 44 in all, are to be elected to the State Student Advisory Council with the chairman of the state council sworn in as a voting member of the State Board of Education.

Lydon Seeks Clarification On Polls Distance Rule

John J. Lydon Jr., candidate for the City Council from Ward 3, has asked the Council to clarify the 150-foot rule governing polling places in time to avoid confusion during the Dec. 4 election.

The rule says that campaign workers and signs must be 150 feet away from the polling places during voting hours. There were several hassles over the rule during the Nov. 6 preliminary election.

"Many of the regulations and restrictions set forth in the city ordinances concerning polling places are ambiguous and open to a number of interpretations," said Lydon during a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Tortorella, 471 Beale St., Wollaston.

"The law mentions workers and signs," he said, "but it does not mention candidates. Some say they can; some say they can't. The City Council should attempt to recodify existing ordinances before the final election to avoid any disruptions of the electoral process."

Frank Crotty Appointed NSB Legislative-Membership Chairman

Frank G. Crotty of Wollaston, has been appointed a Legislative-Membership Chairman for National Small Business Association, a Washington-based organization representing over 500 different types of industry and commerce across the country.

Crotty is Associate Director for General Business Services, a national counseling firm specializing in helping small business and professional people.

In announcing Crotty's appointment, Ray Sim, president of the 36-year old association, said:

"Mr. Crotty's constituency in Quincy and surrounding areas is an important part of the more than 11 million small businesses in the U.S. Small business has been the victim of neglect particularly in the matter of tax relief and simplification. Mr. Crotty is in a unique position to know the problems faced by small business.

"We will communicate these problems both to the Association and Congress and make them a matter of national concern. He will work to harness the power of small business to shape an economic climate and legislative action favorable to the survival and growth of small business."

Crotty, a graduate of Clare University, Worcester, has been a professional management consultant for several years. His previous experience has been with business clients in both Massachusetts and New York State.

Crotty said, "As a businessman, I realize and appreciate the vast effort necessary to keep abreast of the many changes in federal regulation of the small business community. I welcome the opportunity and the challenge related to my appointment as Legislative-Membership Chairman for National Small Business Association to coordinate the efforts of its many members in my area."

Powers Urges Better Street Lighting In Ward 5

Atty. Warren Powers, candidate for Ward 5 City Councillor has urged prompt action to improve street lighting throughout the ward.

Speaking before campaign workers at the home of Mrs. Mary T. Sheahan, 125 Bromfield St., Powers said he has noticed many areas of "totally inadequate street lighting."

In some instances, he said, street lights are obscured by over-grown trees, while in other cases the lighting is not of sufficient candle power to illuminate the area properly.

"In some sections the placement of street lights is so far apart that although the equipment is adequate, there are 'dark spots' between the light poles," he said.

"Many residents have complained to me about the street lighting, voicing fear for their safety at night and concern with the early darkness of winter."

Powers proposed a survey of Ward 5 street lighting be made and dangerous conditions rectified.

Sgt. Forrest Smith Graduates From Academy

U. S. Air Force Technical Sgt. Forrest E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest G. Smith, 64 North Central Ave., Wollaston, has graduated with honors from the Military Airlift Command Noncommissioned Officer Academy at Norton AFB, Calif.

The sergeant who received advanced military leadership and management training, is a weather technician at Maurice Rose Army Air Field, Germany. A 1962 graduate of North Quincy High School, he attended the University of Maryland European Division. His wife is the former Choe Kyong Cha.

Keohane Funeral Home Donates Glasses, Hearing Aids

The Keohane Funeral Homes of Quincy recently presented a collection of eye glasses and hearing aids to Rev. Alfred E. Finn, Chaplain at Long Island Hospital to help the poor and needy of that institution.

Speaking on behalf of the Funeral Home, Edward Keohane noted that this is one of several presentations to Long Island Hospital over the past four years.

Keohane said that the eye glasses and hearing aids were donated by families who have been served by the funeral home and by other generous members of the community.

Any individuals desiring to donate eye glasses or hearing aids for this charitable cause may do so by leaving them at Keohane's Wollaston funeral home, 785 Hancock St.

Free Legal Clinic At Quincy Court

The Norfolk County Bar Association will hold the first in a series of planned "free legal clinics" tonight (Thursday) between 7 and 9 P.M. at Quincy District Court, Chestnut St. and McGrath Highway.

A number of private consultation rooms are being provided by court authorities for the evening session which will have a number of the county's leading civil and criminal lawyers on hand to give free legal information.

Visitors will be handled on a first come first served basis. The advice they get will be free whether or not they have the ability to pay. Basic aim of the lawyers will be to advise the individual as to his legal rights in any particular problem, civil or criminal.

Charles A. George, association president, said the program was started on an experimental basis last year by then bar president, Charles Schwartz.

The clinic has been continued on a pilot basis at Stoughton District Court. A session was held there Wednesday night.

Richard P. Melick of Needham, associated with Parker, Coulter, Daley & White, Boston, is chairman of the Quincy clinic. A similar program is being planned for Brookline.

MacLaren MacGregor, Canton lawyer who is chairman of the Stoughton project, said the program is essentially aimed at familiarizing individuals with their legal rights and to encourage their going to a lawyer of their choice if the situation warrants.

The Stoughton clinic will be held again Dec. 12 and may be continued through 1974 if the need continues.

George said the clinic might well be extended to outlying communities in the county if demand heightens. He said that under the clinic rules lawyers who hear the cases must decline taking the individuals as clients.

If, after hearing the facts presented by the individuals at the clinic, it is recommended that they obtain counsel, they are referred to their community lawyer or to the reference service afforded by the Norfolk bar.

Complete privacy is guaranteed under clinic program.

The clinic is prepared to handle a wide range of subjects, civil or criminal.

Mullaney Discusses School Issues

J. Thomas Mullaney, candidate for the Quincy School Committee met with a group of students from North Quincy High at his home recently to discuss school issues.

In response to a students question on why the School Committee never met with the students, Mullaney said:

"In theory the students of Quincy High, North Quincy High, Voc-Tech and Quincy Junior College are represented by their Associate School Committee Members. The Associate members are students at the schools they represent.

"They sit in as active participants at each regular School Committee meeting. While they are not allowed to vote on questions, they can and do speak out on issues. I suggest that any students who want to meet with the School Committee should contact their Associate School Committee Member. This representative can try to set up the meeting.

Lisa McElaney was the first Associate School Committee Member from North Quincy High. She was succeeded by Audrey Cutler. Both girls, Mullaney said, have been outstanding representatives.

Quincy, Needham Toastmistress Clubs In Joint Meet

The Quincy and Needham Toastmistress Clubs held a joint meeting at the Quincy-South Shore YMCA Monday.

Quincy president, Mrs. Kenneth P. Fallon Jr. presided and welcomed the Needham guests, headed by vice-president Mrs. Edith Routierre. Also visiting was Mrs. Irene Stark, regional extension coordinator of Toastmistress International.

Mrs. Stark served as evaluator for the speeches and Miss Jean McFarland of the Quincy Club evaluated the meeting as a whole.

Nearly 30 were present to hear talks by Mrs. Sue Kazolias of the Quincy Club and Mrs. Marjorie Wade of the Needham Club.

Two new members were inducted into the Quincy Toastmistress group, Mrs. Gwendolyn Downey of Hingham and Mrs. Jean Cashman of Quincy. The next meeting of the Quincy Toastmistress Club will be Monday, Nov. 19, at 8 p.m. at the Quincy-South Shore YMCA.

Chinese Artist To Exhibit At Main Library

Chiang Kai-Chung of Boston, formerly of China, will exhibit his paintings and wall hangings in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library, through November.

In the less than two years Chung has been in this country he has found time to have one man shows and teach in the DeCordova Museum School in Lincoln, the Adult Center in Boston, and the Adult Center in Cambridge. His work was also shown to about 100 guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon in Sudbury.

He was born in Hunan, China in 1935. At the age of 12 he escaped from the mainland to Taiwan, living there until his arrival in this country.

He has studied brush painting since the age of six and has exhibited in Taiwan, where his works have been reviewed favorably. His father and grandfather before him were artists. Chung notes Chinese brush painting originated 2,000 years ago and is recognized as a vital part of Chinese art throughout the world. He has written a book on the subject.

Jewish Students Raise $4,000

More than 200 Jewish youth from Quincy, Stoughton, Randolph, Canton, Milton, Sharon, Brockton, and Hyannis, participated in a recent Student Mobilization Day for Israel, that raised approximately $4,000 for the newly established Israel Emergency Fund.

Donations will go toward meeting humanitarian needs in Israel - helping to maintain hospitals, provide food and shelter and support basic human survival in the war-torn state.

The door-to-door canvassing took place in the Metropolitan Boston area, and was coordinated in the communities south of Boston by The South Area Jewish Community Center of the Associated Jewish Community Centers, a constituent member of The Combined Jewish Philanthropies.

After a short orientation meeting at Randolph High School, during which the students were addressed by Rabbi Michael Luckens, of Temple Beth Abraham, Canton, and Shachaf Gal, an Israeli member of Kibbutz Givat Brenner, buses were dispatched to Stoughton, Quincy, Randolph, Canton, and Milton.

George Bernstein, president of The South Area Jewish Community Center said, "We are encouraged by the support for Israel in the communities south of Boston at this time of crisis. And we are indeed proud of the spirit and enthusiasm which emanated from our youth during the emergency campaign."

Hockey Afternoon Cancelled

The Hockey Afternoon at Boston Garden Sunday for the benefit of the Massachusetts' Children's Lobby has been cancelled due to lack of interest.

The Quincy Pee Wee "A" team was scheduled to play one of the games on the card which was to have featured a contest between the New England Junior All Stars, coached by Bobby Orr, and the Repentign Olympics of the Montreal Metro Junior B League.

Steve Morgan, spokesman for the Massachusetts Children's Lobby, said tickets will be refunded at the source of purchase.

Frank LaVey To Give Course In Motion Language

Life Extension specialist, Frank LaVey has been invited back to Quincy Junior College to give a series of four classes in the Language of Motion.

LaVey has spent over 40 years travelling around the United States teaching, lecturing and researching health of mind and body. At 72 years he enjoys a state of physical and mental well-being known by few people at any age.

His system, he said, is designed to awaken the inner mind through unity of body, mind and spirit. The information he reveals enables one to remain in prime condition throughout life and age only in wisdom and maturity, he said.

Those who already have taken the Language of Motion course have gained a new awareness of themselves and a greater understanding of life in general, he said.

Presidents Must Find Offensive Punch

Defense might be the name of the game, but as far as Quincy Football Coach Hank Conroy is concerned, it doesn't do much good if the offense fails to click.

The Presidents have one of the strongest defenses in the Greater Boston League (giving up just 35 points in six league games), but despite another outstanding defensive effort last week, Quincy dropped an 8-0 decision at Medford, dimming its hopes of making second place in the league.

Conroy and his assistants will work hard to improve the Presidents' attack for the Thanksgiving Day game with North Quincy. He feels his team can hold down the Raiders' explosive offense but knows Quincy must move the ball to prevent a third straight loss to North.

"The defense did another fine job at Medford but we again couldn't move when we got inside their 25," Conroy said.

Quincy Scoring

"We move well between the 25-yard lines but just can't put it together when we have scoring chances."

Quincy recovered a Medford fumble during the Mustangs' scoring drive but was offside, enabling Medford to retain possession and it went on to score on Rich Horne's 24-yard run. A 15-yard penalty was also costly on the drive. The Presidents stopped Medford's try for the points but again were offside and Horne made it on the second try.

Another Medford scoring threat was thwarted when a Quincy player fell on a fumble in the end zone.

"We couldn't get past their 25-yard line," Conroy said. "When we did get there once we barely missed a first down. I felt we had made it but they wouldn't give us a measurement."

What offense Quincy did present was again led by Wayne Ponder and sophomore Paul Vespezianni, while Robin Carrera did some good passing.

Conroy singled out Jim French, Rich Joyce, Mike Varrasso and Doug King for their work on defense. "All the players did well on defense but it just came down again to our offensive problems," Hank said. "It simply was a case once again of our failing to make good on our third down situations."

DAVE KING of Keohane's receives the Quincy Junior League's Most Valuable Player trophy from George Richards at the annual league banquet.

Quincy, North Sophomores In Thanksgiving Preview Saturday

The Quincy and North Quincy varsity football teams are idle Saturday as they prepare for their annual Thanksgiving Day classic, but the sophomores will meet in their annual game at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

This year's game shapes up as one of the best in the series as each team has an excellent record. The game was moved into the stadium three years ago and has proven a good pre-Thanksgiving attraction.

Quincy, under new coach Mark Conroy, son of Head Coach Hank Conroy, takes a 5-1 record and five shutouts into the game.

North, with veteran Ted Sadowski again at the helm, has a 4-1-1 record.

Quincy defeated Scituate, 14-0; Medford, 10-0; Weymouth, North, 22-0; Abp. Williams, 30-0; and B.C. High, 12-0. The lone defeat was at the hands of Hingham, 22-8.

North defeated Weymouth, North, 24-0; Hingham, 24-6;

Scituate, 21-14, and Brockton, 30-0, tied B.C. High, 6-6, and lost to Hingham, 16-8.

Last fall's game was typical of the hard-fought series with Quincy pulling out a 10-6 win as Dave Burke, now varsity backfield coach, completed an outstanding record as sophomores.

With Paul Vespezianni now a varsity starter and Gary Marden out with a shoulder injury, Quincy's running game revolves around Dom Ignagni, a strong fullback. Conroy uses both Steve Palumbo and Frank Guest at quarterback and each can run.

"The defense has been our strong point with only Hingham scoring against us," said Conroy, who graduated last June from Norwich University. "It is hard to pick any standouts but I must mention our defensive ends, Paul Ferris and Glenn Menchi, linebacker John Riggs, Tackle Steve Cobeman and Tony Drica, a fine defensive back."

North presents a solid offensive line with Alf Braun and Mike Kelly ends, Paul Santoro and Mike Nee tackles, Dick Marre and John Collins guards and Marty Mulvey center.

The backfield is well-balanced with Mike Holleran at quarterback, Erio Bergstrom and Brian Doherty halfbacks and Matty Constantine fullback. Doherty scored on a 63-yard run for the varsity last week.

The defensive unit has Peter Hemphill and Jim Cooney ends, Bruce Hall and Alf McHugh tackles, Dave Lorman and John McKenna linebackers, Frank Strazzula and Joe McGur corners and Gerry Baldeck, Steve Moran and Paul McGuigan deep men.

Tom Butler, Billy Hannon, Gary Kandalraft, Brian McMahon and Paul Sullivan provide the bench support and the kicking game is handled by Mike Kelly.

"The boys have done a fine job this year and it should be another very interesting game," said Sadowski, now in his 16th year as a North assistant.

Raiders Explode In Honor Of Guest

By TOM SULLIVAN

Navy Comdr. Richard A. Stratton, a former North Quincy student-athlete who was a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for six years, was guest of honor at last Saturday's North Quincy-Somerville football game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

It was the first North game Comdr. Stratton had seen since 1951 and the Raiders didn't let him down as they exploded in the second half for a 42-12 Greater Boston League win.

To cap the day for the former POW, North Co-Capt. John Flynn presented him with the game ball "for all he has done".

The win was North's fifth in a row after an opening day loss and a tie in the second game and moved the Raiders into second place. It was another explosive performance for North and Coach Ralph Frazier hopes it carries over into the Thanksgiving Day windup against Quincy.

North started slowly and trailed at halftime, 12-8, but came back with a vengeance to completely outclass Somerville in the last two periods.

The Raiders amassed an amazing 329 net yards on the ground, 156 of them by the sensational Flynn, who went over 100 yards for the fourth time this year and sixth time in two years. Going into the Quincy game he has gained 749 yards in seven games. If the Chelsea game hadn't been canceled, he would have had an excellent chance of going over 1000 yards for the season.

"Flynn was just amazing again," Frazier said. "Not only does he run with the best of them but he is a born leader and controls the team out on the field. He is a tremendous boy and I think as fine a running back as there is in the state."

Giving Flynn good support running was quarterback Carl Leone, who ran the option well again and gained 73 yards. Sophomore Brian Doherty scored on a 63-yard run late in the game and added 68 yards to the North running attack. North won after losing Bruce Stephansky, another standout runner, early in the game with an ankle injury. And the Raiders played without Joe Carroll, a fine end and tackle, who was on crutches with a bad ankle sprain.

Rich Desmond, who injured his ankle in the first half but returned in the second half, Mike White and Phil Robinson were lauded for their blocking and defensive coach Dick Meyer had words of praise for the entire defense.

He hailed Steve Paglierani and Joe Marinelli for another superb game at defensive tackle, Ron Frizzell, Tom Callahan, Paul O'Donnell, Bruce and Billy Shea, Jack Hatfield, Steve Vickers, Terry Egan and George Hill for their defensive performances.

Somerville, which has won only two games, scored early in this game after a Leone punt was held up by the wind giving the visitors the ball on North's 30. A pass from Dan McInnis to Marv Lawrence for 18 yards provided the score.

North drove 64 yards following the ensuing kickoff and Leone, on the option, raced 24 yards to tie the score. Flynn rushed for the two points to put North ahead, 8-6.

Somerville regained the lead midway in the second period on a 60-yard run by Mark Sullivan, who was apparently stopped cold at the line of scrimmage but broke loose. The try for the points again failed.

It didn't take long for the Raiders to break the game open once the second half started and give their guest something to cheer about.

After stopping Somerville following the kickoff, North drove from its 38, sparked by a 28-yard run by Flynn, and Leone hit Mark Reale in the corner of the end zone for the touchdown.

Shortly afterward Somerville again punted and the Raiders went 53 yards to score. Flynn had a 26-yard run and scored from the one. Leone rushed for the points.

North added 20 points in the last period. Flynn raced 34 yards for one TD and Leone went 25 yards on the most unusual play of the game.

Carl was surrounded by Somerville players at the line of scrimmage, seemingly was halted but kept plugging and broke away from the pack. It appeared the referee might call the play dead but Leone was still moving.

Young Doherty, one of several sophomores who played in the final period, scored the final touchdown on a 63 yards jaunt through the left side. Mike Meehan added the points. Frazier cleared his bench in the final quarter.

While North had 329 net yards rushing, Somerville had 127. The Raiders had 37 yards passing on three for 10, while Somerville had four for 12 for 57 yards. North had 17 first downs to seven for the losers.

The woman who was sent in to replace John Havlicek

Our story begins the day we at Dial Finance approached John Havlicek and asked him to endorse our company.

Naturally, John wanted to know more about Dial before he agreed to the endorsement. So we arranged a little experiment.

Without alerting any Dial personnel, we had John call several of our offices with questions concerning loans - interest rates, monthly payments, etc. In every case, John's questions were answered promptly, directly and courteously. Nobody gave him a sales pitch. Or pressured him. Or even asked his name. Not once!

Needless to say, John was impressed. He began seeing that Dial was a different kind of finance company.

Next, to illustrate another dimension of Dial service, we told John about our unique Best Buy Shopping Service, a free, no-obligation way to become a better informed shopper. We explained to John that every Dial office was equipped with a library of respected consumer publications. And that everybody was invited to stop in, browse through the publications and take down information on a whole spectrum of consumer products ranging from toasters to automobiles. The Best Buy Shopping Service details data on brand features, performance, reliability and discount prices. What's more, while John was comfortably seated, absorbing facts, he could rest assured that he wouldn't be rushed or pressured or even approached.

But John made the point that if he stopped in at a Dial office, he would probably be recognized. So the test might not be a fair one. Point well taken. However, he suggested that his wife, Beth (the woman in the picture), go in his place. She did. And here's what she reported:

"As I walked into the Dial office, a pleasant young woman smiled and said 'hello'. I told her that I wanted to use the Best Buy Shopping Service and took a seat at the Consumer Library desk. The woman asked if I'd like a pencil and paper to jot down notes and I said 'yes'. Then I went through the publications for a full hour. Nobody ever bothered me.

"By the way, since John loves to go fishing, I had been planning on buying him some tackle for Christmas. The library proved invaluable in providing me with information on fishing equipment. In fact, I made up my mind about the specific equipment I wanted to get...and the price I should be paying for it.

"All in all, I'd say it was an extremely pleasant and useful experience. I had no idea any finance company has these kinds of services."

We hope that, like Beth Havlicek, you avail yourself of the Dial Best Buy Shopping Service. Or let Dial help you in any way. We want to prove to you that we don't want you to like us just for our money.

Visit Dial's Randolph office at 322 N. Main Street, Fernandes Shopping Center, phone 963-0400 or the Brockton office at 726 Crescent Street, Brockton East Shopping Plaza, phone 583-3420. Other Dial offices: 3 downtown, Billerica, Lynn, Malden, Walpole.

Pee Wee A's Defeat Bridgewater, Brockton

The Quincy Pee Wee "A" team regained the winning track last week with a 7-1 victory over Bridgewater and a 5-2 win over Brockton in Bay Colony Hockey Association games.

Quincy, held to a scoreless tie by Canton the week before, now has a record of 13 wins and one tie.

Eddie Kane, Robbie Craig and Scott Richardson each had two goals and Tommy Brennan one in the Bridgewater contest.

Assists went to Mark Messina [2], Paul McDermott, Bobby Hayes, Bryan McGilvray, Paul

McGrath, Robbie Craig, Messina and Kevin McGrath had the goals against Brockton with assists credited to Hayes, Brennan, Craig, Furey and the McGrath boys, Paul and Kevin.

• Quincy Youth Hockey Bantam A's Roll Over Weakened Bridgewater, 17-0

There were hat tricks all over the ice as the Quincy Bantam "A" team scored a lop-sided 17-0 victory over a Bridgewater team that skated 10 Pee Wees in place of ailing or suspended Bantams.

Four of the Bridgewater players were sitting out suspensions for fighting in the previous week's game and six others were home in bed with a virus.

Tom Cahill fired four goals and had an assist for Quincy while Brian Watts had three goals and two assists and Rick Dannar three goals.

Brian Bertoni and John Cooney each had two goals and an assist, Mike Smith and Dave Previte had a goal and two assists apiece and Jim Shea had a goal.

Mike Giordani, Mike McGrath, Matt Schaeffer and Jack Cronin each had three assists and Jack Cavanaugh had two.

Jeff Nord and Tony Reilly shared the shutout in the Quincy nets.

Shea came up with a goal and an assist Saturday as Nord went all the way in the Quincy goal for a 3-0 whitewashing of Brockton, the 13th straight Bay Colony Hockey Association victory for the Quincy club.

Bertoni and McGrath had the other goals with assists credited to Cahill and John Fitzgerald.

Paolucci, Kelly Combine For 7 To Pace Bantam B's

Mark Paolucci had four goals and Kelly had three as the Quincy Bantam "B" team continued to romp through the Bay Colony Hockey Association Saturday [Nov. 10] with a 10-2 victory over Walpole.

But the two Walpole scores halted the shutout string by Quincy goalies Daryl DeCristofaro and Kevin Cotter at five straight games.

John Fitzgerald, Dave Lewis and Jim Moore had the other goals.

Fitzgerald also had four assists, Mike Marks had two, and Paolucci, Kelly, Moore, Paul Cooney and Mike Wilson each had one.

The Bantams took on Hyde Park in a non-league encounter Wednesday [Nov. 7] and came away on the short end of a 5-1 score. Dave Peters had the goal, assisted by Marks.

Zanardelli in Hat Trick As Squirt A's Win 9-1

Robbie Zanardelli collected the three goal hat trick in leading the Quincy Squirt "A" team to a 9-1 conquest of Abington in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Neil Shea had two goals and an assist and Mark Boussey and Mike Doherty had a goal and two assists each in helping the Squirts to run their season's fourth to five wins, a loss and a tie.

Michael Hussey and Bobby Beniers scored the other goals and Tommy Heffernan, Kevin Chase, Chuckie Marshall and Kevin Craig had assists.

Kenny Mann performed nobly in the Quincy goal.

Girls Gold Team Wins Scrimmage, 7-1

Girls played hockey competitively for the first time at the Quincy Youth Hockey rink [Nov. 8] as the Gold team trounced the Blue team, 7-1, in a scrimmage that was featured by a three-goal hat trick by Mary Ellen Riordan.

Judy Phipps had two goals, Capt. Sheryl Walsh had a goal and an assist, Beth Colman had two assists for the Gold. Doreen Hayes added a goal and Sharon O'Leary and Eileen Marr each had an assist.

Capt. Marsha Hayes had the lone score for the Blue team, assisted by Terry Flynn and Nancy Willard.

The Gold goalie was Joanne Ruane.

The girls will play each Thursday night from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Quincy rink.

McHugh Fires 4 As Midget A's Win, 14-1

Jackie McHugh fired four goals and Paul Messina netted three as the Quincy Midget "A" team overran Brockton, 14-1, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Pat Barry and Brian Nevins each had a pair of goals and Paul Radzik, Dennis Lynch and Glen Ilanson had one apiece.

Radzik, Lynch and Rick Avery were credited with two assists while McHugh, Hanson, Mike McAuley, Nick Cyr and Mike Faherty had one each.

Radzik, McHugh, John

Erickson and Frankie Guest scored the goals Thursday [Nov. 8] in a 4-2 win over Canton which left the Quincy club with a record of six wins, one loss and two ties for the season.

Nevins, McHugh and Radzik also had assists.

Sullivan's Hat Trick Paces Squirt B's, 14-0

Brian Sullivan's three-goal hat trick led the way as the Quincy Squirt "B" team wallowed Bridgewater, 14-0, to win its fifth straight Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Bobby Kelly, Kevin Duff, and Paul McCabe each had two goals with Danny Boyle, Kevin Ryan, Mike McNiece, Timmy Ryan and Richie Stevens collecting one apiece.

Boyle had three assists, Kelly and Ryan two each, and Sullivan, McCabe, Chris Gorman and Mike Sullivan one apiece.

Tozzi Happy About X-Country Win Over Quincy

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams will enter the strong Suburban League next year but North's new coach, Lou Tozzi, will remember the Raiders' final Greater Boston League meet.

North recently upset Quincy for the first time in six years, 17-38, in the rivals' final GBL meet. Tozzi hopes that the win will hike interest in the sport at North.

Sophomore Bert Petracca, one of the finest prospects around, won the Quincy meet, his second straight win, as North took the first four places. Following Petracca were Art Barrett, Mark Canavan and Ken Barrett. The fifth scorer was Chris Cordeiro in seventh place.

Quincy's first finisher was Gary Delorio in fifth place, followed by Chip Colletta, sixth; Tim Kane, eighth; Ken O'Brien, ninth, and Fred Norkus, 10th.

In the GBL all-stars' 25-34 win over the Northeast Conference stars, Petracca and Art Barrett finished among the top 10.

In the all-league meet, won by Revere's undefeated champions, Petracca finished eighth and Art Barrett ninth. The top 30 received medals and Ken Barrett, also a sophomore, received one for finishing 29th. Jerry Dyer of North was a medal winner in the junior varsity meet. North's varsity ran without Canavan and Cordeiro and had only three runners.

Young Petracca finished 16th in the annual State Coaches' meet over the Franklin Park course.

Conti, Powers Lead Midget B's To 9-4 Win

Mike Conti and Jackie Powers each had two goals and an assist as the Quincy Midget "B" team overpowered Braintree, 9-4, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Steve Neville had a goal and an assist and Joe McConville had two assists.

Single goals were fired by Dennis Berton, Ed Santry, Pat McAuliffe and Pat Downing while Paul Connolly had one assist.

Harte, Messina, Burm Spark Mite B's, 15-0

Joe Harte contributed five goals, Scott Messina four and John Burm three as the Quincy Mite "B" team trounced

Brockton, 15-0, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Dickie Tapper, Paul Marshall and Mike Riley had the other goals.

Jack Gabriel had three assists, Chris Harrington two, and Kevin Greene, Bobby Fair and Billy Campbell one each.

GIFT BALL - Navy Commander Richard A. Stratton, a former prisoner of war in North Vietnam, holds the special game ball that was presented to him between the halves of Saturday's North Quincy-Somerville football game. Ball contains the scores of all the North Quincy games played while he was in captivity. Stratton attended North Quincy High School. With him are North Principal Peter Chisom (left), Mayor Walter Hannon (right) and School Committee Vice-chairman Paul Kelly at rear.

Stratton Honored

'It's A Day I'll Never Forget'

By TOM SULLIVAN

"This is a day I will never forget."

So said Navy Comdr. Richard A. Stratton, a Quincy native and former North Quincy student-athlete who spent six years in a North Vietnam Prisoner of War camp and last Saturday was guest of honor at the North Quincy-Somerville football game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Seeing his first North Quincy game since 1951, Comdr. Stratton was escorted onto the field at halftime by an honor guard from the First Naval District, Quincy Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, and North Quincy High Principal Peter Chisom.

Mayor Hannon presented the honored guest with a football inscribed with the North Quincy football scores during his imprisonment.

"Boy, this is wonderful and my kids [he has three sons] will get a big kick out of this ball," Comdr. Stratton said.

Following the game he was presented the game ball by North Co-Captain John Flynn.

When asked if he had played football at North, Comdr. Stratton smiled and replied, "No, I tried out as a sophomore but didn't make it." He did play golf for Jack Donahue, whom he talked about old times with at halftime, and also played some hockey when North introduced the sport.

"Dick's brother, Charlie, was a starting tackle for me for three years," Donahue said. "Dick was a great boy and was very popular at North."

Comdr. Stratton was president of his junior class and would have graduated with the Class of 1949, which is now making plans for its 25th reunion, but he left school to enter the seminary. He has been in the Navy for 18 years.

The guest of honor, released only last March by North Vietnam, congratulated Coach Ralph Frazier and his team after the game. "They certainly have an explosive team and they were amazing in that second half [North scored 34 points to win, 42-12, after trailing at halftime, 12-8]," he said. "Everything was just beautiful here today, the band and cheerleaders, the big crowd and the game itself. I'm never going to forget this day."

Comdr. Stratton now lives in California as does his brother, Charlie. He spent the weekend with his parents on Bowdoin St., Quincy.

North Quincy High Band Director David Watson assembled the band into an aircraft carrier formation to the strains of "God Bless America" during the halftime ceremony.

"Anchors Aweigh" was then played followed by the Navy Hymn. It was at this time that Comdr. Stratton was escorted onto the field for the presentation.

Monday the North band again greeted him as he entered North Quincy High for meetings with social studies classes.

That evening he was guest at a dinner and Tuesday the Quincy High band and Air Force Junior Reserve Training Corps honored him in ceremonies on the steps of the school. He talked with social studies classes at Quincy.

● Junior High Spotlight Schools Wind Up Grid Season

The Quincy Junior High League completed its football season last Friday when the Central and Atlantic-North teams played at the stadium.

The ninth grade game ended in an 8-8 tie. The rivals had previously played to a scoreless tie.

Mike Adams, who finished with 90 points, scored for Atlantic-North and Eddie McElaney added the points.

Mike Nolan had Central's touchdown and also scored the points.

A-N's eighth graders won, 8-6. Jimmy Hanahan scored the A-N touchdown and Joey Dean added the winning points. Jimmy Oriola had the Central touchdown.

Earlier in the week Atlantic-North swept both games from Point.

The ninth grade won easily,

44-0, as Adams had three touchdowns, Gerry McKenzie two and McElaney one. McElaney added a pair of two-point conversions and Art Bertoi and Billy White one each.

The A-N eighth graders won, 12-0, with Dean and Tom McElaney scoring the touchdowns, both in the second half.

A-N Edges Soccer All-Stars, 1-0

The Atlantic-North soccer team finished off an undefeated Quincy Junior High season last week with a 1-0 win over the league all-stars.

Leo Donovan's team won the league crown with an 8-0-0 record after Sterling had won four successive crowns and posted a 36-game unbeaten streak.

Matt Schaeffer, the league's record-breaking top scorer, scored the only goal of the all-star game.

Playing for the all-stars were John Dolbec, John Golub, Bruce Brennan, Tom McKillop, Don Jones and Ian Sheridan of Central; Chris Sidoti, Peter DiCenzo, Tom Pecoraro, Mike Kennedy and Lou Avitable of Sterling; Charles Dedian, John Connolly, Matthew Connolly, Simon Hillman, Jeff Morrison and Ken Norton of Broad Meadows, and Bill Maloney, Bob Page, Bob Salvati, Chris Goulart and Randy Nord of Point.

Schaeffer, who broke the league record with 13 goals to easily shatter the old mark of eight set by Ed McElaney of Atlantic-North last year, was named the league's most valuable player.

Most valuable player selections from the various schools were Jim McGinley and Rich Kelly of Atlantic-North, Dolbec and McKillop of Central, Norton and Dedian of Meadows, Maloney and Goulart of Point and Kennedy and DiCenzo of Sterling.

Red, Gold Teams Rack Up St. Joseph's Opening Wins

St. Joseph's Hockey League opened its season at Shea Rink, with the Red and Gold winning teams.

The defending champions Red team defeated last year's runner-up Blue team, 5-3. The Red team displayed a balance attack with five players scoring: Paul Eklund, one goal, Chet Brunstrum, one goal and an assist; John Duffy, one; Paul Galligan and Joe Coombs a goal and an assist each.

Scoring for the Blue team were Paul Veneziano, Mark Walker and David Errichiello.

In a hard hitting game the Gold team downed the Green team 6 to 3. Dan McCormick paced the winners with 2 goals, John Alfano, Dave Shaw, Jim Conso and Mike Grogan each had one goal. David McQuade led the Green scorers with two goals and an assist. Mike Sullivan scored the other goal.

YMCA Church Basketball League Deadline Nov. 17

All area churches interested in entering teams in the South Shore Church School Basketball League (Boys Division) this season are reminded that the deadline is Nov. 17.

Completed entry blanks and $10 fee, must be turned in to the Quincy YMCA on or before then. Late entries cannot be accepted.

The League season will officially get under way

Saturday, Dec. 8, with action in all five divisions. The divisions, by age, are as follows: Samson (through age 9), Daniel (10 and 11), Goliath (12 and 13), Jonathan (14 and 15), and David (ages 16 and 17).

Players participating on public, parochial or private school teams, grades 7 thru 12, are not eligible to compete in the Church School League.

O'Brien Club Romps Over Weymouth, 135-81

The O'Brien Club basketball team of Quincy, which looms as a power this year in the Cranberry League, opened its season last Sunday with an easy 135-81 non-league win over the Weymouth A.A.

Eddie Miller had 23 points, Pete Schmid 22, Allan Dalton 20; Ron Bradley, 16; John Hassan, 15; Dick Sprague, 15; Mike Greenlaw and Bob McNamara 12 each.

Player-coach Leo Papile has virtually the entire team which won the league crown two years ago as Beau's Place of Quincy and last year as Red Boot of Canton.

Everetts marry 2nd time

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Scoop! While Chad and Shelley Everett were on a cruise to Alaska last summer, they were married for a second time. Yes, their first marriage in Tucson, Ariz., seven years ago was as legal as could be, but, because they didn't like a couple of details of the first ceremony, they'd always planned to marry again, and the Alaskan cruise seemed to provide a perfect occasion for retying the knot.

You'll see exclusive pictures of the nuptials in the January issue of Photoplay, the magazine which ran exclusive art of the first Everett wedding.

Magda Gabor will wed Palm Springs artist John Morris. Hers will be the first wedding in the Gabor family in the past three minutes. ... Edward Winter, a regular on "Adam's Rib," has become best friends with Yale and Suzi Sommers. How about that? Winter and Sommers. ... Jim Nabors may be embarking upon a whole new career, that of dramatic actor. He's just played a baddie in an episode of "The Rookies" and did so well he's been paged for a heavy dramatic part in "Owen Marshall." Couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Connie Stevens hopes injured ex-husband Jim Stacy will spend the Christmas holidays at her house. ... Guess who wrote and directed "The Man Eater," an ABC Movie of the Week? None other than Vince Edwards, erstwhile star of ABC's erstwhile "Ben Casey." ... Robert Lyle, young financier whose U.S. Bullion Co.'s the country's largest trader in silver bullion, is acquiring properties for movie and TV production. Meanwhile, if the price of silver keeps going up, he'll soon be worth his weight in gold. ... Henry Fonda has been signed by producers Mike Merrick and Don Gregory to play "Clarence Darrow" in a one-man play of that name. It will premiere in Chicago in late January and then play limited engagements in other cities now being set. The play will open in Chicago, since that's where the real Clarence Darrow spent his professional life. ... Before Garson Kanin's new book, "A Thousand Summers," was published, Paul Newman, Jack Lemmon and George Segal requested copies, and they got them, too. Wonder which one will play the lead when the novel moves to the screen.

Michael Haynes, the Winchester Man, isn't idle even though his TV commercials have been scratched. Michael has just written a screen play, "Seven for Sundown," a sort of replay of "The Magnificent Seven" with motorcycles replacing horses, and Saber Productions has taken an option. That's the company which produced "Chrome and Hot Leather," another wheels epic Michael wrote and starred in. ... Robert Nathan's new book, "The Summer Meadows," is the 40th he's written in his 80 years. When his wife stopped by a Beverly Hills bookstore recently to ask, "Please put my husband's new book in your window," the clerk assured, "Oh, we've done that, Mrs. Nathan. We've put your husband in the window next to Marilyn Monroe." ... When Dorothy Lamour opened in Sydney, Australia, Bob Hope wired, "If you see a blue-eyed kangaroo, tell her I'll send the child support payments." Dottie read the wire from the stage, and the audience whooped and howled. ... Incidentally, when Ryan O'Neal introduced himself and daughter, Tatum, to Hope in the lobby of the Sherry Netherlands Hotel in New York a while back, Hope didn't know who Ryan was. But, having seen "Paper Moon," he's an enthusiastic fan of both Daddy O'Neal and daughter.

Asked whether the baby she's going to have will call Quincy Jones, "Daddy," Peggy Lipton snapped, "Who else?" which was the same thing as saying, "yes."

The Theater Museum in Warsaw has dedicated a room to Pola Negri. It's filled with her memorabilia including shoes she wore as a ballerina and the dress she wore in "Passion," a picture in which she costarred with Emil Jannings.

Carol Channing has received a letter from an Australian rancher who wrote that, while business prevented him from catching her performance in Melbourne, he'd give her 50,000 acres of his half-million acre ranch if she'd repeat her act at his house. Carol had to turn down the offer; possibly because her agents, the William Morris office, weren't sure how to handle a 5,000-acre commission.

Young Ideas

Unedited selections from the writings of Quincy's elementary school children.

NEW ENGLAND AQUARIUM

My class went to the New England Aquarium. We saw all the fish. We went to see the big tank. It was fun to go there. I would like to go there again.

Melissa Allen

Children's Artist At Main Library

Circle November 16 on your Children's Book Week calendar! John Langstaff, concert artist and author of children's books, will be at the Thomas Crane Public Library that Friday evening at 7 p.m.

Langstaff is known for his classic versions of "Frog Went A-Courting" and "Over In The Meadow" as well as his collections of ballads and folksongs in "Jim Along Josie" and "Hi Ho The Rattling Bog." Concert tours, teaching, and recording sessions are also part of Langstaff's busy life.

Visits to ethnic neighborhoods around Boston and New York led to the compilation of street games and chants which have been published in "Shimmy Shimmy Coke-Ca-Pop," Langstaff's latest book.

Directions for the games, piano arrangements, and action photographs make this book a valuable addition to the folk traditions of America.

School age children and their families are invited to join Langstaff in concert at the main library.

FORMER PRISONERS-OF-WAR, Naval Commander Richard A. Stratton (left) and George J. York talk with Social Studies Classes at Quincy High School. Commander Stratton, a POW in Vietnam for six years, spent Tuesday answering questions of Social Studies students, a portion of which was permanently recorded on videotape for use by future Social Studies classes, according to Jack Harrington, Chairman of the Quincy High School Social Studies Department. York, a World War II POW served as host for Commander Stratton. He is presently a Social Studies teacher at Quincy High School.

Future Nurses Club Elects New Officers

By LORENE JACK

This years Future Nurses of America elected their new officers for this year.

Three seniors and one junior, they are: Jeanne Bowen, president; Kathy Hardiman, vice president; Anne Golden, treasurer and Terry Maskell, secretary.

The club meets the first Wednesday of every month. At the meetings they discuss future field trips and fund raising ideas.

Each year Miss O'Brien selects a variety of hospitals to visit. This way if a girl has been in the club for three years, she would have visited most of the surrounding hospitals. By doing this, she can get a pretty good idea of which nursing school she would like to attend.

At the end of each year, the Future Nurses Club presents a $100 and two $50 scholarships to members who intend to go on to further education in medicine. Cake sales and selling candy contribute to the scholarship fund.

News Notes

By ELEANOR EICOFF

Campaign '73, a project of the Social Studies Department got underway the week before the Primary Election in Quincy.

All candidates were invited to Quincy High School to voice their opinions on various issues and to answer the questions of the student body.

While not every candidate was able to attend, most were, and the students in attendance were able to judge for themselves what qualifications and ideas each speaker had.

An Open House for the Math, Foreign Language and Art Departments at Quincy High School were held last week. Approximately 75 parents met in the new Quincy Method Center before visiting the resource centers of each department.

All other departments will be having open houses in the near future. If you're a parent, or just a concerned citizen watch this newspaper for a list of the upcoming dates for the Open Houses.

10 Church Choirs To Take Part In Bethany Festival Sunday

Ten church choirs of the South Shore will be joining in the second annual Church Festival at Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy Center, Sunday Nov. 18, at 7 P.M. The public is invited to participate.

Arrangements are being made by the Music Committee of Bethany Church under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Krasinski.

Each choir will sing one selection of its own choosing and then will participate with the massed choirs in singing six anthems under the direction of Professor Robert E. Brown of Eastern Nazarene College.

Selected as anthems are: "Alleluia" by Randall

Thompson; "Helig, Helig, Helig" by Franz Schubert; "Psalm 150" by Cesar Franck; "Come Let's Rejoice" by Carapetian; "The Eyes of All Wait Upon Thee" by Jean Berger and "Fa Una Canzona" by Orazio Vecchi.

A rehearsal of the combined choirs will begin at 4 P.M. Nov. 18 after which a light supper will be served to the singers by the Bethany Music Committee under the direction of Mrs. Richard E. Sprague. Ushers for the evening will be under the direction of William Mewis.

An offering will be taken to benefit the Protestant Social Service Bureau of the South Shore.

Participating choirs and their directors include: Wollaston

Baptist Church - Professor Robert E. Brown; Atlantic Methodist Church - Mrs. Donald Moulton; Pilgrim Congregational Church (North Weymouth) - Giles Hazard; East Weymouth Methodist Church - Mrs. Thomas Blakeley; Hough's Neck Congregational Church - Arden Schofield; Covenant

Congregational Church Quincy - Miss Diane Platt; Union Congregational Church Wollaston - Lawrence Yerdon; First Parish Church Quincy - Mrs. Gale Harrison; St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church Wollaston - Mrs. Margot Robinson and Bethany Congregational Church - Lambert Brandes.

The Envoys Gospel Quartet At Wollaston Nazarene

The Envoys, a gospel quartet from Rockaway, N.J., will be featured at a concert Friday Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. in the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

The concert is sponsored by Students in Action of Eastern Nazarene College.

Tickets at $1 are available at the House of Praise Bookstore, 681 Hancock St., Wollaston. Tickets at the door will be $1.25.

Alcohol Education Program Planned In Schools

Representatives from 13 South Shore communities met at Broad Meadows Junior High School, Quincy, last week to organize a pilot program in alcohol education for the public schools.

The program, funded by a grant from the National PTA, is a cooperative effort among the Massachusetts PTA, the South Shore Council on Alcoholism, the state Department of Education and the State Department of Public Health.

A teen panel called "Teenagers Talk About Drinking" was moderated by John Mahoney of the Quincy public schools.

Mayor Commends Voters For Primary Turnout

Mayor Walter Hannon has commended Quincy residents for getting out and voting "on a rather cold November day" despite the fact that in two of the bigger wards, 5 and 6, there were no ward council races at all.

Hannon said he thought his plurality is a good indication his administration is headed in the right direction and people are aware of this. He said he is "heartened by their show of confidence."

Hannon also praised the candidates for their enthusiasm which resulted in an almost 40 per cent turnout, while the surrounding areas reported light turnouts.

"It's nice to know that people in Quincy are not apathetic but are concerned citizens," he said.

Rev. John R. Graham Survival, Inc. President

The Board of Directors of Survival Inc., has elected Rev. John R. Graham, pastor of United First Parish Church, Quincy, as president for the year 1974.

Other new officers also elected were:

Dr. Charles Munson, psychologist for the Quincy Public Schools, vice-president; Dr. Carol Lee Griffin, director of pupil personnel Quincy public schools, secretary, and Mrs. Maude Johnson, Wollaston, treasurer.

Rev. Mr. Graham succeeds retired Police Capt. Frank Vallier as president and Dr. Munson succeeds Herb Fontaine of WJDA as vice-president. Dr. Griffin and Mrs. Johnson have served in the same capacities for 1973.

Survival Inc., it was noted at the meeting, has "made great strides in 1973 under the Presidency of Captain Vallier."

During his tenure as president, the Joseph H. Whitman House at 1230 Hancock Street was opened and is now treating many heavily addicted young persons from the South Shore.

Survival's Walk-In Center and 24-hour hotline are handling record numbers of persons, and the agency's court and prison work and education efforts in the community have greatly expanded.

Rev. Mr. Graham said he believes Survival will continue to serve many young persons, pointing more towards persons with non-drug problems and moving into increased contact with individuals and their families away from Survival's actual facilities. He said he feels "the agency has finally gathered a very strong and committed staff to carry out its basic purpose of helping the troubled young persons in the area."

Survival, it was noted, is now under serious consideration in Washington for a sizable $100,000 National Institute of Mental Health rehabilitation grant as a model program with multi-faceted programs geared to handle a wide range of youth-related problems. Such a grant will enable Survival to continue its current programs and expand where needed in 1974.

Boston Flamenco Ballet At Central Nov. 30

As part of the Foreign Language Study Program, the Central Junior High School Spanish Department will host the Boston Flamenco Ballet under the direction of Simon Blasco.

Blasco will present to the students a lecture-demonstration on the origin of the Flamenco dance at 11 a.m., Nov. 30, in the Learning Center at Central Junior High School.

Family Reunions, Church Services, Football To Mark Thanksgiving

Quincy will observe Thanksgiving with church services and big turkey dinners Thursday. Thankful that American participation in the Vietnam War is over.

But the turkeys they eat will cost considerably more than last year and the dining room will be a little chillier, a foretaste of the winter's heat shortage to come.

There will be Thanksgiving Day services in Catholic and Protestant churches.

Some church groups have been collecting canned goods for needy families.

Some 12,000 Quincy people are expected to keep warm and forget their money problems by cheering their favorite team as Quincy High meets North Quincy for the 41st time in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

74 Units And Floats

Over 250,000 Expected At Christmas Parade Sunday

Santa Arrives By Helicopter Saturday

Santa Claus arrives in Quincy by Helicopter Saturday to find the city a little darker than usual this Christmas season due to the energy crisis.

But the darkness is not expected to interfere with the old fellow's arrival since it will be sometime between 9:30 a.m. and 10 a.m. when he is scheduled to land on the roof of the parking garage in the Ross Parking area.

The Christmas lights in downtown Quincy will be turned on Friday with appropriate ceremonies at 7:30 p.m.

In the old days, before oil and other forms of energy were short, they would have remained on between the hours of 4 p.m. and 1 a.m. each day until Jan. 1.

This year, however, they will be turned off at 9:30 p.m. Friday, then turned on again at 6:30 p.m., Monday, Dec. 3, and remain on between 6:30 and 10:30 p.m. each day until Christmas.

Santa's schedule will be more like old times.

He will come down an aerial ladder from the garage roof to be greeted by Mayor Walter J. Hannon and a host of Disneyland characters.

He will proceed by cavalcade down Clevedon St., and Hancock St., to the Rite Aid store, which will be his headquarters for the rest of his stay in Quincy.

His hours will be 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays starting Dec. 6 through Dec. 22.

Seventy-four marching units and floats, the largest number in its history, are expected to step off down Hancock St. Sunday in the biggest Christmas Festival Parade yet in Quincy.

More than a quarter million spectators will line the parade route from Wollaston Center, where it begins at 1 p.m., down Hancock St. to the Ross Parking Area in Quincy Center.

The parade, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, has as its theme, "It's a Small World".

The first division of the parade will be led by the Quincy Police Color Guard followed by Mickey and Minnie Mouse, the honorary marshalls.

Ten youth and eight adult groups will compete for the $1,000 grand prize for floats, according to Float Chairman Richard Venna.

There will also be prizes of $500 and a trophy, $250, $150 and $100 in each category.

Three commercial floats will compete for a trophy.

The Mayor's trophy will be awarded to the best float by a youth or adult group based in Quincy.

Judges of the float competition will be Sister Veronica Julie, S.N.D., of Notre Dame Art Studio, South Weymouth; William J. Loughran, president of the Milton Art Association; Hugh Sloan, coordinator of art education of the Weymouth Public Schools and Mrs. Edith Gillis, president of the Braintree Art Association.

The floats will be judged in two phases, once in the judging area on Clay St. and again at the intersection of Hancock St. and Cottage Ave. Clay St. judging will make up 75 per cent of the final mark.

Floats are reminded to enter Clay Street from Hancock Street and proceed to the judging area.

Parade Coordinator Anthony M. Famigletti has listed 15 bands, 14 drum and bugle corps, 11 majorette squads and two drill teams to participate in the parade.

Eleven high school bands, including those of Quincy and North Quincy, will compete for a $200 first prize, a $100 second prize and a $50 third prize.

Other marching bands and Class A drum and bugle corps will compete for the same amounts of prize money while first prize for the Class B drum and bugle corps will be $150.

Anchoring the rear of the parade will be a Fire Department ladder truck and a Quincy Police Association float with Santa Claus.

George C. Fay is chairman of the Festival Committee with Tony Famigletti, musical coordinator; Richard Venna, float coordinator; Mary Jane Fandel, secretary.

Members of the committee include:

George White, the Patriot Ledger; Carter Caudle, Quincy Public Schools; Win Bettinson, WIDA; Tony Malvesti, Quincy Fire Department; Henry Bosworth, the Quincy Sun; Kemo DeNicola, South Shore TV; David Coletti, Coletti Brothers, architects; Jay Nolan, musician.

Also Dan Barry, Barry's Ship Haven; John Murray, South Shore National Bank; Lt. Jack Flaherty, Quincy Police Department; Joseph Angelo, Remick's; Richard Koch, Park and Recreation Board; Joseph Shea, the Mayor's administrative assistant; and Ron Mendler, executive director of the QCBFA, and Robert Noble.

Uncle Sam Has Tax Refunds For 11 Quincy Residents

Eleven Quincy residents have Federal Income Tax refunds coming to them but the government doesn't know where to send the money.

Refund checks mailed to them in 1973 were returned marked "undeliverable".

They are Kenneth R. Cram Jr., Kenneth W. Goodwin, Rosemarie Johnson, Albert

Lamonica, Edward R. Mullen, Meredith A. Rogers, Richard C. Scherer, Francis E. Bradley, Mary F. Demetri, Sabina Stenberg and Philip C. Doten.

William E. Williams, district director of the Boston IRS, advises those named to go to the nearest IRS office and produce proper identification so that the refund checks can be reissued.

Ceiling Price Stickers Must Be On Gasoline Pumps Tonight

New ceiling price stickers must be on the pumps of all gasoline and diesel fuel retailers by 11:59 p.m. tonight [Wednesday], according to William E. Williams, director of Internal Revenue for the Boston District.

Quincy dealers may pick up their stickers and instruction-computation forms at 1 Cliveden St., Quincy.

Brett Asks Re-dedication Of Sgt. Greenberg Bridge

Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] has asked that the new bridge on Quincy Shore Drive over Black's Creek be re-dedicated in the memory of late Marine Sgt. Philip Greenberg.

The old bridge on the same spot was named for him in 1960.

"I would hope that we might have the re-dedication sometime next spring when the construction in that area shall probably have been completed," said Brett in a letter to MDC Commissioner John W. Sears.

● QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Does Highway Tax Pay For Mass Transit?

The Voter Information Phone of the League of Women Voters received a call asking "Does the Massachusetts highway tax pay for mass transportation?" It was pointed out to the caller that by 1975 this may be the case.

There is an initiative petition amendment to the constitution due for action in the second session of the General Court. Its purpose is to allow gas tax funds to be used in part for mass transit needs. If this amendment is passed by 25 percent of the Massachusetts General Court, it will appear on the ballot in 1974 and go into effect immediately. This constitutional amendment has already passed the previous legislature.

However, the caller was told there is some state aid for mass transportation. At present, cigarettes are taxed at 16 cents per package, of which four cents subsidizes mass transportation.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP phone Monday through Friday between 10 A.M. and 2 P.M. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

- Economic Outlook Real Grim
- Nixon's Income Taxes
- Washington Slush Funds

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The economic outlook is far more bleak than President Nixon is telling the public. His own experts are warning that the Arab oil embargo will send this country into an economic tailspin. Unless it is lifted, they predict a serious recession, perhaps even a depression, within the next two years.

The oil shortage will hit all the industries, from automobiles to plastics, that use petroleum products. People will have to be laid off work. They will tighten their belts. This means less money will be spent on consumer products, which, in turn, will cause more layoffs and belt-tightening.

Already, the surveys show that consumers are losing confidence in the economy. They are wary about the oil shortages. They have lost faith in President Nixon's leadership. They are worried about layoffs and loss of overtime.

Their natural reaction is to save money against a possible loss of income. Therefore, they don't buy the car or TV set or refrigerator that they might otherwise have purchased. The sale of durable goods has already leveled off.

Meanwhile, the experts predict the nation will be hit by electricity blackouts and cold homes as a direct result of the oil shortage. President Nixon's political instinct will be to cut back on factories rather than households. He doesn't want millions of voters shivering and blaming him.

But if the households consume too much energy, there won't be enough to operate our plants. This will result, inevitably, in plant closures and increased unemployment.

The warnings are dire. But President Nixon is still taking only half-measures.

Nixon's Undoing: The 19-point bill of particulars cited by the AFL-CIO as grounds for the impeachment of President Nixon leads off with the charge that he used the office for personal enrichment.

Probably no other White House scandal has so enraged the American people as the story of the President's taxes and estates. Despite a salary of $200,000 a year, he paid a federal income tax of only $792.81 in 1970 and $878.03 in 1971. This is no more than a working man with the same size family would pay if he earned only $8,500 a year.

One reason the President got away with paying such low taxes was because of the deductions afforded by his homes in San Clemente and Key Biscayne. Yet the taxpayers got stuck with most of the bills for these kingly estates. They have cost the taxpayers more than $10 million, not counting the tremendous transportation bill the President and his aides have run up flying cross country.

Many of the expenditures can be justified as essential to the President's security. But the taxpayers have also been soaked for many luxuries and incidentals, such as stamping his golf tees with the presidential logo and furnishing his bathroom with his favorite soap.

His aides also wrangled some extras out of the taxpayers. At San Clemente, for example, the taxpayers had to pay for a Muzak system to pipe music into the offices of aides John Ehrlichman, Henry Kissinger, Dwight Chapin and Rose Mary Woods. The cost for this background music was $992.94.

It may be the waste, more than Watergate, that will cause the President's undoing.

Battling Back: The President has been making overtures to Congress to head off the move to impeach him. He has been calling in the Republican members, a group at a time, to lay his case before them. At these sessions, he has been effective in drawing off the steam that had been building up on Capitol Hill.

But in the privacy of his oval office, the President hasn't been at all conciliatory. It is his habit to go into seclusion to grapple with a great crisis. Our White House sources say he came out of seclusion the first of November with fire in his eyes.

He told aides that the American people like a fighter and that he is going to fight his way back to the top. He compared himself to the late President Harry Truman who never stopped battling when he sank in the popularity polls.

Nixon swore to his aides fiercely that he had no intention of turning the government over to those who have been out to get him. If he left the White House as his adversaries are demanding, he said, he would be cut to pieces by them.

He doesn't intend to let his adversaries shear him of his presidential powers, which would leave him unarmed and helpless. On the contrary, he is determined to stay in the White House and to use the powers of the presidency to defend himself.

Our sources say Richard Nixon made this perfectly clear.

Ironic Twist: Spiro Agnew often complained to his rich friends that the demands on a man in high office were too large for the salary. He needed cash, he told them, to carry on in the style befitting a national office holder.

Because he accepted cash, he is no longer a national office holder. But the Agnew example dramatically illustrates the problems many politicians of modest means now face.

The laws governing campaign funds have been tightened, so that politicians can no longer dip into their campaign money to pay personal bills. They have to find some other way to finance newsletters, travel and other incidentals.

This has compelled some congressmen to raise slush funds to cover their incumbency expenses. It was a slush fund that got Richard Nixon into trouble in the 1952 campaign.

But slush funds have now become the only way some congressmen can pay for all the incidentals they used to take out of their campaign collections. Wyoming's Rep. Teno Roncalio, for example, is throwing a party billed as "Vino with Teno" to raise money. Others on Capitol Hill have planned similar fundraising affairs.

By a twist of irony, in other words, campaign reforms have forced some politicians to appeal to contributors for noncampaign funds and, thereby, to become even more dependent on rich patrons.

3 Newsmen Crash Kennedy Compound

Where Were Secret Servicemen Assigned To Protect JFK In Hyannis Port After Election ?

By HENRY BOSWORTH
Publisher, Quincy Sun

It bothered me as I stood there in the living room of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy's house in the Kennedy compound waiting for the President-elect to appear.

Where were the Secret Servicemen. I wondered. I wasn't even supposed to be there--yet no one had checked me out or even challenged me.

The word was that 18 Secret service agents had been assigned to protect the next President of the United States. But there was no sign of them around the house that night.

It was the evening of Nov. 10, 1960.

Earlier that day, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 35th President-to-be, had held a press conference at the Hyannis National Guard armory which had served as press headquarters during the election.

The headlines kept changing all day:

"Hoover [J. Edgar], Dulles To Stay"

"Like Asks JFK Meet Him Soon On Takeover"

"Kennedy Says Election Repudiates No One"

Hyannis and Hyannis Port had become international datelines.

The day before the headline was "Kennedy Warns Of Challenge Ahead For U.S."

That was the day when Richard Nixon had finally conceded victory to the handsome young Senator from Massachusetts after a long night of see-saw election results.

That afternoon, the whole Kennedy clan happily gathered at the armory to hear the President-elect make a short victory statement. Standing proudly at his side was his 31-year-old wife, Jacqueline, who was expecting their second child in a few weeks.

On the rostrum were his parents, Joseph and Rose Kennedy, his brother, Robert, his wife, Ethel, Ted, his sisters Eunice Shriver, Jean Smith and Pat Lawford. And somewhere in the background, his brother-in-law Peter Lawford.

All listened intently as the next President declared:

"The election may have been a close one. But I think that there is a general agreement by all of our citizens that the supreme national effort will be needed in the years ahead to move this country safely through the 1960's."

"I ask your help in this effort. And I can assure you that every degree of mind and spirit that I possess will be devoted to the long-range interests of the United States and to the cause of freedom around the world."

Then, obviously emotionally moved and with tears in his eyes he expressed thanks to "all those who worked so long and so hard in this campaign."

Then, with Jacqueline clasping her hands behind her back, like a little girl, he smiled: "Now, my wife and I prepare for a new administration and a new baby. I thank you."

He had made quite an impression on me. And I was replaying that scene in my mind as I stood there in Joseph Kennedy's living room that Nov. 10th night waiting for him. Waiting with me must have been 50 other newsmen.

But at least three of us were not supposed to be there. We were party crashers. The invitation had been extended to the press that had traveled with Kennedy throughout the campaign. The local press was excluded.

I was covering the election for The Boston Traveler. Dave Farrell, now with the Boston Globe, was covering for The Boston Herald and photographer Frank Kelly was taking pictures for both papers.

The three of us decided this was a once-in-a-life-time opportunity and we weren't going to miss it.

The bus to take the invited press to the Kennedy compound was parked outside the Hyannis armory. The three of us had proper press credentials but only to get us into the armory.

We walked down the street after eating and stepped aboard the bus. No one questioned us. When everyone was aboard the bus left for the compound in Hyannis Port.

We entered the compound. No one asked for credentials. We entered Joseph Kennedy's house. No one asked for credentials.

Apparently anyone could have gotten aboard that bus and rode into the compound that night.

None of the Kennedy's were there when we arrived, so we started browsing around the living room. On the wall were framed letters exchanged between Ambassador Kennedy and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

On the fireplace mantle was a model of the USS Joseph F. Kennedy Jr., the destroyer named after the son whose planned political career went down in flame in a World War II plane crash.

The dining room connected with the living room. And on the dining room table was a punch bowl and some cups. Someone said to help ourselves. We did.

Everyone headed back into the living room. I didn't care too much for the punch and was returning my cup to the dining room table when a screen door leading into the room swung open and in stepped John F. Kennedy.

He walked over to me and we shook hands. "Congratulations, Mr. President," I said. It wasn't the correct protocol. He was still officially Senator Kennedy. But he seemed to enjoy being called "Mr. President" and smiled.

We were alone in the room for just a few moments. The others spotted him and we were soon surrounded.

Kennedy looked happy--but tired. His eyes were red from the strain of the campaign and the final agonizing hours when the election could have gone either way.

One reporter asked him what he thought made the final difference in the election.

"He [Nixon] stayed around too long in the south," Kennedy replied. [Although "stayed" wasn't the exact word he used].

Soon other members of the Kennedy family joined us. Jacqueline, pregnant with John John, was radiantly beautiful and most gracious. Rose Kennedy looked as trim as the Kennedy sisters. Bobby Kennedy and Ted were there. And Sargent Shriver, too. But Joseph Kennedy was no where to be seen.

Kennedy revealed he was flying to Palm Springs, Fla., the next morning. He said he would relax a little and "maybe play a little golf."

"But don't mention the golf," he laughed. He didn't want the country to think it was getting another golfer for President.

I got to chatting with Rose Kennedy and were soon discussing Quincy and Presidents John and John Quincy Adams. She wanted to know all about them and especially, Abigail. I told her all I knew and said that when I got back home I would have City Historian William Edwards send more information to her. [He did.]

Someone then produced a number of Christmas wrapped bottles of bourbon, scotch and rye from under the counter in the kitchen.

And then came a sight you could never forget: the President-elect of the United States carrying ice cubes for the press and pouring drinks for them.

A real down-to-earth family.

It was a night to remember and cherish.

The following morning the Kennedy party flew out of Barnstable airport in Hyannis aboard the private plane Caroline.

I remember seeing Joseph Kennedy there. And, Caroline, not then quite three and as cute as little Shirley Temple.

I got no more chance to talk with Kennedy there.

Pierre Salinger and Kenneth O'Donnell were standing behind us as we talked.

"Good Luck, Mr. President," I said to him again in farewell as we shook hands. "Thank you," he said breaking into a wide grin, getting a kick out of me calling him "Mr. President" for the second time.

After the plane took off, I kiddingly told Farrell and Kelly that someday I would write the story of how we crashed the Kennedy compound.

I figured that wouldn't be for at least eight years. I thought for sure he would be re-elected. And for years after that, he would be sought after for his comments and opinions on world affairs.

This is the first time the story has been told.

And it pains me now on this 10th anniversary of his tragic death in Dallas, Tex., as I recall telling Kelly and Farrell.

"And do you know what I'm going to write about? 'I'm going to write how we got by the Secret Service that night. I'm going to write how BEAMING John F. Kennedy receives congratulations in Hyannis after his election as 35th President, Nov. 9, 1960. This is how he will be remembered by millions on the tragic 10th anniversary of his assassination.

[Frank Kelly Photo]

I could have assassinated John Fitzgerald Kennedy over the punch bowl in the dining room of his father's house."

But who could have foreseen back then what was to happen three years later?

He symbolized so much new hope for a troubled old world.

But I can't help wondering about the Secret Service men that night in Hyannis Port and that morning three years later in Dallas.

It still bothers me.

• Youth Speaks Out

• Report cards come out this week and with them comes the end of many free weekends.

• There has been an attempt to ban "Playgirl" magazine, but presumably Henry Kissinger couldn't do a centerfold if it was banned, so its still available.

• In co-operation with the cut-back of use off electrical equipment, Rudolf's nose will only shine between the hours of 4 and 10 this year.

• Now that the speed limit is 50 most people will probably cut down to 65 on the expressway.

• There's a new movie out called Clones, about producing humans without sexual activity. Why would anyone want to?

• Most celebrities have a favorite charity or disease that they give time and money to. President Nixon has decided his will be tapeworm.

Braintree Choral Society Golden Concert Dec. 8

Braintree Choral Society's Golden Anniversary will be celebrated with a concert at Braintree Town Hall, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m. featuring an uncut version of "Messiah" by G. F. Handel, with George M. Butler, Jr., director.

The sixty-voice chorus, including 14 from Quincy, will sing the Watkins Shaw edition used by Thomas Dunn, director of the Handel and Haydn Society, Boston, which contains authentic choruses and solos autographed by Handel. The conducting score is the one Handel himself used. Orchestral accompaniment will be by an all-professional orchestra, including a harpsichord, the authentic instrument of Handel's time.

Hester, bass, will be guest soloists.

Braintree Choral Society was founded fifty years ago by Cora Gooch Brooks and her husband, the late William C. Brooks at 234 River St., Braintree. She was director-pianist for BCS for 35 years, and retired due to ill health in 1958. She died June 6, 1966 at 96 years of age. Mr. Butler became director in 1966, and gave a memorial concert for her in December, 1966. He has continued to present masterworks ever since, including "The Creation" [Haydn]; Mozart's C-minor Mass, with orchestral accompaniment; J. S. Bach's "Magnificat in D", and the Mozart Requiem this Spring at St. Stephen's in Cohasset.

Four of New England's most prominent soloists, Barbara Wallace, soprano; Ruth K. Sullivan, Contralto; Frank Hoffmeister, tenor, and Francis

Quincy members of the society are:

Lindsay Acomb, Ann Ahnberg, Blanche Briggs, Cynthia Brosnan, Luisa Dano, Maria Dano, James deCristofaro, Vivianne LaMorder, Margaret Morris, Helen Morris, Beverly Morrison, Paul Sears, Miriam Sherburne, and Faith Small.

PERSONAL Mother disagrees on hair

By MARILYN and PAT DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Marilyn and Pat:

You are always recommending that boys keep their hair neat, well-groomed, and no longer than the collar. Well, I disagree with you! I have three boys and they all have long hair and I mean LONG. One boy has a ponytail, one wears it to the shoulders, and the other lets it hang free and wears a band around his forehead. These kids may look sloppy but at least I'm not going broke paying for haircuts three times a month. So stop knocking long hair for boys until you can figure out a way to pay the bills.

Dad

Dear Dad:

Why not try one of those do-it-yourself kits? You certainly have a fertile field on which to practice.

Dear Marilyn and Pat:

I read your column and enjoy it. However, I am disappointed in your reply to the lady who was tired of "the housework trip." She was asking how to convince her husband that cooking, cleaning, and caring for two small children is hard work. You suggested that she take a week's vacation and that the husband would soon be convinced.

Unfortunately, he wouldn't be convinced of anything in one short week. Friends, relatives and neighbors would help with food and child care. He wouldn't wash or clean, and would probably leave a week's supply of dirty dishes in the sink. Everything would be left to the wife's "homecoming." In a week, the husband would not shop, pay bills, or take the children to the doctor or dentist — plus millions of other little errands.

There simply is no good answer you could give this lady because trying to convince a man of the time and effort expended would be a lost cause.

Bee in Texas

Dear Bee:

Perhaps you are right.

Dear Marilyn and Pat:

I met Andy two months ago and it was love at first sight. In my estimation, he is perfect; and to add to my good luck Andy loves me. I want to get married as soon as possible, but Andy feels we should wait until we have known each other a little longer. We are both 23 and I can't understand his reason for want to delay. How can I speed things up?

Carol

Dear Carol:

Slow down! Don't rush into marriage with such haste. Marriage is one of the most important decisions you'll probably ever make. And it often takes more than two months to buy a car, a house, or even find the proper dress for an important occasion.

Listen to Andy and give yourself a little time. At this point, you are seeing Andy through rose-colored glasses. Remember that Andy is a human being with all the human faults and frailties which are bound to surface eventually. The old cliché "marry in haste and repent at leisure" still holds true.

Today's Women

A CHEF AT WORK — Mrs. Susan Beigbender, a professional chef, demonstrates preparation of low-calorie dishes.

COOKING CORNER

Woman chef offers dieters' cheese cake

By OPAL CRANDALL
Copley News Service

Mrs. Frank Beigbender, a professional chef, attributes her profession to entertaining and foreign travel.

"They combined to give me the background which I needed for a professional career," she said. "I can really thank my husband — he's an Air Force lieutenant colonel. My travels came through his duty in foreign countries. And a service wife traditionally does a lot of entertaining. When we were stationed in a foreign country I tried to learn as much as I could of that country's cuisine."

Mrs. Beigbender, of Anaheim, Calif., is chef and founder of Dames de Cuisine of Weight Watchers, and presents demonstrations for them.

Preparing exciting foods which are low-calorie is a real challenge, Mrs. Beigbender said.

"There is no food that is entirely cut from the low-calorie diet — it is just used more judiciously," she said. "I lost 15 pounds and I never felt deprived. Even cheese cake is allowed occasionally."

Her recipe for cheese cake follows. The cake has no crust (it's off-limits to weight-watchers) but it is so firm it slices and holds up very well. Mrs. Beigbender suggests that, in lieu of crust, the cake be garnished with fresh fruit.

PINEAPPLE CHEESE CAKE

½ medium pineapple (cut in chunks)
2 cups diet soda (cream or lemon)
½ tsp. vanilla extract
1 & one-third cups ricotta cheese
2 tbsps. plain gelatin
Artificial sweetener to equal 2 tablespoons (or to taste)

Boil the pineapple and one cup of diet soda for 20 minutes (this must be done or it won't set). In a bowl, mix one cup diet soda and gelatin. To this add the cooked pineapple and chill until syrupy. Put this in blender and blend. Add all other ingredients and blend. Pour into a nine-inch pie plate and chill until firm. Serves two.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Her hubby plays a losing game

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Graphoanalyst
Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I am a housewife who has been married for 11 years to a man who thinks I am just wonderful. He's a silent type engineer and I can't stand him. That's my problem. I have tried so hard to learn to live with this situation, but he's got so many faults. So what to do?

of writing with other strokes. You keep a running account of his liabilities — that's all.

Your smaller than average writing, combined with the tall t, and the v formations, keep you focusing in on yourself. The loop on the left side of the g lets you believe just what you want to believe.

The real facts could very well stymie the impression you are trying to create, so you color the truth to your taste. But your man is human. You're his showpiece. So, he just "hangs in."

B.G.

Dear B.G.:

You rate so high on your own team that it doesn't give your husband too fair a chance. He just doesn't "score" in your mind, so you can't stand him.

Everyone needs attention, but you are working overtime to increase your own status, seen in your very tall t's. All is not enough. So, to satisfy your inflated sense of self-esteem, you are forced to bask in the sunshine of your own self-praise and approval.

Your husband plays a losing game, no matter how hard he tries, as he competes with the speed of your critical mind. You are picky and fault-finding, seen in the evaluation of the v formations along the line

If he thinks you're wonderful, you'd better start counting his assets. Plenty of my readers would gladly change places with you anytime.

Since none of us has been exempt from carrying our fair share of human weaknesses, the next time you scan your husband's faults be sure to take a good long look at your own.

D.J.

MONEY TALKS Here's What They Were Saying Prior To The Crashes

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Hallowbrook
8-7:30 Weddays 8-7:30 Thursdays

In the months before the stock market crash of 1929, the nation's publications were filled with bullish articles encouraging get-rich investments. A "New Era in the Stock Market" was described in Literary Digest, the Saturday Evening Post disclosed the "Secret of Riches: Common Stocks", Woman's Home Companion told the ladies "How to Make Money in Wall Street", and World's Work extolled the "Greatest of Bull Markets".

Chiding those who had withstood the temptations of the market, a financial writer for the Review of Reviews observed, "In the light of events of the last three years, better advice for those who purchased high-grade common stocks outright for long-term investment would have been 'Load up!'."

Even such a financial expert as Irving Fisher, who was counseling caution in stock investments, confessed later that he was thinking only in terms of a short-range recession.

Then came the most rapid and precipitous decline up to that time in the history of American security tradings. Commencing on September 6, 1929, it continued with only minor recoveries until November 13, when the bottom was reached - a fall of 38 per cent in common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange from the weekly highs before the crash.

A more recent experience fresh in every reader's mind was the recession of 1969-1970, when the Dow-Jones Industrial Average plummeted from a high of 985 on December 3, 1968, to 631 on May 26, 1970.

Prior to this decline member firms of the New York Stock Exchange were issuing recommendations like these:

* "There are now and will be many good buying opportunities during this present tax adjustment period."

* "A large reservoir of buying power is still on the sidelines, waiting to 'uncover' new and attractive situations."

* "Right now we have bullish action in all three key segments of the market."

* "The technical background is very strong, and there is not enough adverse fundamental views to make us doubt our interpretation."

* "The upside implication...plainly points to considerably higher levels, i.e., 1300 for the Dow-Jones over the longer term and a possibly nearer-term 1100, say, in the first half of 1969."

It would seem evident that the word of prognosticators is to be accepted, if at all, with a healthy scepticism. Better to know that your savings capital is insured-safe in a savings and loan account and that its earnings are certain and sure.

Collins Reports 100% Interest Increase On County Investments

James M. Collins of Milton has filed his first report as County Treasurer of Norfolk County with the County Commissioners and reports that in his first nine months of office, there has been a 100 percent increase in interest earned on county investments in comparison to 1972.

In the year 1972, the county earned $30,591.05 in investment income, he said. During the first nine months of 1973, the interest was $61,541.54 or $30,950.49 more than all the interest earned for the year 1972.

Collins said the average monthly earned interest on county deposits is $6,837.55 this year compared to the 1972 average of $3,399.54, a monthly increase of $3,438.40, which will help to reduce some of the county tax assessments to the cities and towns of Norfolk County. Some $227.92 daily is received in interest income from investments for which Collins has sole legal responsibility, he noted.

Collins also announced a 40 percent saving on county loans and interest paid on county notes since he became Treasurer.

In 1972, the county borrowed $1,500,000. This year, Collins said, "because of prudent investing, stretching each dollar as far as possible, and with the assistance of Sharon and Walpole paying their county taxes early, the county was able to cut borrowing to $900,000, a decrease of $600,000, creating substantial savings to Norfolk County taxpayers."

I have always lived in Quincy as did my mother and father. Being in the gas station business for years, I have had the opportunity to listen to varied opinions of Quincy, both good and bad. In the last two years in particular, Quincy can be proud of itself and the way it has been administered. There seems to be a spirit of doing, a sense of progress, especially with the new downtown development and the recent announcement of the new contracts at General Dynamics. The right type of leadership is needed to accomplish these things. I think Walter Hannon's administration has given us the sense of pride that we need to keep Quincy a great place to live and work.

QCA Plans Nov. 28 City-wide Candidates Night

The Quincy Citizen's Association will hold a city-wide Candidate's Nite Wednesday Nov. 28 at the Woodward School for Girls, from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

The Association will invite all candidates for city election and will put three questions to the mayoral and council candidates dealing with the association's proposed 10-story building limitation, the Quincy "Downtown" Redevelopment proposal, and the fourth South Quincy MBTA Station. Candidates may also answer questions from the audience.

Questions to be asked to School Committee candidates will include areas dealing with school considerations only.

School Committee candidates will be presented first, with those seeking the councillor at large post next in speaking order. Mayor Walter Hannon and Mrs. Grace Saphir, the mayoral nominees will be third in order with the ward councillor nominees to complete the program.

All citizens of Quincy, both registered voters and non-registered voters, are cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will follow the program.

Committee members for the event include, Directors: Rick Ward, Pat DiStefano, Laurence Curtin, Joseph Brett, Joseph Gildea, James Vey, QCA President William O'Brien, and Dorothy Kelly. Questions concerning the event may be directed to any of the committee members.

Famigletti Resigns As Burial Places Superintendent

Anthony M. Famigletti resigned Monday as Quincy's Superintendent of Public Burial Places.

He gave "family obligations and personal reasons" as the reason in a letter to Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

Hannon accepted his resignation expressing "the appreciation of the residents of Quincy to Mr. Famigletti for the many years of service in various capacities."

The resignation was effective Monday.

Between the Covers

This week's column is for children, and it's just for the record. In this instance the record is the long playing phonorecord of interest to children, and the collection in the children's department of the Library is varied and growing.

For music lovers there are recordings by two famous conductors who made their selections with children in mind. Arthur Fiedler conducts the Boston Pops in Fiedler's Favorites For Children with such dances and songs as "The Nutcracker," "Sabre Dance," "Chim Chim Cher-ee," and "Whistle While You Work."

Leonard Bernstein Conducts For Young People is an album featuring the New York Philharmonic in the gay, mischievous "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," the imaginative, shadowy world of "Afternoon of a Faun," and the colorful, exciting sounds of Mexico in "El Salon Mexico."

Two other recordings will take young listeners back to ragtime days in The Piano Rags Of Scott Joplin and to the 19th century in The Story Of The Music Box which plays lilting melodies from antique music boxes.

Quite another collection of sounds comes from The Well Tempered Synthesizer, electronic music that turns the classic compositions of Bach and Scarlatti into completely new experiences. For nature lovers there are two recordings combining narration and sound. Birds On A May Morning takes you on a bird walk starting at the farm house, then on through fields, orchard, woods, a swampy place and back home. One side of the record is just the bird songs, so it can be used as a guessing game. The Farm is a similar recording except it features the sounds of barn and barnyard dwellers.

TV and movie fans will enjoy listening to original soundtracks and cast recordings of such favorites as: Willy Wonka & The Chocolate Factory; You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown; The Sesame Street Record featuring "Rubber Duckie;" Mister Rogers Knows That You Are Special; Mary Poppins; and The Electric Company with a full color book "and a real, working Fargo North, Decoder, crypto-spectrometer!" You'll probably be able to sing along with lots of the catchy tunes from these shows.

You can sing along and laugh along with songs like "Boa Constrictor" on the Peter Paul And Mommy album, "Where Are My Pajamas?" sung by Pete Seeger on Abiyoyo And Other Story Songs For Children, or "On Top of Spaghetti" on the album by the same name. Recordings of folk songs are lots of fun, too. Listen to the "Car-Car Song" by Woody Guthrie on Sing Along To Grow On, or "Froggie Went Courting" sung by Rolf Cahn on Come For To Sing, and "The Donut Song" sung by Burl Ives on Little White Duck And Other Children's Favorites. Paul Bunyan In Story And Song tells about that legendary American hero with some tall tale episodes read by Ed Begley and some tall tale songs sung by Oscar Brand.

There are many fine recordings of the spoken word among children's records. Sinbad The Sailor, one of the many tales from the Arabian Nights, offers some very special voyages. Encounters with great and terrible birds, the Valley of Diamonds, the abominably ungrateful Old Man of the Sea are read by Anthony Quayle, the English actor, and he captures the bravery and adventuresome spirit of Sinbad.

Heidi read by Claire Bloom is about an orphaned child, taken to live with her grandfather in Switzerland. It's such a good story of a child full of life, goodness, and happiness. Something quite different awaits those who listen to Hopi Tales, four Indian legends, including "The Journey to the Land of the Dead" from the book, "People of the Short Blue Corn" by Harold Courlander. There's something zany in store for anyone listening to Dr. Seuss Happy Birthday To You! In addition to the title story there is "Scrambled Eggs Supper!" "Gertrude McFuzz," "The Big Bag," and "And to Think I Saw It on Mulberry Street" with music by the Octopus! Fairy tale favorites are on recordings such as Puss In Boots and other fairy tales from around the world. Hansel and Gretel, and Russian Folk And Fairy Tales. For the picture book crowd Gwen Verdon has recorded The Story Of Ferdinand and Lyle, Lyle Crocodile. Both of these recordings have several picture book stories on them.

Three very different kinds of poetry are also available in the collection of children's recordings at the Library. The delightful and varied verse of A. A. Milne which includes selections from "When We Were Very Young" and "Now We Are Six" is read by Judith Anderson on The Poems Of A. A. Milne. The moving, powerful work pictures of the poet laureate of Harlem are read by Ruby Dee and Ossie Davis on The Poetry Of Langston Hughes, and the voices of children speaking to children offer beauty, rhythm, music, and thought in Miracles: Poems Written By Children.

Remember that many of these recordings are also in book form at the Library. Happy Listening!

Lydon Urges Wetland Regulation For Montclair Marsh

John J. Lydon Jr., candidate for the City Council from Ward 3, proposes passage of a Quincy Wetland Regulation to slow down or halt land-fill and construction on the Montclair Marsh.

Lydon told a campaign meeting at the home of John Leary, 14 Ruthven St. that construction on the marsh causes a three-fold problem.

"First," he said, "the construction causes congestion in what was once an open space area."

"Second, it destroys the natural beauty and ecological functions of the marsh."

"Third, it has produced additional surface pressure on the marsh, which raises the land's water table and therefore increases the flooding danger."

He suggested that the City Council act to establish a Quincy Wetlands Regulation similar to that of Milton which would prevent the changing of wetlands without a special hearing and a permit from the Council.

GRACE E. SAPHIR X

MAYOR OF QUINCY

GEORGE A. TRUBIANO
136 MADISON AVE.

HOMILY BY
REV. JOHN J. TIERNEY

Note: Following is the homily given by Rev. John J. Tierney, pastor, at a recent Memorial Mass celebrated at St. John's Church as one of the events planned to commemorate that church's centennial.

All of us know that this world has to be an orderly place, to prevent confusion and chaos.

So, we have books in libraries, money in banks, operating tables in hospitals and altars in churches. God Himself favored the fixed and definite place. He had His garden of paradise where He started with Adam and Eve. He had the manger where He started Christianity with His birth. He had His tomb from which He came back to share with us a new life.

Our natural instinct tells us that we, as organized people, should have a special spot, a definite place for the practice of our religion, a special meeting place of man with God, a church.

So, 100 years ago some people of the city of Quincy appreciated these ideas and they organized a parish, contributed from their small earnings, and completed this beautiful building that we now call the church of Saint John - the Baptist. They gathered here every Sunday morning, all the Catholics from Hingham, Braintree and Quincy, to strengthen their faith, raise their minds to God, and ask for His guidance and help.

To be sure their minds might have been directed to God on Monday, when they saw a beautiful sunset at the West end of Quarry Street, or on Tuesday when they looked across the blue waters of Quincy Bay. Every time they looked into a telescope they held their breath at the majesty of God; every time they looked into a microscope they marvelled at the details of its minuteness.

But it was especially when they came together in the church on Sunday that they said in unison, "Heaven and earth are full of your glory", and then they worshipped God in their house of God as a people.

Tonight we gather here on this Centennial Anniversary to pay tribute to these people. Some of them might have been your parents or your ancestors. But every one of us has inherited their legacy.

So, tonight we gather in the same church they gathered in and we pray. I hesitate to say we pray for them. I feel they are united with God in heaven. We gather to worship with them...may our voices blend with theirs.

As they worship God in heaven, we gather in the church that they built and left to us, and we unite our worship with theirs. I do not think it is wrong to say that on an occasion like this, God is looking in a special way at his people of St. John's, the former people who built the church and the present people who love what they left us.

You wonder why, 100 years ago, the name was chosen...the church of St. John the Baptist? Maybe St. John was so close to Christ, it might have been chosen with the hope that the parishioners would also be close to Christ. Christ and John were both born the same year.

They both had hidden years of their life...Christ at home with Mary and Joseph: the Baptist in the wilderness. They both died cruel deaths...John in a deep dungeon, Christ on a high hill. Unlike all other saints who celebrate their feast days on the day they left this world to go to heaven, Christ and John, because they were born free from original sin, celebrate their birthday as their feast day.

So maybe you and I, members of the parish of St. John the Baptist, are called to be like the Baptist by our closeness to Christ. All of the wonderful priests who have served you in the past, many of whom are with us tonight, have served here with this goal...leading you, the members of the parish of St. John the Baptist, closer to Christ.

Tonight, therefore, we look backwards to thank our ancestors who gave us this beautiful church as our place of worship. We renew our loyalty to our parish. We reflect on our patron, St. John the Baptist. And we pray that as he was close to Christ, we might live our lives close to our Master.

The word Baptist means one who cleans...may the patron saint of this parish cleanse each one of us so that we can go to unite with all of our former parishioners, and John the Baptist, to praise our Lord and Master forever and ever. Amen.

A Series First

Conroys Father-Son Team

By TOM SULLIVAN

A father-son coaching combination will be featured Thursday for the first time in the long Quincy-North Quincy football series.

Quincy Coach Hank Conroy has as one of his assistants, this fall his son, Mark, who will be helping his dad guide the Presidents against the Raiders. Mark, scout and sophomore coach, will be working alongside his father for the holiday game.

Mark, former Scituate High and Norwich University standout, was appointed as a Central Junior High teacher this fall and applied for the high school assistant's job.

He succeeded Dave Burke as coach of the sophomore team when Dave moved up as varsity backfield coach when Gene Macomber resigned to take an administrative position.

Mark's sophomore team had an outstanding season as he successfully took over for Burke, whose teams had outstanding success.

"Mark should be a good coach, he grew up in a football atmosphere and heard an awful lot of football around the house since he was a youngster," Hank pointed out.

Like his father, Mark was a fine quarterback until he was shifted to halfback at Norwich because of his size. He was considered too small for a college quarterback and gained New England-wide fame as a halfback for the Cadets.

Hank, now in his 10th year as the Presidents' coach, excelled as quarterback for Quincy High in 1940 and '41 but moved to halfback in 1942. He was in the service from 1943 through 1946, attended Worcester Academy in 1947, then went to the U. of Rhode Island. He played freshman ball there and was a varsity star for two years before transferring to Boston University in his senior year.

SOMETHING NEW will take place at the Quincy-North game as Quincy Coach Hank Conroy and son, Mark, named this year as one of his assistants, help guide the Presidents. It is the first time a father-son combination has teamed in the long series.

High as coach of football, baseball and basketball, then moved to Broad Meadows when that school opened. He took over as an assistant football coach at Quincy under Bill Sullivan in 1959, continued as assistant to Jack Garrity and took over the head coaching chores in 1964.

Mark began his playing career in the Scituate Youth League and was one of the state's better schoolboy quarterbacks at Scituate High.

He gained many honors at Norwich, being named the team's Most Valuable Player and more than once was named the ECAC player of the week.

An expert place kicker, he holds the Norwich record for the longest field goal, the most field goals in a season and the most consecutive extra points. His kicking, together with some excellent running, made him one of the Cadets' top scorers.

"I don't treat Mark any differently than any other assistant," Hank explained. "It is quite a thrill having him for an assistant and he works well with the other coaches."

Mark also admits coaching with his father is a thrill and added, "I don't expect any different treatment than any of the other coaches receive. The other coaches are very dedicated and fine men and have worked with me, giving me some valuable tips. I just hope I can justify my father's faith in me."

Rogers, Ridge To Work Electric Clock

There will be a change in the operation of the electric clock for the Quincy-North game.

For the last 10 years Leroy (Curly) Rogers, retired North Quincy coach and physical education teacher, and Marty Finnegan, former Quincy basketball coach, had worked the clock at all Quincy and North home games.

This year, however, Jerry Ridge replaces Finnegan and will work with Rogers at the holiday game.

Ponder Paces Quincy

Flynn, Leone Give North 1-2 Punch

North Quincy's attack has been much more explosive than that of Quincy this year as evidenced by the fact that the Raiders' John Flynn and Carl Leone have scored more points than the entire Quincy team.

Flynn has scored 66 points and Leone 52, a total of 118, as compared to 95 for the Presidents. North has scored 191 points.

The top scorer for Quincy is Wayne Ponder, with 30 points.

Why John Havlicek volunteered to be a substitute.

It all started the day we at Dial Finance approached John Havlicek with a proposal. We wanted him to endorse our company, but not until he had proven to himself that Dial was a different kind of finance company—one with a dimension of service that runs far beyond the ordinary.

We asked John to volunteer to be a substitute—for you, the consumer. Without alerting any Dial personnel, we had John call several Dial offices with a battery of questions you the consumer might ask about loans.

Here, in John's words, is what happened:

"As I was dialing my first call, I couldn't help but think that the Dial management had great confidence in its personnel. It was a gutsy kind of thing to do, because they didn't know what kinds of questions I'd ask.

"It turned out that in every case, my questions were answered promptly and directly. But what was most impressive was this: I got no sales pitches and no pressure of any kind. They didn't even ask my name. It was like their only purpose was to help me—with no strings attached.

"One fellow I remember in particular. I threw some very heavy questions at him—mostly concerning big loans in the nine and ten thousand dollar area. I asked him to explain what home equity was...and how much I could borrow against my home equity. What surprised me was that he answered some very complicated questions in a very simple and direct way. And cleared up some misunderstandings I had about big loans."

The kind of service and consideration John Havlicek received from Dial isn't reserved for just basketball stars. It's reserved for everybody. And things have been that way with us since 1897. So next time you're thinking of borrowing, think of Dial Finance. You see, we don't want you to like us just for our money.

Visit Dial's Randolph office at 322 N. Main Street, Fernandes Shopping Center, phone 963-0400 or the Brockton office at 726 Crescent Street, Brockton East Shopping Plaza, phone 583-3420. Other Dial offices: 3 downtown, Billerica, Lynn, Malden, Walpole.

Over 12,000 Epected For 10 A.M. Kickoff

It'll Be Raiders' Explosive Offense

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy pits its explosive offensive against Quincy's defense, one of the best in the Greater Boston League, in the holiday game and Coach Ralph Frazier is hoping for a dry field.

"We are mainly a running team with good speed but not much size and a dry field will definitely be to our advantage," the North coach said. "We haven't emphasized our passing game but Carl Leone certainly has proven he can throw when he has to."

Leone, one of the best running quarterbacks around, has tossed seven touchdown passes this year, although averaging only about a half a dozen passes a game.

Frazier announced he plans to go with his usual game plan and that he expects another typical Quincy-North game. Most are favoring the Raiders but Frazier laughs at this. "How can you make either team a favorite in a game like this?" he asked.

North has been explosive this fall scoring 191 points in seven games to 102 for the opposition. The Raiders probably would have several more points if the game with Chelsea hadn't been cancelled.

Although Quincy's defense has been superb, North's number one defense has been just as outstanding and the figures are deceiving.

"Actually, our starting defense has given up only 60 points," Ralph explained. "We were fortunate in winning several games by big scores and when we had these big leads I used reserves on defense and didn't try to keep the other teams from scoring. I made a promise to the players that when we had a good lead I'd use all my seniors, who ordinarily wouldn't play, on defense and I stuck to this. Also, I used a lot of underclassmen on defense when we had the lead. I'll pit our defense against anyone."

Among others sure to see service on offense are Chris Costello, Paul Doherty and Rich Joyce in the line and backs Rich Marino, Brian Doherty, Mike Meehan and Matty Constantino.

North's defensive starters will be Tom Callahan and Paul

O'Donnell ends, Steve Paglierani and Joe Marinelli, who have been outstanding in every game, tackles; Ron Frizzell and Dennis McGuire linebackers, Terry Egan and George Hill cornermen, Bruce Shea and Steve Vickers halfbacks and either Billy Shea or Jack Hatfield safety.

Others ready for defensive service are Brett McGrath, Mark Jago, Bob Pistorino, Steve Lothrop, Robinson and Flynn. Frazier, who two years ago claimed his first win over Quincy as a coach or player [he was a three-year starter at North], will try to make his record against Quincy 3-2. After losing his first two games as coach, he won the last two.

With Revere having won the league championship, North's goal is to finish in second place. The Raiders are 4-1 while Quincy and Everett are 3-2-1. North must win to clinch the runner-up spot. Its overall record is 5-1-1 and it has won five in a row.

Ralph has the same assistants as a year ago, Tom Fitzgerald, Dick Meyer and Ken McPhee, also former Raider stars, and Ted Sadowski, now in his 16th year as a North aide.

North's most explosive runner is John Flynn, who has gained 749 yards and scored 10 touchdowns and 66 points. In some games he played little more than a half. If the Chelsea game had been played, he would undoubtedly have had a good shot at going over 1,000 yards for the season.

Frazier will start 10 seniors on offense with end Mark Reale the lone junior.

Starting in the offensive backfield with Flynn will be Bruce Stephansky, another outstanding runner; Rich Desmond, used mainly as a blocker but who has run well when called upon, and Leone, who has scored seven touchdowns and added five two-point conversions, mainly on the option play.

The line will find Reale and Phil Robinson at end, Paul Keeley and Joe Carroll tackles, Mike White and Steve Constant guards and Tom Donovan center.

NORTH QUINCY Co-Captains John Flynn [left], Bruce Stephansky, and Joe Carroll, with Coach Ralph Frazier, are ready to go Thursday.

Carroll, a standout end last year, has done a fine job after converting to tackle and in one game went back to end and caught two touchdown passes. He and Robinson, putting the team before themselves, moved to less glamorous positions this year and, as a result, have not received the notice they deserve. Robinson was the starting fullback a year ago.

North Seeks 3 Wins In Row

If North Quincy wins the holiday classic, it will mark the first time in the long series it has defeated Quincy three years in a row.

Five times the Raiders won two years in a row but the best they could do was tie the third time on one occasion. North won in 1935 and '36 and played to a scoreless tie the following year. It won again in 1944 and '45, in 1959 and '60, 1962 and '63, 1966 and '67, and the last two years.

North did go unbeaten in the first five years of the series, winning in 1933, playing to a scoreless tie in '34, winning in '35 and '36 and playing to another scoreless tie in '37.

In contrast, Quincy has had several streaks against North including five years in a row from 1954 through 1958. The Presidents won in 1941, '42 and '43, four years in a row from 1949 through '52, and in 1968, '69 and '70.

Quincy's Offensive Line Beefier

But North Backs Bigger

Quincy's offensive line will outweigh that of North Quincy by a sizeable margin Thursday but the North backs are a little bigger while the two defensive teams are evenly matched in size.

Quincy's offensive line averages 199 to only 176 for North's. The Presidents include 220-pound Dave Sten, 220-pound Fred Donahue and 215-pound Mike Varraso.

The biggest man in the North offensive line is Phil Robinson at 190.

North's offensive backfield averages 180 to 166 for Quincy's.

The defensive teams each average about 190, with North's total weight 2,100 pounds to 2,095 for Quincy.

Over 12,000 To Take In Game

If the weather is good on the holiday the crowd at the Quincy-North game is expected to be at least as large as last year's, approximately 12,000, but again is not expected to be anywhere near the record 18,003 in 1946.

Two years ago 10,057 watched the annual classic, well below expectations, but this was blamed on the heavy rains on the holiday which postponed the game until the following Saturday.

The 1970 paid crowd was 15,336, and it is believed the 1971 crowd would have been nearly as large if played on Thanksgiving.

The record throng in 1946 was estimated at nearly 25,000, including all those who watched from the walls and trees and lined the MBTA bus garage yard.

That year Carl Leone, now Quincy's athletic coordinator, sparked Quincy to a 31-6 win.

Derbes, Leone Both Outstanding Punters

Thursday's Quincy-North game will feature two of the finest punters in schoolboy ball.

Quincy's Kim Derbes and North's Carl Leone have done some exceptional punting all year long.

Leone several times has kicked over 50 yards and his best of the year came with the wind against Weymouth South which carried 74 yards and was downed on Weymouth's one, setting up the first Raider score.

Derbes, also a standout place kicker who kicks the points and

The officials who handled the Quincy-North game the past four years will again be in charge Thursday.

Joe Berman of Hull will be could kick a field goal if the occasion calls for it, has also kicked well in every game and averaged nearly 50 yards a punt against Medford.

the referee, John Krikorian of Brockton the umpire, Al Benson of North Reading field judge and Edgar Stowell of Bedford head linesman.

Quincy hopes its outstanding defense can hold down the potent North Quincy offensive on the holiday and Coach Hank Conroy has worked extra hard to put some life into the Presidents' dormant attack.

"I think the figures prove we have one of the best defenses around and Revere was the only team to score more than one touchdown against us," Conroy said. "Even in that game we ran twice as many plays as they did and it was three explosive long gainers that they scored on."

Quincy shut out Everett, Malden and Somerville and allowed Medford, Chelsea, Weymouth North and Weymouth South only one touchdown apiece.

"But, it won't do us any good to hold them down if we can't put some points on the board ourselves," the veteran coach continued. "We have moved the ball well between the 30-yard lines but then we just bog down."

"We are working on just five or six basic plays and hope to improve our blocking. We also are working on the passing game and may pass more than usual."

Two of the Presidents' losses were by one point, 8-7 in the final seconds to Weymouth South and 7-6 to Weymouth North. They lost to Medford, 8-0, and Revere, 21-0. They defeated Malden, 41-0, in the only really explosive showing of the year; Somerville, 14-0, and Chelsea, 27-6, while playing to a scoreless tie with Everett.

Quincy hasn't had Co-Capt. Paul Riggs, one of the Greater Boston League's premier line backers all year except for a few minutes in two games. He will suit up Thursday but will make only a token appearance as it will be his final game. Quincy has also lost Doug King, a defensive starter the last three games, with a broken elbow, and starting End Bob Benn, bothered by calcium deposits, will see no action on Thursday.

Quarterback Robin Carrera was on crutches for several days after suffering a sprained knee in the Medford game.

Another President out of action will be Jim Forrester, the runnerup quarterback, who was injured in a junior varsity game early in the season after making an excellent showing in the Revere game. Steve Burke will back up Carrera in the finale.

Conroy will again start mainly a senior team against North as he tries to prevent North from beating the Presidents for the third straight time.

Rick Folino and Jeff Little will start at end on offense with big Dave Sten and Mike Varrasso tackles, Jim French and Bob O'Neil guards and Fred Donahue, back after missing several games, at center.

Carrera will start at quarterback with Wayne Ponder, the Presidents' top scorer, and Preston Carroll halfbacks and Dan McDermott, returning after several games on the sidelines, fullback.

Sophomore Paul Vespaziani, who started the past several games in place of McDermott, will share the fullback chores. Bond Doucette and Burke will also see backfield service and John Campbell, Dave Gosselin and Gerry Durante will also play in the line. Kim Derbes will do the punting and kick the points after touchdown and if the game is close, he could decide the game with a field goal.

Starting on defense will be Sten and Little at end, John Columbus and Bob Pettiti tackles, Varrasso and Bob Gibbody guards, French line backer, Burke and Folino halfbacks and Carrera and Billy Joyce safeties.

Also set for service on defense are McDermott, O'Neil and Mike McKenzie.

Quincy can keep North from clinching second place in the GBL with a win. A Raider win will give them the runnerup spot but Quincy could tie Everett for second place if it wins and Everett tops Chelsea.

There is one change in the Quincy coaching staff this year. Conroy's son, Mark, replaced Dave Burke as sophomore coach and scout and Burke moved up to succeed Gene Macomber as varsity backfield coach. Dave is a former North Quincy star. Back are John Bogan who, like Conroy, is a former Quincy standout, and Bud Mosher.

Sophs Battle To 8-8 Tie

Midway in the final period last Saturday it appeared North Quincy's sophomore football team was on its way to a win over Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

However, a low pass from center was dropped by North Quincy punter Mike Kelly and Quincy had a first down on North's 10. A touchdown on the first play enabled the young Presidents to gain an 8-8 tie in a stubborn defensive battle.

The tie was hard for veteran North coach Ted Sadowski to swallow. His young Raiders had numerous chances as they recovered three Quincy fumbles, intercepted a pass and blocked a punt but the stubborn Quincy defense, scored upon in only one of six previous games, dug in and held each time.

Thus, Mark Conroy, Quincy's new coach, ended his first season with a 5-1-1 record which included five shutouts, while the veteran Sadowski finished with a 4-1-2 record.

The game was played with all the trappings of a varsity game with an excellent crowd, cheerleaders from both schools, the electric clock operated by LeRoy "Curly" Rogers and the refreshment stand open.

The Raiders exploded early as Brian Doherty broke around his left end on the third play from scrimmage, picked up some fine blocking and raced 75 yards for a touchdown. He took a pass from Mike Holleran for the points.

The score remained unchanged until the fatal fumble in the final period. Frankie Guest scored from the 10 and Paul Ramponi rushed for the tying points.

A fine 50-yard punt by Quincy's Russ Affsa set North back to its 20 to set up the play which cost the Raiders the win.

The game had many exciting plays in addition to Doherty's sparkling run. Kelly made a sensational catch of a Holleran pass, twice hard-running Dom Ignani of Quincy took screen passes from Guest for long gains but both were nullified by penalties. Another penalty voided a 20-yard run by Quincy's Lou Fishman and in the late stages Doherty barely missed a long pass from Holleran which could have won it for North.

Paul McGuigan intercepted a pass for North and Dave Lorman blocked a punt.

"The tie was hard to take," Sadowski admitted. "We had so many chances and couldn't take advantage of them. Our regular center was hurt and we had no one to pass the ball back on punts and that hurt on the play which led to their touchdown. And Doherty was hurt early and was slowed down noticeably the rest of the way. But, it was a real good game and Quincy's defense was tough."

Ted singled out Holleran for his fine work at quarterback, Doherty for his running, Kelly for his punting and catching some key passes, Mike Nee for his work both ways, linebackers McKenna and Lorman and Pete Hemphill for a fine job at defensive end.

Conroy, happy with the tie, paid tribute to Guest for fine two-way performance, Ignani for his running, offensive tackles Jim Grimmitt and Bob Varrasso, guards Mike Carloni and Bob Nolan, ends Steve Infaceli and Affsa and Paul Ferris, usually a defensive player who stood out in his first game at fullback on offense. Bob Silva assists Conroy with the offense.

Defensive coach Jack Raymer had words of praise for Bill Popsie, Carloni, Ferris and Glenn Menchi, Steve Silva, who intercepted a pass late in the game, Steve Coleman and Guest.

The game was a fitting prelude to THE GAME on the holiday between the varsity squads.

Conroy To Mark 10th Game Anniversary

Thursday's game marks Quincy Coach Hank Conroy's 10th anniversary as the Presidents' head coach in the series.

Conroy took over the head coaching reins in 1964 and has a

5-4 record against North Quincy. Hank's teams won the first two games in 1964 and '65, lost in '66 and '67, and won in '68, '69 and '70 before dropping the last two games.

Bands To Unite In Anthem

The outstanding bands of both schools will combine for the National Anthem at the holiday classic.

The North band will march into the stadium from one end and the Quincy band from the other. Each, facing its home stands, will play its school song, then mass at the center of the field for the playing of the National Anthem. This plan was used for the first time a year ago.

Steve Bulger had a goal and an assist, Bill Shine had a goal and John Hubbard and Len Blaney each had an assist.

John McKenna had both North Stars goals, assisted by Bill Kiley and Bill Fortier.

The Flyers dowsed the Flames, 5-4, with Karl Olson's two goals showing the way. Rich Carroll, Jim Doherty and Rich Carpenter had the others.

Tom Burke, Paul Keenan, Jack O'Leary and Steve Olson had the Flames scores.

New York bested the Bruins, 3-1, on goals by Paul Howe, Eric Bergstrom and Kevin Kelly. Assists were credited to Mat Breslin, Paul Howe, John Keller, George Duplain and Bergstrom.

Mike DeAngelo got the lone Bruins goal, assisted by Larry Cyr.

Quincy Aerials V.S. North Ground Attack

Although Quincy's attack this year featured more running than passing with Paul Creedon having graduated, the Presidents have done more passing than North and it is expected it will be the same Thursday.

North has stuck mainly to the ground with quarterback Carl Leone averaging only about seven passes a game but he has proven effective with seven touchdown passes and has passed for three two-point conversions.

In contrast, Quincy has averaged about 14 passes a game and Robin Carrera has thrown five touchdown passes.

But, as is the case in this annual classic, the coaches probably will make changes in their attacks and it would not be surprising if North passes more and Quincy does more running.

Sheriff's Associates

Plan Sports Night Nov. 27

President Lawrence J. Perette of Quincy announces that the 12th Annual Sports Night of the Norfolk County Sheriff's Associates, Inc., will be held at the Dedham Jail Nov. 27, at 8 P.M.

Chairman Harry E. Carlson of Milton has arranged a star-studded program for the inmates, who also will participate in wrestling and boxing bouts. Scheduled to appear are:

Wilbur Wood of the White Sox, The Two Nelsons, Don of the Celtics and 'Swede' of Harvard fame, 'Richie' Hebner of the Pirates, 'Sam The Bam' Cunningham and Bob Windsor of the Patriots, Johnny Pesky, Bob Montgomery, and Ted Lepcio of the Red Sox, Don and Jack Alessi, Max Zides of Hum and Strum, Bob Dee and Ron Burton of the old Boston Patriots, as well as 'Cooks Chorders' and Jon Morris.

Music is being provided by a specialty unit from the Boston Musicians Union.

McDermott Shines

Bob McDermott, former Quincy High star, had a fine season for the Harvard freshman football team this fall.

Earlier in the year, playing in the backfield, he gained more than 100 yards in his team's 21-20 win over Boston College.

Last week, starting at tight end, he caught four passes for 58 yards including a 33-yard touchdown pass in a 15-14 win over Princeton.

O'Brien Club To Feature Championship Line Up

Two years ago Mike Greenlaw, then junior varsity basketball coach at Quincy High, formed the Beau's Place team which presented Quincy fans with some outstanding basketball and won the championship of the strong Cranberry League.

Last year Greenlaw's team moved to Canton and was known as the Red Boot team which again captured the league title.

A new Quincy team, the O'Brien Club, joined the league but played its home games in Weymouth. Hit by a string of injuries, the team had a mediocre record but gave every team a tough battle.

This season Leo Papile, player-coach of the O'Brien Club, has taken on virtually every player of the championship teams of the past two years and the team will play its home games on Sunday nights at North Quincy High school. The league season will open on Dec. 1.

Thanks to Dick O'Brien, owner of Caradonna's News in Quincy, and the Quincy School System, top flight semi-pro basketball is back in the city and the O'Brien Club should be one of the top teams in the state.

Papile is the only returnee from last year's O'Brien Club but a knee injury has forced him to the bench where he will assume only the coaching chores.

The latest addition to the team is 6-3 Ron Bradley, one of the top small college players at Eastern Nazarene College who was drafted by both the NBA and ABA. He is one of the finest all-around players ever to play in Quincy and is one of six former North Quincy players on the starry squad.

The other former Raiders are Greenlaw, who played at Colgate; Paul Gullikson, who played at U. Mass.; and Rich Sprague from Northeastern, all members of the league champs of the last two years; Papile, who played at Bridgewater

State, and newcomer Eddie Miller, who starred at Boston State and is junior varsity coach at North Quincy High. Miller led the Cranberry League in scoring the last two years while playing for other teams.

Also returning from the 1971-72 and 1972-73 league champs are Allan Dalton, one of the outstanding players in New England who stood out at Suffolk U., narrowly missed making the Celtics and played for the Memphis Pros; Bob McNamara (6-7) former B. U. captain, and John Hassan (6-6) from Weymouth and B. U.

Mike Dunn played at Sacred Heart of Weymouth and for Boston College's 1969 NIT runnersup.

Dennis Doble (6-4) is a former Cardinal Spellman and B. C. star who played for last year's league champs.

One of the top newcomers is 6-7 Peter Schmid, who played for B. C. for three years and was captain his senior year.

Boston Soccer League Seeking Teams

The Boston Area Youth Soccer League (BAYS) will begin its fifth season next April and additional Quincy teams are being sought.

Last season more than 90 teams competed in five age groups between 10 and 19. All games are played in April, May and June on Saturday or Sunday.

A year ago one Quincy team participated in the 17-19 age group. Some towns and cities enter as many as eight or 10 teams and one of those hoping for more Quincy teams is Peter Gallagher, a teacher at Quincy High who officiates the Quincy Junior High league games and works in many other leagues. He is a soccer player himself and there are few men with more soccer interest on the South Shore.

"It is inexpensive to outfit a soccer team and school gym uniforms make excellent team uniforms," Gallagher said. "All teams must have adult managers."

Gallagher has requested anyone interested in playing in the BAYS or knows anyone who will manage or coach a team to call him at 1-224-2430 or Goran Peterson at 335-7952.

Edna Walker's 104.6 Paces Women Merchants

Venezia Insurance continues to lead the Women's Merchants Bowling League with a 56-24 record.

The Body Smith Shop is second with 48-32, followed by South Shore Candy, 45-35; Chiminello Oil, 34-46; Pepe's Express, 32-48; and Merrymount Lanes, 25-55.

Edna Walker has taken over the high average with 104.6, followed by Ellie Jacobucci, 101.5; Noreen Mastroianni, 99.5; Ann Casanova, 98.8; Sandy Barrie, 97.7; Teddy Hanley, 97.4; Terry Spencer, 96.9; Ann Crespi, 96.8; Taffy Serroni, 96.6, and Elaine Rozanski, 96.4.

South Shore Candy has high team three of 1,452 and high team single of 525, Mimi Altenbach has high individual three of 314 and Betty Veno high single of 121.

Jim Sylvia Named Hanover Hockey Coach

Jim Sylvia, younger brother of Quincy High Hockey Coach Bob Sylvia, has been appointed coach at Hanover High School.

Sylvia, who played at Newman Prep and Boston State College, assisted Bob at Quincy on a volunteer basis for two years and last season assisted at Hanover while student-teaching.

Quincy Hit By Injuries

Quincy will be hard hit by injuries for the Thanksgiving finale with North.

Co-Capt. Paul Riggs, one of the top linebackers in the Greater Boston League, has been sidelined all year except for a few minutes in two games. He will suit up Thursday for his final high school game but, according to Coach Hank Conroy, will make only a token appearance.

Doug King, a starting defensive end, will miss the game because of a broken elbow and the doctor last week ruled out starting offensive end Bob Benn, who has calcium deposits. It had been hoped he might be cleared for limited service but the doctor ruled otherwise.

YMCA Has Special Needed Programs For 3-To-7 Year Olds

Today, more than 80 percent of children entering the first grade in the U.S. fail minimal tests for muscular strength and flexibility, the Quincy YMCA reports.

In the past, infants were allowed to crawl about and children to roam the fields and climb trees. Today, however, infants and young tots spend the greater part of their waking hours in play pens, high chairs, cribs, and strollers, and other confined areas.

Because of this the Quincy YMCA is offering a series of programs that encompass the physical development needs of children from infancy to seven years.

On Friday mornings, pre-school youngsters whose parents are Family Members of the "Y", may participate in an instructional gym and swimming program. In the pool, parents are directed by the Y staff in the teaching of their children.

In addition to the Friday morning program, Family Recreational Swims are scheduled Wednesday evenings and Saturday afternoons.

Children, three to seven years of age, may be enrolled in one or several of the Movement Education gymnasium or YMCA Progressive Aquatic programs that are offered by the Y.

The Movement Education Program provides an opportunity for children to explore unlimited movement experiences through the use of gymnastic apparatus, ropes, balls, rhythmic and many other activities.

The schedule of Special Programs for children three to seven follows:

Dance-Ballet, Girls, Wed. 2 - 2:50 p.m., beginning dates, Jan. 9, Apr. 3.

Young Tots Swim Lessons, Co-ed, Mon. A.M. 9-9:30, 9:35-10:14, 10:10-10:40, beginning dates, Nov. 26, Jan. 28, Mar. 18, May 5.

Swim Lessons, Co-ed, Thurs. P.M. 1-1:30, 1:35-2:05, 2:10-2:40, 2:45-3:15, beginning dates, Nov. 29, Jan. 31, Mar. 28, May 16.

Swim Lessons, Co-ed, Wed. P.M. 3-3:30, beginning dates, Jan. 30, Mar. 15.

Young Tots Gym & Swim, Co-ed, Thurs. [a] 1:30-2:40 P.M., [b] 2:05-3:15 P.M., beginning dates, Nov. 29, Jan. 31, Mar. 28, May 16.

Marshall Appointed To Criminal Justice Committee

House Speaker David M. Bartley has appointed Rep. Clifford H. Marshall (D-Quincy) to serve on the Eastern Conference Committee on Criminal Justice, sponsored by the Council of State Governments in New York.

Topics to be included in discussions and planning are:

Child abuse legislation and programs; compensation for victims of crime; victimless crimes; Peterson Commission standards and goals; re-enactment of capital punishment legislation and the Constitutionality of new death penalty statutes; rights of individual privacy with regard to criminal history information systems; the role of legislatures in modernizing and reforming state court systems and a model sentencing act.

Robert Foley Candidate For Council At Large

Robert L. Foley of 41 Algonquin Rd., an electrical engineer for the Boston Edison Company and a resident of Quincy for the past 18 years, announces his candidacy for councilor-at-large.

"Redistricting, re-evaluation and the drug problem among our youth are three of the major issues facing the people of the city of Quincy at this time," he said.

Foley, father of eight children, has been active in the Quincy Junior Baseball League as a manager for the past 15 years and this past summer his team won the championship of the league's Business Division.

Thomas Cooley Receives Air Force Scholarship

Cadet Thomas J. Cooley, Son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Cooley of 95 Alrick Rd., Quincy, has received a U. S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC) college scholarship.

Cadet Cooley will receive full tuition, laboratory fees, a textbook allowance and a monthly subsistence allowance.

He submitted his application for the scholarship after enrollment in the AFROTC training program at St. Michael's College at Winooski, Vt., where he is a member of the class of 1977. Scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis to AFROTC students.

Upon graduation and completion of the AFROTC program, Cadet Cooley will be commissioned an Air Force second lieutenant.

He graduated earlier this year from Quincy High School.

Adams Authority At Historical Society Meeting

Atty. Andrew Oliver, a published authority on the portraits of John Adams and John Quincy Adams, will speak on "The Adams Presidents and

BEWARE OF BABY BOUNCERS

The Food and Drug Administration has come out with a warning to parents about devices known as "walker-jumpers". Investigating the safety of some of these "baby bouncer" models, the FDA says danger potentials include:

Holes around the hinged areas of reclining models, through which a baby may insert a finger, then bruise or crush it by bouncing on the equipment.

X-shaped pivot areas, such as cross-bars, where the scissors force might be exerted on the infant's finger.

Heavy coil springs without guards which, when stretched, could allow room for the baby to insert one or more fingers.

Instability, so that the entire device may tip over when the baby bounces or is otherwise active on it.

Absence of a locking device to prevent the walker-jumper from collapsing or folding up while the baby is in it.

'Strict Ceiling' On Campaign Spending Called For By Powers

Atty. Warren Powers, candidate for City Council from Ward 5, has called for a "strict ceiling" on campaign spending. Powers told a meeting of campaign workers at the home of Mrs. John F. Burke, 84 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston, that there should also be definite limitations on the amount of money any one person is permitted to donate to any one candidate.

He suggested that committees be set up to receive donations for specific candidates and that the committees be required to list the source and dollar amount of each contribution.

"In this way," said Powers, "there could be no lump-sum donations from special interest groups, fund raising parties or so-called subcommittees; and accurate records could be filed with the proper agencies almost immediately."

The ceilings, Powers warned, should not be so low that only the rich could run for public office or that incumbents with established political organizations would be given an unfair advantage.

Large interest groups, said Powers, should be prevented from making donations and campaigns should be financed solely through voluntary contributions from individual voters.

Coffee Hour Nov. 27 For Paul Harold

Mrs. Adrienne Clarke, 1421 Quincy Shore Drive, Merrymount will hold a coffee hour for Ward 1 Council candidate Paul D. Harold at her home, Tuesday, Nov. 27 at 8 p.m.

The coffee hour is open to all Ward 1 residents, to meet Harold and discuss the issues facing Ward One and the city.

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

"WORTHY GOALS CHANGE LIFE"

Life is worth living when there's a worthy goal to move toward. When there's no goal ... you see depression ... laziness ... lack of cooperation with other people.

Here's John ... age 24 ... still hanging around home ... quit college after two years ... smoking pot each evening ... a few friends who have no ambition either. John came to see me because his parents have told him to "get out." He has no job ... no place to go ... no goals.

"What do you want to be doing 10 years from now? ... I said hoping to get him to state a goal.

"I dunno" ... and he dropped it.

I pressed in ... he admitted he was unhappy with his life as it is ... feels depressed ... resists suggestions of his parents to "get moving." Gradually ... we got deeply into the real meanings of life ... talked of WORTHY and REASONABLE GOALS. Today John is in his Senior year ... engaged to Nancy ... and he's now looking forward to teaching and coaching.

What did it? ... Not pushing him ... his mother and father tried that unsuccessfully. When one is down ... without goals ... into bad habits of living ... sermons and lectures do little good. It is identifying with a person in his situation ... feeling empathy ... not pity. Walking with him 'til he can walk by himself ... seeing the advantages of his chosen goal.

Many married people would do well to redefine their goal for their marriage. Jan and Kim had a marriage which had gone stale ... no violence ... no drunkenness ... no poverty. Just dullness ... indifference to each other ... both said now that the love had gone ... it just was more convenient to live together than divorce.

We BEGAN to TALK. They began to talk. Would you believe that within 8 weeks their relationship turned around so that they were enjoying trips together ... tennis ... bicycling ... entertaining friends ... going to church together.

What did it? ... not lecturing them ... not placing blame on early life relationships with parents. They set NEW GOALS of ACTING ADULT ... meeting each other's human needs. Jan and Kim cut loose from the miserable failures in relationship of the past ... and found new happiness with each other.

If you're in a marriage which is tarnished with dullness ... don't just sit there ... do something. You don't have to go on that way.

Worthy goals can change human life ... and a marriage. FOR YOUR COMMENTS: For Group Counseling ... private counseling ... call 659-7595 or 326-5990. For his new book "People Are For Loving" write Dr. Knox at 320 Washington Street, Norwell, Mass. 02061

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is almost here
It's such a happy time of the year.
Turkeys and 'pies are what mother bakes
And she also bakes cookies and cakes
We have a feast all that day
We are all very happy and gay.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving day is such a treat with it's stuffing and turkey and pies to eat. The family will gather for the great feast. Thanksgiving day is such a treat.

THANKSGIVING

On Thanksgiving it's really nice,
With a big fat turkey and maybe some rice.
And, oh, my gosh, there's plenty of squash.
And don't forget the cranberry sauce.
Sit right down, and thank God for all we have, and remember don't grab!

THANKSGIVING

I think Thanksgiving is a different holiday. It doesn't have a pumpkin or a horse drawn sleigh.
It doesn't have fireworks that go pop, pop, pop. Or an Easter bunny that goes hippity hop hop. But, it does have a turkey and lots of other food. That's why Thanksgiving puts me in a good mood.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is a feasty treat. I love to eat, and eat, and eat. All the turkey and all the feast.
It's so delicious and it's so neat.
Thanksgiving is a happy treat.

T is for Thanksgiving treat
H is for having a good time
A is for delicious Apple pie
N is for turkey that's so neat
K is for all kinds of different food

S is for the good smell
G is for the goodies
I is for investigating the turkey
V is for very, very yummy food
I is for ice in the apple cider
N is for nothing ever so neat
G is for real good stuffing.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is tops, because of good things to eat.
Like turkey and carrots, you'll be ready to pop.
Of all the holidays, I like Thanksgiving the best,
Because all relatives' come, and everybody's gay.

THANKSGIVING IS...

Thanksgiving is Pa going out to catch a turkey while Ma stays home getting messy and dirty.
She cooks all kinds of good things to eat. If I'm a good little girl, big Sister might even bake a big yummy cake.

Gee, Thanksgiving is really something. The best part of it is when Dad cuts the meat.

THANKSGIVING IS COMING

Thanksgiving is coming,
There's turkey to eat.
There's stuffing, there's squash,
And squishy pigs feet!

The Pilgrims have landed,
They have a big feast.
The Indians have come from the North, South, and East.

The company has come,
It's crowded inside.
There's no room to breathe,
But there is outside!

The Indians are hungry,
They want to make peace,
They all look like gluttons
Making eyes at our geese!

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is here,
Good things to eat,
All kinds of vegetables,
All sorts of meat.

Smell good things cooking,
Under the heat,
Cabbage and carrots,
And a few bright red beets.

Every one sitting,
While Dad cuts the meats,
I think Thanksgiving
Is a real treat.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is a treat.
That brings people to eat.
They have eaten all the pumpkin pie and the delicious apple pie.
Thanksgiving is a treat,
That brings the family to eat.
They eat and eat until there's nothing left of the treat.
Years ago there was a feast,
That made all the Pilgrims and Indians have a treat.

THANKSGIVING DAY

On Thanksgiving I sit at the table. Ready willing and perfectly able! And I just sit there looking at that pie!
Just dreaming as I let out a sigh! On Thanksgiving, that's my treat! Boy, oh, boy I just love to eat!

Tobin To Sponsor 'Salute To Quincy Night'

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] will sponsor a "Salute to Quincy Night" Monday, Nov. 26, from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Chateau d'Ville in Randolph.

"It's an appreciation night to the people of Quincy for the many kindnesses to my family and myself over the years," said Tobin, who is a candidate for re-election to the City Council.

"This is not a fund-raising event. There will be no price of admission and no political speeches. It's just an occasion for the people of Quincy, including all the councilors and candidates, to come out and enjoy themselves."

Part of the enjoyment is dancing to the big band sound of Bill Manning and his 10 piece orchestra.

Kelly Urges Completion Of Black's Creek Dredging

Leo J. Kelly, candidate for the Ward 1 council seat, urges that the dredging of Blacks Creek bordering Merrymount be completed.

The project is needed, he said, to ease flooding conditions and to allow the Recreation Department's boating program to continue.

Kelly, in a letter to Council President Arthur Tobin, said he believes there is a surplus of money left over from the construction of the Quincy Center Parking Plaza and suggested that it be used for the Black's Creek project.

Students Tackle Energy Crisis

Students at Archbishop Williams High School have tackled the energy crisis en masse.

In an especially-planned homeroom period, faculty members arranged the students in small groups, where they were to discuss, then summarize suggestions geared to lower energy use in the school. Summations were made, point by point, written up, then submitted to the administration for consideration.

Sister Catherine Looby, Principal, said that many positive ideas for conservation were presented, ideas that had not been thought of in exploratory planning sessions. Implementation of suggestions, through the Student Council and homeroom officers, working with faculty and staff, has already begun.

Hoffman Named Chairman Criminal Law Committee

The American Society of Law and Medicine has appointed Atty. Richard G. Hoffman of Walpole, Chairman of its Criminal Law Committee.

Hoffman's interest in the area of legal medicine has evolved primarily from his service as an assistant district attorney to Norfolk County District Attorney George G. Burke where he has presented medical evidence in murder trials utilizing the testimony of a physician who has been qualified as an expert in forensic pathology.

He is also serving on the Family Law and Criminal Law Committees of the Massachusetts Bar Association.

St. Margaret's Seeks Public's Help In Centennial Celebration

The Historical Board of St. Margaret's Hospital Centennial Committee is seeking the public's help in preparing for the hospital's 100th Anniversary, being celebrated throughout 1974.

The board is looking for such information as:

Do you think you have the most generations born at St. Margaret's? Are you the oldest person living who was born at the hospital? Were you or a family member or friend the largest or smallest baby ever born here? Do you have a human interest story relating to the hospital you feel might interest others?

If you qualify or answer yes to any of the above questions, the committee would be most happy to hear from you.

The board is also looking for any old memorabilia, paraphernalia, books, brochures, newspaper clippings, etc. you may have stored away in the attic.

If you can help, you are asked to write c/o Public Relations Office, St. Margaret's Hospital, 90 Cushing Ave., Dorchester 02125 or call Beverly Fuerstenberger or Marjorie Quinn at 436-8600, extension 284.

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

MGM film takes look at past

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — MGM celebrated its 50th birthday with a party in connection with screening of "That's Entertainment," which takes a stirring look at the studio's past.

The film is exceptional entertainment and something you shouldn't miss when it comes to your town.

Narrated by Frank Sinatra, Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire, Mickey Rooney, Debbie Reynolds and other major stars, the picture is a collection of film clips from MGM's great musical pictures. And how great they were!

In "That's Entertainment," you'll see the overweight chorus girls who hoofed in "Broadway Melody" (the very first, big musical picture made anywhere and an early Oscar winner) kicking up their pudgy heels; you'll see and hear Bing Crosby crooning "Temptation" to Fifi D'Orsay and Allan Jones singing "Donkey Serenade" to Jeanette MacDonald; and you'll even catch Robert Montgomery dressed in what appears to be a grenadier's uniform warbling a love song to some unidentified ladies.

In addition to the above goodies, you'll see a musical short-subject featuring two then unknown youngsters Judy Garland and Deanna Durbin.

You'll see Greta Garbo swinging her hips to a Latin beat; Joan Crawford as a vigorous but awkward tap dancer; Clark Gable turning in a rifty performance as a song and dance man supported by a chorus line (and I do mean "supported," since the girls carry him off camera); and Jimmy Stewart making musical love to Eleanor Powell.

And that's only a fraction of the wonderful, nostalgic nonsense packaged in "That's Entertainment."

Remember the marvelous, mind-boggling production numbers in the Esther Williams movies with dozens of mermaids and mermen and "living statues" and fire and light and fountains?

Well, one of those is revisited in the MGM trip down memory lane as is an enormous production number from an Eleanor Powell flick.

You'll hear Cliff "Ukelele Ike" Edwards introducing "Singin' in the Rain" in "Hollywood Revue of 1929" and you'll see Gene Kelly dancing to it almost a generation later in the 1952 film named for the song.

Maurice Chevalier and Mario Lanza sing, Fred Astaire dances, and old memories are stirred and old longings renewed as a sampling of a great dream factory's sweetest fancies is returned to us.

"That's Entertainment" will be premiered across the country for the benefit of the Motion Picture Relief Fund while a share of total profits will go to the fund.

But MGM, which also needs some relief, should benefit from it quite nicely, too.

"That's Entertainment" is a rarity these days — entertainment.

Gene Kelly couldn't make it to the screening or the party later, because he was committed to an appearance at the San Francisco Film Festival that night. But among the musical stars on hand for Chasen's chili and Moet and Chandon champagne in the MGM commissary were Fred Astaire, Ann Miller, June Allyson, Cyd Charisse, Jack Haley Sr. and Jane Powell.

If you've visited the Bishop Museum in Honolulu, you must have joined me in wondering where the ancient kings of Hawaii got their perfect, pearl-like teeth with which they trimmed their toggery.

Glass cases display antique, royal regalia gleaming with neatly applied rows of snowy, human molars, so the question naturally occurs:

Where did the kings get such flawless and flawlessly matched and-or graduated trimmings?

Did they go amongst the constituency opening mouths and scouting for just the right incisors and bicusps to complete various designs? Did they accept teeth for taxes? Did they take the bite out of crime by defanging criminals?

Al Harrington, one of Jack Lord's cop-colleagues in "Hawaii Five-O," explains it this way:

"Well, they had a lot of sacrificial victims. The ancient equivalent of the police force was controlled by the kimoa class which was very much like our medieval clergy. When someone didn't fit the pattern, they just got rid of him."

And the king, I guess, got every tooth that was cavity free.

Al knows about such things, because he used to teach history at Ponahou College and is so deeply interested in ancient Hawaii that he's writing a book about King Kameamea, the monarch who unified the islands.

In addition to having been a history teacher, Al has also been an automobile salesman around San Francisco, assistant football coach at Stanford, and a Mormon missionary to his native Samoa.

He helped finance this last activity by picking lettuce in the Salinas Valley of California.

Committee To Study City Data Processing

Mayor Walter Hannon today has appointed a committee to study the use of data processing equipment within the City of Quincy.

In making the appointments he said "Data processing equipment is very expensive to purchase and maintain and therefore, I do not wish to have every city department building a data processing department."

Currently, the school department maintains a computer facility, the hospital is a member of a computer group and the police department is now using computers. Hannon said that while he did not want to build up large computer facilities within each department he strongly favors an increase in the use of existing data processing facilities in the different departments.

He noted that water bills previously done by private concern, are now being done by the school department. The voting list and adult listings previously involved a great expenditure of time and preparation, are now being done by the school department computer.

Within the past two weeks Hannon has asked the school department to process the Fire Department payroll on its computer.

City Auditor Alexander Smith is chairman of the study committee; William S. Grindlay, budget director for the city is vice-chairman. Members include Atty. T. David Raftery, vice chairman capital improvements committee; Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman city council finance committee; Robert Brennan, director of data processing, Public Schools; City Purchasing Agent Richard K. Newcomb; John Fantucchio, comptroller, Quincy City Hospital; Police Captain Paul Nestor and Robert Mitchell, programmer, Police Department.

S.S. Chamber Receives Award

Color. Clarity. Carat. Cut.

These are the important factors in your diamond choice. In a word - value. Don't be misled by claims of discounts. This might mean a sacrifice in real value, so look for these 4 factors. At Rogers, you will find expert guidance in your diamond selection, giving you that feeling of security which helps you know you've made a good investment. At Rogers, we believe in this concept so thoroughly, we are prepared to make this guarantee:

If at any time, you wish to purchase a more expensive diamond, Rogers will return, dollar for dollar, the full purchase price of your original diamond toward your new Rogers' diamond. And, on any diamond selected before Dec. 3, 1973, Rogers will pay the full insurance against loss or theft for one full year after delivery date.* And, we give free ring sizing, packaging, and engraving.

* Diamond insured against loss or theft by the nation's largest jewelry insurance company.

Covered In Carefree
Herculon® Fabrics

First decide the seating plan best for you. Take a sofa alone for a singular living room focal point, as the center of a conversation group. Choose a pair of love seats for a larger space, sectional arrangement or comfortable corner plan. Or even a sofa and matching chair. Let your room be your guide . . . Because informality is today's key-note, we covered all in textured fabrics of Herculon® an olefin fiber with inborn stain-resistance and strength. All pieces have loose pillow backs for comfort and hand matched tailoring.

At Least 3 New Councillors, 1 School Committeeman

50% Voter Turnout Predicted

By TOM HENSHAW

GIANT HAT and pretty girls, designed by the Quincy High School band to represent 'Friends of the World', took first prize of $500 in the Youth Float Competition at the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade. Other Parade Photos on Page 18

At least three new members of the City Council and one new School Committeeman will be chosen next Tuesday when Quincy voters go to the polls in the city's latest ever municipal election.

Some observers think there could be still one more new Councillor and another new School Committeeman when all the results are in.

City Clerk John M. Gillis predicts "about 50 per cent" of Quincy's 49,197 registered voters will go to the polls.

"You need a red hot mayoralty race and good, hard campaigning to bring out a heavy vote," he noted. "It just hasn't been that way this year."

Two years ago 70.8 per cent of the voters cast ballots when the mayoralty race between Walter Hannon and Joseph Brett for the open mayor's post sparked considerable interest.

In this year's primary, Nov. 6, only 39 per cent turned out.

Women voters have the upper hand, in Tuesday's election outnumbering male voters 27,215 to 21,982.

The open Council seats are in Wards 1 and 5, where Councillors Edward S. Graham and William Delahunt are not running for re-election, and new Ward 3 where Councillor Theophilus McLelland III has been redistricted out of his seat.

Instead, McLelland is running for re-election as a councillor-at-large in a race against three incumbents.

The vacancy on the school committee has been created by the retirement of Vice Chairman Paul C. Kelly.

On the basis of returns in the preliminary election Nov. 6, Mayor Walter J. Hannon must be considered the favorite to retain his office.

The 41-year-old Hannon almost doubled the preliminary total of his nearest opponent, Mrs. Grace E. Saphir, 57, a nurse and member of the Quincy Conservation Commission.

The closest race may be in Ward 1 where Paul Harold, 25, a legal researcher and journalist, barely topped Leo J. Kelly, a 40-year-old barber, in the preliminary contest.

Clifford H. Marshall, the 35-year-old incumbent and a state representative, is defending his Ward 2 seat against the challenge of Patrick J. Faherty Jr.

John J. Lydon Jr., 32, a funeral director, and John T. Ricciuti, 43, part owner of a monument company, were the survivors of a close preliminary race to compete for the Council seat from the newly created Ward 3.

In Ward 4 incumbent, Albert R. Barilaro, 56, an inspector for the state lottery, faces a strong challenge from James A. Sheets, 37, a Quincy Junior College professor.

Barilaro, father of the controversial redistricting plan, topped Sheets by only 272 votes in the preliminary with more than 40 per cent of the vote going to four other candidates.

Michael J. Peatridge, 21, a consultant, is vying with Warren Powers, 32, an assistant district attorney, for the Ward 5 seat, Powers' bid for the post in 1971 was turned back by incumbent Delahunt.

Nearly 200,000 Turn Out For Parade Despite Rain

Despite an intermittent rain, the 22nd annual Christmas Festival Parade drew nearly 200,000 people to line a two-mile route down Hancock Street from Wollaston to Quincy Center.

The best of some two dozen floats, designed along the parade theme of "It's a Small, Small World", was judged to be "Japanese Fantasy", entered by the South Shore Campfire Girls. It won the grand prize of $1,000 plus the Father Thomas Tierney Trophy.

Prizes in the Youth Division went to:

The Quincy High School band, "Friends of the World", first prize, $500.

St. John's CYO, "Yellow Submarine", second prize, $250.

St. Joseph's CYO, "You're a Big Man in a Small World, Charles Brown", third prize, $150.

Milton Rainbow Girls, "Sports Make a Small World", fourth prize, $100.

Prizes in the Adult Division went to:

Curtain Call Theater, "King Midas and the Golden Touch", first prize, $500.

Braintree Legion Post 86, "The Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe", second prize, $250.

Weymouth Jaycees, "H. R. Puffstuf", third prize, $150.

Quincy Student Nurses, "Mother Goose Around the World", fourth prize, $100.

The Mayor's Trophy to the best float by a Quincy-based organization went to Supporters of Survival for their float "People Make the World Go 'Round'".

Burger King's "Where Kids Are King" won the award for the best float with a commercial theme. [Cont'd on Page 18]

Saturday Deadline To Win Christmas Ham

Saturday is the deadline to win one of 100 free canned hams being given away to Quincy shoppers by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Coupons are still available at participating member stores and must be deposited at one of those stores by Saturday.

Coupons which appeared in the special 24-page tabloid as a supplement to last week's Patriot Ledger and Quincy Sun may also be deposited.

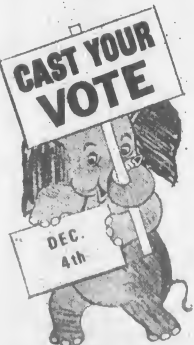

The five-pound top quality hams are being awarded by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association in cooperation with Capitol Super Markets.

The names of the 100 winners will be drawn at Child World, Hancock St., Friday, Dec. 7, starting at 10 a.m.

Phil Chase of Cummings is chairman of the QCBPA promotions committee.

"The floats this year were the best ever," said Richard Venna, float coordinator. "In some cases there was less than a tenth

Popular Firefighter Retires

Capt. Edward O'Connell In 'Last Run' Friday

By STEVE FERRARA

A member of a well-known Quincy fire-fighting family will make his "last run" Friday after 37 years of service.

Captain Edward T. O'Connell, one of the Fire Department's most popular members, is commanding officer of Engine B Company, the busiest company in the city.

He is also well-known in the Boston area for his knowledge of fire apparatus and techniques, and taught courses at the Donohue Civil Service School in Boston.

The fire-fighting history of the O'Connells dates back to August 1, 1918, when the Captain's father Cornelius was appointed to the Quincy force. He remained on the force as a fireman until his death on Jan. 24, 1931.

Captain O'Connell, who lives at 118 Bellevue Rd., Squantum, was appointed to the force in 1936, and began his career on the Wollaston Ladder Company. He was promoted to captain in 1948, and is the Senior Captain in Fire Headquarters. His eldest brother Timothy, also a captain, died in the line of duty in 1945, while another brother, John F., retired recently. Captain O'Connell is the youngest brother.

Captain O'Connell's son, Thomas, is a fire-fighter in Quincy, as is his nephew Cornelius, son of his brother Timothy.

The sixth and final O'Connell is the Captain's grand nephew Paul, stationed at headquarters. He is the son of his nephew Cornelius.

That is four generations of O'Connells who have served on the Quincy Fire Department.

And although Quincy is losing one of its most dedicated and popular servants, there is still the rest of his family to fill the gap.

The name O'Connell will be heard from for many years to come.

Brett Asks Protection For Cars

State Rep. Joseph E. Brett [D-Quincy] has called on the MBTA to take corrective measures to help protect the cars and property of "T" patrons in the MBTA's parking lots, particularly in North Quincy and Wollaston.

In a letter to MBTA Chairman Forrest I. Neal, Brett wrote:

"It appears that an increasing number of cars are being entered by thieves and vandals, with items being stolen from them, and in some cases, the cars being stolen."

"Perhaps a frequent patrol by a security guard or a periodic surveillance by binoculars or periscope from a high point nearby would guarantee better protection for the parked cars."

Who's an average person?

By JOHN SENOR
Copley News Service

"The average man's income is up $6 from this time last year. But the average man's buying power is down $3."

This cheery news comes to me in a financial paper. It appears we are gaining all the time but still wind up losers. Six steps forward, then nine steps back.

(The average man earns $145.43 a week. If you earn more than that, you're losing even MORE. Talk about depressing statistics.)

So, what else is new with Mr. Average. I haven't read a piece on him in a good many years.

There was a time when the average man was 27.3 years old, married and had 2½ children. He also had 1¼ automobiles.

(You'd think a man with 2½ children and 1¼ cars would cause a lot of fancy talk in his neighborhood.)

An enterprising reporter somewhere took all the facts about the average man then went out looking for him.

He finally found him in a medium-sized town in Utah. (It wasn't easy. Average men are few and far between.)

The reporter asked him for an interview and Mr. Average became indignant. "Whada'ya mean, 'average'? Who's average? I got lots of things special about me."

That viewpoint may have been the only average thing about the man. Who wants to admit to being average?

"What's this C for?" asked grandma. "The teacher told me you were perfectly capable of getting straight A's."

• Historic Moments

TAYLOR BORN

Zachary Taylor, 12th president, was born in Orange County, Va., on Nov. 24, 1774.

SUFFRAGETTE MEET

On Nov. 24, 1869, a conference of women met in Cleveland to organize the American Women Suffrage Association.

PATRIOTS RETREAT

George Washington's forces began retreat across New Jersey to Pennsylvania on Nov. 28, 1776.

LABOR WINS

New Zealand Labor Party won landslide victory in general election on Nov. 25, 1972.

(Did your teacher sing that song, too? It's the one they all know.)

"I said: 'But, grandma, a C is average. Don't you want me to be average.'"

I explained it to her simply. If there was an average grade, then half the class had to be below average and half above average.

She said: "Don't toss some fancy figuring at me. You got the C in arithmetic."

Then she would have me go out and cut an average amount of kindling, to help me get my mind back on my homework.

This was a pretty average boyhood.

I may have been there once, but I no longer fit the average mold. I am not the average age. Do not have an average number of children. (Do not even have an average child to my name. They're all weird in some way.)

I don't even think I've got an average pet. Most of my cats, I would say, are a little BELOW average.

No stories lately on how the average housewife measures up. (From what I read lately, I get the idea that if you are a housewife you're not very average.)

Statistics that figure out averages can boggle your mind if you think about them very much.

I mean, how can we be getting richer and poorer all at the same time?

Take a bucket of boiling water. Then take a bucket of ice water. Stick your left foot in one. Your right foot in the other.

Don't worry. You'll be perfectly comfortable. On the average.

- Gas Tax Or Rationing?
- Agnew 'Whipped Man'
- Jaworski Man In Middle

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — To the despair of his advisers, President Nixon still hasn't made the unpopular choice between gas rationing and tax increases. There simply won't be enough gas to keep up with consumption. The President fears, however, the public will never accept rationing in peacetime.

As an alternative, the Treasury Department has pleaded with the President to add a tax of 30 to 40 cents on every gallon of gas. Opponents argue this is indirect rationing, which will keep the poor off the highways and leave pleasure driving only for the wealthy.

The Treasury tried to get around this objection by proposing a tax rebate for the gas that families need for essential driving. In other words, the government would allot each family, say, 8,000 miles a year at 15 miles per gallon. The gas taxes for this amount would be refunded at the end of the year. The Treasury experts argue this would favor the poor who have smaller cars. The rich, who drive Cadillacs and Continentals, would be penalized.

But the President refused to listen to any talk of tax increases. He turned down a half-dozen Treasury proposals for a gas tax. For three years, he has ignored urgent appeals to plan for the energy crisis.

His advisers now warn that he can't put off a decision any longer.

Whether the President decides on rationing or taxing, it will require costly bureaucratic machinery. So his subordinates are gearing up for both possibilities — at considerable expense to the taxpayer — while the President makes up his mind.

Blaming the Jews: Washington officials, meanwhile, fear the Arab oil boycott could cause some ugly repercussions when the public starts to feel the economic impact.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is worried that the oil squeeze could aggravate anti-Arab feelings and upset his delicate dealings with the Arabs.

But high Treasury officials fear that the economic hardships raised by the oil shortage could produce a nasty anti-Semitic backlash. They expect the professional rabble-rousers to take to the soapbox and blame the Jews for the hardships. Already, the anti-Semitic clique is crying: "Why should the American people suffer to save Israel?"

A prolonged Arab embargo, in the opinion of the experts, will cause plant shutdowns, economic dislocations and, ultimately, a severe recession. The tighter the economic pinch gets, officials fear, the uglier the public mood will become.

An anti-Israeli bias is already growing inside the government. Officials in the State and Treasury departments, in particular, blame Israel more than the Arab countries for America's oil plight. Their secret reports describe Israel as totally lacking in understanding of the U.S. energy problem.

The wrath of the American people may be directed against the Arabs, as Kissinger believes. But most experts fear the Jews will become the scapegoats.

The 'Whipped Man': Friends of Spiro Agnew, the disgraced former Vice President, describe him as a "whipped man." All his life, he has been poor but proud. Before he went into politics, he worked in a grocery store for $100 a week, then opened a law office. The most he earned from his law practice was short of $200 a week. Yet he always held his head up. It was his pride and bearing that made him successful in politics.

His friends say it was this same fierce pride that made him protest his innocence until his attorneys warned that he faced a likely prison term unless he pleaded no contest and accepted a conviction for income tax evasion.

Agnew has taken his public disgrace hard, say his friends. He still pleads with them that he did no wrong, that he gave no government favors for the cash gifts he accepted from Maryland contractors.

But his biggest worry now is how to make a living. He faces disbarment from the law profession. Sources close to the disbarment proceedings tell me a compromise plan will probably be worked out simply to suspend Agnew for a year or so. Even if he is allowed to practice, potential clients are wary that his notoriety will boomerang against them. As Agnew told a friend bitterly, "The clients aren't breaking down my door."

Only three months ago, Spiro Agnew was the leading contender for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination. Today, he would settle for his old $200-a-week law practice.

Caught in the Middle: There was skepticism in Washington over the appointment of Leon Jaworski as the special Watergate prosecutor. It was clear that Archibald Cox had been fired for pushing his investigations too vigorously for President Nixon's comfort.

Jaworski, as the replacement chosen by the President, is on the spot. If he pursues the investigations with the same vigor, he may also bump heads with Nixon. But if Jaworski holds back, he will be accused of whitewashing.

The new special prosecutor has now taken over the Watergate investigations. He not only has kept Cox's aggressive young prosecutors, but has directed them to go ahead with their investigation, no holds barred. He also demanded and got from the White House documents about the plumbers operation. From the beginning, the President has tried to conceal this operation on the grounds of national security.

Our White House sources say Nixon was upset over Jaworski's demand. But the public clamor over the Cox firing has inhibited the President. He doesn't want to appear to be obstructing the new special prosecutor.

Jaworski, meanwhile, has declined to meet directly with the President so there can be no suspicion they are collaborating. His reason for taking the job, he has told friends, is out of respect for the law. He is determined, they say, to restore faith in the American judicial system.

It might just be possible that President Nixon has another Archibald Cox on his hands.

In Their Own Words

Hannon, Saphir Tell 'Why I Should Be Mayor'

By WALTER J. HANNON
Mayor

The past two years have gone by very quickly. Being Quincy's first full-time Mayor in 19 years, I have devoted all of my time and energy to running the City.

As any new Mayor, I ambitiously set out to improve our city. I have done what a Mayor must do in order that a city move ahead and continue the quality of life we have become accustomed to.

Our open space program has acquired many additional new acres for the enjoyment of the citizens, and we have made major improvements in the field of recreation as well. These were tax dollars wisely spent and will be of lasting benefit to our city and its citizens for many years to come.

We have administered Quincy in a business-like way, placing qualified people in positions that can help run this business of government to the benefit of the taxpayer. These same people, working together, reduced the tax rate for the second time in twenty years. This was done without the reduction of any city services and, in some cases, city services have increased.

I have spent money, but prudently. For I felt it was important to increase our fire protection with new apparatus and to appropriate money for new police equipment to keep abreast of the modern techniques of combating crime.

We not only look at Quincy today, but we look at Quincy's future. Too many times, government waits for problems to arise instead of planning ahead to ensure government by design and not by crisis. With your tax dollar, I have appropriated money for new water and sewer projects in anticipation of new development. This is in conjunction with our new Downtown Development Program.

My attitude has always been a progressive but realistic one regarding the functioning of government. It is easy and self-defeating to be negative, and it is my belief that is why government fails and people lose faith in those who govern.

"To avoid criticism is to say nothing, to do nothing, to be nothing". I will say what I think, I will do what is right, and I believe our city will be better for it.

The Quincy Sun invited the two mayoralty candidates to tell in his and her own words why he or she should be mayor of Quincy. Here is what they said:

Our democratic type of government has been running downhill especially in the past 20 years.

Law and order have become disrespectful. Laws are made to be broken by those who are powerful enough to ignore them. How sad it is that we are handing down to future generations a philosophy of selfishness.

I feel that it is time that we turned around to the ideals of those who helped form this nation. I wish to help and encourage the youth of our city to learn the rewards of honest, dedicated public service. We have not set them an example to follow.

I want to be Mayor because I want to bring a new sense of respect for honesty and integrity and decency that will become a beacon for future generations. The time to begin is now.

The reason why I seek the office of Mayor is because we have broken faith with our forefathers. The democracy that they gave birth to 200 years ago is no longer with us. The dedication and devotion of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson is a thing of the past.

Government of the people, by the people is no longer true. It is government by the political contributors for the political contributors. Whether it is ITT or Jacks Plumbing Supply their political contributions are the power behind politics as we know it today.

It is time to get rid of the petty political cheats. Quincy is torn by the same kind of political strife as the nation's capital. The illness of Watergate never stopped at the Potomac.

There is much discontent in the city. The neighborhoods are in fear of being invaded by developers, zoning laws are circumvented. Development of the city proceeds without respect for the environment and intelligent use of our natural resources.

I want to be Mayor to return the voice of the people to city hall. I want to help the senior citizen to enjoy their latter years secure and with dignity. I want the junior citizens to partake of government and restore their faith and trust in public service.

I want to rekindle a pride in the community and make Quincy a prosperous and contented city in which to live and work.

50% Voter Turnout Predicted Tuesday

J. Vincent Smyth, 53, incumbent and a liquor store proprietor, faces a challenge from Dennis E. Harrington, also an assistant district attorney, in Ward 6.

The three incumbents seeking re-election for councillor-at-large, Joseph J. LaRaia, 40, John J. Quinn, 49, and Arthur H. Tobin, 42, topped the preliminary field by healthy margins.

The challengers are McLelland, 33, a Polaroid scientist, Robert L. Foley, 44, an engineer, and Mrs. Helen M. McDonnell, a 55-year-old housewife. As a ward councillor, McLelland is also listed as an incumbent on the ballot.

The incumbent school committeemen, Frank Anselmo, 73, and Charles T. Sweeney, 56, ran third and first respectively in the preliminary contest.

The four newcomers seeking a seat are Bryant L. Carter Jr., 22, an accountant; Jeffrey C. LaPointe, 28, an attorney; J. Thomas Mullaney, 34, a cost analyst; and John J. Sullivan, 54, a retired federal mediator.

Mullaney finished an impressive second behind Sweeney in the preliminary running.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

•Youth Speaks Out

• John Love is head of President Nixon's Energy Crisis Committee. With a name like that it would seem he should be head of the human relations committee.

• It looks like weekend pleasure driving might be eliminated which gives the Sunday football fan a built-in excuse to stay home.

• The murder rate in Boston is up, we have a serious energy crisis, our democracy is being threatened and yet some peoples' major cause is whether a movie with some nude scenes should be allowed to be shown to adults.

• If a regular secretary erased part of a tape recording she might get fired, but President Nixon's secretary will probably get a raise for a job well done.

• The Patriots have a two-game winning streak, the Colts are in first, the Bruins are in first, who cares if we're cold.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

Overweight girl worried

By PAT and
MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I'm 17 and plan to attend college next year. My mother, my aunt, and my grand-mother are all overweight — so am I.

They all say that everyone in our family gains weight easily, but I think we all eat too many cakes, pies, and other sweets. We all seem to have a sweet tooth. Plus the fact that we all snarl while watching television. Can you help?

Sandy

Dear Sandy:

You can't have sweets and a waistline too. However, it is wise to check with your physician and rule out possible glandular or other causes of your weight problem. Ask your doctor for a diet and the rest is up to you. Good luck.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

We've been married five years and you won't believe the getup my wife wears to bed. She puts rollers in her hair, covers her head and rollers with toilet tissue, then puts a net cap over all. And I haven't finished. She puts oil on her face and feet. Says she is determined to stay young.

How can I convince her that youth is great but it also takes romance to make the world go around?

Turned Off

Dear Turned Off:

Tell your wife that you are determined to stay married and then lay it on the line. It is not necessary for a woman to go to bed looking as though she is made up for a masquerade party to stay young.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I am a senior in high school and my parents are full of constructive criticism. A grade of B in English will bring on at least an hour of explanation as to why I must "toughen up," my work habits, I get A's in most subjects and can't understand why my parents become so concerned.

Mom is bad but Dad is worse. Dad talks for hours on how we live in an age of pressure and that I must excel, excel, excel! I sometimes feel I can't stand another minute of Dad's pushing. I just want to stand up and yell, "Don't push me, I can't take it." But, instead, I get all tight inside and keep silent. What can I do?

Dear Jay:

Have a talk with your high school counselor. Tell him exactly what you've told me and ask him to have a conference with your father.

In the meantime, tell Dad to stop making your life one big pressure cooker OR you just might blow up. Hand this column to your father. Dad, this is for you — QUIT PUSHING.

Jay

A CHILD'S JOY

Buying presents at fifty cents apiece

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

If you think you have problems deciding what to buy Great Aunt Zelda who has everything, just wait until your child decides he wants to buy Christmas presents for everybody with his very own money. He rushes into the kitchen one morning after your gifts have already been bought, wrapped and enclosure cards signed with his name on them too. "Mom!" he shouts, "I've got a great idea!" "Yeah?" you answer warily. You remember the last time he had a great idea. "I'm gonna buy all my own gifts this year!" he announces. Then he whips out a list he has compiled with 36 names on it. Wiping the fruitcake mix from your hands, you come on like Scrooge: "Wait just a minute, Diamond Jim. How much money have you got?" He is still soaring on the spirit of Christmas go-for-broke when he answers, "Lots — eighteen dollars and thirty-six cents and I'm gonna spend it all." It is then your heart softens (a lapse you will live to regret) and you say, "I think that is wonderful of you, Freddie." Nevertheless, you are mentally calculating that eighteen dollars into 36 people comes out only fifty cents apiece. But you leave your fruitcake preparations, bundle up and drive him down to the local five and ten. There, you turn him loose with instructions to watch his budget and meet you in an hour, after he has made his selections. You can't help but wonder how the kid is going to handle it. You spend the next hour loitering in the supermarket, then go back to pick him up. But he is empty-handed. "Where are all your presents?" you ask. "I couldn't find anything," he answers. "For fifty cents the five and ten had nothing but thermos corks and bath salts that make you itch like anything. I need a two-year advance on my allowance. I'll pay ya back — I promise." His eyes are shining like two Christmas stars and you realize there is nothing to say but yes. So you say it. And on Christmas morning you're glad you did, for there's a light in Great Aunt Zelda's eyes as she holds the $1.49 pot holder Freddie gave her. "You picked this out yourself, didn't you?" she asks. "Yes," says Freddie proudly, and you know he has felt the joy of giving. Even if he does owe his soul to the company store.

Greetings suitable for all?

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin: We have had a family snapshot taken in front of our home imprinted on cards with the words, "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year from the Spencers."

Now friends tell me that these cards are not suitable for everyone on our greeting card list. Should I order new cards? We receive many of the photographic greetings and I have never been offended. Please explain. — Mrs. Spencer

Dear Mrs. Spencer: Your photographic cards are perfect for probably most of the people on your list. The "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" greeting would not be suitable for any Jewish friends you might have. "Season's Greetings" or "Holiday Greetings" would be more appropriate. You know it's not going to be a Merry Christmas for a recently bereaved friend, so a card with a somewhat less jolly message would be better. Are you sure that all your husband's business associates will recognize you and know who "The Spencers" are? If you are in doubt, draw a line through that printing and write, "Mary and John." I like to receive a handwritten message on ALL cards, even if it's only, "Thinking of you and send love."

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Our daughter is attending her freshman year at a midwestern college. Last week she wrote home and asked us to reserve our church for Dec. 22 as she was planning on being married. She said she'd asked three of her sorority sisters to be her attendants and she wanted the reception to be in our home. Now the crazy thing is, she's not even engaged but she says she's sure she will be by November. She isn't even dating anyone steadily. Should we do as she asks? I'd hate to have to cancel the church at the last minute. — Bewildered in Sacramento

Dear Bewildered: I can't help but admire your daughter's optimism and far-sightedness but don't do anything until she produces a fiancé and a ring.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Is it proper to number the pages of a letter to a friend? I use single sheets and only write on one side. — Marion B.

Dear Marion B.: The opening page needs no number but count it as number 1. Number the following pages in order. If you are using folded sheets there is no specific way of writing from page to page but the most logical order is to proceed in sequence, numbering as you go.

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of
Dec. 2-8

By GINA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Rework old project previously bogged down — get it ready for presentation. Resist expansive mood when shopping. Be practical and realistic about money. Resolve to stay within your budget from now on.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Actions taken now could become permanent, so look before you leap. Projects launched now will be lasting and enduring. Utilize your practical judgment. Get enough rest, watch diet and guard health.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Action is your keyword. Preholiday shopping, your job and your family's needs require masterful juggling of time. Good time to enjoy the cultural arts and improve your mind. Be open, honest and frank.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 21 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Review unfinished projects and select one to rework and present to higher-ups. Good time to study and improve your mind. Work quietly, patiently and thoroughly to accomplish your goals. Friends are supportive.

LEO: (July 22 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Relationships with mate or close friends can become warmer, more gratifying now. Time devoted to charity causes is appreciated. If involved in a legal matter get an attorney who specializes in the field.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Time to relax — withdraw from the arena and take a breather. Be practical about money when buying holiday gifts. Things you make yourself are greatly appreciated. Be creative in the kitchen.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Tensions appear high and tempers may be short. Take a philosophical approach — "this too shall pass." If it is necessary to take a stand and fight for what you want, do so calmly and with quiet authority.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Use your good common sense and past experience in solving problems. Possibility of making a new and rewarding friendship. Be aware of the feelings of mate — resist assuming a self-righteous attitude.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Activity on the home front may be somewhat frenetic. Opportunity for achievement abounds. Watch diet carefully — stay with simple foods instead of spicy ones. Use creativity in business projects.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Affairs dealing with communications, writing, advertising or correspondence are favored now. Good time too for making travel plans and arrangements. Self-confidence pays off — higher-ups are impressed.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Business affairs take a back seat to your social life now. Be practical about gift buying — the budget has been strained enough. Possibility of whirlwind romance if single. Take your time.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Energy is high — "make hay while the sun shines." Take the initiative and welcome all challenges. If blocked in one path, take another route — you can win. Time for new starts. Make new contacts.

Hate brings impulsiveness

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I'm so tired of fighting. I know we have to fight for our own rights, as well as for others, but I find I do a lot of hating and say a lot of hateful things. Sometimes, I just have to get in my car and take a ride to cool off. Then, I find myself taking it out on other drivers. What do you think about me?

E. V.

Dear E. V.:

Hate makes you senseless, sightless — and can kill.

The consistent rigidity of your writing shows the mountains of wrongs which have consumed your life. Then, the open top on o's shows your tendency to talk about them, keeping your ego wounds open and oozing.

Your far forward slant makes you impulsive, and that rigid return of the f and g downstrokes to the line of writing, is the push that throws you into every firing line that comes along. It helps you fight a bulgier battle.

When you're so defensive, you're bound to lose your head. Seen in the constant v formations along the line, your mind is critical — and being so impulsive doesn't help you a bit. Impulsiveness breeds imposition! So —

WHAM — You get it again.

Telling you to take hate out of your personality is as good as no help at all. You'd just take it out on someone else. So when your seething starts to seethe, devise some kind of a safety release. Write it down in a letter. Keep it a day, then burn it. Go shopping and try on some clothes, look at yourself in the mirror — and laugh. Blow up a bunch of balloons and bang them against the wall.

But, NEVER get in your car to cool yourself off.

D. J.

Christmas Jubilee Fair At First Parish Saturday

United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., will hold its annual Christmas Jubilee Fair Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parish hall in Quincy Square.

A special feature will be a guided tour of the church building. Interesting events in the 337 years the parish has been in existence will be discussed.

William Flavin, church historian, who is also chairman of the fair, will try to answer any and all questions the public may have. Thomas Wiggin Jr., is co-chairman of the fair.

A popular feature of last year's fair, the puppet show presented by Sandy Edwards, will be repeated this year. Among the special tables will be the Christmas table, Miss Bernice Barrett, chairman; This and that, Miss Norma Johnson; household, Mrs. Phyllis Meister and Mrs. Marion Marsh; Santa's workshop, Mrs. Marge Berger and Mrs. Muriel Horton; food table, Mrs. Isabelle Edwards; children's table; Mrs. Marion Wiggin; old books, Mrs. Esther Wall; jewelry, Mrs. Helen Hultman; country store, William Flavin.

A light luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the dining room by Mrs. Pat Murphy and the Sanity Sisters, a group of younger women in the church. Sandwiches, dessert and coffee will be available for all who come to enjoy this Christmas fair.

Fine Arts Chorale Opens Season Saturday, Sunday

Fine Arts Chorale, directed by its founder, Peter L. Edwards, will open its eighth season with two concerts presented Saturday, December 1, at 8 p.m. and Sunday, December 2, at 3 p.m. at Weymouth North High School, East Weymouth.

Featured will be performances of Ralph Vaughan Williams' "Hodie" and Johann Gottlieb Goldberg's "Durch die herzliche Barmherzigkeit."

Soloists will be Eleanor

Edwards, soprano; Ruth Sullivan, contralto; Donald Sullivan, tenor; and John Kern, baritone. They will be accompanied by a 45-member

Survival, Inc. Seeks Federal Funds To Continue Operation

Survival Inc. is engaged in "serious negotiations" with the National Institute of Mental Health for federal funds to help keep the multi-faceted drug and youth program in operation after next February.

The program currently receives a $76,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Justice Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, which will expire in mid-February when LEAA changes its focus to prison rehabilitation.

The National Institute of Mental Health, which is a division of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is picking up the tab for some of the programs that would have had to be dropped.

Robert Hassey, executive director of Survival Inc., said formal notification of the funds may come about the first of the year, adding that NIMH officials have advised him an expansion of funds is possible.

"I expect that we will be requesting over $100,000 from NIMH," said Hassey.

"Survival had had a grant of $114,000 from LEAA a few years ago, but had a number of high paid personnel which used up the money very rapidly without a great number of results.

"Helping people, and not financial reward, is the motivation of the current staff, so an increased grant would mean more personnel to serve those in need, and the money would be used much more conservatively."

53 Firefighters With 1,384 Years Service Honored

Forty-eight Quincy firefighters received 25-year service pins Tuesday at the 16th annual retirement banquet of the Quincy Fire Department.

The figure 48 was significant in that the 48 firefighters joined the department in 1948 when it went on the 48 hour week.

A memorial plaque was presented to the family of firefighter James J. Hunt, who died last winter before retirement.

Two retired firefighters also died during the year. They were John Martell and Albert Swanson.

Five members retiring this year after a combined 148 years service were special guests at the dinner. Capt. Edward T. O'Connell, who joined the department in 1936; Capt. John E. Schatzl [1953], Lt. Edward F. Gallagher [1942], Lt. Paul J. Jacobs and Pvt. Joseph R. Guivens, both of whom joined the department in 1943.

The 48 who received 25-year pins were:

Dep. Chief Cornelius Quinn, Dep. Chief Herbert Rourke, Capt. Thomas Andrew, Capt. Robert Flowers, Capt. James Craig, Capt. John Menz Sr., Lt. John Chisholm, Lt. Nunzio Cirillo, Lt. Guido DiTullio, Lt. Samuel James.

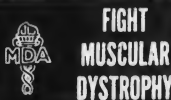

Lt. Robert Kelly, Lt. Leo Ladas, Lt. Warren Larson, Lt. Anthony Malvesti, Lt. Louis Malvesti, Lt. Harry Marini, Lt.

William McEachern, Lt. Frederick Mullaney, Lt. Laurence Smith and the following privates:

George Allison, Czesletin Aniolowski, Warren Burrell, John Colligan, David Curtin Jr., Victor Davidson, Jacob Foschia, Gerald Galvin, James Gilmartin, Francis Holland, Lando Infascelli, Paul Jago, George Kind, Rocco Marella.

Dist. Atty. Burke Cited For 'Outstanding Service'

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke has been presented an award for outstanding service as district attorney of Norfolk County by the Kiwanis Club of Brookline.

The award was presented for his "outstanding work in the area of drug education, his work in the prisons, and his dedication to furtherance of law enforcement."

The award was presented by Chief James Rourke of the Brookline Police Department. The presentation was made at a Kiwanis luncheon.

Served in World War I and II, American Legion Post 295, Wollaston, John Quincy Adams Club, Sons of Italy - Quincy, Quincy Historical Society. Past chairman, city-wide, Cancer Crusade, Past chairman Quincy Community Fund, municipal and federal employees.

● School Committee member 12 years, crusaded for new Vocational-Technical School, Quincy Junior College, Squantum School addition, new Hancock-Lincoln School, prime mover to acquire Old Court House lease, etc.

● METCO: - prime crusader against it in Quincy - not on racial bias, but from a common sense view-point. Time is proving the economic fallacy and waste involved. Now, we hardly have enough money for taxes, food, gasoline and heating oil; should we also be saddled with the growing cost of needless cross-busing of school children from one city to another? This issue is not dead - a metropolitan concept is now being promoted! I will continue to fight against this.

● Quincy City Hospital: - Fought successfully against turning over the hospital to a so-called non-municipal, non-profit (?) corporation. Keeps a sharp eye for other schemes that will take away what belongs to the people.

● Yes, Frank Anselmo can fight for, or fight against an issue. He calls them as he sees them; and, usually, he sees them straight.

As Captain of the Boston University Rifle Team, he made a World's Record in small bore shooting with a score of 999 out of a possible 1000 [100 shot]. He also was school boy New England Champ in open competition, at Wakefield Rifle Range, from 200 to 1000 yards.

Like-wise he is trained to think straight - to follow through. There is more work to be done - Continue progress with a fearless, honest, steadfast man - not a yes-man, or a rubber stamp for political manipulation.

Retain - Re-elect - Vote For FRANK ANSELMO FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Lester Glasser Elected To Temple Israel Trustees

At the recent annual meeting of Temple Israel of Boston held in the new Rabb Cahnners Social Hall of the Temple, Lester H. Glasser of Wollaston was elected to a three-year term as a member of the Board of Trustees of Temple Israel.

Glasser is a past president of the Quincy Lodge B'nai B'rith and was chairman of the Lodge's Anti Defamation League Committee for more than 20 years. He is also a past president of the Quincy Zionist District.

Glasser has won the Gold Award for 10 years, given by the Jewish Chautauqua Society of the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods for exceeding his quota by more than 125% as the chairman of

of the Jewish Chautauqua Society Committee of Temple Israel Brotherhood. He is a columnist for the Jewish Advocate.

Den 2, Pack 5 Visits Quincy Sun

Seven members of Den 2, Pack 5 Cub Scouts made a field trip to The Quincy Sun office last week to see how a newspaper is put together.

Making the visit with their leader, Mrs. Joan Connolly, were:

William Gray, Peter Aldrich, John Connolly, Paul Connolly, Stephen Kallenberg, Charles Baker and Paul Foley.

Anthony Rocci was ill and unable to make the trip.

Den 2 has made other field trips recently to the Police Department and to a haunted house at the Children's Museum.

While at The Sun, the den members saw the story of their visit put into type.

CP Plans Arts, Crafts Exhibit Dec. 5

The Cerebral Palsy Adult Class will conduct its annual Arts and Crafts Exhibition and Fair at the Beechwood Knoll School, Wollaston, Dec. 5 from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

According to Mrs. Marion L. Lutz, Supervisor of the class, the exhibition will display wares created by the cerebral palsied during the past year. All the articles offered for sale have been made by severely handicapped cerebral palsied, and the full purchase price goes to the individual.

The fair, which is held once a year prior to Christmas, provides an opportunity for the cerebral palsied to earn some money for the holiday season. It also gives them a feeling of economic independence.

Mrs. Lutz invites visitors, friends and relatives to attend the Fair, purchase some of the articles and witness the accomplishments of the severely handicapped cerebral palsied who attend the Adult Class.

Sears Says Shea Rink Ice Time Problem Scheduling Error

MDC Commissioner John W. Sears has answered charges that a "private profit-making group" was getting free ice time in place of a public youth hockey group paying $25 an hour at the MDC's Shea Rink.

Houghts Neck parents involved with the hockey program and Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, [D-Quincy] objected when the program was rescheduled to make ice time for the Metropolitan Figure Skating School. The youth hockey program was rescheduled from 5 p.m. Saturday evenings to midnight. In his letter to Brownell, Sears assured him that the "scheduling error" would be remedied. He also defended the figure skating school because it serves 2,700 youths, mostly girls, who would not get ice time otherwise.

Sears added that the school gets no profit from Shea Rink, and that money paid by the children pays the salaries of the instructors. Sears said the cost per hour to each child is 37 cents.

Brownell said that Rep. Robert B. Ambler (D-Weymouth) is leading an investigation of "all practices and phases of the MDC in Quincy," and that Ambler is preparing to report to the state legislature on his committee's findings.

Rain Fails To Dampen Spirits At Christmas Parade

PARADE GOERS — Peter Smith holds his 1½-year-old daughter Kerri on his shoulders so that she can get a better view of the Christmas Festival Parade down Hancock Street Sunday.
[Quincy Sun Photos by Laban Whittaker]

FROSTY THE SNOWMAN took a chance and went out in the rain to greet these youngsters during Sunday's Christmas Festival Parade.

'JAPANESE FANTASY', entered by the South Shore Campfire Girls, captured the grand prize of $1,000 and the Father Thomas Tierney Trophy as the best float in Sunday's Christmas Festival Parade.

IT RAINED ON THEIR PARADE Sunday but the intermittent showers failed to dampen the spirits of these Christmas Festival Parade watchers on Hancock Street.

Candidates Present Views On Issues For Dec. 4 Election

The 26 candidates in the Dec. 4 Quincy city election have been given the opportunity to speak out on key issues through a questionnaire compiled by the League of Women Voters of Quincy.

The public service project was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Michael Benedict III, League President, and Mrs. David Coletti, Voter Services Chairman. Assisting them were committee members Mrs. Richard Caristi, Mrs. Kenneth Croke, Mrs. John Kane, Mrs. Hugh O'Brien and Mrs. John Toland. In addition to background information, the mayoral candidates were asked three questions each, the council and school committee candidates two questions each on issues pertaining to the office they seek. The two mayoral candidates were asked not to exceed 150 words in replying to their three questions and the other candidates not to exceed 100 words in answering their two questions.

Following are the replies:

• Mayor

Question 1: What choices does Quincy have for the revitalization of the Quincy Center area and how should such a project be funded?

Question 2: Some cities and towns are realizing a profit from recycling of waste materials. What steps could Quincy take to profit from the recycling of waste products?

Question 3: We have all benefited from the North Quincy and Quincy Point Improvement Projects of concentrated code enforcement. Would you support a strengthening of the City's Code Enforcement Office to continue this program if Federal Funds are not forthcoming?

WALTER J. HANNON, 45
 Forbes Hill Rd, incumbent. Age: 41. Occupation: Owner of the company.

Answer 1: Do we want a downtown of pizza shops and discount operations or an area worthy of being the historic center of this city. I don't want our center to die. This improvement program will be funded by private investment and direct assistance from federal and state aid programs. For example, we have completed nearly $100,000 in downtown traffic and improvement studies with not one cent of local tax funds.

Answer 2: We have already opened a recycling center for glass, newspapers and aluminum. It is very difficult for a city of our size to make a profit from recycling but we are willing to look at any idea to reduce the amount of trash or make more money from it.

Answer 3: My staff is now working with three neighborhoods: South-west Quincy, Atlantic and Houghs Neck to develop with them a way of continuing neighborhood improvement, and, I went to Washington last month to urge the Congress to keep these programs available to cities like Quincy. If federal assistance is available, fine. If not, we should develop at least a "limited" approach to helping neighborhoods.

GRACE E. SAPHIR, 921 East
 Squantum St. Age: 57. Occupation: Nurse.

Answer 1 [a]: The law says that it cannot be left to disintegrate [7376] as it is doing.

[b] The city can allocate money in the budget to revitalize the area with city funds but we are over indebted now.

[c] Quincy could seek private funding, federal funding.

[d] The Chamber of Commerce could be asked to avoid duplication of businesses.

[e] Rehabilitate properties as money is available after a comprehensive approved development plan has been accepted with citizen participation.

I would favor [plane] using private funds after plans have been approved and competitive bids have been received and evaluated.

Answer 2: [a] Stop illegal filling of the dumps. Use only for Quincy. Resell all public waste paper, recycle materials such as aluminum, glass etc.

[b] With existing manpower and facilities, experiment with the manufacture of a by-product of trash.

Answer 3: NO. I would not support continuing the program if federal funds are not forthcoming. If the city cannot carry on the project through a city budget, it should be cancelled.

• Council At Large

Question 1: How should campaigns be financed?

Question 2: Would you support funding of outpatient clinics at Quincy City Hospital both day and evening?

JOSEPH J. LARAIA, 54
 Grogan Ave., incumbent. Age: 40. Occupation: Deputy Administrator State Welfare Department.

Answer 1: Campaign financing should be financed through a combination of public and private resources made available on an equal time basis for all candidates. Private contributions and the reporting of campaign expenditures should be made at specific intervals before primaries and final elections! I favor the current initiative petitions sponsored by Common Cause and the Committee to Reform Election Laws which close existing loopholes, stiffen penalties for violations, and establish workable enforcement mechanisms.

Answer 2: I would support the funding of day and evening outpatient clinics at Quincy City Hospital. The family doctor shortage in Quincy is acute. I believe that to assure proper medical care for every Quincy citizen, the city must adopt this approach.

THEOPHILUS McLELLAND III, 37
 Pembroke St., Ward 3 incumbent. Age: 33. Occupation: Chemist.

Answer 1: I think the most important facet of campaign financing is the absolute necessity of establishing limits for each political office held in this state. We need to change this costly system of publicity for the candidate for the protection of all of us. Possibly we should all be required to add two dollars to our state income tax to be distributed to all parties equally.

Answer 2: I would definitely support funding for both day and evening out-patient clinics at Quincy City Hospital, because:

[a] Out-patient services can reduce unnecessary hospital utilizations and increase the Emergency Room's availability for true emergency patients.

[b] There are fewer primary care physicians in this city.

[c] The elderly, the handicapped, the veteran and those on fixed incomes must be helped.

JOHN J. QUINN, 86
 Grandview Ave., incumbent. Age: 49. Occupation: Blue Cross-Blue Shield executive.

Answer 1: Campaigns should be financed by the candidates and their supporters. A full accounting and audit by law must be made to the Secretary of State's Office within 30 days of the Primary and Final Election.

ARTHUR H. TOBIN, 58
 Huntley Rd, incumbent. Age: 42. Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: I will rely on a survey made in my district on this issue. This 22 question survey included a two-part question on campaign financing. The results were:

[a] 88 percent of the people in my district favored a ceiling on campaign expenditures.

[b] In answer to the question of which system of campaign financing do you favor-

58.8 - present system

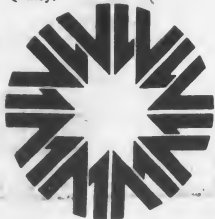

16.2 - optional

18.1 - government subsidy

The remaining favored a combination of methods.

Answer 2: I favor the outpatient clinic. I think it is inevitable because of the overburdened schedules of the physicians in the city. Many citizens are now using the emergency room at the hospital for this. The Hospital Board of Managers and the City Council should begin to make plans for the implementation of this program. I want the best medical care possible for the citizens of Quincy.

KEEP FREEDOM ALIVE...

ROBERT L. FOLEY, 41
Algonquin Rd. Age: 44.
Occupation: Engineer.

Answer 1: Campaign financing should be strictly scrutinized. Each candidate should be required to submit to the City Clerk an audited account stating income and source, and an itemized expenditure list. These should be published in the local newspapers. "Expense Ceilings" should be set for each office.

Answer 2: Outpatient clinics are a great idea and I would gladly support funding them if I were sure that we could administer them and the expenses of running them would not necessitate the cutting of any services that should have a greater priority.

HELEN M. McDONNELL, 249 Newbury Ave. Age: 55.
Occupation: Housewife.

Answer 1: Until something better is developed in due time through the process of Law, a Candidate for elected office has no choice but to obtain contributions from friends and neighbors who know the merits of the Candidate. These contributions must be minimal and accepted with no strings attached. No Candidate worthy of his salt should mortgage his independence of thinking and action for the benefit of people he will serve in the future.

Answer 2: Quincy City Hospital was chartered years ago as a Non-Profit Corporation by the Citizens of Quincy to give Medical service to its citizens. In the spirit in which it was created it should render out-clinic service day and night to those unfortunately who may be in immediate need and I do support a program of this nature supported by the Taxpayers in general.

Ward Council

Question 1: How should campaigns be financed?
Question 2: Would you support funding of outpatient clinics at Quincy City Hospital both day and evening?

Ward 1

PAUL D. HAROLD, 31 Riverside Ave. Age: 25.
Occupation: Legal Researcher.

Answer 1: Campaigns should be financed by the many - not the few. Watergate has pointed out the fact that elected officials are only as independent as their source of campaign moneys.

Answer 2: Yes, I would support an outpatient clinic at Quincy City Hospital [day and evening] and would hope that the cost would be absorbed by the hospital, rather than creating an additional burden on the homeowners of Ward One. Presently, the emergency room is being used as an outpatient clinic by people who are unable to find a private physician; this creates a strain on the emergency room facilities for many non-emergency cases.

LEO J. KELLY, 29 Charles St. Age: 40. Occupation: Barber.

Answer 1: I believe public financing is the ultimate solution to campaign funding problems. Campaign financing is an issue the state legislature is attempting to resolve before the end of the 1973 session, now targeted for Dec. 1. One possible answer, would be for television, radio and newspapers to donate free time and space to candidates and to refuse paid political advertising.

Answer 2: Yes, if the people using the clinic help in funding it.

Ward 2

CLIFFORD H. MARSHALL, 64 Edison St., incumbent. Age: 35.
Occupation: State Representative.

Answer 1: State wide offices should be funded through party contributions the same as in the federal government. Local campaigns should be financed small contributions. It would be ideal if each person could contribute $1.00 through their government.

Answer 2: Yes, for any services that are deemed necessary and are not presently provided for in our community and hospital within reason.

PATRICK J. FAHERTY JR., 47 Faxon Park Rd. Age: 55.
Occupation: Manager.

[No Photo Submitted]

Answer 1: Campaign funds should be paid by the individual up to a certain amount but contributions will still come in from close friends. These amounts should also be recorded and keep the fund to a certain minimum, so many others can enter the race. Money should not hold them back from running for office due to a shortage of cash.

Answer 2: Out-patient clinics should be funded by the City for the less fortunate. If you can pay a fee for out-patient treatment it should be done, otherwise the poor should be taken care of.

Ward 3

JOHN J. LYDON JR., 468 Beale St. Age: 32. Occupation: Funeral Director.

Answer 1: I would advocate and support legislation which would effectively limit campaign spending. I would also advocate that limitations be placed on the amount that an individual or corporation may donate to any particular candidate. In conclusion I would advocate strict enforcement of these concepts and a stiffening of the penalties for the violator.

Answer 2: The Quincy City Hospital's master plan calls for more out-patient services. I support this. Presently, people unable to get a doctor go to the hospital emergency room. This will continue until non-emergency out-patient care is provided.

A city with only 8 or 9 pediatricians and 22,000 children should take some steps to insure that all children get quality medical care when needed.

Other hospitals have taken these steps to help the over-worked private physicians and I believe we can too.

JOHN T. RICCIUTI, 31 Stoney Brae Rd. Age: 43.
Occupation: Co-owner Monument company.

Answer 1: Campaign financing is a maze of complexities on all levels of elective government, embracing both moral and public spiritiveness.

I advocate a Special Election Fund, to be distributed through the Attorney General's office through a series of checks and balances, which, by law, will subject the candidate and his committee to scrutiny of all income and disbursements.

Answer 2: Subject to the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers, I support the all inclusive clinic-concept, funded through Federal Grants, for Quincy residents only. A trial evaluation of this Medical Assistance Project should produce medical and patient data to determine firm health goals and objectives. Ill health must not be synonymous with financial burdens.

Ward 4

ALBERT R. BARILARO, 65 Grove St., incumbent. Age: 56.
Occupation: Inspector for State Lottery.

Answer 1: I believe that any candidate seeking municipal office [City Councillor] should provide his own funds so that he will not be obligated in anyway to others and thus be free to act independently on all matters confronting him.

Answer 2: Yes, I will definitely support an outpatient clinic subject to approval of the Hospital Board of Directors.

I have been in discussion with some Hospital Board members on this matter and expressed my willingness to support such a clinic. A thorough evaluation, both economically and medically, should be undertaken to prove the advisability of such a move.

JAMES A. SHEETS, 926 Furnace Brook Pkway. Age: 37.
Occupation: Junior College professor.

Answer 1: The best way to control campaign financing is to control campaign spending. The ceiling on campaign spending should be determined by the total number of people voting for a given office. The level of spending should be substantially reduced with only small individual contributions accepted and publicly reported as received.

Answer 2: Quincy citizens with need should not be denied medical care for lack of funding. However, it should be determined that individual funding by the patient is not available. A Commission should be established to secure state or federal funds for the general financing of the program. The burden should not be placed on the Quincy taxpayer.

Ward 5

MICHAEL J. PEATRIDGE, 64 Ellington Rd. Age: 21.
Occupation: Consultant.

Answer 1: A large number of small contributions makes for a much healthier political climate than a small number of big money givers, as the present scandal in Washington has shown. I also would like to see legislation enacted to open up the public media to more free time for candidates. Finally, I feel that campaign expenditures must be limited and policed more carefully.

Answer 2: I would support such funding. I feel that good health care is a basic right that should not depend solely on economic status, particularly in the case of elderly citizens who have worked all their lives to contribute to our society. We cannot afford to let these people suffer from a lack of adequate health care while living in the most affluent nation in history.

Ward 5 (cont'd)

WARREN POWERS, 8
Grandview Terrace, Age: 32.
Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: There should be definite limitations on the dollar amount any one may donate. There should be a strict ceiling on the total expenditure for a particular office. To insure access of rich and poor to political office, I suggest a special committee be formed to receive funds for a particular candidate and be required to list all contributions and to file accurate records with the proper agencies.

Answer 2: Once we have determined the need for such programs, we can set limitations and determine eligibility. We must also consider the long-term effect on the Hospital budget as to whether they should be self-sustaining or operate at a loss. The question is essentially one of examining all the needs of the hospital and determining just where on the list of priorities such clinics would fall.

DENNIS J. HARRINGTON, 211
Billings St. Age: 31.
Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: On the federal and state level the ONE DOLLAR tax deduction method appears to be a solution. It provides a source of funding for candidates and it is by its nature a source which will not result in the granting of special favors.

Local campaigns of necessity must be financed by the candidate and his friends and it is here that a Special Commission is needed to insure that those who seek preferential treatment through campaign contributions, are kept out of campaigns.

Answer 2: I would support the funding of all needed medical programs at Quincy City Hospital. I would seek the advice of those specialists at the Hospital concerning the need for any programs. After obtaining this information and investigating personally the need, I would then decide as to the funding of outpatient clinics.

CHARLES T. SWEENEY, 49
Ames St., incumbent, Age: 56.
Occupation: Veterans Administration executive.

Answer 1: The School Committee must be fully aware of curriculum offerings and teaching methods and be able to evaluate their content and effectiveness. If change is in order, the School Committee must set the policy.

Answer 2: For years the School Committee has encouraged community use of all our schools. The concept of the community school fostered by the School Committee is designed to encourage fuller community use of our highly valuable property.

members of the school committee.

Answer 2: The elementary schools should be utilized as social centers for the community around each school. Each school has the facilities to handle community meetings or even some kind of athletic endeavor can be held at most of the facilities in the city.

JEFFREY C. LAPOINTE, 11
Hughes St. Age: 28. Occupation: Lawyer.

Answer 1: The Quincy School Committee must make the ultimate decisions affecting the curriculum. They should be made, however, after consultation with the School Department relative to the merits of each anticipated curriculum change and also in regard to whether certain programs are succeeding or failing. The School Committee should not dictate to individual teachers their teaching methods. However, it must hold the administration, principals and teachers to certain standards and must know whether the method used is effective.

Answer 2: Yes. The community school concept has been successfully implemented in other cities. The Lincoln Hancock School Community Council has submitted a proposal relative to in-depth use of that school for local community activities. I believe the taxpayer would get a greater return on his tax dollar by having the schools used for community activities.

J. THOMAS MULLANEY, 115
Standish Ave. Age: 38.
Occupation: Cost Analyst.

Answer 1: The School Committee has an obligation to insure that the children of Quincy receive the best education that we can provide. While the Superintendent and his staff make most educational decisions the School Committee should question and constructively challenge any and all decisions. To effectively challenge decisions the School Committee must spend a considerable amount of time attempting to understand curriculum and teaching methods.

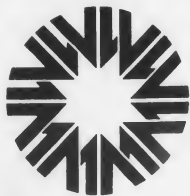

Answer 2: Yes. These buildings stand idle too much of the time. If the community can use them and the additional cost is reasonable I favor opening them up.

JOHN J. SULLIVAN, 23
Marion St. Age: 54. Occupation: Federal mediator.

Answer 1: By statute the School Committee of any community establishes all policies under which local school systems operate. They have a civic, social, economic, moral and ethical responsibility to establish policies which reflect the community they represent. It is their responsibility to hire able administrators to carry out these established policies.

Answer 2: The schools are not the property of the School Committee but of the citizens of the community they represent. It seems a shame that full utilization isn't made of these buildings during evenings, week-ends and summer months. Programs advocating this kind of use have wisdom and should receive serious consideration.

● School Committee

Question 1: To what degree should the School Committee make decisions concerning the curriculum and teaching methods of the Quincy school system?

Question 2: Do you think that the elementary schools can be more fully utilized on a day and evening basis to serve as a center for local community activities?

BRYANT CARTER JR., 102
Faxon Rd. Age: 22. Occupation: Accountant.

Answer 1: Since the school committee appropriates the funds to run the school system, I think they should have the power to accept or reject the curriculum that is implemented within the school system, after a full report and explanation of the curriculum by the school department administration is submitted for review by the school committee members. I also feel the various teaching methods used throughout the system on the various levels of education should be subject to a check and review by the

10,000 Extra Copies Of This Section Being Distributed By Pupils

Ten thousand extra copies of this Quincy Sun Special Election pullout section are going to school and then to homes of voters.

The copies will be distributed to public and private elementary school pupils to bring home to their parents to acquaint them with the candidates seeking office in the Dec. 4 city election.

This is a public service project by the League of Women Voters of Quincy, the Quincy public school system and The Quincy Sun.

Cost of the questionnaires to which the candidates were invited to reply, was financed by the Education Fund of the League of Women Voters. The fund is comprised of contributions from Quincy residents.

The Quincy Sun is making the 10,000 extra copies of the four-page pullout section available to the League of Women Voters at a nominal cost as a public service.

FRANK F. ANSELMO, 610
Adams St., incumbent, Age: 73.
Occupation: Retired Post Office Superintendent.

Answer 1: The School Committee is a policy making body of non-paid laymen, elected by the voters. As such, their only interest should be to promote the broadest possible curriculum, to widen the scope and purpose of education, for the maximum benefit of the student body. The only limitation, could be, the financial condition of the City, at budget time.

Answer 2: Yes, I do. Consideration is already in process to start at the new Hancock-Lincoln School. This could become a model for other sections of the city.

● Ward 6

J. VINCENT SMYTH, 184
Lansdowne St., incumbent, Age: 53.
Occupation: Liquor Store proprietor.

Answer 1: It has become increasingly more difficult every year for a Candidate to seek an elective office. I believe the funding for a campaign should be the responsibility of the candidate in addition to monetary help from friends and citizens who express a desire to help. A ceiling should be set for the amount spent for the office of Mayor, School Committee, Councillor-at-large and Ward Councillor.

Answer 2: The Board of Managers of the municipal-owned and operated Quincy City Hospital has the jurisdiction to set hospital policies as it relates to the Public Health and Welfare of our citizens. If in the future the Board Members should feel the need of a service of this kind, I would support its funding as long as it remained within control of the hospital.

From the left, seated, Char-Lou Benedict, league president; Jane Croke, Marie Caristi and Patricia Toland. Standing are Janice O'Brien and Alicia Coletti, voter services chairwoman.

Old Fashioned Candidates Night In Front Of City Hall Nov. 30

The League of Women Voters of Quincy will sponsor an old fashioned Candidates Night Friday night, Nov. 30 at 7:30 p.m. in front of City Hall.

In case of inclement weather, it will be held inside City Hall in the Council Chamber.

Following the event, voters will be invited into City Hall to meet and greet the candidates and to discuss issues with them over coffee.

The candidates will not be asked to give the usual three-minute speech but will be asked only to introduce themselves from the platform.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary of the Quincy Park-Recreation Board, is having a platform erected and loudspeakers hooked up in front of City Hall.

The Quincy Police Department will assist by re-routing traffic during the event.

There will be music to give the event an old fashioned political rally touch.

Says the League of Women

Voters:

"If you're out shopping, stop by and join in. If you're not, come on down anyway and take part in the political process. We think one of the reasons for all the troubles of the past year was an uninformed, uninterested, apathetic citizenry.

"To borrow a quote about the system—IT DOESN'T WORK UNLESS YOU DO.

"And, don't forget to vote on Dec. 4.

Crane Library Cuts

Service Hours By 20%

The Board of Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library has voted reductions in hours of service, to help meet the energy crisis.

The cuts amount to 20 per cent of the combined hours of service now being offered throughout the system and library officials hope the savings in fuel and electrical power will be sufficient. They become effective Monday.

The library administration said it believes the revised schedules will cause the least possible inconvenience to the public, but emphasizes the schedules are subject to further revision if oil supplies are insufficient to support the new schedules.

Complete schedules will be posted in each library unit. The changes are summarized as follows:

- All units will delay opening until 10 a.m.
- Friday evening service will continue at the main library but will be dropped at Adams Shore and North Quincy.
- Saturday service will be available only at the Main Library, North Quincy, Wollaston and Adams Shore.
- The small branches, Atlantic, Hough's Neck, Parkway and Squantum will have some reduction in evening schedules, but varied to suit the patterns of use in the individual neighborhoods.

Peatridge Urges Return Of Merrymount Park To City

At a meeting of a group of supporters at the home of Mrs. Susan Andrews, 10 West Elm Ave., Wollaston, Mike Peatridge, candidate for Ward 5 Councillor, spoke out in favor of reclaiming the area at Merrymount Park, now used by the Army Reserve. The area, a former Nike site, is used by the 187th Infantry Brigade.

Peatridge pledged to work for the release of the area, and expressed the hope that valuable recreational programs for citizens of all ages, especially the elderly, could be developed.

Peatridge said he would work to improve recreational facilities and programs for residents of Ward 5.

LONG CORDS - UNSAFE

In New Hampshire recently, a mother was brewing hot coffee in an electric coffee pot on the kitchen table. The lengthy cord stretched along the floor to an outlet on a nearby counter. Unknowingly, her three-year-old son tripped on the cord and received permanent burn damage over a large portion of his body from the scalding coffee. According to a recent report from the Department of Health Education and Welfare, thousands of accidents per year are attributed to entanglements in appliance cords.

As a result, Underwriters' Laboratories, the watchdog of the nation's electrical safety codes, revised its standards to provide coffee makers and other liquid heaters with cords that are a minimum of 2 feet and maximum of 3 feet long. This should greatly decrease the number of household burn accidents.

Take a hint: If you're using a cord that's overlong, shorten it for your own safety.

5 North Quincy Students Awarded Commendation Letters

Five North Quincy High School students have been awarded Letters of Commendation for their high scores in the 1972 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT).

Principal Peter J. Crisom announced the students are Gale Flanagan, Joanne Govoni, Marjorie Landa, Leo McKillop, and Alison Sheridan.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) has named 38,000 commended students throughout the United States. These students achieved scores in the upper two percent of those who will graduate from high school in 1974. They rank just below the 15,000 semi-finalists in September by NMSC.

Joseph Doran Attends Realtors' Graduate Course

J. Joseph Doran, GRI of North Quincy recently attended Graduate Course IV of the Realtors' Institute of Massachusetts at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Newton.

Education, the graduate program covered such subjects as Financing and Money Markets, Community Development and Environment, Real Estate Taxation, Condominium Concepts, Analysis, Financing, Marketing & Conversions, and Professional Upgrading.

Price Of School Ala Carte Milk Drops 4 Cents

The price of ala carte milks [milks sold without lunches] has been reduced from 10 cents to six cents, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon announces.

The price change became effective Monday.

The reduction is possible due to notification from the State Bureau of Nutrition Education that a reimbursement of three-and-one-half cents will be made for every milk sold, Dr. Creedon said.

The price drop will only affect ala carte milks, however. The prices of lunches, including milk, will remain at 40 cents.

Some 15,000 ala carte milks are presently sold in the school system's 21 elementary schools and eight secondary schools each day.

Koch Club Establishes $5,000 Scholarship Fund

The Koch Club of Quincy has established a $5,000 scholarship fund to be awarded first in 1998, the club's 50th anniversary, to a graduate each of Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

An order is to be introduced into the City Council by Councillor J. Vincent Smyth Monday [Dec. 21] authorizing the City Treasurer to assume the duties of trustee of the fund.

The other trustees will be the Mayor of Quincy and the guidance directors of the three schools named in the fund.

Smyth was selected to introduce the order into the Council because he is the councillor from North Quincy, where the Koch Club was founded by Richard J. Koch, 25 years ago.

Terms of the gift specify that "the Koch Club of Quincy may add to the principle of this fund periodically as it may desire but the total interest earned up to 1998 is that only amount that can be used for scholarships in whole or in part as voted by the trustees."

Koch, now executive secretary of the Parks and Recreation Board, said establishment of the fund will have no effect on the current annual scholarship awards, totalling $500 this year, to the three schools.

The club raised $3,000 of the $5,000 gift at its 25th anniversary dinner-dance May 5. The remainder is made up of $1,000 donations by the club's North Quincy and Broadmeadows districts, the oldest in the organization.

The terms of the gift specify that if none of the three schools are in existence in 1998 or thereafter the scholarships are to go to graduates of "their successor institutions".

Meanwhile, the club announced the following scholarships totalling $500 will be awarded for the current school year.

One boy and one girl graduate of North Quincy High, $100.

One boy and one girl graduate of Quincy High, $100.

One boy and one girl graduate of Quincy Voc-Tech, $50.

The scholarship committee includes: Anthony T. Delmonico, chairman; Thomas F. Nestor, vice chairman; Richard J. Koch, Mrs. Anthony T. Delmonico, Mrs. Richard J. Koch, Ruth E. Scanlon and Howard F. Crowley.

Since 1959, when the first scholarships were offered graduates of North Quincy High, the club has dispersed $5,540 in funds; Quincy High was added in 1964 and the Voc-Tech School in 1968.

McCarthy Endorses Lydon

For Ward 3 Council Seat

William J. McCarthy Jr. of 21 Becket St., Montclair, who was eliminated in the preliminary balloting, has announced his support of John J. Lydon Jr. for the City Council from Ward 3.

McCarthy finished fourth behind Lydon and his opponent, John T. Ricciuti, in the Nov. 6 preliminary.

McCarthy said Lydon "has shown a sincere interest and has been active in alleviating many of the problems of the Montclair area. "He has shown particular interest in a problem which is unique to your area: that is the filling and construction projects on our marsh."

He added that while campaigning against Lydon in the preliminary election he found him "one of the most honest and sincere men that I have had the pleasure of meeting."

- We must continue the search to broaden the tax base to alleviate some of the awesome burdens of the property owner of Quincy;
- To get increased Federal Revenue Sharing funds to stabilize our tax rate while continuing to provide our tax payers with improved community services;
- We must change the M.B.T.A. assessment formula and eliminate the fourth M.B. T.A. Station;

- We must ensure that the city make better use of long range planning for the Quincy City Hospital;
- The re-establishment of health clinics for those on Social Security, the handicapped, the disabled veterans, and others in the community who need these services.
- The solid waste disposal possibility, the environmental problem and the drug problem also need much work.

● Along The Campaign Trail Mullaney Suggests Increasing School Committee Meetings

A house party was held at the home of Edward Eaton, 41 Campbell St., West Quincy recently, for J. Thomas Mullaney, a candidate for the School Committee.

Mullaney suggested increasing the number of School Committee meetings. He said:

"A common problem that all school committees in large communities like Quincy have to come to grips with is how do they even remotely keep up with what is going on in the school system when they meet only twice a month and the agenda is usually full.

"I feel most committee members resign themselves to the fact that they cannot keep up with what is going on and totally rely on the Superintendent and his staff to get the job done. They point out that the Superintendent is hired to run the school system and that he is highly paid for this admittedly tough job:

"If this, by default, must be the role of the school committee you have to wonder why we have one in the first place.

"I hear the parents and taxpayers asking for more from their school committee-men and I believe that many avenues can be explored to meet this need. "A few of these might be:

To increase the number of regular school committee meetings.

A formal indoctrination or orientation program for all school committee men and interested citizens.

Hiring an "educational auditor" who would review many aspects of school policy and practice. This person would report directly to the School Committee.

Establishing sub-committees, as the city council does, to review specific areas."

Kelly Urges Immediate Property Tax Reform

Leo J. Kelly, candidate for Ward One councillor at a house party at the home of James Lynch of 132 Squanto Rd, Merrymount, said one of his chief concerns is excessively high property taxes carried by Quincy homeowners.

"I favor increased direct state financial aid to homeowners," he said. "Per capita we have the highest property tax in the nation. Something should be done now."

"One of the methods to provide property tax relief is through the so-called circuit-breaker approach now employed in 14 other states."

Under the circuit-breaker concept, Kelly said, a homeowner's property tax can be no more than five to seven percent of his income. If a homeowner's tax bill exceeds what he should be paying according to state guidelines, he will receive a direct cash payment or a credit on his state income tax.

Kelly said, "This would be a realistic way of directly reforming our excessive property taxes without a new state tax program. I intend to do everything I can to convince the state government to adopt a circuit-breaker system."

William S. Ash of 69 Arnold St., was installed as Commander of the Quincy Veterans' Council for 1974 at recent ceremonies at Quincy Legion Post.

Installing officer was Past Department Commander Robert Eng, a member of the Quincy Post. Other members installed were:

Thomas Hurlbaeus, senior vice commander; Joseph McDonough, junior vice commander; Walter Johnson, finance officer; James Lynch, historian; Irving Isaacson, judge advocate; Roger Whitcomb, publicity officer; Albert J. McKinnon, chaplain; Joseph Hart, assistant chaplain; Lawrence Carnali, graves registration officer; Paul W. Park-Recreation Board Cuts Power By 20,000 Watts

The Quincy Parks and Recreation Department has trimmed its power use by 20,000 watts in the energy crisis by eliminating lights from the city's tennis courts between the hours of 5 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Executive Director Richard J. Koch said that once natural ice begins to form in the tennis courts the lights may be turned on again for skating purposes.

Sullivan Says Several Schools Need Physical Attention

A number of Quincy schools need attention to correct physical problems, says School Committee candidate John J. Sullivan.

Sullivan said the school committees in Quincy during the next decade will find themselves pressing the federal government for more assistance in the "buildings needs" area. He said that not only does the North Quincy High housing situation rank as a "must action" on the school committee agenda, but several of the elementary schools 50 to 75 years old need early attention. The school administration is alert to this problem and is endeavoring to overcome the situation with a limited budget, he said.

Sullivan noted the Merrymount School has to block off the wings of two corridors in the front of the building, use part of the school basement for kindergarten and media center space. First and second grade classrooms are housed near the boiler, some musical instrument lessons are actually conducted in the nurses room had to be sacrificed for special needs classes—all of this caused by a severe housing condition.

Merrymount is badly in need of space help, Sullivan said. With the school lunch program as mandated by law, and now in effect it becomes apparent that some type of cafeteria is a necessity in Merrymount as well as in several other schools, he said.

Sullivan also noted that the Willard School—one of the oldest in the city—is badly in need of roof repair. The present slate roof has many loose shingles.

"I shiver to think, he said, "what might happen some windy day to some youngster should one of the loose shingles take off like a flying jet and strike him". He also noted that window casings are rotting and that classes on the third floor have to place buckets and other receptacles around to catch the rain.

Sullivan also noted that even though the Furnace Brook Parkway School is fairly new in construction, it too has a housing problem. Part of its auditorium has been taken over by a special classes unit with the result that like Merrymount its physical education program is forced to be conducted in the corridors. Sullivan commended the elementary teachers for their journeymen and professional efforts under these most difficult circumstances.

North In Special Tribute To Booster Charlie Rizzo

For many years Charlie Rizzo, who spent most of his 50 years as a barber in North Quincy, was one of the North Quincy High football team's greatest boosters.

This year, because of failing eyesight, Rizzo retired but on the day before Thanksgiving North students proved they hadn't forgotten Charlie.

Following the pre-Thanksgiving game rally, the football squad, together with the 122-member band, cheerleaders, school officials and students, tied up traffic on Hancock St. when they marched to Charlie's home at 422 Hancock St. and presented him with a football, signed by the players, and a plaque. They also presented Mrs. Rizzo with a bouquet.

Rizzo told the players that when they leave Quincy to enter the service or college, to tell everyone they have a friend in North Quincy named Charlie Rizzo.

For many years Rizzo's barbershop was a symbol of victory for the North team. Whenever the team won, the bus would drive by his shop and when it won, Charlie would present the players with flowers and give them free haircuts.

Among those who took part in the tradition through the years were Mayor Walter Hannon and Supt. of Schools Dr. Lawrence Creedon.

The idea for last week's presentation came from Jane McGovern, a North student. Among those who took part were Principal Peter Chrisom, Assistant Principal Robert Collins, City Councillor J. Vincent Smyth and Dr. Creedon.

Thanksgiving ended on a happy note for Rizzo and his North Quincy High friends who stopped by his house to celebrate a 20-10 win.

QJC Basketball Season Underway

The Quincy Junior College basketball team opened its season last night [Wednesday] with a home game against Bryant-Stratton.

The Collejus, coached again by Earl Vermillion, has one of its most ambitious schedules in history with six of the games against top teams in New England and New York.

Friday night QJC plays Massasoit at the Brockton VA Hospital at 7:15, next Tuesday hosts Wentworth at Quincy Voc-Tech at 7:30 and next Thursday faces Bridgewater State Jayvees at Bridgewater at 6.

QJC is again a member of the Mass. Junior College Conference. Other conference members are Bryant-Stratton, Wentworth, Newton Jr. College, Graham, Worcester Jr. College and Worcester Industrial Tech. Bryant-Stratton, and both Worcester teams are newcomers.

The Quincy team will face Mass. Bay Community College and R.I. Jr. College twice each. Both were selected to play in the National Jr. College AA regional tourney last year, R.I. going to the finals.

QJC will travel to Johnstown, N.Y., in January to compete in the Invitational Tourney against Schenectady Jr. College and Fulton-Montgomery Junior College of N.Y. and Mattatuck Community College of Connecticut.

Vermillion has three returnees from last year, Jim Hurley, 6-foot guard, and Pat Noonan, 5-10 guard, from North Quincy, and Ed Barrett, 6-2 forward from Gate of Heaven High. Several freshmen are expected to battle for spots vacated by John Connolly, Mike Granahan and Bill Gardner.

Other members of the squad are Don Connolly [5-10] of Quincy, Bob Lane [6-3] of Quincy, Ed Marden [6-4] of Quincy, Brad Martinson [6-3] of North Quincy, John Mullen [6-4] of Quincy, Steve Pasquale [6-1] of Quincy, Don Small [5-10] of North Quincy, Bob Sylva [5-10] of Quincy, John Barnes [6-4] of Weymouth, Pedro Durruthy [5-11] and Kevin Gibson [6-3] of Hyde Park and Mike McLean [5-11] who played at B.C. High.

Conroy: 'North Played A Fine Game'

It Was Carl Leone And Memories Of '46

By TOM SULLIVAN

Back in 1946 Carl Leone, now coordinator of athletics for Quincy Schools, quarterbacked Quincy's football team and, with a spectacular performance, sparked a 31-6 rout over North Quincy, thus preventing the Raiders from winning three in a row over the Presidents.

Last week, in the 41st production of the cross-city rivalry, North for the first time did make it three in a row over Quincy and leading the way was Carl Leone Jr., son of the former Quincy and Brown University quarterback.

Leone, following in his father's footsteps as a quarterback, had a hand in all of North's points in a come-from-behind 20-10 win before a crowd estimated at more than 13,000 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The win, North's 17th in the series as compared with 21 Quincy wins and three ties, followed a 24-8 win last year and a 30-12 romp in 1971.

Leone scored two touchdowns, his eighth and ninth of the year, passed for the third, his eighth scoring pass, and passed for the only North conversion, the 18th conversion point he passed for.

"This has to be my happiest win," Coach Ralph Frazier, who now has a 3-2 record over Quincy, said. "It's not just winning three in a row over Quincy, it is the way this fine group of boys came from behind and earned the win. This is a super group of boys and I never worked with a finer bunch."

"You can't believe how hard they worked all year and John Flynn, who had a superlative year, was an outstanding leader. He not only is a tremendous player but a wonderful boy and everyone looks up to him."

The third straight series win helped make up for Quincy's record-breaking 53-0 win, in Frazier's first season as head coach.

VICTORY RIDE -- North Coach Ralph Frazier is carried off field on shoulders of his exuberant players after 20-10 victory over Quincy. It was Frazier's third straight win in the Thanksgiving Day classic.

BEING MAYOR HAS its fringe benefits. Mayor Walter Hannon poses with two lovely queens, Quincy's Donna Ternullo (left) and North's Regina Zoia during half-time ceremonies at Thanksgiving Day game. Regina's father, Pete, was captain of the 1935 North team.

NORTH BOOSTERS ooh and ah as Raiders make headway in their quest for third straight Thanksgiving Day win.

QUINCY ROOTERS WHOOOP it up as Robin Carrera scores touchdown in third period to make it 9-6. But, that's all there was for Quincy, as far as touchdowns went.

Conroy Will Have To Wait For 50th Win

Quincy not only lost its third straight game to North for the first time in the series, but the loss last week kept Quincy Coach Hank Conroy from scoring his 50th win as head coach of the Presidents.

Going into the game Hank had a 49-35-5 record since taking over the head coaching reins in 1964.

Four teams, Johnson Motor Parts, Blackwood Pharmacy, Doran & Horrigan, and Noonan Press, preserved their undefeated records as the Bantam House League went through its second week of play.

Mike Welch had two goals and an assist and Ray Pospic had two goals as Doran & Horrigan thumped Bersani Brothers, 5-2.

Charles Dedian had the other goal and Sean Jago, Bruce Brennan and Bill Morrison had assists.

Danny Higgins and Mike Farrell fired the goals for Bersani with Jim Laberge, Mark O'Brien and Kurt O'Sullivan getting assists.

Lennie Picot's three goals and two assists showed the way Noonan Press in a 7-1 romp over South Shore TV.

Joe Valente had two goals and Ken Kuska a goal and two assists and Paul Hurley two assists.

John Picard scored the seventh goal and Rich Ahola, Tom Pistorino and Paul Barry collected assists.

Paul Lindenfelzer got the lone goal for South Shore TV assisted by Mike Bondarick.

Blackwood Pharmacy rolled over Baskin Robbins, 6-3, with Arthur Bertoni getting two goals and an assist and John Riordan assisting on three scores.

The other Blackwood scorers were Rich Fidler, Dana Chiavaroli, Larry Burak and Ron Mariano, with one goal each; and Brian Simmons, Pat Cummings, Brian McAuliffe and Fidler, with an assist apiece.

John Dolbec, Bob McCarthy and Brian Smith did the goal scoring for Baskin Robbins with assists credited to Mike Van Tassel, Jim Frye, Dave O'Brien, Mike Marella and Mark Cavanaugh.

Johnson Motor Parts got two goals and two assists from Ronan Storer and a goal and two assists from Joe Daly in trouncing Burgin Platner, 8-5.

Mike Colon, Mark Ricciardi, Mark Landry, John Fair and Ken Johnston also had single goals with assists to Landry, Fair, Colon, Bud Koelsch, and Bud Kelly.

Tom O'Reagan had two goals for Burgin Platner; Mike Storer, Brendan Coffee and Jim Moore each had a goal and an assist; and Bruce Brennan and John Rafferty had an assist apiece.

Trucks of Quincy sent the defending champion Quincy Sun down to its second successive defeat, 2-1, as Paul Barry got a goal and an assist, Jim Constat got a goal and Mac McManus an assist.

Mike Pitts scored the only Sun goal.

Marshall, Doherty In Hat Tricks For Squirt A's

Chuckie Marshall and Mike Doherty each had a three-goal hat trick and Marshall also had an assist as the Quincy Squirt "A" team romped over Duxbury, 11-0, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Robbie Zanardelli had four assists and Neil Shea and Joey Rathgeb each had a goal and two assists as Quincy extended its league record to 7-1-2.

MITE B'S BOW, 5-2

Joe Harte and Scott Messina got the goals and Dickie Tapper drew an assist but the Quincy

Other scorers were Kevin Craig, a goal and an assist; Karl Nord, a goal and an assist; Bobby Beniers, a goal; and John Carty, Kevin Chase and Mark Boussy an assist apiece.

Earlier, the Squirt "A" team battled to a 2-2 standoff with South Boston, Craig and Marshall scoring the goals and Marshall, Boussy and Zanardelli getting the assists.

Mite "B" team bowed to Columbia, 5-2, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association contest.

GOALIE JEFF NORD makes a save in the dying moments of game between the Quincy Bantam "A" team and the Pictou Maripacs in Nova Scotia. Scoreboard records the superiority of the Quincy team. Identifiable Quincy players are Mike McGrath [16] and John Cooney [8].

Bantam A's Sweep 3 In Nova Scotia Visit

"That is some kind of a bantam club," said Coach Paul Landry, who was still a little dazed after watching the Quincy Bantam "A" team demolish his Pictou, N.S., Maripacs, 13-2, last Friday.

"Their shooting and passing is remarkable for bantams; they have been well tutored," said Coach Demp Murray just before the visitors from Quincy walloped his Trenton, N.S., Bantams, 7-0, the following day.

Which is another way of saying that the Quincy Bantam's three-day visit to Nova Scotia was a rousing success on the score sheet, at least. They trounced Pictou again, 8-4, in the third game.

Mark Giordani had the three-goal hat trick for Quincy in the 13-2 conquest of Pictou. Tommy Cahill added two goals and three assists; Brian Bertoni had two goals and two assists; and Mark Paolucci had two goals.

Other Quincy scorers were Mike McGrath, a goal and two assists; Jimmy Shea, three assists; Mike Schaeffer, a goal and an assist; Mike Smith, two assists; Richie Troy and Brian Watts, a goal apiece; and Rick Dannar, John Cooney and John Fitzgerald, an assist each.

Schaeffer had two goals and an assist in the 7-0 triumph at Trenton as Jeff Nord went all the way in the Quincy nets for the shutout. He divided the other games with Tony Reilly.

The other goals were scored by Troy, Shea, Dannar, Cahill and Giordani. Assists were credited to Dave Previte, Jackie Cronin, Bertoni, Smith and Giordani.

McGrath, with a goal and three assists, Bertoni, with two goals and an assist and Schaeffer, with a goal and two assists, led the way to the 8-4 win over Pictou Sunday.

Cahill, Giordani and Cooney each had a goal and an assist; Fitzgerald had a goal; and Watts, Previte, Shea and Jack Cavanaugh each had an assist.

The Bantams left Quincy by bus Thanksgiving night on the 15-hour drive to Pictou. They returned after the 9 a.m. Sunday contest.

Curtis, Connally Pace Midget B's To 7-1 Win

Larry Curtis and Bud Connally had two goals each in leading the Quincy Midget "B" team to a 7-1 victory over West Bridgewater, its ninth straight Bay Colony Hockey Association victory.

Steve Neville, Jack Powers and Frank Robinson also had goals.

Assists went to Neville, with two; Powers, Curtis, Connally, Robinson, Joe McConville and Pat McAuliffe, with one each.

Gold Team Moves Into Executive Penthouse

The Gold team took over first place in the Quincy Executive League with a 3-1 win over Greens while the Red and Blue teams tied, 1-1, at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Gold goals were scored by Jim Sullivan, Joe Ryan and Tom Roberts with Ryan, Bill Lewis, Bill Flanders, Dick O'Brien and Arthur Boyle assisting. Joe Chase had the Green goal with Bob Quintiliani assisting.

The Red-Blue tie Ken White had two goals and Harry Messina the tying score for the Blues in the last minute of play when the Reds had a penalty and the Blue goalie was pulled. Assists went to Len Picot, Bob Hayes and Dave Hickey.

Ron Freeman, Gary DeCoste and Tim Deitch scored for the Reds with assists going to Bob Hurley, Ken Halloran and Charlie Duffy.

Montclair, Brett Tighten Little Loop

Montclair's 3-1 win over Morrissey and Brett's 3-1 decision over Bryan Post tightened up the Quincy Bowling Little Loop's race.

Only six points separate eighth place Davis and leader Morrissey after five weeks of competition.

Capt. Bill Flaherty of Davis led his team to a 3-1 win over the Elks with a weekly high single of 117 and three of 294.

The Dick Morrissey Club leads the league with a 15-5 record and 6,254 pinfall, followed by the Brett Club, 15-5 [6,144]; Montclair Men's Club, 14-6 [6,013]; Atlantic Fuel Oil, 12-8 [6,040]; Wollaston Bowladrome, 12-8 [5,992]; Local 1451 AFL-CIO, 12-8 [5,912]; Hennessey Pibg Supply, 11-9 [5,931]; Hal Davis, 9-11 [5,914]; George A. Burke, 8-12 [5,896]; James R. McIntyre, 8-12 [5,891]; Bryan Post VFW, 7-13 [6,086]; Quincy Elks, 7-13 [5,721]; Hutchinsol Oil, 5-15 [5,825], and Local 513 AFL-CIO, 4-16 [5,771].

Dan Finn of Burke has high average of 102.3, followed by Mike Regan, Elks, 97.4; Brian Connolly, 1451, 95.14; Kev Mullaney, Bryan, 94.6; Ken Allman, Morrissey, 94.5; John Andrews, Brett, 92.1; Jim McAllister, Atlantic, 91.4; Steve Martinelli, McIntyre, 91.1; Joe Johnson, Bryan, 91.0 and Nick Anastas, Montclair, 89.5.

Montclair holds team high three of 1,271 and team high single of 445. Allman has high individual three of 303 and Bill Flaherty of Davis high single of 117.

Carl Leone

"Every player did his part in a very satisfying win," Frazier concluded. "It was another fine year [the Raiders finished 6-1-1 and took second place in the Greater Boston League for the second year in a row] and I'm extremely proud of every one on the squad."

Quincy Coach Hank Conroy, whose record against North dropped to 5-5, praised the North squad and lamented the fact the Presidents were unable to take advantage of several opportunities. Quincy finished with a disappointing 3-5-1 record.

"We certainly had our chances," he said. "We recovered three fumbles and intercepted two passes but just couldn't take advantage of them. Actually, our offense clicked better than it had in most games and the defense did another good job. Meyer, lauded his entire defensive unit, saying, "They held Quincy twice in the last period to give the ball back to the offense and they did their part by scoring both times."

He had special praise for his big tackles, Joe Marinelli and Steve Paglierani, who were outstanding all year; Ron Frizzell, Mark Jago, Paul O'Donnell, Tom Callahan, and George Hill.

"Jago was starting his first game and did an outstanding job at defensive end," Meyer said.

Flynn had another good day gaining 79 yards in 14 carries to finish the year with 828 yards in eight games. If North's game with Chelsea hadn't been cancelled, he undoubtedly would have been near 1000 yards.

Bruce Stephansky again gave Flynn fine running support, Leone did another sparkling job at quarterback and Rich Desmond, as usual, blocked well.

Voters gave Mayor Walter J. Hannon a second term and elected five new city councillors and a new school committeeman Tuesday in an election marked by upsets and close races.

The city's 41-year-old chief executive turned back the challenge of Grace E. Saphir, 57, a nurse and housewife. 15,492 to 10,416 votes.

Mrs. Saphir was making her first bid for public office and surprised many political observers by racking up a 10,000-plus vote production.

Some 26,320—or 53.7 per cent—of Quincy's 49,197 eligible voters went to the polls.

Two incumbent ward councillors—Ward 4's Albert R. Barilaro, 56, and Ward 6's J. Vincent Smyth, 53, — were defeated by young challengers James A. Sheets, 37-year-old Quincy Junior College professor and Atty. Dennis E. Harrington, 31, respectively.

One of the big surprises was John J. Sullivan who came from fourth place in the November preliminary election to top the school committee ticket.

Sheets, a political newcomer, piled up a 2,584 to 1,627 margin over Barilaro, father of the controversial six ward redistricting plan.

Harrington topped Smyth by 71 votes setting the stage for a possible recount.

In the closest race of all, Leo J. Kelly, 40-year-old barber, edged Paul Harold, 25, a legal researcher, by 48 votes to take the Ward 1 seat vacated by incumbent Edward Graham. A recount looms here.

The other new council faces: John J. Lydon, 32, Wollaston funeral director, was elected to the new Ward 3 seat, defeating John T. Ricciuti, 43, part owner of a monument company. Lydon polled 2,659 votes to Ricciuti's 1,960.

Atty. Warren Powers, an assistant district attorney won the new Ward 5 seat in another close race, topping Michael J. Peatridge, 21, a consultant by 116 votes. Powers polled 1,983 to Peatridge's 1,867. Powers succeeds William Delahunty who did not seek re-election.

Ward 2 Councillor Clifford H. Marshall, 35, who is also a state representative, won an easy re-election bid, defeating Patrick J. Faherty, 55, by a 2,955 to 1,122 vote margin.

Incumbent Arthur H. Tobin, 42-year old attorney and state senator, topped the council at-large race with 15,628 votes. He was the top vote getter on the ballot, leading Mayor Hannon by 136.

Also re-elected were Joseph J. LaRaia, 40, who was runner-up with 14,979 and John J. Quinn, 49, third with 13,365.

WALTER J. HANNON

Mrs. Helen M. McDonnell, 55-year old North Quincy housewife, finished in fourth place out-polling Theophilus McLelland who lost his Ward 3 seat in the redistricting shuffle but ran at-large as an incumbent.

Mrs. McDonnell got 8,157 votes to McLelland's 8,092. In the final spot was Robert L. Foley, 41-year old engineer with 4,967 votes.

John J. Sullivan, 54-year-old federal mediator, making his first run for school committee, topped that ticket with an impressive 12,800 votes to win the seat vacated by School Committee Vice-Chairman Paul C. Kelly.

Incumbents Charles T. Sweeny, 56, and Frank Anselmo, 73, were re-elected, polling 12,398 and 11,972 votes respectively.

Right on Anselmo's heels was J. Thomas Mullaney, 38-year old cost analyst with 11,640 votes. Mullaney had finished second in the preliminary election but his strength ebbed in the final showdown.

Behind him Tuesday were Atty. Jeffrey C. LaPointe, 28, with 8,320 votes and Bryant Carter Jr., 22-year-old accountant.

Saturday School, Outlaw Electric Blankets

Point 7th Graders Have 21 Tips To Conserve Energy

Seventh graders at Quincy Point Junior High School have their own ideas as to how to meet the energy crisis.

They have come up with a 21-point energy-saving program including a few severe steps like outlawing electric blankets, halting manufacturing of cars and building more bicycles, and making it a crime to ride alone in a car.

But the kids are willing to make a few sacrifices themselves. Like going to school an hour later a day to produce an extra day of school each week.

And going to school half-day on Saturdays during the warmer season.

This would allow them to take longer holidays during severe prolonged heat consuming cold spells.

The youngsters sent their proposed program to Mayor Walter Hannon for his consideration. Here are their suggestions:

- Put smaller bulbs in parking area and roadway lights.
- Turn off these lights exactly at sunrise and on again exactly at sunset with the changing seasons—manually regulated.
- Have fewer lights in the parking area and fewer lights at night in public buildings.
- Lower temperatures 2 to 3 degrees in all public buildings, including schools.
- Lower shades in all public buildings and schools each night.
- Start school at 8 a.m. and end later at 3:30—an hour later than now. This would create one extra period each day. Each week could produce an extra day in this way so we could have longer vacations during the cold weather.
- "No school" signals should be broadcast during severe and prolonged cold spells.
- We do not like the idea of school on Saturday, but we would be willing to go for half a day.

I WANT YOU
To Turn down Your Thermostat.

By Stephen Dunlea, 13, 56 Ruggles St.
Point Junior High School Student

- Use bikes. Bike paths should be laid out right away on one side of the street leading to the main shopping areas and to Quincy Square with no parking for cars on that side of the street. Paths for bikes should be well marked.
- Stop making cars and make more bikes.
- Ration gas, especially for pleasure driving, boats, minibikes, and skimbikes.
- Lower speed of cars to 45 or 50 miles per hour.
- Make illegal the sale of electric blankets.
- Arrest lone occupants of cars without legitimate reason for driving alone.
- Close stores early (5 p.m. or at the latest 6 p.m.).
- Ban all billboard lighting and

- neon advertising.
- Conduct a publicity program to make people aware of the crisis. Many people think that this energy crisis publicity is to raise prices on gas and oil. People should learn to set down their thermostat at night, to insulate, to use storm windows, to increase moisture in the air. These actions will help to conserve fuel.
- A one candle Christmas like the first Christmas. No displays except possibly one at the cemetery near City Hall.
- Convert to coal and ration oil to all public buildings.
- Put Volkswagen motors in all cars—these motors average over 30 miles per gallon.
- Promote car pools for shopping.

Downtown Christmas Lights Postponed

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association is reconsidering its decision to turn the Christmas lights on in downtown Quincy between 6:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. until Christmas Eve.

The lights were scheduled to go on Monday.

"There is no doubt that Christmas without lights is very depressing and demoralizing," said President Mark Bertman. "However, the conserving of energy that must be available for future uses hopefully will help offset this feeling."

The QCBPA Board of Directors was to meet Wednesday to discuss the lighting situation.

"The QCBPA will do everything it can to cooperate in the spirit of public interest," said Bertman.

"Its original decision curtailing 75 per cent use of energy in the planned lighting program, as compared to past years, and any future decisions made will also be done with the general interest of the public in mind."

Waste Water Management Meeting To Be Held Tonight

A series of six open meetings to inform residents of Quincy and surrounding communities on future plans for waste water management in the metropolitan Boston area will start tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m., at Newton War Memorial Auditorium.

The meetings are planned to inform the public of a study being conducted by the Commonwealth of Mass. and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers along with the Metropolitan District Commission to determine future requirements of the Metropolitan Sewerage District facilities which Quincy uses.

The meetings offer concerned citizens a chance to review and influence the planning assumptions and criteria from which future sewerage flows will be planned.

The agencies conducting the study have requested formation of the Metropolitan Area Planning Council to assist in informing and involving the people in the study area. The area is comprised of 109 communities, 43 of which are currently members of the Metropolitan Sewerage District, including Quincy.

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council urges all interested people in the area to attend.

'I KNEW THEY'D COME BACK IN STYLE'

LET'S TALK Learn to make decisions

By REV. W. LEE
TRUMAN
Copley News Service

At the end of every business meeting worth its salt, is the heading "Unfinished Business." Items which have been carried over from previous meetings which have not been settled or concluded are at this point brought up and dealt with.

The observation I would offer is that there are many persons who are living their lives under this heading of "Unfinished Business." Just as in some organizations some items are referred to the next meeting again and again, some persons never quite come to the place of decision or action. They clog the streets of tomorrow's potential by referring action or decision until then.

Such persons are always in the distress of indecision. Their lives are cluttered with those things which have been referred to the future. When the future comes, those items have become more complex, involved, and have consumed such enormous amounts of emotional energy, that no decision can be reached, and is put off again.

Each day is yesterday's load, and today's load beside, and with the results that decisions are not easier. Rather, they multiply their complexity which caused us to first put them under the heading of "Unfinished Business."

I have watched persons who begin to live this way, have the load become so heavy that life bogs down for them and like John Wesley said in his journal, "Beware of trying to do too much, because you will do nothing."

When the load gets too heavy, then we actually do less and less. That is when we become tired without movement, and nervous without accomplishment. People describe this state as trying to run faster while their feet seem to be in a vat of molasses. They are barely moving, but very frustrated and weary, yet expending a lot of energy.

Pick your percentage, but I would guess that 20 per cent of all the marriage difficulties have this as one of its main roots. The wife feels that she is capable of more than scrubbing floors and changing diapers, so she becomes involved in community, church or school. But she cannot for her own good know when to say no. The husband is bored by his job and begins to moonlight on what he thinks is an easy task, and he can't tell himself that he has had enough. The items pile up, and the pressure builds, until he or she begins to do less and less, with more and more pressure.

The answer of course is easy to say, but seldom done. It is to clear the slate. But how? Stop, and tell those to whom you are responsible that you are changing course. The next thing is to decide on something to be done, and to do it completely.

Do not fall into the trap of living your life under the heading of "Unfinished Business." Learn how to see things through, and resolve to bring projects and plans to completion. This is the difference between those who do and those who never do, but plan to someday.

- CIA Bugging Soviet Leaders
- Oil Crisis: Too Little Too Late
- Ford For President In '76?

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — In the name of national security, President Nixon has done his best to block an investigation of the White House parapolice unit known as the plumbers.

White House aides have now told the Watergate prosecutors, in strictest confidence, the reason the President doesn't want the plumbers investigated. It might expose the fact that the Central Intelligence Agency has been bugging Kremlin leaders.

This is no secret to the Kremlin leaders. The CIA transcripts of their private conversations reveal that they are aware the CIA has been eavesdropping on them.

It is also no secret to millions of Americans. I felt that anything the Kremlin leaders knew was safe for the American people to be told. So I reported on September 16, 1971, that the CIA had been able to eavesdrop on Kremlin conversations.

The secret transcripts reveal that Soviet leaders like to gossip about one another and complain about their ailments. It is evident from their conversations that Leonid Brezhnev, the party chief, sometimes drinks too much vodka and suffers from hangovers. The complaints of Premier Alexei Kosygin, who is in poor health, are more authentic.

One of their favorite pastimes is visiting a private clinic near the Kremlin for steam baths, rubdowns and other physical therapy. None of this is very secret. Only the CIA's eavesdropping technique may be secret. Presumably, the plumbers can be investigated without revealing this.

Too Little, Too Late: President Nixon has been ignoring advisers who have warned urgently that he is doing too little, too late about the oil crisis. They are distressed over his eagerness to seize upon the most optimistic estimates.

He accepted the estimate, for example, that our daily shortage is only 1.4 million barrels. Most experts agree that the shortage is at least two million barrels a day. They expect this to nearly double by next spring.

The most persistent critic of the President's overoptimism has been Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz, who has carefully confined his warnings to the privacy of the White House. But he has told the President bluntly that the oil shortage will bring a severe recession, perhaps even a depression, if we don't end the Saudi Arabian boycott.

He has predicted the shortage will reach 30 per cent of our normal consumption. This will force plant shutdowns, layoffs and other economic dislocations, he has warned, that will double the nation's unemployment by the end of next year. If the oil shortage continues, he told the President to expect massive unemployment running as high as 12 per cent by 1976.

The President must choose, in Shultz' opinion, between private and industrial needs. All the President's political instincts call for giving priority to home heating and pleasure driving. But in the end, Shultz has warned, Americans will be better off suffering from the cold than losing their jobs.

Power Shift: The energy crisis will mean more to Americans than just lowering our thermostats and slowing down our cars.

State Department planners are now quietly warning that the energy crisis may cause a vast shift in the world's power structure. The oil-rich nations, they fear, may replace the United States as the world's dominant economic force.

The Arabs demonstrated their new power by cutting back on the flow of black gold to the West. Even if peace comes to the Middle East, it won't necessarily mean an end to the oil extortion. The worldwide response to the oil embargo taught the Arabs that they could gain enormous political and economic profits by using oil as a weapon.

To fight the continuing oil blackmail, U.S. policymakers are examining possible countermeasures. A military takeover of the Arab oil fields is considered impractical. Secret studies show that the oil wells, pipelines and tankers are far too vulnerable to sabotage and interdiction.

But military force could be used to impose a counterembargo on the Arab oil states. The Arab nations need agricultural and manufactured goods as much as the West needs oil. A total sea and air blockade would be difficult, but possible, for the United States to impose. A counterembargo is unlikely, however, unless the situation becomes desperate.

The National Security Council has decided that the best strategy is simple, quiet, diplomatic negotiation.

Ford's Future: Vice Presidential nominee Gerald Ford has promised not to use the vice presidency as a springboard for the White House. But behind the scenes, Ford has been huddling with Republican leaders about his political future.

They have told him that he is their best hope to avert a Republican debacle next year. The Watergate scandals, they fear, have damaged President Nixon beyond political repair. The President has become such a political albatross that they hope to keep his name out of the 1974 campaign.

Republican leaders have told Ford, therefore, that they would like to make him rather than Nixon, the front man for the party. He has an open, honest quality that they believe will help restore the faith of the voters in the Republican party. Their strategy will be to feature Ford and to stress his homey virtues. They think he will inspire trust to counteract President Nixon's abuse of the public trust.

Ford has agreed to lead the Republican crusade in 1974. There's only one hitch. He has always been a Nixon man. The President places a high premium on loyalty and expects Ford to defend him. But the more Ford defends Nixon, the more Ford will smear himself with the Watergate taint.

As the 1974 elections get closer, I predict, Ford will talk more about the Republican candidates and less about the President. This will build strong support for his own presidential candidacy. By 1976, I predict, Gerald Ford will be the strongest Republican contender.

He was a success as a public official and as a businessman. But more important, he was a success as a husband, a father — and as a human being.

He came up the hard way.

Jim had to leave school during the depression to help support his family. He didn't get around to picking up his high school diploma until he was 59—just last year.

Physically he was small in size—but big in many other ways.

During his years as a member and vice-chairman of the Quincy School Committee, he wasn't one to duck an issue. He stood up and was counted—even if it meant losing votes.

He has been called—and quite appropriately—the “father of the Quincy Vocational Technical School”. For more than anyone else, he pushed for construction of that school when others straddled the issue or tried to stall it.

Some argued Quincy didn't need it. Others claimed Quincy couldn't afford it. “The hell we don't need it,” said Jim. And he went after it and got it.

There it stands today and Quincy is the better for it.

As a political figure, Jim McCormick was Mr. Clean. No smear tactics. He wasn't a knocker. No poison telephone campaigns.

He was loyal to his party [Democrat] but he had many Republican and Independent friends and supporters. They respected him as a man.

He was a man of his word. But unfortunately a few of the politicians he knew well didn't always keep their word to him. But then, that's what they are and probably always will be—politicians.

Jim McCormick didn't hurt people or step on people to make a business or political gain. He wasn't built that way.

His untimely death last week at age 60 leaves a void. It will never quite be filled.

Many tributes have been uttered in the past few days. All of them deserving.

Perhaps the one that summed Jim McCormick up best of all was by Rev. Edward O'Brien of St. Agatha's Church, Milton at the funeral mass Saturday. Just nine simple words: “We thank him for sharing his life with us...”

Letter Box

Commends Sun, LWV For Election Section

Editor, Quincy Sun:

May I express my profound appreciation to the League of Women Voters of Quincy for the splendid four page “Special” on Quincy candidates in this year's election.

The finished product clearly reflects the outstanding work of League President Mrs. Michael Benedict III and Mrs. David Coleliti, Voter Services Chairman, and of course, her entire committee.

It is not unusual for Quincy's “League” to perform an exemplary community service, as attested to by their past performance in our city. It is, however, somewhat rare, in these difficult times, for a newspaper to give so much of its time and energy to community endeavors where little material gain can be realized. Those of us who work in this community have become increasingly aware of your community spirit and we are grateful.

The “Special” was timely, extremely well layed out, exciting, and will assist many new Quincy voters this year. The fact that some 10,000 copies were sent home through the schools will spark the interest of our young people.

You and your staff, the Quincy “League”, and the Quincy Education Department are to be commended for this fine cooperative effort.

Pat DiStefano, Citizen

Living, Today

By Dr. William F. Knox
Personal Counselor

‘Courtship Telescopes The Marriage’

In premarital counseling I often ask ... “what do you quarrel about ... what are your conflicts?” Often the answer is ... “we never have a quarrel ... that's how we know we are in love.” It sounds good. But this may mean that the young couple has not really got to know each other. It may mean that their relationship hasn't gone deep enough to know each other's likes and dislikes ... each other's hopes ... goals ... habits of life.

The potential marriage is often telescoped in the courtship. If there are no disagreements expressed, it can mean that one has no convictions ... is simply giving silent approval of whatever goes on between them ... whether he/she likes it or not. This can be the pattern in the marriage. Sooner or later the PASSIVE PARTNER will very likely feel used ... taken unfair advantage of. We need to learn to demand what belongs to us ... right in the beginning ... even during the courtship.

Many courtships are marked with behavior which will defeat a marriage ... physical violence ... excessive drinking ... lack of talking ... in-law conflicts. Too many people fail to read the signs. Dr. Reuben says in his “Any Woman Can” ... that a woman can ... if she is astute ... see what a man will be in marriage on ONE DINNER DATE ... the way he meets the car door ... the way he meets the hostess and speaks to the waitress ... the way he eats his food ... his conversation during the meal ... the handling of the check ... all these indicate his attitude toward women ... toward food and drink ... toward money. A woman must ask ... “is this what I want to live ... with in a marriage?” A whole marriage relationship may be telescoped in one dinner date ... if we read the signs.

The trouble with many people ... young and older ... first and second marriages ... is that we fall in love before we look at the personality characteristics. Then we assume that “what I don't like will change when we marry”. Nonsense. It doesn't change. Marriage is not a reform school ... and marriage partners who try to be “reformers” of each other are doomed to failure.

The wise course is to see what each other is VERY EARLY ... to talk openly and frankly ... about what one dislikes as well as what one likes. If a person agrees that there is a better way and wants to change himself/herself ... fine! But a life script doesn't change ... unless a person deliberately decides to make that change himself/herself.

Marriage is easy to get into ... and difficult to get out of. That's why courtships are important ... they telescope the marriage.

● QUESTION OF THE WEEK

‘What Does Proroguing Mean?’

“The newspapers keep referring to the proroguing of the Massachusetts legislature. What does that mean?” asked a caller to the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone.

Proroguing officially ends a legislative session. When the legislature feels its work is completed for the year, it requests the governor and the governor's council for permission to prorogue, and upon their approval the session is ended.

Each new session starts on the first Wednesday in January. If anyone wishes to file a bill for the next legislative session it must be submitted by the first Wednesday in December. This year because the session has gone so long the deadline date has been extended two weeks to Wednesday December 19.

This question is one of the many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VIP phone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880.

S.S. Chamber Publishes ‘Do-It-Yourself Tourguide’

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce announces publication of its new, free South Shore “Do-It-Yourself Tourguide”, listing 41 historic and tourist points of interest in Quincy, Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Randolph, Rockland, Scituate and Weymouth.

The brochure is the first such publication since the Chamber published a similar guide in 1947, covering the same communities.

Each of the 41 sites is open to the public and located on an area map with a brief write-up as to the sites' hours of operation, entrance costs [if any] and notes if the facilities have such items as rest rooms, water fountains and tour guides. Each description also notes what the outstanding features of the particular site may be.

A free copy of the Chamber's “Do-It-Yourself Tourguide” may be obtained by visiting the South Shore Chamber of Commerce offices at 36 Miller Stile Road in Quincy. Copies of the guide cannot be mailed.

RIGHTS How does he excuse self?

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Sometime ago I read in the Sentinel the question from the young lady who asked about being excused from the table when she was dining with her boyfriend. My son wants to know what he should say in the same situation. Should he leave the table when the girl does? — Tim's Mother

Dear Mother: He should also say, "Will you please excuse me?" If the girl leaves first he should rise and pull her chair away. He should NOT leave with her. As soon as she is out of sight, he may leave for the men's room.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Is it necessary to tip counter girls when I lunch on a sandwich and a cup of coffee? — Sue in Chicago.

Dear Sue: Why not? The girls behind a counter try to please as hard as those in a dining room. A quarter will do nicely.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I am a frequent house guest of friends around the country. I always take my hostess a gift. Now people tell me this isn't required. Right or wrong? — Florence E.

Dear Florence: It isn't required, but don't you think it's a nice gesture? I do.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Last night I burned a hole in a friend's linen table cloth. I'm sick about it. What can I do? — C.J.

Dear C.J.: Make every effort to get the cloth and have it rewoven. If the hostess won't relinquish it, try and replace it.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I'm in junior high now and my parents say I can go out on weekend dates. What can I talk about with the boy? — Karen in Honolulu

Dear Karen: How's your football team doing? Can he give you any tips about the various courses you're taking? Did he see that "special" on TV last week? Is he on the swimming team? Ask him about relay matches. Does he have a surfboard? Ask him about the new styles. Does he have a part-time job? Ask him about it. Is he planning on college? Where? What courses? Does he have a car? Ask him about the new safety devices. If you get around to personalities, give everyone a boost. Never knock your friends or acquaintances (or teachers). Be enthusiastic about whatever he's planned for the evening. Be sure and let him know what time you are expected home. Don't linger at the door but tell him what a good time you had and you'll see him at school tomorrow.

Today's Women

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY Christmas is for us children

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

I heard somebody say the other day, "Christmas is, after all, for children." And it certainly is. But not just for the excited, young anticipators — the chronological children, but for the child in each one of us as well.

And that child is there, even in the gruffest, the busiest, the most blasé. After gifts are bought, cards mailed and colored lights strung across the eaves, there comes a time when one can sit down and wait for that child.

Or maybe the child bursts in, unannounced, at some unexpected moment. But he will come. For Christmas is a time of wonder and wonder is child's stuff.

We can complain about the hurry, the shortage of money or time or wrapping paper — whatever — but every year we still do it because we remember, with a child's heart, the wonder of Christmas.

Good things happen on Christmas. There are no tears, no spankings. People think about each other, try to please. There are surprises. Letters and packages arrive. Long-distance telephone calls. Hugs. A fire all day in the fireplace and nuts to crack in a big wooden bowl. Favors are granted in plain view and in the heart with "It's Christmas!" as the releasing force.

A child remembers always his love-filled Christmases. So that each year, no matter what his age, there is that wonder, that knowledge that on this special day people live truly in the present moment, aware of life's beauty and fragility. That right now will never come again.

And we can all be children again, if only for a day, to receive and to give the only really worthwhile gift: love.

Single girl likes her life

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I'm a fun-loving 24-year-old single girl. I enjoy my job. I like outdoor sports, and the city's night life in the company of handsome bachelors. I don't feel I have any real hangups. My friends are constantly at me to take the step before I'm too old to find a husband.

While I make a joke of their urgings, I'd like to tell them to mind their own affairs. I'm much happier doing my own thing while they gripe and complain about their husbands and home life. What's so wrong with a mature marriage in later life?

T.J.

Dear T.J.:

There's a sense of strength that comes with maturity, and strength of any kind gives one a delicious feeling.

Your whole life is attuned to order and harmony, seen in the distinct rhythm throughout your writing. The husband and home-life complaints, plus the ups and downs of your friends, can't help but cause you to enjoy your single fulfilled life even more.

While you resist being told what to do, seen in your inflated k, you find a sort of negative security in refusing to take a firm stand on your "thing" about marriage, seen in the fading word endings.

As a result, you find yourself being influenced by the comments of your friends, seen in the rounded tops on the s's. Such a conflict is, inwardly, tearing you to bits, while your "only moderate" slant tries desperately to keep your outward behavior under control.

Your sense of humor, seen in the beginning flourish of the m, activates itself in your defense — keeps the air light — and takes you over one more agonizing hurdle of trying to decide which way to go.

Enjoy your friends while you're young. There are always plenty of plums on the tree that haven't been picked. They ripen with age — and so do you.

D.J.

The 11th annual convention of the Massachusetts Mothers of Twins was recently held in Northampton, with education as the theme. A featured speaker was Jane Yolen, authoress of 24 books for children.

Andrea, an eighth grader, was one of seven Woodward students who made the high honor roll for the first term.

Frank McWade Art Exhibit At Main Library

Frank McWade of Weymouth, will exhibit his oil paintings in the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library through December.

Born in 1930, he graduated from Vesper George School of Art in Boston in 1951, then studied painting at the Cape Cod School of Art in Provincetown under the tutelage of Henry Hensche, who was former assistant to Charles Hawthorne, one of America's great figure painters.

McWade worked commercially as an illustrator until 1960 when he went into the field of mural painting.

He was formerly a member of the Copley Society, exhibiting on Newbury and Charles Streets, in Provincetown and other Cape Cod locals.

Group exhibits include: Jordan Marsh, Northeastern University, Symphony Hall, Sheraton Plaza, the "Home Show" and travelling group shows. Numerous paintings and portraits are in private collections.

McWade has won prizes in several South Shore exhibits but he said, he does not feel that prizes have a bearing on the worth of an artist.

The exhibition includes a mixture of landscapes, portraits, still life, and drawing. The landscapes are the most recent works.

Stratton Urges Students To Be Active As 'Innovators Of Change'

By MARY POOLE

Commander Richard Stratton, U.S. Navy pilot and former POW, was welcomed at North Quincy High Monday, Nov. 12 as an honored guest and speaker.

Commander Stratton, a former NQHS student himself, was saluted upon arrival by the school band, conducted by Mr. David Watson, and a reception committee consisting of student representatives John Flynn, Brian Faherty, and Audrey Cutler; and administrative officials, including Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Supt. of Schools; Peter Chrisom, Principal; and Robert Collins, Assistant Principal.

In the school's Teal Building, the Commander spoke before two seminar audiences of approximately 125 Social Studies students. He later addressed two separate classes during the morning session. Relaxed by a comfortable preceding coffee break, Commander Stratton spoke with ease of his imprisonment in Hanoi from January, 1967 to March, 1973, and of his own personal struggle to maintain sanity throughout such a harsh test of "how a human being reacts under stress".

Commander Stratton also expressed genuine concern for the apathetic state-of-mind of many Americans, and he urged the students toward taking an active interest in their role(s) as innovators of change, in the country's future. There followed a question and answer period in which speaker and listeners discussed such current issues as the Watergate affair, the question of forcible draft, POW readjustment, the 18-year old vote, etc.

After finishing his series of lectures, the officer was presented with a veteran's poem written by Paul Carlin, an English teacher. The commander also found time to seek out previous teachers, Miss Wilma Shields, Science Dept. Head; and Miss Kay McCoy who is now Dean of Girls, and friends at the school. He lingered over a luncheon prepared by Mrs. Lucy Medaglia, the Foreign Language Department Head, and then he proceeded to the school band-room to enjoy its music and conclude the day's activities.

Commander Stratton's Quincy stay from November 9-14th was filled with various social and educational functions. He arrived Saturday afternoon in time to attend the NQHS vs. Somerville football game at the stadium, from which he received as remembrances the game ball, and a written program of half-time events. The weekend was spent in reunion and relaxation with old friends and family. Weekday evening engagements included a dinner, and a manufacturing group's presentation in Boston. The Commander visited Quincy High School the following day.

175 Students Going On Ski Trip To Austria

By GAIL DOHERTY

The North Quincy High School Ski Trip will this year be to Innsbruck, Austria, during the February vacation, with the largest group ever, according to Ralph Frazier, who is the organizer.

Some 175 students are currently signed up to go, and Mr. Frazier would like to see one chaperone for every 10 students. Those chaperoning so far include Mr. Frazier, Mr. McPhee, Mr. Liva (a gym teacher at Atlantic Jr. High), Mr. and Mrs. Younie (teachers at Atlantic), Miss McKay, Mr. Pierce, and Mr. Morrissey. Mr. Frazier plans to add more teachers to the list.

The cost is $300, which includes round trip airfare from Boston on Pan American World Airways, round trip transportation between the airport and the hotel, seven nights of hotel accommodations in Innsbruck, U. S. departure tax and German airport tax, gratuities for luggage, handling, dining room staff, and maid service, and a daily continental breakfast and dinner.

There will be six optional trips, not included in the cost, and the choices range from an over-night tour of Venice, with hotel accommodations, round trip transportation, and breakfast and dinner for $37; a tour of Salzburg, including sightseeing and transportation for $12; a day trip to Kitzbuhel, the famous ski area, for $6; and a day trip to the St. Anton ski area for $6.

The third and last payment is due Dec. 1. On Dec. 12, at 8 p.m. there will be a second meeting of all going on the trip to go over further details. The meeting will be held in the North Quincy High School auditorium.

National Honor Society Goal To Establish Bookstore

By JIM MCCARTHY AND GAIL DOHERTY

The primary objective of the National Honor Society this year is the institution of a bookstore in our school, sometime before Christmas.

According to plan, the bookstore will offer a selection of reading materials ranging from academic subject matter to pleasure reading, in addition to the eventual sale of stationary supplies.

The English Department head, Mr. Farrell, along with other administrative personnel, have desired to see a bookstore operating in the school for a number of years now, but each attempt in the past has somehow been undermined.

The overall goal for the National Honor Society in undertaking this project, is to provide a type of scholarship fund for deserving students from its profits.

If the bookstore does turn out to be a success, it will be located in the English Department, room 201, and will be run by National

43 Girls In Bowling Club

By DIANNE McMILLEN

Miss Townsend's "Girls' Bowling Club" has started a new year rolling.

The club bowls Wednesday afternoons at Wollaston

Bowladrome, Quincy Shore Drive. The club, which dwindled somewhat at the end of last year, has picked up again and is reaching new heights of participation. There are now 43 girls in the league.

During the first few weeks, the girls will bowl specifically to obtain their individual averages. After the first four weeks, they will split up into teams of four.

There is more to the club than just bowling. They are planning on field trips, an awards banquet at the end of the year, and, a first for the bowling club, the possible purchase of windbreaker jackets which will display "NQHS BOWLING CLUB".

The girls find bowling to provide stimulating competition, as well as a sociable atmosphere.

Helping You Make A Career Decision

By BARBARA RHILINGER

With one more term at a close your choice of a career grows nearer.

The guidance department is doing its best to help make your choice an intelligent one.

The Industrial Arts Department is playing a major role in preparing North for Career Education. Mr. Laing's classes are making storage compartments for the Art Department, as well as bulletin boards for the Language Department.

Mr. Rogan's classes are engaged in making trays for Guidance, while Mr. Harrington's technical drawing classes are producing drawings for changes in the shops. It is hoped by the Guidance Department that in the near future the shops will be combined.

The Career Education Occupational Center was relocated in Room 223. The purpose of this center is to try to inform you, the student, about career opportunities available. A computer is being installed which will hold first-hand information about colleges and secondary schools. This computer will not only help us here at North, but others from the elementary and junior high school levels.

The Guidance Department will also use the center for personal interviews whereby the counselor and the students can use the computer information along with student profiles to compile a realistic decision toward a career objective.

18 Selected For New Madrigal Ensemble

By MARY POOLE

The North Quincy High School Concert Choir has channelled its talent into an additional vocal group to achieve a more varied sound.

The newly-formed Madrigal Ensemble includes approximately 18 selected students. All are members of the Concert Choir, who are willing to invest their spare time in musical exercise and betterment.

The Madrigal Singers were introduced to the public with their guest performance recently at a meeting of the supportive Music Parents' Organization. The group plans to perform along with the choir at concerts and various other functions throughout the year.

The musical ensemble meets three times weekly, before and after normal school hours, and is presently building a repertoire of light musical pieces.

National Honor Society

Honor members during their free periods.

The obvious obstacles that could possibly nullify the project, is the fact that funds are sorely lacking. Money is needed in providing such important items as lockable storage cabinets and display cases, not to mention the numerous smaller items of collectively equal significance. The School System is financially unable to support this endeavor as it has numerous other commitments and simply not enough capital to satisfy everyone's needs.

A second obstacle is one which may be overcome considerably more easily than the first, depending upon the support of the student body and faculty. Books are desperately needed to supply the store and consequently the National Honor Society wishes to appeal to the public for possible contributions. They would appreciate the donation of any and all books in good condition, regardless of whether they are paperbacks or hard cover, fiction or non-fiction. Thus far, Miss Euerle, German teacher, has very generously contributed approximately one hundred books or so. The success of this project depends heavily upon the type of spirit support.

All donations should be delivered to Mr. Cotto in room 214.

A second project being planned tentatively by the National Honor Society is a Christmas party for underprivileged children in our area. Nothing definite has been decided on as yet, and again, success must depend upon public contribution. Donations of children's books, games, and toys would be greatly appreciated.

Norfolk County Development Council Opens North Quincy Headquarters

More than 100 guests attended last week's open house at the Quincy headquarters of the Norfolk County Development Council.

Among them were Mayor Walter J. Hannon and Norfolk County Commissioners, James J. Collins, chairman; Thomas K. McManus, and George B. McDonald.

The headquarters are located in the new State Street South Complex, 1776 Heritage Drive, Quincy.

Executive Director John C. Nourse noted that the council, which was formed last spring, is responsible for promoting tourism and industrial development throughout the county. Its projects are financed through private funds, matched on a three-to-one basis by county funds.

In its first summer of operation, the council's prime task was publishing and distributing 75,000 copies of a 32-page facilities guide, listing historical sites and buildings, museums, motels, restaurants, and other locations of interest to tourists.

Projects recently completed with the council's assistance include the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's computerized inventory of land available for industrial development; a booklet about the historic 1774 Suffolk Resolves meeting, for the Town of Milton; an updated brochure for the Quincy Historical Society; and a new brochure for the Braintree Historical Society.

Several other projects are in the works in other sections of the county.

Nourse said that in 1974 the council intends to develop more printed literature and other materials to promote tourism on a county-wide basis, and to help local non-profit organizations such as industrial development commissions in their efforts to attract business and industry.

By TOM HENSHAW

He was called the father of the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

He served on the Quincy School Committee for 13 years, four of them as vice chairman. And, when he retired from public life two years ago, Jim McCormick went back to school and got a high school diploma of his own.

James F. McCormick Sr., 60, of 100 Reservoir Rd., died Nov. 27 at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Boston, after collapsing at his home on Thanksgiving night.

He was buried Saturday in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy, after a funeral mass in St. Agatha's Church, East Milton, attended by the top echelons of political and educational life in Quincy.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon directed that the city's flags be lowered to half mast in honor of "a totally dedicated man who gave so much of himself for Quincy."

"Truly, he was the father of the Quincy Vocational Technical School. It was through his tireless efforts that the school finally became a reality."

"His death means a great loss to the city for which he served so diligently without remuneration."

Mr. McCormick, a stock broker in business life, was born in Boston and had to quit school at the age of 16 to help support his family working as a page boy in the Boston Stock Exchange.

He worked his way up to messenger, rail clerk and then bookkeeper with the New York Stock Exchange firm of E. J. Kitching Co. of Boston. When Kitching went out of business, he started over as a messenger with Chandler Hovey Co.

He was manager of Hovey's trading department at the age of 25 and a year later passed the first test ever given by the New York Stock Exchange for registered representatives.

He was a junior partner in Mixer and Co. and later became manager of the Quincy office of A. C. Allyn and Co. and associate manager of the Francis I. duPont and Co.'s Quincy office.

He was manager of the Quincy office of H. C. Wainwright and Co. of Boston and New York at 1245 Hancock

JAMES F. MCCORMICK, SR.

St. at the time of his death.

Mr. McCormick ran for Quincy School Committee in 1955 and 1957, failing both times. He was appointed to the board to succeed Paul K. Duffey in 1959 and that started his political career.

He served as vice chairman of the School Committee in 1966-67 and again in 1970-71 before retiring in 1971 to run unsuccessfully for mayor.

Mr. McCormick started campaigning in 1960 for construction of the Quincy Vocational Technical School and his efforts were rewarded in 1967 when the school was opened on Coddington St.

"Upon his retirement from public life in 1971, Jim returned to school and worked toward qualifying for a high school diploma," said School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence Creedon last week.

"This goal was reached last year when, in a special ceremony, the Quincy School Committee awarded its former vice chairman his high school diploma."

"James F. McCormick was a very great friend of the Quincy public schools."

"He loved young people and took a fatherly pride in their accomplishments."

Mr. McCormick was chairman of a Quincy Lions Club scholarship fund started this year in memory of the late Capt. Edward Alan Brudno, the Quincy man who was a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

He was also chairman of the Quincy Park and Recreation Board from 1966-71, chairman of the Mayor's Youth Committee in 1969, former leader of St. Ann's Boy Scouts and a member of the board of the South Shore Council on Alcoholism.

He was past president of the Quincy Lions Club, a charter member of the Quincy 100 Club, a member of the National Securities Traders Association, the United Commercial Travelers, North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Quincy Elks.

On behalf of the School Committee, Vice Chairman Paul C. Kelly said:

"He served the city for many years, not only in the school system but in the parks and recreation department. He was devoted to this city and gave a great deal of himself to it over a long period of time."

Said former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa:

"He always wanted the best of education and teachers for our school children."

"In my opinion he was one of the finest members of the school committee. He certainly was a dedicated man and it was a pleasure to work with him."

Said former Mayor James McIntyre:

"He was a man who dedicated much of his life to the city of Quincy, not only in the school committee but in so many ways committed his personal life to the city."

Mr. McCormick leaves his wife, Mrs. Nancy [McNally] McCormick; two sons, James F. Jr. of Norwood and John A. of Quincy; four daughters, Mrs. Nancy Devine of North Quincy, Mrs. Mary Hayes of Quincy, Mrs. Patricia Peters of Decatur, Ga., and Mrs. Theresa O'Connor of Hawaii; and 15 grandchildren.

Rev. Edward O'Brien, pastor of St. Agatha's Church, was the celebrant of the funeral mass.

Those in attendance included: Mayor Walter J. Hannon, former Mayors Amelio Della Chiesa and James R. McIntyre, Senator and Council President Arthur H. Tobin, School Committee Vice Chairman Paul C. Kelly, School Committeeman Charles T. Sweeney.

School Superintendent Dr. Lawrence Creedon; Maurice J. Daly, assistant superintendent for vocational education; Wilfred Nolan, coordinator of elementary education; retired school teachers Ruth and Edna Abbiati.

Edward T. Lewis, former city manager and executive secretary to Mayors Della Chiesa and McIntyre; former Fire Chief Thomas F. Gorman; George Smith Jr. of the Planning Board; Joseph Graziani, Milton town treasurer.

Quincy businessman Larry Antonelli, Federal Mediator John J. Sullivan Sr., Everett Tatreau, president of the Quincy Lions Club, former Lions President Arthur Gillis; Henry Bosworth, publisher of the Quincy Sun; and Richard Koch, executive director of the Quincy Parks and Recreation Board.

Jack Osterman, assistant superintendent for personnel; Stephen Moynihan, administrative assistant for business affairs; Peter Chisom, principal of North Quincy High School; Robert Laign, president of the Quincy Education Association; Harold Crowley, former QEA president and Quincy teacher Anna Robison.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. McCormick were handled by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

American Scott Moves To Larger Parkingway Location

The American Scott Business Center has moved to expanded headquarters at 227 Parkingway near School St., offering a larger display of business office machines, furniture, and supplies.

Howard Scott established the American Scott Company in February, 1968, as a two-man operation at 1624 Hancock St., furnishing office stationery and supplies. Business prospered and Scott was forced to move to larger quarters next door, 1626 Hancock St. in 1971. Scott added business machines and furniture and more employees to handle the extra business ranging from Marshfield to Dedham.

The new store is twice the size of the old location, with 8,500 square feet of office supplies and needs, a new warehouse, and free adjacent parking. Employees now number 12.

University Home Services Opening Randolph Office

University Home Services, a Needham-based organization that specializes in placing married couples in live-in situations, has taken a step toward opening a Randolph office to better serve the Quincy area.

Until office space is found, dialing the Randolph number (961-1616) gets you prompt service from the Needham headquarters. There's another office in Lynnfield.

Since it began operation in 1970, UHS has placed more than 500 couples in nearly 4,500

Massachusetts homes for periods ranging from 24 hours (the minimum) to eight weeks.

The couples, some 80 percent of them college age, do such jobs as baby-sitting, tutoring and minding the home while the owners are away on vacation or a business trip.

The company was started by Roger L. Plante, now the 30-year-old president of UHS, and his wife, Deana, who earned money for his college tuition by accepting live-in baby sitting assignments for a weekend to a month or more.

Plante has a listing of about 300 couples available for jobs, all of whom have to go through a rugged two part interview by both Plante and the prospective clients before they are assigned a job.

And each couple comes equipped with an 18-page sitter manual with places for the clients to list everything from emergency phone numbers to the amount of the children's allowances to a watering schedule for plants.

"A lot of people take care of houses," says Plante. "But it's the home we're worried about."

Multibank Reports Consolidated Income Up

Multibank Financial Corp. of Boston reports third quarter, 1973 consolidated income before securities transactions of $1,995,542 or $1.90 per share compared to $1,989,979 or $1.89 per share for the corresponding period in 1972.

Multibank's earnings after securities transactions for the same period were, $1,997,260 or $1.90 per share compared to the 1972 results of $2,085,979 or $1.98 per share.

The 1972 figures have been restated to reflect the pooling of interest of First Agricultural National Bank of Berkshire County and the Mechanics Bancorp, Inc.

As of September 30, 1973, Multibank Financial Corp. listed assets of $550,652 million.

N.E. Electric Net Income Up $194,000

New England Electric System reports consolidated net income for the first nine months of 1973 of $28,605,000, an increase of $194,000 over last year.

Per share earnings were $1.82 for the nine months, up one cent from a year ago, bringing per share earnings for the 12 months ended September 1973 to $2.56.

Directors of New England

Electric System have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 44.5 cents per common share, payable Jan. 2, 1974 to shareholders of record Dec. 10, 1973.

Alice Gray To Retire After 24 Years Service

Miss Alice Gray, R.N., the first head nurse appointed in the Quincy Public Schools, is retiring Dec. 31, after 24 years of service.

She was honored Wednesday at a reception at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School.

Miss Gray, a graduate of Quincy High School, received her diploma from Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing. She earned a Bachelor of Science in Nursing and a Master's degree in Education from Boston University where she was elected to Phi Lambda Theta.

For 17 years prior to her employment in the Quincy Public Schools, Miss Gray was the chief admitting officer at Quincy City Hospital. Within the school system Miss Gray has been the school nurse at North Quincy High School, Quincy School, Pollard School, and the Lincoln-Hancock Community School.

In 1955 Miss Gray was appointed Head Nurse and assumed the responsibility of supervising school nurses, and planning and implementing a city-wide health services program. Over the years, Miss Gray notes that the nurses have become valuable members of the total school staff as a result of their involvement with students and their families.

Miss Gray is a member of the Quincy Education Association, Massachusetts Teachers Association, and the National Education Association. She has served on the Q.E.A. Negotiation Team and has been chairman of the Blood Bank. She has also been involved in many community-wide Red Cross activities. She has been nursing service chairman, provided first aid instruction, and taught classes for Nurses and Nurses' Aides.

Miss Gray is a past president of the Quincy Business and Professional Women's Club and has served as a state officer. She is also the treasurer of Delta Kappa Gamma, a national sorority for outstanding women educators. A Fellow of the American School Health Association, Miss Gray is one of six persons in the nation to serve on the N.E.A. Legislative Council for School Nurses. She is also a member of Christ Church.

All of Miss Gray's friends within the school system and the community were invited to attend the reception in her honor. The reception was sponsored by the school nursing staff under the chairmanship of Beatrice Matthews, R.N.

Wollaston Glee Club Opens 74th Season With Concert Dec. 10

The Wollaston Glee Club will launch its 74th season with a concert Monday evening Dec. 10 at 8 p.m. in Atlantic Junior High School Auditorium.

Under the direction of Dale R. Haugen, the well known local male glee club will present as guest artist Miss Teresa Newton Bryant, soprano. In 1966 she was the youngest singer to have appeared with the Boston Pops. Earlier this year Miss Bryant sang the title role in Massenet's Le Jongleur with the Skylight Comic Opera Company in Milwaukee. She was present with this company when they performed for the public television channel.

The Wollaston Glee Club was established in 1900 for the purpose of encouraging group singing. The club also offers a scholarship of $500 bi-annually to a deserving music student. The winner of this competition is invited to join with the club in the Spring concert held each April.

A wide range of music will be sung at this concert. Music of Christmas, songs of the sea, songs by Randall Thompson, Brahms, Aaron Copeland. Many traditional male glee club favorites, are on the program.

Donald B. Bradshaw is accompanist for the club, and David Walsh is president. The Wollaston Glee Club meets every Monday evening in the Parish Hall of the Wollaston Methodist Church at 8 p.m.

All men who enjoy the fun and fulfillment of group singing are invited to participate. The organization is non-sectarian and is an independent incorporated organization in existence for the sole purpose of providing interest and enjoyment through song.

Dr. Arthur Trott Heads March Of Dimes Campaign

Dr. Arthur W. Trott, of Forbes Hill Rd., Wollaston, has been named campaign director for the 1974 Massachusetts Bay Chapter-March of Dimes Drive.

The appointment was made by Chapter Chairman Rubin Epstein. Dr. Trott is Senior Associate Orthopedic Surgeon at the Children's Hospital in Boston. His service to the March of Dimes extends over the past 20 years when the March of Dimes chief concern was the eradication of polio to its chief target since 1958, birth defects.

During this time span, Dr. Trott has held many volunteer positions including past Chapter Chairman and present Medical Advisory Committee Chairman.

DR. ARTHUR TROTT
The National Foundation-March of Dimes is making every effort to attain its ultimate goal-prevention of Birth Defects," notes Dr. Trott. "Progress in recent years now enables medical science to act against certain kinds of congenital damage before birth, at delivery, and even later. Steadily growing information about the cause and conditions of these diseases, and skilled techniques of diagnosis, treatment and prevention, already are making their impact."

He adds that contributions to the March of Dimes also will help in establishing more prenatal care programs for mothers with high risk pregnancies and intensive care nurseries for the critically ill.

MONEY TALKS

The High Cost Of Being Your Own Investor

By Philip J. Lawrence
President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Holfbrook
8-6 weekdays 9-7:30 Thursdays

Those who are tempted to do some "disintermediating" of their own, in the spirit of the times, and to put their savings in the stock market or elsewhere would do well to ponder the time and effort involved in studying the relative opportunities for investment and in being a daily watchdog over constantly changing market situations.

"It's not worth it," concluded a business friend recently. "I just can't afford the homework and the gnawing worry that being my own investor requires."

One of the reasons for his disenchantment was the bad forecasts and recommendations he absorbed from securities advisors. "After getting burned too many times, I decided their advice was worthless," he said.

He noted the statement of a professional business writer that much of the so-called advice is meant "not to serve the interest of the investors to whom it is addressed but to generate broker commissions. Even when advice is honestly motivated, it is likely to be bad."

We called his attention to the October 1, 1973, issue of Forbes Magazine and an article, "Is Investment Advice Worthless?" The article quoted Professor Burton G. Malkiel, head of Princeton University's Financial Research Center, to the effect that "A random guess will enable you to predict the next market move with the same [or higher] degree of accuracy than the estimate provided through either technical or fundamental analysis."

The same issue quotes another scholar with a similar evaluation of security analysis. James H. Lorie, a professor of business administration at the University of Chicago's Graduate School of Business, describes security analysis as "the only profession where average ability is worthless." An average dentist, says Lorie, can fill a tooth. "An average security analyst produces nothing of value."

Forbes reports on the six-year records of each of three portfolios whose stocks were determined by throwing darts at the market quotations page of the New York Times. Their record of a 14 per cent overall gain over six years compared with only a 5 per cent record for the Dow-Jones industrials. On the basis of a 2.3 annual capital gain and a yield of 3.2 per cent based on recent price, even the dart board fund had little if anything to recommend it.

As far as our friend was concerned, the Forbes article simply confirmed a conclusion he had reached from painful experience. "I'm not the gambler type and when I realized there was nothing I could do to improve my earnings - except to be lucky - I decided to get out," he said. "When I considered that I was not only uncertain about earnings but was risking my capital as well, I decided I was better off with you fellows."

QJC Plans 58% Courses Expansion, Sees 18% Enrollment Hike

Quincy Junior College is soon to become the only municipally-supported junior college in the Commonwealth, as Newton Junior College closes its doors due to financial difficulties. This article is the first in a series that will encompass the services that Quincy Junior College provides to the community and explain how it has managed to stay financially sound.

By BRUCE McLAIN
Information Officer
Quincy Public Schools

COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD - Charles T. Sweeney, chairman of the Quincy Junior College Community College Association shares the honors with Mrs. Helen Lipp, secretary of the Association, as the association receives a community service award presented for "outstanding service in fostering the intellectual and career aspirations of the young men and women of Quincy and the South Shore through the implementation of programs at Quincy Junior College."

[Bruce McLain Photo]

The Community Educational Services Division of Quincy Junior College is planning a 58 percent expansion in courses that should boost its enrollment from 550 to 650 at the beginning of the new year.

The expansion will come through 18 new courses that will be offered in response to community demand, according to Edward J. Tumavicus, director of the division. This will bring the total number of programs offered to 49, a 58 percent increase. With the new courses Tumavicus is hopeful that enrollment will increase by as much as 18 percent.

CENTER FOR WOMEN

One of the most promising looking new services is to be a Center for Women, Tumavicus said. The Center is viewed as a kind of "clearinghouse" of information that area women may utilize. Counseling for educational and enrichment courses and referrals to appropriate social or federal agencies for services will be supplied through the Center.

The Center will adopt an "open-ended" approach to their clientele in that it will attempt to service their requests directly or suggest alternate sources of help in the community, Tumavicus suggested. Quincy Junior College teachers Virginia Waller, Joan Sullivan, Ester Weisman and Edward Tumavicus will staff the Center.

The College has also begun plans to establish a program to offer courses of interest to senior citizens. The plan, which is still in the talking stage at this point, might entail senior citizens with special skills teaching others in their age bracket right in their own homes.

Some special courses that could be offered might include preparing for retirement and ways that senior citizens can increase income and receive discounts for goods and services.

College officials are working closely with local senior citizens' agencies to survey needs and interests and avoid duplication of services.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS FORUM

Citing the need for a community college to generate discussion of controversial current events, Tumavicus said a committee will establish a public affairs lecture series open to the public and students.

ASTROLOGY TO GEOMETRY

In a direct response to community demand, the college's Community Educational Services Division will offer such variant courses as Yoga, Astrology I and II, Basic Bridge, Basic Chess, Body and Mind Awareness for Women, Travel Agency Techniques, Interior Decorating, Small Boat Navigation, Plane Geometry, and Pre-Calculus Mathematics.

An expansion of a course to prepare persons to take an examination for a real estate broker's license is planned along with workshops to prepare students for Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT) in mathematics and English. A course to help citizens prepare their own income tax returns will also be given.

Tuition costs for the community educational courses range from $16 to $45, depending upon the number of sessions held. Quincy residents pay from $4 to $5 less per course than non-residents.

As Quincy Junior College is a division of the Quincy Public Schools, the college will utilize several schools for its community offerings.

Persons interested in information about course descriptions and when they begin may contact Edward Tumavicus at 471-2470.

INDIAN CHIEF BLOWS HIS TOP

A long tim ago, there was an indian tribe. I was going hunting. I shot a deer. I went back to the village. I went to see how this chief was really a mean chief. His name was Sitting Bull. Now one day, the tribe got mad because he started to boss everybody around. Now the tribe did not like this. They started to leave the village, but some stayed to fight Sitting Bull. They started to punch him. They won because good guys always win.

Joseph Cahill To Be Honored At Dinner

Friends will honor Joseph F. Cahill, vice president in charge of sales at Old Colony Construction Co., with a retirement dinner Jan. 18 at the Lantana in Randolph.

Cahill, a native of South Boston and a long time member of the L Street Brownies, is retiring after 47 years with Old Colony, beginning as a shipper in 1926.

He lives at 55 Hilma St., Quincy, with his wife, Louise.

They have three children, Mary Lou, who works in the Quincy tax collector's office; Francis, a teacher at Boston Latin School; Arthur, a teacher at Wakefield High School; and three grandchildren.

Mr. Cahill is a member of the Quincy Elks and the Pere Marquette Council, Knights of Columbus, of South Boston.

A social hour at 7 p.m. will precede the dinner at 8 p.m., followed by dancing until midnight.

Frank Mitchell is general chairman of the dinner committee which includes:

Annette DeWolfe, Helen Duffy, Dennis Ryan, Robert Leavitt, Helen Mahan, Joseph Donovan, City Auditor Alexander Smith and former City Manager Edward T. Lewis.

Finland's Independence To Be Observed Sunday

Finland's Independence Day will be observed Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the West Quincy Congregational Church, Buckley St.

A program will be presented and a social hour will follow, open to the public.

Arrangements are under the direction of the Finnish National Committee. Chairman is Uno S. Wall of 16 Suomi Rd.

Rev. Chester Porteus To Retire Dec. 31

Rev. Chester A. Porteus, who was a 22-year-old lay reader when he was ordained an Episcopal priest in 1928, is retiring Dec. 31 as rector of Christ Church, a post he had held for the past 29 years.

Rev. Mr. Porteus, 67, a native of Malden and a graduate of Boston University was a student at Episcopal Theological School and a lay reader at St. Luke's Church, Malden, when he was ordained one of the youngest Episcopal priests.

He received his bachelor of divinity degree six months later.

He came to Christ Church in 1944 after serving parishes in upper Manhattan and the Bronx in New York City, Dorchester, Natick and Hopkinton. He was mentioned prominently for the post of suffragan bishop but his longtime friend, the Rt. Rev. Frederick Lawrence, was named instead.

After retirement, he plans to continue writing for Episcopal publications and his duties as chaplain of the Quincy Fire Department, the Quincy Rotary Club, the Rural Masonic Lodge and Taleb Grotto.

He and his wife, the former Greta Ramsey, plan to make their retirement home in South Braintree.

Boston Insurance Agency, Inc.

IN CONJUNCTION with it's centennial year, St. John's Church, Quincy, is presenting a concert by the New England Conservatory Choir and Chamber Singers at the church Sunday, Dec. 9, at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited. Committee members shown here are, from the left, John Noonan, publicity chairman; Rev. Joseph M. Connolly, advisor; Eleanor M. Reidy, general chairman and Mabel Pratt, chairman of the Concert.

N.E. Conservatory Choir In Concert At St. John's Sunday

The New England Conservatory of Music Choir and Chamber Singers will present a Centennial Concert at St. John's Church, Quincy, Sunday Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the upper church.

The concert is open to the general public at no charge. The program will highlight sacred songs of the 18th and 20th centuries.

The concert is one of a series of special events commemorating the founding of St. John's Church and Parish 100 years ago.

Committee members are: Mrs. Timothy Reidy, chairman Centennial program; Miss Mable F. Pratt, chairman centennial concert; Mrs. Ben H. Williams, chairman hospitality; Rev. Joseph Connolly, general advisor on centennial events; and John D. Noonan, publicity chairman.

Hostesses for the concert will be: Mrs. Charles Jacobs, Mrs. Alfred Allsopp, Mrs. James Buttomer, Mrs. Fred Walsh, Mrs. Timothy Reidy, and Miss Mable F. Pratt.

Ushers will be: Vincent Villard, James Connell, John Short, Jean Genereux, Anthony Quintiliani, Fred Fostello, Arthur Davidson, and Louis DiTullio.

A social hour will be held in St. John's School following the concert. Mrs. Williams will be in charge of arrangements for the social hour. Refreshments will be furnished by St. John's Junior League, Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality, St. John's Woman's Club and the Quincy Catholic Club.

Michael Garroway is director of music for St. John's Church and is assisting in planning the concert.

The Conservatory Concert Choir is one of the renowned college choruses in the country today. It has made two State Department tours in recent years, one to the U.S.S.R. and Spain, and one, in the summer of 1972, to five western European countries. The Concert Choir will tour Switzerland and France this summer with the New England Conservatory Symphony Orchestra under Gunther Schuller.

Numerous recordings by the New England Conservatory Chorus are available on RCA Victor, Deutsche Grammophon, and Columbia with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Charles Munch, Erich Leinsdorf, Seiji Ozawa, Claudio Abbado, William Steinberg, and Michael Tilson Thomas. Its own recording of 20th century choral music and Russian folk songs is available through the NEC Alumni Office.

The public is cordially invited to attend Sunday evening's performance.

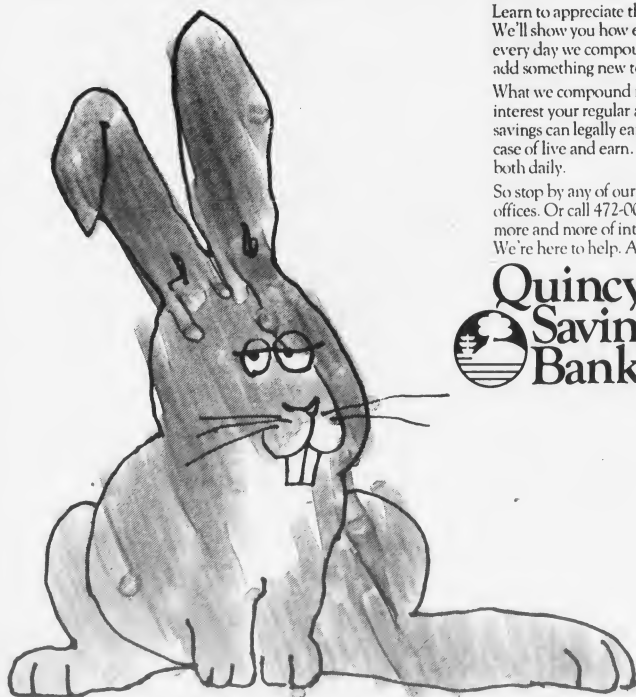

Roger Forbush To Speak At Bible Class

Roger Forbush Jr. will be the speaker at the Golden Rule Bible Class Sunday morning at 9:15 a.m. at Senior Citizens Drop-In Center, 24 High School Ave., Quincy Center.

Music will be by Prof. Norma N. MacLeod, soloist. Mrs. Anna L. Hemenon will accompany her on the piano, and direct the community singing. Mr. Edward Keliher will play favorite hymns on his guitar and harmonica.

Mrs. Kathrine Rose will be hostess. Oliver F. Tatro Jr. will direct the services. The public is invited to attend.

HN Council To Present 'Friday Night At Fights'

The Houghs Neck Community Council will present "Friday Night at the Fights" Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m., at the St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St., Houghs Neck.

Proceeds will go to the scholarship fund in memory of Buzz Orlo.

In this exhibition of boxing, wrestling, and judo the feature bout is a "grudge" match between "Bad Man Tinker" Picot and "Iron Jaw" Stackpole.

Among other boxing matches is a match-up between former New England Welterweight Champ Paul Stivalletta and his brother Dave Stivalletta, the New England Junior Olympic Welterweight Champ.

Also featured is a judo demonstration by five "black belts" and a wrestling match between the "Mud Man from Michigan" and "Laughing Louis from Louisiana."

The fight announcer will be "Big Bopper" Sacco from New York City. Special guests will include former "Miss America" Stella Monahan and former "Miss Houghs Neck" Joycie Gibbons.

Door prizes include a 10-week course in self-protection at the "Tinker" Picot school of boxing and tickets to a Bruins game.

Lots Of Enthusiasm, Effort

Junior High School Girls Wind Up Successful First Season

The Quincy Junior High girls' basketball league recently completed its first season and everyone concerned agrees it was a most successful season.

The Central teams, coached by veteran Mary Pratt, won both the varsity and junior varsity divisions but there were outstanding performances by the other teams.

Among the big surprises was the Point girls placing second in both leagues, quite an achievement for the smallest school in the city.

Despite a lack of players, the Point varsity finished with a 5-3 record and the junior varsity squad with a 6-2 mark.

"We had only nine varsity players and eight junior varsity players but I think our girls proved it is quality and not quantity that counts," said Coach Kathy Bertrand.

"Most of our losses were by close scores. The varsity lost to champion Central by two points and to Broad Meadows by three in overtime. The jayvees also played good ball with only two close defeats."

High scorers for the varsity were Peggy Thorley and Debbie Russo with Kathy Sarno quarterbacking the offense. Marie Nichols, Laura Pizzi, Lisa Salvaggio and Linda Dauphinee excelled defensively, while Claire Oliverio and Trisha Connors also did their part.

High scorers for the junior varsity were Ellen Doucette and Janice Russo. Tight defense and team work by Claire LeCours, Karen McGhee, Diane Nichols and Laurie Robinson helped spark the team and Irene Martel and Brenda Golden also did well when called upon.

Forty girls turned out at Broad Meadows and Coach Corinne Donovan was pleased with the enthusiasm and determination.

Although the varsity had only a 1-7 record, several losses were by close scores and the girls gave the top teams plenty of trouble.

This squad included Holly Chatterton, Ellen Coleman, Sheila Cullen, Linda Fitzgerald, Lori Flynn, Michele Hamel, Patty Hanly, Doreen Kennedy, Barbara King, Carole Lynch, Debbie Lyons, Judy McQuinn, Michele Murphy, Susan Rugg, Kathy Schepici, Marion Squatrito and Mary Wiedemann.

The Meadows coach feels her ninth graders will help the Quincy High teams of the future.

The junior varsity team did well with a 5-3 record and Miss Donovan expects most of these girls to make the varsity a stronger team next year.

The jayvee group included Nancy Campbell, Hazel Conroy, Lorraine Denvir, Lorraine DePietro, Paula Lynch, Brenda Morrison, Lynne Powers, Joan St. Angelo, Pam Shaw, Tina Shea, Kathy Ward, Kathy Campbell, Dianne Cirino, Claire

Connolly, Jean Donahue, Patty Maloney, Mary Megnia, Theresa O'Brien, Sharon O'Leary, and Kathy Scheurch.

Anna Koufas was the official timer and scorer and Kelly Sparks and Cheryl McNeley contributed their services as referees.

"The cooperation and interest was wonderful and everyone was willing to help and learn from one another," Miss Donovan said. "The varsity girls gained the experience of working together as a unit and maintained great spirit throughout the season. Sportsmanship was an objective of the varsity girls."

"I was more than pleased with the teams and the competition this year. Everyone involved, teams, coaches, officials and spectators, put forth the effort to make this an enjoyable and successful season for the new league. This league is a valuable addition to the junior high program and I think it will be a great boost for the high school teams."

Mrs. Walter Phelps Elected FB Norfolk League Chairman

The Furnace Brook Women held their annual fall meeting recently at the clubhouse with the chairman, Mrs. Edward O'Neill, presiding.

Miss Claire Walsh, treasurer, and Mrs. Lou Cugini, secretary, gave their final reports of the season.

Mrs. Walter Phelps was elected chairman of the Norfolk League and Mrs. Richard Hoag co-chairman. The field day will be held this year at Furnace Brook.

Plans were made for a Christmas party fair to be held Sunday, Dec. 9, at 2 p.m. There will be a table of home made pastries and candies, also a table of hand made Christmas gifts and other articles.

Mrs. John Pagnano and Mrs. Richard Corkin will have charge of these tables. A white elephant silent auction table will be covered by Mrs. Walter Phelps and Mrs. Joyce Robbins. Members and guests are invited. Dessert and coffee will be served all afternoon.

The annual presentation dinner and dance will be held Dec. 1 at 6 p.m.

The children's Christmas party will be held Dec. 16 at 2 p.m. Santa will bring a gift for each child.

Sharon O'Leary Scores 2 As Quincy Girls Win, 3-0

Sharon O'Leary contributed a pair of goals as the Quincy Youth Hockey girls' team beat Randolph, 3-0, to win their very first outside game.

Terry Flynn had the third goal and assists were credited to Mary Wideman, Lisa Norling and Eileen Marr.

Three goalies, Joanne Ruane, Jean Lamie and Virginia Weeks, pooled their talents for the shutout.

Other members of the team who participated in the historic first included Doreen Hayes, Mary Ellen Riordan, Joanne Troy, Linda Fitzgerald, Jean Kelly, Laurie Light, Jean McManus, Lisa Bishop, Peggy Burchill and Maureen Santry.

Q-N Game Roundup

Game Finale For 55 Players

Fifty-five Quincy and North Quincy players made their final appearance in high school action during the Thanksgiving Day classic at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Making their final appearance for Quincy were:

Steve Burke, Steve Palumbo, Robin Carrera, Kim Derbes, Dick Hennessey, Carl Awed, Bond Doucette, Dan

Playing in their final game for North were Carl Leone, Bruce Stephansky, Steve Durkin, Steve Vickers, Billy Shea, Bob Boussey,

Carl Leone Big Rooter For Carl Leone

Carl Leone Sr., as coordinator of athletics for Quincy schools, tries to be impartial at the Quincy-North game but he had to admit he was partial last week.

His son, Carl, was completing an outstanding season as North quarterback and the elder Leone, himself a quarterback standout at Quincy High and Brown University, gave all the moral support he could muster to his son.

And the younger Leone didn't disappoint his father or the many North Quincy fans as he had a hand in all the North points. He scored two touchdowns, his eighth and ninth of the year, threw his eighth touchdown pass and threw for the two-point conversion, the 18th conversion point he has passed for. He scored 10 conversion points this fall and had a hand in 130 of North's 211 points.

Although Carl could go to college right after graduation next June as he is in the top 10 or 15 in his class, his father has recommended he go to prep school for a year. He is expected to go to Deerfield Academy, where many North players have prepared for college.

"I recommended he go to prep school just as I have recommended to my former players that they go there for a year to get the maturity they'll need in college," said Carl Sr., who coached North Quincy teams for four years.

Raiders Also Win 1-Mile Race Feature

One of the features of the halftime festivities at the Quincy-North Quincy football game last week was a one-mile race between six runners from each school.

A year ago the schools' cross country teams ran over the Quincy course, finishing inside the stadium but this year it was decided to hold the mile run over the new all-weather track. It is planned to make this an annual event.

"We hope to increase interest in track and also it gives the boys a chance to run before a large crowd," North Coach Lou Tozzi said.

Last week's winner was Bart Petracca, North's outstanding sophomore, who covered the distance in 4:47.8. He was followed, in order, by Mark Canavan of North, Kevin O'Brien of Quincy, Ken Barrett and Ken O'Brien of North, Fred Norkus and Frank Vecchione of Quincy, Ed Yee of North, Sam Gravina and Frank Yee of Quincy, Ken McMahon of North and Bruce Youmie of Quincy.

The O'Briens are brothers as are the Yees. Kevin O'Brien and Frank Yee attend Quincy Vo-Tech, explaining why they run for the Presidents instead of the Raiders. The two sets of brothers faced each other in cross country this fall and will oppose each other in winter track.

3rd Straight Series Win For Frazier, North

North Quincy Football Coach Ralph Frazier had good reason to relish his third successive win over Quincy.

It was the first time North had won three years in a row in the long series, marking a second series 'first' for Frazier. His 1971 team was the first North squad to score 30 points against Quincy.

"I was on the losing end for three years in a row while playing for North, so I was especially satisfying for me to coach a North team to three wins in a row over Quincy," Ralph said.

Ken Coleman Roots For Alma Mater

The large crowd at the Quincy-North game included Ken Coleman, a graduate of North Quincy High, the "Voice of the Red Sox" and a pro football announcer.

Ken has been doing pro games this season but his games haven't been seen in New England. Last Sunday's Patriots at Houston game was his first of the season beamed back to New England.

Work Crews Defeat Weather, Vandals

The Quincy Park Department and School Department did yeoman work on Veterans Memorial Stadium last week to get it ready for the big game.

Vandals covered the inside brick walls along Southern Artery, goal posts, steel bleachers and press box with blue paint Tuesday night. George Page, Park department foreman, said it was the worst vandalism he had ever seen.

Members of the School Department maintenance crew rented sandblasters and removed nearly all the paint on Wednesday. "They did a tremendous job," Page said.

Then, on the holiday morning, the members of the Park Department did an outstanding job of getting the wet field in shape. The field was so inundated early on the morning from the rain, it didn't appear it could be ready for the game. However, the Park Department workers had it in excellent shape by game time.

27th Successive Start For Varrasso

Mike Varrasso, big tackle, started his 27th successive game for Quincy in last week's game.

Mike started every Quincy game since he was a sophomore, playing both ways on most occasions.

"Mike is an under-rated player and never received the notice he deserved," Coach Hank Conroy said. "You can't play more than 27 straight games in three years because we play nine-game schedules."

Starting next year, incidentally, it will be possible for a player to play in 30 straight games as teams will be allowed to play 10 games.

Jack Donahue Hasn't Missed One Yet

It wouldn't be a Quincy-North Quincy game without Jack Donahue present.

The retired North coach, the Raiders' only coach from 1933, the first year of football there, until 1960, was in the press box as usual last week.

Donahue hasn't missed a holiday game as a coach or a spectator.

Jago 3rd In Family To Start For North

Mark Jago started his first game at defensive end for North Quincy on the holiday. He was the third member of his family to start against Quincy.

His father, Al, was an all-scholastic at North in 1937 and his uncle, Tom Fitzgerald, a North assistant coach, was an all-scholastic for the Raiders in 1944.

Leone, Rickson 'Pour'

Coordinator of Athletics Carl Leone and Coordinator of Physical Education Ken Rickson performed their annual chore at halftime last week.

The pair dispensed coffee and donuts to game officials, city and school officials and other guests under the stands.

The day John Havlicek played a game... and made all the calls.

We at Dial Finance wanted to prove something. We approached John Havlicek and proposed that he play a little game with us. We asked him to call any Dial office in the Boston area at random. We told him to ask any questions about loans that popped into his head and not to give his name. No Dial personnel were alerted about what we were doing. Here, in John's words, is what happened.

"As I was dialing the number, I thought this was a pretty bold idea for Dial. After all, they didn't know what I might ask. Well, almost as fast as the phone rang, it was answered. I told the guy I was interested in a $4,000 loan and I wanted to know how long I could take to pay it back. He told me. I asked him how quickly I could get the cash. He told me. I asked what the total amount I would have to pay back on the loan would be. He told me. Then I threw in a 'loaded' question. I had heard that finance company interest rates are high, so I came right out and asked him about Dial rates. What I found out was that you can probably borrow for less some places. Like a bank maybe. But Dial charges a lot less than I thought they would.

"I was amazed. I mean, he didn't even ask for my name. And there wasn't any sales pitch. He just helped me—with no strings attached."

The kind of service and consideration John Havlicek received isn't reserved just for basketball stars. It's reserved for everybody, and has been since 1897. So next time you're thinking of borrowing, think of Dial Finance. You see, we don't want you to like us just for our money.

Visit Dial's Randolph office at 322 N. Main Street, Fernandes Shopping Center, phone 963-0400 or the Brockton office at 726 Crescent Street, Brockton East Shopping Plaza, phone 583-3420. Other Dial offices: 3 downtown, Billerica, Lynn, Malden, Walpole.

Tommy Mullen had the three goal hat trick and Kevin Cobban had three assists for the Teachers.

Brian Cosby got the fourth goal and Mike Panico, Scott Brennan, Mike Alcott and Mike Penzo had assists.

Bob Currier scored for the Harold Club, assisted by Jim Rooney.

Wollaston Theater and Keohanes fought to a 4-4 tie.

John Furey had a pair of goals and Bernie Van Tassel had a goal and an assist for Keohanes, which is still winless in three games.

Steve White got the fourth goal and Brian Duane and John Newcomb each drew an assist.

The scorers for Wollaston were John Sayers and John Coleman, each with a goal and an assist, Bob Monahan and John DeLuca, each with a goal, and Jim Sayers and Dave Allen with an assist apiece.

Kearney's 2 Goals Lead Pee Wee B's, 4-0

John Kearney's pair of goals powered the Quincy Pee Wee "B" team to its ninth straight victory of the Bay Colony Hockey Association season by a score of 4-0 over Walpole.

Jim Campbell and Jim Scanlon split the shutout in the Quincy nets.

Ken Halloran and Danny Cronin each had a goal and Tom Gerry had two assists and Len Miceli and John Jackson one apiece for Quincy.

Last week, the Pee Wees romped over Bridgewater, 11-0, as Len Miceli, Dan Sullivan, Billy Dietsch and Ed Marella all came up with two goals.

John Jackson, Mark Rooney and Dan Cronin had the other scores.

Assists went to Jeff Giordani [3], Rooney [2], George Mackey, Sean Dennis, Tom Connolly, Cronin, Miceli and Sullivan.

Shea, Mann Combine For Squirt A's Win

Neil Shea had two goals and an assist and goalie Penny Mann turned in one of his finest performances of the season as the Quincy Squirt "A" team edged first place Scituate, 3-2, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Mike Doherty had the third Quincy goal and Mark Boussy and John Carty each had two assists and Mike Hussey one.

DRY ICE MAKES BOMB

Children love to play with dry ice. They can put a chunk into a container of water and watch it "boil" and spew off gaseous carbon dioxide. Aside from the possibility of minor frostbite from handling the cold chemical, such play isn't considered dangerous by many parents. But there is one exception.

If enclosed in an air-tight container, dry ice will continue to give off expanding gases that may cause an explosion. How dangerous is this?

Take the case of the 12-year-old Baltimore, Maryland boy who placed some dry ice in a glass container and sealed it. The expanding pressure of the gas continued to build until it burst the container and exploding glass splinters severed an artery in the boy's neck. He bled to death before arrival at the hospital. I realize this is a rare case - but there may be lifesaving value in being forewarned.

Rock Dance Aids Philip Heleotis Fund

A successful rock dance was held recently at the Surf in Nantasket for the benefit of the Philip [Tiny] Heleotis Fund.

Philip is the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Heleotis of 35 Hilltop St., West Quincy, who suffered a back injury in a swimming pool mishap last July.

The entertainment was provided by Cyrus Zain and Antares, who donated their services. The Surf ballroom was donated for the occasion by Rep. William Spence.

The dance committee was made up of Robert P. Tocchio, chairman; Gail Popowitz, co-chairman; Bryant Carter, Debbie Timco, Wes T. Woodward, Frank Moody and Julie Biagini.

The bus to Nantasket was donated by the city of Quincy and posters were made by Paul Baldassini.

Ward 2 Civic Association To Hear Eaton, Elect

The Ward 2 Civic Association will elect officers at its meeting on Dec. 11, at the Fore River Club at 8 p.m. Mrs. Phyllis Bagen will preside.

Guest speaker will be Owen Eaton, superintendent of the Quincy Water Department, who is also chairman of the Board of Directors of the Ward-2 Civic Association. He will discuss the city's water system. Eaton will also bring a sample water meter and explain how it works.

Those nominated are: President, Theodore Harrington; vice president, Thomas Williams; treasurer, Mrs. Pamela Coresella; recording secretary, Mrs. Nina Mayo; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Lyons; Board of Directors, Owen Eaton, Mrs. Phyllis Bagen, Kenneth Wilson, Ted DeCristofaro, Angelo DiGravio, Joseph Ericson and Clifford Marshall.

The meeting is open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Municipal Credit Union

Elects 5 Directors

Lawrence J. Perette, president of the Quincy Municipal Credit Union, was elected a director, too, last week. Other directors elected included Robert J. Kelley, John Bille, Harold Carroll and Warren Burrell.

The election was supervised by City Clerk John M. Gillis.

Double Tragedy, Conditions Probed

'China Wall' Needed To Make Quarries Safe

By TOM HENSHAW

It was a familiar story in which only the names had been changed. Robert Hanson, 17, of Randolph, and Caroline Echardt, 17, of Belmont died climbing the ledge of Swingle's Quarry in West Quincy when tons of boulders broke loose and buried them at the base of the 200-foot cliff.

City Councillor-elect James A. Sheets of Ward 4 announced he would ask the City Council to seal off the area with high fences and post danger signs to help police to discourage people from entering the area.

And City Council President Arthur H. Tobin appointed a fact-finding committee of six, headed by DPW Commissioner James J. Ricciuti, to look into the matter and report to the City Council Monday [Dec. 17].

Sudden death ... demands that something be done ... committees ... studies ... Quincy's been through all that before with the hazardous old holes in the ground that no one seems to know what to do with.

Around the turn of the century, granite was to Quincy what codfish is to Gloucester or coal to Newcastle.

There were 95 granite companies operating 32 quarries, employing 4,000 skilled workmen and shipping some 75,000 tons of granite a year. The last quarry, Swingle's, went out of operation about 10 years ago.

But the holes in the ground remained, 54 of them at one time, to become "attractive nuisances" in the words of Ricciuti, whose department has been mostly intimately concerned with them in recent years.

They've attracted the underworld - a number of bodies of gangland slayings have been dumped there.

In 1956 a Rolls Royce limousine was raised from Echo

Lake near the Braintree line. It bore 1931 Florida plates and a nickel-plated pistol was found under the seat. It's still a mystery.

They've attracted swimmers: In 1952 little Robert [Danny] Matson drowned in Field and Wilde Quarry, touching off a frenzy of quarry-filling that has subsided lately on grounds that rubbish fill is a pollutant.

They've attracted climbers: The Appalachian Mountain Club, with the city's permission, has been using the quarries in recent years to practice rock climbing before tackling the more difficult mountains.

DEAR SANTA - Kerry Anne, 18 months, and Christine, 3, daughters of Mrs. Joan Sharp [left] of Wollaston mail their letters to Santa from special mail box in front of Baskin-Robbins in downtown Quincy as Ray Cattaneo of the Park Department and Laurie Sweeney of Baskin-Robbins lend helping hands. The Santa mail boxes, sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and made by the Park Department, are also located in front of Sears, Child World, and in the Parkingway Garage.

3 Council Recounts Loom Next Week

Don't go away, folks. The interminable Quincy city election of 1973 is not yet over.

Three defeated candidates for City Council who lost by margins of 48, 71 and 116 votes last week have taken out papers asking for recounts.

The papers, with 10 verified signatures, are due back at 5 p.m. tomorrow [Friday].

City Clerk John M. Gillis said the recount probably will be held next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Those who took out recount papers were:

Paul D. Harold, who lost to Leo J. Kelly by 48 votes in Ward 1.

Incumbent Councillor J. Vincent Smyth, who lost to Dennis E. Harrington by 71 votes in Ward 6.

Michael Peatridge, who lost to Warren Powers by 116 votes in Ward 5.

The election should have been over Nov. 6 but it was delayed until Dec. 4 by the inability of the City Council to come up with a court-ordered redistricting plan.

$79,560 In Wiring During November

City Wire Inspector William H. Pitts reports 154 permits for $79,560 worth of wiring were issued by his department during November.

Fees collected for the permits amounted to $559.

Pitts said that 208 inspections were made during the month and 10 defects noted. There were nine re-inspections and one fire call.

Msgr. John J. Allston Dies

Rev. John J. Allston, former pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, and one of the city's most beloved clergymen, died Tuesday at Quincy City Hospital. He was 78.

Msgr. Allston, who retired in July, 1970 after 23 years as spiritual leader of nearly 4,000 Quincy Point residents, was admitted to the hospital last Friday.

He had been a patient at the hospital two weeks ago and had been released after treatment.

Msgr. Allston, who preferred to be called "Father" even after being elevated by Pope John XXIII, in November, 1960, lived on Gallivan Blvd., Dorchester since his retirement.

He made his home with his

MSGR. JOHN J. ALLSTON

sister, Mrs. Mildred Hussey was reported visiting New York at the time of his death.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at Quincy Sun press time.

Msgr. Allston succeeded Rev. Joseph E. Murphy and became St. Joseph's fifth pastor.

During his years at St. Joseph's he became as much a Quincy Point landmark as the Fore River Bridge.

Msgr. Allston celebrated his Golden Anniversary in the priesthood at a Solemn Mass of Thanksgiving June 28, 1970.

Of his parishioners, he told The Quincy Sun days before his retirement:

"I love them very much and it will be very difficult, very difficult to say goodbye to them. They have been a marvelous group of people and they have been very cooperative in every way."

"5 NEW MEMBERS IN CITY COUNCIL"

"Three Recounts Loom After City Council Upheaval"

Today's headlines?

Wrong.

Those were the headlines in Quincy 40 years ago, Dec. 6, 1933, after one of the closest and hardest fought city elections until ... well, until 1973.

It'll stir memories in the minds of old timers, and in some who don't want to be called old timers.

It was truly the good old days.

Mac West and Cary Grant were playing in "I'm No Angel" at the Alhambra Theater and at the State

Theater, where Marion Davies was starring in "Blondie of the Follies", all matinee seats were 10 cents and 10 cents in the balcony and 15 cents in the orchestra for evening performances.

Luncheon in Howard Johnson's in the Granite Trust Building cost 55 cents and that included vegetable soup, a roulette of lamb, mashed potatoes, peas, homemade rolls, apple pie and coffee.

Milk-fed fowl went for 16 cents a pound at Foy's Market on Franklin St., a 20-ounce loaf of whole wheat bread was six cents at the First National and Shaw and

Eklund Real Estate on Maple St., had a six-room apartment with garage and steam heat for $38 a month. The South Shore Professional Basketball League was getting ready for its opening doubleheader at the Quincy Arena on School St.: Quincy Town Team vs. the Hingham Town Team; Quincy Civic Club vs. the Weymouth A.A.

And for the stay-at-homes, there was E. B. Rideout and the weather at 8 a.m. over WEEI, Jack Armstrong, the All American Boy at 5:30 p.m. over WNAC, 20,000 years in Sing Sing with Warden Lewis E. Lawes at 9 p.m. over WBZ, and Buck Rogers in the 25th Century at 6 p.m. over WAAB.

The Beale St. Chevrolet Co. [Duggan Bros., proprietors] announced its appointment as the dealer in Wollaston for Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks. But most Quincy people were talking about the big electoral upsets of the day before.

Only one incumbent emerged unscathed from the contests for City Council in the six wards. [The mayor and the at-large councillors ran even numbered years.]

Leo E. Mullin successfully defended his Ward 2 seat against Enoch Hall Doble by 170 votes but Doble asked for a recount anyway. It was cause for concern to some for Enoch Hall Doble was an unabashed Socialist.

John R. Shaughnessy pulled the biggest upset of the day by trouncing City Council President Eddie D. Carson 37 more than 250 votes in Ward 3.

Daniel S. Dennehy whipped Dr. Charles J. Herbert, a dentist and chairman of the City Council's Finance Committee by 80 votes in Ward 6 and not even a recount could overturn it.

It was a rematch of the 1931 election when Herbert beat Dennehy by only 18 votes.

Neil A. McDonald, a granite manufacturer and former chairman of the Republican City Committee, ousted Ward 4's Arthur V. Drohan, who was known to be one of those rascals in Quincy - a Democrat.

The closest of all the close elections was in Ward 5 where former Councillor William M. Edmonston, who was known as an "old political warhorse", faced a promising newcomer to politics named Myron N. Lane.

The incumbent councillor, Charles W. Hedges, was retiring.

Edmonston won by 13 votes [nine in the recount] but Lane was far from through in politics. He won a Council seat later on and went on to be Norfolk County district attorney.

In Ward 1, John J. Hurley beat Frederick Ames Coates, a novelist, by a goodly margin to succeed the retiring Joseph L. Whiton.

But the biggest upset of the day was not in the Council. It drew the biggest headline, too. It said:

"HARD LIQUOR HERE TONIGHT"

Quincy voters went wet for the first time in 50 years. Hard liquor was to be sold in the city for the first time since the 1870's.

The wets won in every ward in the city except Ward 5 in Wollaston. And that was hardly a surprise.

It was the home ward of Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, state president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Lighting Ceremony At Houghs Neck Sunday

Houghs Neck's annual Christmas lighting ceremony will take place Sunday starting at 5 p.m. at the Christmas tree beside the Houghs Neck Fire Station on Sea St. at Manet Ave.

The program, sponsored by the Houghs Neck Community Council, will feature singing by two folk groups. Older teenagers from Most Blessed Sacrament Church will be led by Mrs. Janice Schuerch, while a younger group from both Houghs Neck Congregational and Most Blessed Sacrament are under the direction of Mrs. Abbie Sines and Mrs. Gay Carboneau.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon will officiate at the tree lighting, while clergy from both churches will also take part in the ceremony.

William Nugent, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council, Mrs. William O'Connor and Robert Kamb are in charge of arrangements.

On Dec. 23, there will be four bands of moving carollers circulating through the Houghs Neck streets.

Dec. 19 Deadline For Filing Legislation

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) reminds residents that the filing date for submitting legislation to the state legislature for consideration by the 1974 session has been extended to 5 P.M., Wednesday, Dec. 19.

The filing deadline has been extended two weeks because the legislature adjourned this year Nov. 30, only five days before the normal deadline.

Brownell said he will file legislation on behalf of any Quincy resident. In Massachusetts, citizens have the right to free petition, he noted. Anyone can have legislation filed for consideration by the 1974 legislature session, by merely asking their local representative.

Anyone desiring to file legislation can write or call Brownell at his State House office: 727-2100, or his Quincy office: 471-4883.

CHARITY RACKETS Con artists make big holiday pitches

Copley News Service

LOS ANGELES — Christmas is the season to be wary, warns Mrs. Fern Jellison, general manager of the city's Social Service Department.

To ward off the pitches made by charity racketeers who attempt to capitalize on the Christmas spirit, Mrs. Jellison has composed seven proverbs of holiday giving:

1 — What you don't know can hurt you. Always ask all charity solicitors to show their identification cards and be sure to read them.

Most cities require all solicitors for charitable causes to carry these information cards, which are issued only after the charity has been investigated.

2 — A ruse by any other name is still a con. Postal pitches accompanied by ornate letterheads listing the names of prominent people aren't always legitimate.

3 — Opportunity does not knock. Buying merchandise from door-to-door salesmen won't necessarily help a charitable cause.

Even solicitors wearing "official uniforms" are not necessarily legitimate.

5 — Always look a gift horse in the mouth. Never make a "donation" for unsolicited merchandise that sometimes comes along with the charitable appeal.

6 — Out of the mouth of babes often comes a canned sales pitch. Sometimes this is for a bogus charity, dreamed up by a con man who is usually waiting in a car around the corner.

Children soliciting for established youth agencies should be accompanied by an adult with an identification card.

7 — Familiarity breeds contempt. A good general rule to follow in Christmas giving is to make your donations to reputable local philanthropic organizations.

They will show you identification and tell you where your money goes — how much for fund-raising expenses and how much for the actual charitable services.

- Operation Candor Not So Candid
- $2 Bills May Return
- Oil Still Going To Vietnam

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The White House, as part of Operation Candor, has been putting out information on President Nixon's personal finances. Operation Candor, however, hasn't been completely candid.

The press releases don't go into the financial favors that the President has received from his two favorite millionaires, Bebe Rebozo and Robert Abplanalp.

Not only did Abplanalp put up most of the money used by the President to purchase his San Clemente estate — the aerosol spray millionaire also cancelled the entire debt in return for a deed to part of the property.

In other words, Abplanalp put up most of the money, but Nixon wound up with the best part of the property. Meanwhile, the President is using all of the property without paying a penny rent to Abplanalp.

A confidential government memo discloses that Abplanalp also purchased a house a few doors down from the President's residence at Key Biscayne. This was done strictly as a favor to the President who wanted to get rid of a gossip neighbor.

Abplanalp paid $150,000 for the house, and then leased it to the government for $18,000 a year. When he first visited the property in 1969, he was unhappy with its condition. So he contracted for roof repairs and other work.

He submitted a bill of $1,660.90, however, to the government. Quiet questions were raised, but it takes a bold bureaucrat to quarrel with the President's friend. So the government went ahead and paid the bill.

This is a side of the story that the White House isn't mentioning during Operation Candor.

Oil Embargo Fallout: President Nixon's chief economic adviser, Herbert Stein, has stated publicly that the nation's unemployment rate will rise close to six per cent if the Arab oil embargo continues.

This is far more optimistic than the private estimates, which have been placed on the President's desk. The most accurate estimates, in the past, have come from the Treasury Department. The Treasury's experts warn that unemployment may rise to eight per cent by 1975 and 12 per cent by 1976.

The economic fallout from such massive unemployment would produce a severe recession. As factories were forced to shut down and people were thrown out of work, Americans everywhere would become uneasy about their job prospects. This would cause them to hold off purchases as a hedge against possible income loss. The result would be a drastic drop in sales of durable goods, such as automobiles and appliances.

There is one favorable factor that could prevent a serious recession. The search for new sources of energy will require a massive government investment. The money that the government spends to develop solar energy and squeeze oil out of shale should counteract the downside.

The state of the economy, in other words, will depend upon the President's policies. Economic dislocations are almost certain. But a recession isn't necessarily inevitable.

Meanwhile, the nation is still suffering from such soaring inflation that the Treasury Department is thinking about re-issuing $2 bills. They would be worth just about what $1 bills used to buy.

Vietnam Oil Priority: We not only invested men, money and our national honor in South Vietnam. We also invested billions of barrels of oil. We provided the fuel not only for our own war machine but also for South Vietnam's armed forces.

Now we face a critical oil shortage. Yet we are still shipping thousands of barrels each month to the Saigon regime. In fact, the amount of oil we sent to Vietnam has dropped only moderately since the end of our military presence there.

At the height of our bombing last January, for example, we shipped 995,000 barrels to Saigon. In August, long after our withdrawal, we sent 681,000 barrels. These are the latest figures available in Washington.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese have been hit by a critical oil emergency. Their reserves were reduced by 50 per cent after a Viet Cong rocket attack on a Shell Oil facility. The South Vietnamese need oil desperately to meet a threatened North Vietnamese offensive, which could determine the fate of that war-ravished little country.

It will take bigger oil shipments, literally siphoned out of the gas tanks of American civilians to keep the South Vietnamese army and air force going.

Nearly a year after the Vietnam truce, we are still being drained by the Saigon government.

Fuel Czar: The government official who decides how the national fuel supplies will be divided up is a retired admiral named Eli Reich. He took the job a few weeks ago, and his first major decision was to give the Pentagon top priority for petroleum.

Subsequently, the military commandeered nearly 20 million gallons of fuel originally intended for civilian use. Now the Pentagon has started a publicity campaign to convince civilian motorists that their empty gas tanks ought to be regarded as a patriotic sacrifice.

The truth is that the brass hats waste millions of gallons of precious fuel every year. Now that they are faced with a genuine crisis, they simply can't seem to bring themselves to change their lifestyles.

Not long ago, for example, the brass hats filed into Philadelphia for the annual Army-Navy game. The public was told that the military spectators paid for their own transportation. The Secretary of the Army, it was reported, arranged a train to the traditional game, and most of the passengers purchased their own tickets.

But here's the part the public was not told. Every year, the Army arranges to hold a "Commanders' Conference" during the week of the big game. The top army brass from all over the world fly into Washington at the taxpayers' expense.

This year, they made a big show of paying out of their own pockets the few extra dollars that it cost to go from Washington to Philadelphia for the football game.

• A freshman city council president? For the first time in recent history, at least, this is a possibility.

The presidency is still up for grabs and the jockeying for lead position still going on behind the scenes.

The five new councillors hold the key this time and it is almost certain there will be a new man banging the gavel next January.

It is highly unlikely that Arthur Tobin, who has been council president the past four years [a city record] will succeed himself again.

No one as yet has put together the necessary five-vote bloc to win the coveted post—the second most powerful political job in the city.

Leading contenders would have to be John Quinn, dean of the council in point of service, Joseph LaRaia and Clifford Marshall.

LaRaia, a former council president, no doubt would like the job as a springboard to a mayoralty bid two years hence. Marshall would like it to add extra prestige to his campaign for sheriff.

But, if none of the trio can muster the votes you could see a compromise and a local political rarity—a freshman councillor as council president.

Likely possibilities among the newcomers are John Lydon, Warren Powers, Dennis Harrington or James Sheets.

One way or the other, the five newcomers will decide who the new council president will be.

It's doubtful that any contender is going to put together five firm votes like, presto!

Why promise your vote to someone else today when you could be a major contender yourself tomorrow? Remember what happened to Quinn some years ago when he pledged his vote to Charles Shea early then found himself Shea's chief challenger. All Quinn had to do was to vote for himself and he would have been the council president. He remained loyal despite the temptation however, and gave the deciding vote to Shea.

Quinn has never come close to putting it all together since. Maybe this time, though.

YOU'D HAVE TO admit that the girls-Grace Saphir and Helen McDonnell—fooled a lot of the experts in last week's election and have given them something to think about.

Mrs. Saphir, making her first bid for public office, racked up an impressive 10,416 votes to incumbent Mayor Walter Hannon's 15,492. A difference of 5,067 votes.

Some of the so-called experts scoffed—or laughed—when she announced her candidacy. But they aren't laughing anymore.

Instead, they're wondering what might have happened if one of the bigger, better known names had had the courage to challenge His Honor.

Mrs. McDonnell, also a political novice, came up with an impressive 8,157 votes to place fourth in the council at-large race. And in doing so, topped Councillor Theophilus McLelland.

Female voters, of course, outnumber male voters in Quincy [27,215 to 21,982] but the girls must have picked up some male votes, too.

THERE MAY OR MAY NOT be a "message" in last week's election results. But it sure seems that incumbents aren't going to be such sure things anymore.

In recent years there has been a little too much of a few candidates just tossing their hats into the ring and automatically picking up the marbles.

Maybe, from now on, all incumbents will get challenged by serious contenders which is the way it should be.

Just because a man is elected to office doesn't mean he owns it. He should have to work to stay there.

The five new councillors should remember that, too.

MILESTONE: Max [Hum] Zides of Hum'n Strum fame and wife, Esther, are marking their 39th wedding anniversary. Congratulations. Max is now PR director at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome. His former partner Tom [Strum] Currier is in retirement in Virginia.

ATTENTION, QHS CLASS OF 1954. A classmate, Robert W. Grant, is trying to make contact with you regarding the 20th anniversary reunion in 1974. POET'S CORNER: Peter Mauroano, Jr. of Viden Rd, Quincy, has received word that one of his poems was aired recently over WHMC in Germantown, Md. The poem, entitled "Thanks" appeared in the Quincy Sun April 12.

Took Part In Original Tea Party

Quincy Man Paid Heavily For 'Making A Little Salt Water Tea'

By STEVE FERRARA

It seems you can't go anywhere without finding someone from Quincy.

Like, the Boston Tea Party. One was there, too.

Few Quincy residents might realize it but a Quincy man—Joseph Pearce Palmer—was one of the Indian-dressed rebels who boarded the British ships and dumped their cargoes of tea into Boston Harbor.

Joseph Pearce Palmer, whose father built his home at what is now Snug Harbor, was the only man from Quincy to take part in the famous raid 200 years ago. The historic event will be re-enacted Sunday.

Palmer was born July 31, 1750, son of an Englishman who came to America with his wife and brother-in-law, Richard Cranch, in 1746. The elder Palmer bought land from Colonel John Quincy, President John Quincy Adams' great grand father, for whom Quincy is named, on Shed's Neck. Shed's Neck, which was then a part of Braintree, is now called Germantown. The latter name stems from the many German people who went there for work in local industries.

Palmer's father, who fought as a general on Bunker Hill, took over the glass works on his land and hired the German immigrants living there to work in them. These people built their homes nearby and called the village "Germantown," and the name stands today. Later Palmer St., the main street leading into Germantown, was named for the Palmer family. Shed St. was named in remembrance of Germantown's former name.

Palmer graduated from Harvard College in 1771 and with his father as partner began an import business on Long Wharf in Boston. In 1772 he married Elizabeth Hunt whose father was a successful lawyer and whose sisters were called the "Watertown beauties." His future seemed assured.

That is, until England levied a tax on tea.

Palmer hated Governor Hutchinson and the British laws which he enforced—the high tax on tea hurt the Boston merchants' business. The price of tea had been lowered, but the British kept the tax on it to challenge the colonists with their authority.

Governor Hutchinson docked three ships full of British East India Company tea and was forcing the colonists to buy the tea and pay the tax on it.

The rest is history.

On the night of Dec. 16, 1773 Elizabeth Hunt Palmer was rocking her infant son and waiting for her husband Joseph to come home. She knew he had attended a secret meeting that day with friends such as John Hancock and Sam Adams.

Elizabeth jumped when she heard the front gate open, and screamed when three garish-looking Indians approached the door.

"Don't be frightened, Betsey, it is I," said the disguised Palmer. "We have only been making a little salt water tea!"

For his part in the Boston Tea Party Palmer lost his fortune and his import business.

The governor's private secretary warned Palmer that he was on Hutchinson's "blacklist" and would be sent to England and hanged as a traitor if he were caught. Palmer gathered what he could of his household and store goods and fled to his father-in-law's country home in Watertown.

That night British soldiers plundered his stores and burned them to the ground.

Palmer was commissioned a Quartermaster General during the Revolution. After the war he tried many business ventures such as farming and a salt works in Boston's Back Bay area. His business failures forced John Hancock, who had lent his father money, to foreclose on their home in Germantown. He never managed to regain his prosperity and died in 1797 after falling off a bridge in Woodstock, Vt.

According to H. Hobart Holly, president of the Quincy Historical Society, Palmer is believed to be buried in Vermont. Some of Palmer's direct descendants are reportedly still living in Quincy.

This weekend has been proclaimed a commemorative one in Boston to mark the 200th anniversary of the actual Boston Tea Party. On Sunday a staged raid on the Beaver II, a replica of one of the tea ships, will be a prologue to Boston's bicentennial celebration which will begin on April 18, 1975.

Quincy's bicentennial program is being planned along the same lines as Boston's. According to Rev. John R. Graham of the United First Parish Church in Quincy Square and who heads the study committee planning Quincy's bicentennial celebration, the bicentennial years are "an occasion for permanent improvement of historical sites and developing adequate ways to interest tourists in coming to Quincy."

In other words, the idea is to develop a permanent tribute to Quincy's history, rather than to stage a temporary celebration. In the planning stages are a tourist information center, MBTA mini-bus service to historical sites, and the hiring of a coordinator of bicentennial activities for the celebration years.

As the Rev. Graham puts it, "we don't feel money should be used to fund a momentary celebration that should be on-going."

•Youth Speaks Out

• The latest in Operation Candor: Rosemary Woods is now "inoperative".

• It looks like the race is over and Nixon got to the tape first.

• Russia and China should be very prosperous in 25 years or so. It seems every enemy of the U.S. becomes a world economic power. West Germany and Japan were "destroyed" in WW II and now they're economics are in better shape than America.

• Not everybody is bothered by the lights out - energy saving policy. Many teenagers on Saturday night dates like the idea.

• It took Nixon 50 years to amass a personal fortune of over $200,000, but give him just four years as President and now he's a millionaire.

• Carl Yastrzemski is thinking of playing ball in Japan. With a name like that he might fit in very well.

QJC Students Plan Christmas Party For Needy Children

The annual Christmas Party for underprivileged children at Quincy Junior College has been planned by the Student Government.

Donations of money, food, and toys for pre-school children are being solicited, and may be left at the Student Government desk in the main floor hallway of the College.

As a prelude to the event, the Student Government realized more than $200 from a recent Fund Raising Party. In an effort to make the Christmas of more than 30 youngsters a day to remember, the students are conducting a raffle, and the 20 winners will have a visit of Santa Claus to their homes on Christmas Eve. Anyone interested in assisting in this endeavor may do so any weekday at the College.

Assisting in the role of Santa Claus again this year will be Mark Tenofsky, Class of 1972. Tenofsky received a personal letter of gratitude from President Richard M. Nixon for his visits to hospitalized children in the Boston area.

Tell in-law to pack bags

By PAT and
MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My husband's brother has been living with us for six months. He is an able-bodied young man, 24 years old, who refuses to work. He claims to have a degree from college. I know he did attend for four years but has never done anything except work on a cruise ship. He is always saying how he loves to travel so I guess he did like that one job.

Whenever I suggest to my husband that he kick this bum out, he gets very upset and says he can't treat his own brother this way. I'm tired of washing, ironing and cooking for this guy. What can I do?

Sick of it?

Dear Sick:

You'll be doing yourself and your brother-in-law a favor if you tell him to do what he enjoys — pack his bags and travel.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

In a recent column a mother was going to visit in a city where her daughter lived and shared an apartment with a young man. The mother was wondering how to introduce this young man to her friends. Well, her problem is small compared to mine. She just visits in the city where her daughter is. I live in the same house with my mother and her friend. Just how am I suppose to introduce this man to people?

A few weeks ago the gang came by for pizza after bowling and I could feel my face getting red when I introduced them to Joe (not his real name). To be fair I must say that Joe is great. He is nice to my friends, wonderful to my mother, and I am always encouraged to bring my friends to the house for parties or refreshments. In fact, they all like Joe very much. But I feel that everyone knows my mother is living with this man and not married.

Embarrassed

Dear Embarrassed:

You do not owe an explanation to your friends. They probably don't know, and certainly don't care, whether your mother is legally married or not. Simply introduce Joe and let it go at that.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My husband never sits down at the table to eat a meal with the family. He parks himself in front of the television and eats off a tray. The children — there are four — and I eat at the table alone. I feel that having dinner as a family is important. I've explained this to my husband but it hasn't helped at all. He claims he likes the silence. What can I do?

Eating Alone

Dear Eating Alone:

You could all move to the TV room. With four children this would most certainly end the silence. Dinner should be a family affair. Tell Hubby to try it. He may like it.

CHILD'S PLAY

Make your own gift tags

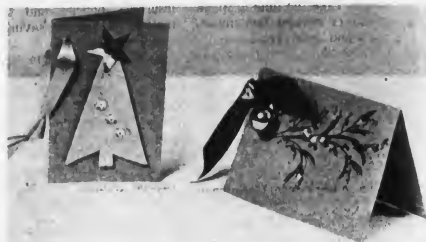

By BUKOKER &
HUNTSINGER
Copley News Service

Some people even have their Christmas gifts for under the tree all ready and wrapped. However, don't be like one lady who parceled all her gifts, then found she had forgotten to put labels on each one. It took some doing to find out who got what.

Gift tag enclosures are almost as important as the fixings and wrappings themselves because it is maddening for either the sender or the receiver to lose the identifying label. Equally irritating is to have a parcel tagged all right, but later find its surface has been smudged so the name of the donor is illegible.

You can solve this minor yet quite important problem by being certain all the gifts you put under the tree are well identified. What's more, here's a chance to be creative and, at the same time, save quite a bit of money making gift tags rather than buying them.

Materials needed are scraps of colored construction paper, bits of bright felt and ribbon, sequins, gold stars or seals and glitter, all of which can be cut, arranged, and pasted attractively.

Make your name tag so it is proportionate in size with the gift that will be bearing it. Use colors that either blend or contrast appealingly. A folded rectangle book shape keeps the inside message both private and protected after you have written it. Use a paper punch or sharp scissors point to poke a hole in the left hand corner for ribbon with which to attach it to the parcel.

Then decorate the outside.

Cut felt shapes such as the tree in the accompanying illustration. Ornament it as desired. Or, use a felt pen to sketch a tree branch as the other sample suggests, then sprinkle glue and glitter to highlight it. Add a tiny ball for a festive touch.

Actually, the possibilities are almost endless. And each present you give will have a decidedly different and distinguished look about it. This will show in the festive way the tag says "I care about you" and so special greetings are sent by "ME."

Holds record for showering

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

My newspaper recently carried a story about an 18-year-old boy, David Foreman, from Niagara University — appropriately enough — who took a shower that lasted 7 days, 7 hours and 7 minutes.

What's so unusual about that? He claims a record for continuous showering.

Well, David, I hate to throw cold water on you, but my son has been in the shower for almost a year. Ever since he entered high school, the water's been running. Day and night he's at it.

At first, I was grateful. "Listen to that," I said to my husband, "He's taking a shower without threat of violence."

My husband opened the bathroom door to see for himself and was immediately surrounded by a cloud of steam.

"I think," he said through the mist, "the kid's fainted." But he was wrong. What my husband thought was an inert form on the bathroom floor was actually strips of wallpaper which had peeled from the steam.

But no matter — even at 14 a roll — for I have found that I can grow house plants after all. Thanks to those humid showers, I now have a botanical garden in my bathroom rivaling any in the city. Moss, spores, all sorts of green things sprout from the walls.

And the shower goes on. It's gotten to be a little much now, however. I mean, when his father has to go next door to shower, when I have taken to using the garden hose at 1 a.m., when his sister is solving the problem by sponging on a quart of Chanel No. 5 a day, it's time to call a halt.

But he has the radio turned up so loud he can't hear me. And to think this is the same kid whose excuse for not taking a bath in the sixth grade was that he had just taken one the day before the day before yesterday.

But I suppose I shouldn't argue with my blessings. I do have the botanical gardens, and if David Foreman will only admit it, a son who holds the record for continuous showering.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Social life may deplete your energies, but it is a real fun time. Take the time to make mate or partner feel important and loved. Trust your intuition about what the future holds — a new phase begins.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Translate your dramatic, dreamy tendency to realistic action. Analyze cause of conflict in work area. Get advice from wise associate to make a decision. Get work out of the way first — then play.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Remain calm in the face of seemingly confused associates. Entertaining at home may conflict with work, but you really enjoy it. The changing scene in family holiday gatherings triggers nostalgia.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Trust your ability to ad lib if called upon to present projects not entirely ready. Let practicality keynote your gift buying. Guard health carefully by dressing warmly and avoiding draughts and exposure.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Watch your budget now — curb extravagant tendencies. Finish up projects to make time for festivities coming up during the holidays. Examine insurance policies and tax matters for possible savings.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — All signals are go for you now. Opportunity abounds — use inspirational ideas. Some Virgos will receive a promotion and/or salary increase. Become involved in friendly discussion groups.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Express your dynamic energy in work areas to complete projects before the end of the year. Good time to present projects, ideas to superiors. Be receptive to helpful criticism. Forgive past hurts.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Meditate on problems — take time alone to think. Reach conclusions regarding the future and personal ambitions. Accept responsibility in your profession. Come out of your shell and enjoy parties.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — As rushed as you are, your organizational skills will see you through. Enjoy and relish friendships. Lift the spirits of coworkers with your sense of humor. Professional support is evident.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Hang in there and complete projects before the deadline. Personal gratification is your sweet reward. Call on your versatility and display hidden talents. Relax and enjoy social life mid-week.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Use diplomatic talents to bring harmony to discordant groups. Charitable activities in keeping with the holidays will bring much joy and satisfaction. Professional support is indicated — keep plugging.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — A change of residence is possible. Adjustments which will add to your security should be in progress. Enlist the aid of family members. Now is the time to put your philosophy to the acid test.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Day dreaming worries wife

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst

Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I have been happily married for 10 years and have four lovely children. I love my husband deeply and would never want to lose him. Yet, I constantly have day dreams of being married to other men, mostly popular personalities. I have guilt feelings about this, but can't seem to stop. Why do I do this? Do you think I could be watching too much television? — E. Z.

Dear E. Z.:

It's obvious! Millions of television dollars are spent each year to bring sex-idols to your screen so you will dream. If one did not do it he is soon replaced. If one channel doesn't "turn you on" another one will.

Seen in your heavy writing, you love a colorful life, rich foods, plush carpets, velvet gowns, and handsome men. You want to occupy a place of recognition, seen in the large loop on capital W. And what images you can conjure up in that dreamy little mind of yours of something that doesn't exist, but which you would like to produce in reality. This vivid imagination, seen in the large lower loops, is working overtime, as it enlarges upon all your urges and desires.

A few day dreams now and then are fun. But, when your life becomes a world of dreams, you have to start making some effective adjustments to life as it is, not as you dream it to be.

If you just realized your unusual writing potential, you could turn the tables on these commercial day-dream creators. The rhythm of your writing, the printed s's, the large lower loops, and other strokes not reproduced, could vent those dreams right out of your mind onto the written page for all the world to enjoy.

Try to recognize your potential. Put some of those images down on paper. Then, work toward a story about your dreams. Produce it. It just might sell.

D. J.

News Notes

College Visitors, Energy Crisis

Representatives from various colleges will be visiting the Quincy High School Guidance Office as scheduled here:

Dec. 14 - New Hampshire
Dec. 17 - St. Michael's
Dec. 19 - West Point

Open Houses for each department are continuing. The next scheduled Open House is for the Business Department Wednesday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Quincy High is doing its part for conserving energy by observing the following rules:

- Insofar as possible the building temperature will be kept at 68 degrees. Students and staff who feel uncomfortably cool at this temperature should wear sweaters and/or other warmer clothing.

- Night time building temperatures will be lowered to 50-55 degrees. [Except in case of night time building use in specific areas.]

- All electrical equipment which is not in use shall be shut down, including lights in unoccupied classrooms, storage areas, cafeterias, gymnasiums, basements, etc. It is the intention to power down the buildings to a minimum level without jeopardizing public safety, the instructional program or the physical plant.

- All windows shall be closed and locked at all times.

- Window shades and/or venetian blinds shall be fully drawn or closed at the end of the class day.

- Classroom doors, corridor doors, smoke screen doors shall be closed at all times.

Parents' Loan Program New Type Aid

United Student Aid Funds, Inc. now offers a different type of guaranteed loan program to help middle-income families meet tuition costs.

Unlike other guaranteed loan programs, which lend to students, loans under this program are to parents.

The maximum loan is $3,000 in one year, and the rate of interest is approximately 9 percent. Repayment begins one month after the loan is received. Generally payments are $30 per month for each $1,000 borrowed.

Cooperating banks agree to make loans to parents who are recommended by participating colleges. Colleges become participants by depositing $1,000 or multiples of $1,000 to USAF as a reserve to guarantee loans adding up to 10 times the amount deposited.

Information can be obtained from United Student Aid Funds, Inc., 845 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022.

Quincy, North Moving Into Suburban League

Next year Quincy and North Quincy will be moving into the Suburban League.

In football Quincy's league opponents will be: Weymouth North, Weymouth South, Newton, Waltham, Brookline, North Quincy and Brockton.

In most other sports both Rindge Tech and Cambridge Latin will be included.

Both Quincy and North will most probably have their hands full, as Brockton has been the football powerhouse in Massachusetts as well as one of the finest track teams in the state.

Rindge Tech and Cambridge Latin are always strong in basketball, and Weymouth South and Newton outstanding in gymnastics. Waltham, Brookline and Weymouth North are well balanced schools athletically and have had a number of outstanding teams in many sports.

'China Wall' Needed To Make Quarries Safe

They've attracted vandals: The compound where the city stores its earth-moving equipment in the area is not only under a state of constant siege but one workman has actually been shot at as he left in his car.

What can you do about them? "Maybe the Great Wall of China with an eight-foot barbed wire fence over it would keep them out," says Ricciuti. "I can't think of anything else."

If you listen to Ricciuti talk about the quarries, particularly those off Willard St. on the other side of the Expressway, you might get the idea he's describing a battlefield. Maybe he is.

"We have a fence around our compound," he says. "It's protected by a vicious dog. There is a 24-hour watch."

"But, in the 15 minutes it takes the watchman to check the gate, we've had vandals cut a hole in the fence with wire cutters, remove a radio and break windows in the bull dozers."

"They've shot holes in all the signs and in the control sheds; they've set fire to the installation; they've even shot at one of my men with a rifle as he was leaving the compound at 4 o'clock in the afternoon."

"One of the gangs even deploys lookouts with walkie-talkies to warn the others when police vehicles approach."

"If the police come up Willard St., they run out the other roads. If we cover all the Quincy exits, they escape through the Blue Hills."

"I've thought of asking the State Police for helicopter assistance and trailing them to their hideout... but maybe I've been watching too much television."

Ricciuti feels that fencing the quarries would be difficult if not impossible. They cover an area of some 500 acres.

"We would end up fencing a lot of land that's not ours," he says. "And it's very expensive to drive fence posts into the ledge. It would cost thousands of dollars at today's prices."

"And once the fence was up it would be cut by vandals."

"The city fenced in Field and Wilde Quarry a few years ago. Vandals detached the fence from the posts, rolled up and threw it in the quarry. The posts are still standing there."

Filling in the quarries is not the best answer either.

"Last summer," says Ricciuti, "about 15 or 20 of them got in, moved the debris to one side and used to spend the nights swimming nude, drinking beer and taking drugs."

"Besides, the state frowns on filling quarries with rubbish. The environmentalists say pollutants in the rubbish penetrates the cracks in the quarry and gets into the streams causing severe problems."

A large part of the area is privately owned, which creates further problems of policing.

The city owns Swingle's Quarry and a 20-foot belt around it plus the right of way in from Willard St., according to Ricciuti. It also owns Granite Railway Quarry and seven acres around it.

What to do about it? Maybe

Ricciuti and his committee will come up with an answer for the City Council Monday.

The other members of the committee are Health Commissioner Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Fire Chief Edward F. Barry, City Solicitor Richard McCormick, and City Engineer Edward A. Leone.

Fund Raising Underway

N. Q. Boosters Club To Establish Frances M. Tassinary Scholarship

A fund-raising campaign is underway by the North Quincy Boosters Club to establish a scholarship fund in memory of a 20-year-old girl killed in a highway accident Nov. 17.

Frances M. Tassinary, daughter of Mrs. Clea Tassinary of 65 Appleton St., died when the car in which she was riding was involved in an accident on the Ohio Turnpike.

Miss Tassinary was on her way home for the Thanksgiving Day holiday from Purdue University where she was a third year pre-med student.

She was an honor student at North Quincy High School from where she graduated in 1970.

Miss Tassinary had worked as a volunteer with youngsters at the Happy Acres Day Camp sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department.

She received the Operation Kindness Award presented by United Community Services of Metropolitan Boston, the Elks Youth Achievement Award and the Quincy Lodge of Elks Scholarship Award.

The scholarship will be called the Frances M. Tassinary Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Donations may be sent to: Daniel S. Coughlin Sr., President North Quincy Boosters Club, 152 Holbrook Rd., North Quincy, 02171 or to Nicholas Panarelli, 623 Quincy Shore Drive, Quincy, 02170.

Panarelli is serving as treasurer of the campaign.

Squaw Rock (At Last) To Be Quincy's

The place where the white man first set foot in Quincy may become part of the city again within the week.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announced Monday [Dec. 3] that the State Department of Natural Resources had given Quincy the go ahead to acquire 17.1 acres of land around Squaw Rock in Squantum from the city of Boston.

Hannon said he has been in touch with Boston Mayor Kevin

H. White and has been assured that the papers can be passed within the week, thus ending more than seven years negotiations between the city.

The purchase price will be $130,000.

The site contains the Myles Standish Cairn, erected in 1895 to mark the spot where the first white men landed in Squantum on Sept. 30, 1621.

Current development plans call for a clean-up, installation of geological and historical markers and regrading and resodding of certain areas for passive recreational enjoyment.

The development, for which Quincy will receive 50 per cent federal assistance through the Department of Natural Resources' Land and Water Conservation Fund.

Acquisition of Squaw Rock is one element in Hannon's Acquisition and Improvement Program proposed to the City Council last March.

Atlantic Junior Parent Conference Schedule Listed

The Atlantic Junior High School guidance department announces the evening parent conference schedule for the month of December, at the school's guidance offices:

Monday, Dec. 17, 6:30 - 8:30 P.M. Parents of students in Grade 8, Alpha, Beta and Gamma Teams. Counselor, Miss Laura Asci.

Monday, Dec. 17, 6:30 - 8:30 P.M. Parents of students in Grade 7, Alpha, and Beta Teams.

Sacred Heart Students Entertain Seniors

Seventh graders from the Sacred Heart School presented a Christmas play about Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus last week in the auditorium of 1000 Southern Artery.

It was the first of four entertainment programs to be given there by young people during the Christmas season.

A glee club from one of Quincy's elementary schools will sing for the senior citizens Dec. 16 at 3 p.m. on the same program with an adult group, the Catholic Alumni Choral.

The Quincy Point Junior High School 60-voice Girls' Glee Club and the 20-piece school band will perform a Christmas concert at 11 a.m. Dec. 19.

The Senior Pilgrim Fellowship group from Quincy Point Congregational Church will make its annual visit to sing Christmas carols in the North Wing Lounge Dec. 23 at 7 p.m.

Master Builders Association Re-elects Roger Lyons President

The Quincy Master Builders Association held its annual meeting recently and re-elected Roger B. Lyons of Montclair as president for 1974.

Also elected were Louis G. Ouellette, vice president; Larry Young, secretary and Albert J. Marchionne, treasurer.

The Board of Directors includes past presidents Richard Ambrosia and Richard C. Settles, and Irving Brown, Ralph A. Cappola, Gordon N. Poulos, Paul J. Reynolds, Harold D. Williams and Peter O'Connell.

The association noted that its purpose is "to be familiar with the most modern building products, engineering and financing techniques, and to produce quality buildings in the proper atmosphere."

Police Will Distribute March Of Dimes Cannisters

Quincy Police will assist the March of Dimes by placing coin cannisters throughout the city, according to Dr. Arthur W. Trott, campaign director of the Mass. Bay Chapter March of Dimes.

In accepting the assignment, Lt. Arthur Shea said, "Throughout the year the Police Department tries to help as many groups as possible with their own programs and as January is traditionally March of Dimes month, it is only fitting we give them our help this time of year."

Dr. Trott of the Children's Hospital noted that in Massachusetts alone there are 6,000 children born annually with serious birth defects. "March of Dimes funds reach many areas in prevention and treatment of birth defects," he said. "The National Foundation backs research, medical care, and education in efforts to pinpoint and correct the reasons for these tragedies."

Books For In-Betweeners

In-between stages are pretty hard to live with:

Young readers often enter this stage at age 11 when you're too big for the baby books and too young for the adult books. For you in-betweeners from age 11 through 14 the Junior Library has prepared a special booklist. It includes titles that aren't baby books and aren't adult books but are in-betweeners, like you, and just right. Here's a sample of the kinds of books that are on the reading list:

Two stories on the list are set in London, and while they have similarities they are also quite different. LINNET by Sally Watson is about an upper class young lady of 14 who runs away to seek adventure in the heart of London. But adventure finds her first when Sir Colin Collingwood offers her a ride and hospitality. His hospitality consists of a dingy, rat-infested house where he trains cutpurses and pickpockets. The plot thickens as Linnet finds herself involved in a plan to overthrow Queen Elizabeth. Based on an actual historical plot, SMITH by Leon Garfield is told from a boy's point of view. Smith already is a pickpocket when the book opens, and the pocket he has just picked is that of a gentleman who is immediately thereafter murdered! Poor Smith, used to a life in the streets, is now hounded through the tumultuous London streets by the murderers. Garfield's writing is reminiscent of Dickens', and he is a master at creating mood, suspense, and atmosphere.

WHERE THE LILIES BLOOM by Vera and Bill Cleaver offers finely drawn characters, a sense of locale, and humor in the grimmest situations. The Cleaver trademarks. Mary Call Luther tells the story of her struggle to keep her family together after her father's death. With an Appalachian cadence the young heroine describes how she and her brother bury their father in the dead of night; how she keeps his death hidden; and how she takes up wildcrafting to support her family. A moving story of the Smokies and its people.

Against his inclinations Ben agrees to guide a man on a hunting trip for bighorn sheep in DEATHWATCH by Robb White. Madec, the hunter, was cold, ruthless, and dangerous. Just how dangerous Ben discovers when Madec shoots an old man, tries to cover it up, and then begins to stalk the only witness. Ben, through the desert. You'll feel the searing heat, rock against bare skin, increasing thirst, and unrelenting fear. Survival seems impossible.

Inspired by TREASURE ISLAND, FLINT'S ISLAND by Leonard Wibberley is a robust tale that confronts the haunting question of "treasure not yet lifted." Four familiar characters walk the pages of this book. Ben Gunn, Mr. Arrow, Long John Silver, and the terrible pirate, Flint, whose treasure it always was. Set in the Salem of British America in the 1700's this is a truly piratical tale of cunning, evil hero-rogues.

Post Office Pleads - Mail Them Now!

If you haven't mailed your Christmas packages and cards yet the Post Office has three words for you.

Mail them now!

Or even better:

Mail them yesterday!

This is the week in which the Post Office usually gets a little up tight thinking about the number of unmailed packages and cards lying around procrastinating American homes. But now, with the energy crisis upon us, the Post Office has moved Up Tight Week ahead seven days.

Cards and letters traveling by surface mail should have been mailed last Saturday [Dec. 8] and parcels going in regular mail should have been sent on their way Dec. 3.

Air mail parcels should be in the mail today [Thursday] and air mail letters and cards tomorrow [Friday] if you expect them to arrive at their destinations in time for Christmas.

In order to handle the rush, the Quincy Post Office announced this week that its windows will remain open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday [Dec. 15] in order to help with the rush.

The Post Office said parcel post mailings are up this year over last year but letter mail remains about the same.

"But stamp sales are running quite a bit ahead of last Christmas," said a Post Office spokesman. "We had five windows open Monday and they were going all day."

This will be the last Christmas season for the eight cent stamp. They'll be 10 cents apiece after Jan. 5, if the Cost of Living Council gives its approval to the hike.

Cpl. Anthony Moran Returns From Caribbean

Marine Lance Cpl. Anthony W. Moran, son of Mrs. Mildred Connick of 37 Peterson Rd., Quincy, has returned to the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C., after a two-month deployment to the Caribbean.

He participated in training exercises at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and on the island of Vieques near Puerto Rico. Ports of call for liberty included San Juan, Puerto Rico, and Isabella Segunda on Vieques.

Galvin Succeeds Lydon As Rent Board Chairman

John J. Lydon, city councillor-elect from Ward 3, resigned Wednesday as vice chairman of the Quincy Rent Grievance Board, a post he has held since his appointment by Mayor James R. McIntyre in February, 1971.

Atty. Gregory Galvin, of 54 Wedgewood Rd., North Quincy, was elected to replace him, it was announced by Samuel Tuttle, chairman of the board.

Galvin is a graduate of Quincy schools, Curry College and New England School of Law. He is a member of the Quincy Citizens Association and the Mayor's School Building Needs Committee.

Robert Withee Visits Korea

Navy Quartermaster Second Class Robert A. Withee, husband of Mrs. Anne S. Withee of 114 Upland Rd., Quincy, recently visited Chinhae, Korea, while deployed to the Western Pacific aboard the destroyer escort USS Cook.

Use Bands To Expedite Delivery Of Christmas Cards

In an effort to cut down the handling and the costs of 350 million Christmas cards to be mailed in the Boston Postal District this month, letter carriers have delivered 625,000 Christmas Banding Kits to homes within the 25 cities and towns of the Boston Postal District, including Quincy.

As explained in each kit, the bands enclosed are for use in packaging Christmas cards which have been separated as follows:

LOCAL [all cards for your city or town]

MASSACHUSETTS [outside of the local]

OUT OF STATE
Postmaster George K. Walker said that 60 per cent of all Christmas cards mailed in a community are for delivery in that community.

"If the cards are separated and bundled with the appropriate bands as contained in the kits, they will be retained at the local post offices and sorted directly to the carrier routes without having to be distributed and rehandled in large centralized mail centers," he said.

The bands are very easy to use. Merely wrap tightly around the separated lots of cards and press. No moisture is required since they are self-sealing.

Where possible, the packaged cards should be deposited at the local post office where special racks have been set up in the lobby for this neighborhood Christmas mail. Additional bands can be obtained through your letter carrier or at the local post office.

Due to the energy crisis, Walker urges all customers to mail their Christmas cards no later than Saturday, December 8. The airlines have cancelled hundreds of flights that would affect the transportation of mail. In addition, earlier mailing will help in reducing the extra truck runs and the conservation of gasoline.

Zip code is most important as letter sorting machines distribute mail by zip code.

INDIAN CHIEF PINKY WARRIOR

Once upon a time, there lived a Chief named Little Pinky Warrior. Little Pinky Warrior was only a half of inch tall and his son was only a quarter of an inch, but all the other braves were about five or six feet tall. He was the smallest Chief in the world. They were honored and every night they had a celebration. After the celebration, they couldn't find the chief or his son. The Indians started a search party. They couldn't even get a sign. The next night they went to look again. They couldn't see him, so they gave up and they never saw them again.

WHEN I WAS A PILGRIM NAMED MAPLE IN 1620

Once upon a time, when I Maple, was walking along I saw an Indian and I was very scared, but the Indian said, "I will not hurt you, I am your friend." I was still scared, but not as much as I was before, and I walked a little closer and he said, "come with me I will show you my village." It was very difficult to understand what he said in his language, but I soon found out what he meant.

When we got to his village he took me to the Chief Nove-doe. He was a good chief and he wanted me to be one of his tribe. I thought it would be O.K. because I was lost and had no parents, so I was one of their tribe and I learned the Indian language and lived happily ever after. The End.

One Friday morning in Myles Standish Elementary School a very peculiar thing happened, when a boy in our class brought to our class a cocoon of a caterpillar. Something unexpected happened around 20 minutes of 10:00. Right in the middle of a test, the butterfly decided to come out into the world. After his wings were dry we let him go. The butterfly was a Monarch.

Dear Mr. Editor:
We went on a field trip on Sept. 20, 1973. We are studying rocks. We were collecting and walked over to the First Railroad site. I think the first railroad site should be cleaned up. There is glass all over the place. Weeds are all in between the granite logs. A group of school kids could go down and clean it up but we would need some tools. If we cleaned it up I think it would be a nice place to visit. But someone would have to stay and watch the kids so they would not mess it up.

Thank you,

Mary Pratt A Success As Basketball Coach, Too

By TOM SULLIVAN

Name just about any women's sport and it is a good bet that Quincy's Mary Pratt has been involved in it in some capacity.

Not too many years ago Mary was one of the top woman softball players in New England, if not the country, and starred in the All-American Women's Baseball League in the Midwest.

She was just as outstanding in basketball and as a bowler and is a rated woman official.

When girls' sports were finally introduced at Quincy and North High a few years ago Mary was the first softball coach at Quincy and the girls' enjoyed good success under her tutelage.

This fall girls' basketball was inaugurated in the Quincy junior high schools and Mary coached the Central teams which won both the varsity and junior varsity championships.

Surprisingly, this is actually the first time that she has coached basketball, although she has been involved in many facets of the sport.

"This league is a new undertaking and we have rated women officials, teams are uniformed and things look good for the future as the girls begin to get their share of the athletic budget," Mary said.

Mary has always been involved in sports and she says, "It doesn't seem possible but every year I seem to take on more things and the days just aren't long enough.

"Many of my undertakings are done to keep me 'on top' of things as they evolve out of this vast area of physical education. It is of such a vast scope and there are so many facets of it, I have found myself involved in it since entering the profession. I wish I could say the same for many other 'professionals' with whom I must work day in and day out."

Mary, a teacher at Snug Harbor School, is back where she first started teaching as a first year teacher out of Sargent College. The Central girls are in good hands and the future is bright with Mary at the helm.

"As a part of the program, I like to feel that I have been a voice in the wilderness who has been pushing for a more inclusive after-school program for girls.

"I am having a lot of fun coaching girls playing a version of boys' basketball, which we played years ago at the YMCA in the 9 o'clock doubleheaders on Monday nights as a part of the Quincy Church League."

Mary is now on a project PEPI (Physical Education Public Information) sponsored by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and the Massachusetts branch of the group.

QJC Hopes To Rebound After 3 Losses

After an outstanding start, the Collejons played Bristol Community College at Fall River. Monday they will host Newton Jr. College at 7:30 at Quincy Voc-Tech and Wednesday will be home to Mass. Bay.

Last night [Wednesday] the Collejons played Bristol Community College at Fall River. Monday they will host Newton Jr. College at 7:30 at Quincy Voc-Tech and Wednesday will be home to Mass. Bay.

Ken Furfari, former Quincy High star, led Bridgewater State Junior Varsity to an 85-64 win in QJC's latest outing. He scored 26 points.

Quincy led, 42-37, at the half but was held to 18 points in the second half while Bridgewater added 32 points.

For QJC Ed Barrett had 20 points, John Mullen 18 and Brad Martinson 10.

In its previous game Quincy dropped a 78-77 heartbreaker to Wentworth when it suffered a cold streak after leading at halftime, 37-31.

Mullen had a great night with 33 points, Barrett had 15 and Jim Hurley 16.

Earlier QJC had dropped an 88-75 decision to Massasoit Community College despite the efforts of Barrett with 23 points, Hurley with 17, Mullen with 16 and Don Small with 13.

The Collejons had opened their season impressively with a 98-56 romp over Bryant and Stratton, breaking the game wide open with a 63-point second half.

Hurley had 18 points, Mullen and Bob Sylva with 12 apiece and Small 10.

The woman who was sent in to replace John Havlicek

Our story begins the day we at Dial Finance approached John Havlicek and asked him to endorse our company.

Naturally, John wanted to know more about Dial before he agreed to the endorsement. So we arranged a little experiment.

Without alerting any Dial personnel, we had John call several of our offices with questions concerning loans—interest rates, monthly payments, etc. In every case, John's questions were answered promptly, directly and courteously. Nobody gave him a sales pitch. Or pressured him. Or even asked his name. Not once.

Needless to say, John was impressed. He began seeing that Dial was a different kind of finance company.

Next, to illustrate another dimension of Dial service, we told John about our unique Best Buy Shopping Service, a free, no-obligation way to become a better informed shopper. We explained to John that every Dial office was equipped with a library of respected consumer publications. And that everybody was invited to stop in, browse through the publications and take down information on a whole spectrum of consumer products ranging from toasters to automobiles. The Best Buy Shopping Service details data on brand features, performance, reliability and discount prices. What's more, while John was comfortably seated, absorbing facts, he could rest assured that he wouldn't be rushed or pressured or even approached.

But John made the point that if he stopped in at a Dial office, he would probably be recognized. So the test might not be a fair one. Point well taken. However, he suggested that his wife, Beth (the woman in the picture), go in his place. She did. And here's what she reported:

"As I walked into the Dial office, a pleasant young woman smiled and said 'hello'. I told her that I wanted to use the Best Buy Shopping Service and took a seat at the Consumer Library desk. The woman asked if I'd like a pencil and paper to jot down notes and I said 'yes'. Then I went through the publications for a full hour. Nobody ever bothered me.

"By the way, since John loves to go fishing, I had been planning on buying him some tackle for Christmas. The library proved invaluable in providing me with information on fishing equipment. In fact, I made up my mind about the specific equipment I wanted to get...and the price I should be paying for it.

"All in all, I'd say it was an extremely pleasant and useful experience. I had no idea any finance company has these kinds of services."

We hope that, like Beth Havlicek, you avail yourself of the Dial Best Buy Shopping Service. Or let Dial help you in any way. We want to prove to you that we don't want you to like us just for our money.

Visit Dial's Randolph office at 322 N. Main Street, Fernandes Shopping Center, phone 963-0400 or the Brockton office at 726 Crescent Street, Brockton East Shopping Plaza, phone 583-3420. Other Dial offices: 3 downtown, Billerica, Lynn, Malden, Walpole.

Hayes Paces Pee Wee A's Over Hingham, 4-1

Bobby Hayes had two goals and an assist and Johnny Mullin three assists last week as the Quincy Pee Wee "A" team whipped Hingham, 4-1, in a Bay Colony Hockey Association game.

Eddie Kane and Scott Richardson had the other goals and Robbie Craig an assist.

They went down to their third defeat of the season, 6-3, to Columbia despite two goals by Eddie Marella.

Kevin McGrath had the other goal and Eddie Kane and Tommy Brennan had assists.

The Pee Wee "A" team split a pair of games the previous week, edging Scituate, 3-2, and losing to powerful Canton, 4-2.

Eddie Kane, Brian Norton and Scott Richardson were the goal scorers in the Scituate contest, assisted by Leo Doyle, Tommy Brennan and Mike Furey.

Brennan and Johnny Mullin had the goals against Canton with Bobby Hayes and Bryan McGilvray drawing assists.

In a non-league contest, Quincy blanked Randolph, 2-0, with Hayes and Mullin getting the goals and Doyle and Kane the assists.

Bobby Hayes was elected captain of the Pee Wee team with Bryan McGilvray, Mike Furey and Eddie Kane selected alternate captains.

Bantam A's Win

Tommy Cahill fired three goals as the Bantam "A" team defeated Scituate, 3-0.

Brian Bertoni assisted on two of the goals.

The Nov. 24 scheduled contest with Weymouth was postponed to allow the Quincy team to make a trip to Canada.

Raiders Open Tonight At Abp. Williams

North Quincy's basketball team, stripped of all starters from last year's Eastern Mass. tourney team, opens its season tonight [Thursday] at Abp. Williams and starts its final Greater Boston League season Tuesday at Everett.

North, with Quincy, moves into the Suburban League next year.

Coach Bob Nolan will be going with his smallest club ever with no one over 6-2 and he will be relying on speed, good shooting and a solid defense, always a strong point with a Nolan-coached team.

Last season the Raiders had to win eight of their last 10 games to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tourney and were equal to the task as they won nine, including a stunning upset over champion Medford. They lost to Dufree of Fall River in the opening round. From that club only Co-Capt. Steve Miller [5-9] is a letterman, and Co-Capt. Gerry Phelan [5-11] and John Flynn [5-10], coming off a brilliant football season, are the only other players with any varsity experience.

They are seniors and other seniors fighting it out for varsity berths are Steve Maloney [5-8], Steve Orlando [5-9], Rich Coughlin [5-11], Frank Schuler [6-0], and Joe Carroll [6-2], a fine football player playing basketball for the first time.

Juniors, all up from Eddie Miller's successful junior varsity team, are Tim Clifford [6-2], John Rable [5-9], John Powell [6-0], Walt Melton [6-0], Steve Martinelli [5-10], Bruce Shea [5-9], Mark Reale [5-11], Mike Bray [5-10] and Bill Driscoll [5-10].

"This is my smallest club and we will have to rely on quickness and a strong defense," Nolan said. "We have good potential and the boys have a lot of desire. I plan to go along with about 10 varsity players with the others swinging between the varsity and junior varsity. It is also possible one or two of the sophomores between the 20 working out with the jayvees may make the varsity.

"Flynn will control our defense and I expect a good deal from Clifford, Melton, Shea and Reale. We will be at a decided height disadvantage in most games and we will have to keep the other teams outside."

Nolan, who has taken nearly every one of his North teams into the Eastern Mass. Tourney, sees defending champion Medford, Somerville, Revere, Everett and Chelsea, usually the league doormat, as being strong this year. "Chelsea has one of the tallest teams in the league and has most of last year's players back," he said.

Presidents Host B.C. High In Opener Friday

By TOM SULLIVAN

Joe Amorosino is preparing his first Quincy High varsity basketball team for its opener Friday against B.C. High at the Quincy gym and he has his entire junior varsity team from last year.

Quincy's whole varsity team graduated and, with the exception of Fred Donahue, 6-4 transfer from Abp. Williams, Amorosino will select his varsity squad from last year's fine jayvee club.

Amorosino took over the varsity reins from Marty Finnegan. The new junior varsity coach is Mike Saniuk, former standout for Catholic Memorial.

"I know all the boys and that is a big help," said the new varsity coach. "We have pretty good size, good speed and some of the boys are fine shots. After our opener with Williams, we open the Greater Boston League season the following Tuesday [Dec. 18] at home against the defending champion, Medford, and this certainly will be a rough opener."

Amorosino took his squad to New Hampshire and Vermont last weekend and among the teams Quincy scrimmaged was Kimball Union, which has one of last year's Quincy sparkplugs, John Reggianini.

Donahue and Tom Perry, also 6-4, are fighting it out for center.

The Quincy tri-captains are Billy Joyce [5-11], John MacFarland [5-10], and Mike Cullen [6-2].

Other hopefuls are Mark Dwyer [5-8], Bill Dacey [6-4], Tom McKinnon [6-0], Bob Benn [6-2], Don Connors [5-9], Preston Carroll [5-10], Mike McKenzie [6-1], Bill Breen [6-3] and Charlie Dierf [5-10].

All are seniors except Dacey, Connors, Carroll, McKenzie and Breen, who are juniors.

"I plan to keep most of them on the varsity and a few will swing between the varsity and junior varsity," said Amorosino, who was North Quincy's junior varsity coach for four years before moving over to Quincy last year.

"These boys are working very hard and are learning quickly," the coach added. "They have confidence and the spirit is terrific."

Amorosino rated Connors as one of his best shooters and calls Dacey the 'most improved player'. Donahue, who played some at Williams, is expected to help out on the boards.

Saniuk, who is a Boston College graduate, has 28 sophomores and nine juniors working out on his jayvee squad and, according to Amorosino, many will be kept.

"Medford looks strong again and Somerville is a perennial championship contender," the coach said. "North Quincy is always strong and I look for Everett and Revere to be stronger this year. It looks like a well-balanced league."

Next year Quincy and North Quincy move into the Suburban League.

• Executive League

White's 2 Goals, Assists Keep Blue Team On Top

The Blue team maintained its position at the top of the Quincy Executive Hockey League last week, whipping the Gold team, 6-4, on Kevin White's two goals and two assists. Len Picot and Al McKay also had two goals apiece while assists were credited to Dave Hickey and Harry Messina.

Marty Tolson fired three goals and assisted on the other for the Golds. Tom Roberts had the fourth tally with assists going to Joe Ryan, Bill Flanders and Paul Hussey.

The Red team buried the hapless Green team, 7-4, as Kenny Halloran, Jack Hurley and Jim Deitsch each had a pair of goals. Larry Costello had No. 7.

Charlie Duffy, Gary DeCoste, John Murphy and Costello had assists.

Joe Chase tallied twice for the Greens with Len Miceli and Bob Kane getting one apiece. Bob Quintiliani and Bucky Zanardelli assisted.

Johnson Motor

Ties Danvers,

Johnson Motor Parts stepped out of the Quincy Bantam House League last week and came up with a 4-4 tie with the Danvers Bantam "B" team as Mark Ricciardi got two goals.

Mark Landry and Tommy Koelsch got the other goals and Jay Daley had two assists and John Fair one.

Midget A's Win, 8-2, Bow 9-4 In Colony Action

The Quincy Midget "A" team, its ranks thinned by the opening of the high school season, walloped Weymouth, 8-2, and bowed to the Mustangs-Vikings, 9-4, in Bay Colony Hockey Association action last week.

The "A" team had only six players for the Weymouth game but they were joined in the latter stages by some "B" team players who had finished a game of their own on a nearby rink.

Ed McDonald fired three goals, Mike McCauley had a goal and three assists and Rick Avery had three assists in the Weymouth game.

Jackie McHugh had a goal and an assist, Mike Faherty had a goal and Jack Erickson an assist. Steve Neville and Larry Curtis, up from the "B's", each had a goal.

Neville had a pair of goals against the Mustangs-Vikings as only three "A" players were able to play in the game.

Curtis and Bud Connally each had a goal while assists were credited to Erickson [2], Dennis Bertoni and Walter Pimental.

North Football Luncheon Friday

The North Quincy football coaches will hold their annual captains' luncheon for the Raider squad Friday at 3 p.m. at Walsh's Restaurant.

Next year's captains will be elected, the Jack Donahue Award, a watch, will be given the outstanding North player in the Quincy game, awards will go to North's Greater Boston League all-stars and other individual awards will be made by the coaches.

Each of the coaches will speak briefly.

Burke Key Man In Northeastern Plans

North Quincy's Tom Burke was a bright spot in a not-too-bright Northeastern U. football picture this fall.

The Huskies, coached by Bo Lyons, an all-time great at North Quincy, had only a 3-6 record but next year's prospects are extremely bright with most of the players returning.

One of the key men in next year's plans is Burke, a former standout runner at North who this year led Northeastern in punt and kickoff returns, caught 11 passes and scored four touchdowns as a sophomore.

Quincy Trackmen Meet Medford Saturday

Quincy's winter track team opens its final Greater Boston League season Saturday at 10:45 a.m. when it meets Medford at the Medford High cage and Coach Tom Hall hopes this will be a 'healthy' year for the Presidents.

Injuries and illnesses in abundance spoiled a promising season a year ago and the Presidents finished with a 2-4 league record. Hall had three or four standouts missing in every meet.

"We have the nucleus of a strong club and if we can just stay healthy, I think we can do all right," the coach said. "I'm sure we would have had a good season last year if we hadn't lost so many boys with varied injuries and illnesses."

Quincy looks especially strong in the shot put and 1000-yard run. Hall has a large number of candidates for these two events.

"I had my largest winter turnout with 50 boys reporting and most of them have stayed with us, giving us quantity," Hall said. "We will lack depth and I must develop some boys for the important second and third places. I have several who can win events but if we don't have those seconds and thirds, we will be in trouble."

In the shot put Hall has Dave Sten and Mike Varrasuo, a pair of 220-pound veterans; Fred Donahue, a 215-pound transfer from Abp. Williams who started at center on the football squad; Bob Varrasuo, Mike's sophomore brother; Bill Poppie, Tony Spadorcia and Jim French.

In the 1000 are five veterans, Gary Delorio, Fred Norkus, Ed Coletta, Ed Malnati and Tim Kane, as well as Charlie Park, Dave Ray and Francis Yee.

Trying out for the 50-yard dash are Alan Vachon, Wayne Ponder, the high scorer in football, and John Ross.

Veteran Art DiLoreto heads the hurdlers and is joined by Steve Burk, Sam Gravina and Arnie Howard.

DiLoreto is also the top high jumper with Gravina and Leo Barron other hopefuls.

Two veterans, Steve Oriola and Pete Ramponi are joined by Harry Williams in the 300, while veteran Dave DiBona is backed up by Brad Kimball, Jim Griffin, Dave Rafferty and Kent McLeod in the 600.

The top milers are veterans Arnie Vorrusso and Steve Player and they are being pushed by Chip Coletta. In the two-mile Steve Nolan, a veteran; Steve Park and Kevin O'Brien are the best bets.

Hall has been trying several combinations in an effort to find his strongest relay team.

"Delorio and DiBona have looked particularly good in practice," Tom said. "We have much the same talent which led us to an outstanding spring season last year so we should do pretty well. We have the potential and I think we will be in the thick of things."

Quincy, together with North Quincy, next year enters the Suburban League.

St. Ann's Hockey

Flyers, Detroit, 3-3, Bruins, North Stars, 4-4

The Flyers and Detroit tied, 3-3, in a St. Ann's Hockey League Pee Wee game at Shea Rink.

Scoring for the Flyers were Jack Webb, Jim Meehan and Paul O'Sullivan with assists going to Craig DiBona, Webb, Jim Canavan and O'Sullivan.

Greg McMillan was in goal for the first time and turned in a superlative effort. Dan Rowley had two goals and Frank Hogan one for Detroit, while Andy Gillis had an assist.

The Bruins and Northstars also played to a 4-4 tie with Joe Duggan and Mike Bellotti scoring unassisted for Northstars and Chris Clark and Mark Collins scoring one apiece. Assists were credited to Phil Marino and Gerard Watts. Al Vasile, Bruce Ayers, Greg Kelly and Mark Millan had the Bruins' goals and Larry Norton, Mike Capone, Andrew McDonald and Ken Johnson had assists.

The Flames blanked New York, 2-0, on goals by Chris Clark and Brian O'Leary with assists from Gary Stokes and Tom Orrock.

In the Bantam division the Flyers and Northstars played to a 2-2 tie. Ricky Smith and Marty Mulvey had the Northstar goals with assists for Mulvey, Ricky Smith and Ricky Flores. Rick Carroll and Karl Olson scored for the Flyers with assists for Steve Clinton and Pete Prasinos.

New York edged the Flames, 2-1, with Eric Bergstrom and Kevin Kelly scoring and Paul Howe, Matt Breslin, John Keller and Ken O'Connell assisting. For the Flames Joe Carr scored the goal with assists for Walter Marshall and John Gravina.

The Bruins nipped the Flyers, 4-3, for their first win as Frank LaPierre, Jim Doherty, Jim Orlando and Brian Harding had the goals and Tom Duane, LaPierre and Mike DeAngelo assisting. The Flyers' goals were scored by John Capone, Steve Bulger and Bob Gagnon with Bulger, Bill Shine and Mark O'Sullivan having assists.

FLOOR FURNACE BURN DANGER

One of the surprising outcomes of the National Commission on Product Safety's investigation into dangerous products, was the fact that floor furnace grilles accounted for one out of every five burns to children under the age of 15. They are the leading cause of burns to children under 5.

Witnesses testified that the temperature at the level of the floor grate has been recorded at between 300 and 350 degrees, the usual temperature for cooking chicken and meat. Gas-fired floor furnaces have been searing infant flesh and imprinting waffle-pattern scars for years. Contact with the skin at a temperature of approximately 155 degrees for one second will produce second-degree burns. At 300-350 degrees, the burn is instantaneous and often permanently disfiguring.

Gas-fired floor furnaces are most often found in mobile homes and in other low-priced housing. Until something can be done to make them safer, it will help to at least be aware of their danger and take your own precautions.

Tozzi Faces Big Task As North's Track Coach

Lou Tozzi, who succeeded the retired Bob Gentry as North Quincy's cross country coach this fall, makes his debut as head coach of track this winter and faces a Herculean task in trying to equal the record of last winter's Greater Boston League co-champions.

North, in Gentry's final season as coach, tied Revere last winter with a 5-1 record and as Tozzi, who had been Gentry's assistant, prepares the Raiders for Saturday's opening meet against Malden at 10:45 a.m. at the Medford High cage, he has only four lettermen and seven boys with any experience at all.

"I expect the Greater Boston League to be extremely tough and well-balanced and, as this is our last year in the league, I'd like to make a good showing," Tozzi explained. "Our biggest loss was that of the four boys who made up our record-breaking relay team, Jack Reynolds, Bob McCormick, Lee Watkins and Jack Pomerole. They averaged about 30 points a meet for us last year."

The top entry in the 50-yard and 300-yard sprints is Paul Doherty, who has done the 50 in 5.9, is a letterman and the only experienced dash man. Jack Hatfield and Mike Nee, sophomores who look like the finest young sprinters at North in a long while; seniors Dan Minton and Phil Robinson and junior Dennis McGuire are other hopefuls.

Tozzi sees the middle distances, 600-yard and 1000-yard, as North's strong points. Mark Canavan is expected to be one of the best 600-yarders in Eastern Mass. if he can recover from a knee injury suffered in cross country, and other promising runners are senior Chris Cordeiro, junior letterman John Mackey, senior Bill Lapsley, sophomores Ken O'Brien, Alan Balboni and Jim Cooney and two good looking ninth graders, Phil Strungis and Jim Mosesso.

Letterman Art Barrett, who made the GBL all-star team in cross country and who ran the two-mile in 10:40 last winter, is the top entry in the distance runs, mile and two-mile, but has been hobbled by leg injuries. His younger brother, Ken, is improving steadily and Bart Petracca, sensational sophomore who sparked the cross country team, has progressed from 5:09 to 4:47 in the mile and looks like North's best distance runner in years.

They are joined by cross country lettermen Ed Yee and Gerry Dyer and newcomers Ken McMahon and Craig Baker, sophomores, and ninth graders Tom Gallagher, Mike Cruise and Ed Carl.

In the hurdlers Geoff Hennessey ran 6.4 last year and is one of the top GBL veterans, and he is backed up by senior Neal McPartlin.

The shot put looks like North's big problem as meet entrants lack size. Paul Doherty is running number one ahead of senior Brett McGrath, Robinson, Nee, Cooney and newcomer Bruce Hall, a sophomore. The biggest hopeful is senior Joe Marinelli, a good prospect.

Canavan is the top high jumper, having jumped 5-11 last spring but, because of his injury, has had difficulty in practice. Backing him up are Mackey and Hatfield, willing but inexperienced.

Tozzi at this writing hadn't decided upon his relay team and has been training many different combinations.

"I've appealed to the ninth and 10th graders and I have been pleased with the turnout, despite having only five seniors," the new coach said. "Our talent is going to have to be developed from scratch, but with so many openings, the enthusiasm and spirit is excellent. We finished strong in cross country and the win over Quincy was a real boost for our program. If some of the new boys can develop quickly, we could be respectable but right now it looks like a long, uphill fight."

Tozzi's assistant is Tom Donnelly, a former runner at Abp. Williams.

Brett has high team three of 1299 and high single of 465. Finn has high individual three of 332 and Connolly high single of 134.

Vicki Wolfe's Team Holds Queen Pins Lead

Vicki Wolfe's team dropped eight straight last week but managed to retain its lead in the Queen Pins Bowling League with a 64-40 record.

Runner up is Doris Sunnerberg's team, which is tied for second with Ann Hebert with a 62-42 record; followed by Myrna Wheeler, 58-46; Fran Butt, 50-54; Rose Walters, 44-60; Nam Magee, 39-65; and Milly Cosindas, 37-67.

Ellie Iacabucci holds the top average at 103.6, followed by Betty Gagne, 101.6; Hazel Lewis, 99.8; Mal Adams, 99.2; Myrna Wheeler, 98.1; Bev Putnam, 96.6; Jo Brown, 95.4; Doris Sunnerberg, 95.3; Ann Hebert, 95.1; and Alice Burke, 94.2.

Ann Hebert's team has the high three of 1378 and high single of 478, while Alice Burke made the individual high three of 332 and Joan Davies the high single of 121.

Edna Walker's 104.7 Leads Women Merchants

Edna Walker has the high average in the Women's Merchants Bowling League with a 104.7 figure.

She is followed by Ellie Iacabucci, 102.7; Noreen Mastroianni, 100.3; Ann Casanova, 98.7; Terry Spencer, 97.7; Bev Putnam, 97.6; Teddy Hanley, 97.3; Elaine Rozanski, 97.2; Taffy Serroni, 97.0 and Sandy Barrie, 96.6.

The Body Smith Shop has high team three of 1436 and high single of 491. Ellie Iacabucci has high individual three of 334 and high single of 119.

Venezia Insurance leads the league with a 74-38 record. South Shore Candy is second with 65-47, followed by the Body Smith Shop, 64-48; Chiminello Oil, 50-62; Pepe's Express, 46-66 and Merry Mount Lanes, 37-75.

Ski Program Underway

Recreation Director William F. Ryan, announces that the Quincy Recreation Department's Instructional Ski Program is underway.

The first series of indoor instruction will be held at the Wollaston School gymnasium for elementary to Grade 6 Saturdays, Dec. 15, 22 and 29 from 2 to 5 p.m.; for 7th, 8th and 9th graders Wednesdays, Dec. 12 and 19 at 7:30 p.m.; and for senior high and adults Thursdays, Dec. 13 and 20 at 7:30 p.m.

William Ellis, Director of the Ski Program, asks that parents attend, if possible, with the participants of the elementary to grade 6 age group. Participants will register free of charge at the Wollaston School on the first day of their lessons.

The indoor series will include instruction in purchasing and care of ski equipment as well as the basic fundamentals including skiing safety to ski decks to be used for beginners. Those completing a series of three indoor lessons will then move out to the Heavenly Hill Ski Area, South Central Avenue at the Furnace Brook Golf Club.

Condos Figures As Bowdoin First Liner

Chuck Condos of Quincy, who last year scored 24 points with 13 goals and 11 assists, is one of 13 lettermen reporting to Bowdoin College Hockey Coach Sid Watson.

Condos figures as a member of the first line with Co-Capt. Fred Ahern of South Boston, who had 34 points with 13 goals and 21 assists, and Dana Laliberte of Waterville, Me., whose 29 points on 12 goals and 17 assists made him the top scorer on last year's junior varsity squad.

In five years Watson's Polar Bears have won 83, lost 25 and tied four.

• Hockey Openers Quincy Meets Malden

Last year Quincy's hockey team missed qualifying for the Eastern Mass. tourney for the second straight year and the third time in Coach Bob Sylvia's seven years as coach.

This year, Quincy's last in the Greater Boston League, Sylvia's main objective is to again make the tournament and he feels the Presidents will have more firepower than in the past. Quincy finished with a 9-9-2 record a year ago.

"Our big problem the past few years was our inability to score," Sylvia said. "We had a strong defense and fine goalies but we just couldn't put the puck into the net. I think we may be improved in this department this year and we will again be strong in goal but our defense is inexperienced and we have to work hard there."

The Presidents open Friday night at 6:30 when they face defending GBL champion Malden at 6:30 at Boston Arena. Monday at 7:30 they face Revere, another league power.

The goalies are led by veteran Glen Prescott, who did a fine job last year, and he is being pushed by John Scott and Mark Fanning.

Bob Boyle is the only experienced defenseman and others striving for these posts are Leo Kearney, Brian Nevin, Ron Butts, Rick Avery and Bill Bennett.

The big hopes for scoring power are junior Ted Wiedemann, a league all-star as a sophomore last winter; sophomore Frankie Guest, who recently scored six goals in a Quincy Youth Hockey League game, and John Sweeney. All are centers on their respective lines.

Wiedemann has another veteran, Pete Janis, and Pete DiBona on the wings. Guest has Steve Ryder and veteran Al Lancione at wing, and Sweeney has Ed MacDonald and Bob Costello on wing.

Another prospective line includes Bob Barry, Pete Raymer and Rick Schaefer.

"A big plus for us this year is having the beautiful new Quincy Youth Hockey rink for practice at good hours instead of getting up early in the morning to work out," Sylvia said. "This is a fine rink with very good ice and we have been treated well by the manager, Jack Powers."

"These boys are working awfully hard and they are the hardest working group I've had. We face the strongest league teams, Malden, Revere and Medford in our first three games, which will be rough. Wiedemann and Guest are great shooters and if we can work the puck to them, they will score. Lancione and Janis are experienced and I think we should score a lot more goals this year."

—TOM SULLIVAN

North Faces Medford

A year ago Coach Ron Erikson led North Quincy's hockey team to its first winning season in many years but he will have his hands full trying to equal that 8-7-5 record as the Raiders enter their final Greater Boston League season Friday night.

North will open against Medford at 9 p.m. at Boston Arena and Monday will meet Somerville in a 5 p.m. game.

"We will be inexperienced and will depend heavily upon sophomores and juniors but the spirit is high and last year's winning record, which I believe is North's first in nearly 20 years, plus getting good afternoon practice hours at the Boston Marina rink, has a lot to do with this," Erikson said.

Two of North's most experienced players, Co-Captains Jim Mullaney and Rob Henderson, will be on one line with Mike McLean, a junior transfer from Boston Tech.

Another line is centered by veteran Brian MacIsaac with veteran Andy Collier and sophomore Steve Cronin on the wings.

At this writing Erikson, starting his fourth year as Raider coach, had Mark Hurley, his penalty killing specialist, and sophomore Glenn Hanson on another line but the third spot was wide open.

Among those seeking the open sport are senior Jim Connolly, a veteran; juniors Alan Thomas, John Mackiewicz and Walt Conley and sophomores Kevin Murphy, Jim Mailbach and Dave Hurley.

Erikson faces a job big in filling the shoes of goalie Jim Fataas, an all-star last year who turned in many spectacular performances, but senior Rick McGue, who played in goal and sparked a 4-2 upset win over Revere in the final game last year, has a slight edge over senior John McKinnon and promising sophomores Dave O'Hanley and Rick Wilson.

"Our big problem appears to be on defense," Erikson said. "We have two veterans in senior Dave Noonan and junior Paul O'Donnell, who was an all-star as a sophomore, but the rest of the boys are inexperienced."

Two juniors, Frank Chicacchieri and Bob Mewis, and four sophomores, Ed Santry, a good-sized boy; Steve Keough, Steve Giglio and Greg Dillon, are the other aspirants.

If Erikson can work out his defense problems and uncover some depth, the Raiders should hold their own in the GBL. They enter the strong Suburban League next year.

Bob Troup is starting his second year as North's assistant coach.

Meyer Shines For Lafayette

Don Meyer of North Quincy finished a fine college football career recently as the Lafayette College team completed its season with a 6-3-1 record.

Meyer, who had a sensational sophomore season, was hit by injuries last fall and missed most of the season but returned this season to have another outstanding year on defense.

He had 75 tackles, third on the squad, and was a standout in most of the Leopards' games.

Frank LaVey, 72, Lectures Quincy Junior College Students

Seventy-two year old Frank LaVey lectured recently to a group of students at Quincy Junior College on "The Universal Dancegraph System, the Language of Motion."

LaVey described the Language of Motion as the world's only complete alphabet of motion, and said that his study can lead to a unity of body, mind, and spirit.

LaVey has spent over 40 years teaching motion language in medical, nursing, and dancing schools across the nation. Even at 72 he displayed a reported vibrant vitality by demonstrating exercises.

Monitor Editor To Address U.N. Council Tonight

Geoffrey Godsell, Overseas Editor of the Christian Science Monitor, will be the speaker at the third meeting this year of the United Nations Council of the South Shore Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq.

His subject will be "The Triangular Balance of Power". Godsell, who has been Overseas Editor of the Monitor since 1958, is often a commentator on Louis Lyons' Channel 2 news program. He keeps informed by reading four daily papers, 20 magazines as they come out, and an average of three books a week. Some of this reading is in foreign languages since he knows French, German, Italian and some Arabic.

He was born and educated in Great Britain and has also travelled widely. Last spring he went around the world stopped in Taiwan, interviewed Indira Gandhi in India, and was in Vietnam after Peace was declared. Recently he has been in the Near East. He was determined to go to Cairo but could not get a direct flight, however, that did not stop him. He went to Beirut in Lebanon, took another plane to Bengazi, but was unable to land because of a sandstorm. He did land in Rome from where he went to Tripoli in Libya. From there he got to Cairo after a 40-hour ride in a taxi with five Egyptians.

After Godsell's talk there will be a question period. Admission to the meeting is free, but there is a charge for the dinner preceding it at 7 p.m.

MSPCC Christmas Party For Children Dec. 14

The South Shore District Board of Directors of the Children's Protective Services, M.S.P.C.C., is giving a Christmas party for children Friday, Dec. 14, from 3:30 p.m. to 5 p.m., in the parish hall of the Old South Union Church, - South Weymouth.

Santa Claus will distribute gifts. Entertainment will be provided by Rev. Terry Martinson. Refreshments will be served by the committee, Mrs. Myron N. Lane of Quincy and Mrs. John E. Fish Jr. of Canton, co-chairmen.

The South Shore District office, M.S.P.C.C., located at 1245 Hancock St., Quincy, serves Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Canton, Sharon, Milton, Holbrook, Avon, Cohasset, Scituate, Hingham and Hull.

Mrs. Thomas D. Moore of Cohasset is president of the Board of Directors. Three trained case-workers are devoted to the prevention of child neglect or abuse, and helping the parents involved in these special problems, under the experienced direction of Miss Barbara Walsh of Braintree, District Executive.

Quincy, North Students See Court In Action

Nine students from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools visited Quincy District Court recently as part of Project LINC, a program designed to enrich their educational experience through community-based learning.

They spent the better part of two days viewing six-man jury trials, witnessing arraignments and questioning Quincy Police Prosecutor Sgt. Edward Kussam Assistant District Attorney Warren Powers and Judge John J. Crastley.

The visit was arranged by the office of District Attorney George Burke and the interviews were arranged by Burke's Administrative Assistant William McPhee.

The students were Kevin Hurley, Kevin Scanlon and Gary Derorio of Quincy High School; Ellen Bernasemi, John Guinar, Joseph Gullim, Michael Gallagher, Regina Zoia and Nancy Welch of North Quincy High School.

Koch Club Begins 18th Christmas Basket Fund Drive

The Koch Club has begun its 18th annual Christmas Basket Fund Drive to collect canned goods, non-perishable foods and money for turkeys for the needy families of Quincy.

Toys and children's clothing in good condition also will be accepted for distribution through local charitable organizations.

Thomas F. Nestor is chairman of the drive which will continue through Dec. 20.

In other club Christmas news:

● The 17th annual Santa Claus visit to shut-in children will be made Dec. 15 and 16 between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. Parents with children who are shut-in the year 'round should arrange a visit by contacting Richard J. Koch at 472-1599.

● The 26th annual Christmas party for children up to 10 years of age will be held Dec. 15 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the cafeteria of Sacred Heart School. Santa will be present to listen to kids' desires and distribute candy.

City Seeks 5,000 Gallon Emergency Oil Reserve

The city of Quincy has asked the federal government for an allotment of 5,000 gallons of No. 2 heating oil to be kept in reserve for emergencies to help residents who run out of fuel for their homes.

The oil would be given out through the Quincy City Defense Office in sufficient quantities to keep a family's home warm through the night until application could be made to the state for an emergency allocation.

City Purchasing Agent Richard Newcomb said Quincy is the first community in the state to attempt such an emergency system.

The oil, available through the Department of the Interior's Office of Petroleum Allotment, would be stored either in a tank truck or in an empty underground tank at one of several closed gas stations.

Postal Card Issue

To Honor Sam Adams

The U.S. Postal Service will issue an eight-cent postal card honoring Samuel Adams with first-day of issue ceremonies to be held at the Old South Meeting House Sunday, at 11 a.m.

The new postal card is the third in a series saluting Colonial Patriots as a part of the commemoration of the Bicentennial of the American Revolution. In 1971 a card was issued for Paul Revere, and in 1972 the John Hanson card was issued.

Samuel Adams is often credited with being the motivating force behind the Boston Tea Party. The issue date of Dec. 16 is also the 200th anniversary of that historic event.

The portrait of Samuel Adams is from an original oil painting by John Singleton Copley painted about 1770-1772. It was originally part of the John Hancock collection and was passed to the City of Boston by the heirs of John Hancock in 1836. The City in turn presented the portrait to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts in 1876 and was the Museums 30th acquisition.

The postal card was designed by Howard C. Mildner of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and will be printed in orange by the Government Printing Office.

Requests for first-day cancellations should be sent to "Adams Card, Postmaster, Boston, MA 02109" enclosing proper remittance: eight cents for the single card and 16 cents for the double. Requests must be postmarked no later than Dec. 16.

George Reardon Elected S.S. Chamber President

George D. Reardon, president of President Chevrolet Inc., President Automotive Leasing and President Marine of Quincy, has been elected by the Board of Directors of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce to serve as it's president beginning Jan. 1.

Also elected were William E. Kelley of Cohasset, president Hancock Bank, who will serve as first vice president for Program of Work, and Jack Conway of Cohasset, President of Jack Conway & Company, Inc., second vice president for Budget & Finance and Treasurer.

Reardon is a graduate of Thayer Academy and Bowdoin College and served in the U.S. Army Intelligence. He has been active in the community and is a trustee of the Quincy Savings Bank; a director of the Hancock Bank; former director of the Massachusetts Bay United Fund; Massachusetts Auto Dealers Association; former Membership Steering Committee Chairman for the Chamber; and former Chairman of the Quincy Voc-Tech Advisory Committee. He is also a member of the Quincy Neighborhood Club, Cohasset Golf Club and Hingham Yacht Club.

Reardon, the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Reardon, is the brother of Massachusetts Supreme Court Justice, Paul C. Reardon, and Artist Mary Reardon.

He and his wife, Ruth, are the parents of four sons and two daughters and reside at 110 Summer St., Hingham and Deer Isle, Me.

The South Shore Chamber is comprised of 750 businesses in Braintree, Canton Cohasset, Hanover, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Norwell, Quincy, Hancock Bank Votes Dividend

The Board of Directors of Hancock Bank has voted a quarterly dividend on common stock of 40 cents per share plus a year-end extra of 10 cents per share according to William E. Kelley, president.

The dividend and the extra will be paid Dec. 31 to stockholders of record Dec. 14, 1973.

Kelley added that this dividend brings to $1.60 the total dividend pay-out to Hancock Bank stockholders during 1973. He said that the increased dividend pay-out was made possible by a recent revision in the dividend guidelines set forth by the President's Committee on Interest and Dividends and the continued strong earnings of Hancock Bank.

Students In Carolling Programs

Students at Archbishop Williams High School have carolling programs planned for the two pre-Christmas weeks.

The week of Dec. 17, seniors will visit nursing homes in the Braintree-Quincy area and carol for the residents there. On Sunday, Dec. 23, at 2 p.m. the Future Medical Club will visit Resthaven Nursing Home, Braintree, where handmade gifts will be distributed to the elderly patients.

The group, sponsored by Mrs. Arlene Barba, R.N., school nurse at Archbishop Williams High School, comprises Sara Croke, Dorchester; Terry Brady, Erin Griffin and Candy Buckley, Braintree; Dorothy Rogg, Debbie Lawton, Wollaston and Diane Lawton, Wollaston; Mary Quinn, Quincy; Susan Quinn, Scituate, Debbie Collins and Joan McCarthy, Milton.

On Dec. 23, the "Christmas Ball" will be held in the school gym from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. The dance will be a semi-formal affair for couples only. Refreshments will be served.

Men's Club Selling Christmas Trees, Wreaths

The Men's Club of Archbishop Williams High School is selling a truckload of Christmas trees, wreaths, and evergreens.

This project, is for the benefit of the school's athletic program. Sale of the trees and wreaths will take place on the school property each weekday from 3 p.m. until 10 p.m. On Saturdays and Sunday, greens can be purchased from noon until 10 p.m.

Members of the Varsity Club of Archbishop Williams High School will assist the Men's Club in unloading, setting up, and selling.

19 Students To Compete In Speech Tournament

Nineteen members of the Oratory Club from Archbishop Williams High School will participate in a speech tournament, at Natick, Saturday, Dec. 15.

Competing in the varied divisions are:
Radio Announcing: Joseph Yankoski, Ralph Newman, Michael Duffy, Daniel Byrne, and Jonathan Kariis, all of Braintree and John Sullivan, Hingham.

Play Reading: Jody Hewett and Marie Looby of Braintree; Mary Lee Donoghue, Quincy; and Alan Cobb, South

Weymouth.

Poetry: Leah Rogers, Hingham; Kathleen Hughes and Michelle Mahoney of Braintree. Children's Prose: Michelle Mahoney and Janet Lynch of Braintree.

Serious Interpretation: Mary Beth Fitzgerald, Braintree. Original: Lou Papile, Hingham.

Prose: Beth Monahan, Braintree; Janis Ryan, Quincy. The team is coached by Miss Margie Ryan, who with former orators of the school and associate coaches, will also serve as judges.

Students Collect 'Toys For Tots'

The student body at Archbishop Williams High School is working on the "Toys for Tots" program sponsored by the Marine Corps.

Large barrels have been placed throughout the school building, where used toys may be placed. Anyone who has re-usable or re-paintable toys is asked to contribute them to this drive. They may be brought to the school during school hours.

The campaign, geared to supplying toys to children who would not otherwise receive them, will last until Dec. 20.

The students are also lending concerted efforts to collecting funds for the needy. Each homeroom, in its own way, will either raise funds or contribute funds toward a drive that is archdiocesan in scope.

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

Waggoner eyes bigger goal

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — When I first heard that Lyle Waggoner was leaving "The Carol Burnett Show," I thought he'd gone bananas, because the series not only gives him steady employment and a substantial income but a chance to work with some of the nicest people in the world. Bar none!

Everybody connected with the show from its star, Carol, to the producer, Carol's handsome husband, Joe Hamilton, is genuinely nice.

So, until I got the full story from Lyle, I thought he'd have to be nuts to retire from such a cushy job.

However, when he states his case, his daring departure from a sure thing makes sense.

"In the first place," Lyle says, "I don't want anybody to think I'm leaving Carol's show because I'm not happy with the people there."

"In fact, just the reverse is true. I have so much fun working with Carol and Joe and everybody connected with the series that I sometimes ask myself, 'What am I doing leaving a job like this? I love it.'"

"But then I realize I have to go if I'm ever going to achieve the things I want. I want to be recognized as an actor. I want to be in a position to compete for awards. Maybe you don't think winning an Emmy is very important, but in the industry it means a lot, and, as long as I stay with Carol, I'll never be in line for one."

"Last summer I went out with a play, 'Born Yesterday,' with Karen Valentine and Ed Asner, and I surprised Ed who'd never worked with me before."

"He told me, 'You're a good actor. I never knew that until now.'"

"I think I know what I can do well, and I can do a great deal more than I've been given a chance to do playing Mr. Handsome in a comedy-variety show."

Since Lyle and his wife have two sons, it might have been natural for Mrs. Waggoner to object when her husband told her that he was giving up a steady job to enter the shaky world of free-lance acting. However, she didn't say a word to dissuade him.

+ + +

Bobby Riggs and Rosemary Casals have been signed to co-star in a segment of "Love, American Style." The segment will be called "Love and the Competitors."

+ + +

Vince Edwards wrote himself a handful when he penned "Maneater," an Universal-ABC Movie of the Week which he's currently directing. While helming the picture, he's not only having to deal with actors, he's directing two huge Bengal tigers. ... Bill Shatner couldn't be happier. He just married Marcy Lafferty. On the other hand, Bob Ulrich of "Bob & Carol and Ted & Alice" has seen his marriage as well as his series go down the drain. Maybe the former can be revived.

+ + +

Susan Hayward, practically as good as new after a grim bout with multiple brain tumors, won't give an interview about her miraculous recovery explaining:

"I didn't tell 'em I was sick. Why should I tell 'em I'm well?"

What a star!

Fred Williamson showed up for a scene in "Three the Hard Way" wearing a knee-length poncho made of calf skin with antique 50-cent pieces for buttons and decorated with beads and shells. Not only was it a knockout, but Fred made it himself!

HIS HONOR SERVES — Mayor Walter Hannon and his wife Patricia served a full-course Thanksgiving turkey dinner for the second year to 150 Senior Citizens at the Adams Heights Men's Club. Senior Citizens shown being served are Mrs. Katherine Connolly and Mrs. Frances Logan. The Men's Club donated the hall for the dinner and the mayor and the Quincy Council On Aging provided transportation to and from the Club.

YMCA Directors Vote To Postpone Campaign

The Quincy YMCA announces that its Board of Directors has voted to postpone the Capital Campaign for building expansion due to the economic climate.

As a cooperative gesture the campaign was recessed last June until after the United Way Campaign. In the meantime, said a spokesman, spiralling economic conditions of the past few months that affect both giving potential and construction costs were taken into account as strong indications that it would not be feasible to resume the campaign as planned.

President Floyd J. Folmsbee praised the efforts of the Campaign Executive Committee and the strong leadership and dedication given by Campaign Chairman Charles Peterson.

Peterson expressed "sincere appreciation" to the many workers and contributors who have supported the initial effort earlier in the year and expressed the hope that when conditions improve the Board of Directors will vote to resume the expansion program.

Thayer Admissions Tests Scheduled

The Secondary School Admission Test (SSAT) for students interested in applying to Thayer Academy will be given at the Academy on the Saturday mornings of Jan. 19, March 9 and May 11.

The closing date for registration with the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N.J. for the Jan. 19 test is Dec. 28.

Students may obtain registration forms for these tests and information concerning admission by telephoning Thayer Academy (843-3580). Those interested in admission to grade 9 should contact the Headmaster's office. Those interested in admission to grades 10-12 should contact the Assistant Headmaster's office. There are very few openings for juniors next year so those planning on applying to that class are urged to do so early.

Msgr. John Allston Dies

[Cont'd from Page 1]

Despite his retirement, Msgr. Allston just couldn't stay away from St. Joseph's and its parishioners. On a number of occasions he was welcomed back by present pastor, Rev. John Downey to say Sunday Mass.

More than 600 persons honored him at a dinner dance in June, 1970 honoring him on his Golden Anniversary to the priesthood.

During his tenure, he completely renovated the entire church property at St. Joseph's. It was one of his pleasures in life.

"The people were very generous," he said. "They would give me anything and I couldn't have done all the work that was done here if it weren't for them. They are very proud of their parish and they bring their visitors to see the church."

The church is one of the prettiest in Massachusetts.

The convent garden contains a marble statue of the Sacred Heart which he placed there in memory of his brother, Frank Allston, who died in 1955.

Another statue close to his heart is that of the Blessed Mother given by the Lebanese people of Quincy Point in memory of their relatives who died in World War II.

A statue to St. Joseph in the rectory garden holds a unique place in his recollections. It was given by the Francis McGowen family in memory of their mother, Mrs. Clara McGowen. Mrs. McGowen, en route from Guam to visit her children at Quincy Point for the first time, was lost when her plane went down in the Pacific, and her body never recovered.

Msgr. Allston reflected fondly on the "popery mixture of all nationalities" in the parish which he served.

"There are many Italians," he said. "There are Irish; Canadians from Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island; there are Scotch; and the Lebanese, in the minority. This parish has at least a few of every nationality."

When Msgr. Allston first came to Quincy Point, no census had been taken and the parish was estimated as 1,900 persons. An official census soon after placed the number at nearly 4,000!

Parishioners and visitors were amused for example to find this sign posted on the rectory door: "We Shoot Every Third Salesman. The First Two Have Already Left."

Msgr. Allston was born Oct. 28, 1895 in Roxbury. A graduate of Boston College and St. John's Seminary, he was ordained June 3, 1920 by Most Rev. Joseph G. Anderson, D.D., at Cathedral of the Holy Cross. His first assignment was at St. Bernard's Parish, West Newton. In March, 1927 he was assigned as an assistant to Msgr. John J. McGarry at St. Patrick's parish, Lowell.

In 1943 he was appointed by Cardinal Richard O'Connell to the pastorate of St. Michael's parish in Bedford where he was also chaplain of the Bedford Veterans Hospital.

On May 30, 1947, Msgr. Allston was appointed by Cardinal Richard J. Cushing as pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Quincy Point, where he has served for the last 23 years. He was elevated to domestic prelate in November, 1960.

Among his distinguished classmates at St. John's Seminary were Rt. Rev. George W. Casey, pastor of St. Brigid's Church in Lexington, a columnist for The Pilot, and Rt. Rev. Augustine C. Dalton, P.A., LL.D., pastor of St. Kevin's Church, Dorchester, Vice Chairman of Blue Cross and a member of State Advisory Public Health Commission.

Survival Receives $12,831 Grant From S.S. Council For Children

Survival Inc., the multi-faceted drug and youth program based in Quincy and serving the South Shore, has been awarded a grant of $12,831 from the South Shore Council for Children, the local council representing the Massachusetts Office for Children.

Survival Executive Director Robert Hassey said the grant will be used to improve and expand the agency's services to adolescents in the area notably within court referrals, counselling, and outreach work among area young persons.

"Survival's focus has slowly been shifting from solely treating drug abusers more towards a broader service that now includes individual, group and family counselling on an out-patient basis to a number of young persons with little or no discernible use of drugs in their background," explained Hassey.

"The need to provide this preventive type of service has grown out of what Survival has perceived as one of the growing needs of the South Shore community. Such a grant as this from the Office for Children will allow Survival to expand its capacity by about 25 to 30 persons per week over what we are able to handle now at our Walk-In Center."

"Survival is currently under serious consideration for continuation funding from the National Institute of Mental Health in Washington and evidence of local support to be used as matching the federal funds is all important," said Hassey.

"This recent grant award will help us provide more service while also helping back our federal grant request currently being reviewed."

Aid Eye, Ear Infirmary

A call for help from the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary drew a prompt and eager response from senior citizens of 1000 Southern Artery in Quincy.

The appeal was for willing hands to package cotton ball kits for use in the infirmary's operation rooms. They use 400,000 a year and couldn't keep up with the demand.

Forty-eight ladies from 1000 Southern Artery turned out to learn how to assemble and package the kits and within hours they were hard at work on the project.

Brownell, Marshall Seek Clean Air Charge Suspension

Reps. Clifford H. Marshall and Thomas Brownell (both D-Quincy) have asked the State Department of Public Utilities to suspend the "fuel adjustment charge" to customers along with the low sulfur fuel oil requirement.

The requirement that utility companies burn low sulfur fuel oil in the interest of clean air was suspended last week by agreement between the Departments of Public Health and Public Utilities.

In a letter to Public Utilities Chairman Robert L. Meade, Reps. Marshall and Brownell said:

"We feel that the so-called 'fuel adjustment charge' for clean air [should] be suspended forthwith and further that any cost-savings realized by your suspension should be passed on to the consumer.

"We expect that the agreement . . . should reduce the cost of power and that any cutback in power to consumers should realize a savings from power reduction and these savings should be passed to the consumer immediately."

Houghs Neck Man Takes Part In Sea Rescue

Coast Guard Engineman Third Class James M. Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Craig of 19 Edgewater Drive, Houghs Neck, was a member of a seven-man team that prevented a flooded fishing boat from sinking in the North Atlantic off the Long Island coast.

He served on board the Coast Guard Cutter Tamaroa homeported at Governor's Island.

A 1971 graduate of Quincy High School, he joined the Coast Guard in August 1972.

PHILIP HELEOTIS home from the hospital, receives check for $5,000 from Mrs. Eleanor Woodward, coordinator of the Heleotis Fund, to be used to build a special room on the Heleotis home to accommodate the needs of the young man who was paralyzed in July in a swimming pool accident. $11,000 Raised By Friends

Phil Heleotis Comes Home For Christmas

Philip [Tiny] Heleotis is home from the hospital and the Philip Heleotis Fund has raised $11,000 to help in his rehabilitation.

Philip, the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Heleotis of 35 Hilltop St., West Quincy, suffered a broken neck July 6 in a diving accident in a neighborhood swimming pool. He is confined to a wheel chair.

"It's great to be home," Phil said with a smile as he sat in his wheel chair in front of the family Christmas tree.

Mrs. Eleanor Woodward, co-coordinator of the fund, with Norfolk County Commissioner George B. McDonald, said $10,997.77 was raised in the four and a half months since the first deposit of $10 was made to the special account on July 27.

Mrs. Woodward turned over $5,000 to the Heleotis family for use in adding a room to their home to handle the hospital bed, wheel chair and other special equipment needed for Phil's comfort.

The rest was turned over to Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, the fund's volunteer trustee, to be parcelled out as needed in the youth's rehabilitation.

The big money-raising events in the fund's drive were a dance at the Carlton House in North Quincy, which netted $3,400, two beano games, a pops concert at Morrisette Post Home and a rock dance at the Surf in Nantasket.

A large part of the fund came from business, club and private donations.

In addition, Manny Cussiana of Cadillac-Olds in Boston has promised $1,000 toward a car to be raffled off and Remo DeNicola of South Shore TV donated a television set for Philip's use. Assisting were Miss Julie Biagini, Tom and Bernice McDonald. Tom McDonald suffered a similar accident seven years ago.

Donald R. Johnson, assistant treasurer of the Quincy Savings Bank, served as treasurer of the fund.

And to all those who helped in the fund-raising, he had these words:

"I would like to thank everybody in the fund-raising with special thanks to Eleanor Woodward. Without her help, the fund would not have been possible.

"My family and I deeply appreciate all the nice things that have been done for us.

"I wish them all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

Rule Out Fencing Quarries

Grout Pile To Be Removed, Other Dangers Posted

A campaign is underway to eliminate at least one hazard and spread warnings of other dangers in the West Quincy quarry area where two young people lost their lives in a rock slide two weeks ago.

The City Council accepted Monday night the recommendations contained in the report of a special committee named to investigate the danger of the site off Willard and the Southeast Expressway.

The recommendations are these:

- The grout, a huge pile of discarded granite boulders which hurled Robert Hanson of Randolph and Caroline Echardt of Belmont to their deaths, should be removed from its location above Swingle's Quarry.

- At least four warning signs should be posted in places that can be seen from the Southeast Expressway, from Minihan's Lane and Forest Ave., from Ricciuti Drive and at the end of Mullin Ave.

- An extensive publicity campaign should be carried out in the printed press and on radio stressing the dangers of the area and pointing out the fact that that land is posted with warnings.

The report ruled out the possibility of fencing the area because of the rocky terrain, the great expense and the probability, based on past experiences, that a fence would be destroyed in a short time by vandals.

The City Council directed Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti, who was chairman of the committee, to implement the recommendations as soon as possible.

The committee was made up of Ricciuti, Fire Chief Edward Barry, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, City Engineer Edward A. Leone, City Solicitor Richard McCormick and Public Health Commissioner Dr. Alfred Mahoney.

The committee report also contained a report from Robert J. Johnson and Thomas Hayden of the Appalachian Mountain Club, which, with city permission, has been using the quarry area as a training site for rock climbers.

Hanson and Miss Echardt were both members of the AMC.

Johnson and Hayden said they concluded that the two young people were not climbing the grout when the accident happened but rather were sitting on top of it enjoying the view of the city.

"No climbers have ever been known to climb the grout pile," they said. "It looks loose and dangerous and is not technically difficult enough to be interesting. We do not believe that either climber would have considered climbing on it."

"In recent years, there has been no discussion about previous slides and the deaths that occurred in that area. Neither climber is from Quincy. We suspect that neither Bob nor Caroline knew the true danger of the pile."

Ricciuti and Councilors John J. Quinn and Arthur H. Tobin and Ward 4 Councilor-elect James Sheets toured the area for about an hour Saturday and Sheets came up with recommendations similar to those of the committee.

"We should try to get rid of the hazards, starting by bringing down the grout," he said. "And we need an educational program to make people aware of the dangers of the quarry area."

Sheets also called attention to an old, partly dismantled railroad bridge that spans Swingle's Quarry, about 150 feet above the water and 40 or 50 feet above ledges of rock.

"The floor of the bridge is four or five I-beams with nothing between them," he said. "It's one of the most attractive hazards you can think of for

Sheets recommended an educational campaign through the dangers of the live third rail on the South Shore rapid transit line.

"Suddenly 'The Waltons' is about life TODAY!"

Guess who's up on the rooftop?

By SAM STEWART
Copy News Service

If you had to guess, offhand, the most parodied poem of all time, you'd probably say "A Visit from St. Nicholas."

This is the merry verse which begins "Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house," and carries on through St. Nick's arrival, the clatter on the roof, and the rush of the old boy to be on his way, behind his "eight tiny reindeer."

Its lilting meter and the lively story it tells have put this verse in the all-time class of Christmas literature.

"A Visit from St. Nicholas" was written in 1822 by Dr. Clement Clark Moore, who was not a medical doctor but rather a professor of theology, who taught at a seminary in New York and was convinced that if lasting fame ever came his way it would be through "A Compendious Lexicon of the Hebrew Language," which he published in 1809.

But came Christmas Eve of 1822, and Dr. Moore gathered his children around him in front of the fireplace. He had knocked out a little ballad about Christmas, and in the pride of authorship he wanted to read it out loud. Once the kids were settled down, Dr. Moore began:

"Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house..."

And that might have been that, except for one thing. Dr. Moore had composed this rhythmic romp for the delight of his youngsters, but a friend who had dropped by that Christmas Eve sat in on the reading. The friend thought it was delightful... and he was impressed with the approving reaction of the Moore small fry.

The friend copied it down and took it to the editor of the Troy (New York) Sentinel. The editor liked it, too; and what's more, he printed it.

Dr. Moore, who possessed the outward dignity and serious mind of the dedicated theologian, wasn't happy at the printing. He denied writing the poem, and continued the denial for several years. He was working on a biography of King Castriot of Albania, and a poem about reindeer named Donner and Blitzen seemed a bit out of keeping.

Eventually, as he saw how the poem kept bringing delight to folks anew each year, he fessed up and basked in the glory that was due him.

But even the good Dr. Moore couldn't have anticipated his impact on America's observance of Christmas.

Until he wrote his descriptive passages about "He had a broad face and a little round belly... He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf..."

— until this portrayal, St. Nicholas had been a somewhat dour importation from Europe. Dr. Moore's poem changed the concept of St. Nicholas from that of a gaunt and bearded old saint, wearing black robes and riding a white horse, to what has developed into today's roly-poly, white-bearded, red-and-white-clad Santa Claus.

He introduced the reindeer as Santa's source of motive power, and established the rooftop as the landing field for this jovial traveler.

The name "Santa Claus" came along later, as the old boy was still "St. Nicholas" to Moore, and, of course, the Moore kids. Gradually, in the legend of the fun side of Christmas, the names became pretty much interchangeable.

"A Visit from St. Nicholas" is now usually called "Twas the Night Before Christmas," but it's still Dr. Moore's poem, written for his children 150 years ago. In all that time, nobody has improved on Dr. Moore's little story in rhyme.

Unless you want to count the addition of Rudolph to the reindeer herd.

- Dita's Delicate Condition

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — The Arab oil embargo will cause economic dislocations that could plunge the United States into a depression.

I have been trying to find out, therefore, what chance there is that the Arabs will lift the embargo. I have had access to secret intelligence reports from the Middle East. I have also talked with Ahmed Yamani, the Saudi Arabian oil minister.

Secret studies warn that, as a practical matter, the Arab oil fields cannot be taken over by military force. The United States must rely upon the negotiating ability of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to persuade Saudi Arabia to turn on the oil spigot again.

Kissinger has already made headway with the Arabs. He seems to have persuaded them that he will use U.S. influence to seek an Israeli pullback to its 1967 borders. In turn, most of the Arab states — including Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia — have agreed to accept Israeli sovereignty within the pre-1967 war boundaries.

The Saudis have promised to lift the oil embargo as soon as an agreement is reached, without waiting for the actual Israeli withdrawal. Yamani told me he expected the embargo to end next year. He also said Saudi Arabia would be willing to boost its oil production to 20 million barrels a day, more than twice the eight million barrels that came out of Saudi Arabian oil fields before the fighting.

The only question is whether Israel will agree to give up the captured Arab lands. Kissinger has reported that the Israeli leaders are stubborn — but softening.

SAD Censors: For the past decade, the government has had a standby plan to censor the news and the mails in time of war. The Board of Censors consisted of eight prominent Americans, many of whom were members of the press. The censors even had a secret office complex, located on the campus of Western Maryland College in Westminster, Md.

Not long ago, the federal government began retiring its standby censors. But the censorship program is far from dead. It has now been entrusted to a military reserve group called SAD.

The acronym stands for "Special Analysis Division."

About a year ago, this group of military intelligence specialists was caught keeping a "national watchlist." The watchlist, it was reported, included the names of American citizens who would be kept under surveillance in time of national emergency. It also turned out that convicted Watergate conspirator James McCord was a member of the SAD group.

But now, these military reservists have an even more nefarious mission. They meet once a month to develop "censorship policy." They are preparing plans for a censorship code, which, in time of war, would be supplied to the news media. It is supposed to be voluntary, for use only in a grave emergency.

We asked the government official in charge of censorship planning what he would do if ordered to censor the media in any situation short of war. He quickly replied, "I already thought about it. I'd resign as fast as I could sign the letter."

Look to Ford: Republican leaders are turning to Vice President Gerald Ford to save the party from the Watergate wreckage.

They have quietly urged President Nixon to put Ford in charge of the nation's domestic affairs. They have offered two arguments: First, it would free the President to concentrate on foreign affairs which is his specialty. Second, it would restore public confidence in the Administration's domestic policies.

Ford is no glamour politician who will excite the public. But he has an open, honest quality that inspires trust. Republican leaders believe he will grow on the voters. They are counting on him to reassure the public that the Watergate morality has been replaced by solid, Midwestern Republican virtue.

The GOP leaders want the President to appoint Ford to head the Domestic Council, giving him full authority to run the government's domestic side. They are counting on the two political professionals at the White House, Melvin Laird and Bryce Harlow, to sell this proposal to the President.

The only trouble is that Laird and Harlow don't seem to have much influence on the President. Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater has complained privately that the President is taking his political advice from two political amateurs, Alexander Haig and Ron Ziegler.

Apparently, they look upon Ford more as a public relations front man who is expected to devote himself to defending the President. Nixon has never liked to give up authority.

But outside the White House, party leaders already are starting to look more to Ford and less to Nixon as their standard bearer.

Dita's Delicate Condition: It has been almost two years now since the name Dita Beard first popped up in the headlines. She was the crusty ITT lobbyist who wrote the famous memo which outlined ITT's plans to put up $400,000 to underwrite the 1972 Republican convention.

The ITT affair became the subject of a Senate Judiciary Committee inquiry. But the brassy Dita Beard was nowhere to be found. She finally turned up in a hospital in Denver, Colo., with a mysterious heart ailment. The Senate committee packed up and flew to Denver to question her. But another attack suddenly beset the distraught Dita when the senators started asking her awkward questions. The ITT affair was left hanging and Dita Beard slowly faded from public memory.

We checked on Dita's whereabouts a few months ago and found she was still in Denver, drawing her full ITT pay. Her lawyer told me she was in poor health and would probably never return to Washington. Her family doctor also said she had suffered another "relapse." This differed, curiously, from the diagnosis of the doctors who were assigned by the Senate to examine Dita. They found "no objective evidence of a heart attack."

Now Dita has popped up again. Our sources reported seeing her in Las Vegas. She was whooping it up just like she used to do in the backrooms of Washington. She looked quite healthy, the sources said, and she appeared to have overcome her delicate heart condition.

Sunbeams

By HENRY BOSWORTH

On the surface it may not look like it, but there's a lot of behind-the-scenes campaigning going on for the vice-chairmanship of the School Committee.

Insiders report that five of the six members-including one newcomer-are seeking the post that becomes vacant with the retirement of Paul Kelly in January. The five: Frank Anselmo, Harold Davis, Frank McCauley, Charles Sweeney, all present members and Committeeman-elect John Sullivan.

The only one who isn't a candidate apparently is Atty. Daniel Raymond. [Mayor Walter Hannon, a member by virtue of his office as mayor, is chairman].

Of the contenders, Sweeney, senior member by length of service, already has been vice-chairman, but would like the job again. Anselmo, second in point of service, figures this is his last term and would like the prestige of being vice-chairman before he calls it a career.

Both McCauley and Davis who will be starting their third year on the board, would also like it for the honor.

Sullivan, according to the insiders, feels he deserves a shot at the job because he was the top vote-getter in this year's school committee race - out-polling both Sweeney and Anselmo.

It will take four votes to tango. Right now the contenders can count on only one-their own.

INFORMED SOURCES who read last week's Sunbeams column, think we wrote Arthur Tobin off too early for the council presidency.

Although there are five new councillors taking their seats in January, it apparently doesn't necessarily mean that Tobin will be relinquishing the gavel he has held for the past four years.

Insiders say: "Don't count Arthur out."

FOR YEARS NOW, a certain few of the local pols have been keeping a close eye trained toward Washington. Not on Nixon, but on Congressman James A. Burke.

Seems everytime Burke sneezes, stubs a toe or loses a pound, the rumors start flying that he is seriously ill. And the local pols start warming up their campaigns.

So, when Mayor Walter Hannon was down in Washington the other day checking on funds for Quincy for its bicentennial celebration 1975-76, observers report Burke asked him to deliver a message:

"I'm very healthy as you can see. If any of the boys back home have any ideas [about running] tell them to forget it."

Incidentally, there isn't one of them back here who could touch Burke in an election.

EARLY BIRD: Barry Hannon, Norfolk County Registrar of Deeds, already has bumper stickers out in his campaign for attorney general. But he's not expected to make an official announcement until early January.

Dist. Atty. George Burke reportedly is still mulling over a run for that post.

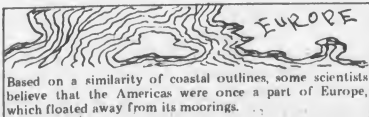

MEANWHILE, Quincy's Peter Macdonald reportedly is the unofficial campaign coordinator for unannounced gubernatorial candidate, Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn. Macdonald resigned his assistant attorney general's post a short while ago. Both are expected to make it official with announcements soon.

DOWNTOWN QUINCY'S SANTA wouldn't mind making it a year-round job. Tom Tehan reports Santa really enjoys chatting with the kiddies at the Rite Aid store. And this year there's a nice fringe benefit. Seems the fad this year is for high school girls and young women is to have their pic taken with Santa - sitting on his knee. [Nice work if you can get it.]

SMILE DEPT: From the Quincy Rotary Club Newsletter:

A workman was perched on top of a ladder, cleaning the clock above the entrance to the church in Quincy Center as Dr. John McIver walked past. "Something wrong with the clock?" he asked. "No replied the workman, I'm nearsighted."

T'was The Night Before Watergate And . . .

Note: The following parody was written by Christina A. Copeland of 28 Langley Circle, Wollaston, a 13-year-old Central Junior High School student. We reprint it here to give you an idea of what some young people think of the Watergate scandal.

By CHRISTYNA A. COPELAND

T'was the night before Watergate
When all through the house
The Plumbers were working
Assilent as a mouse.

The tapes were hung by the chimney with care
In hopes that Sirica would not look for them there.
The Congress was nestled all snug in their beds
Where visions of impeachment danced through their heads.

With Pat in her kerchief and Dick in his cap,
They had just settled down for a long winters nap.
When out in the world there arose such a clatter,
The President realized Watergate was more than a wallowing matter.

He flew to the window, threw open the shutter,
A flood of mail had arrived called Watergate clutter.

The world on the breast of new fallen leaks,
Gave a lustre to TV housewives for weeks.

When what to Dicks wondering eye's should appear
But a long line of witnesses ready to talk to eight senate peers.

With a little, ol' lawyer,
With a lot of Nerve in,
He knew in a moment it must be Sam Ervin.

More rapid than scandal Sam's questions they came,
He twitched his eyebrows and then called them by name,
"Now, Mitchell! Now, Dean! Now Magruder and Halderman!
On, Kleindeist! On, Gray! On Krogh and on, Ehrlichman!

To the top of the capitol,
To sit before a panel,
To un-cover the cover-ups, on all TV channels.

As dry leaves before the wild hurricane fly,
The scandals unravelled and reached to the sky.
And up on the hill, the lies how they flew!
With a bag full of tricks, and subpeonas too!

As Nixon shook his head and was turning around Down from the Senate Edmisten came with a bound.
He's deputy Chief Counsel from his head to his foot,
A "Sam Ervin Man" never tarnished by soot.

Mr. Ervin was plump - a right jolly old elf,
You'd laugh when you saw him, in spite of yourself.
But a twitch of his eyebrows or a nod from his head,
Would soon let you know you have something to dread.

Nixon spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
Erased all the tapes and then turned with a jerk,
"I'll put all these tapes in one small box,
And if they don't like it, I'll fire Mr. Cox."

Then he sprang on his plane, to his crew gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle.
But we heard him exclaim as he drove out of sight:

MERRY WATERGATE
TO ALL AND
TO ALL
A GOOD NIGHT!!!!

S.S. Chamber Distributing Legal Holidays Brochure

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce is distributing copies of its "1974 Legal Holidays in Massachusetts" brochure which lists the holidays in the State.

It also states how they must be observed on Mondays and other days by public offices, by businesses, what permits are needed for operation of businesses, labor laws, transportation of goods laws, and alcoholic beverages laws as they apply to holidays.

Copies of the brochure may be obtained by sending an eight-cent stamp with address to the South Shore Chamber or by visiting the Chamber offices at 36 Miller Stile Road, Quincy. The "Legal Holidays in Massachusetts" brochure is usually distributed earlier but due to the late prorogation of the legislature and serious consideration being given to changing certain holidays, earlier distribution was impossible, the Chamber noted.

Politics And The Machine

Editor, Quincy Sun:
The simple joy of the unexpected gives a bonus to any competition. But when winning becomes more important than fair play, any dividend of happiness is lost. Sport has then become a grim business.

Book making, or figuring chances, requires skill and methodical compilation of facts. Even then the long shot, or upset win, adds a thrill. It's the universally shared triumph of beating predictable odds.

The slot machine is always fixed. Only fools play it. The outrageous take of the "one-armed bandit" can be calculated by any keen observer. Politics can be considered a game, 'tho' government is a necessary evil. When it becomes evident that a machine is calling the shots, then government has become more evil than necessary. The people - of, by, and for whom government exists - have been shut out.

Winning by foul play has now corrupted our society at every level.

At this time of year, we should remember that Jesus was born in Bethlehem, because Joseph and Mary had to go there to be taxed.

Carole McCole Students Star In Fashion Show

More than 50 students of Carole McCole's Fashion Models School & Agency, South Weymouth participated in a recent fashion show at Coral Gables, North Weymouth.

The students range in age from six to 60.

The finale was a "wedding spectacular" with the flower girl, maid of honor and bride walking down the runway with lighted kerosene lanterns.

Ruth DuWors of Weymouth, custom made the dresses. The flower girl and maid of honor wore hooded royal blue velvet gowns trimmed in white faille, and were portrayed by Debbie Dwyer, and Carole Ann McCole, maid of honor, both of Weymouth. Cindy King of Rockland, made a stunning bride as she modelled a silk faille gown with empire waistline, long sleeves, and drindyl skirt. Her gilet cuffs and hemline was embroidered in seed pearls and sequins. The cathedral length veil fell from a Camelot hat trimmed in seed pearls and sequins. The groom was played by Rick King, Cindy's actual husband.

More than 300 attended the show. The Carol McCole students will participate in another fashion show and graduation ceremonies in February.

Be glad for parent rules

By PAT And MARILYN DAVES
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My parents are getting more unreasonable the older I get. As an example: I had to stay home from a dance last week because I was just getting over the flu. I had to break a date with one of the most popular boys in school just because my temperature was 100. I must be in by 1 a.m. and always have to let my parents know exactly where I will be.

How can I convince my parents to let me run my own life?

Dear Jerri:

Jerri

It is better to miss one dance than to land in the hospital with pneumonia. It is also the duty of your parents to know where you are and what you are doing. Be glad Mom and Dad care enough to make rules.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My husband is in business with his older brother, Sam. My husband works longer hours but gets considerably less money. The theory is that they are equal partners but I see nothing equal about the whole affair.

Sam and his wife just returned from a month's vacation. John and I had a week's vacation two years ago. Now Sam says he intends to go to Canada on a hunting trip. This means John will have all the responsibility and work twice as hard. Whenever I complain, John always finds some excuse for Sam. However, I feel that John does resent some of the things Sam pulls.

How can I get him to come to a reasonable agreement with his brother?

Sally

Dear Sally:

If John won't speak for himself, there isn't much you can do. You might suggest that he consult an attorney who can tell him exactly what is involved in a partnership. The attorney might suggest that the partnership be turned into a corporation.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

We have one telephone in our house and it is in the kitchen, which means that it is never possible to have a private conversation. Someone is always in the kitchen eating, cooking, or cleaning. There are five in our family so you can see what I mean. I have pointed out this problem to Mom and Dad and all they say is, "The phone is right where we want it."

I will be 16 on my birthday and have asked for a private telephone for my bedroom. Dad says, "Nothing doing." My mother hasn't said anything. I know the reason my father is hesitating is that he feels I'll spend all my time on the phone, but I won't. How can I convince Dad that I won't yak all night?

Wants a Phone

Dear Wants:

Talk over some rules and regulations with Dad before you get the telephone. Come to an agreement. If you are fortunate enough to be blessed with your own telephone at 16, it doesn't mean that conversations should go on for hours. Most problems can be settled with a 15-minute conversation. And keep in mind that someone important just might be trying to call you. Limiting your conversation can be to your advantage.

If you agree to be reasonable, perhaps Dad will weaken. Then it is up to you to abide by the rules.

How do you reply to RSVP?

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin: We have been invited to an anniversary party to be given by the honorees' three married children. How do we reply? There was no RSVP address given.

— The Bilbos

Dear Bilbos: In the lower left-hand corner there should be specified to whom the RSVP's are to be sent. In your case, respond to the first name on the list of hosts, but refer also to "the kind invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Black and Mr. and Mrs. Willis."

Dear Mrs. Tobin: I have remarried. My daughter is to be married and my husband and I will send out engraved invitations. Which is better,

Mr. and Mrs.

James Philip Sands request the honor of your presence at the marriage of her (or Mrs. Sands') daughter

Dear Mrs. Sands: I prefer "Mrs. Sands' daughter," but "her daughter" is correct.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: Next spring a famous pianist will be in our city to perform with our symphony. After the concert my husband and I will be hosts at a supper party in our home. Would it be proper to ask the artist to play for the guests? — In a dither

Dear Dithered: Don't ask. The pianist has fulfilled his contract by playing with the orchestra.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: We bought a set of lovely wooden dinner plates when we were in Hawaii. Now they are badly scarred from steak knives. Can they be salvaged? — Maria G.

Dear Maria: Fine sandpaper, elbow grease and patience will bring your plates back to near new condition. Anything other than fork-food should never be served on either wooden or fine metal plates. The exception is a sizzle platter, designed specifically for steak knives.

PALATE PLEASER -- Lots of folks would just as soon—or rather—have this "Sleigh Ride" spice ham glazed with guava jelly for Christmas dinner than the traditional turkey. It's easy to prepare and even can be served as a "bonus" with turkey if the Yule dinner party calls for a mixed bag of palate pleasers.

Lazy sister saving energy

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

My sister has been suffering from an energy crisis for years.

As far back as 1965 she was turning out lights to save energy — hers. She slept so much my mother thought she was in a coma.

I won't say she was lazy, but any girl who likes cookies because they are easy to lift, any girl who has been upholstered twice because she wouldn't get off the sofa, could use a little pepping up.

And now she, like the rest of us, has been cautioned not to drive faster than 50 miles an hour unless it's an emergency. She doesn't drive at all unless it's an emergency.

The last time I drove with her she went so slow pedestrians were passing us. The driver in back of us didn't honk, he fell asleep at the wheel. Gas rationing doesn't worry her — she's still on her original tankful.

For years she has scolded me about my reckless driving — doing 45 on the freeway. "Ya wanna get yourself killed?" she'd scream, holding onto the door handle and watching for a chance to jump free. And the only reason she didn't jump is she knew she'd have to walk home. That's out of the question for a girl whose shoe soles are like new.

That's why she won't be turning her thermostat up: she'd have to stand up and walk over to it. So when I heard about the energy crisis I knew just who to consult. "How do you manage," I asked her, "to stay so unharmed, so indolent, in today's high-speed society?"

Stiffling a yawn and rubbing one eye with her fist, she confided: "It's easy. Lots of TV and cutting back on my vitamins."

I'd been doing just the opposite, which only goes to show you that sometimes the best of intentions can be ruinous to our national welfare.

I just wish my sister would stay awake long enough for me to tell her what an inspiration she has been to me.

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of
Dec. 23-31

By GINA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Deeply felt emotions may be hard for you to express. Get a job of work done between the holidays. This has been a maturing year — you have accepted realistically the things you cannot change.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Personal hopes and desires are favored now. Project warmth, sincerity and charm. A new romance is possible. You have learned to be more adaptable this year — to get out of yourself more.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Work load lightens and projects are completed. Time now to enjoy mate, partners and associates. Let your emotional "hair" down and show appreciation of friends and co-workers. Be optimistic.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Put worries aside and enjoy family and friends. Shake nostalgic regrets for the past and start new plans for next year. Be more open-minded and resolve to accept more responsibility in 1974.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Let personal projects wait while you become involved in cooperative, partnership activities. Be considerate of mate or close personal friend now. In a philosophic mood you can plan future performance.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Problems with children can best be handled with patience. Your work obligations should be out of the way now so you can relax and enjoy the family. Resist depressed moods — put worry aside.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — You appear to be starting a new cycle now. Home environment and real estate are emphasized. You have matured this past year. Rest and relax over the holidays — make career plans for next year.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Be willing to cooperate fully with holiday plans and preparations. Make an effort to be the harmonizing force in family relationships. Be cheerful and optimistic, untouched by moodiness of partner.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — You may need to "tone down" your enthusiasm somewhat — don't come on too strong. Possibility of business expansion requires cementing relationships that are shaky. Short journey possible.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Let yourself go and show the excitement you feel. If shopping, bargains are available. Next year will be challenging in the partnership and career areas, but be assured you are up to it!

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — If you apply yourself, you can achieve in 1974 the things which escaped you this year. The holidays appear more serious and meaningful than before. Career plans can be announced now.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Travel is accented now. Trust your intuition and judgment — welcome changes. Money-making ideas occur to you. Indications of a favorable action by an associate or superior which benefits you.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Widow fighting loneliness

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphonomist

Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I'm 52. My husband of 30 years died six months ago. Now that I'm alone, none of my family will have anything to do with me. I don't know anyone well because my husband didn't believe in having many friends. What can I do?

Anonymous

Dear Anonymous:

Loneliness wears many faces. But the loss of a loved one bears the saddest pallor of all.

Just when you need your family the most, you think they don't care. Try to look at yourself objectively before you let this feeling consume you.

Consider your pride, seen in your moderately tall t's. You want to do and act your best at all times to gain the approval of others. But, your large d loops keep you feeling that even an unintentional slight is a form of rejection.

Then think about your very active imagination, seen in the large lower loops, which exaggerates all these feelings — many times over. Especially, at this time, are these traits in full bloom — intensifying your emotional grief. When your husband died, family and friends surrounded you with round-the-clock vigil. You felt secure in their care and comfort. Now, six months later, they're all back into their own affairs — and you feel like the awkward extra.

Through the years, you have been torn between a sense of duty to your husband, seen in the tall k and l loops, and your own personal desire for friends. The warm response of people is important to you, seen in the slant of your writing.

The cure for loneliness lies in life all around you. It lies in joining church and civic groups, in volunteer work, in chatting with those who look as lonely as you feel, in the laughter of little children.

Yes even in the wagging of a puppy dog's tail.

D.J.

Special Program At Library For Children

Three special programs of storytelling and book reviews will be held at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center, Wednesdays Dec. 26, Jan. 16 and Feb. 20.

The programs, especially for age nine and up will begin at 7:15 p.m.

Folklore is the subject of the first program and features humorous American folk tales, dramatic Norse mythology, and the stirring adventures of Rama, the Indian hero.

A chilling collection of ghost tales will be presented at the second program in January, and young listeners will meet a disreputable and eerie group of characters.

The third program on science fiction may be the most unusual as it looks at the world of the future—a world with giant computers, rampant plants and strange beings.

TALES FOR A WINTER'S EVE promises to be an exciting event for older children this winter. The programs will last approximately one hour and will be led by Jane Granstrom, Supervisor of Children's Services, and Paula Carrier, Children's Librarian.

South Area Jewish Center Programs

For December Vacation Listed

George Bernstein, president of the South Area Jewish Community Center of the Associated Jewish Community Centers, a constituent member of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies announces programs, for children in grades k-6, for this year's winter vacation.

On Monday, Dec. 24, a "Fun Day" will take place. Some of the activities scheduled include, skating at the MDC rink in Milton, and at Temple Beth Abraham in Canton, films, cartoons and games.

On Wednesday, Dec. 26, there will be a trip to Stoneham Zoo, and on Thursday, Dec. 27, Chanukah will be celebrated at the Grossman Camp in Westwood, the Associated Jewish Community Centers' Day Camp.

The celebration will include indoor-outdoor sports [ice skating, weather permitting,] a Chanukah party during which the youth will cook and eat their own latkes and participate in a holiday grab-bag. The children will be entertained by the Flapdoodle puppets and be given instructions on how to make their own.

Transportation will be available for all three programs. Jeremy S. Neimand, executive director of the South Area Jewish Community Center said,

"We are very enthusiastic about our December vacation programs. Because of the tremendous response to our Thanksgiving Shabbat Festival, we must announce that registration will be accepted on a first come, first served basis. All of our programs are supervised by trained, professional staff, and all fees include round-trip transportation.

Salvation Army, Elks, Koch Club Aid Needy With Baskets, Gifts

Christmas will be a little merrier for the needy and the lonely of Quincy this year, thanks to the service agencies who are readying their baskets of food and toys.

Major Robert Frye of the Salvation Army figures that his organization will aid some 750 people with baskets, food vouchers and toys for the elderly and the very young.

The Sallies are leaning more heavily toward gifts of money and vouchers this year to permit recipients to make their own selections.

"Usually we have a toy shop," said Major Frye, "but it got so big that we have to let the parents help this year."

The Army already has distributed "Sunshine Bags" of toilet articles and some candy to 843 patients at 12 nursing homes around the Quincy area.

Groups of carolers were on hand to entertain during the distribution on the last two Sundays.

The Salvation Army is also planning:

- A reception for college students and servicemen and women from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 29.

- A dinner for up to 100 people who are by themselves for the holiday at 4 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 30.

For the 18th year, the Koch Club will distribute Christmas baskets of food, about 30 of them, to needy families.

And for the third year, the club will take a load of rehabilitated toys into the South End of Boston for distribution through recognized agencies.

That tradition began two years ago when the Kochs rounded up 200 toys for the young victims of a Roxbury fire.

This year, said Richard J. Koch, the club will send about 1,500 toys in two truckloads into the largely Spanish-speaking section of Boston. Club members have been collecting since last March.

Already completed by the club is its 26th annual Christmas party for small children and the 17th annual visit from Santa Claus to youngsters who are shut in through the year.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks is also planning to distribute over 100 baskets of food to the needy.

SCHOLARSHIP GIFT - Young Tommy Koch presents a check for $5,000 on behalf of the Koch Club to City Treasurer Robert Foy III to establish a scholarship for one graduate each from Quincy and North Quincy High Schools and Quincy Vocational Technical starting in 1998. Looking on are (left to right) Thomas Nestor, club treasurer; James B. Moody, general chairman; Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, ticket chairman; and City Auditor Alexander Smith.

Here are the facts about the fuel adjustment charge on your electric bill.

1. The fuel clause which you have seen more than doubled on your bill is correct and is being billed in accordance with the applicable state laws and regulations.

2. We are still not making one dime on this charge. All our increased revenues on fuel adjustments go directly to pay for our increased cost of fuel.

3. The fuel charge for each month is based upon our fuel costs in the preceding month.

If our fuel clause doubles in a month it means that our fuel costs above a base amount which has always been in your rate has doubled also.

4. The cost of all types of fuel have, and in our opinion, will continue to rise. The higher sulfur fuel oil and coal which we expect to be burning in 1974 will cost more than the low sulfur fuel oil we burned in 1973.

Dear Santa,

This is Mike Alfano, I would like a cowboy belt, with 2 guns, unloaded shot gun, I would like a teddy bear. In my stocking I would like a picture of your wife.

Under the tree a cho chou - a little puppet that walks.

I have been a good boy and a Mickey Mouse trick box, a Dapper Dan and a camera.

I am 6 yrs old and I go to Sacred Heart School.

A farm, truck, MMM box bat and ball!

A statue of me.

Big Josh and his campout.

In my stocking I would like a Mr. potatoe head and a deck of cards!

Dear Santa,

I love you.

Love Karla

Dear Santa,

I want you to surprise me. But I want you to try to get a picture of your wife please. I wanted to see what your wife looks like.

My name is Kim Alfano, I live at 35 Glover Ave. I am 7.

Thank you very much.

Christmas Lights Go On - 25 Days Late

Christmas lights went on in downtown Quincy Tuesday, 25 days late due to the energy crisis.

They'll stay on for four and a half hours a night until 10 p.m. Christmas Day.

"This represents a cut in the original lighting plan of some 93 per cent," said Ron Mendler, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The original plan called for the lights to be on for 40 days, from Nov. 23 through Jan. 1, between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and 1 a.m., a total of 360 hours.

The current plan calls for lighting to be on for eight days, from Dec. 18 through Dec. 25, between the hours of 5:30 p.m. and 10 p.m., a total of 36 hours.

Said Mendler:
"Boston Common, Dedham Mall, Hanover Mall and Taunton Green have seen fit to turn their lights on so we have decided to bring the spirit of Christmas to our community."

"We understand that members of the association have reduced their lighting and heating to conserve enough energy to take care of this small amount of lighting."

Mendler said it was due to the efforts of Roger Pritzker, president of Empire Engineering and a member of the QCBPA, that the association was able to get the lights on Tuesday.

The Nativity scene in Hancock Cemetery across from First Parish Church was scheduled to be lighted Wednesday night at 7 p.m.

A chorus of more than 100 youngsters from Atlantic Junior High School were to participate in the ceremonies.

the rock opera "Truth Of Truths" at the Lincoln Theatre, Quincy Point Dec. 21, 22 and 23 at 8 P.M.

"Truth Of Truths" is being presented to help raise funds for those afflicted with leukemia.

The opera was presented at St. Agatha's Parish, Milton recently and was received well. The unique musical will be touring the South Shore area and Boston colleges.

The opera consists of two parts, the Old Testament and the New Testament. The first half of the opera deals with the stories of Genesis, Noahs Ark, Moses and the Ten Commandments, David to Bathsheba and other tales of the Bible's Old Testament.

The second half, the New Testament, is the stories of the beginnings of Jesus, with John the Baptist, played by Bob Caputo. The second half moves into the more familiar parts of Jesus' life, such as Hosanna, The Sermon On The Mount, The Last Supper and Gethsemane.

"Truth Of Truths" believes in the resurrection of Christ with no questions and this belief is shown in one of the most moving songs of the play, "The Resurrection" as sung by Debbie Phillippe. The opera has a surprisingly unexpected ending.

Rick Hamilton stars in the role of Jesus, Bob Caputo as Pilate, Debbie Phillippe as Mary Magdalene, and the Virgin Mary. Walter Berry as the Prophet and also a supporting cast of over 40 youths from Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree and Milton.

Tickets for the rock opera are available at the box office at the Lincoln Theatre or by calling Charles Tappa at 843-8139. All proceeds will go to the Boston Chapter of the National Leukemia Society.

Hannon Names Inaugural Committee

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announces the appointment of Gordon MacPhee as general chairman of the Mayor and City Council Inaugural Day Ceremonies to be held Jan. 7.

MacPhee is assistant to the Mayor's Executive Secretary. Co-ordinator for the inaugural ceremonies will be Miss Anne Minukas of the Mayor's office.

John T. Williams, chairman of the Inaugural Day activities two years ago, has been appointed Honorary Chairman for this year. He is president of the Bankette Company, Inc., Wollaston.

Members of the liaison committee are:

Joseph P. Shea, executive secretary to Mayor Hannon; School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon; City Clerk John Gillis; Edward Smith, assistant director of personnel, Quincy Public Schools; Jack Browne, director of plant facilities, Quincy Public Schools; Herbert Blake, Superintendent of Municipal Buildings; City Auditor Alexander Smith; and Bruce McLain, information officer, Quincy Public schools.

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. This first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going, each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her firstborn Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a Manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

Christmas Sunday To Be Observed At First Parish Church

Christmas Sunday, Dec. 23, will be celebrated at United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq., at 10:45 A.M. Rev. John R. Graham will deliver a sermon on "The Evil of Equality."

The children of the church school will present a special Christmas pageant during the services.

The traditional "Service of Carols and Candlelighting" will be held in "The Church of the Presidents" at 7:30 P.M. Christmas Eve, Monday, Dec. 24.

Along with the singing of Christmas carols by the congregation, the combined choirs of the church will present music for Christmas with Instrumental Ensembles, under the direction of Mrs. Gale Harrison.

The service will conclude with each person in the congregation lighting the traditional candle of hope. The service is open to the public.

Christmas Eve Masses At Quincy Catholic Churches

For the first time, Quincy Roman Catholics will be allowed to fulfill their Christmas Day obligation by attending Masses on Christmas Eve.

The Rev. John J. Tierney, pastor of St. John the Baptist Church, said Monday Masses will be at 4 p.m., 5:15 p.m. and 7 p.m., as well as the traditional midnight Mass at his church.

Christmas Day Masses will be at 7 a.m., 8:30 a.m., 9:45 a.m., 11 a.m., 12:15 p.m. and 5:15 p.m.

Other Catholic Churches will also hold early Christmas Eve Masses.

'Feast Of Lights'

Quincy Jewry Celebrates Channukah

By LESTER GLASSER

Quincy and South Shore Jewry are celebrating Channukah which means dedication.

The festival, known both as "the Feast of Dedication" and "the Feast of Lights" began Wednesday night with the lighting of the first light and continues through Wednesday, Dec. 26 with a new light added each night.

Although Channukah is numbered among the "minor" festivals in the Jewish religious calendar for reasons that, in part, are baffling, it ranks in the national consciousness of the Jews only second to Passover [Pesach] in historical significance.

Like Passover, it too, is commemorated as a historic festival of liberation.

In Egypt, more than 1000 years before Channukah was instituted, the enslaved Jews, led by Moses, threw off the yoke of bondage in an uprising that marked the beginning of a new historic era for Israel as a people, and for its adoption of the laws and ethical values of the Torah as a way of life.

A comparable heroic feat was accomplished in Judea in 168, B.C.E., when small insurrectionary bands of dedicated Jews under the leadership of the Hasmonean priest, Mattathias and his son Judah the Maccabee ["The Hammer"] routed the armies of the megalomaniac Seleucid despot, Antiochus IV [called Epiphanes, "the Risen God"], after three years of savage guerrilla fighting.

After a smashing victory, Judah the Maccabee before a solemn convocation of the people rededicated the Temple on Mount Zion. On the 25th Day of Kislev [December] in the year 165 BCE, he lit the lamps of the great menorah, offered incense on the Golden Altar and brought burnt offerings to the Alter of Sacrifices.

In commemoration of these stirring events Judah decreed that on the same day every year, thereafter and until the end of time the Jews were to celebrate Channukah for eight days. They were to kindle lights nightly during this period, as soon as the first stars appeared, adding a new light to the others each night of the festival.

That is the reason why Channukah is also known as the Feast of Lights.

Its outstanding physical symbol is the nine-branched menorah. One branch, standing higher than the others and called the shammes-the "servant" or "verger" - acts as pilot, or escort light, to others each night of the festival.

PRE-ACCIDENT ORACLE

What can parents tell about their teenage child if he has failed in grade school, smokes cigarettes, works full-time, or has a police record? Answer: It's likely that he'll be involved in a traffic accident before he becomes 21.

These are the conclusions of a study by the National Safety Council entitled "Pre-Driving Identification of Young Drivers with a High Risk of Accidents." The study revealed that young drivers who will become involved in traffic accidents can be readily identified ahead of time by one or more of the following indicators: They experience academic difficulty in grade school, falling one or more grades before grade eight. They were regular cigarette smokers at or before age 16. They had worked full-time at or before age 17. Or they had been charged with a criminal offense.

Quincy, North Place 7 Each On GBL All-Stars

The North Quincy and Quincy football teams placed seven players each on the Greater Boston League all-star team, selected last week by the coaches.

The Raiders, who placed second in the league with a 5-1 record, placed five players on the offensive team, quarterback Carl Leone, halfback John Flynn, center Tom Donovan, tight end Phil Robinson and tackle Joe Carroll.

Representing North on the defensive club are tackle Joe Marinelli and line backer Ron Frizzell.

Four Quincy players were named to the offensive team, backs Wayne Ponder and Robin Carrera, guard Jim French and tackle Dave Sten.

Named to the defensive unit were tackle Mike Varrasso, tackle Bob Pettiti and back Billy Joyce.

QJC Defeats Bristol

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, which ended a four-game losing streak when it defeated Bristol Community College, 94-81, in its latest outing, last night [Wednesday] played Mass Bay.

The Collejuns are now off until Jan. 8 when they play Worcester Junior College at Worcester YMCA.

QJC was sparked by Jim Hurley's 31 points in the win over Bristol, while Ed Barrett scored 23 and John Mullen 21.

Brad Martinson had 11.

"We controlled the boards and handled the ball well," said Coach Earl Vermillion. "We played good defense and kept our poise when Bristol got close in the second half."

In its previous outing Quincy was outclassed by Rhode Island Junior College, one of the top junior college teams in New England, 100-58.

Barrett had 16 points and Martinson 13 to spark the Collejuns.

Bruins, Northstars Flames In Shutout Wins

In St. Ann's Hockey League Pee Wee competition, the Bruins shut out Detroit, 4-0.

Greg Kelly scored three goals and Walter Phipps the other. Assistants went to Mike Capone, Larry Morton, Greg Therrien and Tom McFarland. Mark Kintogas was outstanding in the Bruins' goal.

The Northstars blanked New York, 2-0, on goals by Gerry Watts and Mike Bellotti. Assistants were Phil Marino and Joe LaPierre.

The Flames defeated the Flyers, 4-0. Chris Clark had three goals and Bob Gillian one, while Eric Olson, Gary Stokes, Jim Boudreau and Bob Sullivan had assists.

In the Bantam League the Northstars and Flames tied, 4-4. Scoring for the Northstars were Rick Smith, with two goals, Marty Mulvey and Wayne Smith. Assistants went to John McKenna, Jim Kenny, Smith and Tim McLugo. Flame scorers were Pat Wilkinson, Tom Nazzaro, Jack O'Leary and John Gravina. Having assists were Dom Falcetta, Joe Carr, Nazzaro and Gravina.

New York topped Detroit, 6-3. Karl Bergstrom scored twice for New York and other goals were scored by Brian Schmitt, Paul Howe, Mat Breslin and Kevin O'Connell. Assistants went to Schmitt, Howe and Breslin. Detroit goals were scored by Bob Gagnon with two and Bill Goslin. Assistants went to Mark O'Sullivan and Brian Daley.

The Bruins defeated the Flyers, 5-2, with Frank LaPierre having two Bruin goals and John Gullins, Brian Harding and Mike DeAngelo one each. Assisting were Dave Mason with two, Gullins, Larry Cyr, Dan Leary and Mike Gethin. Scoring for the Flyers were Rich Carroll and Tom McNamara with Chuck Winters and Rich Collins assisting.

Nord Turns In 7th Shutout For Bantam A's

Goalie Jeff Nord posted his seventh shutout of the season and dropped his average to 1.77 goals per game last week as the Quincy Bantam "A" team notched wins over Holbrook and Scituate in Bay Colony Hockey Association play.

Nord blanked Holbrook 3-0 Wednesday [Dec. 12] and beat Scituate, 4-1, Saturday [Dec. 15], losing his shutout when the Winklers scored their only goal with less than three minutes remaining.

In winning 19 out of 22 league games this season, Nord has allowed only 39 goals.

Richie Troy had a pair of goals in the victory over Holbrook while Mike McGrath had a goal and an assist, Matt Schaeffer had two assists and Tommy Cahill had one assist.

Schaeffer's two goals showed the way to the decision over Scituate and Rick Danner and Jimmy Shea each had one. Assistants went to Brian Bertoni [2], Dave Previte, Brian Watts, Cahill and Troy.

Brennan's Hat Trick Paces Pee Wee A's

Tommy Brennan's three-goal hat trick paced the Quincy Pee Wee "A" team to a 9-1 victory over Hull last week in Bay Colony Hockey Association action.

The Pee Wees also edged Brockton, 4-3, with Brennan, Ed Kane, Robbie Craig and Scott Richardson getting the scores.

Other scorers in the Hull game were:

Kane, two goals and two assists; Ed Marella, two goals and one assist; Brian Norton, three assists; Bryan McGilvray, two assists; Kevin McGrath, a goal and an assist; Craig, a goal; and Mark Messina, an assist.

Marella, McGrath, Norton and Messina had assists in the Brockton game.

Goalies Bobby Tierney and Dean Prescott were outstanding in the Quincy goal in both contests.

PEE WEE B'S TIE WEYMOUTH

The Pee Wee "B" team tied Weymouth, 3-3. Quincy's goals were scored by Ken Halloran, Tommy Gerry and Bill Deutsch with Deutsch and John Jackson having assists.

The day John Havlicek played a game... and made all the calls.

John Havlicek wanted to prove something. We approached John Havlicek and proposed that he play a little game with us. We asked him to call any Dial office in the Boston area at random. We told him to ask any questions about loans that popped into his head and not to give his name. No Dial personnel were alerted about what we were doing. Here, in John's words, is what happened.

"As I was dialing the number, I thought this was a pretty bold idea for Dial. After all, they didn't know what I might ask."

"Well, almost as fast as the phone rang, it was answered. I told the guy I was interested in a $4,000 loan and I wanted to know how long I could take to pay it back. He told me. I asked him how quickly I could get the cash. He told me. I asked what the total amount I would have to pay back on the loan would be. He told me. Then I threw in a 'loaded' question. I had heard that finance company interest rates are high, so I came right out and asked him about Dial rates. What I found out was that you can probably borrow for less than some places. Like a bank maybe. But Dial charges a lot less than I thought they would."

"I was amazed. I mean, he didn't even ask for my name. And there wasn't any sales pitch. He just helped me—without any strings attached."

The kind of service and consideration John Havlicek received isn't reserved just for basketball stars. It's reserved for everybody, and has been since 1897. So next time you're thinking of borrowing, think of Dial Finance. You see, we don't want you to like us just for our money.

Visit Dial's Randolph office at 322 N. Main Street, Ivernades Shopping Center, phone 963-0400 or the Brockton office at 726 E. Crescent Street, Brockton East Shopping Plaza, phone 583-3420. Other Dial offices: 3 downtown, Billerica, Lynn, Malden, Walpole.

Rich's Express Stops Cox, 5-4

Rich's South Shore Express scrambled the Midget House League race last week with a 5-4 victory over front-running Cox Rambler as Bruce Aristide collected a pair of goals.

Paul Lynch had a goal and three assists and Bob Carmody had a goal and two assists.

Tony Alessi had the fifth goal for Rich's and Paul Duggan had an assist.

Cox Rambler retains first place but only by a point over the Fire Department Local and Suburban Disposal.

The Fire Department belted Tiffany Realty, 6-3, as Mark DeLuca fired four goals.

Bob Crews had a pair of assists, Charlie McLean had a goal and an assist, Jerry DeLuca had a goal and Mike Doherty an assist.

Tiffany scorers were John Storer, Jack DiRico and John

Whelan with goals and Kevin Murphy and Larry Ready with assists.

Suburban Disposal and the Police Boys Club tied, 2-2, the third deadlock in six games for the Police.

Paul Vlassakis and Tom Park scored goals for Suburban, assisted by Paul Andrews and Joe O'Keefe.

Joe Carthy and Bob Page had the Police scores with assists by Greg Dillon and Jerry Cronin.

Harold Club Upsets Morrisette

Bob Currier's two goals provided the margin as the Harold Club handed Morrisette Post its first defeat of the season, 4-2, and knocked the Legionnaires out of first place in the Pee Wee House League.

Paul Graham and Bob Thomas also had goals with assists credited to Mike Giordani [2], Mike Brewster and Billy Gray.

Jeff Taylor had both Morrisette goals, assisted by Bob McHugh twice and Brian Hewitt. Davis Insurance moved into first place by a single point, walloping Wollaston Theater, 8-3, as Bob Molloy and Brian Ofria had two goals apiece.

John Molloy, Eddie Powers, John Lyons and Bill Joyce also had goals and Lyons [2], Tommy Hannan and John McKay had assists.

Dennis Harrington and Billy Cooke each had a goal and an assist for Wollaston Theater and Steve Rullis had a goal and John Sayers an assist.

Keohanes won its first victory of the season, a 3-1 decision over Team Quincy as Bernie Van Tassel, Tim Ricciardi and Brian Duane did the scoring. Ricciardi, Van Tassel, Steve White and John Furey had assists.

Bill Mathew had the Team Quincy score.

United Commercial Travelers got by the Teachers Association, 3-2, on a pair of goals by Tommy Roche.

Steve Picot got the third and Dickie Reinhardt and Paul Reardon drew assists.

Kevin Cobban and Rich Isaac got the goals for the Teachers, assisted by John Livingston.

Bernie's Modern Formal Opening Ceremonies Tonight

Senator Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] will preside at ribbon-cutting ceremonies tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. for the opening of the expanded Bernie's Modern Formal Shop at 1586 Hancock St., corner of Revere Rd.

Bernie Reisberg, now the proprietor of the largest men's formal wear shop on the South Shore, also will hold open house festivities from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Actually, the shop has been a fixture in Quincy Square for the past 45 years.

The business was founded in 1928 by the late Samuel Reisberg, Bernie's father, as the Modern Tailoring Co. in the tiny store at 1653 Hancock St.

There are old timers in Quincy who recall when Samuel Reisberg's shop turned out hand tailed uniforms for the Quincy Police and Fire Departments.

When he returned from three years service in the U.S. Air Force in 1946, son Bernie added a men's formal wear line to the shop.

His father's death a year later brought to a close the era of custom-tailored clothing.

The shop moved to larger quarters at 1639 Hancock St., corner of Hancock Court, in 1948, adding a dry cleaning plant to insure proper sanitization of every formal.

The space crunch caught up again in 1963 and resulted in a move to the present location.

And now, 10 years later, Bernie's has expanded again, taking over the store next door.

Today Bernie Reisberg is recognized as one of the leaders in the ever-changing field of men's formal attire. He is a member of the Menswear Retailers of America.

Formal wear manufacturers such as After-Six, Lord West, Palm Beach, Delton and First Nighter have named him their authorized dealer on the South Shore.

The shop boasts of an on premises stock of more than 36 styles and colors. It started in 1946 with a stock of less than 50 formal units.

Bernie's staff is made up of Muriel Hartley and Merwyn Seymour, who have been with him for many years, and the latest addition, Ralph Chiminiello.

And at times, Bernie's wife, Marilyn, and the youngsters, Steven, a sophomore at Boston University, and Donna, a sophomore at Quincy High School, stop by to help out.

SHOP THIS CHRISTMAS WITH YOUR MASTER CHARGE

These fine Quincy stores offer a large variety of great ways to say Merry Christmas.

RALPH AFFANATO, 12-year-old Muscular Dystrophy patient from Quincy enjoys chat with Santa at Muscular Dystrophy Association's Norfolk-Plymouth Christmas Party.

Santa Cheers Youngsters At MDA Christmas Party

Santa made a special early trip recently to bring joy and happiness to the afflicted patients of the Muscular Dystrophy Association's Norfolk-Plymouth Chapter area.

The festivities were held at the Maryknoll Seminary in Hingham, and were organized by Mrs. Lois Schleffer of Brockton and William Lowry of Quincy.

Entertainment was provided by the "Playgrounds", better known as the kids of the "Zoom" television show on Ch. 2. A puppet show also delighted the children suffering from this disease. Chief puppeteer was Tommy White, also a former "Zoomer", and his able assistant was his sister, Joanne.

Santa climaxed the gayety by distributing gifts and bringing cheer. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Robert Foy Mothers March Chairman

Today's mothers can take steps to protect the good health of tomorrow's children, says Mrs. Robert Foy, Mothers March Chairman for the annual March of Dimes appeal.

Her appointment was announced by Rubin Epstein Mass Bay Chapter chairman for the voluntary health organization.

In the weeks ahead, Mrs. Foy and fellow volunteers will plan and put together the numerous tasks necessary for a successful community effort against birth defects. This year's Mothers March starts Sunday, Jan. 20 and ends on Mothers March Sunday, Jan. 27.

"No one realized even a decade ago that such swift scientific progress would come in meeting the challenge of handicaps that threaten some 250,000 babies every year," Mrs. Foy said. "We have made gains against life damaging defects caused by rubella and RH blood factor diseases, but this is only the beginning and every parent has an investment in our battle for quality of life at birth."

Contributions from the Mothers March aid medical care, research and education conducted by the March of Dimes.

President
COLONIAL FEDERAL SAVINGS
And Loan Association
of Quincy and Haverhill
8-4 Woodways 8-7:30 Thursday

The John Fischetti cartoon depicted a smelly, decomposing whale lying high on the beach. The beach was labeled "Inflation" and the whale "Highest wages in U.S. history".

The average wage earner will tell you that his so-called high wages do not have the sweet-smelling quality he had dreamed they would. Income of households averaged $11,286 in 1972, according to the Census Bureau Survey. This means that an increasing number of wage earners could boast that they were now earning in five figures; making $10,000 a year used to be a milestone that every worker achieved with satisfaction.

But inflation has taken the joy out of this accomplishment. According to the National Consumer Finance Association, a worker with a $10,000 salary in 1949 would have to earn $18,960 in 1973 to equal his 1949 purchasing power. In 1949, this worker paid $1,112 in Federal income and Social Security taxes. In 1973, his Federal taxes rose to $3,041 and inflation deprived him of $7,031 in purchasing power by 1949 standards.

Taxes have been absorbing an increasing proportion of personal income, reaching an all-time high of 22.5 per cent in 1972. Factors responsible are a boost in the Social Security rate and income base and a steady upward shift of taxpayers into higher income brackets.

Out of the average income of a 40-hour week it is now estimated that the earnings of 8 hours and 19 minutes go to the Federal government, and an additional 4 hours and 56 minutes are required to pay state and local taxes.

As a result of the price and tax squeeze, a family must earn increasingly more money to maintain the same standard of living.

Though present salaries are not providing the measure of well-being a worker might have anticipated, he is nevertheless better off, by and large, than he was in 1949 or even in 1965, when to enjoy the same purchasing power he had in 1949 at a $10,000 salary, he would have had to earn $13,430.

The trouble these days is that he is savoring his increased income by overspending. In 1973's third quarter, the average consumer reduced his savings rate still further from the 5.9 per cent rate of the first half of the year [as compared with 8.3 per cent of disposable income in 1969-70]. The result is that he is further overheating the national economy. He is ignoring the enticement to save that high interest rates provide.

The best thing a wage earner can do in this period is to tighten the belt of his material appetites, increase his savings reserves, and wait until the supply of goods catches up with the market demand and restores the real value of his assets.

As Fortune magazine observed in its October 1973 issue, "The behavior of consumers these days is a critical matter... The sooner that consumer buying cutback begins, the sooner the present tensions in the economy will relax... So far as spending is concerned, a restrained and sober Christmas will be the augury of a happier 1974."

MBTA Takes Steps

To Guard Cars At Stations

The MBTA has assured Rep. Joseph E. Brett (D-Quincy) that it has taken "corrective measures" to discourage vandals from breaking into cars parked in MBTA lots, particularly at the North Quincy and Wollaston stations.

Forrest I. Neal, chairman of the MBTA Board of Directors, said in letter to Brett he will "initiate corrective measures immediately to help in every way possible to protect the property of the people we serve."

Brett recently had urged the MBTA "to take corrective measures" to protect the cars and property of "T" patrons.

"It appears that an increasing number of cars are being entered by thieves and vandals, with items being stolen from them, and in some cases, the cars being stolen," Brett said.

Neal said that William J. Burke, Chief of Police of the MBTA, is planning to meet with Quincy Police Chief Francis X. Finn to try and establish regular security patrols in the parking areas, with both MBTA and Quincy police cooperating.

Neal also said that Eastern Parking, Inc., owners of the parking concessions for Quincy's train stations, has been directed to improve its security procedures, and that all MBTA supervisory personnel have been directed to be on guard for thieves and vandals in the parking lots.

Joseph Connolly Appointed Notary

Joseph F. Connolly, of 155 Billings St., North Quincy has been appointed as a Notary Public, State Secretary John F. X. Davoren announces.

Confirmation of the new appointee was made at a meeting of the Executive Council following submission of the nomination by Governor Sargent. The term will expire in seven years.

CARDINAL MEDEIROS celebrates funeral mass for Rt. Rev. John J. Allston, retired pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, assisted by Bishop Lawrence Riley, Rev. John Downey, present pastor, several priests who had served as curates under Msgr. Allston. The monsignor died Dec. 11 at the age of 78.

'He Was A Great Influence'

Cardinal Medeiros, Bishop Riley At Mass For Msgr. John J. Allston

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros, archbishop of Boston, was the chief celebrant Saturday at a funeral mass for the Rt. Rev. John J. Allston, retired pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

Msgr. Allston, 78, who lived at 137 Galiano Blvd., Dorchester, died Dec. 11. He retired in July, 1970, after 50 years in the priesthood, the last 23 as pastor at St. Joseph's.

He was elevated to the monsignori by Pope John XXIII in 1960.

Rev. Francis Hardiman of Blessed Sacrament Church, Saugus, one of Msgr. Allston's former curates at St. Joseph's, the eulogist, praised him as a churchman who loved the priesthood and was "a great influence on the many priests and nuns who came to him for advice and help" in their vocations and daily lives.

Concelebrants of the funeral mass were Bishop Lawrence Riley; Rev. Hardiman; Rev. Robert Bryson of St. Albert the Great Church, East Weymouth; Rev. Joseph Greer of St. Mark's Church, Dorchester.

Rev. Joseph Sheehy of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Brighton; Rev. Dennis Dever of St. Stephens Church, Boston; the Rev. Joseph J. Downey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy; and Rev. Paul Sweeney, of St. Gregory's Church, Dorchester.

All except Bishop Riley, Fr. Downey and Fr. Sweeney served as curates under Msgr. Allston. Fr. Sweeney was his altar boy at St. Patrick's Church in Lowell.

The master of ceremonies was the Rev. William Helmick, secretary to Cardinal Medeiros.

Also in attendance were the Rev. Francis Strahan of St. John's Seminary Choir; and the Rev. Thomas Daly, chancellor of the archdiocese, and the Rev. Louis Govoni, both chaplains to Bishop Riley.

Burial was in Holyhood Cemetery, Chestnut Hill.

Oliver Tatrot To Speak At Golden Rule Bible Class

Oliver F. Tatrot Jr. of Abington will speak at the Golden Rule Bible Class Sunday in the Senior Citizens Drop-In Center, 24 High School Ave.

Prof. Norma MacLeod, director of nursing and medical studies at LaSalle College, Newton, will be the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Anna Hemeon on the piano.

Mrs. Hemeon will lead the community singing and Edward Kelliher will play hymns on the guitar and harmonica.

Mrs. Katherine Rose will be hostess and Oliver F. Tatrot Jr. will direct the service.

What Christmas, Peace Means

Mrs. Arlene S. Lapon asked her third grade pupils at the Atherton Hough School to express their thoughts on "What Christmas Means To Me".

We share them with you:

"WHAT CHRISTMAS MEANS TO ME"

Christmas is fun when we put up the Christmas tree. And then we put on the lights and ornaments, and gifts. I like it also because Jesus was born.

Nancy Hamel

WHAT CHRISTMAS MEANS TO ME

I like Christmas because it is my favorite holiday. I like to open my presents and that is a lot of fun. My sister and I go and play with our toys after we eat.

Kathy Collagan

I like Christmas because I help to put up the Christmas tree, the pretty lights, and all colors, red, blue, pink, yellow, green, purple, and all the rest. I put up the star and I sleep all night long. Then I go down and play with my toys.

Marcia Kelley.

I like Christmas because Jesus was born on Christmas day.

I like setting up the Christmas tree and at night I like to open my presents and stay up until it's morning.

Michael Davis

I like Christmas because I get toys and get to decorate the Christmas tree.

Donald Gamble

I like to give presents and get them too. At the end of Christmas I count my money and then I put it in my little bank that's in my room.

Paul Renken

Christmas is nice because you get presents. It is good because it is when Jesus was born. It is nice to go out in the snow on Christmas. And it is nice to see people get nice presents. They are so happy. That is why I like Christmas.

Mary Beth Rollins

The Joys In Christmas

The lights from the tree
Sparkle with glee,
And times go fast
Like memories past.

The snow slowly falls
Like white crystal balls.
Candy canes sway free
Like ships on a sea.

Candies and wreaths
And sugar plum trees,
Now Angels are singing,
It's love their bringing.

Then Jesus will call,
Oh, the joy of it all.

Peace Is

Peace is no wars or people fighting in the world. Peace is laying on the grass at night looking at the stars and the moonlight.

Peace is a nice fun day at the beach with your family or taking a nice quiet walk in the forest listening to the birds singing and other animals running about.

Peace is people living in harmony and giving and sharing to help each other.

Peace is love of all people, love of nature and love of God.

I hope someday the whole world will be at peace with each other with no wars or people fighting - just peace.

A PEACEFUL DAY

Peace is when it is quiet and peaceful.

Peaceful is when the war stops and the children have peace at their homes.

Peace is when you can hear the ocean moving in and out.

Peace is when the sunset goes down.

The sun goes down like a balloon and the sky turn's pink and yellow as it goes down.

Peace is a very beautiful thing. If you do what you are supposed to do.

PEACE IS

Peace is walking in the woods looking at berries, watching the birds and feeling the breeze in back of you.

Peace is having a picnic, watching the trees go back and forth and watching the bees working.

Peace is a deer jumping in meadows with her fawn.

Peace is getting a way from the alleys, the cities, the factories, and highways and getting out into the country.

Peace is having no wars and getting all the countries and states together.

Peace is not cutt down trees and not filling in ponds.

WHAT IS PEACE?

Peace is like being in a big beautiful garden.

Peace is the sun shining so peaceful and just feeling a soft breeze.

Peace is not being afraid and it's like being happy for being alone.

It is when the sun is brightly shining and it looks so pretty. It is sometimes when I feel like sinning because it's a nice breeze and I feel so happy.

ONE CHRISTMAS DAY

A mouse came out of his house and ate a block of cheese
Sitting on his knees
Then he began to sneeze

On his knees
He sneezed ka-choo, said the mouse that just came out of his house.

Then Santa Claus came and gave him a toy and he laughed and played with his new toy in his house
He liked his new toy very much
Do you know what it was?
It was a train.

Open Probe Of Cemetery Dept. Starts Friday

The City Council's Oversight Committee will launch a public investigation of the city cemetery department Friday.

The committee will meet in open session at 5 p.m. in the City Council Chamber.

Requested to appear are Anthony Famigletti who recently resigned suddenly as cemetery superintendent; Police Capt. Paul Nestor, Police Lt. David Rowell, City Auditor Alexander Smith and City Solicitor Richard McCormick.

A stenographer will be on hand to record the proceedings.

Committee members Edward Graham, Joseph LaRaia, William Delahunt, Albert Banlaro and Clifford Marshall indicated they planned to meet Thursday to discuss procedures for the Friday session.

At Tuesday night's council meeting, LaRaia and Graham found themselves in somewhat heated debate over why the investigation had been delayed and who should conduct it.

Graham criticized LaRaia for press statements he said inferred the oversight committee was dragging its feet on LaRaia's requests for the probe.

LaRaia objected to what he called "innuendoes and insinuations" that it might have been him who did not want a meeting "on the cemetery situation."

Fed Up With Cars

'Pop' Josselyn Switching From Auto To Bicycle

By STEVE FERRARA

POP JOSSELYN will be riding a bicycle instead of driving a car from now on. But it won't be this easy to pedal modern bike.

Roland K. [Pop] Josselyn has decided to switch from driving a car to riding a bicycle.

And, after 40 years behind the wheel and at age 89—that's quite a switch.

But it won't surprise any of his many friends in Houghs Neck who have seen him do a lot of things men his age [or half his age] wouldn't do.

Like, he still climbs ladders to repair roofs and gutters.

Pop, who lives at 64 Mears Ave., has found his solution to the energy crisis—he plans to ride his bike when his car registration runs out at the end of the year.

Pop will ride a 25-year-old bike, that used to belong to his son. Unlike the bicycles that kids ride today, this bike has no extra gears to make hill climbing easier.

But Pop is not giving up his car just to save gas. He says, "After 40 years of driving a car I'm fed up with them."

Born in 1884, Pop worked as a carpenter until he "retired" at the age of 65. He still does odd jobs today. If you need someone to repair your roof, give him a call at home.

Pop has lived in Quincy for 50 years. He spent 43 of those years working with the Boy Scouts in Quincy. He was a cub master for six years and now is on the scout committee of Troop 6 in Houghs Neck, one of the oldest troops in the city.

Pop is also a member of the Houghs Neck Community Council, and has had many of his private photographs of old Houghs Neck published in the Council's Bulletin.

Brownell Seeks Replacement Of Fence

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] has requested a meeting with MDC Commissioner John W. Sears concerning the nearly-completed tidigate project on Quincy Shore Drive.

On behalf of the Merrymount Association, Brownell requested the meeting to find out what steps the job contractor will take to replace the fence that protected the association's beach property before construction was begun.

Brownell said he will discuss the type of fence to be erected and the ownership of property newly-created by back-filling in tidal areas.

Year In ReviewPolitical Upheaval, Tax Rate Drop, POW's Return, Shipyard, Hilgenhurst, Energy In 1973 Spotlight

By TOM HENSHAW

The Quincy political boat was rocked as never before during the past year.

Unquestionably, the big story of 1973 in the city was the long redistricting hassle that postponed two elections, redrew the ward lines for the first time in 85 years and may have ended two political careers.

Pressure to change the ward lines under the "one man, one vote" decision of the U.S. Supreme Court came to a head June 22 when a group of citizens filed suit seeking to force immediate redistricting.

Under the judicial gun, the City Council July 17 came up with an eight-ward redistricting plan that satisfied everyone except the people, who had to be consulted via referendum since it called for a charter change.

The voters, casting ballots on Sept. 6, the original primary day, turned down the plan by a better than 2-1 margin and it looked like all nine councillors would have to be elected at large.

But, at virtually the last minute, the City Council gave its approval to a new six-ward plan, devised by Councillor Albert R. Barilaro, that apparently left a large portion of the city unhappy.

The tightly knit old Ward 3 in South Quincy was dismantled, leaving Councillor Theophilus McLelland III without his base of power. He ran for reelection at large and lost.

And Barilaro himself, burdened by the designation "father" of the six ward redistricting plan, also went down to defeat at the hands of James A. Sheets, a Quincy Junior College professor.

The long fight over redistricting brought postponement of the Sept. 6 primary to Nov. 6 and the Nov. 6 final election to Dec. 4, leaving voters thoroughly satiated with politics when the big day arrived.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon handily won a second term, turning back the challenge of Mrs. Grace E. Saphir, 57-year-old nurse and housewife, by a margin of about 3-2.

In addition to Barilaro, Councillor J. Vincent Smyth of ward 6 was upset by Dennis E. Harrington and Leo J. Kelly in ward 1 and Warren Powers (Ward 5 won seats being vacated by retiring councillors).

John J. Lydon Jr. was victorious in the new Ward 3, transferred from South Quincy to Wollaston, and Clifford H. Marshall in Ward 2 was the sole survivor of the six ward representatives on the old Council.

All three at large councillors, Arthur H. Tobin, Joseph J. LaRaia and John J. Quinn, were returned to office as were School Committeemen Charles T. Sweeney and Frank Anselmo.

A newcomer, John J. Sullivan, was elected to replace the

W.Q. Hearing Tonight

The Quincy Conservation Commission will hold a public hearing tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 p.m. concerning notices of intent filed by two different parties to fill in wetlands behind private residences at Hall Place in West Quincy.

The meeting, to be held in the City Council Chambers, was called when Bruno and Eileen Carloni, 38 Hall Place, and Peter and Mary Sampson, 48 Hall Place, made plans to fill in marshlands behind their homes. Marshlands are protected by the Massachusetts General Law [C. 131, S.40] entitled "Protection of Wetlands."

retiring Paul C. Kelly, vice chairman of the School Committee. He was top man in that race.

Mayor Hannon's candidacy for reelection received a big boost June 26 when he was able to announce, with obvious pride, that the city tax rate for 1973 would go down $1.10 to $154.30.

The Mayor said the decrease, only the third in the past quarter century, was due to "careful spending" but the new revenue-producing State Street South complex and federal revenue-sharing were major factors.

The biggest non-political story in the city, if it can be called that, was the battle over the proposed South Quincy MBTA station, which reached a climax during a stormy public hearing April 26.

Most of the Quincy business community lined up behind the station, which is still a couple of years away, while much of the opposition came from residents of South Quincy.

There was both good and bad news out of the General Dynamics Quincy shipyard.

The work force fell to well under 1,000 during the summer as the last of the old contracts, a Navy oiler, was finished but activity increased again in December when the keel was laid for the first liquefied natural gas tanker.

Good news came early in the year, in February, to be exact, for two Quincy families when Navy Commander Richard A. Stratton and Air Force Capt. Edward A. Brudno were released after years as prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

But joy was turned to sorrow for the family of Capt. Brudno on June 3 when he was found dead, apparently by his own hand, in the home of his mother-in-law in Harrison, N.Y.

A note beside his body read: "There is no sense to living any longer. My life is no longer worth living."

Several other prominent Quincy men died during the year.

Dr. Charles Djerf, pediatrician, long time member of the Quincy School Committee and a founder of the city's drug rehabilitation program, Survival, Inc., died Feb. 13.

James D. Asher, founder and moving spirit behind Quincy radio station WJDA, died June 2.

By HENRY BOSWORTH

A new year is a good time for anyone to look ahead and if you have political aspirations, well it's beautiful. The boys, of course, are looking ahead to the state and county elections.

Rep. Clifford Marshall will soon be making his official announcement that he is a candidate for Norfolk County sheriff.

He's already got his campaign headquarters ready to open on Temple St. And, a big fund-raising event is already in the planning stage. When it comes off it may cause a little eyebrow lifting around political circles.

Norfolk County Commissioner George McDonald, former Quincy city councillor, has already announced his candidacy for sheriff.

McDonald can run without giving up his commissioner's seat. His term doesn't expire in 1974. But Marshall has to vacate his state representative's post.

Ward 3 Councillor Ted McLelland who leaves office at the end of the month, James Papile, Atty. Jeffrey LaPointe, and realtor Tom Williams have all indicated they intend to run. School Committeeman Harold Davis is in that district now and he might yet give it a whirl.

Latest bulletin is that Dean Paul Nicastro is warming up to a bid. And, he would have to be reckoned with. Nicastro, who will graduate next June from Harvard Law School, showed plenty of vote-pulling power in the 1971 School Committee race.

He topped a 23-man field in the preliminary and a six-man lineup in the final election in both Quincy Point and South Quincy which comprises the Marshall state representative district.

MEANWHILE, Herbert Reppucci, the Wollaston beauty salon owner who ran for the Ward 4 City Council seat this year, is seriously considering a run for state representative.

That would be the Wards 4, 5, 6 district now represented by Joseph Brett and William Delahunt.

INCIDENTALLY, looking ahead to the next city election [1975] you might find Sabina Stenberg, former model, Wollaston Charm School and beauty salon operator, a city council candidate. She's told a few friends she's thinking of it.

And, why not? Both Grace Saphir and Helen McDonnell came up with respectable performances as mayoralty and council candidates this year.

Sabina who has been very active in civic-charitable work goes all out when she decides to do something. You would have to say she'd be a good looking candidate.

THERE'LL BE AT least one change in Mayor Walter Hannon's official family in January. One of his close appointees will be leaving voluntarily because of business reasons.

THE CHRISTMAS-NEW YEAR holiday season has been good for the Heleotis family. Phil, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heleotis of Hilltop St., West Quincy, who suffered a broken neck in a swimming pool accident last July, came home from the hospital. And a couple of days later, his sister, Lynne, was appointed a kindergarten student at the Furnace Brook School.

THI-THREE-RECOUNTS last week in Wards 1, 5 and 6 changed a handful of votes but not the results. Which was no surprise to City Clerk John Gillis. He notes that in his 18 years in the clerk's office he hasn't seen any election result turn over on a recount. Wonder if anyone knows of one that did.

MOVING UP DEPT: William Short, former executive secretary of the old Quincy-South Shore Chamber of Commerce, has been named community affairs manager for GI in Pittsfield. He had been general manager for the Greater Springfield C. of C. since 1970.

NICE GESTURE DEPT: Louis Caruso, Quincy city cemetery department employee collected $123 in his annual one-man fund raising campaign for the special children at St. Coletta's Day School, Braintree.

SMILE DEPT: Atty. Richard Barry tells about the youngster who had this question for his father: "How come coke will spoil my appetite before dinner and martinis helps yours?"

"It's very generous of you, Russell, but I don't believe your resignation would help our crowded school situation."

State Street South Opens; Death Takes Prominent Figures

[Cont'd from Page 4]

James F. McCormick Sr., father of the Quincy Vocational Technical School and a member of the School Committee for 13 years, collapsed in his home on Thanksgiving and died Nov. 27.

Rt. Rev. John J. Allston, retired pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, who was elevated to the monsignori in 1960 by Pope John XXIII, died Dec. 11 in Dorchester at the age of 78.

Quincy received two economic shots in the arm during 1973.

The State Street Bank and Trust Co. of Boston, with 2,000 of its employees and all its computer equipment, moved into its new quarters in the State Street South complex on Newport Ave., North Quincy, during the Memorial Day weekend.

Charles G. Hilgenhurst and Associates, after more than six months of study, came up with a $100 million proposal in October to revitalize downtown Quincy that was generally hailed by the city's business and political communities.

Other big Quincy stories of the year just past:

The Christmas lights were dimmed in downtown Quincy, due to the energy shortage. They didn't go on until Dec. 18, 25 days late, and they were on for only four and a half hours a night, instead of the nine and a half originally planned.

The Quincy High School band traveled to Dallas, Texas, for a New Year's Day appearance on national television in the Cotton Bowl parade and the North Quincy band journeyed even farther afield, to Ireland for the St. Patrick's Day parade in Dublin.

AMERICAN TRAGEDY - A whole city grieved with the family of returned POW Capt. Edward Brudno at his death in June, just a few months after being released from North Vietnam prison camp.

The long negotiations for the purchase by Norfolk County of the Wollaston Golf Club ended in October when the sale was consummated for $1,947,000. It'll be a recreation complex for the county.

The new Southwest Community school with its radically new design, opened Sept. 5 and was named the Lincoln-Hancock Community School after a proposal to name it after the late Dr. Charles Dierf was rejected by the School Committee.

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association's new $700,000 rink off Sea St. was opened Sept. 30. It was only the second rink in the state owned by a youth hockey group.

Those old perennials, the West Quincy quarries, were the objects of a new safety crusade as the year ended after two teen-aged climbers were killed in a rockslide in Swingle's Quarry.

Perhaps the most heart-warming story of the year was that of Philip (Tiny) Heleotis, the West Quincy boy who discovered he had more friends than he thought—some of whom he hadn't met yet.

Philip, the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Heleotis of 35 Hilltop St., suffered a broken back in July in an accident in a neighborhood swimming pool.

While he lay paralyzed in Boston's University Hospital, his friends raised some $11,000 in four and a half months, more than enough to build a new room on his home to handle the special equipment needed for his comfort.

And he was home by Christmas.

'The Meatless Wonders' Quincy Catholic Club Topic

Mrs. Jacqueline Halligan of the Boston Gas Consumer Information Division will present a food lecture entitled, "The Meatless Wonders" to the Quincy Catholic Club Jan. 16, at 8 p.m.

The program will be held at the Viking Club, Quincy Ave., Braintree.

Featured on Mrs. Halligan's menu will be mock italian meatballs, sesame broiled fish en brochette and upside-down strawberry meringue pie.

This is just one of a variety of programs presented regularly to organized groups by this division of Boston Gas.

Chairlady of the event is Mrs. Charles Jacobs of Quincy.

Church Architecture Bethany Women's Union Topic

The first program of the Bethany Women's Union for the new year will be presented by William T. Flavin, Wednesday afternoon Jan. 2 at 1:15 p.m. on the subject of church architecture, with special emphasis on the architecture of Bethany Church.

An accomplished concert and opera singer who has performed with several opera companies throughout the U.S. and Canada, Flavin became interested in architecture through his study of music when he realized that the two arts are rooted in mathematics.

Many trips to Europe provided time to study and photograph outstanding examples of Gothic architecture which will be emphasized in his illustrated talk, since Bethany Church is designed in this style.

Details of some of the great cathedrals of England, France, and Germany will be discussed as well as the basic rules of geometry used in their design. Flavin said he feels that all great architecture is based on fundamental rules provided by the universe, and man has learned how to express these laws in wood and stone. Beauty has far more meaning when one understands the reasons for its construction.

The public is invited to attend.

Mr., Mrs. Louis Salvucci Honored On 50th Anniversary

More than 175 guests attended a dinner-dance and reception at the Sons of Italy Hall in Braintree recently in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Salvucci of 109 Roberts St., South Quincy.

Mrs. Adolph DiBona of Quincy, maid of honor in the wedding party 50 years ago, was a special guest.

The party was given by the couple's children.

The Salvuccis were married Dec. 15, 1923 in the Old North Church in Boston. Mrs. Salvucci, the former Laura Perruzzi of Quincy, was born in Newton. Her husband was born in San Donato, Italy. They have lived at their present address since their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Salvucci have four children: Mrs. Alma Tuffo and Mrs. Lita Edwards of Quincy; Mrs. Viola Delorey and William Salvucci of Weymouth. They also have 13 grandchildren.

Mr. Salvucci, who retired from the Walter Baker Co. in Milton, is employed part-time by the Muro Pharmaceutical Laboratory in Quincy.

He is a member of the South Quincy Bocce Club, the Walter Baker Alumni Association and the Senior Citizens of Southwest Community. He is a former member of the Sons of Italy in Braintree.

PERSONAL Dating others may help

By PAT and
MARILYN DAVIS
Copley News Service

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I've dated Donna for three years and have asked her to marry me. She always has some polite excuse for refusing. Donna and I get along great. We like the same things, enjoy mutual friends, and date no one else. We each have our own apartment but I spend more time in hers than in mine, if you know what I mean. Donna cooks 90 per cent of my meals and is concerned about me and any problems I may have.

This girl is over 25. Why isn't she concerned about the future and why doesn't she want to get married? In most cases, it is the man who is reluctant.

Jack

Dear Jack:

I assume you have asked Donna these questions. Obviously, she is the one with all the answers. Have you tried dating others? A little healthy competition might help your cause. Good luck.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

Richard and I have been married for two years and his family is steadily driving us apart. We live within 20 minutes of sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles, parents and grandparents. We celebrate everyone's birthday with a family dinner. Every holiday brings more togetherness.

I come from a small family (they live 2,000 miles away) and want a few holidays with just my husband. Is this such a sin? Richard can't understand my feelings at all. It isn't that I dislike his family. I just can't stand so much family. Richard feels it will hurt their feelings if we don't attend each and every gathering. Why would it be wrong to have a holiday alone?

S.S.

Dear S.S.:

It wouldn't be wrong to have a holiday alone. However, family ties are deep and these sisters, brothers, aunts and uncles are all a part of your husband's background. Why not reach an agreement whereby you'll attend every other family function? This would give you some free time to celebrate as you please.

Do keep in mind that everyone has in-laws. You just seem to have more.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I became pregnant at the end of school last year. I was 15 and had been dating Dave for six months. When I told him the unhappy news, all he had to say was, "Sorry about that. Better tell your folks so they can do something about it."

I did follow his advice, and my parents arranged for an abortion. No one ever knew about the problem. However, everything is not as great as it sounds because Dave has been asking me out again. My parents have absolutely forbidden me to see him. I do not want to break the rules but am tempted. What do you think?

Mary

Dear Mary:

I think you are a lucky girl and have already broken enough rules. You put yourself in a very damaging situation and seem to have survived with few scars. You just may not be so lucky the next time around.

Use some common sense and judgment. Who stood by you when you had a problem — your parents or Dave? No one can follow you around and see that you follow the rules. This is your decision. Why not make the right one this time?

If you have a question, write: Pat and Marilyn Davis, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

Don't despair, Playboy Bunnies

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

An outraged group of Hugh Hefner's Playboy Bunnies are protesting the way they've been treated.

A pinch? A leer? Perhaps a whispered obscenity by a married, menopausal salesman from Grand Island, Nebraska? None of these.

No, the girls have thrown down their cottontails in disgust because they have been told — at 28 — they are too old to be bunnies any more.

And when these lovelies, not yet a decade away from student-status, were told by their cruel paymaster to get dressed — if they knew how — and get out, they were also informed exactly why 28 is the dangerous age: their gluteuses were drooping and their mammaries were sagging.

That'll give you an idea of what a sharp eye that paymaster has, and the high, firm quality of Hefner's merchandise.

But that's all well and good. After all, if Hugh doesn't keep his guard up he might find himself back where he started — licking envelopes at Esquire.

Still, one can't help pondering the fate of the ousted girls. What's a Playboy Bunny to do when the hatch door is slammed in her face?

This protest of theirs will do little good because who's to listen? Male bunny fanciers will turn a deaf ear once they hear why they were fired. And if the girls hope to arouse any sympathy from other women, they had better realize right now that their gluteuses and mammaries have grieved other women for years, and their plight is just what the housewife's voodoo doctor ordered.

It's tough to be 28.

The bunnies will simply have to brace up. Brace up, not in the way they formerly have, but in a broader sense — broader being a word they will come to know better and better as they become more and more.

They will have to keep a stiff upper lip, if nothing else, and know that many women lead full, active lives even after 28. That with rest and proper diet, they may be able to do the Funky Chicken on good days.

Playboy Bunnies, do not despair — even though your ligaments have let you down.

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of Jan. 1-5

By GINA
Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Keep on your toes in career matters — be observant. Possibility of long-held dream coming true. Rewards for past efforts seem likely. Be cautious about rushing into new venture. Review your security.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Utilize high energy period to launch new projects. Make plans for the year — solve problems left over from last year. Show kindness to a friend in trouble and offer assistance. Combine new work methods with old.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Utilize this low-energy period for mapping plans for the year. Concentrate on adopting a more coordinated, routine way of working. Trust intuition. Resist impulsive action regarding competitors — be honest.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — You will make new beginnings in work and career area now. Seek a new approach to an old job problem — adopt new standards if necessary. Trust intuition. Accept responsibility and consider others.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Challenges greet you in the partnership and work areas of your life — draw on past experience for answers. Use your spirit of adventure to evaluate many new ideas. Compromise differences with business partner.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Future looks bright in spite of some disappointment or trouble. Be sure you can solve problems and meet challenges. A possible break with an old friend should be viewed philosophically — people grow apart.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Reevaluate situation at home. Let go of the past and make way for the new. Rid yourself of outworn, useless attitudes and goals. Complete unfinished tasks. Make important decisions at a later date.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Be considerate and kind to close associates. Use high energy to finish up details of projects under way. Decisions regarding a situation started in July are reached now. You are more stable and mature.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Progress is yours now — restrictions are lifted. Possibility of new, meaningful friendship. Be cooperative and not pushy. Honesty and frankness pay off regarding finances. Curb temper.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — You may feel a letdown after recent disagreements. Apply energies to financial affairs and career areas. You are now laying the groundwork for later success. Utilize and trust your intuition.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — If secret activities and scheming seem to be going on around you, stay objective and positive — don't be tempted to compromise your integrity. Push short-range goals now. Be alert for opportunities.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Take a long, hard look at your finances and spending habits. Get budget in shape. Reevaluate old friends in influential positions. Make career plans now but keep them under your hat. Work behind the scenes.

YOUR HANDWRITING TELLS Her personality is an open book

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Graphoanalyst

Copley News Service

Dear Dorothy:

I'm 18 and engaged. I love my fiance very much, but we argue a lot, and it's mostly my fault. Often if I don't get my own way, I get mad and sulk. Please help.

D.W.

Dear D.W.:

Engagement time is heart time. But woe to the girl who doesn't use her head.

As you approach the altar, you approach a lifetime together. So it behooves you to lay all your personality shortcomings out on the table. And we all have them you know. If you gloss over your inadequacies before marriage, you'll find that the veneer will rub off with little effort after marriage. Your personality is quite an open book, for you show how you feel by the way you act, seen in your forward slant.

However, you are harboring some injustices and wrongs which you feel were exerted upon you in the past, seen in the long, heavy, rigid beginning strokes. You live with a nagging suspicion that you are being used.

Since this is such a surging trait in your makeup, you can expect to feel imposed upon in your marriage. And marriage is certainly no cure for your arguments. Because your pride is strong, but still in balance, you never want to appear at a disadvantage. When you feel your ego is endangered, in any way, you are ready to rise up in self-protection.

Try to forgive and forget the past. Start your "wife-life" with a clean slate. Your marriage runs a chance of being one of hearts if you're wise enough to use your head.

LINING UP to see Santa is a kindergarten class at Squantum School during their Christmas party Thursday. In all, 420 children in 19 classrooms in the school met Santa and other guests.

Christmas Parties Held At Squantum School

Each of the 19 rooms at Squantum School had Christmas parties last Wednesday with cake and ice cream and visits by Santa Claus and Walt Disney characters.

The Room Mothers of Squantum School supplied refreshments and put on the party. The Parent-Teachers Organization [PTO] furnished the ice cream.

Santa's visit was arranged by James Coughlin. Santa visited each party along with sixth graders Paul Graham, Mickey Mouse; Shelagh Murphy, Donald Duck; Sheila Beck, Goofy; Frank Moldero, Winnie-the-Pooh; and Judi Rochelle, chairman of the Room Mothers, as a clown.

Will Cost Over $193 Billion To Control Air, Water Pollution

It will cost many billions of dollars to clean up the nation's air and water, according to a North Quincy spokesman for the Massachusetts Petroleum Council.

Charles S. Heath, Jr., of 64 Thoreau Rd., speaking before the Quincy Lions Club, said the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality estimates the cost to industry and the public will be more than $193 billion through 1980 for air and water pollution control alone.

"But the benefits to the nation will be significant if this money is wisely spent," he said.

Heath, who is a District Sales Representative for Cities Service Oil Company, asserted that oil people are working hard to solve the industry's pollution problems with innovative technology and heavy capital investments. "The days of industrial foot-dragging on environmental matters are over-for good and all," he said.

Heath outlined what the petroleum industry is doing in the field of oil spills prevention and control.

He said there are 70 fully operational harbor cooperatives across the nation, with another 20 in the process of being organized. Two are in operation in Massachusetts. These groups locate nearby cleanup equipment and manpower for quick action in case of a spill.

According to Heath, underwater pipelines used to transport petroleum are constructed to rigid governmental and industry standards, and are regularly surveyed from the air, on the ground, and by divers or submersibles underwater to guard against leakage or rupture.

Hannon Reveals Details

Probe Continues After Disclosure Of Graves Sale Irregularities

Irregularities in the sale of two cemetery lots were disclosed by Mayor Walter J. Hannon Monday as reasons for the requested resignation of Anthony Famigletti as superintendent of the Quincy Cemetery Department.

Hannon's disclosures came in a statement to the City Council as that body moved to obtain an appropriation of $5,000 to conduct an investigation of its own of Famigletti's resignation. The City Council hearing is scheduled to continue tonight [Thursday] at 7 p.m.

Hannon said one cemetery lot was listed as sold Jan. 7, 1969, and a body interred in it in November, 1972, but no record of the purchase price of $250 was recorded through Nov. 16, 1973.

Another lot, the Mayor said, was listed as sold May 8, 1969, and a body buried in it in August, 1973, but no record of payment of the purchase price was made through Nov. 16, 1973.

Furthermore, the Mayor said, the parties alleged to have purchased the lots in question were not residents of the addresses listed on the date purchase was made.

Mayor Hannon said the irregularities were discovered by City Auditor Alexander Smith and reported to the Mayor.

An investigation was conducted by Lt. David Rowell of the Police Department's Special Services Unit, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Auditor Smith and City Solicitor Richard McCormick.

As a result of the investigation, the Mayor said, Famigletti was summoned to the city solicitor's office Nov. 16, informed of the charges and his rights and was asked to resign.

He sent his resignation Nov. 19 through his attorney, Paul Hunt. On the same day, the Mayor said, the City Council was informed of the facts leading up to the resignation.

City records, he added, show that the city received $754 for the two lots on Dec. 3, 1973.

Said Mayor Hannon:

"We are now confronted with the situation where you are asking me for a further investigation and for the sum of $5,000 ...

"I ordered an investigation. I obtained the facts. I took the necessary action. I fulfilled my responsibility.

"The superintendent erred. For this he made restitution. He resigned. And the taxpayers have been made whole.

"If something more than what I have detailed to you this morning can be substantiated by this appropriation, then I am more than willing to appropriate this money and any other monies that are needed to bring all of the facts before the people."

Holbrook Airman Assigned To Fort Belvoir

Airman Edward J. Holbrook, son of Mrs. Irene M. Holbrook of 65 Quarterdeck Rd., Germantown, has been assigned to Ft. Belvoir, Va., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Ft. Belvoir for specialized training in the vehicle maintenance field.

Airman Holbrook attended Quincy Vocational Technical High School. His wife, Diane, is the daughter of Mrs. Serena Swan of 80 Birchbrow Ave., North Weymouth.

Ecologists urge Yule cleanup

By PEGGY WALKER
Copley News Service

You like Christmas enough but it's getting caught up in the tinsel that gets you down? You feel a little uptight about throwing away the ton of cards, paper, ribbons and boxes that only yesterday were brand spanking new?

And, considering the fact the average American throws away about five pounds of trash on a normal day, the additional paper pile-up at Christmas makes you especially uneasy?

That's not to mention all those empties from holiday partying that add to the pollution problem — bottles, cans and more bottles.

Well, no need to be bugged about the litter. You can get rid of your guilt feelings and give the ecology movement a charitable boost by eliminating the waste this Christmas, ecologists say. One ecology center has a list of dos and don'ts, printed on recycled paper (what else?) for recycling the holiday spirit and all the trappings. What's more, you may even have fun converting Christmas trash into hobbies or games, selecting gifts that are eco-oriented and by recycling useable leftovers. Those party bottles, for example, can be whipped up into environmental candle holders, lamps or vases. Chances are, you might even get hooked on "environmentals." Here's how it works: Start with shopping. Take along your own bag to avoid adding to paper waste. And ride, bike, walk or join a car pool for your own good and the air's sake. Look for items that are not overpackaged. Shop garage sales.

Select gifts that will aid the ecosystem: drip dry napkins, organic cleaning products, handkerchiefs, plastic glasses for the bathroom, organic cosmetics.

Make gifts from things you'd ordinarily toss out: scrap wood from cabinet shops, spools, paper rolls, plastic containers, or give the ingredients and instructions to older children.

Give things from nature: rocks, shells, organic food or homemade cosmetics.

Give hobbies: books and equipment on glass cutting, organic gardening, camping, bird watching, needlework.

Give alternatives to life style: scented candles to replace aerosol room sprays, a shaving mug to replace electric razors, recycled paper products.

Give a gift that never pollutes: your undivided attention, your confidence, your enthusiasm, something of yourself — a note that promises you time for a lunch date, a visit to the park.

As a holiday pollution solution, be selective with your cards and wrapping items, ecologists suggest.

Cut back on cards. Send only to friends and relatives far away. Make your own, self-sealing kind, so that envelopes aren't needed.

Donate money saved by not buying cards to a good cause.

Save old cards for: decorating next year, making your own cards, crafts for children, or use the backs for grocery lists and phone pads.

Reuse items from your home for personalized gift wrapping, decorated bags, for instance, or old road maps, sheet music, your favorite page of the newspaper. Try fabrics for gift wrapping. Dishtowels are useful, colorful prints, reusable. Tie it up with recyclable yarn instead of ribbon.

Help save the trees. Buy a living Christmas tree and plant it or donate it to a park or school.

Time is one of the most precious things we have so let's make the most of it in '74.

NOTARY -- Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke (left) of Wollaston and Dedham received from State Secretary John F. X. Davoren his commission as a Notary Public. The Executive Council confirmed him to a seven year term after his name was submitted by the governor. Informal ceremony took place in Davoren's State House office.

Burke Distributing 'Know Your Courts' Brochure

Norfolk County Dist. Atty. George G. Burke has made available to educators and to the general public, a new brochure entitled "KNOW YOUR COURTS".

They are being distributed through his Drug Education Division.

The three-color, 10-panel folder deals with the organization of the judicial system, a description of the various courts of the Commonwealth and their officers, a glossary of court terms, information about guided Court House Tours, a handy Norfolk County court telephone guide as well as other useful information.

The brochure was designed to complement court house tours which have been an on-going educational project of District Attorney Burke's administration. Last year, close to a thousand students with their teachers availed themselves of this community educational opportunity.

In making the "KNOW

YOUR COURTS" brochure available, Burke expressed his concern for the future of a judicial system which is often misunderstood, ridiculed and even unjustly maligned. He emphasized the importance of educating the public, especially the young people of today, on the fundamental role the courts play in protecting rights and freedoms and in preserving peace and order which are the fruit of justice.

"Know Your Courts" and the Court House Tours program undertaken by my office, will serve, I trust, as valuable tools in restoring respect and support for our system of justice, which is the cornerstone of a free, responsible citizenry," Mr. Burke said.

Persons wishing to obtain copies of the new brochure and groups interested in taking part in the Guided Court House Tour program may contact the office of the District Attorney, Superior Court House, Dedham, Mass. 02026 (326-7810)

Pulsifer To Direct RSVP Program

Mayor Walter Hannon announces the appointment of Winfred Pulsifer as program director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Pulsifer, who lives at 112 Sherman St., Wollaston, is married and the father of two.

Prior to his appointment, Pulsifer was associated for 17 years with the Greater Boston YMCA as executive director of the Dorchester Branch. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in History and Social Science from Findlay College and a Masters degree in Guidance and Counseling from New York University's Graduate School of Education. In his capacity as executive director of the Dorchester YMCA, he was active in many community programs. He was a member of the Board of the Dorchester Mental Health Association, chairman of the United Fund Campaign, Dorchester Small Business Division, a member of the Kiwanis Club plus many other civic endeavors.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program [R.S.V.P.] is a national program to develop significant volunteer service in local communities for men and women, 60 years of age and over. The program is funded through a $40,338 federal grant awarded to the Quincy Council on Aging from the efforts of Putnam S. Borden, executive director and an Advisory Board of area people active in social service programs.

R.S.V.P. will place volunteers with cooperating public and private social service agencies in Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree. Senior Volunteers may be placed in activities such as consumer protection, programs for the retarded, the handicapped, the education field, health services, social services as well as in various municipal offices. R.S.V.P. volunteers serve without compensation, although they may be reimbursed for such costs as transportation and meals.

R.S.V.P. became operational in July 1971 as a part of the federal ACTION program and is planned, organized, and operated on the local level. Any retired person, age 60 or over can become an R.S.V.P. volunteer, there are no education, income or experience requirements.

North Faces Revere; Quincy Meets Somerville

North Quincy's track team, defending Greater Boston League co-champion, sought its second win in a row Wednesday following an opening day loss when it faced Somerville at Medford.

Saturday the Raiders will face Revere at 9:45 a.m. at the Medford cage.

Meanwhile, Quincy, which opened with a stunning upset win but lost its second outing, met Revere Wednesday and Saturday morning will take on Somerville.

Last Saturday Lou Tozzi's North team romped over Everett, 55-31, while Tom Hall's Quincy team suffered a 50-36 loss at the hands of unbeaten Malden.

In North's win over Everett, young Bert Petracca, running the two-mile for the first time, came within one second of the school record and six seconds of the GBL mark when he won in 10 minutes, 11 seconds.

Mark Canavan was a double winner, taking the high jump and 600. Geoff Hennessey, the fastest in the league, won the high hurdles in 6.4 seconds. John Flynn won the 50-yard dash in his first race and Paul Doherty was second. Chris Cordeiro and Bill Lapsley were 1-2 in the 1000. Ken Barrett and Jerry Dyer were 2-3 in the mile. Sophomore Mike Nee was second in the 600, his first time out at this distance and Phil Robinson second in the 300.

Doherty was third in the high

Quincy Wins 2 ; North Drops Pair, '2-1

After missing the state tourney the past two years due mainly to a lack of scoring punch, this could be the year for the Quincy hockey team in its final Greater Boston League season.

After nearly overcoming a 5-1 deficit and losing by a goal in its first game, Quincy came back to bomb Revere, 6-1, and last Friday blanked Medford, 3-0.

Friday the Presidents play Everett at 9 p.m. at Boston Arena and next Monday meet Chelsea at 12:30.

Meanwhile, North Quincy, after an impressive opening day win, dropped a pair of 2-1 decisions, the latest to Malden, now 3-0 in the league, last Friday.

Friday at 6:30 the Raiders will meet Chelsea and Monday at 12:30 they take on Everett.

In the win over Medford, Quincy's Ted Wiedemann scored two of the goals.

In North's loss to Malden, the Tornados' Matt Marden, who scored four goals in an opening night win over Quincy, scored the clincher when he converted a goalmouth pass in the second period.

Following a tough loss to Malden, Quincy bounced back to out-class Revere, one of the GBL's top rated teams, 6-1, Monday night, in one of the best two-way performances in some time by a Quincy team.

The Presidents rolled to a 3-0 lead in the first period as Pete DiBona converted Ted Wiedemann's pass at 4:09. Wiedemann took a pass from DiBona and scored at 7:29 and Pete Raymer scored unassisted.

DiBona again took a pass from Wiedemann and scored at 1:57 of the second period.

Goalie Glen Prescott, who turned in an outstanding game in the Quincy goal, lost a shutout at 1:44 of the final period but Frankie Guest, one of the finest sophomores Quincy has had, scored twice unassisted at 3:13 and 6:10 to complete the scoring. Young Guest had scored four points with a goal and three assists in the opening game.

jump, Brett McGrath second in the shot put, and the relay team of Hennessey, Robinson, Nee and Ken O'Brien won.

North was without the services of Art Barrett, one of its top scorers.

Malden turned in a superlative effort to upset Quincy which, in Coach Tom Hall's words, "did a fine job but Malden was really up for the meet."

Quincy's Gary Delorio won the 1000 with Steve Nolan third. Delorio's time of 2:29.6 was the second best in the league. Art DeLoreto and Steve Burke were 1-2 in the hurdles, Quincy swept the shot put with Mike Varrasso first, Dave Sten second and Bob Varrasso third, Dave DiBona was second in the 600 with the second best time in the league, 1:22.9, DeLoreto and Sam Gravina were 2-3 in the high jump, Arnie Vorrasso second in the mile and Pete Ramponi third in the 300.

It took a Medford disqualification in the relay to give Tom Hall's Presidents a 44-42 win over the Mustangs last week, but as Hall said, "You hate to win one this way but it is part of the game and we could lose one the same way some time. I rated Medford with Revere as the favorites in the Greater Boston League this year, so this must rate as an upset."

Presidents At Revere, North Hosts Somerville

Quincy's basketball team looms as a contender for the Greater Boston League crown after rebounding from a heartbreaking loss in its opener to win two in a row.

Friday night the Presidents play at Revere and next Wednesday go to Chelsea for league games.

North Quincy, which captured its first win last Friday, plays its first home game Friday against perennial league power Somerville and next Wednesday will be home to Malden.

Quincy last Friday handed a good Weymouth South team its first loss, 65-54, in a non-league game.

Tom McKinnon scored 19 points, Mike Cullen 16 and Fred Donahue 14 for the Presidents. North, after losing its first two, handed Weymouth North a 61-56 defeat as Tim Clifford scored 18 points, Steve Miller 15 and Jed Phelan 14. Coach Bob Nolan also hailed Mark Reale for an outstanding effort.

Quincy, under new coach Joe Amoroso, had opened its final GBL season with a 61-50 win over Medford.

The Presidents led at halftime, 31-24, and added to their advantage in the last two periods.

Cullen scored 16 points and Donahue 10 to lead the attack. North suffered an ice cold third period and bowed to Everett, 65-53, in its league opener.

The Raiders held a 30-28 edge at the half but were held to four points in the third period while Everett scored 19. As usual, North was at a big height disadvantage.

Miller led the attack with 18 points and Clifford, an outstanding junior, added 14.

Quincy, in its opening game, had led B.C. High, 46-35, after three periods but went cold in the final period and lost, 54-53.

"We looked so good for three periods, like a seasoned, veteran team, and then had a bad letdown in the final period," said Amoroso. "We'll just have to go back on the practice court and see if we can sustain our attack for a full 32 minutes."

The Presidents went scoreless for four and a half minutes in the last period and had a 49-35 lead dwindle to 49-48. Even with the letdown, Quincy had a three-point lead with 1:06 remaining but again went cold and the Eagles won it with four straight points.

"I think this game proves we will be reckoned with in the league," Amoroso said. "This is my entire junior varsity squad from last year, with the exception of Fred Donahue, a transfer from Archbishop Williams, and they have no varsity experience."

Mike Cullen was the only President in double figures with 13 points. He, Donahue, Tom Perry and Billy Joyce excelled on the boards.

Bob Nolan's North Quincy squad, with all of last year's starters gone, went up against a bigger Abp. Williams team and lost, 52-40, after trailing by only 15-14, after a low-scoring first half.

"We had a hard time combatting their height but our press worked well against them," Nolan said. "We are going to face this same height problem in most of our games and we have to use this press and our speed if we want to do well in the league. I was pleased with the way the boys hustled and we are going to win some games, I'll promise that."

Jed Phelan had 14 points to pace North's scoring, while John Flynn, coming off a sensational football season, had 10 and did a fine job on defense.

Eddie Miller's North junior varsity fared better and romped to a 47-32 win.

• St. Ann's Hockey

Northstars, Bruins Win

In St. Ann's Hockey League Pee Wee games the Northstars defeated the Flames, 4-1, sparked by John Keller's three goals.

Joe Cosgrove scored the other. Joe LaPierre had two assists and Mike Bellotti and John McCadden one each. Rick LaPierre was in the Northstars' goal. The Flames goal was scored by Chris Clark unassisted. Jim Boudreau was in goal for the Flames.

The Bruins defeated the Flyers, 4-1, with Mark Millan scoring three times and Greg Kelly once. Assists went to Kelly, Mark Capone, Al Vasile and Bruce Ayers. Craig DiBona scored for the Flyers with Paul O'Sullivan assisting.

New York and Detroit tied, 1-1. Steve Burke scored for New York with Brian Downing assisting, while Dan Rowley had an unassisted goal for Detroit.

In Bantam games New York shut out the Bruins, 5-0. Paul Howe had two goals, Kevin O'Connell, Karl Bergstrom and Jim Keller one each. Assists went to Mat Breslin, Brian Schmitt, Paul Schmitt, Frank Kelley, Rich McKerr, Brian Buckley, Kevin Kelly and Tom Gilbert. Mike McColgan was outstanding in the New York goal.

The Flyers nipped the Flames, 3-2, with Chuck Winters, Tom McNamara and Mike DeFazio scoring for the Flyers with assists by Rich Carroll, Mike Flannery and Dan Djerf. Jack O'Leary and Steve Olson had the Flames' goals.

Detroit edged the Northstars, 1-0, on Bill Shine's goal. John Capone and Mike Therrien assisted. Brian Donovan sparked in the Detroit goal, as did Brian Condon in the Northstars nets.

Undefeated O'Brien Club Hosts Cavaliers

Quincy's O'Brien Club basketball team, undefeated

Cranberry League leader, will host the Bristol County Cavaliers of Fall River Sunday night at 7:30 at North Quincy High.

The Quincy team is 7-0 overall and 6-0 in the league following a forfeit win over Plymouth A.A. last Sunday. Plymouth, one of the league's charter members, has been having trouble getting a team together and will reorganize after the first of the year.

QYHA To Host New Brunswick

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association will host the Naswaaksis Youth Hockey Association from Naswaaksis, New Brunswick, Canada over the weekend.

The Canadian teams from Squirt A and B to Midget A and B will leave Canada Friday and will be greeted by the Quincy players and officials at the New Quincy Youth rink between 5 and 7 p.m. that evening.

From 50 to 75 parents will accompany the teams and will stay at the Carlton House in North Quincy. The players will be guests at the homes of the Quincy players.

FALLING THROUGH THE ICE

What should you do if someone falls through the ice while skating on a frozen pond? Perhaps it's more important to tell you what you shouldn't do first. Don't try to pull him out with your hands. You may break through the already weakened ice also. Then it's double trouble.

Get a pole or ladder or long board or similar object and crawl on the ice until you are close to the victim. Lie prone and inch forward. This distributes your weight over a larger section. Extend the pole or board so that the victim can grab it. Pull him slowly forward, breaking the ice if necessary, until he reaches a firm spot. Help him out when you can do so without breaking through the ice.

To prevent frostbite, keep the victim warm with heavy blankets. Bring him inside as soon as possible and give him a warm drink.

Always be wary of frozen ponds, lakes or rivers and never skate alone if possible.

Nardone Aluminum climbed into first place in the Squirt House League last week with a 3-2 victory over the previous front-runner, Howard Back Realty.

Joe Livingstone had the three-goal hat trick and assisted on two other scores as McInnis Contractor moved into a second place tie with Howard Back due to a 7-2 win over Maher Plumbing.

Mitch McInnis had two goals and Tony Chiochio and Steve Hall one apiece for the victors. Glen Collins had two assists and Billy Curran one.

Ed Doherty and David Bryan were the scorers for Maher, assisted by Kevin McSweeney.

McCann Steel's goalie Andy Shannon blanked Hannon Tie, 2-0, in a duel with Hannon's fine net-minder, Mike Boussy.

Kevin McCormick and Jay Princiotto had the goals, assisted by Larry Kelley and Brian Flynn.

Kyes Meat and Dee Dee's fought to a 2-2 tie with Bob Larson and Tom Smith scoring for Dee Dee's and Tom Hennessey and Kevin Lydon for Kyes.

Richie Durham had an assist for Dee Dee's and Bobby Ready, Joe Carroll and Mike Marshall assisted for Kyes.

PEE WEES

Davis Insurance stretched its lead in the Pee Wee House League to three points with a 3-2 decision over Morrisette Post as Bill Joyce had a goal and an assist.

John McKay and Jeff Gosselin had the other goals with assists to Fran Straughan, Bob Molloy and Brian O'Neil.

Jeff Taylor had two goals for Morrisette and Mike Edwards had two assists.

Wollaston Theater knocked off the Harold Club, 7-4, with John DeLuca collecting four goals and Dennis Harrington three assists.

Kevin Gallo had two goals and Jackie Quigg one. Assists were credited to John Coleman, John Sayers, Paul Zinga and Bob Monahan.

Bob Thomas scored one goal and assisted on another for the Harold Club. Doug Smith, Joe Gallini and Bob Currier also had goals and Jim Rooney an assist.

Team Quincy edged United Commercial Travelers, 2-1, behind the fine goal tending of Billy Oakes.

James Nolan and Mike McNally scored goals and Dan Molloy and John D'Andrea had assists. Steve Coleman had the lone UCT score.

Quincy Teachers and Keohane's battled to a 2-2 tie with Kevin Cobban and Mark Walsh scoring for the Teachers and Mark Roden and John Newcomb for Keohane's.

Cobban, Walsh, Mike Penzo and Tommy Mullen had assists for the Teachers and Roden and Newcomb for Keohane's.

BANTAMS

Two of the Bantam House League front-runners, Blackwood Pharmacy and Noonan Press battled to a 1-1 tie, the first blot on Blackwood's spotless record.

Arthur Bertoni scored for Blackwood, assisted by Dana Chiavaroli and John Picard matched it for Noonan with an assist by Ed Giordano.

Trucks of Quincy took over second place with a 5-2 decision over South Shore TV with P.J. K. Barry and Pete Cassidy getting two goals each for the winners.

Paul O'Brian had the other goal with assists credited to Billy Doherty [2], Rich Manning [2], Danny Higgins, Cassidy and O'Brien.

John Marsters and Mike Bondarick tallied for South Shore TV assisted by Rick McCarter, Jack Campbell and Paul Lindenfelzter.

Quincy Sun, the defending champs who had had tough going, edged past Doran and Horrigan, 4-3, as Gary Trenholme had two goals and an assist.

Pee Wee A's Tie Twice; Squirt A's, Midget B's Win

It was a standoff all the way for the Quincy Pee Wee "A" team last week as they were tied 4-4 by Cohasset and 1-1 by Scituate leaving them with a Bay Colony Hockey Association record of 20 wins, three losses and three ties.

Tommy Gerry had two goals in the Cohasset game and Eddie Kane and Tommy Brennan had one each. Robbie Craig assisted on two of the goals and Kane, Johnny Mullin, Kevin McGrath and Mark Messina assisted on one each.

Messina, assisted by Scott Richardson, scored the lone goal against Scituate.

The Pee Wee "B" team blanked Hyde Park, 3-0, as Dan Sullivan had a goal and an assist. Jeff Giordani and John Keane had the other goals and Tom Gerry got an assist.

Dwayne Wilcox collected two goals and two assists and Tommy Murphy had a goal and three assists as the Mite "A" team overwhelmed Hyannis, 7-2.

Dave Allen, Mike McArdle, Danny Kelly and Paul Egan had the other goals and Allen, Rick Reardon and Brian Chase had assists.

The Squirt "A" team bounced Canton, 6-1, as Bobby Beniers and Chuckie Marshall scored two goals apiece.

Mark Boussy and Neil Shea had one each with assists going to Joey Rathgeb [2], Mike Hussey [2], John Carty, Bobby Zanardelli, Kevin Craig, Karl Nord and Shea.

The Squirt "B" team handed Franklin its first defeat of the season, 5-4, with Danny Boyle getting the three-goal hat trick. Mike McNiece had a goal and two assists, Richie Stevens a goal and an assist, and Mark Tenney an assist.

Fifteen players figured in the scoring as the Squirt "B" walloped Cohasset, 21-1.

Mike McNiece and Timmy Ryan each had three goals and three assists, Richie Stephen had three goals and two assists, Danny Boyle had three goals and one assist and Johnny Cummings had three assists.

Paul McCabe had two goals and an assist; Mark Tenney and Bobby Kelley a goal and two assists; Kevin Duff two goals; Kevin Ryan and Johnny Toland a goal and an assist; Brian Sullivan, Steve Kraunelis and Chris Gorman an assist apiece.

The Midget "B" team finally suffered its third loss after a long winning streak, 7-5, at the hands of Abington.

Mike Conti and Rick Lucier with two goals each and Mike Riley with one did the scoring for Quincy assisted by Larry Curtis with two and Joe McConville and Pat McAuliffe with one apiece.

The Midget "B" also racked up three wins, taking Braintree, 4-3; Avon 9-4; and Canton 5-1.

The scorers were:

Against Braintree, Jackie Powers, two goals and an assist; Steve Neville, a goal and an assist; Bud Conally, a goal; McConville, an assist.

Against Avon, Neville, three goals and two assists; Bud Conally, two goals; Curtis, a goal and an assist; McConville, two assists; Dennis Bertoni, a goal; Paul Conally, a goal; Powers, an assist; and Jeff Murphy, an assist.

•Youth Speaks Out

- Next year we may see Santa in a Commuter Computer Club Car.
- Heard on TV - President Nixon has two younger brothers Donald and Edward that nobody ever hears about. Wouldn't you know it, he even has secret brothers.
- Energy Crisis 73-74 - "where will you be when the lights go out?"
- The Red Sox must have figured if you can't win a pennant, buy a pennant.
- If anyone has any wreaths left over after Christmas, send them to Ewell Gibbons for a snack.
- It's amazing that the American People are being made to feel guilty about the energy crisis which was created by the oil industry who had its largest profit making year in history. Profits were up 48%. Thank you President Nixon for once again helping the "little guy".

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

McQueen likes privacy

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — When Steve and Ali McQueen, leaving a Beverly Hills restaurant, saw a photog snapping pictures, Steve approached the guy, not hostilely but pleadingly:

"I just want to be left alone," the tough guy begged. That's kinda sad, isn't it?

On the other hand, any actor who is left alone, doesn't become rich or famous or a contender for Oscars or able to produce his own pictures.

In other words, Mr. McQueen, you can't have both stardom and privacy.

When Morgana King, backstage at the Troubadour, was asked how she liked working with Marlon Brando in "The Godfather," her only comment was, "He's dizzy."

But, of Al Pacino, she cooed, "Working with him was a complete pleasure. He's a boy who's going places."

+

Ryan O'Neal is so taken with the house he's rented outside Dublin for the duration of "The Luck of Barry Lyndon," a Kubrick picture, that he may buy it. Meanwhile, the title of the picture may be changed to "Barry Lyndon" while the script has already been changed to showcase O'Neal's personality.

George Montgomery and Dinah Shore are going to be grandparents thanks to their daughter Missy. George beams, "And it's about time, too. I'm no spring chicken."

Elizabeth Montgomery is portraying "Mrs. Sundance" in a 20th-Fox movie for TV called a "sequel to hit feature film 'Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid.'" ... Mackenzie Phillips, the leggy, big-eyed 14-year-old who played the pugnacious teeny-bopper in "American Graffiti" is daughter of John Phillips, formerly of "The Mamas and the Papas." The talented kid has now been signed to star with Alan Arkin in Warner Brothers' "Rafferty and the Gold Dust Twins."

Connie Stevens plays the title role in "The Sex Symbol," a Screen Gems TV movie, which draws more than a little inspiration from the life of Marilyn Monroe. ... Jack Benny, Bob Hope and Liberace have been booked for performances during Expo '74 in Spokane. Benny and Liberace will appear (not together) in the 2,700-seat Opera House, and Hope, in the 7,500-seat Coliseum. ... Rod Steiger, still in Italy making a movie about Mussolini, is watching with interest difficulties besetting "Lucky Luciano," a picture in which he played a gangster named "Gianinni." The picture was playing to SRO audiences in Italy when an alleged Mafia leader named Simone filed a libel suit which resulted in a Sicilian judge ordering nationwide confiscation of the film. Meanwhile, Steiger's Mussolini picture has undergone another title change. Now it's "Mussolini: The Last Act." ... Universal has a biggie in the works, "The Hindenberg," to be produced and directed by Robert Wise. The picture, based on a book, "The Hindenberg" by Michael MacDonald Mooney, will recount the 1937 dirigible disaster which killed 22 crewmen and 13 passengers. Special effects men should get a real workout during this one.

Little Desi has a case of the blahs. Since his split with Liza, he just hasn't been able to find the right girl. Recently in fact, his friends report he can't even find a date. ... I wonder how Shelley Fabers' romance with Jerry Thorpe is going since he left "The Brian Keith Show" for "Kung Fu?"

Chuck Connors is in Russia at the invitation of Communist Party chairman Leonid Brezhnev and as guest of the State Committee for Cinematography for the USSR. Moscow, Stalingrad and Lenin-grad are on his itinerary.

Hannon, City Council Inaugural Jan. 7

Mayor Walter J. Hannon will be inaugurated for his second term at ceremonies Jan. 7 at 10 a.m. in the gymnasium of the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The new City Council, including five newly elected members, will be sworn in at the same time and will hold their first council meeting of the year after the ceremonies.

Two years ago, Hannon broke with tradition to move the ceremonies from City Hall to the Voc Tech gym to allow more public participation.

Invitations have been sent to Gov. Francis W. Sargent, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Rep. James Burke and friends and relatives of the city officials to attend the ceremonies.

The Quincy High School choir and the North Quincy High School band will provide music for the occasion.

An inaugural ball and reception will be held from 8 p.m. to midnight, with John Foley and the Diplomats furnishing the music and the Voc Tech Culinary Arts department the buffet.

Few Votes Change But Results Same In Council Recounts

It's official: Quincy did elect five new councillors this year.

Three recounts held last week failed to change the results in Wards 1, 5 and 6.

In Ward 1, Leo J. Kelly received 2,433 votes to Paul Harold's 2,369—a margin of 68 votes. Kelly picked up eight votes in the recount and Harold lost eight.

In Ward 5, Atty. Warren Powers received 1,986 votes to 1,869 votes for Michael Peatridge in the recount. Powers picked up three votes and Peatridge got two additional votes. Final margin: 117 votes.

In Ward 6, Atty. Dennis

Harrington received 2,125 votes to incumbent J. Vincent Smyth's 2,056 in the recount. Smyth gained three votes and Harrington one for a total vote difference of 69.

There were no recounts in Wards 2, 3 and 4 where the victories were decisive.

In Ward 2, incumbent Clifford

Marshall rolled over Patrick J. Flaherty, 2,955 to 1,122.

John J. Lydon Jr. defeated John T. Ricciuti in Ward 3, 2,659 to 1,960.

And in Ward 4, newcomer James A. Sheets unseated incumbent Albert Barilaro, 2,583 to 1,627.

Anthony Moran Promoted To Corporal
